BANK OF MONTREAL
ESTABLISHED 1817.

Capital Paid up .... $14,400,000 | Undivided Profits $699,970
Rest .... $11,000,000 | Total Assets $165,234,768

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

TIMBER LIMITS DEAL

Opposition Claim Friends of Government Were Favored.

MR. PERLEY'S CRITICISM

Dr. McIntyre, In Reply, Shows What Conservatives Did—Gave Away Timber Berths For Nothing — Every Tory Got One — Mr. Haggart's Experience — Mr. Pringle Explains In Regard to Banks.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The debate on Mr. Lake's motion for an investigation into the alienation of public lands since 1898 was continued in the House yesterday.

Mr. Perley (Conservative, Argenteuil) commented upon the silence of the Ministers. He congratulated the Government upon having accepted the advice of Conservatives for the improvement of timber limit regulations. The Opposition had last year urged a longer notice before limits were put up for sale, as well as more knowledge of the value of the timber. During the last Christmas holidays, regulations had been improved in this respect, but they were capable of still further improvement. The upset price should not be advertised, but, as in Ontario, the reserve should be in an envelope and handed to the auctioneer at the time of the sale. No timber limits in the Northwest should be put up for sale until the timber was needed. There should be no permission to select from large areas, and all offerings should be advertised in The Canada Gazette.

Mr. Perley next dealt with a sacrifice of large timber limits near the Paso, on the Saskatchewan. The Government put up the whole 125 square miles there at once, offering it in the dead of winter, and giving only thirty-eight days for exploration—an utter impossibility. The limit fell into the hands of the Saskatchewan Lumber Co. for $13,165, and the company held it now at $375,000.

Vast Areas For a Trifle.

But a still worse case was the gobbling up of 500 square miles in the country beyond Prince Albert, where for years saw mills had been doing good work. In January, 1903, the Government offered the selection of 500 miles out of an area of 60,000 square miles, giving only thirty-eight days in which to explore and estimate that immense tract, and that in the dead of winter. Nobody could make an intelligent bid under such conditions, unless he had previous knowledge. The very terms of the advertisement itself cast suspicion upon the transaction. A man could not travel from Ottawa to the confines of the district and back in thirty-eight days. The first choice of 250 square miles went to the Big River Lumber Co. for $5,000; the second choice went to a Winnipeg lawyer (whether he was connected or not with the Big River Co. did not appear) for $1,000, or $6,000 for 500 square milts that was now said to be worth $500,000. Nor was this all, the purchasers were given five years in which to make selection and survey, thus locking up the whole 60,000 square miles for that period of time. Surely there was some sinister influence at work that caused the Government to offer such immense tracts so many years in advance of requirements. It was also to be borne in mind that the timber in that country mostly grew in clumps, thus giving the person having the privilege of selection to pick out all the best timber in the country.

Awarded to the Bidders.

Continuing, Mr. Perley quoted Mr. Sifton's explanation of regulations in the session of 1906, when the Minister said that the advertisement was inserted once in a paper in the locality, and printed slips distributed, that tenders were opened in the Interior Department by the commissioner of lands, generally alone, but sometimes in the presence of another official, and then awarded the limit to the highest bidder.

"Who," asked Mr. Lalor, "was the Dominion lands commissioner at that time?"

"The present member for East Assiniboia (Mr. Turriff)," replied Mr. Perley.

"Surely," said the member for Argenteuil, "the transactions carried on under such a system demand investigation by a committee of the House."

Mr. Turriff had been going up and down the country saying that Liberals had disposed of timber limits by open competition. That had an honest sound, but could hardly be applied to these transactions.

In his speech on Thursday, Mr. Turriff had not attempted to justify the methods of the Department in dealing with timber limits. Quoting from an answer of Mr. Oliver, the speaker said of 367 licenses for limits in force in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta only fifty-six were in force prior to 1896.

"The Ames papers," declared Mr. Perley, "pointed to something crooked in the Department and to clear their names they should grant the investigation asked for."

Dr. McIntyre (Liberal, Strathcona) cited the case of a lumberman in his district, who had paid $31 for a limit of six square miles and had, after proving it, come back to the Department and asked for his money back, saying he would not give $31 for it. He discussed the Ames original documents and claimed that there was nothing wrong about a solicitor putting in half a dozen tenders. Using the technic argument, if present Government pilfered, Conservatives pilfered more. Dr. McIntyre would support an investigation if Mr. Lake would make a definite charge.

Hon. John Haggart said he had heard no defence of the scandalous transactions of the present Government. "If we did wrong," said Mr. Haggart, "it is no justification for the action of the present Government. What ought to be applied are business principles. The most contemptible thing in the world is a political flesh fly dying on the House."

Mr. Conmee declared that Conservatives parceled up three million square miles in fifty square miles apiece, and "every Conservative up our way" got one. Mr. Haggart himself got one.

Mr. Haggart denied this.

"Then the only reason why they did not get them," was Conmee's rejoinder, "was because the Premier of Ontario stepped in and drove the hon. gentleman and his gang off."

Mr. Pringle on the Banks.

Rising to a question of privileges in the House yesterday Mr. Pringle said it had been represented in a portion of the press that he had made an attack on banks and the banking system during his speech on Wednesday. He thought he had handled the banks with kid gloves and was careful not to say anything which in anyway would disparage the banking systems of the country. Mr. Pringle believed the banks were in a stronger position than ever, and there was no reason why people should lose confidence in them. What he did say was that there should be a law restricting contractual rate of interest to borrowers. He had, however, been told that there was no use bringing in any amendments to the banking account, as he would have the majority in the House and the press against him.

Dr. Sproule also had a grievance. Some of the papers had charged his speech as an improper attack on the banks. He denied this.

Mr. Bennett declared that some original papers brought down in the House accounts committee were not there now for inspection, and Mr. Pugsley promised to locate them.

After recess Mr. McCarthy (Calgary) resumed the debate. He dealt with the peculiar circumstances under which timber limits had been acquired in 1902-4, which he termed the "reign of the timber barons." A committee of the House of Commons last session found that a lumber combine existed in Alberta, with the result that after a delay of six months local authorities entered prosecutions against those whom they considered responsible for the combine. Much of documentary evidence was honored. Nevertheless, one of the defendants was fined $500.

Mr. McCarthy said the previous Government had been punished for its misdeeds and it was no argument to say now that they had done wrong. But as evidence of the way the Mackenzie Government dealt with the public domain, Mr. McCarthy mentioned a berth of 200 square miles, spread all over the Saskatchewan Valley, and the purchasers had three years to make their selection. Mr. McCarthy defended previous Governments for doing everything possible to encourage the manufacture of lumber by sacrificing limits at the time the mills were cut off from the supplies of British Columbia.

SITUATION IN PORTUGAL.

Government Resort to Measures of Stern Repression.

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—The Minister of Justice left here yesterday for Villa Vicosa to secure the signature of King Carlos to a decree authorizing the adoption of the most severe measures of repression. Such steps are considered necessary by the Cabinet for the preservation of public order.

One of the Government organs published in Lisbon calls for the sternest measures and now admits that numerous arrests have been made and that depots of revolvers, poignards, rifles and bombs have been discovered in different parts of the city. Continuing, this paper says that the instigators of the recent abortive attempt at an uprising will be sent to the frontier and expelled.

Newspapers Must Quit.

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—The Government has ordered suspended the publication of three more newspapers for printing seditious articles.

Motormen Sentenced.

New York, Feb. 1.—Paul Kelly, a motorman on a Ninth avenue Elevated Railroad train, which was wrecked in September, 1905, killing 14 persons, yesterday was sentenced to not more than two years and six months, and not less than one year and six months in prison. He had been found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree.

Thomas McDermott, motorman on a surface car which ran over and killed Louis Koneman, also was found guilty and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

French Steamer Wrecked.

Tokio, Feb. 1.—It is reported here that the French steamer Charles Tiberghien was wrecked Dec. 10, near the Island of Hainan, on the Chinese coast.

The steamer Charles Tiberghien was built at Rouen in 1900. She was 3,440 tons net register and owned by C. Tiberghien of Dunkirk. She left New York Oct. 17 for the far east, by way of Cape Town.

JURY OUT 12 HOURS

Disagreement Now Looked For in Thaw Case.

JUSTICE DOWLING'S CHARGE

Murder Always Murder—Character of Slain Person Does Not Affect the Crime — Sanity Means Responsibility — Summing Up Favored Insanity Plea—Thaw Waits In Cell to Know His Fate.

New York, Feb. 1.—After waiting for nearly 12 hours for the jury in the Thaw case to report, Justice Dowling shortly after 11 o'clock last night ordered the doors of the jury room locked for the night and adjourned court until 10.30 a. m. to-day, when he will hear any report they have to make.

The rumor persisted throughout the evening that the jurors were hopelessly divided—eight to four. Mr. Littleton of the defence expressed the belief that the majority favored a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity and when he left for his home was still hopeful that a decision eventually would be reached.

District Attorney Jerome said: "Nobody can tell what a jury will do, so what is the use of speculating."

Thaw Disconsolate.

Thaw retired disconsolately to his cell in the Tombs. He expressed the fear that a third trial would be necessary. This was the general opinion held by the court attaches. The attorneys in the case all were deeply disappointed by the trend of affairs as everyone had hoped that some definite conclusion might this time be reached.

Mr. Jerome would not discuss the probability of a third trial, but said if there was one it might be in some other jurisdiction of the state than New York County.

After the jury went silently to dinner and returned, the guards at the doors heard no sounds of arguments from the jury room. The jury called for all the exhibits in the case before it retired, and is evidently determined to reach its verdict without asking for information or further instructions from the court.

Harry Thaw sat up late in his cell in the Tombs, hoping to hear some encouraging word, but his attorneys could offer him no hope of anything better than another disagreement. Martin W. Littleton, the chief counsel for the defence, insisted late last night that he was still of the opinion that a favorable verdict would be reached, but his associates were sure there would be no decision.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw remained at the criminal courts building waiting for the jury to come in, but Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, and Mrs. Carnegie, the sister of the defendant, went home at noon, after having listened to Justice Dowling's charge. A large crowd remained in the court-house corridors, anxious to witness the closing scenes of the noted trial.

Justice Opens the Charge.

In opening his charge, Justice Dowling impressed upon the jury the responsibility which was theirs, telling them that they should bear in mind that upon their verdict depended the life or liberty of the prisoner.

"Your verdict must not be influenced by any matter outside the record," said he. "Neither passion nor sympathy should sway you in your deliberations. You must not speculate or guess as to matters in evidence here, but must decide the issue solely upon your calm, dispassionate judgment as to the weight, credibility and meaning of the testimony. Nor are you concerned with the punishment which may follow a verdict of guilty at your hands. Your sole function is to determine if any crime has been committed, its grades, and leave the question of penalty to those responsible for its imposition."

The district attorney must prove every material element in his case. It was for the jurors themselves to judge of the credibility of witnesses, and Justice Dowling referred to the so-called Hummel affidavit. If a witness had been convicted of crime they might consider that fact in weighing his testimony.

Degrees of Insanity.

The various degrees of homicide were defined.

"A sane man, a voluntary agent acting upon motives, must be presumed to contemplate and intend the necessary, natural and probable consequences of his own acts," he continued. "If, therefore, one voluntarily or wilfully does an act which has a direct tendency to destroy another's life, the natural and necessary conclusion is that he intended to destroy life. You are not to be prejudiced by any testimony which reflects upon the character of the defendant. The general bad character of a person slain can neither tend to show that the party is not guilty of homicide or in any sense mitigate the taking of human life. In the eye of the law, to murder the vilest and most abject of the human race is as great a crime as to murder its greatest benefactor."

Possible Verdicts.

(1) Murder in the first degree; penalty, death.

(2) Murder in the second degree; penalty, life imprisonment.

(3) Manslaughter in the first degree; penalty, not to exceed twenty years' imprisonment.

(4) Not guilty on the ground of insanity at the time the crime was committed; probably commitment to Matteawan Asylum.

WOULD CANCEL MODUS.

Newfoundland Assembly Resents the Action of Imperial Government.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 1.—The Government has introduced resolutions expressing disappointment with the response of Lord Elgin to the address of last session re the modus vivendi; also surprise and regret at the renewal of the modus and the issue of the order-in-council, and also approving of the action of the Government in declining to become consenting parties to either the order or modus, for the enforcement of the law constitutes a vital part of the political existence of the colony, and rests on the same solid foundation as the constitution itself. The resolutions urge the cancelling of both the modus and order.

Sir Edward Morris urged delay till Tuesday because the question was a constitutional one.

Premier Bond refused, and the matter came before the House yesterday afternoon. A unanimous vote is not improbable, but the public is quite indifferent regarding the matter as academic and unprofitable.

DR. TORRANCE'S DEATH.

Noted Presbyterian Divine Passes Away at Guelph.

Guelph, Feb. 1.—One of the foremost Presbyterian divines of Canada, in the person of Rev. Robert Torrance, D.D., died suddenly at his home on Queen street here at noon hour yesterday, at the age of 86 years. He was born in Armagh County, Ireland, in 1822 and graduated in arts and theology from universities at Belfast and Edinburgh. He was licensed to preach when 22 years of age, and upon arriving in Canada he declined a call to a Toronto congregation, and entered actively into missionary work among the early settlers, traveling through Western Ontario from Toronto to Goderich on horseback, holding services in the log cabins of the settlers.

Clerk a Baronet.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—Edward Gordon Johnson, a clerk in the auditor of agencies' office of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has succeeded to the baronetcy of an uncle, the late Sir William Gordon Johnson.

The first baronetcy was conferred on William Johnson of Johnson Hall, on the Mohawk River, who received the title for his fight against the Indians of early Amerian history. The new baronet was born in 1867, and married Miss Violet Evelyn Hayes of Dublin.

As no estates go with the baronetcy, Sir Edward will not likely change his present position for the present.

Storm Cost His Life.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—The verdict of the coroner's jury, which enquired into the death of W. J. Scott, a G.T.R. brakesman at Strathmore, found that the engineer of the International Limited was in fault in disobeying the rules by running past the local on the opposite track at full speed, but he was excused owing to the claim that he could not see the train on account of the storm which prevailed at the time.

Scott was the man who saved a woman passenger's life and lost his own in the effort.

School Teacher Murdered.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 1.—Anna E. Hahn, one of the first American school teachers to go to the Philippines, was murdered at Batangas, Island of Luzon, Jan. 29, according to a despatch received at the bureau of insular affairs yesterday. No details are given. Miss Hahn was a native of Indiana.

Student Burned to Death.

Ithaca, N.Y., Feb. 1.—From the ruins of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity house at Cornell University, which burned to-day, were taken the charred body of J. S. Kiehle, a junior in mechanical engineering.

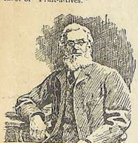
Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of St. Andrews Sunday School in Williams town for nine years and License Commissioner for Glengarry — and Tax Collector for Charlottenburg—for fourteen years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-a-tives."



Williamstown, Ont., April 5th., 1907.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a life long sufferer from Chronic Constipation and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring, I had a severe attack of bladder trouble with kidney trouble, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for Chronic Constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action. 147

SIR. A. VICARS REMOVED.

Royal Commission Blames Him For Loss of Crown Jewels.

London, Feb. 1.—The report of the commission which has been investigating the disappearance last summer from Dublin Castle of jewels valued at $250,000, belonging to the regalia of the Order of St. Patrick, was presented to Parliament yesterday. It finds that the safe from which the jewels were taken must have been opened by a key and concludes with these words: "We cannot acquit Sir Arthur Edward Vicars of want of proper care in his custody of the keys of the safe."

Sir Arthur is Ulster king-at-arms, and he was custodian of the jewels. It is reported in Dublin that the chief secretary for Ireland, Augustine Birrell, has given directions that Sir Arthur be suspended from office.

Successor Appointed.

Dublin, Feb. 1.—The Gazette yesterday announces the appointment of Capt. Neville Wilkinson to succeed Sir Arthur Edward Vicars as Ulster king-of-arms. Sir Arthur has issued an appeal to all Irishmen to support his demand for a public enquiry into all of the circumstances attending the loss of the regalia jewels.

Back to the Land.

London, Jan. 31.—(C.A.P.)—The Standard says, editorially: "There must always be a large proportion of unskilled labor employed in a manufacturing country like England. Why then, cannot able bodied workmen be drafted to Canada, where any number of laborers are required on the land. There is really no difficulty in it. Initiative only is wanting."

The Telegraph also thinks emigration should be encouraged as the solution of the unemployed question.

Frost Snapped Rail.

Havelock, Feb. 1.—A C.P.R. locomotive and six freight cars were derailed and piled in a heap yesterday morning 20 miles east of here. The accident was caused by a broken rail, snapped by the frost. The crew escaped with minor injuries. The loss in freight and rolling stock will be heavy.

The same cause is given for several accidents lately.

Gould Residence Burned.

Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 1.—King's Court, one of the show places of Lakewood, a residence built some years ago by George Gould for his son, Kingdom, was destroyed by fire on Thursday night. The building was valued at $500,000. It is supposed that a defective electric fuse caused the fire.

Three Boys Drowned.

Nyack, N.Y., Feb. 1.—While walking out on the thin ice which had formed in the Hudson off this place yesterday, Evans Steele, aged 12; Hans Kraft, aged 12, and Harold Dixon, aged 11, broke through and were drowned.

Scalded to Death.

Stolen Goods Found In Buffalo.

CABINET MINISTER A BEGGER

John Burns Tells House of Commons How He Got Free Meal—Was In Court Dress But Looked Miserable—Condemns Indiscriminate Charity—Says It Is Unscientific—Gets to Wrong People.

London, Feb. 1.—Participating in the debate in the House of Commons Thursday night on the question of the unemployed, John Burns, president of the Local Government Board and Labor leader in the House, denounced the unscientific distribution of religious, philanthropic and private charity, which he declared was usually misapplied and diverted to the wrong persons. He told one of his own experiences recently when, after an official function, he joined 2,000 of the unemployed at the Victoria Embankment.

"I was in my court dress," he said, "but pulled my bowler hat over my eyes and looked miserable, and I got my bowl of soup and hunch of bread."

Mr. Burns admitted that pauperism in London is on the increase, and said it would continue to grow as long as indiscriminate charity prevailed.

An incidental remark made by Mr. Burns during his speech, that the scheme of Herbert H. Asquith, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, for old-age pensions would provide for a million people, attracted much attention afterwards. Nothing hitherto had leaked out with reference to the intentions of the Government, but it was generally assumed that it would propose a pension of 5s. weekly in certain cases. If so, Mr. Asquith's scheme would entail the annual expenditure of $65,000,000.

EUROPEANS IN DANGER.

Trouble In Tabriz Assumes a Serious Aspect—Insurgents Looting.

Odessa, Feb. 1.—A despatch has been received here from Julfa, on the Russo-Persian frontier, saying that the situation at Tabriz is extremely critical. The revolutionaries are in possession of the town, and their numbers are constantly increasing. Bands of insurgents march through the streets of Tabriz, looting and terrifying the people. The Government has no control of the situation. The European residents have barricaded themselves in their houses and have appealed to the Russian consul for Cossacks. The viceroy of the Caucasus has ordered Russian troops to Julfa to be in readiness for any emergency.

A BOYCOTTING FEVER.

Irish Children Threatening to Close Up Schools.

Dublin, Feb. 1.—The children of members of the United Irish League of the west of Ireland, who are carrying on an anti-grazing campaign, are rapidly becoming infected with a violent form of the boycotting fever and are threatening to close up the national schools if the children of the hated occupants of grazing lands are permitted to attend the schools.

As an earnest of their determination to do this, 60 pupils atending a national school near Boyle, County Roscommon, yesterday walked out in a body because the teachers refused to dismiss four small sons and daughters of men who have been boycotted.

Shipbuilding Lockout.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, Feb. 1.—Lockout notices will be issued to-day announcing the closing of all the shipbuilding yards on the northeast coast, unless the strikers, who left their work here Jan. 22, after refusing to accept a reduction in wages, do not return to work meantime.

The employers, when the strike occurred, declared that the reduction was necessary owing to the depression in the industry. It was stated then that the shipbuilding plants on the northeast coast also were affected.

Should the lockout notices be posted, between 30,000 and 40,000 workmen will be affected.

A Colorado Outrage.

Trinidad, Colo., Feb. 1.—The residence of A. Alexander, superintendent of the Frederick Mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., 20 miles from here, was partly wrecked by an explosion of dynamite yesterday. The explosive had been placed under a bedroom in which three children were sleeping. All the inmates of the house escaped with slight injuries. It is believed the explosion was caused by discharged miners.

Dr. Jameson Resigns.

Cape Town, Cape Colony, Feb. 1.—Dr. Leander Starr Jameson, Premier and Secretary for Native Affairs of Cape Colony, has resigned. He assumed these offices in February, 1904.

The resignation comes as a result of the defeat of his party in the Cape Colony Parliamentary elections, which are now in progress.

Dr. Jameson probably will be succeeded by J. I. Merriman, leader of the African Bund.

Shot by Her Daughter.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 1.—Mrs. C. J. Shanahan, wife of a contractor on the extension of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, 15 miles south of Birmingham, Thursday night shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Raphael McKillam of Canada, who was here on a visit. The killing was accidental. The body will be [illegible] to Toronto for burial.

CLAIMS OF LABOR.

Deputation Wait on Premier and Hon. R. Lemieux.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The annual deputation of the Dominion Trades & Labor Congress waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Lemieux yesterday morning. The deputation included Alphonse Verville, M. P., Maisonneuve, president; James Simpson, Toronto, vice-president; J. G. O'Donoghue, Toronto, counsel; P. M. Draper, secretary.

The requests which were presented were: (1) Legislation based on Mr. Mackenzie King's recommendations as to conditions of employment in the Bell Telephone service in Toronto.

(2) The passing of a Dominion Workmen's Compensation Act.

(3) Increase of letter carriers' wages.

(4) Inspection of running gear of vessels for the protection of longshoremen.

(5) The passing of Mr. Verville's bill for an eight-hour day on Government works.

(6) A commission on technical education.

(7) The public lands of the Dominion to be reserved for bona fide settlers.

(8) The passing of Mr. Monk's bill to provide for the organization of the co-operative societies, and the applying of this principle to banking as well as to trading and commerce.

(9) Old age pensions.

(10) Amendment of the Lemieux Act to prevent the importation of strike-breakers while negotiations are in progress.

(11) Abolition of immigration bonuses.

(12) Exclusion of Hindoo labor.

With regard to the Japanese arrangement effected by Mr. Lemieux, the deputation stated that the congress was willing to judge by the practical result.

Foreshadows Intervention.

Brussels, Feb. 1.—It is believed here that the reference made yesterday by King Edward of England to the Congo Independent State in his speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament foreshadows British intervention in the Congo if the present project for the annexation of the State of Belgium should fall through.

Nova Scotia Schooner Wrecked.

Southwest Harbor, Me., Feb. 1.—A three-masted schooner, hitherto unidentified, wrecked on Little Duck Island Ledges last night, is the Percy C. of Parrsboro, N.S., bound from York to her home point. The crew is missing, but it is thought they were rescued by a coal steamer. The schooner is going to pieces.

Cigarettes as Wedding Fee.

As one of Manila's leading young men was donning his evening suit preparatory to keeping a social engagement he ran his hand into his pocket and was surprised to find an envelope there. On opening it he discovered 25 pesos in bills. "Now, where in thunder did I take on all this money?" he said. "It isn't mine, for I never carry my bills around in an envelope." Then he sat down to think where he had worn the suit and how he had come by the 25 pesos. "The last place I wore it," he mused finally, "was when I was best man at a wedding a month ago. But I gave Dr. Rossiter his money. I remember distinctly giving him something, and it must have been his fee. If I didn't give him the money, what in the world did I give him?" He called up Dr. Rossiter by phone. "Do you mind telling me," he asked, "what I gave you for a fee at Blank's wedding?" The answer came back very distinctly and cuttingly: "Young man, you gave me a box of vile smelling cigarettes."—Philippine Gossip.

Arbiter and Arbitrary.

If an arbitrator is chosen to end a dispute, says the London Chronicle, there is no reason to dread that his decision would be arbitrary, though the two words are very near relatives. An arbiter, the Latin word which used to be more common as English than it is now, meant by derivation simply "one who went to" something to examine it, and so at first a spectator or witness. Then in Roman law it assumed the technical sense of an umpire. But a "judicum," the legal decision in a case with regard to a definite sum of money, for instance, was distinguished from an arbitrium, a legal decision as to an uncertain sum which had to be determined; hence arbitrary acquired the sense of uncertain, capricious.

Albuquerque, Nm., Jan. 2.—At least nine miners were killed and three fatally and two seriously injured in an explosion of gas and coal dust yesterday in the Bernal mine at Carthage, Nm.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder—curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels, (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

the burning but was thus hidden from their view. Yet the voice of Hookey Simpson sounded dreadfully close.

"You shall lay it on yourselves!" he was shouting out. "Let the man who had the last fifty come forward and lay on the first."

"That's me," said Macbeth's voice. "Gi'e us the cat!"

There was none.

"Then the aul cove's cane."

Tom had seized Miss Sullivan by the arm.

"I don't stir!" she declared. "Not one step!"

"Then worse will come of it."

"But my father!"

"It's idle threats—they don't mean a word of it."

"Ah, miss, come on!" urged Peggy in an agony for Tom.

"She shall!" he muttered, with the nozzle of one pistol against the lady's neck. And so between them they got her to the back of the house and thence across the open space to the stables. As they ran Tom turned his head and just saw one end of a chain of ruddy convict faces, all horribly intent upon some unseen spectacle before the palisade.

The stable proper faced the open gate through which the bushrangers had ridden. Their saddled horses stood two in a stall, and Tom was backing out a couple when he discovered Peggy meddling with a third. He told her three would not be wanted.

"An' what about you?"

"I stay with my mates."

"Wid thim murtherin' vill'ns?"

"I'm one myself."

"Already?" she cried. "Tom, Tom"—

Tom listened too.

For some instants all was still.

Then a thwack, thwack, thwack, was greeted with a yell of savage joy, and Miss Sullivan was gone from the door.

"Let her go!" cried Tom, seizing Peggy's wrist. "I did my best for her. You, at all events, shall be saved."

"Not without you, Tom."

"Nonsense, Peggy! I must see this through."

"An' so must I, then."

With these words, she set her back to the open door. But there stood Tom, looking past and beyond her, as though he had not heard one of them. Presently a soft laugh came from his lips.

"All right, Peggy! You are safer than I thought. Look behind you."

The girl obeyed, and there, trotting two abreast through the open gate, were a score of troopers, with the glare from the still blazing but reddening their whiskered faces, jeweling their spurs and gilding from hilt to point the waving sword of the lad who rode at their head.

Peggy stood aghast, with an amazement that left no room for thought. It was only when the cavalcade had swept close by and so out of sight at a gallop that she heard Tom speaking to her from a height. He had himself mounted one of the horses and was entreating her to stand aside and let him out.

And then she realized how the situation had reversed itself and how he was now the one to fly and gallop for his life. Without a word, she sprang out of his way. He clattered under the lintel and was gone. She came out to see him gallop through the open gate. He had already vanished, but not that way. He had dashed to the assistance of his rascally mates.

But a dozen shots had been fired already and blue wreaths were curling in the glare-like clouds at sunset. Wall-eye lay stretched upon his face. Slipper and the aboriginal were fighting desperately back to back, but both were wounded and their moments numbered. Troopers surrounded them; others were already endeavoring to restore order among the convicts, while one, a sergeant, was being dragged and bumped about with one foot twisted in his stirrup and his dead face smothered with blood.

Tom looked about for Hookey Simpson and found him on the verge of shaking off four troopers and the ensign. One saddle he had emptied with his pistol. As Tom came near he hooked the ensign out of his, but was within an ace of being dragged to the ground in doing so. The ensign's stock gave way and saved him. Ere he could recover himself a trooper took deliberate aim at the little man. Tom saw him, however, and fired point blank at the outstretched arm. It fell, and the next Tom knew was that he and Hookey were galloping neck and neck for the gate with but one pursuer close upon them.

Hookey had apparently received no hurt. The battered hat was off and his benevolent forehead rose high and white above his mask. It was to be Tom's last memory of the little gray man. He had thrown away one pistol, drawn another and turned to fire it with every furrow of that fine brow showing in the glare. But Tom heard the man behind fire first and saw those furrows leap into space like snapped fiddle strings, and he galloped through the gate alone.

Whether the slayer came to grief over the slain or how else to account for it, Tom never knew, but he now got a start which he was destined to keep and to increase. Now also he began for the first time to appreciate the piece of hard bitted horseflesh between his knees. He had taken the dead Italian's roan, which had been led riderless to the farm and was thus comparatively fresh. It was a great gaunt brute, with a mouth like leather, as Tom had discovered to his cost in the skirmish. Once through the gate, however, he felt that no more; the beast had run away without his knowing it.

Indeed he knew very little for the first few minutes except that the moon was setting at his back and he was once more heading for the sea. This he gathered from the grotesque shadow leaping along between the roan's ears. His first conscious effort was to keep that shadow dead ahead. Now he lost it where the timber thickened, now he found it in an open glade. At length the shadow failed and vanished, and it was very dark indeed, but on went the roan with Tom on its withers to avoid invisible boughs, and when the sky lightened he could have shouted for joy, for the roan's ears took shape against its lightest point.

He did not shout because his pursuers would have heard him, for all this time he had heard them at intervals, and whenever the ground changed from hard to soft their hoofs rang out the instant the roan's were muffled.

The joy of that wild ride through the gum trees to the sea! He forgot the little value he had set upon his life and rode for it now as men ride for nothing else. Yet he recked but little of the result. He knew no fears and no regrets, but instead an exhilaration such as he had never known before. It might be his last hour. He reveled in it the more—was the more grateful for it—on that account. To have tasted such life as this at life's end! To die after this with no more pain! To reach the sweet sea and swim out to rest!

And now he smelt it. The rushing air was spiced with salt. Even in the pungent forest he detected it through all the odors and was mistaken in that no more. Only one question remained in his mind. Would the roan hold out? Would the roan hold out?

Long ago the pace had slackened. Long ago Tom had stooped and ripped his big boots down to the ankles and cast them from him with all else that had been the Italian's. He was now riding a light ten stone in his shirt and trousers. His bare feet were numb from standing in the stirrups to ease the roan. But the trees had been rushing past in myriads half the night, and still they stood against the morning skyline, like blots of ink upon a slate, in myriads more.

On the other hand, he had heard nothing of his pursuers for some time and was beginning to wonder whether they had given up the chase. Their horses might well have started less fresh than his. Had they given it up or had they not?

Tom had asked himself the question for the twentieth time when something happened, and he had his answer sitting stupidly on the ground. The roan was disappearing amid the trees, with the saddle beneath its belly. Its startled gallop died away like the roll of a drum. But heavier hoofs were coming up behind.

Tom sprang up, but sat down again with a yelp of pain. His ankle was badly sprained. He felt for a weapon, but he had thrown them all away. Even his knife he seemed to have hurled after the long boots or left in a pocket of the blue jacket, which had been jettisoned in its turn.

He sat still and groaned. To have to surrender sitting still! What an end to his ride! What a beginning of the end of all!

The heavy hoofs came nearer, nearer. Three troopers labored into view, gave a yell and put spurs to their tired horses, but ceased to spur them when they saw their man.

"Why, who are you?" cried they.

"The man you want."

"I wish you were. You're all we shall get with these horses. But you must have heard him pass."

A light broke over Tom. He said he had heard it, but some time since, when it was darker and he was half asleep.

"And what made you think you were our man?" asked another trooper suspiciously.

"I—I—I'm a runaway convict."

"Then you're better than nothing," cried the former speaker. "You'll come with us. But the man we've lost is an Italian, and there's precious little of the Italian about you."

There was less than little. He had thrown everything away, but without a thought of saving his neck by so doing. Nor indeed had he saved it yet.

CHAPTER XXII.

THE stockade smoldered in the midst of a hard baked plain that was as brown as shoe leather and as devoid of any sort or kind of vegetation, as though it were shaved every morning with some monstrous razor. Trees there were in the distance, marking more than half the skyline, as though the place had been shaved especially for the stockade, but not a solitary bush was within reach. And the sight of the trees, whose leaves they never heard and whose shade they never felt, was one more torment to those of the eighty prisoners who still lifted their heads to look so far. The majority, however, let their dull eyes redden by the day together on those few hard and blinding yards which might chance to occupy their picks and shovels from 5 in the morning till the going down of the sun.

All day they labored in chains beneath the barrels and bayonets of the military. In the evening when they returned to the stockade loaded muskets and fixed bayonets showed them the way. Even in the stockade itself fixed bayonets and loaded muskets gave them their supper. Thereafter they were locked up for the night in so many small boxes lined with ledges something more spacious than bookshelves. On these ledges they lay down, as close as mummies in catacombs, until it should be 5 o'clock once more, and perhaps after a time the only sound would be the clank of his fetters as this man or that turned over in the magnificent space of eighteen inches that was allotted to each.

It was the same stockade of which Erichsen had seen the outside on his way to Castle Sullivan in the early part of December. He saw the inside by the end of February when Strachan gave him six months of it for absconding and by so doing made open enemies of the Sullivans. They wanted to have the breaking of Tom's spirit all to themselves and tried to dictate another fifty lashes and the convict's return to service, but this time Strachan was firm, passing, indeed, the most merciful sentence possible in the circumstances.

The six months began on Wednesday, the last of February, in the year 1838.

First they took his name and made an inventory of his marks, scars and the color of his eyes and hair. Then they cropped the latter and shaved off the yellow stubble which had lately hidden the hollow cheeks and softened the haggard jaw, and it was an old man's face that saw itself with sunken eyes in the barber's glass.

Next they took away his farm laborer's clothes, which were not branded, and put him in a Parramatta frock and trousers, which were. And now they clasped around his body a green hide belt, from which depended in front a heavy chain that became two heavy chains at about the level of the knees, and the two chains ended in still heavier rings around either ankle, and the whole made a capital Y upside down. In this harness it was impossible to walk, though with practice you might waddle, and it was never struck off for a single instant on any pretext whatsoever.

They now presented him with a spoon all to himself. His knife and fork, his pannikin and his mess kid he was to share with five other felons.

Lastly they showed him his eighteen inches, where he passed the intolerable night in wondering why he had not given himself up as the Italian's understudy and in wondering even more why he still would not do so if it were all to come over again, for he knew he would not. Indeed, one of the most dreadful features of this present phase was the tenacity with which the poor wretch found himself clinging to life in each emergency despite all his cooler longings for the end. He longed for that more than ever, but he saw now that death must come to him. He might sink to murder; to self murder he could never stoop.

Or so he thought at the beginning of this term of broiling days and fetid nights, with foul company and heavy irons common to both. Meanwhile such feelings as were left him were still tolerably keen, and it was a real thrill that toward the end of the first week he woke up at his work to hear the others hooting and turned round to see Nat Sullivan once more riding down the line.

The thrill became a shiver. The blue eyes were fixed on Tom, the great lip was thrust out at him, and before Tom the rider reined up.

"You villain!" said Mr. Nat, with inexpressible malignancy of voice and look. "You villain—I've found you out!"

A line of red eyes blinked and watered in the sun, then fell with a glimmer of interest from the scowling horseman to the prisoner accosted. Tom had already piqued such attention as his new companions were in the habit of bestowing upon any fellow creature, for few there were who joined that morose and fierce crew with the stamp of such moroseness and ferocity already on them. Those few were crabbed old hands, but here was raw youth, and yet in three long days they had not heard his voice. Nor did they now. Tom moistened his palms and took a new grip of his pick, but that was not all. He was seen to tremble, and he nearly pinned his own foot to the ground. What was it he had done and been found out in, this cub whose teeth were always showing, but whose voice was never heard?

A perspiring sentry strolled up, his once red swallowtail coat hanging open upon his naked chest and his white trousers sticking to his legs. He was the only one whose curiosity went the length of a word.

"What's he been doing of?" said the sentry, wetting his hand on his chest to cool his musket stock. "We've only 'ad 'im 'ere these three days."

"You won't have him many more," said Sullivan. "The hangman will have him."

"Yes?"

"Yes. Look at him trembling."

"I see."

"He'll tremble in the air before long."

Tom bent over his pick. There was more hooting here, but whether at himself or at his enemy Tom neither knew nor cared. He wished to appear very busy and regardless. He was really intent upon Nat's shadow under his pick, wondering whether he could possibly spring so far forward in his chains and get such a swing as to bury the pick in the substance instead. But this was never known. When the hooting subsided, the noise of light wheels approaching took its place, and Nat Sullivan turned round in his saddle.

The military man who debased himself by the charge of this iron gang was a major of gunners, too fat for service and too gouty to sustain his distended body on his legs. He therefore superintended operations from a bath chair, in which a bluejacketed messman had to trail him about the works. Major Honeybone had recognized Nat and had ordered the messman to hurry to the spot, but not to seem in a hurry. The major was himself a sufficiently hard and cantankerous man, but some sense of justice he had, and he considered Castle Sullivan one of the angriest plague spots in a plague spotted land. The present occasion filled him, therefore, with the greatest glee. He had long desired an opportunity of giving one or other of the Sullivans a piece of his mind, and here was young Sullivan trespassing on the works.

"Go slower," said the major, making up his mind what to say and not to say it all at once, as Mr. Nat turned in his saddle. Their greeting was in consequence not uncivil, though the major blandly ignored the coarse, ringed hand obtruded by the other.

"You heard of the outrage the other night at Castle Sullivan?" began Mr. Nat.

"By bushrangers?" observed Major Honeybone.

"By bushrangers. Only one of them escaped, and there he is!" roared Nat, pointing savagely at Tom.

"Really?" remarked the major, willfully unmoved. "Dear me! It was from you he came here—like half my gang—for absconding, I understood?"

"We didn't know it then."

"That he was one of the bushrangers?"

"Yes."

"But you know it now?"

"We do so!"

"Dear me!" again remarked the major, whose expression was rendered inscrutable by the rich shade of the gigantic umbrella without which he rarely ventured abroad. His small, shrewd eyes glanced from the visitor

County Councillors Sat On Deputation

Thought Town Council Should Have Taken up Expenditure on Bridges.

At a meeting of the Finance and Assessment committee of the County Council, which was held this morning, the question of county bridges as relating to the town of Lindsay, and its financial interest in the same, as brought before Council yesterday by a committee of the Board of Trade, was taken up.

Mr. Fielding, reeve of Cardon, was in the chair.

Mr. Parkin said that since yesterday's session he had been talking to Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Johnston Ellis and several others, and they were entirely opposed to the action taken by the Board of Trade, and he was satisfied the majority of the citizens of Lindsay would not entertain a proposition to separate from the county. He said the committee had come before them without the knowledge of the Town Council, and he thought the matter should not be considered until it was pressed for by the executive body of the town.

Mr. Hopkins said the town of Lindsay paid 1-14th of the entire rate of the county, but last year's expenditure on bridges was not a fair comparison to take as it had been exceptionally large.

Mr. Michael objected to a committee being appointed to confer with a committee from the Board of Trade to go into the matter, unless it was pushed by the Town Council, as evidently the committee had no authority from the Town Council to push the matter.

Mr. Geo. Jordan said that while he had not been consulted as a representative of the town, he felt assured that the committee had but voiced a strong sentiment that was current about town. He had conferred with the Board of Trade while a member of the Town Council last year, and the matter had been fully discussed and a great deal of interest shown, but no action had been taken. He thought that the committee should be courteously treated.

Mr. Eyres said that while he was not in favor of separation of the town from county, he thought that the men composing the committee were men of influence and weight in the community, and they should be treated with becoming respect.

Chairman Fielding said the County Council should have been approached by a committee composed of Lindsay's representatives — the Town Council.

At this juncture Clerk McNeillie said he had received word that a committee from the Board of Trade wished to meet the Council, and he had made the appointment in the usual way, therefore it was quite in order.

A report was brought in, leaving the matter over to be considered at the June session.

At Academy Monday Evening.

The London, Ont., Free Press, Jan. 30 says, "The Gunner Moir-Tommy Burns moving pictures were shown last night at the Grand before an appreciative audience, who followed with breathless interest every move of the contestants, and applauded each telling blow that Burns landed. This exhibition is the best fight film ever given in London, the pictures being very distinct, every individual blow being plainly seen." In addition the first colored moving pictures ever shown in Canada will be seen. Admission 25c., 35c., 50c.—d1.

DEP. MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE LECTURED BEFORE HUGE AUDIENCE

Spoke in the Academy of Music Last Evening in Connection With the Stock and Seed Judging Course—The Address of Great Value to Farmers.

The crowded house that greeted Prof. C. C. James last night at the Opera House certainly indicates the strong interest with which the farmers of the county regard Mr. F. H. Reed and his Agricultural Course at the Collegiate Institute. Old men were there who were just on the eve of finishing life's work — they still wished to find wherein they were wrong or how their sons could make a greater success of farm life than they had done; men who were in the midst of the battle, heard him to enable them to make the path easier; and young men and boys, about to begin, were there to learn the inner secrets of their chosen life work. The meeting was enthusiastic throughout, and Mr. James had an attentive hearing from start to finish.

The first number on the program was a solo by Mr. Seldon Meehan, which was heartily applauded. The encore, "Gratitude", a parody on elections, then brought the house down. Master Percy Mulhern gave a heartily encored soprano solo, "Banks of Loch Lomond." He was unable to respond owing to the time.

The chairman, Mr. Thos. Stewart, before introducing Mr. James, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, called on the Board of Education to take the platform. There were already seated there part of the County Council, part of the Town Council, and numerous prominent men of the town and county. Mr. Stewart praised the Short Course and the proposed course in connection with the Collegiate. He was surprised at the large attendance despite the bad roads and weather. Next year he thought the lectures would be more largely attended than ever. The speaker of the evening, Mr. James, was the right man in the right place.

AN EXCELLENT ADDRESS.

Mr. James, on commencing his address, remarked on the good attendance and behaviour of the boys and girls of Lindsay and the county. He congratulated all, and particularly Mr. Reed, on the evident success of this new work along educational lines. The government had chosen Victoria county, said he, because it presents peculiar opportunities, and there are such problems here to be solved and work to be done that the projectors of the enterprise were encouraged from the beginning. The people of the province are just now waking up to the importance of this, their most important industry. In past years the history of the country has been looked at along the lines of manufactures, and the progress of the county has been rated according to the progress made in this direction, and not according to the advance made in farming, the greatest industry in the land. The first settlers had a hard outlook, small clearings and buildings, and their farming was necessarily crude. Their few products were timber, potash, and whatever little grain they could spare. In fact, at this time potash was the main medium of exchange. Gradually conditions changed; emigration started with the close of the war of 1812; England, Ireland and Scotland sent men over and they settled in different localities, bringing with them the customs and industries of the old land. Thus live-stock raising was brought into some parts, and dairying into others.

No part of America is so adapted to these two industries as Ontario, where there is good land to raise feed, a good climate and lots of fresh running water. American stock men come here from year to year to replenish their herds. In the early days little consideration was given to the adaptability of the parts in which a crop was grown; now the farmer is looking about to find out what will do best and pay best on his land. Thus in the eastern part of the province we have dairying, other sections have been found to pay best raising beef cattle, along the lake front and in the Niagara district the best product has been found to be fruit, and the middle and inland counties each grow what is best for their land.

The farmer has been engaged in past in the only industry which has not been on a strictly business basis. He is the only man who does not know exactly what his product costs him, and in what department he is losing money. If he has a poor, non-paying producer on his farm, either an animal or a crop, he should know it and weed it out, just as a manufacturer weeds out his out-of-date machinery and gets the best, not the cheapest, to do his work.

There are 1,000,000 milking cows in Ontario, with an average yield of 3,500 lbs. of milk per cow a year. Some herds in the West produce from six to eight thousand lbs., therefore there must be a large number of farmers who are keeping cows which are merely a drain on their resources, instead of a help. The farmer must aim to keep only the best producers or he can't make farming pay. The future of this province depends upon the economical production of its wares. Farmers are economical along certain lines, but are the most wasteful of any class along other lines. No other industry could stand the enormous waste that farming is undergoing to-day. In other lines the old term of waste is giving way to the name "by product," and so it must be with farming — nothing be thrown away as useless. Another reason farming is not as paying as it should be is that the farmer always has a great deal of capital locked up in land that is not producing anything. The low-lying part of the farm is, perhaps, when drained, the most fertile field, because good elements from the higher parts have been washing into it for years. Other wastes are the old scraggly fences and stone piles. Even in the producing fields of some farms so many weeds are allowed to flourish and take the nutriment out of the soil that their presence indicates a very large waste indeed in the farmers' finances.

In the future men will be prepared and trained for agricultural pursuits just as they are now educated for the professions or in technical schools for the manufacturing industries. A few years ago it was thought the Agricultural College would fill the bill, but it does not come in touch with a thousandth part of the population. Farmers' Institutes were then started to help, and now we have this latest effort, that of establishing short courses, of the best there is in the work, at the Collegiates and county towns throughout the province. It is the aim of the government to establish these courses all over if they are found to succeed and be what the farmer needs and wants.

Another thing that must be taken into consideration in the future was the needs of the farmer's wife, for the life of the nation depends in reality upon the life and influence in the home. If the home influence is right, then the municipal, provincial and national affairs will go right, but if the home influence pulls down, instead of uplifting, no amount of education, preaching or legislation will make our nation one whit better. The farmer's wife and daughter at present has few enjoyments —even the old-time quilting and apple-paring bees have gone out of fashion. Now she has the church tea or social once or twice a year, or at most once a month. Something must be done to lift them out of the rut, to make their existence a little more pleasant. The Woman's Institute is one effort, and a first-rate one along these lines, but more still must be done.

The farmer is, in reality, the backbone of the country, and everything possible must be done to help him on. Let everyone present do his best in support of these movements for the improvement of the farmer, his methods and his home life, and if they succeed, there can be no fear for the future of Canada.

Reeve George Jordan moved a hearty vote of thanks, seconded by County Councillor Graham, to Prof. James for his interesting address. The motion was received with hearty applause. Mr. James replied in a pleasing manner.

Master Percy Mulhern gave the finishing touch to a very pleasant and profitable evening by singing one of his pretty soprano solo selections. The orchestra then played the national anthem.

Champion Checker Player.

Fenelon Falls Gazette: In our issue of the 17th inst. we noted the fact that Mr. James H. Fell, of Haddow, had been awarded second place in the American Checker Association's contest for the championship of America, and that Mr. Fell had entered a protest against the decision, claiming that he was entitled to first place. It now gives us much pleasure to state that Mr. Fell's appeal has been granted, and he has been awarded the much coveted championship.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

THE GOOD MAN.

The good man loves all men. He loves to speak of the good of others. Love of man is chief of all the virtues. The mean man sows that himself or his friends may reap; but the love of the perfect man is universal.—Confucius.

AN ANCIENT BIBLE.

The Rev. Joseph Brown, a Sunday school missionary, has found among the Indians in Oconto county, Wisconsin, a bible given to the Oneida tribe in 1754 by the secretary of the Prince of Wales. The present was made on behalf of the Church of England. At that time the tribe was living in Massachusetts. The historical bible is one of two volumes, each of which weighs twenty pounds. The bible is now in the possession of the Indian with whom the Rev. Mr. Brown stayed while organizing a church among the red men in Oconto county.

A GOOD DAUGHTER.

There are other ministers of love more conspicuous than she, but none in which a gentler, lovelier spirit dwells, and none to which the heart's warm requitals more joyfully respond. She is the steady light of her father's house. Her ideal is indissolubly connected with that of his fireside. She is his morning sunlight and his evening star. The grace vivacity and tenderness of her sex have their place in the mighty sway which she holds over his spirit. She is the pride and ornament of his hospitality, and the gentle nurse of his sickness. Fortunate is the home in which is a good daughter.

PATERNAL RESTRAINT.

In ancient times the relation of parent to child and the absolute authority of the former over the latter was closer than it appears to be in our time. Eli had bad sons because "he restrained them not". This fact explains many failures in families today. To every head of a family belongs a certain authority which must be exercised. There must be love at the fountain head, but love must always be just. Love that is not tempered with justice is a namby-pamby sort of thing. The will of the child must be conquered, not for the sake of the parent, but the good of the child, and to bring the child to an obedient temper. As self-will is the root of all sin in children, so the encouraging of this disposition will only result in wretchedness and irreligion in after years. Parental restraint is a duty we not only owe to our children, but to the great parent of all who has set us an example in dealing with His children. For failure to restrain his sons Jehovah sent judgment against the house of Eli. —New York Observer.

A LESSON FOR CHURCHES.

Our blessed Saviour stood firmly for the fact that the temple, which was then the shrine of the people's religious devotion, was in very truth his Father's house, his "house of prayer for all people." He condemned the pride and exclusiveness of those who claimed the chief seats, even in the synagogue. It is not a mere sentiment, but a most solemn fact, that our churches become in truest sense the Father's house, his "house of prayer for all people," only when their sittings are free and unassigned. It is forbidden in the cannons that a church shall be consecrated so long as it is encumbered. What encumbrance compares in magnitude with that which rests upon every church in which men hold deeds of pews, or in which through the paying of rent it is permitted them to say: "This portion of God's house is mine."

The free pew system stands again, for the spirit of Christ, in that it emphasizes the unity and solidarity of the christian congregation. It is an object lesson. "The rich and the poor meet together; the Lord is the maker of them all."—Report (1907) of the Free and Open Church society.

GOSPEL SIFTINGS

The druggists of Winfield, Kan., have agreed that all drug stores, except one, shall be closed on Sunday, and each druggist shall have a turn in keeping open.

The keynote of Lord Kinnaird's message last year to the Young Men's Christian Association was "Work," which this year is changed to "Achievement."

"Kid" Wedge, until recently a prizefighter, has been appointed pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Barnston, Nebraska. He says that most critics of the ring have never talked with a fighter.

Dr. Ranger, the solicitor of the Salvation Army, has been totally blind since he was 14. Now head of a large firm of lawyers in Fenchurch street, London, the whole of his practice has been built up from his initiative.

When a minister in Camden county, Missouri, asked his congregation "Do you love your neighbors as yourselves?" a countryman spoke up: "I reckon you ain't much acquainted in these parts. We ain't got no neighbors."

The death of Lord Arundell, of Wardour, who was a Catholic priest for some years engaged in parochial work at Bournemouth, recalls the fact that a Catholic priest in the British House of Lords is not an absolute novelty.

Coboconk cor. of Fenelon Falls Gazette: Rev. Mr. French of Toronto, who is 80 years old, assisted at the evening service in the Methodist church here on Sunday evening. He visited this part of the country about 58 years ago. He laid the corner stone of the first Methodist church that was ever built in this part of the country, and buried the first dead. Many of the old people who remembered Mr. French were glad to see him. He is a brother of Mrs. Wakelin, of Norland.

—Anniversary services will be held next Sunday in St. Andrew's church. The Rev. James Murray, B. D., of Erskine church, Toronto, will be the preacher. Special music is being prepared.

The consecration services of the Episcopal English church at Casablanca, which were to have occurred shortly, have been postponed because of the destruction caused by the Arabs, who looted it and carried away doors and windows.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt has increased his gift of $100,000 to the Newport Y. M. C. A. for the erection of a building in memory of his father. He will provide for a larger gymnasium than first planned and will also furnish the building throughout.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

—In the Senior Bowling League last evening, the Pirates, under the direction of Bill Hepburn, put the much-touted Beef Trust to sleep in a manner that was a shame. The score was 485-436. The Pirates have been cleaning things up lately, and those who know picked the Beef Trust to stop them; but the Pirates would not be stopped, and to-day beef has dropped, but the fans are hoping for good things yet, and every confidence is placed in Milly Moynes' Counterfeiters to keep the Shredded Wheat from the Pirates.

—The Junior Bowling League closed Thursday, when Russell Stephens' Ramblers were defeated by two points by Spencer Murray's Shredded Wheat. The Murrayites had all kinds of support from the spectators, and only won after a see-saw game.

—Senior hockey practice on the rink from 7 to 8 to-night.

—The junior bible class was well attended this morning.

—The Sunday afternoon bible class will be held as usual at 3 p. m.

—There will be a handicap basketball game to-night. The Intermediates have given the Juniors a handicap of 20 points and will endeavor to overtake the handicap and add some more to it.

—Monday afternoon the Ladies' Auxiliary meets in the parlor at 3 p. m.

Obituary.

Cannington Gleaner; Mr. T. W. Blackwell, of Lindsay, brother of Mr. W. H. Blackwell, of this town, died at his home on Jan. 23rd, 1908. The late Mr. Blackwell farmed for a number of years in the township of Emily, ten years ago he moved to Lindsay owing to ill-health, and had since resided there. Mr. Blackwell leaves a wife and four sons to mourn his loss.

A Whiff From the Tropics.

A letter received to-day from Mr. F. C. Taylor, who is wintering at Hamilton, Bermuda, says that the weather, when he was writing, was like that at good old Sturgeon Point on Regatta day—the finest of summer weather. If such a trip were only in the province of the newspaper man, what an inspiration it would give him to write hot stuff these cold days!

A Delightful Recital.

The piano and vocal recital given by pupils of Mr. Cecil Carl Forsyth in the Cambridge-st. Methodist church last night proved to be a very entertaining and elevating event. Owing, however, to the unexpected illness of the soprano, Mrs. Harold Howson, of Norwood, who telegraphed at the last moment, the vocal part of the program was somewhat cut down. The pianiste, Miss Carrie Balfour, of Omemee, showed excellent feeling and execution in every number, and despite the extra work thrown on her by Mrs. Howson's absence, pleased the audience immensely. Miss E. Flavelle kindly consented to give one of her charming vocal numbers to help out the program, and the evening passed off very pleasantly. Mr. Forsyth intends to give small recitals for his pupils from time to time.

I.O.F. Concert Held at Dunsford

Lindsay Talent Took Part in Program ---Sale of Baskets Netted $55.

A very successful entertainment and basket social was held last evening at Dunsford, under the auspices of the I.O.F. of that place. First-class local and Lindsay talent took part. Mr. Jack N. Gray, of Lindsay, gave some well encored comic songs, while Mr. Jack Lake, also of Lindsay, rendered some good recitations. Local talent, too numerous to mention, gave heartily encored dialogues, recitations, instrumental and vocal solos. Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Dunsford, chairman, gave a splendid address. Speeches were also given by Messrs. E. Maxsom, C.R., and W. P. Chard, D.S.C.R., of Lindsay, who also acted as auctioneer of the baskets, which netted the committee the handsome sum of $55.

Tea having been served, the brethren and friends adjourned in the wee sma' hours, well satisfied with the proceedings.

Storm Blocked Railways Badly

Various Lines Running Out of Town Sadly Hampered by Snow.

The railway lines were pretty well blocked up this morning after last night's snowfall. It was not the quantity of snow, so much as the fact that it was so light it blew with the high winds and drifted into the roadway and high cuts. Not a train came in or left on time during the day.

The C. P. R. eight o'clock train from Bobcaygeon to Toronto got stalled in a snowdrift in a cut a couple of miles the other side of Dunsford. A mogul and heavy plow were sent along the line to relieve matters about ten o'clock, but it was twelve o'clock before the train reached here. Even after she was free of the drift she had to back up time and time again to get headway, as her wheels would slip on the snow on the rails. The train from Toronto, which should reach here at 12 noon, was also delayed about three hours by the snow. However, the company are doing well to keep any trains moving at all.

On the G. T. R. the 8 o'clock flyer did not arrive in town from the east till 10 o'clock; the 9 o'clock train was also two hours late, while the 10.40 express from Toronto did not get here till about 1 p. m. The Haliburton train was stalled just this side of Cameron, and the train from Coboconk did not arrive till a late hour. The snow plows have been busy all day, and every effort was made to keep the road open, but it has been pretty hard work on account of the drifting snow.

The Spotless Snow.

"How grand is the winter! How spotless the snow and perfect!"
Thus spake Elizabeth Haddon at nightfall to Hannah the housemaid,
As in the farmhouse kitchen, that served for kitchen and parlor,
By the window she sat with her work, and looked on a landscape
White as the great white sheet that Peter saw in his vision,
By the four corners let down and descending out of the heavens.
—Henry W. Longfellow, 'Elizabeth'.

RELIABLE GLASSES.

The human eye is such a delicately constructed organ of the body that it will pay everybody to heed well the first symptoms of failing or defective sight.

It is equally important to consult the most reliable authority on the subject.

If your eyes give you the least trouble or pain of any kind, we would strongly advise you to let us examine them at least—it costs nothing. Having passed with honor the highest examinations, and having had a great deal of experience, we consider we are better able than most to give your trouble the very best attention.

WHOLESALE 52 KENT-ST., LINDSAY. RETAIL.

The Rush Continues at B.J. Gough's Great Winding-up Sale.

This startling Winding-up Sale has proven a great benefit to people who have purchased the high-grade Clothing, Furnishings, Hats, Caps and Furs that we are offering at a saving of about half price. Never before have the Men and Boys of Lindsay and Victoria County had a better opportunity offered to them as this Great Winding-up Sale has made possible. The crowds of last week and the immense amount of business done was to us another evidence of the wisdom of inaugurating this sale. But the stock must be sold at once, and in order to sell the goods quickly we have made great reductions that space will not permit mentioning.

Railway Notes.

—It is considered a certainty that Havelock has been chosen as a divisional point on the C. P. R. grain route from Victoria Harbour. Large quantities of land have been purchased.

To-Days Markets.

This morning's market was the smallest we have had in six months or a year owing to the badly drifted roads and hard travelling. There were about as many buyers as usual, and despite the demand, the sellers managed to sell at very reasonable prices, being in the neighborhood of those of last Saturday. The supply of meat was about as plentiful as usual and sold very well.

New Telephone Connection.

The private telephone system extending from Burketon to Cadmus, Burton, Yelverton, Lotus, Nestleton and Caesarea, now connects at Burketon with the Bell Telephone Company's lines, so that the above points can be reached by long distance telephone.

Ho! For Toronto.

Curlers and their friends are reminded that the excursion train leaves C. P. R. station on Tuesday morning next at 8.50. Go with the boys; see the Tankard games, and have a good time. Tickets good to return by excursion train leaving Toronto at 11 p. m., or for any regular of Tuesday or Wednesday.—12.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Farmers' Institute meeting on Friday afternoon and evening was a great success, being well attended and great interest shown. Excellent music was supplied by local talent at the evening session.

There are many of our young men attending the course at Lindsay. Prof. Reed explained the proceedings clearly and intelligently at our Farmers' Institute meeting here.

Omemee defeated the Wanderers of Peterboro 9-0 Saturday night. Good hockey was shown on both sides. On Thursday evening we do battle against Fenelon Falls, whom we defeated here last year.

Large numbers of our people attended the Epworth League Convention at Lindsay and were delighted and profited.

The election for new Council is between Geo. Griffin and T. J. Parsons and Carey, Graham and Scott, as cillors.

DUNSFORD

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

There has been very little excitement in Dunsford during the past week on account of the bad condition of the roads.

Many of the young people of Dunsford attended the Epworth League convention in Lindsay last week.

The Dunsford skating rink opened for the first time this season last Saturday night. Although the ice was not in good condition, about twenty young people enjoyed an hour's skate.

The train from Bobcaygeon due to arrive in Dunsford at 4.27 p. m., was cancelled on Monday owing to the stormy weather.

Miss Lily Gordon, and Miss Laura Briez have returned, after spending a few days with friends in Lindsay.

Miss Ethel Kennedy is visiting in Bobcaygeon.

Remember the basket social in the English church hall on Friday evening.

WOODVILLE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A number of our young people attended the hockey match at Cannington, between Cannington and Toronto on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Wm. Newman and son, Allan, are visiting her parents in Kingston.

Miss Ethel Thomas has returned home, after spending a few weeks with friends in Oakwood.

Mr. Richard Moore, of Markham, was in town on Tuesday.

Owing to the bad weather and roads on Sunday, last the attendance at the churches was very small.

The friends of Woodville sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. R. Switzer because of the death of their little daughter. The child was only sick a short time when she was seized with convulsions and died. A quiet funeral took place and the remains were interred in Smith's cemetery.

GLENARM

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr J. McKay and sister were guests of Mrs. Gilchrist recently.

Miss Chrissie McMillan, of Beaverton, is visiting relatives and old school chums in our community.

On account of snow storms for the past three weeks, times are dull. As the storms came at the week end, our congregation has been lessened.

The Sunday schools of Fenelon and Eldon townships held a conference at Glenarm on Jan. 21st. Mr. Yellowlees, of Toronto took charge of the afternoon session, when questions pertaining to Sunday school work were discussed. Though not an enthusiastic meeting, it was very helpful. In the evening Mr. Brownlee gave a very interesting and helpful address. He also sang the old favorite, "My Ain Countree," which was appreciated by all.

Rev. J. A. Ferguson is spending a few days in Toronto this week.

Mr. Sinclair, of Stayner, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

We are pleased to see the proceedings of Eldon and Fenelon townships published. We hope Eldon will stick to their motto, "the strictest economy," and Fenelon Council should adopt the same motto.

It is gratifying to have local option win the day. We hope accommodation will be provided for the travellers by some of the good people of our village.

ISLAY

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We are getting a great deal of snow, and good roads are apparently a thing of the past for this winter, as the storm on Sunday and Monday made them almost impassable.

Rev. E. A. Tonkin, of Cambray, visited our school last week.

Mrs. Robertson and daughter, of Pleasant Point, spent last week visiting at the home of her father, Mr. J. Currins.

Mrs. Alex Carmichael and two daughters, of Newdale, Manitoba, are spending the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Currins, and renewing old acquaintances after an absence of eighteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ferguson entertained a number of their friends to an oyster supper on Friday evening of last week. Dancing was indulged in till the wee small hours, and a very pleasant evening was spent by all.

FENELON FALLS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The St. James' Literary Society intend holding an entertainment on Monday evening next, Feb. 3rd, at the residence of Mr. E. D. Hand. It is to be an English evening, and the committee are sparing no pains to present an attractive program, which will consist of selections from English literature, and will include songs, readings, recitations, etc., after which refreshments will be served.

Fenelon Falls to the fore once again. "Pacer" McDougall, known to fame as the man who caught the biggest fish last summer, has again distinguished himself in the field of sport. Now everyone knows that "Pacer" can play hockey, and play it well, too, but don't forget that in a game between 'Varsity and McMaster University in Toronto last Friday night, "Pacer" scored five of the goals for Varsity.

The Harmony Club held their regular assembly in Dickson's hall last Friday evening.

A very exciting game of hockey was played here last Thursday night between a picked team from Coboconk and a junior team from our town, and resulted in a score of 14-8 in favor of the locals.

Miss E. Mitchell was in Lindsay on Saturday last visiting friends.

Mr. Jas. Akister was in Lindsay on Saturday.

Mrs. H. McDougall spent a week recently with friends in Toronto and Lindsay.

Miss Grey, of Lindsay, spent Sunday at Fenelon Falls with her sister, Miss E. Grey.

Mr. P. Beateau, of Midland, is visiting his brother, Mr. Ed. Beateu.

Mr. Grattan Graham, of Lindsay Collegiate Institute, spent Sunday with his parents.

Rev. H. B. Kenny, of Belleville, was in town on Thursday and Friday of last week. He returned home on Saturday.

Miss Dorothy French, who is attending L. C. I., visited her parents from Friday to Monday.

Mr. C. W. Burgoyne was in Toronto last week on business.

Miss Emma Scott, Lindsay, is visiting her friend, Mrs. W. B. Jordan.

Mr. W. T. Junkin has been visiting friends in Belleville and vicinity for the past week.

Miss Mabel Littleton attended the Epworth League convention in Lindsay, as delegate, last week.

Mr. Allan W. Torrill was one of the delegates from Fenelon Falls to the Epworth League convention at Lindsay.

Miss Dickson spent a few days last week with Miss Bonnell, of Bobcaygeon.

Mrs. M. E. Calder spent several days in Lindsay this week, with her aunt, Mrs. John Berry.

Growing Girls Need Pink Pills

This Tonic is Necessary for Their Proper Development and to Insure Health and Strength.

There are throughout Canada thousands and thousands of young girls who are in a condition approaching a decline. The complexion is pale or sallow. Appetite fickle. A short walk, or going upstairs, leaves them breathless and with a violently palpitating heart. Headaches and dizziness often adds to their misery. Doctors call this anaemia—which, in common English, means poor blood. There is just one sure and certain cure for this trouble—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new, rich, red blood, strengthen every nerve and bring a glow of health to pale faces. Do not waste time and money experimenting with other medicines. Do not delay treatment until you are in a hopeless decline. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and see how speedily they will restore your health and strength. Here is the proof; Mrs. Joseph E. Lepage, St. Jerome, Que., says; "My daughter Emilia began to lose her health at the age of thirteen years. She suffered from headaches and dizziness. Her appetite was poor. She was pale and apparently bloodless. She had no strength and could neither study nor do any work. Doctors' medicine failed to cure her and I thought she was going into a decline. She was in this condition for several months when a neighbor advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to give them a trial. It was not long until an improvement was noticed and the continued use of the pills for a month or more completely cured her and she has since enjoyed the best of health. I feel sure that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure any case of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure all troubles due to poor and watery blood, such as rheumatism, sciatica, indigestion, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, and the ailments that make the lives of so many women miserable. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ZION

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Robins, of Seagrave, and the Zion ladies met on Friday afternoon and organized a Ladies' Aid Society. The officers elected are; President, Mrs. James; vice.-president, Mrs. T. Broad; secretary, Mrs. F. Broad; treasurer, Mrs Wm. Downer.

A very quiet wedding took place in Lindsay on the 7th, when Mr. Chas. Beadle and Miss Stella James were united in marriage.

Mr. A. Robson, of Lakefield, has been visiting Mr. John Varcoe, sr.

Mrs. Wm. Sanguine is spending a week in Oakwood.

—Mr. Ernest Rodman, who has been quite ill for some time, is, we are glad to report, somewhat better.

Mr. Fred Hopkins, who has been in the States for some time past, is again back with Mr. A. H. Henderson.

Mr. Richard James, who has been visiting friends in Omemee, is again back. He claims it is a fine country around there.

Mrs. A. H. Henderson, who has been on the sick list for some time, is able to be out again.

A baby boy has come to the home of Mr. B. Osborne.

Owing to next Sunday being quarterly meeting at Seagrave, the Rev. Mr. Robins will preach at Zion in the evening at seven o'clock. Come one, come all.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Sell Liquor Through Dispensaries.

Edmonton, Alta., Jan. 31.—C. D. Hiebert, member for the Rosebud district, moved yesterday in the local Legislature "The Liquor Dispensary Act," which in general confines the selling of intoxicating liquors to regularly licensed dispensaries. A board of three commissioners shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council, the duties of which will be to establish wholesale and retail dispensaries, as provided by the act, and to engage dispensers.

Censured Chief of Police.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The coroner's jury to enquire into the death of James Calligan, in the county jail last Saturday night, returned a verdict censuring the chief of police. The result is remarkable, as no blame was attached to the chief in any way, nor did the man receive anything but kindness in the police station previous to being sent to the county jail.

Eleven Men Entombed.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 31.—A dust explosion occurred yesterday in the New River Valley mine near Hawk's Nest. Only twelve men were employed in the mine. One man, Superintendent Coles, was taken out seriously burned. The fate of the other eleven men is not known. All the dynamite and powder in the mine was ignited by the explosion, destroying the shaft.

Alice Thaw's Divorce Suit.

FARM NOTES

IT'S UP TO THE SHORTHORN MEN

Men are discussing the raising of shorthorns, with a view to a return to a more liberal milking strain of cattle. Everywhere this talk is in the air.

And this agitation is not of the propagandist nature. No man or organ has brought about the demand by stirring up people's minds. It has arisen from dire necessity.

Ontario is an ideal place for the breeding of shorthorns, and many, believing this, have started herds in all counties, and lesser farmers have shown a marked tendency to own a pedigreed shorthorn. But the sales of the breeding stock have been many times a keen disappointment to the farmers. Auction sales have often seen the sad spectacle of an old milk cow topping the prices of good-looking, long papered shorthorns, amid the evident satisfaction of the onlookers. With this we have no sympathy, and we further believe that many farmers have stood in their own light, in not keeping more of these good Durham cattle.

But there is a cause for this animadversion on the part of this rapidly growing section of Ontario's farming population. He is a blindly conservative man, indeed, who cannot see the trend of such things. He has a poor outlook for the future who fails to diagnose correctly these symptoms of unrest.

The best cow for the average 100 acre farm in Ontario is undoubtedly the deep milking shorthorn. Such cows as these were wont to be seen in former days, and they were the pride of many of our Ontario farms. They had big frames, large udders, and raised good calves yearly.

Moreover they would raise a steer calf of good beef conformation, or a heifer of great milking promise, that would weigh at one year upwards of 700 pounds by a liberal meal feeding, with skim milk. The cow also would make her $45 worth of butter each year, besides being in splendid shape for beef at the end of her history.

On the contrary, to-day too many of our shorthorn cattle are losing their milking qualities. They are being sacrificed for the beef rotundity type, of low-down frames, short legs, compact heads, broad backs and deep quarters. If their admirers succeed in establishing such a reputation for the shorthorn, they will find that the shorthorn will range alongside the Aberdeen Angus cattle as good heifers, but poor milkers, fit only for range and feedplot conditions.

Yet the shorthorn, the acme of bovine perfection, and the pride of all Anglo-Saxons, must not degenerate in the people's affections. She must be Ontario's rent producer, as the famous Scotch breeder was wont to say. She must keep Ontario's beef up to the mark. She must give us our butter, as well as give herself at the last analysis.

The shorthorn can do it. She can produce her 10,000 pounds of milk in a year. She can make big averages. But selection must get its work in by close attention to these points on behalf of our breeders. It is up to the shorthorn association now. It is now timely, when a constitutional revision is on hand, to make some move in this direction.

The farmers are not to be fooled. No half-way measure will do. It must be a business-like move along intelligent lines. Not every man who says he has a milking shorthorn possesses the goods. Performance is everything. Farmers have been often fooled on their Jerseys for usefulness; Holsteins have, at many times, been lamentable losers; Ayrshires had two small teats and other imperfections. But these things were noted and are being eradicated by the wide-awake wisdom of their breeders. Just so let us get down to shorthorn history.

The farmers are asking now, and it is portentous, if the sudden aspirants to shorthorn fame, who who flamed brightly for a few years and then disappeared from their halo of big prices, were really the friends of the good old shorthorn. The wise man has his ear to the ground.—Toronto World.

Some Remarks On Things in General

By "The Stroller."

There is one phase of public life we cannot understand, and with which we are not in sympathy—that is this fencing for points that takes place occasionally both in and out of Parliament. The last one was the Pugsley charges against Borden, and then last year we had the Foster business. There may not be enough French about us for ordinary purposes, but we would rather see the gladiators come right out into the open and use their fists, metaphorically speaking, than have this sparring behind some one else's back, or some hoary-headed privilege. No doubt the one who is getting the pummelling is very often to blame for the treatment he is getting, as he may be the instigator of the riot, and as is well known, it is much easier to start the ball a-rolling than it is to control it after it has started. In this Pugsley case—as far as we could understand—he appeared to be holding a card or two up his sleeve waiting for Borden to play his trump. Borden apparently was not sure what cards Pugsley had, and so was floundering around in the mist, not knowing exactly where his next step would land him. It looks so much like schoolboy play, that it makes one weary, especially when we consider that we are paying these men $9500 each and mileage yearly to attend to our business. If Pugsley has knowledge of any crookedness against Borden, why not come out flat-footed with a statement of what it is? Why should it be necessary for him to wait till Borden asks for it or goes into court about it? The House has now been in session nearly two months, and nothing has been done about it. No doubt it will come out in some of the discussions later on, but there seems to be a ridiculous lot of passing and fencing required that is very galling to us on the outside who are paying the shot.

The whole trouble would seem to arise from the unwarrantable assertions, or mis-assertions, that a certain class of our public men make about other public men. Both sides are at fault, and we really cannot see why it is necessary at all that such tactics should be used. The late Mr. Tarte used to say that elections were not won in prayer meetings. All the same, it would not be a bad idea if all electioneering, in the shape of canvassing, were abolished and it were confined to meetings, even if some of them were prayer meetings. Under present conditions, there is bound to be more or less shady work done on both sides, but in the majority of cases we honestly believe it is done in spite of the protests of the leaders and candidates, and not with their consent. Whatever can be done to bring about pure elections we believe will have the unqualified support of both sides, but this style of "You're another" warfare is puerile in the extreme. Our friends the tories are greatly to blame for the manner of discussions. They being out, of course set the pace, and as old Joe Rymal used to say they were like a bear robbed of her whelps when out of office, the pace is, at times, very turbid and warm, putting it mildly.

Take the one matter of increase in expenditure. Were one to read all Mail and Empire he would get the impression that this country was only doubling on its expenditure and on nothing else. Take the matter of government railways. In 1896 the expenditure was $3,254,443, and in 1906 $7,893,653. That is all they tell you. They conveniently forget to say that the revenue has kept pace with the expenditure, and that last year there was a surplus. Take another item—the post office. In 1896 the expenditure was $3,752,805, and in 1906 $4,921,577, but the deficit was $781,152 in 1896, whilst in 1906 there was a surplus of $1,011,705. Now any reasonable man, be he grit or tory, knows that the post office revenue or the railway revenue are far from being taxes on the people, and yet some tories are actually trying to make people believe that this immense revenue, as compared with their regime, is a tax put on by the grits, overlooking the additional fact that the cost of sending a letter is 1-3 less, and is as low as we can consistently make it. At the best of times it is hard to please the "outs", especially when the revenue is bouncing, but it is silly, nonsensical arguments like the above, all along the line, that make the other side forget their manners, and retaliate in kind.

Not a Miracle But Medical Science

Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited,
Toronto, Ont.
Gentlemen:—

"Some time ago I began to lose flesh and failed every day until I had to quit work. My physicians and all my friends said I had contracted consumption. I failed from 165 pounds down to 119. I was advised to go to the Rockies or to the coast. I went to both places under heavy expense. I continued to fail, and was advised by the doctors to come home as nothing more could be done for me. Hope seemed to have left me.

"I tried Psychine and since starting its use I have gained from 119 to 141 pounds. I have used $10.00 worth of the medicine. I am a well man and I cannot say too much in praise of Psychine. The strongest recommendation would be weak in view of the fact that I believe it has saved my life. It is without doubt the best remedy for run-down conditions and weak lungs.

"I sincerely hope and trust that you will continue your good work of saving run down people and consumptive from the grave. Wishing you and Psychine continued success, I remain, one of Psychine's best friends."

LOOSE WORK CONDONED

Uxbridge Journal; Blackbird, the pacer that holds the Canadian—which is to say the world's—ice record, continues to start in races despite the deal in which he was mixed up at Ottawa last winter. This horse was allowed to enter and start last summer at Stratford and other places because the secretaries of the tracks said they were not obliged to take cognizance of irregularities committed on the ice circuit. The explanation was accepted, but now we find Blackbird a starter on the ice whence he and his owner were ruled off last winter. Moreover, we find the presumable reputable owners of other horses willing to start against him.

GAMES IN TORONTO

Curlers going to Toronto on the excursion next [illegible]day, who are willing to curl in the evening, if they hand in their names to Mr. J. M. Knowlson or Mr. A. Williams, games will be arranged with the Varsity Club, Queen City, Prospect Park and Victorias.

THE TANKARD GAMES

Should our Tankard rinks play through the first day without defeat, the final game will be played on Wednesday, so that those coming back on the five o'clock train Wednesday should be able to see the whole game. Let a big crowd of curlers go to the city to encourage our rinks by their presence.

COSTS MONEY TO DRINK

Nick Altrock, the old Toronto twirler of the Chicago White Sox, has put up a roar over the fact that his salary has been cut $900. Owner Comiskey says that the erratic left-hander can have this amount at the end of the season providing he cuts out the wet goods places and attends to business. But Altrock says if his old contract is offered to him he will promise to be good, a proposition in which Comiskey takes little or no stock.

A Valuable Book Free.

One of the choicest books of its class that has ever been issued in Canada, has recently been published by Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto. It is entitled, "Slocum's Dictionary of Dreams and Book of Life." Besides being a very reliable interpreter of dreams, it contains many other features of great interest and value. Among them may be named; "How to Give First Aid to the Injured," "A Fortune Teller"—a great amusement feature suitable for parlor or social entertainments. In addition to these features it possesses a vast fund of valuable information for diseased and suffering humanity. The book contains fifty pages of most interesting matter, and is bound in a handsome three-colored paper cover. This cover is a study in itself, being a modern mailed Knight Crusader, who has been accosted by a lady Philanthropist. Between them a most interesting conversation takes place. This book will be mailed free upon request to any one sending their name and address, and saying they saw it in this paper, to Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto.

List of Winnipeg Bonspiel Events

In Which Eastern Rinks May Enter—Skip Flavelle Will be There.

Below we publish the portion of the Winnipeg Bonspiel programme that is of interest to Eastern clubs, giving as it does the respective competitions for which they are eligible.

As some of our readers know, Lindsay's famous skip has decided to return to the scene of former triumphs and engage in what will in all probability be his last trial of skill with the Western curlers—that is on their own ice. It will be Mr. Flavelle's fifteenth appearance at Winnipeg bonspiel, and if there is a curler in Canada who has shown a more sportsmanlike spirit or captured more leading trophies on foreign ice, we would like to be furnished with his name. Mr. Flavelle will take with him this year Mr. Geo. A. Little, his trusty lieutenant in many a hard-fought battle and glorious victory. Mr. L. V. O'Connor will play second stone, and Mr. W. E. Ressor will lead. "A strong and well-balanced quartette!" will be the verdict of brother curlers. They will leave for the West on Saturday next in order to have a couple of days' rest before the opening games on Feb. 11th.

Below will be found the contests in which they will take part;

DINGWALL TROPHY

First prize—A handsome silver cup, value $250; and with it four gold lockets (14 karat) set with diamonds, value $100, to be the property of the members of the winning team.

The association offers the following prizes:

Third prize—Four gun metal cigar boxes, value $30.

EMPIRE TROPHY.

First prize—A handsome silver cup, value $250, to be held for a year. The same firm offer, in conjunction with this cup, this year, four handsome bronze clocks, value $150, to the members of the rink winning the cup.

Second prize—Four silver fruit baskets, value $65, by W. H. Whalen, first vice-president of the association.

The association offers the following prizes:

Third prize—Four cut glass water bottles, value $30.

TETLEY TEA TANKARD

First prize—The Tetley Tea Tankard, value $250, to be held for one year. The same firm offer four silver tea sets, four pieces each, value $100, to the individual members of the winning rink.

Second prize—Four brass swinging tea kettles, value $50.

The association offers the following prizes:

Third prize—Four sets military brushes in cases, value $30.

BLUE RIBBON COMPETITION

Special prize—Four handsome gold watches, value $150, for a special competition between the curlers of the city of Winnipeg and all-comers attending the Winnipeg bonspiel of 1907.

Second prize—Four cut glass liquers, value $30, for rink taking second place in this competition.

SPECIAL COMPETITION
(The Old International Cup.)

It having been resolved to finally dispose of the old International trophy, it was agreed to put it up for a club competition, one rink from each club of those having won it any year, the cup to become the property of the winning club.

To accompany the cup, the association has donated four gold watch fobs, value $50, to become the property of the members of the winning rink.

GRAND POINT COMPETITION

The association offers the following prizes:

CHAMPIONSHIP PRIZES
(Grand Aggregate.)

The Saxon In Canada's Great Western Colony

Most of the Failures and Mistakes of English Settlers the Result of their Disinclination to Receive or Profit by Advice.

(Christian World, London, E.)

Few people, probably, remember the tragedy of the Barr Colony, three years ago, when 2,000 men, women and children, gathered from all parts of England, but chiefly from London, were led out into the wilderness, 200 miles distant from any railroad, in the bitter cold of a Canadian winter. They had, for the most part, never ridden a horse in their life. Their acquaintance with agriculture had been picked up as they had travelled at forty miles an hour upon the railroad on their annual excursion to Brighton or Southend. Before leaving England, they had converted whatever they possessed into cash, and with this burning a hole in their pocket landed at Saskatoon, at that time the terminus of the railroad, in the month of March with a 200 mile tramp in front of them.

Canada had been already warned of their coming, and the sharks and horse-dealers from all the surrounding districts had made adequate preparations for their arrival. Every wretched, worn-out hack for miles round had been fattened up and led into town. The dealers' stables were filled with refuse, which they hoped to palm off upon the new settlers. The one prevalent complaint made against the Englishman in Canada is that he will not allow himself to be taught. So, instead of frankly confessing that they had no knowledge of horse-flesh but had come out fresh from the office-stool, they walked into the sale-yards with the air of men who had owned

LARGE COUNTRY ESTATES,

To whom twenty dollars more or less made no difference; and when a broken-winded fifteen-year-old was brought out for their inspection they asked that he might be troted round, so that they might see his good points; and finished up by paying £60 for an animal not worth £5.

Equipped with teams of sickly horses and oxen, they set out, just as the Saskatoon River was breaking up, for their journey across the prairie. The snow was still on the ground, and the waggons were so piled up with luggage that the women and children had to tramp every yard of the way. Moreover, it was dangerous to ride. Proud in the possession of their new teams the men insisted upon managing their own affairs, despite the fact that they had Indians with them who had a knowledge of the country. The result was that instead of driving to Lloydminster they drove into concealed ponds and snowhollows, upsetting their carts. Articles appeared in the English papers giving accounts of how it was pitiful to hear the sobs of the women and children. These were not accurate. As Mr. Flamank, who was secretary to the colony, said to me to-day, it was the women and children who kept the men's courage up by their bravery and self-sacrifice. Wherever I have gone throughout this settlement I have been impressed with the magnificent pluck which the women are showing.

All the way from Saskatoon to Lloydminster the trail was littered with horses and oxen which had died by the way, but the women tramped on. In England they had had painted to them of what they might expect, and had been asked to take tickets for this and for that luxury. Amongst other things they paid five dollars (£1) for free medical attendance at a hospital, which at that time was not built, while Lloydminster was still a naked prairie. Their ill-advised leader encouraged them by saying that he was Joshua, and that Canaan was only a little way ahead. But after many stormy meetings he took his departure to the United States somewhat hurriedly. This is not the kind of reception that English colonists must always expect. The Barr Colony was a mismanaged affair from beginning to end, and a money-making adventure. The same obstinacy which made the Englishman unteachable in Saskatoon proved their salvation in Lloydminster, for in spite of an ill-omened beginning very few returned to England, and most of them have helped to make Lloydminster the greatest success between Dauphin and Edmonton—a matter of 478 miles. Lloydminster is to-day one of the greatest of the English successes in Canada, for it shows what pluck can do against adverse circumstance. A year ago last autumn the railroad came through, connecting it with Winnipeg and Edmonton. The town has taken a great start, and at present possesses a large skating-rink, a well-equipped hospital, five general stores, three good hotels and three churches. Sidewalks have been laid down, a newspaper has been started, buildings are going up everywhere, and preparations are being made for the installation of the telephone and of electric light. Yesterday I rode throughout the country, within a ten-mile radius of the town, and found it to be well setted, and upon some of

THE RICHEST LAND

That I have yet seen. Farmers last year reported a yield of 100 bushels of oats and forty-five of wheat to the acre; this, of course, was exceptional. In appearance the country is very similar to that seen on the Yorkshire Moors, only it has less water.

Quite a number of the people are additions of more recent date, and came from Sheffield. One old lady whom I met, was keeping house for her five sons, and assured me that she had never known how enjoyable life could become until she had come out to the prairie. Wherever I went I found plucky, contented women, with plenty of healthy children round them, and men, some of whom had been sickly clerks, tanned and robust, riding their horses and driving their ploughs as though they had never seen a ledger. At one place I came to a gully where an Oxford man of two years back, who had been at Keble College was running a herd of cattle. He was brown and happy, and told me that he would not go back to the old life on any account. Many of these men are from the most exclusive of our public schools, speaking a cultured tongue.

Since the town is now recognised by most people to be one of the coming cities of the West, and its lessons are many, it is folly for an intending settler to join any private enterprise, under the control of a man who is exploiting his clients for his own private ends. The worst thing a man can do is to settle in the midst of a colony of his own countrymen, who are as inexperienced as himself. If an Englishman would get on in Canada, he must come to the new country frankly confessing that he knows nothing at all about Canadian farming, and grateful to anyone who will instruct him. He should avoid his own people and

SETTLE AMONGST CANADIANS

Who know what methods are best adapted to their own climate and soil. He should bring very little money with him and receive none from home after. No man need starve out West; the universal cry is that the employment demand much exceeds the supply. And in taking up land a man must get as near the railroad as possible, and must come out at a suitable season, and not in the depth of winter. Thirty miles away from a railroad is the limit of distance that should be allowed. The best time of the year for an intending settler to come out is April.

If a man is prepared to work in the harvest, he can earn during the months of August and September anywhere from eight to twelve shillings a day besides his board. Should he be lucky, he can get a permanent position for the winter upon one of the large farms in Manitoba, and so gain both experience and self-earned capital for the coming spring—or, at worst, he can always work upon the railroad or in a British Columbia lumber camp.

The great opportunities of Canada do not commence until you get to Winnipeg. I have often met men in England who have visited the Dominion and come back disappointed themselves and intent upon dissuading others from adventuring. Such men have lacked the enterprise to travel further West than Montreal or Toronto, where the prospects for a new-comer do not much exceed those which he has left behind in England. Such a man is no authority upon the West. Canadian farmers from the East have everything to unlearn on coming to Manitoba or Alberta, just the same as men from England; in agriculture Eastern and Western Canada are quite dissimilar.

'Stellar' Hockey Will be Witnessed

Lindsay Intermediates to Meet Whitby in Two Championship Games.

The latest order from the Intermediate O.H.A. is that the Lindsay Intermediates play in Brockville on Tuesday night. Brockville plays the return game here on Friday night, and as that town is the winner of District No. 1, we should see some interesting hockey.

What the executive of the O.H.A. have decided to do with the Lindsay-Cobourg game here is not known, but even if we do not have to play them we are winners of this district.

The expense of the Brockville-Lindsay game will be great, as the players' fares have to be paid for the 125 miles. Citizens should therefore turn out in force next Friday night and see what will be perhaps the fastest game yet played, and help the boys out in their financial problems. It is rather too bad we couldn't play some of the districts nearer home, and so cut down expenses.

However, it might have been worse. It's better to go 125 miles to Brockville than to be like Midland, and have to play off at Sudbury. It would be rather one on the Intermediates if they have to play at one of the north pole towns like Sudbury or Copper Cliff. Here's hoping that if we win, Midland wins also.

A Safe Medicine for All Children.

All so-called "soothing" syrups and most of the powders advertised to cure the ailments of babies and young children contain poisonous opiates, and an overdose may kill the child. Baby's Own Tablets are absolutely safe. You have the guarantee of a government analyst to the truth of this statement. Good for the new born babe and the well grown child. The tablets positively cure such ailments as colic, sour stomach, indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea and teething troubles. They also cure simple fever, break up colds, prevent croup and destroy worms. Every mother who has used this medicine praises it highly. THE EVENING POST

Vol. XV, No. 28 — LINDSAY, ONTARIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1908 — ONE CENT

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

AN ADVT. IN THE POST PAYS

SENT TO MATTEAWAN

Thaw Found Not Guilty on Ground of Insanity.

VERDICT CHEERED IN COURT

Jury Agree After 25 Hours — Prisoner Removed to State Asylum at Once—General Satisfaction With Verdict —Thaw Hopes Soon to Gain His Freedom—Commission on Lunacy May Be Appointed.

New York, Feb. 3.—Adjudged not guilty of the murder of Stanford White by reason of insanity at the time of the fatal shots were fired, Harry Kendall Thaw on Saturday was held by the court to be a dangerous lunatic and was whirled away to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

It was a quick transition from the dingy little cell in the Tombs which had been the young man's home for more than eighteen months, to the white bedded wards of the big asylum, tucked away on the snow-covered sloping banks of the Hudson River, fifty miles above the city.

The verdict came after twenty-five hours of waiting, and when every one connected with the case had abandoned all hope of agreement ever being reached in this or any other trial.

Four hours after the foreman's lips had framed the words "not guilty," with the accompanying insanity clause, Thaw, protesting he was sane, was on his way to Matteawan. A little after nightfall he had been received in the institution under commitment papers which directed his detention "until discharged by due course of law."

The first thrill of the words of acquittal brought Thaw to his feet in the court room and with that lack of grace of action which always has characterized his movement, awkwardly, almost hurriedly bowed his acknowledgments to the twelve jurymen as they were discharged by the court.

A smile played about his pallid features and there was every reason to believe that he was entirely pleased with the outcome. It was after he had heard the words of Justice Dowling committing him to Matteawan on the ground that his release, in the opinion of the court, would endanger the public safety, and after the elation of the verdict had died away, Thaw rebelled.

He commanded his attorneys immediately to sue out a writ of habeas corpus to have his sanity tested before he was sent away to the up-state institution, where the insane of criminal tendencies were confined.

Mrs. Wm. Thaw, from her hotel, where she had received over the telephone the news of the trial's end, joined in the demand of her son.

Martin W. Littleton, whose conduct of the case as chief counsel for the defence had won so much favorable comment, finally prevailed against the wishes of the mother, indicating to her that he believed it would be better for the present to obey the mandate of the court.

Under promise that some action speedily would be taken looking to the appointment of a commission to enquire into his present sanity, or for his transfer to a private institution, where his wife and other members of his family might reside with him, Thaw consented to go without further protest.

On his way to Matteawan, Thaw dictated the following authorized statement to the representatives of the Associated Press:

"I am perfectly sane now, but I am going to Matteawan on the advice of my counsel, who thought it unwise to sue for a writ of habeas corpus at this time. Counsel will proceed in the matter of my release just as soon as they can get together the proofs they will present, that I am at present sane. I am confident that my stay at Matteawan will be for a short period of time only."

Mr. Littleton is understood to have talked very plainly to Thaw while the subject of suing out a writ of habeas corpus was under discussion. Upon an exception filed by Mr. Littleton, Judge Dowling had granted a delay until 3 o'clock in the execution of the commitment papers, so that counsel might consult with the defendant. Mr. Littleton informed Thaw, it was stated, that "there is such a thing as public sentiment in New York."

Thaw was cheered by a crowd of several hundred persons as he was whirled away from the Tombs in his wife's automobile. If he heard, he paid no heed. The machine was so filled with deputies and members of counsel that neither Thaw nor his wife was visible to the waiting throngs. It was at first planned to have Thaw enter the automobile from the criminal courts building, but the crowd in White street became so dense the chauffeur was directed to drive into the Tombs yard.

From the moment that word came from the jury-room, at 12.40 p. m., that a report was about to be made, the closing events of the famous case moved with almost cyclonic rapidity. For a day and a night there had been absolute silence on the part of the jury. Not a suggestion or request of any sort had come to the court, and when Justice Dowling came down to his chambers late in the morning he announced that he would not send for the jury until they sent for him.

The report of Friday night, that the jury stood eight to four for acquittal on the ground of insanity persisted up to the very time they announced their intention of coming into court, and all concerned with the case had abandoned hope of a definite conclusion of the second trial.

All of the defendant's counsel were elated with the verdict, and declared it was just what they hoped for. District Attorney Jerome was almost as well pleased himself. He has contended from the first that Thaw was medically, if not legally, insane, and his efforts this year had plainly not been directed toward a verdict of murder in the first degree.

Mr. Jerome congratulated Mr. Littleton, and both counsel and jury joined in congratulating Justice Victor J. Dowling, who presided at the trial with so much satisfaction to both sides. The jurymen expressed their thanks to the judge for his kindly interest in all matters affecting their comfort, and declared it had been a pleasure to serve under such a fair-minded, just and considerate jurist. The proceedings in the court-room were brief and business-like, and at no time was there the semblance of a dramatic effort.

So far as lies within his power, District Attorney Jerome will resist any effort to have Thaw liberated at any time in the near future. Neither will he willingly consent to his transfer to a sanitarium.

Matteawan, N.Y., Feb. 3.—Harry K. Thaw arrived here Saturday night and was immediately assigned to the observation ward of the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

When Dr. Robert B. Lamb, medical superintendent of the hospital, was told that Harry Thaw had been committed to the institution, he said the prisoner would be given no special privileges while here.

"The first thing we will do with him," said Dr. Lamb, "as with all patients, is to place him in the observation ward, there to remain for a week or two, or probably longer, until we note his mental condition. This is the customary plan, and it will be adhered to in his case. Then we can, after studying his mental derangement, assign him with some judgment to some particular ward in the hospital. He cannot have any special quarters, for all the patients here are treated alike.

HOME RULE FOR INDIA.

Strongly Urged by Member In British House of Commons.

London, Feb. 3.—John Morley, Secretary of State for India, replied to the House of Commons Saturday to criticisms of the Indian Government. He said the great mass of perplexing problems in India must be regarded on a common sense plan and that it was not common sense to talk of Imperial dumas. But the Government was ready, when occasion offered, to consider the inclusion of India in the viceroy's council.

The debate arose on an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, proposed by Mr. Rutherford, Conservative, who declared that the present state of affairs in India demanded the serious attention of the Government, that the present proposals were inadequate to allay the existing and growing discontent, and that measures of reform in the direction of giving the Indians control of their own affairs were necessary.

RIOTS AT WEST SENECA.

Mob of Hungry Foreigners Fight For Bread In Streets.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 3.—The police force at West Seneca has been trebled to cope with the possibilities of an outbreak of lawlessness among the hundreds of idle and hungry foreigners formerly employed in the steel mills. The number of needy in the town is variously estimated at from 500 to 3,000. A fierce bread riot occurred last night. A grocer had announced that he would give four hundred loaves of bread to the poor. The story spread and a large crowd gathered. The loaves did not come fast enough, and everybody wanted to grab the first food. In the struggle which ensued, the bread was shredded to crumbs and destroyed. A free soup house was opened by the poor master yesterday.

Druce Sues Chronicle.

London, Feb. 3.—George Hollamby Druce, who was recently defeated in his efforts to make good his claim to the title and estates of the late Duke of Portland, has begun a libel suit against The Daily Chronicle for the publication on Saturday of a lengthy view of the case which contains certain reflections on himself.

STORM WORKS HAVOC

Many Schooners Driven Ashore on East Coast.

LIGHTNING STRIKES ASYLUM

Breakwater Badly Damaged at St. John—Ships Torn From Moorings—Bridges Carried Away—Nets Destroyed — Fierce Tornado In Mississippi—Over Twenty Killed — Town Wiped Out.

Hazelhurst, Miss., Feb. 3.—More than a score of persons were killed and nearly twice that number were injured in Friday's tornado, according to latest reports. Relief parties were sent out yesterday. Among those hurt are Samuel Nichols and Robert Middleton, farmers. They were fatally hurt, and members of their families were also hurt. All streams are swollen, and the country roads are strewn with fallen trees.

A rough estimate of the property loss places the damage at about a quarter of a million. It was learned that Georgetown, where several buildings were last reported to have been wrecked, was entirely wiped off the map. No one at Georgetown is reported killed, but many were injured.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 3.—The worst storm in years swept over Halifax and other parts of Nova Scotia Saturday night. There was wholesale destruction along the water front, and telephone and telegraph lines were levelled so that communication along the coast and other parts of the province is cut off.

Several schooners in the harbor were driven ashore, and the Government quarantine steamer Argus was forced from her moorings and driven ashore on the Dartmouth side of the harbor.

The homeward bound mail steamer Grampian, with passengers, which was to have sailed, was forced to remain in port until yesterday morning. The wind blew 60 miles an hour, and was accompanied by a blizzard of snow. At midnight this turned to rain, which fell in torrents. Accompanying the snow, rain and wind was a terrific electrical storm.

Lightning struck the 125-foot chimney of the Nova Scotia Insane Hospital at two o'clock and tore out forty tons of bricks from its outer coverings. Some of the debris fell through a window into one of the rooms, and a seamstress was injured slightly.

The lightning disarranged the electric light service, and for hours the hospital was in darkness. Debris from the chimney crashed through the roof of the engine-house, badly injuring the engineer and machinery.

The Storm at St. John.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 3.—Enormous damage was done by a terrific storm which raged here Saturday night and yesterday morning. Reports received from Bay of Fundy ports indicate that shipping suffered to a great extent.

At St. Martins a large breakwater was badly damaged, and at Dipper Harbor, Highway Bridge was swept from its piers, the wharves destroyed and fishermen's houses blown down. Nets and traps were swept to sea, entailing a great loss to fishermen, many of whom are left in pitiable circumstances.

In St. John harbor, shipping had a strenuous night. Schooners were torn from their moorings and several wharves were badly damaged. The C. P. R. steamer Empress of Britain parted some lines and partly swung around in the stream. She was moored, however, before being damaged. Great uneasiness is felt here for coastal schooners bound for this port, some of which are overdue.

William Fife Injured.

Glasgow, Feb. 3.—Wm. Fife, the yacht designer, was seriously injured at his shipyard at Fairlie Saturday. While superintending the construction of Sir Thomas Lipton's new racing yacht Mr. Fife fell from the deck into the hold. He struck his head and was rendered unconscious. He was carried to his home, where he is still unconscious.

Gananoque Hotel Scorched.

Gananoque, Feb. 3.—The American Hotel, owned by Mrs. Joseph Church, was damaged by fire here last night. The loss to the building is estimated at $1,000 and the contents the same amount. The building is insured, but there is no insurance on the contents. At one time it was thought the block would go, as it is a frame building, but abundance of water and sufficient firemen confined the fire to the kitchen. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety, cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

COLLISION AT TURCOT.

Lantern Light Blown Out by Storm —Two Men Killed.

Montreal, Feb. 3.—Two enginemen were killed in the Grand Trunk yards at Turcot Village, just outside the city limits, on Saturday evening.

The late Ottawa train, drawn by two locomotives, ran into two light engines couple together, standing on the main track in Turcot yard, the collision being caused by the red light carried by the flagman being extinguished by the wind just as the train came in sight through the blinding snowstorm, raging at the time.

The men killed were: A. Mills, engineer, and Robt. Smith, fireman of the leading engine of the Ottawa train. None of the passengers were injured.

Caught Picking Pockets.

St. Catharines, Feb. 3.—For some time past the members of the local Y. M. C. A. have missed various amounts of small change and a number of articles from pockets, and the facts were reported to the local secretary, who kept his eyes open, with the result that a young lad, Arthur Beyers, employed as pinsticker, was suspected and accused. He was caught stealing from a member's pocket. Two weeks ago the boy was arrested for stealing $10 from the till of Thomas' restaurant, but was let go on suspended sentence. He was taken before the magistrate Saturday when he pleaded guilty and was sent to the Victoria Industrial School at Mimico for five years.

Arrested Bank Cashier.

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 3.—Horace E. New, cashier of the Capital State Bank, which failed last week, was arrested Saturday night on a charge of forgery. It is stated that forged notes aggregating at least $50,000, have already been turned in, the first coming from Kansas City and Omaha banks.

Cape Colony's Premier.

Cape Town, Feb. 3.—J. K. Merriman, leader of the African Bund, has accepted the Premiership of Cape Colony, in succession to Dr. Leander S. Jameson, resigned.

Roof of Rink Fell.

Picton, Feb. 3.—The lives of nearly forty young boys, skating in Boulter's Arena, were endangered at noon on Saturday. A very heavy snowstorm had passed over the county, and about two hundred tons of snow weighed down the roof, which, with scarce a moment's warning, caved in. No one was seriously injured, though Joseph Grooms had a particularly narrow escape, being caught and pinned under the falling roof. Mr. Grooms saw the collapse coming and rushed out on the ice and warned the children off. The loss on the arena is placed at $20,000.

E. Spencer, florist, suffers considerable loss, the storm completely destroying the roof of his new greenhouse.

Vancouver Man Shot.

Vancouver, Feb. 3.—B. Boyce, forty years of age, shot and killed J. C. Massender on Saturday night. Boyce was returning to his lodgings after 11 o'clock. He found a young man talking at the door to the landlady's daughter. Boyce ordered him away, threatening to shoot. He went into the house and reappeared with a gun. The young man ran, but Boyce shot and missed him. The bullet passed through the wall of the house, killing Massender, a married man, in his home at the corner of Barnard street and Jackson avenue.

Newfoundland Protests.

St. John, Nfld., Feb. 3.—The Legislature Saturday, by unanimous vote, adopted resolutions protesting against the action of the British Cabinet in overriding the Newfoundland laws and arranging a modus vivendi with the United States.

All political parties agree on the constitutional aspect of the question, but the vote of the opposition is not regarded as an endorsement of Premier Bond's policy in dealing with the American fishermen on the west coast during the past four years.

Killed by a Fall.

Orillia, Feb. 3.—H. Miller of Milliken, near Unionville, aged 24, unmarried, a fireman on the southbound G. T. R. freight from Midland, was the victim of a fatal accident in the station yard here Saturday. He was standing on the tender of the engine pulling open the slide on a coal chute when he slipped and fell backwards, striking his head with such violence that he died within an hour, shortly after regaining consciousness. The coroner decided an inquest unnecessary, and the body will be taken to Unionville.

Premier Gouin Home.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

to Tom, who was still looking down and fidgeting with his pick, the speaking image of sullen guilt. More repulsive to the major was the gloating ruffian in the saddle, but he signed to the sentry to take away Tom's pick and then favored the other with a slow, contemplative stare.

"A very singular thing, I'm sure," he resumed, with a sarcastic intonation that punctured even Nat's thick skull. "Very singular indeed. Upon my word, Mr. Sullivan," exclaimed the major, "I find it difficult to believe what you say!"

"Sir!"

"Or, if you like, to understand it."

"If you will allow me to say the rest and to say it elsewhere"—

"No, sir! Here!" cried Major Honeybone. "Here or nowhere, which you please. This man absconds one night, so I gather, and the next night you are attacked by bushrangers. This man is found the morning after that, and I understand you suggest he was one of the band that attacked you. Yet you never recognized him at the time. Come, now, did none of you?"

"Not then, but he threatened my sister and a female whom we have since returned, and Miss Sullivan remembers hearing him call the female by her name. Now, this man and that woman kept company," snarled Nat in a perfect flame of rage and spite, "and Miss Sullivan will swear he called the woman by her name. He fell in with the thieves when he absconded, it's perfectly clear. He was the very man to join them in an attack on his own masters even if he didn't instigate it. Join in it he did. I can prove it. Though not one of the original gang is left alive, I can prove"—

"What about that Italian fellow?" interrupted the major, and Tom held his breath.

"He wasn't in it. I believe he's dead, and they put this Erichsen in his clothes. His horse was found a few miles beyond where they found this man, and now his coat has been discovered with Erichsen's knife in the pocket. Yes, you may wince!" cried this good hater. "You shall swing for it yet!"

"Kindly confine your remarks to me," said the major sternly. "You'll have to prove the knife was his, and that won't prove everything. Never heard such a story in my life! You'll have to strengthen it up a bit if you mean to make a case. What do you want me to do?"

"Nothing at all," said Nat ungraciously.

"Then why the deuce do you come to me?"

"I didn't. I was on my way to your superiors."

Major Honeybone turned to the sentry.

"Cock your piece," said he, "and shoot his horse if he attempts to go till I've done with him. Now, you, Sullivan," continued the major, "perhaps you didn't know you were trespassing when you came on these works. But you were, and you'll stop on 'em now till I've done with you. You came to gloat over the man you've hounded here to tell him you'd hound him to the gallows, did you? To laugh at him, eh? Gadzooks, sir, the boot's on the other leg this time! The whole chain gang is laughing at you, and you may frown upon 'em as much as you like, but if you touch one you'll be in irons yourself in two minutes. I know you, sir. We know all about both of you here. Half the men who come here have been driven here by you and your father. Silence in the gang! Go on to Sydney and tell them anything you like about the man you mean to hang. But, gadzooks, you don't get him out of this! No, and the governor himself sha'n't have him out of this until he knows on whose word he's acting! Go to my superiors. They'll never listen to your clumsy yarn. If they do I'll send down to Sydney myself to tell 'em what I know of you and yours. And Castle Sullivan will be swept into the sea, and you—you slave driver—you'll be where these men are now! Be off, sir. I hate the sight of you! Sentry, let him go."

About the middle of this tirade Nat had been ready with a retort as virulent, but the concluding sentences were too much even for his hard nerves and sturdy ruffianism. Muttering something unintelligible about an "outrage" and "reporting" Major Honeybone, he put spurs to his horse and galloped off, leaving nothing worse behind him than a look. It was such a look as might be seen any day, any moment even, in an iron gang, yet Tom never forgot the cruel eyes, the low lips, the murderous scowl nor the peculiarly bestial whole which they made on that occasion. The convicts cursed and cheered him in derision and when he was gone were given to understand by the major that if they ever did it again he should treat the lot of them as they would be treated at Castle Sullivan—to fifty lashes all round.

"Only I give you fair warning," said he, "and you don't catch me break my word either way."

The major was a man who liked a little opposition for the sake of putting it down, which he never failed to do with the highest hand, but he had his chain gang in such an exemplary state of broken spirited subjection that the iron will within that flabby body was growing rusty from disuse. The impudence of young Sullivan was consequently a godsend to this born martinet. It gave him an appetite, and it made him sleep. Furthermore, it fixed his eye on Erichsen and to some extent his thoughts also. The major was harsh by habit, but impartial to the core. He did not believe a syllable of Nat Sullivan's story. But why had Erichsen so taken it to heart? He alone had neither cursed nor cheered. The major was puzzled, but kept watch.

"Fancy he's a gentleman," said Honeybone in a day or two, and he made inquiries.

The result of the inquiries was the information that Erichsen usually sulked, but when he was in a bad temper he was more blasphemous than any man in the gang; when in a good one he was more foul.

"He is a gentleman—hem—was," said the cocksure major. "Only it's the old story—the farther they have to fall, the lower they sink. Poor devil, poor devil!" And old Honeybone sighed, for he had sunk a little, too, and if his conscience was clear of crime it was more or less saturated with sin, of which the perfume was not a little stale and sickly. Whether from that cause or another, the fat major found himself taking a more human interest in this prisoner than in most. "So that's the most profane tongue in the stockade!" he would think whenever he looked at Tom. "So that's the foulest mouth!"

It was not, but Tom was educated and had an educated man's sense of emphasis and of selection. His bad things stuck—that was all.

But if those superlatives were not literally justified others were, and before Tom had been six weeks in chains he had shown a temper as insubordinate, an audacity as brazen and a callousness as shocking as anything of the sort which the major had yet encountered in his present capacity. It was the reaction from the sulky spirit in which the convict had begun his term. For two whole weeks he broke no rules, but in the next four he was three times flogged.

On the first occasion he knocked down the scourger when it was all over and so brought it all over again. On the last the major addressed him from his chair as the convict positively swaggered from the triangles, with his fetters clanking and his shoes squelching at every step.

"You want to try Norfolk island," said the major, "but you shan't."

Tom shook his head, with an ugly sneer.

"The gallows, then," said the major, "is your game. But you're not going to get there either. I can show you as good sport as you'll show me, and we'll see who wins the game."

It was nothing else to the combative major. He was growing younger for the exercise. He began to get about again on his legs. His only regret was for a palpably fine young fellow gone so utterly to the bad. For the rest, he found poor Tom as stimulating for some weeks as Nat Sullivan had proved on the occasion described. Nat, by the way, had returned to Castle Sullivan, ignobly crestfallen, but not so intoxicated as to ride by the stockade again in daylight. The major's superiors had confirmed that officer's opinion, and Peggy O'Brien, examined on her oath in Parramatta factory, had perjured herself for Tom in the most illusive and convincing manner. The principal superintendent had made a note of the affair, but there was no case, as Nat was pretty plainly told, and Major Honeybone heard no more of him for some time.

As a matter of fact, the bones of the Italian had also been discovered, but as there were no clothes upon them and the native dogs had left little else they were never identified. So Tom was safer for the moment than he supposed. Meanwhile he had become a sort of hero among his degraded fellows. Not the most popular sort, however, for enthusiasm is difficult in heavy fetters. Besides, he never tried to be popular.

He might have been after knocking down the scourger. The man was a convict himself, who received 1 shilling 9 pence a day for his unnatural services. It was the butcher over again, only this caitiff had eighty others always there to loathe him, and every hand could have shaken Tom's for that well aimed blow, but the very next day they discovered he would as soon turn on them as on their common enemy.

The incident brought to light an interesting fact, and it happened on Tom's third Sunday in the stockade. About half the gang were incarcerated in the common mess shed, idling, yarning, cursing and proceeding as fast as possible with that mutual corruption which was the chief fruit of this particular branch of secondary punishment. Tom was of the number, a conspicuous unit. It was the dawn of his prominence. He was in one of those good tempers alluded to already. Everybody was listening. Those who could laugh still laughed now, and if he had a guardian angel, surely, surely she must have been weeping then more bitterly than when he fought for the bushrangers at Castle Sullivan and put a bullet through a trooper's arm.

Suddenly something, an association, a reminiscence, a forgotten picture, made him want to weep himself. He was past that, however, and went back into the sulks instead. A new diversion being required, one was provided by the discovery of a young convict, a mere lad, writing a letter in a dark corner on the floor. On being detected the lad first blushed and then offered to read them what he had written, whereupon he opened his lips and a ribald stream poured forth, but meandered, slackened, faltered and was soon cut short.

"He's making it up as he goes along," cried several. "He never wrote that at all."

"We'll see what he did write," said one who was at hand, cuffing the lad and snatching the unfinished letter.

With a cry and an uncouth chime from his irons, the young convict attempted to retain his property. It tore in his hand, and a dozen more held him down while the possessor dragged his chains on to one of the long, rude tables and stood up to read the letter in a silence broken only by the protests of the wretched writer.

"'My ever dear mother and father,'" the brute brawled out. "'I received your kind and welcome letter on the 31st of January, and happy was I to read the delightful letter which I received from you that day.' Ahem! Can't he pitch it in? 'Oh, how 'appy I am to 'ear that you are so comfortable and well. Oh, my dear mother and father, I 'ope my brothers and sisters will mind what you say to them better than ever I done, for you see what it is to be 'eadstrong.' 'Eadstrong, eh? Stop a bit; now we're coming to it! 'Oh, my dears, I 'ope you will make yourselves as comfortable as you can, for perhaps I never may see you again in this world, but I 'ope I shall in the nex' where I 'ope to be a comfort to you all, so God bless you all, my dears, forever' "—

He got no further, nor had many attended to the last sentences. The lad's unavailing protests had ended in veritable wailing and gnashing of teeth. It was this that had aroused Tom from his lethargy, and he also was now upon the table, clanking down the length of it to where the reader stood.

One or two mistook his intentions. "That's it—you read it," said they, but the most of them read Tom's face.

"Give me that letter," he said sternly, halting before the man.

"Give who it?" roared the other. "Oh, it's you, eh?" he added and seemed in doubt.

"Give me that letter," he said sternly.

don't you think? We all of us had friends once—in another world as it seems to me—but if any of us like to remember we had them surely it's that man's business and not ours. He's a better man than most of us, and his letter's the last thing that we should meddle with. We wouldn't have done it once, and we won't now." His temperate tone surprised himself, but it merely showed how every sensibility had lost its edge. Two months ago he would have argued such a point with his ready hands.

Meanwhile the reader had decided not to fight, being an insufficient number of inches bigger and broader than Tom and having still in his ears the thud with' which the scourger fell. But neither was he going to give in like a man, because men were scarce

ANOTHER BUBBLE BURST.

The Conservatives have a great mess for scandals—ever scent them by some intuitive olfactory operation, remarks an exchange. Mr. Amos, Conservative member of Parliament for a Montreal division, and his confederes had the impudence of the House at a standstill for days to impress their demand to see the originals of certain documents in connection with the leasing of certain timber berths by the Department of the Interior. Mr. Amos claimed that if he could get sight of the handwriting of the original documents he could discover something startling. He was allowed to see the originals, and also he proceeded from discovery which the Opposition papers declared disclosed a "colossal graft", and, especially the Toronto Globe proceeded to blow up a tremendous scandal bubble, which is easily pricked.

Here, in brief, is Mr. Amos and his "gals" discovered, in the way of a plot. In the autumn of 1903 the Department for a western timber berth of about seventy square miles area. Three tenders were received. One was put in by Mr. C. W. Fraser, K. C., of Ottawa, for $1,000; a second was for $6,420, put in by James Curry of the Saskatchewan Lumber Company, and a third tender in the name of W. H. Cohen of Montreal, was submitted, offering $7,000, or $580 more than Mr. Curry's offer. The timber berth was awarded to the highest tenderer, who afterwards transferred the lease to the Imperial Pulp Company, of which Sir Daniel McMillan, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, is President.

Mr. Amos, as soon as he saw the original papers, at once pounced on the fact that the bookkeeping on the first and third tenders, says the name, and that Mr. Nelson's signature on the transfer of the lease to Sir Daniel McMillan was different from the signature attached to the tender for $7,000. Curiously enough, "Graft" was the cry of Mr. Amos, and through the rejoicing Opposition ranks ran the thrill of scandal discovered scandal, though the scandal and brazen graft cannot be claimed by the indicted side. The explanation of the circumstance, which aroused the shopkeeper's susceptible suspicions of Mr. Amos, is, it is palpably clear, is not self-evident. Mr. Fraser, who acted in his capacity of solicitor for the successful tenderer, Curry, has explained the matter, and nobody who reads with the fairness, freedom from political prejudice and bias, which characterizes

Worst Blizzard Ever Experienced

Saturday Night's Blow a Record Breaker---Railways Badly Tied Up.

Railway men are having a hard time these days on account of the drifting snow. Snow plows were at work all day yesterday trying to open the lines. This morning a snow plow was sent north to see what it could do with the Haliburton and Coboconk tracks.

Saturday night the 6.23 did not reach town till 8.40, while the 8 o'clock express and "flyer" from Toronto did not get in till 12. The train from Belleville, due here at 10.10 Saturday night, reached here at 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

To-day the Haliburton, Coboconk, 12.05 mixed and 'flyer' were all cancelled. The 'flyer' will be on the run to-morrow. On Satudray night the "flyer's" passengers were transferred at Blackwater; the train then ran light to Lindsay, where she is lying till she resumes her run.

The C.P.R. also had a great deal of trouble. A train from Toronto, due at 7.20, did not reach town till 2 o'clock. Sunday morning. A solitary hackman had the enterprise to meet it, and he certainly deserved the patronage he got and praise his regularity elicited.

Last night, when the C.P.R. snow plow was passing through town, the wings refused to fold on account of the snow packed behind them, and before the engine could be stopped a large section of the station platform was ripped up. Matters were speedily put right and the plow proceeded on its way.

A number of the stores closed at about 8 o'clock Saturday evening, on account of the bad weather and lack of business. Nobody, who did not absolutely have to go out, left their firesides to go into the storm.

To-night's Moving Pictures.

It would seem that Lindsay people who enjoy exhibitions of the manly art have a treat in store tonight, when moving picture views of the Burns-Moir fight in England will be presented at the Academy. It is said that these colored moving pictures are the first ever exhibited in Canada. In addition to views of the great fight, a great variety of comic and other scenes will be portrayed. Admission 25c., 35c., 50c.—d1.

—The Minden Echo says; Local option dryness is becoming quite popular, and as it requires no irrigation, and saves to many a family more than the price of their flour each year, will probably reach our town by-and-by. It appears to be coming via Coboconk and Kinmount.

—If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test will surely tell you a catarrh truth well worth your while knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer.

—Here's something worth knowing. A prominent physician says; "The fact that colds are more common in winter than in summer is simply because people spend less of their time in the open air. Dreading the chilly air, they remain indoors, the health is proportionately lowered and they take cold easily."

—Bob. Independent; The move of the Toronto City Council to reduce the number of hotel licenses from 150 to 110, is along the line of temperance. There will still be quite sufficient drinking places, and it will be the duty of the members of Council who have made the reduction to see that the 110 strictly observe the regulations.

—Persons going in and out of the Benson house of late have been heard to pass some very flattering remarks on the marked improvements that has been made. A large number of the bedrooms, parlors, bathrooms, halls, etc., have been tastefully decorated, nearly one thousand rolls of paper having been hung. The work was done by Mr. A. Moore, Lindsay's lightning and popular paperhanger.

RELIABLE GLASSES.

The Rush Continues at B.J. Gough's Great Winding-up Sale.

This startling Winding-up Sale has proven a great benefit to people who have purchased the high-grade Clothing, Furnishings, Hats, Caps and Furs that we are offering at a saving of about half price. Never before have the Men and Boys of Lindsay and Victoria County had a better opportunity offered to them as this Great Winding-up Sale has made possible. The crowds of last week and the immense amount of business done was to us another evidence of the wisdom of inaugurating this sale. But the stock must be sold at once, and in order to sell the goods quickly we have made great reductions that space will not permit mentioning.

A Smart Farmer.

"Stop," shouted the man on the country road, holding up a warning hand. Muttering something about rural cops, the automobilist obeyed.

"Turn around and come back to town with me," said the stranger. "You were going at least 35 miles an hour."

"You're a constable, I suppose," said the automobilist, with a covert sneer, when they reached the village.

"Me?" replied the passenger. "No, I'm the farmer, and had to come to town when all the teams were busy. Nice growing weather. Thanks. Good-bye."

Lumberman Injured.

Minden Echo; Mr. Ed. Robertson, foreman in one of Laking's camps, met with an extremely painful accident on Friday afternoon last. While assisting the top loaders to put a log up to a higher position he was caught unawares by a sudden turn of the log coming back in such a way as to double all his fingers on his right hand backward over top of his wrist until the joints near the palm burst through flesh and skin leaving bones and sinews exposed and sticking out. Fortunately Mr. Davis, manager arrived at the camp a few minutes later and drove the patient to the village, where Drs. Giles and Soady replaced the fingers and dressed the wounds.

THE FARMER FEEDS THEM ALL.

The king may rule o'er land and sea,
The lord may live right royally;
The soldier ride in pomp and pride;
The sailor ride o'er oceans wide;
But this or that whate'er befall,
The farmer, he must feed them all.

The writer thinks, the poet sings,
The craftsmen fashion wondrous things;
The doctor heals, the lawyer pleads,
The miner follows precious leads;
But this or that whate'er befall,
The farmer, he must feed them all.

The farmer's trade is one of worth;
He's partner with the sky and earth;
The partner with the sun and rain,
And no man loses by his gain.
And if men rise or if men fall,
The farmer, he must feed them all.

The farmer dares his mind to speak;
He has no gift or place to seek,
To no man living need he bow,
For he who walks behind the plough
Is his own man, whate'er befall.
Beggar or king, he feeds them all.

By "The Stroller."

We were talking to one of our prominent citizens the other day, and he was bemoaning the waste of time and money and space, in the newspapers, that is spent on sport. Just at the present time there is a wave of depression hanging over the whole of Canada, but were one to step into the roller skating rink on band night they would conclude there were no hard times around Lindsay. We do not know how much money the lessee took out of Lindsay over the roller skating craze, but it must have been a pretty penny. Many nights there were four hundred on the floor, and it was always 25c. It did not matter what time you went there, you would see many of the same youngsters, and knowing the family circumstances, you could not help wondering where those twenty-five cent pieces were coming from. It did not seem to be right that so much money should be pouring into that receptacle. Then there are boys and earning probably four and five dollars a week who never miss a show. Give them a stick of chewing gum and a front seat in the gallery and they are seemingly content. If they attended the best plays only, it would do them good, but it is generally those of the "shady" kind that draw the crowds and the money. Of course this is a free country, and people are supposed to do as they like with their own, but it does seem sad to see so much hard-earned cash virtually thrown away.

In the matter of sport, it would appear as if we were giving it too much attention. Even this great family paper has lost its head over it. Here is the proprietor and fighting editor, who would probably be puzzled to tell a golf brassy from a shinny, setting aside whole columns of the paper for the tittle-tattle of sport. Here are the youngsters at school so full of hockey that they can't see straight. You have either got to get your meals down town or have hockey dished up with the porridge and the pancakes. Hockey is all very well, but one would like to have at least one meal a week without it being mixed in with it. And the games and qualities of the players, and the reasons and excuses for this, that and the other thing, and the romancing of the little minds, is truly wonderful. No wonder the teachers get desperate and threaten all sorts of things if next day's lessons are not better attended to. We don't know whether the publishing of these items of news helps to sell any more papers or not—we presume it does or they would not be published so prominently.

There is one thing sure, they cannot help but crowd out good matter from the mind, that all interested in children would rather see them take up with. There are worse things than clean sport, but there ought to be some limit to the time and thought spent on it. As Longfellow puts it, "Life is real, life is earnest," and to the man or boy with a purpose to his life, sport, as a large part of it has and ought to have no place. We have listened to men, big in the business world, talk for hours over the different points of a game of golf. There are some men, and women, too, who can bring up a game of cards, or golf, or curling, that was played ages ago, and to listen to the "ifs" and "ands", that, had they happened, would have changed the whole course of the universe, is very amusing, although, to speak the truth, they get very tiresome. Have you ever run across any of them? We know a man who saw that celebrated game of ball in N. Y., where the score was 6-1 in favor of Boston, and N. Y. two out in last half of last inning, with Roger Conner at the bat, and two strikes called. He hit the third for a homer and put such spirit into his side that they never let up till they had 17. You see how a bad habit sticks?

Mr. Harry Corby, of Belleville, had the happy privilege the other day of giving his home town a library building in which the thirst of knowledge might to some extent be assuaged. About three miles out from this beautiful gift there is another building, built by the same gentleman, where stuff for another kind of thirst is made. One peculiar feature about the contents of both of these buildings is, that, if used at all, they do not assuage the thirst, but rather whet the appetite for more. The results, however, of pandering to the two thirsts are somewhat different. In the one case, if properly directed, the mind of the user is uplifted, and he sees visions and dreams dreams, and becomes of some use to himself and the world. In the other case, he becomes a curse to himself and everybody else, especially when he gets as far as seeing visions. It seems like a paradox for a distiller to build and equip a public library, and the subject would be well worthy of treatment by Gilbert and Sullivan. We can well wonder what Mr. Corby could have been thinking of, for he is a public man, having represented his county in parliament, and he must know of the fruits of his distillery — no doubt has met them, or seen them many times on the streets, and in the gaols at Belleville or elsewhere. To build a library and present it to the town, the very act being an invitation for all to use it, looks like a contradiction, for he must know that education (and all reading such as one would get in a public library is education) will show men the advisability of leaving liquor alone.

Of course, the genteel liquor man does not like the drunkard, and does not like to see him, and yet in his secluded drinking rooms he helps to make him just as much as the low-down dive keeper who doesn't care a button. In fact the man who starts the young fellow drinking, by appealing to his "manliness" and other such rot, is really the boss of the job—it is the start that is needed and necessary — the devil will attend to the rest. The would-be respectable whisky dispenser, however, would prefer that everybody should drink moderately, rather than that a few should drink immoderately; it would give tone to the business, which it has not got now, and after all, there would be more liquor drank, and that is really what the dispenser, be he pretentiously respectable or otherwise, is after. When one sits down to consider the question it appals one to think of the immense amount of liquor the few must drink to get away with the amount that is manufactured. Take Lindsay and suburbs. Take the population of 8000, and deduct women, boys, girls and infants, and there are left 1600 men. We don't think we are very far wrong in stating that 1200 of those men are teetotalers or take it so seldom that it really wouldn't count. That would leave 400 people who practically do all the drinking in Lindsay — that is, four hundred people give eight men a handsome living and help to give others behind them a still handsomer one. Those 400 people, with what comes in on the side, spend $400 a day in Lindsay on liquor. It may not always be the same 400, but until they are finally bawled out by John Barleycorn, the majority of them are the same.

We know some will think our statements overdrawn, and wonder how it is done. Well, here is an example. A man will work steadily for three or four weeks, and make $12 to $16 per week, and then go on what is vulgarly called a "toot". He will have $40 or $50 in his pocket, and it all goes in two or three days or less. We know half-a-dozen men who act thusly. The big fools do not see that they are simply working for the saloon-keeper, and thus the average of $1 a day is kept up that we spoke of. There are several anomalies in this town. One is that it hardly seems consistent for a man to advertise liquor as a beverage, and yet be down on it, and it hardly seems consistent for a teetotaler to be a silent partner in such a business, either by renting his property for a bar or store room, or any purpose that will forward the interests of such a business. We know that they are prepared to pay high prices for privileges of any kind, but the size of the fee does not make it right. The business is not uplifting in any part of it, and it is only a question of degree if we are in any ways interested.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

TRAGEDY AT LISBON

King Carlos and His Son Shot Dead While Driving.

THREE ASSASSINS KILLED

Queen Amelie Escaped Unhurt—Shielded Her Second Son Who Was Also Severely Wounded—Six Men Fired Volley From Carbines—Streets Were Thronged at the Time—Uproar In Capital.

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—King Carlos of Portugal and the Crown Prince Luiz Phillippe, were assassinated on Saturday afternoon, and the city is in a state of uproar.

The King's second son, the infant Manuel, was slightly wounded, but Queen Amelie, who strove to save the crown prince's life by throwing herself upon him, was unhurt.

A band of men, waiting at the corner of the Praco do Commercio and the Rua do Arsenal, suddenly sprang towards the open carriage, in which the royal family were driving to the palace, and leveling carbines, which they had concealed upon them, fired.

The King and crown prince, upon whom the attack was directed, were each shot three times and they lived only long enough to be carried to the marine arsenal nearby, where they expired.

Almost at the first shot the King fell back on the cushions dying, and at the same moment the crown prince was seen to half rise and then sink back on the seat.

Queen Amelie jumped up and threw herself toward the crown prince in an apparent effort to save his life at the cost of her own, but the prince already had received his death wound.

The police guard fired upon the assassins and killed two of them. A third committed suicide.

Spot Well Chosen

The royal family were returning from Villa Vicosa, where they had been sojourning, and were on their way from the railroad station to the palace.

A strong guard was in attendance because of the recent uprising in the city and the discovery of a plot to assassinate Premier Franco and overthrow the monarchy.

But the band of murderers had selected the most advantageous spot for the commission of their deed, where they were concealed from the eyes of the police until the carriage had wheeled into the Praco do Commercio, a large square.

Before any of the guard were aware of what was happening, the assassins leaped towards the carriage, and instantly a fusilade of shots rang out. In a moment all was terrible confusion, the King and crown prince being shot down without the slightest chance to save themselves.

Police guards sprang upon the regicides, the number of whom is somewhat uncertain, and killed three of them and captured three others.

The bodies of the King and crown prince were removed from the marine arsenal in two closed carriages to the royal palace, the Praco das Necessidades, the late residence of the King, and escorted by municipal guards, mounted.

City Panic-Stricken.

The news of the assassination swept through the city like fire through dry grass, and by night half of the populace was panic-stricken, not knowing where the next blow might fall.

There is the greatest dread for the future of the country, which seems on the verge of being plunged into the awful throes of a revolution, with all the attendant horrors and bloodshed.

Throughout the city consternation reigns, and all the houses and business places are barricaded.

An examination of the wounds of the King, who was already dead when he reached the arsenal, showed that three bullets had found their mark. One wound was situated at the nape of the neck, a second in the shoulder, and the third which was the fatal wound, severed the carotid artery.

The crown prince, who was still breathing, but who died almost immediately after admission to the arsenal, had suffered three wounds, in the head and chest.

Two bullets struck Prince Manuel, one on the lower jaw and the other in the arm.

Queen Maria Pia, the mother of King Carlos; the Duke of Oporto, his brother; a number of the Ministers and court officials hastened at once to the arsenal, when the news reached them of the attack upon the royal family.

Route Had Been Published.

The details of the murders show that they were cunningly arranged. The fact that the royal family were returning from Villa Vicosa had been made public in advance, and the authorities had arranged what they considered an effective guard along the route which the royal carriage was to take.

The trip from Villa Vicosa was without incident. The King and his family returned at the end of a day of the greatest excitement to the city on account of the wholesale arrests and the continual discovery of new depots of arms and bombs. A great throng were grouped about the Barriere Station and in the neighboring streets when the members of the royal family disembarked, for the purpose of driving across the Tagus in reaching the actual limits of Lisbon.

The court carriers awaited them before the landing stage, and the King and Queen and the two princes entered the leading carriage, which started immediately, wheeling into the Praco do Commercio.

The Assassination.

Suddenly the sharp crack of a carbine startled the assemblage. Then the air was filled with a succession of sharp reports, and the King was seen to jump up and reach for his throat, then drop back on the cushions.

The crown prince almost simultaneously was seen to collapse and fall towards the side of the carriage, while the Queen, driven to frenzy, was seeking to save the crown prince and the infant Manuel by shielding them with her body.

A great hush fell on the crowd, which for the moment did not comprehend that a swift tragedy had befallen the nation. Then loud cries of anger burst forth, interrupted with the shrieks of women and screams of frightened children, and the commotion and the roar of the populace suddenly thrown into rage and fear.

Waiting for the royal carriage, the group of men had quietly awaited the approach. Then, at an uttered word from one of them, they swiftly drew back their cloaks across their shoulders and raised the carbines, which the cloaks had concealed, and quickly fired in the direction of the royal carriage.

It seemed as though a score of shots were fired, and all in an instant, and before the startled onlookers could move, the men had turned and were madly fighting their way through the crowd in an endeavor to reach open space and make their escape.

Meanwhile an unhappy scene was in progress at the royal carriage, where King Carlos lay dead, the prince unconscious and breathing his last, and the infant Manuel, with blood streaming from his mouth, leaning over the bodies of his father and his dying brother.

The Queen, who had miraculously escaped unhurt from the veritable raid of bullets, was kneeling beside her husband and son. The excitement in the vicinity of the tragedy threatened to become serious, and the soldiers quickly surrounded the carriage, which was driven to the marine arsenal, nearby.

The King and crown prince were tenderly carried into the building, where a surgeon, one of the spectators, hastily did everything possible to save their lives. But his efforts were without avail. The King was dead and the prince expired within a few moments.

Murderers Slain.

Francesso Figuera, an orderly who was walking near the royal carriage at the time of the outrage, drew his revolver and killed one of the regicides, and the police sprang at the others. They turned rapidly and fled, the police pursuing them and killing one of them near the town hall.

Both bodies were carried into the town hall, but have not yet been identified. It is believed, however, that one of the men is a Spaniard and the other a Frenchman. The weapons that they used were repeating carbines of five chambers.

Carlos, I. was born Sept. 23, 1863, the son of King Luiz I., and his Queen Maria Pia. He married Marie Amelia, daughter of Philippe, Duc d' Orleans, on May 23, 1886. He succeeded to the throne Oct. 19, 1899.

The crown prince, Luiz Philippe, Duke of Braganza, was born March 21, 1887.

$10,000 Fire In Montreal.

Montreal, Feb. 3.—A small fire in the rear of the Sisters of Providence, St. Catherine street, where several hundred old people are housed, caused a good deal of excitement yesterday. The inmates were removed, however, without any trouble, after which the fire was gotten under control, the damage reaching $10,000.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Basketball.

On Saturday night the handicap game between the Juniors and Intermediates was played in the Y. M. C. A. gym. Only four intermediates showed up, so they played four men to five, besides the 20 point handicap. The score at the end stood 52-24 in favor of the Intermediates. The next victims of the Intermedites will likely be Mr. Thompson's crack senior five.

KING EDWARD A SPORT

Referring to the whole-souled manner in which King Edward enjoys racing, E. H. Cooper, an English sporting writer, says that there is no race course in all England where the King is so much at home as he is at Newmarket. He lives entirely at ease there, and without ceremony. From his rooms at the Jockey Club he drives out at the usual early morning hour to see the gallops. With two or three friends, he drives up to the race course just before the first race, walks about freely, chatting with an endless list of friends. He is often seen in deep conversation with Richard Marsh, who trains his horses, or with Richard Jones, who rides for him. His costume is usually at Newmarket a brown morning suit, and brown bowler hat.

Hockey.

DOWN TO THE SEMI-FINALS

Preston and Seaforth will play off for the championship of intermediate group No. 6 O. H. A., at Seaforth, Tuesday, and at Preston Thursday, goals on the round to count.

Midland and Sudbury play a sudden-death intermediate game at North Bay this week in the second round.

Midland Juniors and Victoria Harbor Juniors aer tied for group No. 8 honors. They will play home-and-home games to-night and Wednesday.

Picton and Port Hope, who are a tie in group No. 2, will play a sudden-death game in Belleville to-night.

Lindsay Intermediates and Gravenhurst juniors are winners in their respective groups. Gravenhurst will play off with Barrie, home-and-home games, in the second round; Lindsay will play Brockville, champions in Group 1, in the St. Lawrence town to-morrow evening, and the return match will be played here next Friday evening.

If Port Perry beats Toronto Rowing Club in Toronto to-night, the district championship of group No. 3 will go there; if the Port loses, there will be a tie with Uxbridge.

Hamilton has won the honors of group No. 10 from the Toronto A. A. C., and St. Catharines landed their district by winning Friday night's game at home.

HO! FOR BROCKVILLE

The line-up for to-morrow night's Intermediate hockey game at Brockville will be;

Goal—Newton.
Point—Koyl.
Centre—Taylor.
Rover—Stoddard.
Spare—Lane.

The boys leave at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, and arrive in Brockville about 2 or 3 in the afternoon. Arrangements have been made so that they can get the rink in Brookville for an hour or two during the afternoon to have a work-out and get used to the ice. They have been practising for over a week, in preparation for the game and are now considered a great deal stronger than when they played Peterboro. Their combination is greatly improved, and they work together more as a team. Everyone is looking for them to give a good account of themselves. The return game here Friday next will be a "sizzler."

ALAS! POOR PETER!

Friday night the Cobourg seven visited Peterborough and put it over the Strathconas to the tune of 5-3. The game is described as a listless one, and the spectators got little excitement for their money. McWilliams was Peterborough's star performer.

KILLED IN HOCKEY GAME

Winnipeg., Jan. 31.—Robert Gem... prominent young farmer of ...ke., was kliled yesterday afternoon in a hockey match at Tuxford between the Moosejaw and Hanley teams at Moosejaw. In a skirmish Gemmell fell on the heel of another player's skate, which pierced his left groin. He died in less than an hour. Gemmell was 25 years of age and unmarried. He was a prominent football player and athlete.

Collingwood captured their district Friday evening by defeating Alliston 11-4. Alliston rooters to the number of 200 witnessed the downfall of their heroes.

The Stratford Indians are champions of their district, not having lost a game. Woodstock gave them their final victory, the score being 14-6.

Curling.

THE TANKARD FINALS

The two Tankard rinks will leave for the city to-night in order to be on hand bright and early to-morrow morning in case they are included in the first draw, which will be made to-night at the Granite Rink.

There are eight clubs in the competition, making 16 rinks in all. This will necessitate three games to decide the ownership of the Tankard banner.

The runners-up—the rinks defeated by the winners of each group in the final game in the Primaries — will also assemble in Toronto to-morrow to play off for the Governor-General's Cup. This competition will likewise embrace 16 rinks if all turn out.

Our citizens and a hosts of friends all over the district will join us in wishing success to the Lindsay Tankard rinks.

The Tankard rinks comprise, W. E. Reesor, M. H. Sisson, J. D. Flavelle, Geo. A. Little, skip; R. P. Butler, T. Burke, W. McLennan, L. V. O'Connor, skip.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

TORONTO BALL FRANCHISE.

It will be disappointing news to many to hear that Toronto Ball Club franchise has been disposed of to Montreal. President J. J. McCaffery is arranging the settlement. He says that the trouble was not to get a company, but to pick out from the many offering. The financial men will number likely five, and certainly not more than fifteen, with a capitalization of $25,000, paid up only as much as they need.

FAN'S DREARY SEASON

The length of time is but a span,
But winter's long to a baseball fan.
—Chicago Journal.

The golfing girl, the golfing girl,
Queer are her ways and tricks;
And chappies are her "sticks."

The athletic life of a weight thrower greatly outlasts that of a runner. Men like John Flanagan, Martin and Dick Sheridan, Dennis Hargin, Dick Sheldon, Alfred Plaw and J. S. Mitchell were good a decade ago, and all look to be able to go along the same clip for five more years. But what of the runners who were topnotchers a decade ago? What has become of A. C. Bowen, George Orton, Alex. Grant, G. O. Jarvis, W. F. Schutt, W. F. Schutt, Johnnie Cregan, and Dick Grant—the boys who were famous as runners six or eight years ago? Their "athletic life" is over, while the big weight throwers are still in their prime, after six or eight years' campaigning.

How it Happened.

They met the old cow all forlorn
And asked how she got her crumpled horn;
"I crossed the road," the old cow said,
"And an auto collided with my head."

Appeal to Railway Commission.

A writer in the Bracebridge Gazette says; "As I was coming along towards Washago on yesterday afternoon's train I noticed a fellow-passenger looking somewhat uneasy. As soon as the train stopped he jumped off and ran like an Indian across the field towards the C. N. O. station where the train for Parry Sound was standing. When within a few rods of the train it pulled out and left him in the field to wait until the next day for a train. The G. T. R. was practically on time, yet because these two roads do not seem to work in conjunction passengers sometimes lose 24 hours at this crossing. Surely some power should take hold of such childish doings among railways and compel them to so arrange their time tables as to accommodate those whose money they take. No two stations in one village should ever be tolerated.

COMMUNICATIONS

A MISAPPREHENSION CORRECTED.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to correct an impression given to the public through your report of the County Council meeting Saturday last, in reference to the county bridges.

From the printed report, one is led to believe that the deputation from the Board of Trade interviewed the County Council without consulting with the town's representatives, namely, the Mayor and the Council of Lindsay. Now, sir, this impression is decidedly incorrect. The deputation, which waited on the County Council, first met with Mayor Begg, consulted on the matter, and accompanied him and Alderman Smale at their request, according to the appointment made by the Mayor with the Finance committee for three o'clock Friday afternoon.

The addresses, made by Messrs. Graham and Stewart, were most reasonable and businesslike, and along exactly the same line as the address of Alderman Smale, who was the town's representative.

The deputation from the Board of Trade appeared for the purpose of upholding the hands of the Mayor an dsupporting the request which was made by the representatives of the town of Lindsay. Anyone who is familiar with the workings of the Board of Trade will know that it has not been their policy to interfere with any action taken by the representatives of the people along right lines, but they have always shown a willingness to support any measure which has been advanced in the interests of Lindsay, when asked to do so, as they were in this instance by the Mayor of the town.—Yours truly,

W. B. SPARLING,
President Board of Trade.

No Punishment For Negligence

Men Think Prosecution Should Only Follow Wilful Breaking of Rules.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—The prosecutions and convictions which are taking place as the consequence of railway accidents which involve loss of life was the occasion of a delegation of railway men meeting the prime minister and the minister of labor on Friday.

The members of the delegation came from various parts of Canada and represented all operating branches of the railway service. Their cause was presented to Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Lemieux by Messrs. Harvey Hall and George Ward, of the Firemen's organization.

They asked for an amendment of the penalty section of the railway act under which the prosecutions were being pressed.

The section declares that "every officer or sevrant of any company and every person employed by the railway company who wilfully or negligently violates any by-law, rule or regulation of the company or order or notice of the Minister of Railways or the Board of Railway Commissioners, if such violation causes injury to any person or property, is guilty of an offence and shall in the discretion of the court be punished by fine or imprisonment or both.

The representatives of the men claimed that the section was too severe and was causing them to be unjustly dealt with in many cases. They asked that the words "or negligently" be dropped from the act and that they be left liable to punishment only for wilfully disobeying orders.

Sir Wilfrid, in reply, promised the consideration of the government to the request, but did not hold much promise to the delegation that the request would be granted. He pointed out that the safety of the traveling public and of the trainmen themselves required careful protection under the law. He admitted that the railway men had some grievance and promised to see if it could not be remedied without removing the element of protection which the law provides at the present time.

Melancholy Days.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

FORTY MILLIONS REQUIRED

Mr. Pringle Brings Subject Before the House of Commons—Motion In Favor of I. C. R. Extension—Supplementary Estimates Make Provision For Three Millions Relief For Farmers In West.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Supplementary estimates were laid on the table yesterday afternoon by Finance Minister Fielding, amounting to nearly three million dollars, for the assistance of the farmers of Alberta and Saskatchewan, whose crops were damaged or destroyed by the early frosts of last fall. In the first place the Government proposes to purchase seed grain and distribute it among the homestead settlers of the two provinces, the cost to be repaid by them at 5 per cent. Then the Government will lend each of the two Provincial Governments sums for the purchase of seed grain for settlers whose patents have been taken out. The amounts are as follows:

To provide an amount to purchase seed grain for homestead settlers in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the cost of said seed grain to be repaid by the settlers, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, and until repayment, to be a lien or charge upon the lands of the settlers held under homestead entry, $585,000.

To provide an amount to enable the Government of Canada to advance to the Government of Alberta by way of loan a sum for the purchase of seed grain for settlers, $440,000.

To provide an amount to enable the Government of Canada to advance to the Government of Saskatchewan by way of loan for the purchase of seed grain for settlers, $1,825,000. A total of $2,850,000.

Sir Wilfrid also told Mr. McCarthy that the Government had taken action to secure compensation from the United States for the seizure of the steamer Coquitlam. The Supreme Court of the United States declared the seizure illegal. "The Government has been and is continuing to press for settlement of all outstanding claims against the United States Government," said the Premier.

Mr. Marshall (Elgin) asked if the Government intended spending any money on Port Bruce harbor. Mr. Pugsley replied that $855 was placed in the estimates for that work.

Mr. Oliver told Mr. Marshall that the Government had no information on the subject of Gen. Booth's alleged statement that he had "wired the Government of Canada and had received a reply to the effect that of the 20,000 immigrants sent out by the army during the last two or three years, a hundred could not be found who were out of employment."

Mr. Bennett Attacks Globe.

Rising to a question of privilege, Mr. Bennett (Simcoe) complained of an editorial paragraph in The Globe, which charged that he (Bennett), in the public accounts committee the other day, had brought up the question of Matchedash and Penetanguishene dredging contracts "to get level" with Hon. A. G. MacKay, a political opponent. The paragraph went on to give an account of what transpired in the committee, which was absolutely devoid of truth.

Mr. Bennett congratulated "the petty paragrapher" on being able to "meet the wishes of the grafters who own The Globe." The account of the proceedings of the committee, on another page of the same paper, however, was written, said Mr. Bennett, by "a gentleman."

Mr. Foster asked the Minister of Public Works if the plans of the new departmental building would be laid before the House before the discussion on the proposed Grand Trunk hotel.

Mr. Pugsley replied that, though a prize was awarded for the best plans, the Government was not obliged to accept them.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier accepted a resolution of R. A. Pringle (Con., Stormont), asking for the appointment of a select committee of nine to consider a scheme of state aid for making provision for the aged and deserving poor.

Mr. Pringle referred to the several committees and the commission which had looked into the old age pension scheme in Great Britain, pointing out that it was the committee of Mr. Chaplin, which had evolved the scheme which was now regarded as the only practical proposal. In New Zealand the scheme of old age pensions had given every satisfaction, thanks to the efforts of Premier Seddon. Canada could well afford a pension scheme. He did not believe in the universal scheme, which provided that every man at the age of 65 should be pensioned, but rather in Chaplin's scheme, which proposed the pensioning of every British male subject of 60 years of age or over on from 5 to 7 shillings a week, provided the person to be pensioned had never been sentenced to prison without the option of a fine, had not received poor relief and was not in receipt of an income of 10 shillings a week and providing also that he could prove that he had made an honest effort to provide for his old age.

Mr. Pringle Congratulated.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier congratulated Mr. Pringle upon his persistency and upon the manner in which he had brought the subject to the attention of the House. He did not think a better presentment could have been made. The Government accepted the resolution. It was not convinced, but would approach the subject with another mind. Whatever view might be expressed Sir Wilfrid was of the opinion that the assistance suggested should not be given as a matter of charity, but as compensation. He did not favor pensions for millionaires, although the member for Nanaimo (Mr. Smith) did not think there should be any discrimination, and his views were entitled to respect. What Sir Wilfrid thought was that the law should come to the rescue of those persons who were not able to provide for their old age. Under present conditions it would be impossible for many to contribute a portion of their wages.

The view that there should be no contributions was wrong, as in Sir Wilfrid's opinion this would lead to slovenliness.

An Enquiry Granted.

Sir Wilfrid concluded by granting the enquiry. The Government in so doing was not committing itself to any scheme of old age pensions.

Mr. Lefurgey (Con., P. E. I.) also supported the pension scheme. Finance Minister Fielding, in closing the discussion, said it should be remembered that there are 270,000 people in Canada over 65 years of age. At $3 a week each the pension fund would amount to forty millions a year, which was two-thirds of the taxation at the present time. The resolution was adopted.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson spoke to the House last night, when he urged the extension of the Intercolonial Railway by the acquisition of branch lines that would serve as feeders, and the construction of the main line to industrial centres in Ontario and the West.

Mr. Emmerson said he admired the splendid optimism of Sir Charles Tupper, who had a prophetic vision of what the I. C. R. should be. "God hates a coward," cried Mr. Emmerson in a burst of enthusiasm. The Government should have courage to go forward. "We are here as leaders, not as time-servers and opportunists," the ex-Minister said.

Mr. Emmerson's Resolution.

He closed by moving this resolution:

"That in the opinion of this House it is desirable in furtherance of the transportation interests of this Dominion, that the sphere of influence of the Intercolonial Railway as a Government-operated railway should be widened and extended by securing by lease or otherwise such of the branch lines of railways now connecting with the Intercolonial, as will serve as direct and profitable feeders to the traffic of the said railway, and by providing for the extension of the Government operation of said railway to industrial "centres of Western Canada, and to a point or points on the great lakes of Canada."

CREW FOUGHT FOR LIFE.

Brig Aquila Torn to Pieces by Series of Gales.

Georgetown, P.E.I., Feb. 4.—Capt. Basil Kelly of Summerside and three members of the crew of the shipwrecked brig Aquila arrived at their island homes yesterday from Naples.

The Aquila, lumber laden, left Shelburne, Nov. 30, for New York. She encountered a series of terrific gales one of which sent the Mount Temple on the rocks, and for a week was at the mercy of the winter seas. For five days the crew were exposed to terrible hardships, suffering from cold and hunger. The vessel sprung a leak, the sails were blown to pieces and she became a complete wreck and waterlogged. The crew only wanted a favorable opportunity to abandon her. She was then 300 miles southeast of New York, being driven to eastward.

Two steamers passed by without responding to their signals of distress. On Dec. 8, the Italia, from New York to Naples, picked them up, taking them to the latter port. One of the men, exhausted by incessant labor at the pumps and exposure, became violently insane, but subsequently recovered. They sailed from Naples to London, thence to Halifax, arriving there on Friday last.

Old Electrician Shocked to Death.

Buffalo, Feb. 4.—Josiah Davis, said to be a brother of State Electrician Davis, was electrocuted last night at the top of a 35-foot electric light pole, where he had climbed to adjust a lamp.

Davis had worked in the electrical business in Buffalo for 30 years and strung the first telephone wires in the city in 1876.

C. P. R. Warehouse Gutted at Montreal—100,000 Bags of Flour Destroyed—Loss Amounts to $150,000—Lime Causes Blaze In Sawmills at St. John, N. B.—Cleveland Plain Dealer Burned Out.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 4.—News just arrived in this city by wireless that the British steamer St. Cuthbert from Liverpool, Eng., for New York, is afire off Yarmouth, N.S. No particulars.

Later—Wireless says St. Cuthbert is burning off Cape Sable. Fifteen of the crew jumped overboard and were drowned. Thirty-five stayed on board and were rescued by White Star Liner Cymric, passing vicinity at the time.

Montreal, Feb. 4.—Damage variously estimated up to $150,000 was caused yesterday by a fire which broke out in the Molson warehouse half an hour after noon. The portion in which the fire originated is that used as the Canadian Pacific Railway storage, in which was contained flour, the property of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. and the Oliver Milling Co.

In the portion of the building destroyed by fire there were stored 100,000 bags of flour, and it is estimated that the greater part, if, indeed, not all, will be a total loss, being either burned or wet to such an extent as being beyond all hope of salvage.

The burned portion is rather more than a third of the whole block, and the approximate loss is $25,000.

The buildings are more than a hundred years old, and were built by John H. R. Molson. The whole is covered by insurance.

High Tide Causes Fire.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 4.—The large sawmill in course of erection and nearly completed, at Jacquet River bridge, Gloucester County, was completely destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon. The fire is thought to have originated from the high tide getting into a large quantity of lime in the basement. The mill was the property of the Lawson Lumber Company. The loss is heavy.

Plain Dealer Burned Out.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 4.—Fire yesterday destroyed the plant of The Plain Dealer Publishing Company, entailing a loss of nearly half a million. A fierce gale which was blowing swept the flames eastward, and for a time the city hall building was threatened. The fire burned all the afternoon and by nightfall was under control.

The fire started at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, supposedly from crossed electric wires. Although the firemen were early on the scene, the flames spread with great rapidity. In the early part of the afternoon the floors fell, carrying with them twenty-two linotype machines and other valuable machinery.

The Leader, News and Press made offers of assistance, and last night The Plain Dealer was published, partly from The Leader building.

Fatal Boiler Explosions.

Monaca, Pa., Feb. 4.—Three foreigners were killed and six others seriously injured yesterday when the boilers in the Welch Brick Plant exploded. It is supposed frozen water pipes caused the accident.

Sunbury, Pa., Feb. 4.—Seven men were killed and a half dozen injured yesterday by the explosion of a boiler in the rolling mill of Van Allen & Co., at Northumberland, near here.

The mill had been closed for three months.

Eloped With Widow.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—Charles Frank, a well-known Berlin workman with a wife and family of little children, was arrested at Port Huron on Sunday along with Mrs. F. Potter, a widow, who has lived here many years. Her husband died a year or more ago. Mrs. Frank has laid a charge of wife desertion against her husband, and he will be brought back for trial.

Farmer Lay Down to Die.

Belleville, Feb. 4.—Frances Weese of Consecon started to cross the bay from Trenton to Prince Edward and was caught in the big storm in the middle of the bay.

Yesterday morning one of his horses turned up at home, and a rescuing party found Weese wrapped in robes under the sleigh in the centre of the bay. He was badly frozen and may die.

EAT ORANGES

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP WELL

Careful tests have proved beyond question that orange juice has clearly defined medicinal virtues. Those who suffer with Indigestion—are compelled "to diet"—find that after eating oranges regularly for breakfast there is no distress, no palpitation.

Where there was a tendency towards constipation, the eating of oranges regulated the bowels.

In skin troubles, those who began the morning meal with an orange were noticeably improved.

There is, however, a quicker way to get better results. This is to take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets at bedtime in addition to the juice of an orange before breakfast the next morning. "Fruit-a-tive" are the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes, in which the medicinal action is many times intensified by the special way of combining them. Valuable tonics are then added.

Take the juice of an orange before breakfast—take "Fruit-a-tives" at night—and you will quickly be rid of Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Constipation and Biliousness. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price by "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

NEW KING POPULAR

Premier Franco, the Dictator, Has Been Removed.

COALITION CABINET FORMED

Youthful Monarch Places Himself In the Hands of His Ministers—Lisbon Comparatively Quiet — British Cruiser Sails For Capital—Queen Amelie Bears Up Well — No Further Disorders Reported.

Lisbon, Feb. 4.—Portugal yesterday saw the establishment of a new regime. Premier Franco has resigned office, and within 48 hours of the assassination of King Carlos his dictatorship is at an end, at least for the present. Franco resigned for fear that his continuance in office would plunge the country into rebellion.

A new Cabinet has been formed under the presidency of Rear-Admiral Do Amaral, a member of the Progressive-Dissident party. Some of the new Ministers have been notably opposed to the rule of Franco, but on the whole the present Cabinet is Liberal, with monarchical tendencies.

The opening session of the new council was held yesterday, and King Manuel II. placed himself in the hands of his Ministers. He appeared before them and in a voice shaking with emotion said:

"I am without experience either in science or politics. I place myself entirely in your hands, needing and believing in your patriotism and wisdom."

Arrests are being made by the wholesale in Lisbon and all suspicious persons at liberty are under police surveillance.

Up to last evening there had been no recurrence of disorders. The Portuguese frontier is being closely guarded to prevent the escape of suspects.

The city is still in the throes of intense excitement and the authorities continue to follow unceasingly the details of the plot which culminated in the assassination of the King and heir.

It was established yesterday that Buice, one of the regicides, is a widower, with a daughter aged 7 and a son only a few months old.

The newspaper Noticias says one of the regicides who was killed was a Spaniard who was taken into custody recently in connection with the discovery of a depot of bombs, but was later released.

One of the men now under arrest is an Italian who played in the orchestra of a theatre in Lisbon. This man is in extreme condition of hysteria. His food in the prison is served him without knives or forks for fear that he will kill himself.

The principal regicide killed has been identified as Manuel Bulea, a sergeant in the Seventh Cavalry and a private tutor in this city. He is about 30 years old. The two other assassins who were killed are believed to be Portuguese.

London, Feb. 4.—It has been rumored for some time past that Great Britain proposed to interfere to restore quiet in Portugal. As a friend of Portugal, Great Britain has been using her moral influence to end the unsettled state of affairs in that country, and will continue to do so, but as for any interference in the internal affairs of Portugal, that is out of the question.

The Foreign Office has confidence that Portugal herself will be able to restore order. The British Atlantic fleet, which is now at Vigo, was to have visited Lisbon this week. To avoid the appearance that the British Government is attempting to interfere in Portuguese politics, only the British flagship, the battleship Exmouth, with Vice-Admiral Sir Ashton G. Curzon-Rowe on board, and one cruiser will go to the Tagus.

The tragedy had a depressing effect upon several national securities. Spanish and Russian shares weakening as well as Portuguese. Portuguese 3 per cents., which were quoted Saturday at 63, slumped yesterday to 60.

Madrid, Feb. 4.—The despatch of a cruiser to Lisbon is explained by the statement that the warship is to be put at the disposition of the Spanish Minister.

The Lisbon correspondent of The Imparcial says that when the Dowager Maria Pia arrived at the arsenal the doctors were bathing the faces of the King and the crown prince. The Queen threw herself upon the body of her son, the King, and the doctors were obliged to remove her by force. When the Queen arose her robe was crimsoned with blood; then she swooned.

All travelers crossing the Portuguese frontier are being subjected to a rigorous examination.

On the evening of the assassination no bugles were sounded in the barracks of Lisbon, for fear that their notes would be taken as a signal that the Government had been overthrown.

Advices received here from Hueleva say that Portuguese families are taking refuge in great numbers on the islands of Christina and Ayamonte, a Spanish town on the Portuguese frontier.

Deliberately Planned.

The investigations of the police show that the murders were carefully planned. On Saturday the assassins met secretly in the back room of a cafe and there laid out every step of the plot which they were enabled to do, as all the details relating to the home-coming of the King had been made public. To each was assigned a post in the work of shooting down the members of the royal family, but lots were drawn for the selection of each particular victim. Those who drew Queen Amelie and Prince Manuel failed to carry out their bloody task.

The chamber in the palace where repose the bodies of King Carlos and the crown prince has been draped in mourning and arranged to represent a chapel. The biers are surrounded by lighted candles, and Queen Amelie, widow of the King and the Dowager Queen Maria Pia, his mother, watch continually at the side of their dead.

The body of the King is clad in the uniform of the commander of the army, while the prince wears a uniform of a captain of the Second Lancers. Several masses for the repose of the souls of the departed have been said in the mortuary chamber.

Funerals on Saturday.

The funerals will be held Feb. 8, and the bodies will lie in state probably beginning to-day. It is expected that the funerals will be attended by the Prince of Wales, Prince Charles of Bourbon, the Duke of Aosta, the cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, a special French embassy, and detachments of the foreign regiments of which the late King was honorary colonel. The condition of Queen Amelie, contrary to rumors, is relatively good.

PEER URGES OPPOSITION.

Government Will Not Re-Introduce Irish Councils Bill.

London Feb. 4.—All doubt that the Government is planning the introduction looking to Home Rule for Ireland in the present session of Parliament was set at rest yesterday when Herbert H. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared on behalf of the Premier that the Government had no intention of re-introducing the Irish Council Bill.

The Earl of Dudley, Conservative, who was Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland in Mr. Balfour's Ministry, 1902-05, created somewhat of a sensation among the Unionist benches of the House of Lords this evening by disassociating himself entirely with the policy of coercion in Ireland. He advocated opposition. The leaders of the present Liberal Government, the Earl of Dudley said, were not going far enough in their conciliatory methods to please him. The policy of coercion cut at the root of all true union between England and Ireland; it would mean war to the knife, and in the long run it would make the Government of Ireland impossible.

The only real solution of the Irish question, the speaker continued, was to be found in the prompt and consistent remedying of the admitted grievances, and such a policy would gain the adherence and support of a majority of the people. At the conclusion of his remarks the Earl of Dudley was cheered heartily by the supporters of the Government.

Referring to the same subject in the House of Commons, Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, refused definitely to put the Crimes Act into operation. He said he loathed boycotting, but, believing the disturbances in Ireland to be due to removable causes, the Government proposed to continue its policy of trying to gain the good will of the Irish people. The reason of the cattle raiding and other crimes was disappointed hopes, Mr. Birrell said, and he expressed the opinion that there never would be peace and contentment in Ireland until the untenanted lands had been divided among the people. The Government wanted compulsory powers to break up the untenanted lands, and as a matter of fact the landlords were tumbling over each other in their desire to sell, but they were holding out for unreasonably high prices.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retorversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

in those heavy irons. Accordingly he retained the letter a little longer before handing it to Tom, with a mocking bow.

"We won't, won't we?" he sneered. "Well, as it 'appens, we won't, for more of that rot I couldn't read if I was paid. But you look out, my special! If you've come 'ere to give yourself airs, we'll soon learn ye. It's lucky for you I'm in such a good temper or you'd have gone off this table a bit different, you blighted young upstart!"

Tom had in fact taken his chains in his hands and jumped off. It was when he was on the ground, with his back turned, that the direct abuse was hurled. Others sided with the speaker and added their maledictions to his, yet the group about Butter (for so the poor lad was called) dispersed at Tom's approach, and he returned the letter to its writer with a look that might have made his guardian angel dry her tears, for after many days there was kindness in his eyes once more.

"Here, Butter," he said; "take it, and for God's sake not a word! You're a better man than I am or you wouldn't have written at all. There, shut up! Gratitude, forsooth! If you must show some, don't set me thinking."

But the lad's emotions were aroused too thoroughly to be soon allayed. They had the corner now to themselves, and he was crying like a girl. Tom envied him his tears.

"Read it through," sobbed the young fellow, forcing the torn letter upon his champion, and to please him Tom perused it from beginning to end.

Awhile ago it would have made him laugh and cry; now he read it unmoved save by his own indifference. It contained a touching lie, describing the writer as being still very happy with the master who months since had sent him to the iron gang. The rest was a wondrous jumble—"and I inform you that snaiks is very bad in this country. We ofttimes see them fourteen to fifteen feet long. Parrots is as thick as crows in your country, kangaroos, too, and it is night here when it is day there, but Arthur Smith, I do not know where he is. Mutton is 4d. lb., beef"—But he had written no farther, and Tom said: "Thank you, Butter. It should make them happy," as he returned the letter. He felt that he ought to be touched, and he was not. His heart seemed turned to stone when suddenly he felt it quicken.

The lad had simply said, "My name isn't Butter; it's Butterfield."

"A Yorkshireman? You talk like one!" cried Tom, with a most painful flash of memory. Once more he was a lucky, hopeful, penitent sinner in a sweet smelling wagon on a night in spring, with Blaydes' watch ticking no warning in his pocket and with a vivid mental picture of Blaydes himself smiling wistfully across the stile, beside which he was even then lying dead.

"Aye," said young Butterfield, "poor old Yorkshire! I doubt I'll ever see it again. My folks have left there an' all."

Tom had more flashes. He was getting used to them now.

"Where did they move to?"

"A little place they call Hendon, an' it was me that drove 'em there by getting into trouble! Oh, it was me disgraced them all and drove them away!"

Tom let him talk, but said little more in return. It was Jonathan Butterfield's son. How it brought all that back to him! True, it was not a year ago, but it seemed a lifetime. It was terrible to think of the little time and the stupendous change. Tom Erichsen saw himself as he had been and as he was, and the mental vision hurt him more than the material one which the stockade barber had shown him in a glass. He could not tell Butterfield that he had known his father. Nothing was to be gained by telling him. It would lead to his telling more, and how could he speak of things of which the mere thought was become torture so refined and so exquisite?

His eighteen inches were a very rack that night. He was thinking of Claire for the first time in many weeks. She would hold him guilty still. How could she do otherwise? His sweet friend held him guilty when he was innocent, and his enemy, the major, held him innocent when guilty. Oh, the irony, the bitter irony, that had made a worse man of him when he was bad enough already! All the foul night he lay tossing in his noisy chains. His wild eyes were never closed. Yet once the thought stole over him, had he been worthy of Claire when she loved him would all this ever have been? And after that he lay quieter—his heart knew why.

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE redhot summer cooled gradually into lukewarm winter, with chilly nights, but the same fierce glare all day, and several men had had their chains struck off, and four had died in them since Tom first felt the weight of his, but the vacant spaces on the shelves were never vacant very long. Those eighty suits of fetters were in continual use. And still the dual work went on of chiseling the great road to a given level and of degrading each newcomer to that of the worst man there before him, for there was no leveling up in these iron gangs, wherein mutual converse bred mutual debasement until best and worst found common ground on the very bedrock of human infamy.

Tom for one, however, still stood out among the worst, and there was another newcomer whom the gang had nothing to teach either of misery or of wickedness. Indeed, he laughed at the one and greatly increased the other.

This was an ancient felon known only as the First Fleeter—a wizened page of dreadful history, with not a tooth in his head and but the one redeeming trait of incessant cheerfulness. He had arrived with the first fleet in 1788. He had sinned and suffered through those unspeakable early years until the sense of suffering became as dead as the moral sense, and not a vestige of either remained to him now. But he would recount his crimes with grinning gums and gloat over unforgotten agonies until there was a writhing man on every ledge but his own. He lay above Tom, who would listen to him by the hour.

According to his own account, there was literally nothing this old man had not done or been done to in the early days. He was cannibal, murderer and worse, and his only regrets were for neglected chances of additional crimes. But his spirits never deserted him, and for a cruel man he was singularly good natured. He had weak and cunning eyes, a perfectly bald head, displaying every criminal cavity and protuberance, and a million wrinkles which, like his mumbling gums, were never still. Yet it was better to hear his wicked laughter than the clanking irons of men who neither slept nor spoke, and the evils endured by the major's iron gang, which the First Fleeter poohpoohed with a quaint superiority, did seem less intolerable after one of his yarns.

"Bad rations?" he would croak when the salt meat was rancid or the fresh meat strong. "Tell 'ee, there's none on you knows what bad rations is. You should ha' been at Toongabbie forty year ago. We never had no rations at all except when a ship come into harbor. Toongabbie would ha' learned ye! Many's the time I've dragged timber all day, twenty or thirty on us yoked to the one tree like bullocks, and dined off of pounded grass and soup from a native dog. And glad to get it, tell 'ee. We wasn't pampered and spoilt like you blokes—not at Toongabbie!"

Or perhaps some wretch was groaning from the scourger's lash. The First Fleeter waxed especially eloquent on all such occasions.

"Call that a flogging?" he would quaver from his ledge. "One little fifty? If we'd had you at Toongabbie you'd know what flogging was. Five, six an' even eight bloomin' hundred I've given an' took. What do you think of that? There was no flies about them floggings, I tell 'ee; no, an' there was no flies about the hangings either. I've seen a man took an' strung up on the spot for prigging a handful of weevilly biscuits, I have. An' all the time we was dyin' by dozens of the bad food an' the 'ard graft in the 'ot sun. Lord, how we did die! There was a big hole dug; we collected 'em every day an' pitched 'em in. I mind seeing one man pitched in before the breath was out of 'im. 'I ain't dead,' he says. 'You will be by sundown,' says the overseer, 'an' do you think we want you about the place till tomorrow, you selfish man?' There wasn't no flies about that overseer, either; it was him as killed three men in a fortnight by overwork at the saw. They just dropped dead at their work. 'Take it away,' is all he says, 'put it in the ground,' an' you never heard nothing more. No, no," the old monster would conclude, with his senile chuckle, "there wasn't no flies about them old days in Toongabbie, I can tell 'ee. I'd give a bit to have 'ad some o' this feather bed gang there, them as thinks they know what 'ardship is!"

The First Fleeter became less loquacious after a time, however, and much less severe upon the luxury of the major's iron gang. Honeybone's shrewd eye was on him, and that of the First Fleeter began to droop and ruminate with a cunning preoccupation that made him quite silent on his ledge. At length, however, he took to leaning over and mumbling to Tom in the stillest hours. And when Tom listened the old wretch mumbled to others, including Macbeth, who had soon followed his enemy from Castle Sullivan and been well nigh as refractory in the stockade. The Scot was in another den at nights, but the First Fleeter made and used his opportunities with characteristic craft. So now there was a new poison in the air, and the virus had come all the way from Toongabbie in the early days.

One of the last to be inoculated and yet the one who perhaps took most kindly to the process was a certain sleek, bullet headed youth who came to the stockade on a day in midwinter. In the evening as Tom was sitting at the mess table, with bloodshot eyes downcast as usual, he heard his name in a voice he seemed to know.

"Well, Erichsen," it said, "it's a small world, ain't it?"

Tom looked up and saw the bullet head nodding at him across the table, but so bloated and debauched was the low face that he was some moments in recognizing his old companion of the condemned cell in Newgate.

"Don't look at a pal like that," continued Creasey, with a smirk. "You've altered worse nor me. No ill feeling, I say? I was that glad"—

"Silence!" cried the noncommissioned officer on duty. "No talking at your meals, young man, unless you want what-for!"

As for Tom, he had nothing for the newcomer but a surly contempt, which he took no trouble to conceal. Creasey, on the other hand, was studiously civil to him on grasping Tom's reputation in the stockade, and secret circumstances threw them not a little together.

"That's a biter," young Butterfield contrived to say to Tom in a day or two. "Where did he know you before?"

"Newgate."

"He hates you."

"Let him."

"I'm jealous he'll squeak!"

"He might if he dare."

"How do you know he dursn't?"

"Too many in it. He'd be torn to little bits. See here, Butter!"

"Yes, Erichsen."

"You're to keep out of it."

"Not unless you do," said the lad firmly.

"Me! I'm in it up to the neck, and all the better, but you're different. You're younger, your time's all but up, you've never had the lash, there's a chance for you, so give me your word."

The lad hesitated.

"For my sake?"

The lad gave in, but consoled himself by making up to Creasey, who slept in his hut and was already deeply implicated in that which the other thus forswore.

All was in readiness. The excitement throughout the gang was intense, though invisible, and Erichsen, Macbeth and Creasey were even readier than their fellows, as behooved good ringleaders, when the unforeseen happened at the critical moment. The general failed them on the field of battle. The First Fleeter fell ill and was removed.

It had been coming on for weeks. The old man, who had made light of the iron gang, was the first to succumb to its hourly hardships. He was older than he had thought. He had it still in him to blacken and corrode every heart in the gang with his own abundant poison, and that he did, but that was all. His irons became very silent all night long. One morning he tumbled at his work. The next he was sent over to Maitland unfettered and in a cart. The gang were at work at the time, and the last Tom saw of the First Fleeter as he waved his cap in the cart was his bald head and his unconquerable smile. Tom wondered whether the last had not in some degree balanced the first and been doing a little good for a long time in a land that needed light hearts almost as much as pure ones. Still more he wondered how they would manage without him now.

Before nightfall, however, this departure was succeeded by an arrival as unforeseen. It was that of a curricle containing a solitary individual, who drove both up and down the line of ironed men, with the sunset light first on one side of his swarthy, black whiskered face and then on the other. He was obviously and openly searching for some one among the eighty prisoners, and his failure to find his man was announced by a frown that had in it more of pain and apprehension than of mere annoyance. Meanwhile the major, who was still a comparatively active man, was bearing down upon the intruder with the help of his furled umbrella, and the gentleman in the curricle was very soon asked what the mischief he wanted there.

"Mischief, my good man?" replied a rich deep voice, a little overladen with superior scorn. "Nothing more mischievous, I take it, than a few words with the superintendent of this gang. Perhaps you will be so extremely condescending as to give him my card."

"I am he," said the major. "What can I do for you?"

"The honor of glancing at my card," said the stranger, with a bow as elaborate as his scorn.

"Well, sir?"

"My name may be familiar to you."

"Never heard it in my life," replied the major bluntly. "However," he added as the other colored terribly, "I live out of the world, Mr. Daintree, as you perceive."

Tom was at work quite near, and he heard the name distinctly. He, too, had never heard it before, and yet he had some dim recollection of the face, so that he was watching it intently and saw the flush with which Daintree very fussily produced a letter.

"That is your misfortune, sir," Tom heard him retort, and the ran out the

THE VOTE ON LICENSE REDUCTION

Mayor Begg, by his action at last evening's session of the town Council, has evidently accomplished the object for which he was elected by the united Ratepayer vote, assisted by the unanimous Temperance vote, who relied on his plausible promises. The question before the Council was the introduction of a by-law limiting the number of liquor licenses to be issued in town for 1908. The motion was introduced by Alderman Smale, and was backed up by a signed deputation of citizens from the different churches, the Y.M.C.A. and Salvation Army.

The motion to introduce the by-law was put to a vote of the Council. The first showing of hands on the motion showed six for and three against, and the Mayor called for another vote, which showed five affirmers for and four against, Alderman Dobson, of the east ward, having in the meantime "flunked". The Mayor then exercised his prerogative and voted, making it a tie, which defeated the motion. The Mayor's action was most unusual and unwarranted, and was evidently intended to give the temperance people and the churches a lump in the face that they could not misunderstand.

Mayor Begg is closely allied to the liquor interests of the town, which is generally understood, and naturally would not turn down his bread and butter, but it was thought he would at least have shown a reasonable degree of fairness.

Town League Hockey To-morrow Night.

The second game in the Town League hockey takes place to-morrow night, when the Y.M.C.A. meets the C.L.S. at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock the Bankers play Little Britain.

Both games promise to be lively as every team in Council is going to win the honors, and has been practising faithfully. Last game was fast, and good hockey, but this game will be still faster and better.

The C. L. S. has a man in Taylor who will be barred on account of playing with the Intermediates, while little Britain will likely take on one of Mike Scott's men who was absent last game. This may materially affect the standing and play of the teams.

BATTLE TO BANISH THE BAR CAUSED COMMOTION IN COUNCIL

VOTE RESULTED IN A TIE MAYOR BEGG SAVED THE DAY

For the Opponents of License Reduction by Giving the Casting Vote in Their Favor—Big Delegation of Temperance People Felt the Knock-out Blow Administered by the Liquor Men.

Memory must revert to some notable occasion in the city of Lindsay, parallels and rivalry of factions in order to match the crowd of citizens present at last night's meeting of our town fathers. The chamber was packed to the doors by advocates of temperance, hotel men, and their supporters, the former largely predominating — perhaps because the word had gone forth that an imposing show of strength might help the cause on the particular occasion. A number of ladies appeared among the advocates of temperance, and in this respect the latter enjoyed an unique advantage, because no member of the fair sex lent gracious countenance to the cause of the liquor men. Fully 50 young men were marshalled into the chamber by Messrs. Cook and Hamilton of the Y.M.C.A., and Rev. Dr. Bishop, pastor of Cameron-street Methodist church, and Rev. G. H. Wells of the Baptist congregation, were well to the fore.

Mayor Begg and all members were present. The minutes of last meeting were read by Clerk Knowlson, and on motion were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Joseph Helpert, offering to pay a license fee of $50 if given the right to sell liquor in Lindsay.

From Jul. Hanalose, making a similar application.

From Thos. Begg, supplying for position of inspector of walks.

From Jas. McLaughlin, stating the costs against the town in connection with the recent expulsion proceedings in connection with Mr. Bell's application under a disability in connection with the income and assessment acts, and that his expenses should be guaranteed to remove same.

From the Reeve of Merrittton, with regard to the same matter, and enclosing a resolution for endorsation.

From secretary-treasurer of Camden Municipalities, inviting Council to send a representative to the next convention of July or Aug. next at Medicine Hat.

From J. Ross Robertson, treasurer National Sanitarium Association, inviting Council to send a representative to a meeting to be held March 4th, in Toronto.

From J. McGlynn, soliciting charity.

From G. H. Hopkins, enclosing a letter from the Railway Commission relative to interswitching, and other documents.

From Mrs. E. E. Sharpe, transmitting a resolution passed at their meeting during the year; 49 matrons had been sent to parents or guardians, and 8 cases brought before the Magistrates.

From Chief of Police Vincent, reporting $85.10 imposed in fines during Jan., collected $48.50, other receipts $14.

The annual report of Auditor Eagleson was laid on the table.

The several communications and a number of accounts were referred to the proper committees.

Temperance Men State Their Case

Then They Were Jumped On and Left in a Dazed Condition.

Moved by Reeve Jordan, seconded by Ald. Ross, that the deputation be heard.

Rev. Welsh said the large delegation he represented desired to make a request to the following effect:—That the number of tavern licenses issued in Lindsay be reduced by two; that instead of a maximum of 8, the maximum be only 6. He considered it an honor to be appointed one of the spokesmen of this large and honorable deputation, the personnel and numbers of which showed clearly the deep interest being taken in the matter by the best people of the community. It gave him pleasure to hear the pleasant addressing of so large a gathering of citizens, all of whom, no doubt, were interested in the objects of this fair town. He thought he could give reasons why the Council should grant the appeal of the deputation. He would be able to do so, would be to the advantage of all from a business as well as a moral standpoint.

We believe that money invested in liquor as a beverage is more than wasted, and that intemperance is the cause of a large percentage of criminal acts, so that the more money invested in liquor, the more crime. We think, too, that our request is reasonable because we believe some of the present license holders are abusing the privileges—have been lawbreakers and in the business for the money in it, and not in obeying the intention of serving the public. He had noticed in The Evening Post an item stating that an inspector from Toronto had ordered some changes in the premises of a hotel owner in a certain hotel. It would seem to be beyond question that some of our hotels are better adapted for saloons, and are disturbing our peace more. We believe, also, that there is a lack of proper accommodation. The inspector referred to proceeded to have a hand-shaking with what he had seen, but it was for a short time only he deceived. We believe the public will be better served when the selling of meals and liquor are entirely separated from the sale of liquor; so long as the sale of intoxicants is allowed so long will the keepers of hotels have the intention to chat end of the business, to the detriment of the other. When a license is granted the holder should be a monopoly over restaurants and boarding houses. We believe it is necessary to safeguard our young men, and in doing this way about it we are in line with what is almost a world-wide movement. Recently in Chicago, in one square mile of the city, 129 licenses had been cut off, and in Toronto the number had just been reduced by one-third. If the Council of Toronto, with a much greater demand for accommodation, had seized times in proportion to the number of hotels, thought it was so materially reduced in number, surely the Council of Lindsay would decide to reduce the number of liquor selling places by one-quarter. Some of the temperance workers had a first experience in the campaign for Local Option, but the matter was reconsidered on the ground that it would be only fair to the good present license-holders, to put them so suddenly. It might be some for worse for many young men, who drift themselves to engage in such a business, yet they seem entitled to some consideration. We believe the temperance people had decided to postpone the larger request for a year, but there should be taken by the liquor men as a hint, that they should be more progressive in the chance to come, and the trend of the times. As for the loss of revenue, it was a matter for the Council to consider; they (the deputation) thought it would only be fair and reasonable that the men would reap the benefit, they should make up the deficiency.

Mr. Ross said he was the speaker on behalf of the deputation. He opened with the remark that it was a large position, and he should take Day Crockett's advice, "Be sure you're right—then go ahead." He would ask this question and it was a pertinent one—"Have hotels been kept in the town of Lindsay?" The answer must be, "Yes, and well kept." As a matter of fact, some men had left hotels where they had been refused liquor, saying they would go where they could get what they wanted. There were two sides to this question. Some of the hotel men deserved credit for the way they conducted the hotel, on the other hand he would say that—they had been a certain amount of greed. In the hotel business no man should have an advantage over others; it was wrong for one man to have a lunch counter when the other seven had not. He refused to impress on the Council that so long as we have hotels, we should see to it that we have only the best hotels. The reason they were asking for a reduction in the number of licenses was that some men are not carrying the law. To give an illustration: He had occasion to go to a certain hotel and ask the owner to not give a man liquor; he had been into that hotel later and found his man standing there with a big schooner of beer. He would stand up for the good man in the business, but he had seen him a certain hotel at 6 a.m., at 9 and 10 o'clock, and asked the whereabouts of one of his men and had been told that he was not there; later he visited the place again and going into one of the places stepped off from the car, he found his man. That was the kind of hotel he objected to and believed it should be put out of existence.

Two hotels are cut off, will we have proper accommodation? He thought so—he had reason for so feeling that some of the hotels had never yet been filled. When he came to Lindsay 14 years ago the town had 14 hotels; today we have only 8. The Maundar hotel had increased its yard room; the proprietor of the Flynn house had enlarged the same, and also added a large wing, and as the demand for room increased no doubt other proprietors would do the same. We should have the best hotels, and have them run by the best men.

Mayor Begg—The request of the deputation has been well presented, and when the proper time of Council comes to resolve the matter will be carefully considered — the memorial is sworn to do their duty.

Rev. Welsh—In Toronto they pushed the thing through in one evening. As most of us are sworn men we would appreciate similar action.

Mayor Begg—We have a by-law prepared, and it will go through in the regular form."

The reports of the standing committees were read by the respective chairmen, and on motion were adopted.

THE CRUCIAL MOMENT.

Ald. Smale, seconded by Ald. Calvert, moved that leave be granted for the introduction of a by-law to reduce the number of tavern licenses.

A vote was then taken, the yeas and nays the case precluding any discussion. The show of hands was as follows:

FOR BY-LAW.

Ald. Smale.
Deputy-reeve Eyres.
Ald. Begg.
Ald. Campbell.
Ald. Calvert—5.

AGAINST BY-LAW.

Ald. Dobson.
Reeve G. Jordan.
Ald. W. Jordan.
Ald. McGough.
Mayor Begg—5.

Mayor Begg—"I declare the motion lost."

The temperance people jumped, the men smiled and looked dazed. Finally Rev. Staples raised his voice and inquired upon what grounds the vote had given the division.

Mayor Begg—"Only five members voted for the motion and five against. In such a case the motion is not carried, in accordance with rule 15 on page 16."

Rule 15—When the Mayor or Chairman sees fit to exercise his right of voting on any question before the Council he shall, from the chair, as at liberty to explain his vote, otherwise he shall take no part in any discussion before the Council while he remains in the chair, and any question on which there is an equality of votes (in consequence of the Mayor's or Chairman's vote) shall be deemed to be negatived.

County Council Matters.

We are unable to find room in this issue for the balance of the County report which deals with the appointment of assessors and the presentation of the town's case respecting payment for county bridges. Ald. Smale took the town representatives to task, and a lively tiff ensued. See to-morrow's report.

C.M.B.A. Order Growing Rapidly

Lindsay Branch One of the Most Prosperous---Organizer Hardy Here.

Lindsay Branch of the Catholic Mutual Benevolent Association, which was formed about 18 years ago, has now attained a very large membership, but the size of the parish justifies a still greater growth, and to this end Mr. A. G. Hardy, one of the Association's organizers, has been invited to spend a couple of weeks in Lindsay and neighborhood in the interest of the Society.

On Sunday an enthusiastic meeting of members was held, when brief addresses were delivered by Bros. John O'Rielly and Dr. Blanchard and Rev. Fr. Collins. The latter was a particularly fine effort, fully setting forth the advantages of membership, both from a social and financial standpoint.

Mr. Hardy then addressed the meeting, giving full information as to the working of the association, etc. After the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered Bro. Hardy.

On the invitation of the chairman, several came forward and signed applications for membership in the Association.

"Jerry From Kerry."

Theatre-goers at large will no doubt be glad to hear that Patton and Fletcher's big fun show, "Jerry from Kerry," will hold the boards at the Academy of Music on Thursday, Feb. 6th. The management of this attraction have spared no expense in securing the best artists to interpret the different roles of this funny comedy. The company are still carrying their own superior uniformed concert band and orchestra. Prices 25c., 35c. and 50c.—d1.

Police Court Calendar.

—Daniel McCabe, an old offender, was up before the 'Beak' on a charge of theft. On Saturday evening, while the snow storm was at its height, Daniel thought it a good opportunity to secure his Sunday's dinner, so while walking by Mr. Soanes' fish store, he swiped a fish and made off in the direction of the Simpson house, just outside of which he was stopped by the owner, and the fish was given back. The police did the rest. Daniel is now meditating, not with the lions, but with several others in Castle Jackson, doing one month's hard.

—A young man was before the police magistrate charged, first with using grossly insulting language in the Butler house on Saturday night, and in the second place for being drunk and disorderly. For the language he paid $5.20, and for being drunk and disorderly $6.20.

—The trains were all more or less late again to-day. The Haliburton train arrived in town about eleven o'clock, the first time in three days. Although there are snow fences along the line, there are still stretches where the trains are hindered and sometimes snow-bound by the drifts.

—Mr. G. W. Beall, in charge of the government weather observatory in town, reports the temperature last night to have been 29 degrees below zero—the coldest since 1900, when during February the mercury dropped to 29 one night. A good many ordinary thermometers around town dropped past thirty degrees.

Tankard Games Lindsay a Winner

Won First Draw This Morning, Defeating Paris by 38 Shots.

Our many citizens who are interested in curling, kept Mr. T. C. Matchett's telephone buzzing this morning owing to their strong desire to keep in touch with the two Lindsay rinks in their first game for the Ontario Tankard. The boys were down against Paris, and the play resulted as follows:

Skip Geo. A. Little, 22 shots up.

Skip L. V. O'Connor, 16 shots up.

This afternoon the Lindsay rinks are pitted against the Southampton rinks, who are clever curlers. The game began at 2.30.

The Orillia rinks are playing the Toronto Caledonians, another strong pair.

RELIABLE GLASSES.

The human eye is such a delicately constructed organ of the body that it will pay everybody to heed well the first symptoms of failing or defective sight.

It is equally important to consult the most reliable authority on the subject.

If your eyes give you the least trouble or pain of any kind, we would strongly advise you to let us examine them at least—it costs nothing. Board of Education to be Charged for the Various School Services.

A regular meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners was held yesterday at 2 o'clock. All the members were present, Mr. Flavelle in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The treasurer's statement and the pump house reports for January were laid on the table. The report for 1907, in detail, which is still under the hands of the auditor, was laid before the Commissioners.

A communication from Town Clerk Knowlson, acknowledging receipt of the renewal receipt for Fidelity Bond, was read and fyled.

The following accounts were read and passed, by motion of Messrs. Brady and Sinclair;

Neptune Meter Co.	$167.88
Thos. Bryant	.25
Men's wages to Jan. 18	4.22
Men's wages to Jan. 25.	3.55
D. Cinnamon	1.20
E. Gregory	.95
Waite & Co.	.30

The map of the waterworks system, prepared by Mr. Geo. Irwin, was submitted, and on motion of Messrs. Brady and Begg, was accepted and Sec.-Treas. Ray was instructed to pay Mr. Irwin $5 therefor.

A general discussion took place regarding the tariff and capital expenditures and the supply of water for public utilities and schools free. It was decided that present conditions are unfair to water consumers who pay, and the secretary was instructed to notify the Board of Education that it was the intention of the Commissioners to charge a reasonable tariff for water supplied the schools.

The Mayor and Secretary were appointed to proceed to Peterboro to get such information and data as may be of assistance to the Commissioners in formulating a policy for the administration of the affairs of the Board, and place capital expenditure on a more equitable basis than it has been hitherto.

The chairman intimated that he expected to be absent from town for about two weeks, and on motion of the Mayor and Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Brady was authorized to countersign all cheques during the chairman's absence.

The pumping report of 12,312,500 gallons of water with 71,700 lbs of coal, compared with that of January of last year, shows a larger revenue with less water pumped and also a great deal less coal used.

January's collections amounted to $1,202.05, while the payments were $1,821.77, which sum includes $1,312.50 interest on debentures.

The Board then adjourned

Here's Interesting Reading Matter

Report of Finance and Assessment Committee of County Council.

The following report was introduced, read and adopted at Last Thursday's session of the County Council:

FINANCE AND ASSESSMENT

Gentlemen,—Your committee have examined the report and judgment of the judge of the County Court of the County of Victoria on the appeals from the equalization of the assessment of the county made by the Council in June last. Your committee beg to recommend that the report be adopted, and that leave be given to introduce a by-law to give effect to the equalization so made.

Your committee recommend that the County judge's report be printed in the minutes and that there be appended thereto the schedule prepared by the clerk and treasurer.

Your committee find that as a result of the appeals, a suit was instituted, the magnitude and extent of which could not be foreseen, and one which in the length of time taken for its trial and, probably, for the volume of labor and attention involved upon the judge, the counsel for the county and the counsel for the individual municipalities stands alone in the history of the county of Victoria. The county judge was occupied in the taking of evidence alone for thirty-one days and the whole time exhausted in the case by the county judge was seventy-one and one-half days. The estimate of the number of days entailed upon the counsel for the county, is forty-five days before the judge and seventy-five days, apart from the hearing and argument, a total of one hundred and twenty days.

The appellants having succeeded, and the value of all the municipalities having been changed, the accounts of opposing Counsel as against the county have been taxed by the clerk of the county court. The accounts aggregated the sum of $3202.46, and the amount of same taxed as payable by the county is $1055.18. The account of counsel for the county would, it is stated, if given in detail, have amounted to as much as the combined accounts of the opposing counsel, but an account has not been so rendered. The amount to be paid has been a matter for mutual agreement and has been fixed at $2250.00, as, exclusive of disbursements, an account of which has been rendered, amounting to $286.60.

Your Committee beg to recommend that the following amounts to be passed, (inclusive of some items dealt with at the November session but inserted here in order that the total cost to the county may be recorded,) namely;

McDiarmid & Weeks, disbursements	$286.00
Richard Montgomery, special valuator	96.00
Peter Morrison, special valuator	89.25
Thos. Cashore, special valuator	90.00
J. H. Thurston, special valuator	44.00
Miss Ethel Smith, reporting....	155.00
Miss Ethel Smith, copies of evidence	163.88
Miss Ethel Smith, other services	16.10
G. S. Patrick, services, ...	6.00
John E. Harding, county judge	735.70
R. J. McLaughlin, taxed costs	811.47
Thos. Stewart, taxed costs ...	130.00
G. H. Hopkins, taxed costs ...	80.71
F. A. McDiarmid, counsel for county	2250.00
Total	$4987.11

Your committee cannot recommend that the claim of the township of Ops, for the sum of $96.00, the amount paid to the valuators employed by the township, be entertained, as it appears by the judge's report that the onus of responsibility was upon the township.

Your committee cannot recommend any further payment to the special valuators on behalf of the county.

Your committee have examined the statement showing the moneys at the credit of the corporation on the 31st day of December, 1907; the statement of current liabilities and available assets of January 1st, 1908, the statement of liabilities and assets of House of Refuge January 1st, 1908, and the statement of liabilities and assets, House of Refuge Debenture debt, January 1st, 1908, and beg to recommend that the statements be appended to this report.

Your committee have examined the report of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge, for the year 1907. The failure of a portion of the sewer is cause for regret, but the action of the Board in deciding to abandon the obstructed section and construct a new sewer of a larger capacity is to be commended, and your committee recommend that the carrying out of the work be left under the full control of the Board. Your committee recommend that the report be re-introduced to the Council.

Your committee have examined the list of admissions, etc., of the House of Refuge to the date of this session and beg to recommend that the same be filed.

Your committee have considered the report of the deputation appointed at the November session to wait on the government, and the documets submitted to the government, and beg to recommend as follows:

(1.) That the Warden, the Chairman of this committee and Taylor Parkin, esquire, be appointed a committee to negotiate with the Councils of the townships of Carden and Verulam, respectively, with the view of an amicable settlement being effected as to the question of the proportion of cost of mantenance of the Mud Lake Narrows bridge and the Emily Creek bridge, and in the consideration and settlement of the question the committee be instructed to make the costs incurred by the township up to the present date an element for adjustment.

(2.) That the Warden and County Treasurer be instructed to oppose any effort that may be made towards rescinding the resolution passed by the selectors of jurors in the year 1904, under which the number of jury courts was reduced from four to two courts to be held in each year.

Your committee have considered th eresolutions of Council requiring them to report, and beg to recommend as follows;

1. That the question of memorializing the legislature for the amendment of the Assessment Act so as to carry out the recommendation of His Honor Judge Harding, by eliminating the income and business assessment from the equalization for county purposes, be deferred for consideration at the June session.

2. That a provisional grant of $200.00 be made in support of the Agricultural class in connection with the Collegiate Institute, and that Thomas H. Watson, Donald Grant and James H. Hopkins, esquires, be appointed a committee to co-operate with the Board of Education of the Town of Lindsay and the instructor of the class.

3. That consideration of the question of grants to Agricultural Societie sin the county be deferred until the June session, and that the clerk be instructed to ask the directors of the societies for copies of their reports to the government for the year 1907.

4. That a pedlar's license be granted to Archibald McGillivray, of the township of Carden, free of charge.

5. That leave be given to introduce a petition to the Dominion Government asking that the Dominion assume Cowan's Bridge across Pigeon river in the township of Emily.

6. That the sum of $50.00 be granted to each of the public libraries in the county.

7. That the sum of $50.00 be granted to the Hospital for Sick Children.

8. That the sum of $25.00 each be granted to the East Victoria and West Victoria Farmers' Institutes.

9. That the sum of $10.00 each be granted to the East Victoria and West Victoria Women's Institutes.

10. That the sum of $90.00 be grented to the Lindsay Poultry and Pet Stock Association.

11. That the sum of $100.00 be granted to the Children's Aid Society, the amount to be paid on the order of the Persident when funds are required.

12. That the salary of the keeper of the House of Refuge be $400.000 per annum and that the salary of the mation of the House of Refuge be $300.00 per annum, on and from January 1st, 1908, that six months' notice of intention to give up the position shall be given to the Council, and leave be given to introduce a by-law.

13. That the General Sessions of the Peace be requested to appoint Mr. Donald McIntyre, of Lorneville, a county constable.

Your committee have considered the communications referred to them, and beg to recommend as follows;

1. That the sum of $500 be granted to The Ross Memorial Hospital.

2. That the sum of $25.00 be granted in aid of the rescue work of the Salvation Army.

3. That no grant be made to the Lindsay Law Association.

4. That the statement of payments made by the treasurer of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham to the treasurer of the County of Victoria be filed.

5. That the Warden and George Jordan, esq., be appointed to represent the Council, to discuss with representatives of other Councils, the question of government hospitals for consumptives.

6. That a petition to the Lieut.-Governor, in Council, for amendment of section 606 of the Municipal Act, be introduced to the Council.

7. That a petition to the Legislative Assembly for an act to amend the Supplementary Revenue Act, so as to provide that the full amount collected from railway companies shall be divided amongst the minor municipalities, be introduced to the Council.

8. That the communication from the National Sanitarium Association relative to a conference be filed.

9. That gratification be expressed on account of the increased number of exhibitors from the county of Victoria at the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition held in November, 1907.

10. That the communications from the Hospital for Sick Children, the Lindsay Poultry and Pet Stock Association and the Children's Aid Society be filed, grants having been made to them under resolutions of the Council.

111. That the Registrar's Statutory return of fees for the year 1907 be filed.

12. That the following reports be filed, namely; The South Victoria Agricultural Society; the North Victoria Agricultural Society; the Lindsay Law Association; the Children's Aid Society; the public libraries of Bobcaygeon, Woodville, Oakwood, Kirkfield, Norland and Kinmount.

13. That the financial statement of the township of Emily be filed.

Your committee have considered a communication from R. J. McLaughlin, esquire, K. C., and have heard a deputation from the Board of Trade of the town of Lindsay; the former erferring to the question of the relations of the town of Lindsay to the County with regard to business assessment and taxable income and to bridges within its limits, the latter referring to the matter of the same assessments and the relations of the town to the county in connection with bridges throughout the county.

THE FIRST WHITE SETTLER IN PRINCE ALBERT

45 YEARS SKIN TROUBLE BAFFLED THE DOCTORS

ZAM-BUK SUCCEEDED

Mr. James Isbester, Teacher, Stoney Reserve, Battleford, Sask., claims the honor of being the first White Settler in Prince Albert, and built the first shanty in June, 1862. This was 45 years ago, and all that time he has been suffering from a skin disease which baffled the doctors. He says: "Zam-Buk cured me of a skin disease of 45 years' standing which no doctor had been able to cure. When I heard of Zam-Buk I carefully followed the instructions, and applied Zam-Buk to my hands before going to bed. The next morning to my surprise my hands looked as if there had been nothing the matter with them. I continued the same treatment to my legs, and the end of the week found the same result. I could scarcely believe myself the cure was so rapid. I became so enthusiastic that I began using Zam-Buk on others, always with the same result. I am thoroughly convinced that no salve can be used on sores that will act as quickly and effectively as Zam-Buk, and, therefore, recommend it to everybody, and would not be without it."

Writing at a later date, he says: "I have tried Zam-Buk on many suffering from skin diseases and it has always proved successful. I have even used it on my "Sore-eyed Indians" and it cured every time."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

CATTLE MARKETS.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—London cables are steady at 11c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10c per pound.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Feb. 3.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 43 carloads, composed of 730 cattle, 342 hogs, 30 sheep and one calf, as well as 70 horses.

Exporters.

Prices ranged at from $4.90 to $5.40, but only one load at latter price, which was sold by Maybee, Wilson & Hall, who topped the market for export steers; export bulls, $4 to $4.50 per cwt.

Butchers.

Choice picked lots of butchers', $4.75 to $5.10; loads of good, $4.25 to $4.60; medium, $3.90 to $4.15; common, $3.60 to $3.90; cows, $2.75 to $4.

Feeders and Stockers.

None offered, but there is a fair demand for steers, 900 to 1000 lbs. each.

Milkers and Springers.

Prices were quoted at $30 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices unchanged, at $4 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes, $4 to $4.50; lambs, $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Gunns, Limited, quoted selects at $5.15, fed and watered at the market, and $4.90 to drovers, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 1 were 1240 cattle, 338 sheep and lambs, 1167 hogs and 124 calves, while the offerings to-day for the local trade were 1070 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 25 calves. On account of the very stormy weather which prevailed during the latter part of last week, railway traffic was interrupted considerably, and in consequence fully 25 per cent. of the 1070 head of cattle did not arrive here until this morning, and, as a number of them had been on the road since last Thursday, holders would not offer them.

The attendance of local buyers was large, and, as they all wanted some beef, a fairly active trade was done. Choice beeves sold at 5¼c to 5½c; good at 4½c to 5c; fair at 3¾c to 4¼c; common at 3¼c to 3½c, and inferior at 2½c to 3c per lb. Cable advices from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade in cattle slow and prices easier, American steers being quoted at ½c per lb. lower, at 11¾c to 12¼c, and Canadian bulls ½c lower, at 10c, but Canadian steers were unchanged, at 11½c to 12c, on account of small supplies.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for sheep and lambs. Receipts have fallen away to almost nothing owing to the severe cold weather of late, consequently trade is very quiet, but the undertone to the market is firm, and any lots coming forward meet with a ready sale at full prices. Choice lambs were quoted at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 5¾c to 6c, and common at 5¼c to 5½c per lb. A few choice sheep sold at 4c to 4¼c; good at 3½c to 3¾c, and culls at 3c to 3¼c per lb. In spite of the continued weak and discouraging cable advices from all the leading foreign markets on Canadian bacon last week, which noted a further decline in prices of 1s to 7s per cwt., a much firmer feeling developed in the local market for hogs to-day on account of the limited supply, and an advance in prices of 20c per 100 lbs. was paid in some instances for selected hogs. There was a good demand from local dealers, and sales were made at $6 to $6.20 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. A certain local dealer who was short of stock at the latter end of last week advised a leading Toronto packer to ship him a single deck of light selects, and, altho prices in that market the day previous were quoted by this packing concern at $5.40 per 100 lbs., the local dealer received a reply to his above message that they would ship him one single deck load at $6 per 100 lbs., f.o.b., which was refused.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 2000 head; active; 10c to 15c higher; prime steers, $5.75 to $6; shipping, $5 to $5.65; butchers', $4.40 to $4.50; heifers, $3.60 to $5.35; cows, $2.85 to $4.65; bulls, $3 to $4.60; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3.25; fresh cows and springers steady, $20 to $60.

Veals—Receipts, 700 head; active; 75c higher, $5 to $9.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,000; active; 16c to 25c higher; heavy, $4.60 to $4.80; mixed, $4.90 to $4.85; yorkers, $4.85 to $4.90; pigs, $4.60 to $4.75; roughs, $4 to $4.25; stags, $3 to $3.50; dairy, $4.60 to $4.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 11,000; active; ewes and mixed sheep steady, others higher; lambs, $5 to $7.90; yearlings, $6.25 to $6.75; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $2 to $5.50.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 24,000; market 10c to 15c higher; steers, $4.25 to $6.25; cows, $3 to $4.75; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3 to $4.60; calves, $3 to $7; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 44,000; market 5c higher; choice heavy shipping, $4.40 to $4.45; butchers', $4.35 to $4.45; light mixed, $4.15 to $4.25; choice light, $4.25 to $4.35; packing, $4 to $4.35; pigs, $3.90 to $4.15; bulk of sales, $4.30 to $4.40.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 20,000; market steady to 10c higher; sheep, $4.25 to $5.50; lambs, $6.25 to $7.25; yearlings, $5.50 to $6.25.

SON CHOKES HIS MOTHER.

Claims He Acted In Self Defence—Police Say Murder.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Early yesterday the police telephone rang and a man who said that he was William H. Gray, Jr., called: "Please come to 441 Burnet avenue. I have killed my mother."

Upon reaching the house the officers found Mrs. Clara Grey, 48 years old, dead from strangulation.

The son, 18 years old, said that he had been sitting reading when his mother called him downstairs. When he reached the lower floor he says his mother made a lunge at him with a razor, inflicting a deep wound on his right arm. In the struggle that followed he says that in attempting to restrain her he grabbed her throat and choked her.

The young man's story is believed by the members of his family and the neighbors, who say that Mrs. Grey was a high-strung woman, prone to hysteria, verging on insanity.

The police differ and regard the case as murder. Young Grey is a member of a prominent family. He is a stenographer and for a few weeks was employed at the City Hall, where he was regarded as erratic.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.

Demented Man Kills His Wife Then Informs Neighbors.

London, Ont., Feb. 4.—James Hartwick, of Cobblehill, ten miles north of here, was brought to the city last night charged with the murder of his wife.

The tragedy was enacted some time on Sunday, the alleged slayer being an old man who has resided in the district for some time and is considered weak mentally.

Some time on Sunday when the storm was at its height, the family of Mr. Day, a neighbor, were surprised to see Hartwick enter their yard and shortly after appear at their door. He was attired only in an undershirt, trousers and pair of ragged socks.

After he got warm he was urged to go home but refused, saying: "I cannot go to bed because there is blood in it."

No attention was paid to this, but later it was thought well to investigate, and Constable Fairclough of Thorndale went to the house and found Mrs. Hartwick dead on the bed, her body frightfully slashed.

Nationaliste Fined Again.

Quebec, Que., Feb. 4.—The Nationaliste of Montreal was yesterday condemned to another fine of $400 by Hon. Judge Lemieux in a suit taken against it by Hon. Adelard Turgeon. Some time ago Hon. Judge Simon condemned this paper to a similar amount of damages for having published an article in which they accused the minister of perjury in his evidence in the Prevost-Asselin trial, but as they repeated the accusation in the plea which they filed the Hon. Mr. Turgeon took another action against them for this, and the judgment rendered yesterday was upon the latter action.

Drunken Man Frozen.

Kingston, Feb. 4.—Yesterday morning a man named Charles McKay, was found frozen to death in a shed at Collins Bay. He had been drinking Saturday night with a man named Simmons, and it is thought he died. Simmons said nothing until the body was frozen stiff. Dr. Ross, coroner, went out and considered an inquest unnecessary, as the man evident got drunk, lay down and froze to death.

Galt Woman Severely Injured.

Galt, Feb. 4. Mrs. Geo. Aitken, aged 79 years, a widow, met with an accident which may result fatally. She was placing an article on a shelf in the cellarway when she fell to the bottom. She sustained a broken arm, dislocated thumb, and concussion of the brain.

Freezes to Death Near Home.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—William Brace, a lawyer, was found frozen to death within 50 yards of his residence in Highland Park, a suburb. It is thought that Brace slipped on an icy sidewalk and was stunned by the fall.

Ice Jam at Cornwall.

Cornwall, Feb. 4.—Following the heavy snowstorm of Saturday came an ice jam in the St. Lawrence near the foot of the Cornwall Canal. This caused the water to back up till it was about 25 feet above summer level, the highest point reached since the disastrous flood.

Twenty-One Soldiers Perish.

Ain Seafra, Algeria, Feb. 4.—Twenty-one men of the Twentieth Co. of the Foreign Legion, and possibly others of the same company, perished on Feb. 1 in a blinding snowstorm, which overtook the soldiers on their way to Fort Hasa.

French Lose Eight Killed.

Paris, Feb. 4.—Eight Frenchmen were killed and fifty wounded in a desperate conflict which the French forces in Morocco have had with natives just south of Kasbah her Rachid.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

WASTED PRECAUTIONS.

A Spell of Worry and Anxiety That Went For Naught.

Ferguson was wending his uncertain way homeward, sorely troubled in his mind over the curtain lecture he knew was in store for him and casting about for some means of evading it. Suddenly a bright idea was evolved from his befuddled brain. He would slip into the house and get quietly into bed without awakening his wife.

He mentally congratulated himself upon his success thus far and went to sleep.

When he awoke in the morning he dared not look at his wife, and after lying still for a few minutes and not hearing any noise from her he concluded she was still asleep.

He then determined to arise very quietly, carry his clothes outside the door, dress there and go downtown to business without waiting for breakfast. He was successful in this, and, meeting the servant girl downstairs, he said:

"Eliza, you can tell your mistress I expect to be very busy today and therefore I didn't stay to have breakfast with her this morning."

"Laws, sir!" said Eliza. "Missis went away yesterday morning to her mother's and said she wouldn't be back till this evening."—London Telegraph.

ENGLISH JUSTICE.

Hard on Petty Thieves and Light on Wife Beaters.

It is only about a century since the death penalty was inflicted in England for theft not exceeding the value of a sheep. Now some of the London journals are making a merciless exposure of magistrates throughout the kingdom who keep up the tradition by sentencing petty thieves to jail while inflicting only trifling fines upon wife beaters and even more brutal offenders.

In one police court one defendant was fined 10s. 6d. for knocking his wife down in the street because she refused to give him money for drink, and another was sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment for damaging growing potatoes and stealing two footballs.

For cruelty to a horse, beating his wife, who was ill, with fist and hammer and leaving her with nothing to eat one man was fined 10 shillings, while another, charged with stealing a pair of socks valued at sixpence, got fourteen days' hard labor. It would not be difficult to make up a list of similar cases from American police courts, yet the tendency in America is rather toward a higher estimate of the value of human life.—Van Norden Magazine.

Australian Curiosities.

There are some curious things in central Australia. Lake Amadeus in the dry season is merely a sheet of salt. Ayers rock, about five miles round, rises abruptly from the desert. Formerly vast rivers flowed here, and the diprotodon, a wombat-like creature worthy of its name and four times as large as a kangaroo, flourished on the plains. Now there are hardly any animals to be seen. The fish live in water holes of the hills until the floods wash them down to the valleys. At the end of the wet season the water frogs fill themselves with water, roll themselves in the mud and lie low till the next rains, which may not come for two years. Meanwhile the provident frog, like the "mousie" of Robert Burns, may have the misfortune to furnish a drink to a thirsty black. The natives also get water from the roots of trees. They are in the "totem" stage and revere certain plants or animals which protect them. Men of one group can only marry women from another single group.

The Need of Common Sense.

I had a really scientific man to see me the other day, and in the course of our investigation of a point we had in common it was necessary to wash out a bottle. The bottle was empty. It was a round, wabbly vessel, and he had to hold it under the water a long time so that it might get full enough of water to hold it down. I asked him why he did not fill it with water first, and he laughed and said he did not think of it. And that bears out my contention that it is not because a man is as "clever as paint" that he therefore grasps "the common sense of common things."—G. H. R. Dabbs in Fry's Magazine.

Why Currants Are Nutritious.

The reason why currants are so remarkably nutritious is that they consist to a very large degree of saccharin in its most easily digestible form—that of grape sugar. The piquant flavor of the currant, which adds so much to its pleasantness as a food, is derived from the valuable percentage of tartaric acid which the berry contains. Potash is also present in the form of cream of tartar and is undoubtedly of dietetic value.—Ladies' Pictorial.

MOUNT FUJIYAMA.

Japanese Pilgrimage to Its Tempest Swept Summit.

To the people of Japan the mount Fujiyama is sacred. The meaning of the word is "honorable mountain." During that brief six weeks of summer when Fujiyama's wind swept sides are climbable, writes A. H. Edwards in "Kakemono," the pilgrims come in thousands, in ten thousands. They dress themselves in white from head to foot. They carry long staves of pure white wood in their hands, each stamped with the temple crest, and in bands and companies they climb the mountain.

Always the leader at their head, his staff crowned with a tinkling mass of bells, like tiny cymbals, chants the hymn of Fujiyama. For six short summer weeks they come. Then the winds rush down, the snow falls, the tempests rage, and Lord Fujiyama lives alone.

No human being has yet stayed a winter on his summit, and even in the summer weeks the winds will blow the lava blocks from the walls of the rest houses and sometimes the pilgrim from the path.

Fujiyama stands alone, not one peak among a range, but utterly alone. Rising straight out of the sea on one side and from the great Tokyo plain on the other, his 12,365 feet in two long curving lines of exquisite grace rise up and up into the blue, and not an inch of one foot is hidden or lost. It is all there, visible as a tower built on a treeless plain. It dominates the landscape. It can be seen from thirteen provinces, and from a hundred miles at sea the pale white peak of Fujiyama floats above the blue.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

The First Gas Bag and the First Dirigible Balloon.

On the 1st of December, 1783, when the first gas balloon rose from the Tuileries, carried up by Charles and Robert, the Marquis de Villeroy, an octogenarian and skeptic, declared it was tempting God himself. He was rolled in his armchair to a window of his chateau to witness the impossibility of such an ascension. But the moment the aeronaut, gayly saluting the spectators, rose in the air, the old man, passing suddenly from the most complete incredulity to unlimited faith in the power of genius, fell upon his knees and exclaimed: "O men, ye will find the secret of never dying! And it will be when I am dead!"

The public, easily confounding the atmospheric with the astronomic heavens, already hailed the day when the aeronaut would continue his aerial course to the moon, to Venus, to Mars or Jupiter.

Pierre Giffard, then Dupuy de Lome, tried the first dirigible balloons. Later Captains Renard and Krebs in their aeroplane, La France, went from Meudon to Paris and back at the same time that Gaston Tissandier was carrying out his fine experiments. But all progress was soon stopped by the weakness of the motors compared to their weight.

Nothing further could be done until the arrival of the explosive motor. In fact, it was the improvement in automobiles which won us the conquest of the air.

Hands and Feet.

It is said that Disraeli was prouder of his small hands than of all his great mental accomplishments. This was presumably because they were badges of aristocracy in their evidence that he had not been brought up to labor, and he worshiped aristocracy. And small feet of the same character—evidences that the possessor did not go barefoot when a child. Generations of carefully shod children of the nobility developed this characteristic of those of "gentle blood" as distinguished from the commonalty. But such proofs of superiority were not meekly endured. In due time brainy commoners discovered that the "artistic hand" was not small, but long and slender, and then came the athlete multitude, who scorn small hands and feet as evidences of effeminacy.

A City of Happy Homes.

Dubiavin took a walk in the cemetery, where he noticed on the tombstones, "Good Husband," "Good Wife," "Good Son."

"It is evidently here that the happiest homes are found," he reflected.—Nos Loisirs.

CUNNING BIRDS.

Stratagem of the Lapwing and the Ruse of the Thrush.

"The goose is a frightful liar," said a nature fakir. "He quite puts me to shame."

"Really?"

"Really. You know how the goose, when you draw near it, hisses? Well, with that hissing sound it says: 'Scott, beware. I am a serpent.' Yes, from primeval times the goose has acted this lie. The primeval goose mother, sitting on her eggs in a place of reeds and sedge, would not fly when an intruder appeared; but, keeping her body concealed amid the leaves, she would stretch out her long, flexible neck and hiss wickedly. 'A snake in the grass,' the intruder would say to himself as he retreated, and on her eggs the goose would chuckle in a sly, contemptuous way.

"The lapwing is another liar. Approach her nest and she sets up a distressful crying and runs back and forth in front of you, trailing one wing as though it were broken. You follow. You think to snatch her up in your hands. With this lie she lures you away from her young.

"The thrush in time of drought beats with his feet on the grass like a clog dancer. Thus he lies to the earthworms. He makes them think that it is raining. Up they come in silent haste, and the deceitful thrush makes a rich meal."

WELL BURIED.

Two Funerals For One Man Provided For by His Will.

Curious directions for the disposal of his remains were left by John Robert Pringle of Catford, who died leaving an estate of gross value of £8,049 3s. 3d. The testator directed:

"After my decease I desire that a competent and trustworthy doctor of medicine shall, by any experiment he may deem suitable, thoroughly satisfy himself that life is absolutely extinct. My carcass is to be cremated and the residuum thereof deposited in two metal urns, numbered respectively 1 and 2. On the ashes in No. 1 are to be placed a packet, which will be found on my desk, and my miniature portrait scarfpin, and on the ashes in urn No. 2 a similar packet, which also will be found on my desk, and my miniature portrait finger ring."

He directed that the urns were then to be soldered down and No. 1 buried in his mother's grave at Newport Pagnell and the other in "my dear Lizzie's grave" in the Streatham cemetery at Tooting. He also enjoined his son to see that the graves of his mother and of the testator's mother were properly looked after.—London Mail.

At Liberty to Scream.

It was on a ferryboat plying between Sydney and Manly, one of that city's beautiful suburbs. Every seat was occupied. Each occupant felt the influence and prepared for an enjoyable trip when a lank girl of fifteen appeared, dragging by the hand a screaming child. There she stood, glowering. A mild lady suggested the child might be in pain. An old bachelor muttered that people who had charge of children should keep them at home. Low voiced but distinct imprecations were now rife. She took not the slightest heed of the muttering or the bawling, which was now at the highest pitch, till the suggestion was offered that medicine would do it good. Then she arose in her wrath, as it were, and, giving the child a vigorous shake, said:

"Ethel, cry as loud as you like. I've paid your fare."—London Tit-Bits.

Stupid Fellow.

"Mary said 'No' to me last night," sighed Peter Sloman, "but I don't believe she could honestly tell why she did it."

"Oh, yes, she could," replied his cousin Kate. "She told me."

"Did she?"

"Yes; she said she didn't think you'd take 'No' for an answer."

A PIECE OF STRING.

It Plays a Prominent Part In the Life of Japan.

Writing from Japan, an American says: "You must come here to appreciate some of the quaint customs and usages which contact with other peoples has not yet driven out. To read about them gives you only a poor idea. For instance, did you ever know what an important thing a piece of string is here? The children, workmen, idlers, servants, all carry pieces of string for use in case of emergency. With us the emergency would arise only when a parcel had to be done up, but the Jap uses his piece of string as a first aid to the injured, to repair a rent in his clothing, to fix a broken down jinrikisha, to mend tools, to take measurement, and, in fact, the string is his universal tool chest. The queerest use to which it is put, according to my way of thinking, is when a police officer arrests a man, ties a bit of string about the arrested man's wrist and then leads him by the loose end of the thin hempen fetter to the lockup. You ask, 'Why doesn't the Jap crook break the string and find a gateway?' He could, but he would not. That's where his respect for the law comes in, and the bit of string holds the man as securely as though he were manacled by our own humane chilled steel, nickel plated and snap locked method."

DIRTY WATCHES.

The Reason Is Often to Be Found In the Watch Pocket.

"Why do watches get dirty?" said the jeweler. "You'll find the answer in your watch pocket. Turn it out."

The patron turned out his watch pocket, sheepishly bringing forth a pinch of mud colored dust, some lint and a small ball of black fluff.

"There's the reason," said the jeweler. "Watches get dirty because the pockets they are carried in are never clean. A watch pocket, my dear sir, should be cleaned out regularly once a week. Observe that rule and your watch's works will not get clogged up again.

"Another and a seasonable rule is never to lay your watch down on stone or marble. The cold deranges the delicate works.

"Never lay your watch down, in fact, anywhere. Hang it up on a hook vertically in the same position it occupies when in your pocket. Watches are made to lie, or, rather, stand, in that position only.

"Wind your watch in the morning, never at night."

Empress Eugenie's Playfulness.

Some years ago the Empress Eugenie was a capital hand at whiling away her own and other people's time when residing at obscure watering places where the accustomed resources of royal gayety were at fault. One game which she invented and which gave much delight was this: A costly jewel was placed upon a saucer and covered with an inverted teacup. A lady then tossed them to a gentleman seated on the opposite side of the room, and if he caught the flying utensils with such a steady hand that the jewel was not displaced from under the cup the gem became the property of the lady. Of course the gallant who was to "catch" felt an intense solicitude, inasmuch as the prize for the lady which his adroitness might gain or his awkwardness lose had a value which rendered its possession exceedingly desirable and made its loss acutely felt. It is said that the emperor was the best "catcher" of them all, and when he was present the game was played with an enthusiasm which would rival that of a thickly populated nursery.

SLUG AND SNAIL LORE

Queer Old Traditions That Cluster About the Gastropods.

Drastic Remedies That Must Have Proved Speedily Mortal to the Unfortunate Snails—A Telepathic Theory That Was a Dismal Failure.

It is probable, though—bearing in mind the extent and profundity of the learning considered necessary for "every schoolboy," provided he is educated at other people's expense—one does not like to dogmatize, that slugs and snails were among the very earliest natural history subjects we were taught. The teaching, we may remember, was conveyed in the classical form of question and answer. "What," we were asked, "are little boys made of?" And the querist, almost always of the nurse or governess persuasion, supplied the answer with unmistakable relish. "Slugs and snails and puppy dogs' tails" were, we were informed, the ingredients which went to the composition of the soaring human boy. It was doubtless the memory of the indignity rather than any righteous zeal against the foes of the flower garden that induced us for some time afterward invariably to squash or otherwise destroy every slug and snail that our youthful eyes lighted on.

As a matter of fact, however, a good deal of interesting old world lore clusters about slugs and snails, though considerably more about the latter than the former. That, however, is of the less importance, inasmuch as naturalists tell us the slug is practically a snail which wears its shell under its skin, though possibly the definition may be taken exception to from a scientific standpoint. It is worth remarking that, whereas everybody knows snails are considered a table luxury in several countries, nobody seems to wax ecstatic over slugs if we except the beche de mer, or sea slug, over which as prepared in the far east some writers have risen to poetical eloquence. The Romans used to fatten their edible snails on bran soaked in wine, and it is said, with a considerable emphasis on the "said," they attained such an abnormal size that the shell of one was reported to have a capacity of ten quarts.

Indirectly snails may be held to add still more largely to our supply of nourishing food, inasmuch as the famous Dartmoor mutton is said to owe its excellence of quality and flavor to the myriads of tiny snails eaten by the sheep as they browse on the short grass. It is a little disconcerting after this to read the old naturalists' dictum that the snail is "a worm of slime and always foul and unclean; is a manner snake and is a horned worm." Moreover, if any one troubled with warts will secure a snail, pierce it as many times as the unsightly excrescences number and then impale the hapless snail on a thorn tree as the creature dies the warts will disappear. Equally deserving the attention of the S. P. C. A. is a provincial cure for ague, which consists in putting a live snail into a bag and wearing it around the neck for nine days. It is then to be "thrown into the fire, when it is said to shake like the ague, and after this the patient is never troubled with the tedious complaint." "Stamped and mixed sometimes with cheese, lope and rennet, snails do draw out thorns if they be applied to the place," Lupton assures us, while the horns carried on the person insure the bearer's virtue. It is to be assumed that some at least of these drastic measures prove speedily mortal to the snails, though really some of the stories of their longevity and recuperative powers make one hesitate to dogmatize too positively.

And the snail is not without its quasi mystic attributes. Very widely spread is the childish "charm" by which it is adjured to put out its horns—"Snail, snail, come out of your hole or else I'll beat you as black as a coal." Sometimes a bribe is substituted for the threat, and "bread and barleycorns" are promised as an inducement to "show your horns." In Scotland it is said that the prompt obedience of the snail indicates that fine weather may be expected. In some places to catch a snail by its horns on the 1st of May and throw it over the left shoulder insures good luck.

Possibly one of the queerest ideas that have ever been promulgated about snails was that which gravely proposed to utilize them for the purposes of telegraphy, or, more strictly perhaps, telepathy. Snails, it was alleged, were excessively sympathetic. Two of them were put together for presumably sufficient time to bring them thoroughly en rapport, and the intending operators arranged their code. One of these went to New York with one snail and the other to Paris with the second. When the gentlemen in either capital wished to communicate with his friend, at an hour agreed upon, he put his snail on a dial marked with the characters of the code and moved it from one to the other till his message was spelled out, and the snail in the other capital would, impelled by the mysterious sympathy, of its own accord indicate on a corresponding dial the message letter by letter! That was the beautiful theory that was doomed to dismal failure.—London Globe.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

major in a good temper on the spot. He sang out for a wardsman to come and take charge of the gentleman's horses.

"Nevertheless," continued Daintree, "I take it that even you, sir, are acquainted with the name of the writer of the missive in my hand. I am the bearer, Major Honeybone," with immense pomposity, "of a letter from my friend, his excellency Sir George Gipps, the governor of this colony."

"Never met him," returned the major, with a twinkling eye. "It is my first acquaintance even with his handwriting." Indeed, his excellency had been not many weeks installed, but it was years since the major had heard tones so rich and periods so round as those of his excellency's friend, whom he thereupon escorted with hospitality to his house.

Now in this poor hut, opposite that stockade full of felons and in that desert place, the major kept a few dozens of admirable wine and some boxes of excellent cigars. Two of these were alight, and the gentlemen had clinked glasses and taken a sip before Major Honeybone would permit himself to open his excellency's letter. Hardly had he done so when he regretted both wine and cigars. He looked up suddenly and in wrath, which, however, was somewhat disarmed by the eager light he thus surprised in the visitor's strong and dusky face.

"What on earth do you want him for? I call this a most monstrous request," said Major Honeybone, and the last sentence was meant to have come first until Daintree's look inverted them.

"Request?" said Daintree, raising his eyebrows slightly.

"Yes, sir, request!" cried the major. "Command, sir, is a thing I don't take from a gentleman I've never had the honor of setting eyes on, and this is one that Sir Richard Bourke, sir, would sooner have died than give!"

Daintree pursed up his eyes. As it was only by patient exercise of two characteristic qualities that he had got the letter at all, so he now saw that he must trust to those two qualities to overcome this other masterful man. He must be diplomatic, he must have patience, he must pick his way where he could not force it, and it was very clear that there would be no forcing this Major Honeybone.

The letter authorized and begged the major to deliver and hand over Thomas Erichsen, Seahorse, then undergoing sentence in the major's iron gang, to the bearer, who particularly wished to have him for his assigned bodyservant and undertook to make himself thenceforward responsible for the said convict's good behavior. It was an irregular letter. No reason was given for granting such a favor at all. It did say, however, that Mr. Daintree would give his reasons, and with the letter in both hands, as though on the point of tearing it up, the major leaned back in his chair and regarded the other with a prolonged and curious stare.

"What are your reasons?" he asked at length.

"He is an innocent man," replied Daintree impressively.

"A convicted murderer, I understand."

"Wrongly convicted. I followed his case. Did you?"

"No, sir," said the major. "They give me quite enough work out here."

"Well, I did follow it," the visitor went on. "Between ourselves, Major Honeybone, I did a great deal more than that. The case interested me from the first. I knew something about this poor lad. That knowledge, together with the circumstances of the case, convinced me at the time that he was an innocent man."

"He isn't one now," remarked Major Honeybone.

"I—I am not a pauper, sir," proceeded Daintree, with embarrassment. "I don't want this to go any farther; but, you see, I knew something about the boy, and, in short, I found the money for his defense."

"The dickens you did!" exclaimed the major. "Then you were a friend of his?"

"I am his friend, sir, though he has never seen me."

"It was a noble thing to do—'pon my soul it was!" observed the major, very much impressed. "Quite quixotic, 'pon my soul!"

This open admiration hit Daintree in his weakest spot. He leaned forward and quoted the irresistible figures in a sudden blaze of self satisfaction.

"Lor'!" said the major. "You don't say so? Gadzooks!"

"When I do a thing at all," remarked Daintree, with perfect truth, "I do it with all my heart. Either that or I leave it alone. So I need hardly tell you I didn't stop short at Sergeant Culliford. No, sir, I went to Lord John Russell himself. It would be an affectation were I to conceal my impression that his lordship's final decision was not uninfluenced by what I said."

Major Honeybone was too used to lies not to know the truth when he chanced to hear it. He filled up both glasses and sucked thoughtfully at his cigar. Daintree watched him with an eager eye.

"So he owes his life to you?" said

"Take it away," growled Tom.

the major at last. "Well, sir, then it is my duty to tell you that he owes you the greatest conceivable grudge."

Daintree sighed.

"I know what you mean," said he. "I have heard much from the principal superintendent of convicts. I am only afraid I have more to hear from you."

"Not a great deal," said the major, shrugging his shoulders. "He has had four floggings here and one before he came here, but that's always the way. I have known convicts who have never had the lash, but very few who've only had it once. It has a bad effect. But what can you do? I may tell you, sir, now that I think we understand each other, you are not the only man interested in Erichsen. I take an interest in him myself, but there's no doing anything with him, and there would be no doing anything with any of 'em if I didn't come down on him as he will insist on deserving. I am sorry for him. I am sorry for you as his friend, but he's the most dangerous man in my gang, and it would be a piece of madness to set him free. It would amount to that, you know, but Gipps can't possibly push the matter any further after what I shall tell him, and no more must you, Mr. Daintree—you mustn't, indeed. Come, sir, I can't say more. I am almost as sorry as you are. He's a good sportsman!" cried old Honeybone, who was one himself. "I only wish he was hunting with the hounds instead of running with these confounded foxes of convicts!"

Daintree took all this meekly. The major was not a little softened; that was something, but he might be made softer yet. It seemed to Daintree that a sufficiently affecting interview between himself and Erichsen, with Major Honeybone looking on, might have that effect. He pictured the convict in tears upon his knees, he heard his grateful broken utterances. He foresaw moisture even in the major's orbs, and he was prepared if necessary to go upon his own knees to crave the interview.

It was not necessary. Honeybone shrugged his shoulders and left the room, with Daintree sitting very still in his chair. He was not so still when the door shut, however. He sprang up and looked in a glass. He sat down again, wiping his forehead and his lips and shrinking from what he courted like a swain. He had taken deep note of Erichsen at his trial. That honest, fearless, guiltless gaze, he could see it still, yet he had sought it in vain half an hour since in the iron gang.

A soldier entered with a lighted lamp. Daintree pushed back his chair a little and was kept waiting no longer. Chains jingled outside, and in another moment the convict was ushered in by a sentry under arms, followed by the major, who shut the door.

"Was this necessary?" whispered Daintree, glancing at the fixed bayonet, with a shudder.

"Quite," replied the major aloud. "You don't know your man."

He did not indeed. The fearlessness remained, and that was all.

Daintree was speaking nervously, forcibly, with none of his habitual affectations, with little of his customary flow. He was saying he had taken an interest in the case at home in England and had all along believed in the prisoner's innocence. The prisoner stopped him at that word.

"There's only one man living who thinks so," said he. "I know now where I've seen you before. It was at my trial. You are the man."

"What man?"

"The one that saved my life. My worst friend!"

The hoarse and surly voice stabbed Daintree to the heart. He saw Honeybone look at him and recalled the major's very similar words. He started up and offered Erichsen his hand.

"Take it away," growled Tom. "Say what you want with me, for God's sake!"

No; it was not Daintree's ideal interview. As little did it resemble the meeting with his benefactor which Tom had once pictured and even vainly solicited, but all so long ago—in that other life—that upon him the contrast was lost. All he still remembered was that he had once imagined himself indebted to this person for the blessed gift of life. All he now perceived was his mistake and what a malignant curse that blessed gift had proved. Not that he resented it any more. He no longer resented anything in the world. Even this person's kind, well meant, emotional remarks moved him to no stronger feeling than one of slight impatience, nor was he listening when a look, an intonation, a pause, informed him that he had been asked a question.

"Say it again," said Tom.

"I want you for my assigned servant," repeated Daintree, disregarding both the decision and the presence of Major Honeybone, who sat there quite enjoying the prospect of further opposition. "I want to be your friend—to take you away from this ghastly place—to sponge the very memory of it out of your mind. The governor agrees to it. I have his written leave. Will you come with me, Erichsen? Will you come? Will you come?"

"You're very good," said Tom. "I prefer to stop where I am."

"What?" cried both gentlemen at once. The major looked personally aggrieved.

"I prefer the iron gang."

"To my house—my protection—my friendship?"

Horror and mortification were in the rich, strong tones and in the flushed and swarthy face.

"I prefer the iron gang," repeated Tom, but his voice was weaker—he noticed it himself—and with the next breath was crying savagely that he would not go, that he would stop where he was, and who was Daintree to come interfering there? A lot he minded what the governor or what fifty governors said. There he was, and there he meant to stick. No power on earth should shift him out of that.

"Oh!" said the major. "No power, eh?"

"Sentry, remove that man!"

The rest of the gang were at supper. Tom clanked in and sat down with a rattle. He nodded to one or two desperate kindred spirits, half proudly, as much as to say: "All right, my lads. I'm not the man to desert his pals. I'm true game to those that are true game to me. I'm that if I'm nothing else." Those indeed were the words in his heart, but nobody answered his nod; only some irons jingled where Creasey had reached out under the table and given Macbeth a kick.

As they were all shuffling out of the mess shed Butler took a pill of paper from his mouth and pressed it into Tom's hand. Tom unrolled it on his ledge and furtively read it while the sentry still stood with his lantern on the threshold.

These eleven words:

Hardly had he deciphered them when a wardsman thrust in his head and summoned Erichsen to the major's quarters.

"They've been quick about it," thought Tom as another wardsman joined them on the way.

The major looked very stern and strong. Daintree was drawing on his gloves. Tom thought he recognized the little heap of clothes upon the floor. The trousers were blood stained still.

"Now, sir!" cried the major, with a glittering eye. "I think you said that no power on earth would shift you out of this? Off with those irons, men, and he shall see!"

Through the black window glowed the curricle lamps.

CHAPTER XXIV.

TOM crawled into the vehicle as though those heavy chains still dangled about his legs. Nothing was so strange as the sudden cessation of the horrid jingle which had marked and mocked every movement of his body for four whole months. He felt quite lost without it, and he clambered into the curricle without a word. Daintree cracked his whip, and that was the sole sound from either of them in the first half hour of keen and starlit freedom.

"Feel cold, Erichsen?"

"No."

"Because you can have my coat if you do. My things are thicker. Only say the word."

He said nothing. Such gratitude as he felt in his degraded heart was not yet so poignant as to need expression. It was a very vague, dull sense at present. But Daintree understood. He had simply to sit next that silent, aged, callous figure to understand all.

They drove on to Maitland, where they supped handsomely and lay all

MAYOR BEGG AND THE DEPUTATION

The report of the meeting of the Finance and Assessment committee of the County Council, which appeared in Saturday evening's Post, dealt with the appointing of a committee of the County Council to confer with the committee from the board of Trade which was headed by Mayor Begg and Alderman Smale. The matter was introduced by Alderman Smale, who was followed in a very comprehensive and reasonable speech by Mr. Graham, who seemed to voice the whole ground. Those who composed the deputation were at a loss to understand the committee's hesitate attitude towards the matter until the ladies had left, but Mayor Begg said that the chairman of the committee, Mr. Farling, after the deputation had withdrawn, to the effect that the deputation should not be taken seriously into account by the committee, as it was not backed up by the Town Council, but was a committee of the Board of Trade who had acted entirely in the matter.

The Post could not credit the above unsupported, as Mayor Begg had headed the deputation and was accompanied by Ald. Smale, and yesterday we called up Mr. Farling at his home in Cobcomb, who confirmed the remarks imputed to the Mayor.

We understand the deputation did went to strengthen the hands of Mayor Begg in his appeal to the County Council, and when a committee composed of prominent business men of the town are virtually turned down by the ridiculous remarks made by the town's chief representative, it is not time to enquire what kind of a man we have in the Mayor's chair?

The question of separation is not fully understood or endorsed by the majority of our citizens, but the different points involved can be profitably discussed in a friendly way with the County Council no matter which way Mayor Begg's personal opinions may lead him, but he should have at least seen that a committee of the town's business men from the Board of Trade received the attention given other delegations which from time to time appear before this honorable body.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Montreal municipal elections took place Monday, Ald. Leslie Hyde defeating Hon. E. Bayl, M. L. A., Speaker of the Quebec Assembly, by 2786 votes. The Toronto World says: The remarkable feature of this contest is in the fact that Alderman Hyde's majority was made, called the Irish Catholic vote on a man.

Well, our opinion is that such examples of fickleness and lack of loyalty are not remarkable on the score of infrequency, and would occur more frequently still if such cases received the display by reporting men sufficiently alive to their business value.

A Warming-up Run.

About 11 o'clock this morning an G. T. R. passenger, bagging yet standing in front of the shed on Kent St., a piece of paper flew out of a window in the Highland Mills, which started down Kent St. at a good clip. It turned south and landed at Lindsay St. The bagging, with its rounding the corner, overturned the shack, spilling out a rug and a couple of baskets. The shack righted itself, however, in a short time with no damage, and the rug and baskets were south. At the Sandford corners, a few miles out of town, a team of Mr. Wm. Pickett ran out and caught the shack and strewed it back to its owner. No damage was done.

GRAND CHANCE FOR FARMERS' SONS

(To the Editor of The Post)

Dear Sir,—Herewith I enclose an article on the course proposed, "The Course Course." If you can find space for this article particularly in your issue of the 15th, it will give the Course, and will prove beneficial to your country visitors.

Trusting you will favor the insertion of the article, I am,—Yours very truly,

F. H. BEDD.

TWO MONTHS' COURSE IN AGRICULTURE AT THE LINDSAY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

This is a Course Course Schedule for farmers and farmers' sons cannot be spared for a longer period from the farm. The Course will open on Wednesday, February 19th, and will continue until April 19th, or until taking the Course are needed on the farm for a "spring work."

The Course will be made as practical as possible and will comprise:—Animal Husbandry, or stock raising, Dairying, or the formation, care and management of a dairy herd; Soil Husbandry, or the growing of farm crops; Horticulture, or the growing of fruits and vegetables; Apiary, or bee keeping; a study of the pests of grains, grasses and weeds; Farm Mechanics, or farm carpentry. Instruction in these subjects will be given during regular school hours, and the classes, and the classes will be conducted in much the same manner as other Collegiate classes.

The expenses of the Course will be, Tuition free (the same as for all Courses at the Collegiate) $1 per month; books, "Judge's Schedule" $1.25, "Canadian Dairying," $0.50, "Farm and Stock of Farm," $0.50, "Veterinary Elements," $1.40. Purchased together with board and travelling expenses, would probably total about $30.

Already applications have been received from the chairman of the boards in age from 15 to 45 years. This Course is open to male of all ages, whether they be a farmer's son, nephew, etc., and the Course should prove very helpful to farmers and farmers' sons. No entrance examination is required, and no application is necessary. Any one can take the Course, arrange to be at the Collegiate Institute on Wednesday, February 19th.

Railway Service Badly Obstructed

Several Trains Cancelled and all Connections Hours Behind Time.

Owing to the bad weather and drifting snows, the Haliburton and Bobcaygeon railways were cancelled on Day. The Peterboro Falls morning train was also cancelled. The train due at Lindsay at 12.05 noon for Toronto was not made up. In fact the railway has had to cut off the trains on all the smaller lines and devote their entire attention to getting the main lines clear. Even though Freight is almost entirely cancelled even on some of the more busy roads, for it is closed to all as an engine and a couple of cars will be sent out from one to place.

The morning G. T. R. train of 6 o'clock and other from Toronto and Lindsay, with snowplows, ploughs and two engines, power, and men were sent immediately to the line. It was expected at 11 o'clock this afternoon but it was 2 hours in the attempt to reach Lindsay, and at least five or six in the evening.

The train of 11 from from Toronto was somewhat lighter this morning, arriving here without meeting any delay, but arrived at least three o'clock, just a few minutes late.

Last night's G.T.R. Toronto train, also being made a schedule, did not leave Port Hope until 10.30, while the flyer, due at 8.15, did not get in till between 11 and 12.

Governor-General's Trophy.

Quebec, Feb. 3.—Twenty-two artillery, eleven Dragoons and six mounted, have been selected for the Bill Grey trophy, which dramatic competition will be held here the week of Feb. 24th. Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Kingston, Quebec City and Ottawa are the places which will send contingents. Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto send the greatest number of entries, and so only twelve companies can be judged in the semi-finals, will have to be five of these companies dropped in preliminary judging.

Reeve Jordan, Taken To Task, Called Ald. Smale a Tale-Bearer

Remark Withdrawn in Tentative Fashion at a Later Stage—Trouble Arose During Discussion Anent County Council's Treatment of Board of Trade Committee—Other Business Dealt With.

THE ASSESSORSHIP.

Deputy-reeve Eyres seconded by Ald. Ross, moved the first reading of a by-law to appoint assessors. Council then went into committee of the whole, Deputy-reeve Eyres in the chair.

Moved by Mayor Begg, seconded by Reeve Jordan, that the first clause be filled in with the name of Geo. H. Litchen.

Ald. McGeough—I move Jamen Fleury for the assessor's position.

Ald. Smale—Before voting upon that I would like to divide the question and question as to the advisability of appointing one assessor instead of two. Several years ago, when there were two appointed, there were special reasons thereof. I did not know the duties of the two assessors, suffice with one assessor, and I will move that only one be appointed, as in the city.

Chairman Eyres—You're a little out of order. The man was appointed at Mayor's request, and the only opposition on or two so illegal.

Mayor Begg—Have you any reason to think that he not competent to do it?

Ald. Smale—No, I haven't examined the matter at all.

Mayor Begg—Well, I called Lindsay — he said he would move it in the city owing to the extra work caused by the immigrant and business nation."

Ald. Smale—I have been told by a prominent man in connection with this Council — that the thing is partisan appointed.

Mayor Begg—I may say that I fought for that change before, but it means we cannot get it."

A vote was taken on the original motion, and Mr. Lindsay was declared appointed.

Ald. Campbell seconded Ald. McGeough's motion that Mr. Jas. Fleury be appointed assessor, and the motion carried.

Moved by Reeve Jordan, seconded by Ald. Ross, that the remuneration blank be filled in with the sum of $175 each—Carried.

Moved by Reeve Jordan, seconded by Ald. Ross, that the remuneration blank be filled in with the sum of $175, each—Carried.

Committee rose and reported, whereupon By-law No. 1134 was give on its first reading.

WILL SEND PETITION.

Moved by Ald. Dobson, seconded by Ald. Ross, that the solicitor be instructed to examine the report of the County Judge upon the equalization, and to prepare petition on the report to this Council upon the advisability of proclaiming the Legislature to amend the Assessment Act so as to conform with the improvement suggested by his Honor the County Judge, and to be authorized to sign himself, and that the solicitor and the clerk be authorized to prepare the necessary petitions—Carried.

A LIVELY "TIFF."

Ald. Smale—I would like to ask a question. As a member of the board of trade and a member of the County equalization was gone into at some length by Council, I was surprised to see a motion was made to confer with a committee of the Board of Trade. They did not meet with us. In the ordinary way, our representatives of both bodies met the County Council as its request session and asked that the matter be amicably adjourned till the next session. That would be only fair, and I think the Council acted unfairly to do it. It seems to me very, that the town's representatives did not great for the occasion. I wish to speak in ask kindness, and would like to know if our representatives neglected a matter which so deeply concerned our interests. I have been informed that our representatives informed the County Council that it was not necessary to go into the matter, and that representatives of the Board of Trade."

Reeve Jordan (with great warmth) —The statements are erroneous, and I'm sorry that Ald. Smale has allowed the report to be made. It is a tale of tale-bearer. (Ald. Smale—"Order! order! I suggest, Mr. Chairman, the report was absolutely true, and in public opinion, and is absolutely untrue. If you had heard the matter fully reported you would know that I did all in my power to help the town's cause — that I urged the Council unanimously to give the town deputation a good reception. The tale to the contrary has been devised and circulated with a malicious purpose. Ald. Smale blames me for not doing my duty — I blame Ald. Smale for carrying such tales. The report in The Post, which, short, set forth fairly what I proposed, for, the chairman would not heed my suggestion."

Ald. Smale—"I explained that my information was given in good faith, and I am open to correction. If my information is wrong, then, you owe me an apology for a tale-bearer, and therefore I appeal to the chairman, and let fairness and allowing it. I said I heard a satisfactory explanation would be made—I have had none."

Reeve Jordan—"I don't want to be insulting to anyone, hence I'll withdraw the expression used, and tell your informant to come and see the rams to me."

Deputy-reeve Eyres—"I'm sorry the matter arose. Ald. Smale must have overlooked some of the items in the report, Reeve Jordan and myself spent all the moral suasion possible, I trust the spirit that characterized Ald. Smale in the remarks of his characteristics all his movements, regret accordingly that he and Mr. Graham just fit to come down to County Council to understand that if certain concessions were not made, the town would go and leave the county. Moral suasion might accomplish something, but the County Council would not yield to it if it be threatened."

Mayor Begg—The committee appointed by Council held no meeting, for did the committee appointed by the Board of Trade. We met in the County Council on Thursday, and the Finance committee was then in session, and the matter was even deferred until next day. Thursday night the Board of Trade met and elected their officers and officers, they took it upon themselves to appoint a committee to wait upon the County Council. I heard that they had proceeded to send the committee, and I enquired what they were going to ask of the County Council, adding that I thought they might as well stay away. They had me to understand that your committee had insisted upon the way a request was made, and hinted broadly that the County Council had never done aught in the right way. I didn't believe it would do any use if the Board of Trade asked for $175 from County, I wouldn't get it. From the County Council."

Ald. Smale—"We didn't ask for anything that was not easy and proper to grant. — we simply urged that the matter of the town's share in expense of money expended on bridges be referred to a committee, to be reported upon at the June session. The County Council's reply was to the effect that if a properly constituted committee from the town of Lindsay had preferred the request, it would have been all right. I think Reeve Jordan and our other representatives were remiss in not having formed one on the request that the town Council was well represented at the two reeves and one alderman."

Deputy-reeve Eyres — "The County Committees were very emphatic in the matter. However, they said that if at the June session — the town's case was properly presented, they might act likewise."

Council then adjourned.

Conductor Had Narrow Escape

Came Near Being Drawn Beneath the Snow Plow While Driving a Pin.

Conductor T. Stapleton, of the G. T. snow plow, had a rather narrow escape from death the other day. It appears that his wife was stopped up a station, and after everything was ready to go on again he gave the signal, and was making a loose pin, and hanged over to drive it in. He slipped down way and was his foot caught in the rigging of the plow, badly spraining it. If the engineer had not looked his danger and immediately stopped the engine, he might have been drawn in and smashed—maybe to death.

Town League Games To-night

Two Interesting Games on the List—Matches Will be Hard Fought.

To-night's Town League games, Little Britain vs. Bankers, and Y.M.C.A. vs. C.L.S., promise to very interesting. All the teams have been practicing hard since last games, and the have some of the fastest material in town. Each team is confident of their ultimate success, and are going to do its best to night to win out.

The Y.M.C.A. line-up will be: Goal, Newton; point, Tomlinson; cover-point, Crowe; centre, Meaney; left wing, Yarnold; right wing, Williams; rover, Preston. The other teams have not handed their line-ups in, but no doubt have the strongest they can.

Notwithstanding the Fatigue Engendered by a Railway Jaunt of 181 Miles, Our Clever Bunch of Hockey Players Simply Ran Away With Their Opponents in Last Night's Fast Game.

What was perhaps the most exciting and hard-fought game of the season so far was pulled off last night in Brockville between the Lindsay Intermediates and the Brockville team, winners of Group No. 1.

The Lindsay boys had a long and tiresome day on the train, besides having to rise at an early hour to catch it, and doubtless could have "put it over" the Brockville team harder if they had been fresher.

The play from start to finish was clean and fast, both teams making rush and counter-rush throughout the game. The play did not lag an instant despite the seeming one-sidedness of the score, for every goal counts in this series. Bus Newton starred as usual with his finest brand of goal-keeping, and only one shot passed him during the entire play. Koyle was the wonder and admiration of every eye owing to his magnificent rushes. Coley, Randall, Stoddard and Taylor got a good brand of "com" going, and also did some first-class individual play, while Sullivan, at cover, broke up many a good-looking rush for the Brockvillites.

At half-time the score stood 3-1 in favor of Lindsay. Brockville scored the only shot for themselves in this half. In the second half the play was still harder, as the Brockville team were determined to redeem themselves, but our boys held them down in such shape that they didn't score a single goal, while Lindsay added two more to her showing of three, making a total at the end of the game of five goals.

During the second half Sullivan got a knock-out blow that put him hors-de-combat during the rest of the game. To remedy matters Coley was moved back to cover-point, Brockville laid off a man, and the play went on with six men a side. At the end of the game the score stood — Lindsay 5, Brockville 1.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The penalties on Lindsay boys were divided up among Coley, Taylor and Sullivan, but all showed remarkably good play.

Brockville men were off the ice a good deal.

Everyone is saying, "I told you so."

The full-time score did not reach town till nearly eleven o'clock.

The boys were expected back on almost every train to-day, but were not in at time of going to press.

—Despite the cold last night, quite a good-sized crowd attended the skating rink to enjoy a few rounds to the music of the band and to hear the score of the Brockville-Lindsay hockey match. When the half-time score of 3-1 in favor of Lindsay, was announced a few minutes after nine, the skaters cheered lustily as they passed the blackboard with the figures on it. Owing to the lateness of the hour the management closed the rink before the final score, 5-1, was in.

To Fix Amount Due As Damages

Eldon Township Case Now Being Argued at Court House Here.

For the last four or five days Judge Harding has been busy hearing evidence to determine the amount of damages due Dougall Smith, of Thorah, from the township of Eldon, for damages to his land by a drain, which the township built, diverting water so that it ran onto his property, carrying sand, refuse, etc., and making useless a portion of it. Stewart and Roach, of Beaverton, appear for Smith, and F. A. McDiarmid for Eldon township.

This case was tried before Judge Riddell, who decided in favor of the plaintiff, Dougall Smith, and referred the case to Judge Harding to determine the amount due.

A large number of witnesses have been subpoened and examined.

Our Curlers Look Like Sure Winners

Our Tankard rinks won out in their 2nd draw yesterday afternoon against Southampton, by 13 shots, which placed them in the finals with the famous Rennie rinks, of the Caledonians. The game started this afternoon at 1.30. As we go to press, the telephone report is that our rinks are 8 shots down with 8 ends to play. Lindsay are good finishers.

Schoolboy Badly Frozen.

A young boy in Ops, while going from his home to school the other morning, was caught in a snow storm and badly frost-bitten. His face, ears and both hands and arms up past the wrists, were frozen. He was taken to a neighboring house, where medical assistance was obtained.

RELIABLE GLASSES.

The human eye is such a delicately constructed organ of the body that it will pay everybody to heed well the first symptoms of failing or defective sight.

It is equally important to consult the most reliable authority on the subject.

If your eyes give you the least trouble or pain of any kind, we would strongly advise you to let us examine them at least—it costs nothing. Having passed with honor the highest examinations, and having had a great deal of experience, we consider we are better able than most to give your trouble the very best attention.

The Rush Continues at B. J. Gough's Great Winding-up Sale.

This startling Winding-up Sale has proven a great benefit to people who have purchased the high-grade Clothing, Furnishings, Hats, Caps and Furs that we are offering at a saving of about half price. Never before have the Men and Boys of Lindsay and Victoria County had a better opportunity offered to them as this Great Winding-up Sale has made possible. The crowds of last week and the immense amount of business done was to us another evidence of the wisdom of inaugurating this sale. But the stock must be sold at once, and in order to sell the goods quickly we have made great reductions that space will not permit mentioning.

The Theatre Was Spared By Christ

Prominent Presbyterian Divine Makes Mention of Fact From Pulpit.

In Monday's issue "The Stroller" indulged in a crack at theatre-going and sport. In rebuttal of his ideas re the former, we quote from a sermon recently delivered by Rev. Dr. Lyle, of Hamilton, who, speaking in Central Presbyterian church, in that city, said:

The theatre, by its very nature, was the highest form of amusement. Through its ideas for architecture and dress were formed, and it developed literature. The men who had studied lietrature would find that the drama contained man's best and grandest thoughts on life and all things connected with it. The drama had been the great teacher of history and portrayer of biography, and had taught men about men, by holding the minor up to nature. This led to the question; "Was the existence of the theatre justified; or rather, was the church justified in taking an attitude of hostility to the theatre? Was that the attitude that would bring the best results? He did not think so. The scriptures, and especially Christ, had nothing to say about the drama. Revelation had not one work of attack on the theatre or the drama, but it lashed every vice vigorously. Where was the man that was fair-minded and honorable who could say that Christ condemned the theatre? Slavery was condemned frequently in the new testament, and if the theatre in Christ's day was so bad as some would try to make us believe, would not Christ have left some words of condemnation of it?

The heresies uttered by "The Stroller" on the subject of sport deserve a reply, but we leave him to the tender mercies of Mr. J. D. Flavelle, our famous skip. Hockey players are not in it with the curlers when it comes down to enthusiasm and love of the game.

Rosedale Section Of Trent Canal

It has been announced that the contract for the Rosedale section of the Trent Canal, has been let to the Randolph McDonald Construction Company Limited, of Toronto. Superintending Engineer Grant, who has given out the announcement of the latest contract, was not in a position to state the price.

The Rosedale section lies between Cameron Lake and Balsam Lake, and west of Fenelon Falls. A new lock, a new dam, and a short neck of land between the two lakes, belong to this portion. The work to be done will be on the same dimensions as on the Rice Lake Lake section. The locks will be 8 feet 4 inches deep on the sills, and 9 feet in the canal. The lock chamber will be 75 feet between the quoins, and 23 feet in width.

Besides the Trenton section, the contract for which was awarded to the English firm, there is also section No. 5, in the portion of the canal south of Peterboro. The work on this latter section is being rapidly constructed by the contractors, Messrs. Brown and Aylmer. This part is in the Campbellford district.

Thus the whole route of this great inland waterway is being disposed of. The newly-let Rosedale section is not a lengthy stretch. Farther north, however, in the last link to Lake Simcoe, there is a rather long portion.

The Government continues to progress with the work, and is standing by its decision to carry it to as early a completion as possible.

Must Have Been a Quick Lunch.

Lethbridge, Alberta, Herald; Perhaps a picnic party on the 24th of January is something—is a most remarkable incident. Yesterday G. M. Hatch with two land men, Messrs. McLeod, of Minnewauken, N. D., and Wardrope, of Leeds, N. D., drove about twenty-five miles into the country, and when lunch time came they unhitched the horses, took out their lunch, and sat on the ground with their coats off to have some refreshment. They say it was too warm to keep their coats on. The visiting gentlemen say that, coming from North Dakota, such an experience was certainly a novelty.

Some Wise Sayings For Busy Readers

The Shell Game Fakir Has Studied His Job and Knows It.

The people who suffer most are always those who have a sense of justice.

To refuse to yield to others when reason or a special cause require it is a mark of pride and stiffness.

There is no pleasure beyond the rule of righteousness, there is no pleasure in what injures another.

Where others give up is just the place to get your second mind.

Enthusiasm tempered with conservatism is a winning combination; while conservatism seasoned with enthusiasm seldom attains results.

It pays to use brains in business. If you haven't them it will pay to hire them.

Ability often awaits opportunity, but opportunity waits for no man.

It's time enough to talk back to the boss when your salary equals his.

It is not enough to strike the iron while it is hot, but we must strike it till we make it hot. — Seymour Eaton.

A strong team—cleverness and hustle.

He that does good for good's sake seeks neither praise nor reward, though sure of both at last.—William Penn.

We all laugh at the innocent Rube who is skinned by the shell-game fakir, yet how many of us are trying to play the same game in our everyday life. You can't beat a man at his own game.

The time and energy you wasted in grumbling might have won laurels for you if you had used it to good advantage. Regrets for the past are in vain; it's work in the present and hope and plans for the future that win.

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush and the man who is always turning in a fair share of business every day is a long way in the lead of the fellow who always has an enormous deal just ready to close, but which never materializes.

Correspondents' Newsy Letters

PALESTINE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The exceedingly stormy weather and bad roads of the last two weeks has made business rather dull. Only those who cannot very well avoid travelling are on the roads at present.

Mr. Dan McMillan spent Sunday last with Sonya friends.

Grant Keown has gone to Glenarm to learn the blacksmithing with Mr. Wood, of that place.

Miss Bessie J. McMillan is spending the week with Islay friends.

Mr. Duncan McNabb has been laid up with a serious attack of rheumatism for the past two weeks.

Mr. John and Miss Sadie Murchison, of Fenelon, also Mr. Percy Murchison, of Souris, Man., visited at Mr. C. McMillan's last week.

Mr. D. J. McMillan has sold a nice span of horses to Mr. Dan McEachern, who intends taking them west in the spring.

On Monday an army of men could be seen in every direction armed with shovels, in the attempt to make the king's highway fit for public travel.

OAKWOOD

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. George Bowes, of Kansas City, is at present the guest of his sister, Mrs. A. O. Hogg.

Mr. Harold Hogg, of the L. C. I., is at home this week with bronchitis.

Miss Hazel Coad and Miss Evelyn Cameron are both at home this week, owing to indisposition.

Miss Ethel Prouse, of the Federal Business College, and Miss Hazel Richardson, of the L. C. I., left on Monday morning for town. Owing to bad roads they had quite a lively time getting to the station.

Mrs George Douglas, of Manilla, is with her daughter, Mrs Jas. Thorndyke, who, we are sorry to learn, is dangerously ill and very low at the time of writing. We hope for a speedy recovery.

There was no school in the senior department on Friday afternoon last owing to the illness of our teacher, Mr G. B. Rennie. We are pleased to know that he was able to take his work again on Monday.

Owing to the storm on Saturday our ministers were unable to get to their outside appointments on the Sabbath.

The course of lectures arranged for this week on teachers' work by Mr. Brown has been indefinitely postponed.

The religious quarterly service which was to have been held last Sabbath will be held on Sunday, the 16th.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church intend giving an entertainment on Wednesday evening, the 12th. A good program is being prepared and refreshments will be served. Admission 10c. Come and enjoy the evening.

Mr. Lewis was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Will Pascoe, over Sunday.

Since writing the above we learn that Mrs. James Thorndyke died on Tuesday afternoon, the 4th. She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas, of Manilla. Beside her husband she leaves three small children, all under three years of age (one a babe of 10 days), her parents and one brother to mourn her loss. The bereaved friends have the sympathy of the entire community in their great loss.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The weather and roads have prevented the surrounding country people coming to the village.

We regret to hear of the affliction and bereavement in the late Dennis Scully's family, in the death of their beloved daughter.

The attendance at our different churches was small on Sunday owing to the impassable condition of the roads.

Lagrippe cases are again prevalent here.

The short course at Lindsay has created great interest. Many became aware of the facts they had not yet acquired, and all the information and knowledge for successful farming.

Our hockey boys suffered quite a defeat from Fenelon Falls fast team. Score 10-4. It was a splendid exhibition.

Quite a number of our hockey lovers will attend Friday night's game between Lindsay and Brockville. Mr. Grout, manager of the Bank of Toronto, an old Brockville boy, says the eastern boys are an ambitious bunch of athletes.

Notwithstanding the inclement state of the weather and roads, considerable interest was shown at the polls on Monday in the contest for reeve between F. J. Parsons, ex-reeve, and Geo. Griffin, one of the past counsellors, resulting in a victory for Griffin, although Parsons took a good vote out of over 100 votes polled. Carey was elected councillor, and D. Graham, of Lamb's tannery staff, is the new councillor by a small majority over Scott, also of the tannery staff. The contestants most favorable to Local Option, got the largest vote. We hope to see our new Council take a strong interest in the welfare of the village. We need improved fire protection, a snow plow to clean the streets and a water sprinkler for the streets in the summer season.

Mr. Sadler, proprietor of the fruit cleaning machines, paid our village a business trip after an absence of one year. He was engaged setting up power machines in California, but owing to the stringency in the money market, was forced to retire from business. Mr. Sadler is looking after his plant and property at Mount Pleasant and Peterboro.

One of our Sunday school boys, who had been taught by his parents before attending the school not to take God's name in vain, or curse and swear, on hearing the teacher use God's name in the lesson, put on his cap and returned home. He was afraid to stay with swearers.

Courtemay & Sons' saw mill is running at full blast and doing good work in sawing lumber and shingles.

We expect to have the dredge on our waters early in the spring.

Mrs. Thos. Stephenson's condition is much the same, also that of Dr. Cornwall, owing to their advanced age.

Latest news from Ops says Geo. Caldwell, a victim of anaemia, is in a hopeless state. Much regret is felt by his many friends, who are sorry to hear of his being smitten in the prime of life.

Mrs. Pritchard's funeral was attended last week by Jas. Stuart, L. Windrum and others. The deceased was an old and respected resident.

The Shipman Crest.

Considerable interest has been manifested in the crest bearing the Latin inscription "Non praeda sed Victoria", and around the outer circle the words in English "The Ernest Shipman Management." The design is the crest of the Shipman coat of arms, and it appears on all the printing and lithographing of the first companies under Mr. Shipman's management. The translation reads, "Not the spoils, but victory." Mr. Shipman being questioned, admitted that he did not approve of things of a personal nature being introduced into general business, but that he rather superstitious over the family motto, and that for years it had guided his aim for the betterment of his attractions, and the successful establishment of himself as the producer of first-class plays.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

FATHER OF THE VIOLIN

Gaspar da Salo, Who Fashioned the First Instrument.

THE PRIZE OLE BULL DREW.

How a Gaspar da Salo Masterpiece Was Secured by a Vienna Collector and How It Passed Into the Hands of the Gifted Man From Norway.

In the year of our Lord 1524 in the little Lombard town of Salo, on the picturesque Lago di Garda, was born the man who fashioned the first violin. His real name was Garpar Bertolotti, but he was and is commonly known as Gaspar da Salo, after his native city, which caused a marble bust of this most distinguished of its sons to be executed by the Italian sculptor Zanelli and placed in the stairway of its city hall.

Of his youth and apprenticeship we know nothing. No doubt he learned the art of viol and lute making at Brescia, where he came in touch with master lutiers like Zanetto, Virchi and Montichiari.

At all events, we first hear of him as established at Brescia as a viol and violin maker. Time has smoothed away all knowledge of the real man, whether he was industrious or idle, generous or ungenerous, happy or unhappy, wise or unwise, married or single. That he made viols, tenors, basses and violins we know. That his violins are the first authentic specimens of the violin maker's art in existence or of which there is authentic record is also certain. So his title to the distinction of being the first violin maker can hardly be questioned.

However, about the year 1812 a claim was put forward that a certain Gaspar Duiffpruggear was the inventor of the violin. The story ran that this Gaspar Duiffpruggear was born in the Tyrol in 1469, that he established himself at Lutier, in Bologna (famous for its sausages), that in 1515 he was summoned to Paris by Francis I. and appointed "royal instrument maker" and that he was the friend and intimate of Leonardo da Vinci, who painted the backs of some of his violins.

Soon after this account of Duiffpruggear and his violins was published three violins which were alleged to be the genuine work of Duiffpruggear made their appearance, with labels dated 1510 to 1518.

It is now settled that these violins were fraudulent, made by some skillful French lutier, possibly Vuillaume. Moreover, it is now known that Duiffpruggear was a German, born in Bavaria in 1514, and that his real name was Tieffenbrucker. He was never in Italy, and the story of his relations with Francis I. and Leonardo da Vinci is a fabrication. It is now established that he settled in Lyons, France, about 1550 and died there about 1570 or 1571. The only evidence which in any wise supports or gives color to the claim that Duiffpruggear ever made a violin is a picture by Pierre Worlriot, dated 1562, now in the National library at Paris. This picture is a portrait of Duiffpruggear at the age of forty-eight, in which he is represented with a long, flowing beard standing behind a pile of stringed instruments, among which appear two rude violins. Gaspar da Salo was making violins at Brescia at this time, 1562, so the picture falls far short of proving that the Italian Gaspar was anticipated by the man from Bavaria.

But what weighs almost conclusively against Duiffpruggear's claim is the fact that the art of violin making in France does not claim him as its ancestor, for the first French violin makers of whom we have authentic record and of whose work we possess genuine specimens learned their art in Italy and copied from Brescian and Cremonese models.

On the other hand, from the seed planted by Gaspar da Salo a great tree has grown, and to him the world of music owes an incalculable debt of gratitude.

Gaspar da Salo died at Brescia April 14, 1609, and was buried in the old church of San Giuseppe.

Unfortunately Da Salo's violins have become exceedingly rare. Perhaps not more than a dozen are in existence. The general characteristics of his instruments are large pattern, large f f holes, protruding corners and a dark brown varnish. The tone is full and even. Among them perhaps the finest, and at any rate the best known, is the one known as the "treasury violin," the head of which was sculptured by Benvenuto Cellini. The last owner of this violin was the celebrated Norwegian violinist, Ole Bull. How it came into his possession may best be told in his own words:

"Well, in 1830 I gave sixteen concerts at Vienna, and then Rhebazek was the great violin collector. I saw at his house this violin for the first time. I went just wild over it. 'Will you sell it?' I asked. 'Yes,' was the reply, 'for one-quarter of all Vienna.' Now, Rhebazek was really as poor as a church mouse. Though he had no end of money put out in the most valuable instruments, he never sold any of them unless forced by hunger. I invited Rhebazek to my concerts. I wanted to buy the violin so much that I made him some tempting offers. One day he said to me, 'See here, Ole Bull, if I do sell the violin you shall have the preference at 4,000 ducats.' 'Agreed!' I cried, though I knew it was a big sum.

"That violin came strolling, or playing, rather, through my brain for some years. It was in 1841. I was in Leipsic giving concerts. Liszt was there, and so also was Mendelssohn. One day we were all dining together. We were having a splendid time. During the dinner came an immense letter with a seal, an official document. Said Mendelssohn: 'Use no ceremony. Open your letter.' 'What an awful seal!' cried Liszt. 'With your permission,' said I, and I opened the letter. It was from Rhebazek's son, for the collector was dead. His father had said that the violin should be offered to me at the price he had mentioned. I told Liszt and Mendelssohn about the price. 'You man from Norway, you are crazy,' said Liszt. 'Unheard of extravagance, which only a fiddler is capable of!' exclaimed Mendelssohn. 'Have you ever played on it? Have you ever tried it?' they both inquired. 'Never,' I answered, 'for it cannot be played on at all just now.'

"I never was happier than when I felt sure that the prize was mine. Originally the bridge was of boxwood, with two fishes carved on it—that was the zodiacal sign of my birthday, February—which was a good sign. Oh, the good times that violin and I have had! As to its history, Rhebazek told me that in 1809, when Innspruck was taken by the French, the soldiers sacked the town. This violin had been placed in the Innspruck museum by Cardinal Aldobrandi at the close of the sixteenth century. A French soldier looted it and sold it to Rhebazek for a trifle. This is the same violin that I played on when I first came to the United States in the Park theater. That was Evacuation day, 1843. I went to the Astor House and made a joke—I am quite capable of doing such things. It was the day when John Bull went out and Ole Bull came in. I remember that the very first concert one of my strings broke, and I had to work out my piece on the three strings, and it was supposed I did it on purpose."

This violin is now the property of the city of Bergen, Norway, Ole Bull's birthplace, which has honored his memory with a magnificent monument.

THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

It Was Gambled Into Existence by the Lottery Route.

The British museum, famed all over the world, was born of a lottery. It was in 1753 that the trustees of Sir Hans Sloane offered to the nation for £20,000 the wonderful collection of coins, manuscripts, printed books and natural history curiosities. As an additional inducement to the state to provide house room it was pointed out that the Harleian collections of manuscripts could still be secured for the nation on payment of £10,000 and that the collection of Sir Robert Cotton, although nominally the property of the nation, was so carelessly housed that a large part had already been destroyed by fire.

The government refused to find the cash, but declared its readiness, after the true British sporting manner, to allow the public to gamble the British museum into existence. A lottery was therefore authorized of 100,000 three pound tickets, £200,000 to be distributed as prizes and the balance to go toward the purchase of the Sloane collection. The scheme proved successful, although the manager of the lottery fell into disgrace and was fined £1,000 for taking an illegal premium. In this sordid fashion was the British museum planted and watered in the palace of the Montagus in Bloomsbury. Its first days were far from prosperous. An income of £900 only was available from the great gamble. Two bequests brought the total up to £2,448, leaving, after payment of the few salaries, about £100 to make fresh purchases.

But the need for the expenditure in this direction was rendered less necessary by the rapidity with which fresh collections of enormous value poured into Montagu House. The great tree has, in fact, grown so rapidly as well nigh to baffle the art of the gardeners to find light and air and room for the spreading branches. The reading room, which in the old building could accommodate only five readers, can now seat nearly 500. Reckoning the miles of shelving devoted to books, the museum is easily the largest in the world. By cunning arrangements forty-one miles of shelf room have been found for the forest of books that now minister to the enlightenment of the universe. The Bibliotheque Nationale, in Paris, the largest in the world, can boast of only thirty-one. — London Chronicle.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Hockey.

A "SCRAPPY" GAME.

The Toronto Telegram, speaking of Saturday's game between Toronto and Brantford says: Ball fights are peculiar to Montreal in the centre ice, and they are usually confined to that territory. Last night a fight, fair and sportsmanlike to the limelight showed by one or two players, Saturday night. At times it looked as if a free fight would result, and that for no particular reason except poor judgment.

Just imagine two hours and a half to play an hour's actual hockey! Every Brantford man ruled off and to have an argument with the referee in the game, though that was only too apparent. And Wagbarne was inclined to enter into the controversy, which only made matters worse.

The game itself, while was brilliant, was good and had many a flash of play that could scarcely be improved upon. The teams were fast, and handled the puck neatly and cleverly, whether as individuals or as a team, and despite, and even because of the close checking, the rushes were all the more spectacular.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

OLYMPIC ENTRY DATES.

"There appears to be some doubt," says the London Sporting Life, "as to the dates of entry for the various sports, and it would be useful for intending competitors to take note that entries for the games to be decided in July will close on June 12th, while for the winter games which begin at the Stadium on Oct. 19, the last date for entry is Sept. 12. The full list is again given: Golf, May 29; fencing, June 1; polo, June 1; rowing, June 1 and 30; shooting, June 1; clay-bird shooting, June 1; skate sailing, June 28; skating, 28. It should be pointed out that the three of the two dates for rowing entries applies to Canada, Germany, Belgium and Holland."

Boxell & Matthie, work, etc., gaol	10.65

Your committee have considered the correspondence, and examined the samples of bags for County constables, and beg to recommend that the bags described as "No 3 Shield" be adopted, the number purchased to be limited to reasonable requirements, the bidder to be under the control of, and the issue and returns to be recorded by the High Constable of the county.

Your committee have considered the application from the Kinmount Band, referring to "the urgent necessity of taking up without further delay the work proposed in improvements in the heating arrangements for the registry office, and the general repairs, improvements and equipment in an up-to-date manner for the convenience of the public and in the public interests generally." Your committee recommend that a committee be appointed, composed of Jos. Hopkins, Kyle, Thomas H. Watson and Richard Hawkins, esquires, and the Chairman of this committee, with instructions to report fully on the question at the June session.

Your committee beg to recommend that the chairman be authorized to exercise supervision of the Court House, Gaol and Registry Office and premises during the year, and make improvements and repairs as he may find to be required for the purpose of keeping the buildings and premises in a satisfactory condition, provided however, that the cost of improvements and repairs is not to exceed $200.00 without the sanction of the Council or the Advisory Committee.

Moved by Mr. Tiers, seconded by Mr. Fielding, that the Council do now adjourn.—Carried.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

A FAMOUS DUEL.

The Fatal Meeting Between Commodores Barron and Decatur.

On March 22, 1820, was fought one of the most memorable duels in the annals of the United States. Commodore Decatur and Commodore Barron met on the fatal field near Bladensburg that day. Both participants were wounded, Decatur mortally, dying within a few hours after the encounter. The causes which led to the ill feeling between these two naval heroes have never been accurately determined, but it is generally supposed that Decatur's harsh criticism of Barron on account of the latter not returning from abroad to take part in the war brought about the breach. Certain it is that Decatur's words were repeated to Barron, and a correspondence between the two ensued, which probably resulted in the challenge. The impending duel was kept a profound secret. Only a few of the most intimate friends of the respective participants had even an inkling of it. Decatur was the first to arrive upon the scene. He was accompanied by Commodores Rodgers and Porter and several other friends. Barron arrived a few minutes later. The combatants bowed stiffly to each other and stood waiting for their friends to measure off the ground and make the final arrangements.

"I hope, sir," said Barron as they took their places, "that when we meet in another world we shall be better friends than we have been in this."

Decatur is said to have haughtily regarded his adversary a moment and then replied:

"Sir, I have never been your enemy."

A moment later the word was given, and two shots rang out simultaneously. Barron fell almost immediately. Decatur straightened himself, but the pistol fell from his grasp, and in a moment he was upon the greensward writhing in agony. He was raised by his friends and carried nearer the road, where Barron was lying.

"I wish I had fallen in the service of my country," Decatur muttered, whereupon Barron looked up.

"Everything has been conducted most honorably," he said.

Then, turning his eyes upon Decatur: "I am mortally wounded. Commodore Decatur, I forgive you from the bottom of my heart."

As Decatur was being lifted into a carriage Bainbridge, whom Decatur had once rescued from a Moorish prison, stooped down and kissed his cheek.

With his head upon Rodgers' shoulder and in company with a physician, Decatur was driven slowly back to the city and carried into his residence on Lafayette square, where he died a few hours afterward.

The news of the duel spread like wildfire through the city. The following day John Randolph offered consolatory resolutions in congress, which, however, were promptly objected to, and the press rigorously denounced the practice of dueling.

Barron ultimately recovered from his injury, but it is said the memory of the fatal duel darkened his life ever afterward. He lived until the year 1851 and had charge of several vessels. At his own request he was court martialed upon the charges made against him by Decatur and exonerated.—Exchange.

All Help One Another.

What a wonderful order there is in all human labor! While the husbandman furrows his land and prepares for every one his daily bread the town artisan, far away, weaves the stuff in which he is to be clothed, the miner seeks underground the iron for his plow, the soldier defends him against the invader, the judge takes care that the law protects his fields, the tax comptroller adjusts his private interests with those of the public, the merchant occupies himself in exchanging his products for those of distant countries, the men of science and art add every day a few horses to this ideal team, which draws along the material world as steam impels the gigantic trains of our iron roads.

Thus all unite together, all help one another. The toil of each one benefits himself and all the world. The work has been apportioned among the different members of the whole society by a tacit agreement.

If in this apportionment errors are committed, if certain individuals have not been employed according to their capacities, these defects of detail diminish in the sublime conception of the whole. The poorest man included in this association has his place, his work, his reason for being there. Each is something in the whole.—Emile Souvestre.

The Bonds.

"I want to get rid of some bonds."

"Out of my line," replied the lawyer.

"But these are matrimonial bonds," rejoined the caller, putting a different face on the matter.

Unlucky.

Young Wife—I am unlucky! Yesterday the beef was roasting beautifully in the oven, and while I ran to tell my husband about it it burned.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

HAPPY MONTHS.

An Odd Custom Observed In England at Christmas Time.

"Happy months" is the name applied to the little mince pies made at Christmas time throughout England and served to any guests who may call at the house during the holidays.

The saying is that for every one of these tiny pies one eats a happy month will come during the year, only the pies must be given to the one who eats them.

When one calls at the house the little pies are brought forth with a glass of wine or a cup of tea, and, however well satisfied one may already be as regards one's appetite or how many of these "happy month" pies he has already eaten, it is considered a marked breach of etiquette to refuse the little pie, although one is allowed to take it home and eat it later. This, however, is not very often done, for who would refuse the coming of a happy month by refusing to overtax the stomach for just one more little pie?

In some parts of England these little pies are literally made by the dozen, so there will be plenty of them for family and friends. They are made of the richest of puff paste, too, which, at the best of times, is an indigestible goody, and the crust is filled with a mince meat filling that is even richer than the crust.

CEYLON ELEPHANTS.

The Only Species In Which the Males Have No Tusks.

What a sight for a Ceylon elephant hunter would be the first view of a herd of African elephants—all tuskers! It is a singular thing that Ceylon is the only part of the world where the male elephants have no tusks. They have miserable little grubbers projecting two or three inches from the upper jaw and inclining downward.

Nothing produces either ivory or horn in fine specimens throughout Ceylon. Although some of the buffaloes have tolerably fine heads, they will not bear a comparison with those of other countries. The horns of the native cattle are not above four inches in length.

The elk and the spotted deer's antlers are small compared with deer of their size in India. This is the more singular as it is evident from the geological formation that at some remote period Ceylon was not an island, but formed a portion of the mainland. It is thought that there must be elements wanting in the Ceylon pasturage for the formation of ivory.—Ceylon Manual.

An Austrian Dogberry.

The Vienna men of law once distinguished themselves in a unique manner. A Wachau peasant had been caught in the criminal act of throwing stones at rabbits. He had not hit them, and the rabbits had decamped without so much as suspecting the attack, but the peasant was hauled before the high courts of justice. His defense was that the rabbits had been close to his garden and that he had only tried to frighten the greedy rodents off his cabbages. All the same, he was condemned to three days' imprisonment. The peasant appealed against the sentence, but in vain. If a rabbit had been killed, said the authorities, the peasant would certainly have stolen it, and stealing a rabbit was an unlawful action. And thus the man from Wachau went to prison for three days, and the wise judges of Vienna bounded into fame for their method of applying the "if" and "and" theory.

The Sundial at Yale.

About the time of the Yale bicentennial celebration in 1901 some wag presented the university with a perfectly good sundial, which was elaborately advertised in the New York papers and with due solemnity set up in a conspicuous place on Berkeley oval. "The blamed thing never did take very well," the Record explained apropos of the trouble sundry undergraduates got into in trying to run off with the mainspring of it, and the grotesque grandeur of this expensive and beautiful piece of architecture set the Owl off into paroxysms of laughter in which the campus followed with a will. "Shay, Jack, what time is it?" "I can't tell you, old fel'; this sundial's stopped." And, "Hey, fresh, out there by the sundial! Strike a match and see if it isn't bedtime!" are typical.—E. R. Embree in Bohemian.

LIFE IN THE DESERT.

How Animals and Vegetation Fight Against Extinction.

Almost all life on the desert goes armed. In the vegetation world of the desert the cactus comes first with its numberless species. They are all armed with long or short, tough spines that can penetrate the thickest boot. The solitary and often grotesque Joshua or Yucca, the mesquite, the cat's claw and numberless shrubs whose names have not been written, all are armed in one way or another. Some exude poisonous sap, others nauseating odors. The sagebrush is about the only one that does not seem to have any protection.

In the animal kingdom most are either armed with sharp teeth, spines, odors or poison to serve to keep their enemies at a distance, while the others depend upon their fleetness or artful skulking and hiding.

The spines and repulsive Gila monster, the horned toad, the sidewinder, with his two horns and deadly fangs, and its cousin, the desert rattlesnake; the tarantula, scorpion and desert bee, each of whose sting is exceedingly painful and sometimes fatal, are among the desert's denizens. Then there are many varieties of lizards, large and small and of many colors, which protect themselves by their speed alone. The prowling coyote, bobcat, mountain lion, jack rabbit, cottontail, mountain sheep, ibex, antelope and an occasional deer are there.

Among the smaller animals are the gopher, kangaroo rat, trade rat, hydrophobia skunk, ground squirrel and innumerable mice. But the traveler seldom sees any of these. The prospector, however, soon becomes acquainted with them. The first or, at the latest, second night of his stay in any one camp he will be visited by a trade rat, which will carry away all that portion of his outfit that is not too heavy for his ratship to handle and religiously leave some stick or stone in its place.

A hydrophobia skunk will be apt to call and lunch from any bacon rinds that may be lying about, not disdaining a nip at Mr. Prospector's nose if the opportunity offers. It is said and firmly believed by the sons of the desert that the bite of this little skunk produces hydrophobia. The Gila monster is seldom seen, and the writer after having spent nearly a year on the borders of Death valley has yet to see one at large. Rattlesnakes are also scarce except in some favorable locality.

All life on the desert lives by its power to resist thirst. All desert plants are so constructed that they are able to conserve and store up moisture against the time of drought. This necessity has wrought peculiar forms of both animals and plants, and in time it also leaves its indelible mark upon men who dwell amid its wastes. The leaves of all desert trees are small and thick, so that they expose as little surface as possible for evaporation in the dry air. The great and ever present evidence of the struggle for water is noticeable everywhere where men come together on the desert. In this struggle all who come to the desert must engage instantly. Every wagon must have its water barrels, every burro his water bags, each man his canteen.

A Flippant Critic.

After the performance of Wagner's "Rheingold" at Berne, Switzerland, the Berner Fremdenblatt contained an account of the performance which caused much comment. One German paper in reproducing excerpts from the remarkable criticism says, "In reading it we could not quite determine whether the writer was a rogue or one of the Mark Twain school who would enter the most sacred realms of culture with savage freedom." "The opera," says the critic, "furnished much amusement, especially the evolutions of the merry Rhein daughters. Their tricks were charming, and if the orchestra had played more appropriate music the effect would have been perfect. From what we had heard we expected better music. Certain parts—the most tuneful ones—were reminiscent of Mendelssohn, and this originality seemed natural to us, because we knew that when Wagner was the child prodigy in Leipsic Felix Mendelssohn directed the Gewandhaus concerts in that city. All in all the opera is rather stale, but with the fine scenery and real steam clouds it was bearable. It is probably necessary that one should see this 'Rheingold' as well as 'The Merry Widow,' so go and see it."

NOW I AM WELL

THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Ell, Manitoba.

I wish to state, for the sake of others who may be sufferers like I was, that I suffered from severe indigestion and constipation for years and that there was also womb trouble with unpleasant pains in my back which made me miserable, constantly. I tried physicians and took many remedies but I got no relief. I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I can truly say this was the first medicine that ever did me any good. "Fruit-a-tives" quickly relieved the constipation and indigestion and completely cured me of all symptoms of womb trouble. I cannot express too strongly my great gratitude to this medicine as I am as well now in every way as ever I was, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives", it is easy to take and the effect is always mild like fruit.

KIT CARSON.

Feat of Which the Hardy Frontiersman Had No Recollection.

One of the most noted of the hardy western frontiersmen was Kit Carson, to whom, with Daniel Boone, belongs the credit of having always dealt fairly with the various Indian tribes, as they themselves acknowledged. The withdrawal of Carson by the government was the cause of a great war. Captain Henry Inman in his book, "The Old Santa Fe Trail," relates an amusing incident of the gallant pioneer.

My own conception of Kit Carson as a child was that he was ten feet high, that it would have required the strength of two men to lift his rifle, that he usually drank a river dry and picked the carcass of a whole buffalo clean as easily as a lady does the wing of a quail. Years after, when I made the acquaintance of the foremost frontiersman, I found him a delicate, reticent, undersized, wiry man, the very opposite type of what my childish brain had created.

One day while Kit was at the fort I came across a periodical that had a full page illustration of a scene in a forest. In the foreground stood a gigantic figure dressed in the traditional buckskin.

On one arm rested an immense rifle. His other arm was around the waist of the conventional female of such sensational journals, while in front half a dozen Indians lay prone, evidently slain by the hero in the impossible attire in defense of the preposterous female. The legend stated how all this had been effected by Kit Carson.

I handed it to Kit. He wiped his spectacles, studied the picture intently for a few seconds and then said:

"Gentlemen, that thar may be true, but I hain't got no recollection of it."

A JOURNALISTIC HOAX.

Speaking of the Crimson, Harvard's daily newspaper, reminds every Harvard man of the Lampoon's master stroke—or joke—played on that dignified and unsuspecting sheet on Memorial day, 1901. The Crimson had announced that it would not appear on that holiday, but inconspicuously, so few were surprised to find their Crimson at their door that morning as usual. Their surprise began, however, when they scanned its contents. This always serious sheet seemed to have become most frivolous and irresponsible during the night, for in its columns all sorts of weird and fantastic statements appeared.

The news, though clothed in the usual heavy, dignified Crimson style, was wildly revolutionary in character. Among the items that appeared were: "A Plot to Blow Up Memorial Hall," "Strong Men to Get the Varsity H," "Wellesley Crew to Be Guests of the University" and most important of all a notice, "Lampoon Celebration at 7 Tonight." Then the joke came out. The Lampoon had published the famous "fake Crimson," the joke was known throughout the country, and that night Lampy's sanctum was the scene of bacchanalian revelry. When the following year the Crimson editors sat up all night with injunctions against a repetition of the fake the joke was again on them, for Lampy differs from history in that he never repeats himself.—K. B. Townsend in Bohemian.

CATGUT STRINGS.

The Way They Are Made From the Intestines of Sheep.

Catgut strings, it is well known, are made of the intestines of sheep. The intestines of the full grown animal are from forty to fifty feet long.

The raw material from the stockyards is first thoroughly cleansed of fat and fleshy fiber by dull knives arranged on a drum turned by a crank. The white tough membrane that is left is then handed over to the splitter, who dexterously splits the material into even strands by bringing it against the blade of a safety razor set upright in the table before him. The strands are then spun together and placed on the drying frames.

An American E violin string requires six strands, the European four. The strands, at one end fastened to an upright post, are twisted together while still damp and pliable by means of a spinning wheel. Taken from the drying frames, the strings are cut in lengths, coiled and boxed in oiled paper for shipment. To polish the strings very fine emery paper laid on a grooved aluminium block is used. While the strings are still on the drying frame the covered block is passed over the strings, polishing as many at one time as there are grooves in the block. It can be seen that from the manner in which the strands are twisted the effect of polishing is to weaken the string.

In the essential features the process of making the fine gut strings for surgical uses or the heavy strings three-eighths of an inch thick sometimes employed for machinery belting does not differ from the method employed in the case of the musical strings except that the latter are handled with more care.

DARING PHOTOGRAPHY.

A man who can stand or sit on the flange of a steel beam not so wide as the sole of your shoe and 600 feet above a roaring granite paved city street, there coolly to take successful pictures of the top of the city far below him, must be possessed of three qualifications and each of the first water. He must have judgment, patience and courage, these three, and, one may add without slighting the other two, the greatest of these is courage. So writes H. G. Hunting in the Technical World Magazine.

The eager eye of the camera goes everywhere nowadays, and the man who makes picture getting his business adopts no peaceful, unexciting pursuit. If he is under contract to a great newspaper or magazine he may be called upon to secure a picture of anything, from a flashlight in the black depths of a metropolitan sewer to a portrait of the fairest white slave in a Turkish harem. He may be asked to "get" a female grizzly nursing her whelps in her mountain lair to illustrate some naturalist's work at one end of the year, and before the other end has come he may snap a shutter on the lip of some smoking volcano's crater.

When you see a striking or a startling picture of man or beast in some extraordinary place or pose, do you ever stop to think where the photographer was who made the negative or how he got there?

Pepper In Olden Times.

During the middle ages in Europe pepper was the most esteemed and important of all the spices. Genoa, Venice and other commercial cities of central Europe were indebted to their traffic in pepper for a large part of their wealth. Its importance as a means of promoting commercial activity and civilization during the middle ages can hardly be overrated. Tribute was levied in pepper, and donations were made in this spice, which was frequently also used as a medium of exchange in place of money. When the imperial city of Rome was besieged by Alaric, the king of the Goths, in 408 A. D., the ransom demanded included 5,000 pounds of gold, 30,000 pounds of silver and 3,000 pounds of pepper, illustrating the importance of this spice at that time.

For Poetical Reasons.

"Perchance," called the amiable widow, "come here!"

The little lapdog trotted meekly up.

"Surely that is a strange name for a dog!" exclaimed the gentleman visitor. "What made you name him Perchance?"

"I am so fond of poetry!" explained the lady lucidly.

"Madam, forgive me, but I fail to see the applicability."

"Why, silly man," exclaimed the merry widow, "I named it after Byron's dog! Don't you remember where he says, 'Perchance my dog will howl?'"

"The Blood Is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

night. In the morning Tom was well and warmly clothed at the best store in the township. And that day the difference was that he kept turning to look over his shoulder and this at shorter intervals as the day wore on.

"Is anything following us?" said Daintree once.

"Not yet," said Tom.

"Not yet! Why, what do you expect?"

"What I deserve," said Tom. And Daintree had the wisdom not to press him upon this or any other point. He knew what was alleged against Erichsen at Castle Sullivan. He had heard the story from the principal superintendent. He began to think there might be some truth in it, after all.

Next morning he was sure. They had put up at an unusually comfortable roadside inn, where Tom had a very excellent room, yet he came down with wild, unrested eyes and twitching fingers.

"It's no use!" he bitterly exclaimed.

"Haven't you slept?"

"Not a wink. I heard them coming all night long—heard them coming with the chains. Oh, take me back! They have made me the guilty man they said I was when I wasn't. I deserve everything now."

And a second day of terror he spent in the curricle, looking backward hour after hour, but when that also passed over and still nothing happened he began to think that either Butter was mistaken or the major incredulous or his enemies of another mind now that he was gone. At all events he took heart of grace and at last thanked Daintree for what he was doing, without asking, however, why he was doing it.

On the third forenoon the spires and windmills of Sydney fringed the sky. Then they mounted a hill, and there was the harbor sparkling above the roofs of the convict city.

"We had better drop the 'Erichsen' now," said Daintree as they drove up to the turnpike gate. "I suggest that 'Thomas' will suffice both Christian name and surname. I think it would be preferable for the present. What say you?" Tom consented with perfect readiness and indifference, and he looked behind him for the last time as much as to say what was the only thing on earth about which he was not as indifferent as the dead.

They drove down Brickfield hill over the spot where Nat Sullivan had tumbled off his horse and past the notorious inn where he had lain. It flourished still. And still the doleful felon music filled the air, striking more staccato in this crisp weather than six months since in the heavy heat, but it struck to Tom's heart no more. On the quay there was a crowd and a fresh shipload of convicts disembarking, but Tom felt no pity for them either. And now, when his indignation was aroused, it was by the lounging laziness of a road gang, whose overseers were smoking and chatting with the convicts, while the latter moved neither hand nor foot, and the sentries yawned at their posts.

"They want the major there," said Tom grimly. "He'd have that peck of stones about their ears if they stood looking at it much longer!"

Daintree turned and regarded him with a particularly pleased and kindly smile; then Tom knew that he had just volunteered his first remark since leaving the stockade, and he thought he knew with what sympathetic patience his first voluntary remark had been waited for, though he only now suspected this from Daintree's smile. His heart swelled a little. They put up at an inn, and he made himself more useful to his new master than he had been yet.

The bungalow was some few miles out upon the delightful woody shore of Rose bay. They drove on there in the afternoon, and the greenwood dipping beyond the post and rails of the Old Point Piper road, the lush meadows dipping beyond that and the azure arm of the harbor seen through the one and above the other were all a very wonderful change after that terrible plateau of the past four months. Nor had they any feature in common with the detested region of Castle Sullivan. Tom had seen nothing like this up country. To crown all, the bungalow lay bathed in the richest sunset when they reached it and Rose bay deserved that name indeed, for its sunlit waters appeared to be dimpled with wet rose leaves from strand to strand. It was as though nature herself were trying to soften that frozen heart and to welcome Tom Erichsen to this haven of peace.

An old man came out to see to the horses. A somewhat younger woman stood in the mellow light upon a wide veranda. Daintree greeted them with an air—almost the first he had permitted himself in Tom's company. With another, however, he took Tom's hand and expressed characteristically the hope that the threshold of his house would prove to be also that of a new life for Tom.

"You have left the past behind you, Thomas," said he, "and all your enemies with it. Rest assured of that. If they follow you here, they'll have me to deal with. I can promise them they have laid their last finger on you. No; there's a brighter future ahead of you, I trust, and always recollect—I am your friend."

"I suppose you are," said poor Tom in reply. He could believe and feel but little even yet.

"You suppose I am?" cried Daintree, looking rather queerly at Tom. "You shall dine at my table!" he then exclaimed. "You shall have all your meals with me! Mrs. Fawcett, lay a place for Thomas and show him his room."

It was a little room certainly, but an incredibly pleasant one. The window almost overhung the bay, and the bed was a white feast for bloodshot eyes.

"Dinner's ready. Don't you spoil it, young man, by keeping master waiting," said Mrs. Fawcett, and then over her shoulder as she went, "My word, but you're a lucky one!"

Perhaps he required telling so. It was all so difficult to believe, so impossible to understand. But bewilderment had not yet given place to curiosity.

He was, however, beginning to realize that he had fallen from the cruelest into the kindest hands on earth when, returning to the veranda, he encountered the kind man, with a gleaming eye and a set face quite inconsistent with that impression. A fox terrier, indifferently bred, with one ear up and one down, but the most eager eyes, had wildly welcomed Daintree while Daintree was welcoming Tom. This little dog he was now dragging savagely along by its collar.

"Won't come into my study!" explained Daintree in a voice of amazing fury. "Once I thrashed him in there, so now he thinks he won't come in. But he shall—he shall—he shall!" Dr. Sullivan himself in dealing with a recalcitrant convict could have employed no more ferocious tone.

The dog was dragged within a yard of the door it would not enter, then released, and it did not run away. Daintree now went within and called and whistled to the dog, but there it stood, bristling all over, and yet wagging its tail with immense energy, as if to proclaim its anxiety to please in any other way, but enter that room it could not. Nor was it until Daintree rushed out in his rage that the little dog turned tail and ran away. And again he caught it and again and again the same thing happened, the man vowing the dog should give in, the dog still wagging his tail and still disobeying, the dinner growing cold on the table and Tom viewing the whole petty, pitiable exhibition with the most irritating pain and disenchantment. It made his heart sick to see this man of all men in such a passion about so small a thing. In a little he was all but foaming at the mouth, and at last, when he caught up a heavy ivory paper knife and belabored the dog with that, the spectacle hurt Tom more than any flogging he had witnessed in the iron gang. It was not only that his feeling for men was numbed, while his feeling for animals remained quick—here was the one man living whom he wished to honor and to admire, and the honor and the admiration were sickening at their birth.

The beating did no good whatever. Then Daintree turned on his heel with such a face that Tom took the dog in his arms. He heard a drawer unlocked in the room. When his master reappeared the paper knife was no longer in his hand. A pistol was there instead.

"Where's the dog?" he cried.

"Here," said Tom, showing him.

"Put it down. I'm going to shoot him. I'll have no stubborn beasts here!"

"Have you had this one long, sir?"

"From a puppy," said Daintree, cocking his pistol. "Come, put him down or we'll never get any dinner tonight."

"No," said Tom firmly. "You'll be sorry for it afterward. You will be vexed with me for standing by and letting you do such a thing in your heat."

The other gasped, but never said a word.

"If the dog is no good to you, give him to me," continued Tom. "Don't shoot him, sir. Not that I believe you meant it." And to show his belief he dropped the terrier, whereupon Daintree hesitated, but presently retreated to his room without a word.

The dog was spared. They sat down at last to cool dishes that should have been hot, and their mutual ardor had suffered with the viands. Daintree was very solemn and very stiff, his hapless companion quite certain that he had given mortal and everlasting offense. But the incident was never referred to again, and Tom soon forgot the solitary occasion upon which his champion displayed himself in so sinister a light.

Not that the other lights were all rose colored. The man had foibles innumerable and in their way as extraordinary as his inexplicable kindness to Tom. This continued and increased, and yet there was a something ostentatious, vainglorious, egotistical, even in his kindest acts. Tom hated himself for seeing it, but there it was. It became the more noticeable as Tom himself grew more regenerate and so made fewer demands upon the other's consideration. And then the gloomy vanity of the man! His literary pretensions! His solemn belief in himself and all he did!

"Heaven knows he has done enough for me!" sighed Tom, quite ashamed. "I must try to see nothing else, but what I can't help seeing shall never, never make any difference to my regard for him."

Tom wanted to get to work at once, in the house, in the garden, anywhere and at anything, but the other would not hear of it for days. He was to rest and forget and to enjoy his life. They made excursions together in the curricle or in Daintree's boat. Tom would have been almost happy if he only could have given his kind companion the heart whole admiration which the latter took for granted. And his inability in that respect was so real a grief to him he could have wept at it and at the other's kindness put together, but there was still not a tear in his heart. He often wondered was there any heart left in his body. What he deemed his ingratitude seemed sometimes to prove that there was not.

There were qualities he could honestly admire in Daintree, but they were not those qualities upon whose possession Daintree most prided himself. He was a man of iron nerve and will. That was undoubted. One day in a squall near the Heads he handled the boat with magnificent coolness and skill when Tom thought they must both have gone to the sharks. When they landed safe and sound, he inflicted so many of his poems upon Tom, whom the salt breezes had overcome with drowsiness, that the pantry and the knives to clean seemed preferable to such nightly ordeals. Tom asked to be put into livery and to work at once. He insisted upon it and gained his point through the accidental touch of "livery."

They drove into Sydney next day with specimens of the family crest, which Tom was to bear on every button. Daintree being a magistrate, a cockade was duly included in the order, and for a time the master was in high feather at the prospective display. But it recalled family troubles ere long, and all the way home he talked dismally of himself as an "exile like Byron—my literary second self." Somebody had once called him "own brother to Byron." He never tired of quoting the phrase. He was destitute of humor and made Tom blush for him where he would have shaken with laughter at another.

His contrariety was unique. Not only was he a good magistrate spoilt through neglecting the bench for his desk, but an old athlete who bragged about the poetry he could not write instead of about the races he had really won. On the top of his bookshelf stood the row of tarnished silver cups, and his proud eye climbed no higher than the volume or two of mediocre verse underneath. He made little enough of his genuine triumphs, his real abilities, but he would talk with bated breath of a few stanzas which often rhymed as false as they rang. Once Tom cleaned the cups when Daintree was out, and he flew into something very like a rage when he came in and saw them. He was the most unaccountable of men.

"Still he is the kindest," was Tom's reflection on the top of that conclusion, and the same night he not only made another of his poor attempts at thanking Daintree for all that he was doing and had done; he at last put the question which seemed to mark a stride in his slow and uphill return from brute to man. And yet even now it was no very sincere curiosity, but rather an uncomfortable feeling that he ought to seem curious, which prompted him to say:

THE MAYOR DISCREDITED.

We must say that the more we look into the vote at the Council on Monday night on the reduction of licenses, the less we like the look of it. We are given to understand by the committee who interviewed Mr. Begg before the election as to his stand on the question, that, whilst he said he would not vote for a reduction on account of his intimate relation with the hotels, that, on the other hand, if a majority of the Council were in favor of a reduction, HE WOULD NOT OPPOSE IT. Heretofore Mr. Begg has been considered a man of his word and as having some backbone to him, but evidently, when pressure is applied, the "bone" wilts, and we have an exhibition, such as we had on Monday night. Mr. Begg went out of his way and voted as Mayor—an unusual proceeding—in order that the motion might be negatived. He also called for a second vote, evidently determined to whip those inclined to flunk into line. If that is not opposing it, what is?

The worst feature about it, as it appears to us, is that the man, occupying the honorable position of Mayor of Lindsay, deliberately broke his word. What confidence can we have in his word in the future? If a man will deceive on one question, will he not on others? Some people seem to think there is a difference in the grade of morality when discussing the liquor question, but we fail to see it. However, the temperance and church people who voted for Mr. Begg, knowing of his promise, and believing him to be a good man otherwise for the position, (and there are quite a few who did so), now know what to expect—a wide-open town. The whole proceedings were evidently cut and dried beforehand by the Mayor.

Only last evening Mayor Begg called up The Post and took us to task for our criticism of his action, and said that if he had to deal with the matter again he would vote as he did, therefore we can but conclude he does not realize the sacredness of his word. It is true we are "after" Mayor Begg, not as a private citizen, but as Mayor of the best town in Canada, whose interests we wish to guard.

BOARD OF TRADE TO-NIGHT

We received notice of a meeting of the Board of Trade to be held this evening in the Council chamber, and as this is the first meeting after the annual meeting, we hope there will be a large attendance. The principle business will be the selection of the Council, a committee having been appointed to suggest names.

We understand that it is President Sparling's desire to make the Board as useful in the affairs of the town during the coming year as he can, and with that object in view, has several suggestions to make that will be well worth considering by the Board. One of them, that seems to us to be very feasible, as well as useful, is to have at least two open meetings during the year, at which we would have some prominent outside man speak, such as Supt. Oborne, of C.P.R., on "Railroading," Hon. Adam Beck, on "Electric Power," or Byron Walker on "Banking." Mr. Sparling also things that local questions, such as such as good water, permanent roadways, the town's handling of bonds, etc., all questions that appeal to the heavy taxpayer, as well as to the workingman, and which stand a chance of better sifting than they do even in the town Council.

We are glad to see the new President taking hold of his job with a vim and treating it seriously, and hope he will be backed up by the Board as a whole. There certainly is room for a live Board of Trade in Lindsay.

ONTARIO TANKARD COMES HERE LINDSAY CURLERS SUCCESSFUL

Final Game With Famous Rennie Rinks Was Close and Exciting

Toronto Men Had a Big Lead in the Early Stages, But Lindsay Rinks, Altering Their Style of Play, Slowly But Surely Forged Ahead and Won Out by Narrow Margin of Three Shots.

(VIA C.P.R. TELEGRAPH.)

For the fifth time the Lindsay Curling Club has won the Ontario Tankard, the most coveted trophy of the game in Canada.

Yesterday afternoon the Toronto Caledonians, represented by the famous Rennie rinks, and Lindsay, met at the Granite rinks in the final, and Lindsay was victorious by three shots in one of the most thrilling games ever seen for the premier honors of the Ontario Culring Association.

LINDSAY WON AN UPHILL FIGHT.

The visitors were down from the first end to the twenty-second, pulling out their victory on the last end. At the end of the twenty-first end the Lindsay rinks were one down, and when the last chance presented itself, L. V. O'Connor's rink squeezed one, leaving a margin of three for winners.

The Caledonians started well, and threatened to make a runaway of it. They did not appear to be able to stand prosperity, however, and fell away towards the middle of the game, at which juncture the Lindsayites settled down and began their sure overhaul of the Caledonians. There was a fairly large gallery present, despite the blizzard which was blowing, and those who were fortunate enough to be there saw some exceptionally fine curling. The good play of both sides were liberally applauded.

Robt. Rennie scored on all of his first seven ends, and at the end of the tenth the Caledonians were 16 up. That was the turning point, however, for O'Connor's man settled down with several two and three ends. At the 17th end O'Connor was fourteen down, but he made ten in five ends.

Thomas Rennie held Geo. A. Little safe most of the play, and two and three shot ends were numerous toward the finish, but as in the case of the O'Connor rink, the Lindsayites curled magnificently in the last stages and won out in grand style by spectacular play of the most exciting descriptions.

How To "Boost" a Town Into First Place in List

Must be Able to Offer Advantages in Situation and Attractions, Among Which Must be a Good Theatre---Town Must Advertise As Well As Merchants.

No doubt there are hundreds of small cities and towns in Canada that want to grow a little faster that if there was no thought taken of their stature, for a town is not a man, in that it can help or retard its growth by considering the matter. To such towns a series of lectures delivered to the prominent business men of Marshall, Mich., by E. S. Batterson, should be helpful. Mr. Batterson is secretary of the Chicago Municipal Service League, and has given much attention to the question of municipal expansion.

Getting down to the first causes, two factors are necessary for the growth of a town, or for that matter a city, apart from the natural increase of the people who comprise it. The first essential is that it shall have attractions, and by attractions is meant both opportunities for a newcomer to earn a good livelihood, and surroundings in which he can enjoy himself after the day's work. Industries the town must have to begin with, and then it must have places of entertainment, schools where children can be well educated, churches, recreation grounds, social life and a good climate. Unless the town has these to begin with, it would be wise to acquire what is lacking before it starts the real campaign for more industries and more citizens. The fact that a town has a good theatre is enough, other things being equal, to attract a thousand families from another town that has no theatre.

The analogy between the town and the individual merchant is fairly close. The merchant must have a stock of goods that people want to buy, and the town must be the sort of place that people want to live in. But many a merchant who has had the goods to sell has failed to draw customers; and the trouble with most towns whose growth is slow is that they have the attractions necessary for stimulating immigration, but no one knows them. They are mere names on the map. They have never been heard of by the outside public except when they have a big fire or a murder or some other kind of disaster. They are in the same class with the merchant whose name gets in the papers only when his wife has a son, or when someone sues him, or when he has an employee arrested.

The town, like the merchant, must advertise if it wants to draw people. If it has the attractions in the first place advertising will bring people to investigate, and if there are no false pretences, an enquirer becomes a citizen. That is the whole question in a nutshell. It resolves itself into an advertising problem. On this point Mr. Batterson says; "One of the first things essential to 'town publicity' is that you believe in your town. Believe that it is going to advance. You should get to work to make the town and you must absolutely believe in your town. Be enthusiastic over it. This matter of publicity is important. Live to boost your town. The greatest factor in the publicity of your town is your local press. No matter if it has published something about you that you do not like. Large business firms use and receive thousands of clippings each day, and information from small towns is regarded as valuable. You should make your advertising as interesting as possible. Have it read so that it will be news. How is the commercial club of a town going to benefit from the newspaper? Nothing is more read than the industrial news of the town. Have a continued activity in your business men's organizations."

The big papers in the State or province's capital can also help the town's growth by publishing real, live news of the smaller place. It devolves on the authorities to see that someone collects the news and sends it in while it is news. By this process the town gets publicity that is more valuable than frank advertising. It gets what the merchant calls a "reading notice," and instead of paying double rates, it gets it for nothing. Good hotel accommodation is also necessary, and the lecturer cited the case of a hotel keeper who cheerfully loses $3,000 every year on his hotel by making it so attractive that it draws visitors, and helps to make them citizens. Commercial travellers should have nothing but cheerful tidings or they are apt to carry 'hard luck stories' to the next town which is probably a rival.

Every effort should be made to beautify the district surrounding the railroad station. First impressions are usually lasting. A market day is a good thing for a small town, and so, the expert thinks, is a bargain day, although, on the second point, there is difference of opinion. It is plain from the foregoing, that if a town is to "boom" there must be unity of purpose among its citizens. One also gets the idea that another generation will see a press agent elected every year, like a reeve or a town clerk.—Mail and Empire.

Incidents of the Big Snow Blockade

No Trains Reach Lindsay In Two Days ---Many Travellers Here.

A G. T. R. train left town about 12.50 to-day for Port Hope, and it is fully expected she will get through. A train was also started from Port Hope to Lindsay, and will likely reach town this evening. She will carry any mail there is on that division for town.

About eleven o'clock this morning word was received at the local hotels that a train would be made up for Peterboro and points south-east. Large numbers of travellers immediately sprung at the chance to get out of town, and every bus and sleigh bound for the station was crowded. At the station they found a single accommodation car, and all clambered in, till they were packed like sardines. Then they waited patiently for the engine to start. In a few minutes a brakeman at one end, and the conductor at the other end of the car, called out that the train was cancelled, as the snow plow, which had gone ahead, was stuck in an eight foot snow bank the other side of Omemee. For a few minutes the air was blue, but the men finally calmed down and rode back down town singing, laughing and joking all the way. They raised quite a racket on Kent-st. with their shouting, and merchants rushed to the door to see what was the trouble.

Shortly before going to press two men arrived in town from Manilla, having walked the distance. They report from 4 to 6 feet of snow on the railway track in many places, and think it will be Saturday before the line is cleared.

BOARD OF TRADE TO-NIGHT

—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lytle are now comfortably settled in their new home, No. 197 Kent-st. west. Mrs. Lytle will receive on Mondays during the season.

—The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held on Friday, 7th inst., at 3.30 p.m., in the Y.M.C.A. parlors. All members are requested to be present.—d3.

—A good many people are snowbound in town these days. At the Pym house alone 39 were here Tuesday night, and last night the total reached 49. The other hotels also have crowds of travellers waiting for the first train out.

COUNCIL CHAMBER AT 8 P.M.

—A number of travellers who were snow bound for three days at Kinmount arrived in town Tuesday, only to be snow-bound here for a like period. They are getting sick of being shut in every place they come to, and long for better weather.

—The staff of the Collegiate Institute decided to-day that on account of the bad weather and deep snow drifts on the way to school that they would hold school till 1 o'clock and then close for the day, thus saving the pupils two trips across the snow banks.

—Mr. Thos. Brady, the wide-awake grocer, is taking advantage of the dull times and having his store papered and painted throughout. Merchants should remember that it is not always handy to get men for that work in the busy season. Mr. A. Moore is doing the decorating.—d2.

—We are in receipt of a communication intended for publication in The Post, signed "Temperance." The name attached to the letter is not on the Voters' List, nor can we identify the writer in any way, so would request him to call, in order that we may make his acquaintance. We have no objection to the communication, but in every case we must know the writer. This is a rule to which we must adhere.

AT ACADEMY TO-NIGHT

Manager Roenigh wishes to inform the patrons of the Academy that he has reason to expect appearance of the "Jerry From Kerry" Co. to-night, according to contract. Company may not arrive before 7.00.

Curlers, Attention!

There will be a meeting of the curlers and their friends at seven o'clock this evening, at the Curling Rink, to organize a reception for the winners of the Tankard games at Toronto on their arrival home.

The Woes of a Traveller.

A traveller who arrived the other day from Kinmount tells of how a liveryman of that village agreed to drive a commercial traveller from Kinmount to Victoria Road on Friday last. He intended to take his man over and return that evening. He started out, and that was the last his Kinmount friends saw of him till the following Monday night, when he arrived home with the horse and himself completely fagged and with merely a wreck of his former fine cutter. The roads were terrible. A few days ago a man up north nearly lost his team in a snowbank. He was driving along a badly blocked road when the horses came to a drift they could not manage and got stuck fast in the snow, with only their heads and necks showing. It was hard work for four men to dig them out.

Annual Meeting of Board of Education

Mr. Thos. Stewart Re-appointed Chairman for Year 1908.

The annual meeting of the Board of Education was held Tuesday evening in the Council chamber, the members present being Messrs. Stewart, D. R. Anderson, Edwards, Staples, McIntyre, Drs. Blanchard and White, J. W. Anderson, Jackson and Gray.

After the members had signed the declarations of qualification and office, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

CHAIRMAN REAPPOINTED.

Moved by Mr. D. R. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Jackson, that Mr. Thos. Stewart be chairman for 1908.—Carried.

Mr. Stewart returned thanks for the honor, adding that while he appreciated their confidence he was of opinion that in the natural course of events it was "time for a change"; he had occupied the position for so long a time that he felt strongly impelled to give place to some one else. In the last two years the duties had been heavier than ever before, and necessitated a lot of thought and anxiety, and he hoped that when the end of his present term came he would be allowed to sit as an ordinary member. He hoped that during the year they were entering upon the members would make it a point to be on hand at 8 o'clock sharp at all meetings.

OTHER APPOINTMENTS.

Moved by Mr. Staples, seconded by Dr. White, that Mr. R. Spier be appointed sec.-treasurer for 1908 at the usual salary.—Carried.

A committee appointed to draft the standing committees for the year brought in the following report, which was adopted;

Finance—Mr. Jackson, chairman; Messrs. Edwards, Staples, Flavelle, Drs. Walters, Dr. Blanchard.

Management—Mr. J. W. Anderson, chairman; Messrs. Carew, Walters, D. R. Anderson, Gray, White, Blanchard.

Lectures and Entertainments—Mr. J. D. Flavelle, chairman; Messrs. McIntyre, Carew, Blanchard, White.

Advisory Committee—Chairmen of respective committees, and chairman of Board.

Chairman Stewart, on behalf of the Board, tendered Mr. Neil Gray, the new representative from the east ward, a hearty welcome to their deliberations, adding that he felt convinced the people of that part of the town would be well served by Mr. Gray.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From the widow of the late Dr. Smale, acknowledging receipt of a letter of condolence forwarded by the Board.—Fyled.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

From J. A. Kirkconnell, Port Hope, re expenses of recent visit to Lindsay.—Fyled.

From Monarch Typewriter Co., asking payment of account of $210 for typewriters.—Finance committee.

From Principal Broderick, giving number on rolls of public schools. Number in IV. Book 139, III. Book 238, II. Book 209, I. Book 253. Number on roll in past years; 1899, 1083; 1900, 1105; 1901, 1102; 1902, 1127; 1903, 1117; 1904, 1132; 1905, 1087; 1903, not given; 1907, 1003. Average attendance, 743. A request was made for a grant to replace damaged and antiquated wall maps. — Managing committee.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. Jackson presented the report of the Finance committee as follows:

Collegiate Institute—
Monarch Co	$210.00
Baker & Bryans	26.55
McLennan & Co.	18.53
W. G. Duncan	78.37
Henley Bros	.65
Public Schools—
R. S. Porter	7.97
Office Specialty Co......	2.30
W. F. McCarty	.80
Flavelles Limited	13.55
Baker & Bryans	153.04
Henley Bros......	1.75

On motion the report was adopted.

COLLEGIATE REPORT.

Principal Harstone reported 222 students on the roll. He asked for certain supplies, including $50 for the Science department. This caused a member to remark that if they were going to expend $78 as they did last year, it was folly to ask for $50. Some of the supplies were used in connection with the new Agricultural classes, and Mr. J. W. Anderson recommended that Teacher Rosevear be instructed to open an account and keep strict track of all supplies.

Chairman Stewart—"It should be done."

OTHER BUSINESS.

On motion of Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. Staples Mr. Walks, of Collegiate staff was appointed the Board's representative on the Public Library Board.

Mr. Jackson, referring to the absence of the usual Lecture Course this season, suggested that an endeavor be made to secure the new President of Toronto University, Dr. Falconer, to deliver an address. The suggestion was referred to the Lectures and Entertainments committee.

The Board then adjourned.

Peterborough Review: One of the cleverest and most serviceable devices in its line, Dyer's coat and hat hanger, is now in use at the Oriental. When a coat or hat is hung on one of the hooks it becomes locked immediately, the check, the number of which corresponds with the number on the hanger, is withdrawn from the slot into which it fits at the top. The check is very neat and nicely nickleplated and convenient to slip into a purse or vest pocket. It also serves to unlock the hanger, and while the owner of the coat or hat has it with him his property is as secure as money in a safe. The innovation will be sure to meet with the approval of the guests of the hotel, and will do away with all the worry that may have been experienced for fear that some other fellow may by accident have taken the wrong coat or hat.

Want Amendment To The Present Act

Temperance People Will Ask for Abolition of Three-Fifths Clause.

Temperance people, through the Dominion Alliance, are endeavoring to arrange for a monster deputation to interview the Ontario Government during the meeting of the Alliance here in February.

Temperance people take the ground that the three-fifths clause is not necessary for the permanency of local option, and want a simple majority substituted for the 60 per cent vote.

They point out that in 1905 only eight of 82 municipalities made any effort to have local option repealed and in only one case of these was the attempt successful.

Last year local option existed in 54 municipalities, and seven of these attempted repeal. One was successful.

This fact was noted by the government. No change of any importance will be made to the License Act this session.

The most important legislation of the season will likely be that concerning jurisdiction and control of railways within the province.

Zam-Buk Cures Piles.

NO RETURN OF TROUBLE

This distressing complaint is successfully dealt with by the Zam-Buk treatment. The agony of piles is as excruciating as the disease itself is weakening, and every sufferer should lose no time in giving Zam-Buk a thorough trial. Zam-Buk subdues the pain, allays the inflammation and enables rest and comfort to come to the worn-out sufferer.

Mrs. R. Boxall, of 75 Scott-st., St. Thomas, Ont., writes; "I consider it my duty to write of the benefits derived from using Zam-Buk. For some months I was a constant sufferer from bleeding piles. I had used a great many ointments but got no relief until I had tried Zam-Buk. It cured me and I have had no return of the trouble. Since my cure, I have advised others suffering with a similar complaint to use Zam-Buk, and in each instance have heard satisfactory reports."

Zam-Buk also cures cuts, burns, scalds, ulcers, ringworm, itch, barber's rash, blood poison, bad leg, salt rheum, abrasions, abscesses and all skin injuries and diseases. Of all stores and druggists, 50 cents a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, postpaid for price. 3 boxes for $1.25.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Hang oranges and lemons in wire baskets and they will keep fresh much longer.

Pare potatoes and cover with cold water for an hour before cooking, and they will be less liable to turn dark after they are boiled.

A tablespoonful of vinegar added to a quart of lamp oil will destroy the unpleasant odor if it is not caused by a burner in need of a thorough cleaning.

When boiling old potatoes, which are apt to go to a very dark color, put a teaspoonful of milk into the water in which they are boiled and you will find they will be beautifully white when cooked.

New walking shoes are sometimes inclined to "slip" at the heals and a nasty blister is the result. A simple preventive is to rub the inside of the shoes with a little soap at the heel before putting them on.

A quick method of making bread crumbs is to put the crumbs from a stale tin loaf into a muslin bag, tie at the top and rub it gently with both hands for a few minutes. The bread will then be fine enough for any purpose.

If you have a fern that does not grow fast enough, try putting the pot in hot water—not boiling, but too hot to bear the hand. This is especially good for the beautiful large fern that resembles the wild fern that grows on some shady hillside.

By "The Stroller."

There seems to be a well defined rumor that the Board of Railway Commissioners is to be increased in numbers to better enable it to overtake the work that seems to be burying it out of sight. The tories, when talking extravagantly, have a bad habit of defying anyone to show a single act that the grits have passed that has benefitted the country. They don't mean it, of course, but it is hurled blatantly forth, with the idea that some poor deluded voter will hear it and believe it, and possibly vote to put the grits out. Here, however, is a piece of legislation that certainly reflects great credit on the authors of it, and we think all will agree that the author was the late Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals in the present government, when it was passed and made law. It seems to be pretty well admitted that is a good law, and that the present Commission is giving good satisfaction—so much so that even the tories want to shove express rates, telephone rates, and every other kind of rates, on to them, until they are getting more to do than they can possibly attend to.

There is no doubt that the Board pays for itself ten times over every year in the saving of law expenses alone, by judiciously advising litigants to settle, and indicating the way they would advise settlement, etc. With a stretch of country 3,000 miles wide, and with three railroads paralelling it from end to end, not to say anything about the numerous branches each is building, it would appear to the outsider as if it was a bigger job than three men could attend to, be they ever so smart. If everyone would recognize the Golden Rule, their work would be much easier, but the railroads have a nasty habit of appropriating everything that is not chained down, and working on the principle that the country is theirs, and the people therein, which makes it necessary for the common people to be on the eternal watch to preserve something for themselves. We do not know just what the government intend doing in the matter. We have heard it hinted that a western board is to be appointed, or that local men would be appointed, west and east, to attend to certain matters, and then take a great deal of routine work off the full board. Whichever way it is going to be, we think it is the turn of practical men to be appointed. We now have two lawyers and an agriculturist, not one of them knowing the practical side of shipping, freight, and its various intricacies, which is the principal thing that comes before the Board for decisions. It probably would give the people of Canada a jar were two young men of ability appointed who were yet working for somebody else, but who had the details of shipping at their finger ends, and yet why should it? If their bosses were appointed, there would not be a word said, and yet their actual knowledge might possibly be nil, as compared with the understrappers. We have in our mind's eye four or five of the principal shippers of this town, any one of whom, if appointed to the Board, would be heralded as a good selection by the newsies, and yet we will be very wide of the mark in saying that, as compared with their shipping clerks, they would not be worth a continental—you know.

Why is it necessary for a man to have plenty in order that he may get more? and yet that seems to be the principle on which large appointments are made by either side of politics. Wouldn't there be a great hullaballoo if Flavelle's shipper, or Sylvester's shipper, (we don't know either of them), were appointed to the board, just because of their knowledge of shipping? We don't suppose they will be, but why should they not have as good a chance as anyone else? And why should not a practical man of that class be sought out for this particular position?

People have danced for thousands of years and will probably continue to do so for ages to come. This custom is of ancient origin. The first people to dance were the Curetes, who adopted dancing as a mark of rejoicing in 1543 B.C. In early times the Greeks combined dancing with the drama, and in 22 B.C. pantomimic dances were introduced on the Roman stage. At the discovery of America, the American Indians were holding their religious, martial and social dances.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

The Rogue's March

"I can't understand your kindness to me. Why did you begin it? Why do you go on? I wonder what made you take an interest in me at the start!"

Wonder was the word, for wonder he did, but keenly inquisitive he was not, and the stride was shorter than it had looked.

"I believed in your innocence," replied Daintree with deliberation; "that was all."

"I can't think why. You were the only one. Yet you knew nothing about me, it seems." And still his tone was that of purely impersonal speculation.

"I knew something about Blaydes," said he.

"Ah!"

"Not much; very little, in fact, but that little was pretty bad. I knew what an infernal blackguard he was, and I felt sure there must be more ruined men than one upon his track. You remember that point in the defence?"

Tom jumped up. "Don't remind me of it!" he cried. "The very barrister disbelieved in me! And it doesn't interest me now; it only hurts. Don't speak of it, if you please."

"Oh, very well," said Daintree, "only that point was suggested by me."

"You?" exclaimed Tom in an altered voice. "Ah, but what don't I owe to you? More than I can ever realize or believe; everything—everything—and yet I refuse to speak of it to you of all men! You see how ungrateful I am; you see what they've made of me among them. Oh, sir, forgive me, have patience with me, and I may be grateful yet! Give me time, and I shall thank you as I cannot now."

"You shall not," rejoined Daintree firmly. "You were quite right, and we'll speak of all this no more. Good heavens!" he cried out. "How do you know my motives were so pure? What if it was a mere whim—and not altogether my own? At all events, I take no credit for it, and never you thank me again, do you hear? You'll offend me if you do. You will indeed!"

He spoke earnestly, nervously and without a trace of affectation or egotism. Nor did Tom remember a single foible as he looked in the handsome, dark, inscrutable face and took his benefactor by both hands.

"God bless you!" he whispered. "Do you know what I used to call you in my heart when I had one? My Noble Unknown! Well, you are nobler even than I thought. Do you know what you are doing? You're giving me my heart back little by little! I shall be grateful yet!"

He went to the door, but would stand there gazing at his friend. So long he stood, with burning eyes that seemed to ache for tears, but at length he was gone, and Daintree sat alone with a cold cheroot between his fingers.

CHAPTER XXV.

ONCE in livery, Tom sat no more at his master's table. He had, however, to insist on waiting at it instead and to make himself the servant he had been hitherto in name only. Daintree would have let the old arrangement continue, but the new one was a boon to Tom. It gave him freedom and independence and occupation, and so helped him wonderfully upon the upward road.

One evening when a ship had come in and Daintree had driven into Sydney for his letters he returned in such extraordinary spirits that he could hardly touch his dinner; he must gloat over a crinkling sheet of paper, while the soup grew cold in the very spoon, and Tom could only suppose that his master's family had come round at last. As a rule, he talked incessantly to Tom while the latter waited, but this evening his letter absorbed his whole attention. At last, however, he looked up, and his saturnine countenance was redeemed and transfigured by a perfectly startling radiance and joy.

"Thomas," he said, "you must marry a wife!"

The cheery tone was as new in him as the delighted look. Tom was so astonished he had to think what the words meant before shaking his head.

"Why not, my good fellow?" cried Daintree.

"Why should you want me to?" retorted Tom.

"Because I am about to marry one myself."

Had he said he was about to bury one Tom could not have been more startled and amazed. Somehow he had never conceived of Daintree as a married man. That solitary spirit, centered and immersed in self and consciously wallowing in its own solitude and gloom, had forbidden such a thought the more easily since Tom had himself abandoned every aspiration of the kind. A twinge of jealousy succeeded his first surprise, but in another moment his heart dilated with unselfish pleasure, and his congratulations were no less sincere than vociferous.

"If you knew her," said Daintree, "you would congratulate me even more." And he proceeded to praise his choice as he could have praised nothing that was not in some sense his, and yet his passion was convincing. His voice shook with it as his face shone.

"A Sydney lady?" Tom ventured to inquire.

"Good heavens, no! If she only were as near as that! She is on her way out to marry me. This letter was written a month before she sailed."

"From England?"

"Yes."

"You will see her in another month."

"Perhaps before. You never know how long or how short the voyage will be. Mine was 136 days, and that was long. I kept a chart of it—stop; I'm going to fetch it! Clear away. I've had dinner enough."

He rushed from the table, to return presently with a mariner's chart of the world, upon which he had neatly marked out the daily courses of his recent voyage. It was a chain of many links from England to the Cape and a chain of longer links from the Cape to Australia.

"Now, then!" cried Daintree, arranging the chart under the lamp and seating himself delightedly at the table. "Now we'll see where they've got to. Hello! Where's my letter?"

It was on the floor, and Tom picked it up, averting his eyes so that he should see nothing while Daintree referred to the contents.

"Ha! Here we have it," and the letter was thrust into his pocket. "They were to sail on the 23d of June. How many days ago is that? This is September the 12th. Seven—thirty-one—thirty-one and twelve. How much is that?"

"Eighty-one," said Tom.

"Only eighty-one! Then you're right," sighed Daintree, "and they won't be here for another month. I was fifty-five days more."

"They may make a quicker voyage."

"They may, but I never have. The one before was a hundred and forty days. They were both above the average, but not so very much."

"Then all the more time to prepare in," said Tom, entering thoroughly into the situation. "We must get the place to rights, you know, sir."

"That's true. It will help to pass the time."

"Then we might pin up this chart."

"What, and follow the course?"

"Suppose they came no quicker than you did and put a drawing pin in the place every day."

Daintree was delighted. He shook Tom's hand, and up went the chart and in went the drawing pin.

"You see," he said, "they've not got to the Cape yet. They're only just beginning to turn the corner and run their easting down."

"That's assuming they came no quicker than you," said his consoler.

"Well, we will assume it. Still, when they're a hundred days out we'll have a flag ready, and you shall begin going every morning to the point to see whether there's a ball at the south yard arm, and after that will be the longest time of all."

Meanwhile there was much to do, and Tom did most of it with enormous zest. He had never thought to be so happy again. His enthusiasm was the one return that he could make to Daintree, and he permitted it no bounds. It was Tom who stuck the drawing pin through a cork ship of cunning build, full rigged, with needles for masts and paper sails. When Daintree saw it, they christened her the Rosamund, after her real namesake, with a fitting libation, and from that day forth the cork vessel plowed the white ocean of the chart and was a good half inch nearer Sydney every morning when the master of the house entered the breakfast room.

"You sympathetic fellow!" he would say to Tom, and sympathy bred sympathy as it always will. "You must marry yourself, Thomas," he would add, "and you and your wife must live with me and mine, and we'll go into partnership together up the country somewhere and all four live happy ever after."

To all of which the servant would shake his head, but continue to enter into the master's happiness with unabated sympathy and enthusiasm. Nor was this a conscious merit in Tom; it made him think no better of himself. He knew how much was inspired by gratitude and how much more by the selfish relief of sinking his own woes in the hopes and fears and raptures of his friend. He was not even aware of the essential fineness of a nature capable of this kind of comfort. Eternal dissatisfaction with his own feelings kept his opinion of himself at zero still. And if the new bond between Tom and his benefactor had done no more than provide them with common ground on which they might meet and be at one in all sincerity, even so it would have done much for Tom's peace of mind.

When Daintree spoke of his beloved his dark face shone, the darker eyes softened, and the rich voice quivered with no common passion. It was possible to agree and to applaud without hypocrisy, which was not possible when the puny poet stood in the strong man's shoes. Of his poetry enough has been said, but about his passion there was no mistake. The one was genuine; the other was not. It was a man's passion, a selfish passion, but the sheer masterful strength of it was patent to Tom from the first. Sometimes it made him fear for the girl—and despair of himself. Gratitude apart, it was as though his spoiled and petty spirit was incapable of an honest, whole hearted, ungrudging admiration and regard.

WALKED FROM LINDSAY IN THE EARLY SUNDAY MORNING STORM

Remarkable Feat of an Aged Grand Trunk Railway Employee---Wished to Get Home Because of a Sick Son.

John McLean, baggageman on the G.T.R. flyer, walked from Lindsay, to Peterboro early Sunday morning, and incidentally completed a journey he will be loath to experience again.

On Saturday evening the flyer's trip to Peterboro was cancelled, and the train was to remain at Lindsay. The 9 o'clock train was several hours late, but was to resume its trip to Peterboro some time after midnight. It is believed Mr. McLean did not know this fact or he would have waited and come on the train. Apparently he was not aware of this fact, for after 11 o'clock he set out to walk to Peterboro. David Hartley may have had an arduous trip in his walk, but he had it easy when compared to that walk along the track. In the city the wind and snow revelled for hours to the discomfort of the belated citizens, but in the country its fury knew no bounds. Fortunately Mr. McLean had the storm at his back at times, but this was only a slight respite. Through the darkness of the January night he plodded on, an elderly man well into his prime, but still undismayed by the riotous elements.

He passed Best's station Sunday morning rather early and crossed at Charlotte-st. at 10 minutes after 10 o'clock. His walk was truly a remarkable one, and it is wonderful that he succeeded in reaching home. —Review.

Perhaps Brockville will turn the tables in Lindsay Friday night.

When Lindsay played in Peterboro, they, (Peter) understood Lindsay's strength, and had they played the best in their home game there would have been a different story to tell, but it took our boys every inch they had to put it over Peter here. A similar state of things exists in Brockville. They have five town league teams who are sticking together pretty well, and the city team suffers from that. Tuesday night, although they were the hardest proposition Lindsay have met yet, they could not get past Newton for more than a solitary, while by wonderful combination play on the part of the whole Lindsay line, five counters were recorded. It was unanimously agreed after the game that the city league would come to the aid of the city team, and the team which comes to Lindsay on Friday night will be the strongest that Brockville can turn out. Lindsay has a bigger lead than they had with Peterboro, but from all appearances they will need it.

It's no trouble for Brockville to turn out hockey players. One would only need to see their Arena to know that. The building cost $20,000, and the ice sheet is 80x180, with a double gallery running all around. An enclosed band stand, heated by steam, is on the balcony. "When the band begins to play" the front is lowered. At the opposite end to the entrance is a clock with a six foot dial and single hand, which makes the circuit in 30 minutes. This is controlled from the timekeepers' box, and the players and crowd can see at all times just how much time remains for play. The management and help all wear a brass buttoned blue uniform and a gold braided cap, and the rink is kept as clean as a new pin.

Brockville boys are a clean bunch of players, and also a fine bunch off the ice. Referee Van Horne, from Kingston, has been in the game for years, and had no trouble in keeping the game in good shape, there being only one penalty on each side.

THE GAME.

The game started with a rush by Brockville, which was met by Sullivan and Koyle, and skilfully turned the other way. It was repeated with the same result, and there were no striking features to the game from start to finish except an occasional end-to-end rush by Koyle. The game was a series of straight combination rushes on both sides, with close checking back of the forwards and a little better work on the part of Lindsay defence than Brockville, with the exception of their goalkeeper, who had more work to do than Minie, and did it. He is Minie's twin when it comes to keeping them out, and the Lindsay supporters applauded his work repeatedly. He was Brockville's salvation.

The goals dropped in Lindsay 1st, 2nd, 3rd, Brockville 4th. Half time. Lindsay 5th and 6th. Score 5-1.

Messrs. Roenigk, Lane, Squiers, Knight, White and Abercrombie accompanied the boys, and looked after their needs in the usual good manner.

Ken Randell met with another accident in the game. His stick got caught in a Brockville skate and he didn't let go, and the referee thought he should have. Ken thought the fellow would have fallen over anyway, but Van Horne was just as sure that he would not have, and Ken said "All right—that's twice for me now in 6 games." That was the nearest to committing a crime that any of the boys did Tuesday night. They were too busy playing hockey to rough it.

"Sully" got hit in the side with the puck, and as he also had a toothache, he said, "That's all for mine to-night—good-bye."

Lindsay have a bunch of boys that are a credit to their town wherever they may be, and deserve the warmest support of the citizens.

This trip was the longest that Lindsay ever made, and the boys were tired when they arrived. 7.30 till 2.30 in covering 185 miles. They had dinner on the train, and as soon as their rooms were ready at the hotel they tumbled in for three hours' sleep. A bath and a good supper left them like a coop of Jack Maunder's finest.

ADDITIONAL NOTES

The members of the Intermediate hockey team who arrived home yesterday were Taylor, Newton, Koyl, Lane and Stoddard. These boys left Brockville at 2 a. m. after the game, on the train for Port Hope. At Port Hope they changed for Millbrook, where they hung round a couple of hours before they could get a train for Lindsay, arriving shortly after 4 o'clock.

Players report a very small crowd at the match, but that it was certainly a good game.

Stoddard played the game of his life, while Randall was a regular whirlwind, playing two men all the time. Cote and Sullivan were also towers of strength to the team. They say the Brockville people treated them white alright, and they had a good trip.

Sullivan, Randall, Charlie Squiers, Leigh Knight, "Fat" White and "Cob" Abercrombie, intended to leave Brockville by the first train next day, and will likely get here on the first G. T. R. train that arrives from that direction. They are likely snowbound somewhere on the road.

COMMUNICATIONS

HELP THE LITTLE CHILDREN.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Mr. Editor,—Would it be possible to find out, through your paper, if we have any little children in our town who are suffering from want of nourishment and clothing during this extreme cold weather? Surely there are few of us, as we gather around our cosy supper table these bitter cold evenings and look into the bright, happy little faces, so carefully sheltered from wind and storm, that do not cast a thought beyond our own fireside and wonder if a helping hand is needed anywhere in our town, and if there is any poor mother who is vainly struggling to keep her little ones warm, with scarcely any clothing and very little fuel in the house to do it with.

One case was brought to our notice of a mother with four little ones. It was the same old story, that has become so common this winter—the husband and father out of work, and the mother going out to work when she could get it, which was not often, in an old pair of boots of her husband's, with paper in the bottom to cover the holes, and a thin cotton dress, and the little children very thinly clad. This case was brought to the notice of one of our good townspeople, and they have since been warmly clad and looked after. Is this the only one, or is it one of the many? If there are others, could they not be brought to light through the valuable columns of your paper? Not by publishing the names—few care to have their poverty known—but in some way which you might suggest. I am sure, if there is clothing needed, there is many a little warm coat and cap laid away which have now become too small for the little folks who grow up so quickly, and which the mothers of our town would be only too glad to pass on to some needy one, did she only know where to take it, and I know there would be many a jar of fruit or loaf of bread change hands did people only know where the needy are.

We hope there are none, but if there are, could you tell us in what way they could be helped?

"ONE WHO WOULD HELP A LITTLE."

Lindsay, Feb. 5th.

Note.—We believe that the matter can best be managed through the respective pastors and congregational visitors, but a card to this office, giving street and house number, (names unnecessary) will be handed to the proper parties, who will furnish prompt assistance.—Ed. Post.

Privileges of a King's Counsel

Ontario Has One to Every Five Lawyers ---England One to Thirty-Five.

Since the announcement recently of the appointment of 188 new King's Counsel by the Whitney Government there has been considerable speculation as to what privileges or distinctions are carried by the letters 'K. C.' after a lawyer's name.

The distinction appears to be almost purely honorary. In gatherings of members of the bar, a K. C. has precedence over ordinary members, and in application to a court, a K. C., takes precedence in getting certain matters heard.

A. K. C. is privileged to wear a silk gown which costs from $50 to $75, while untitled lawyer contents himself with a less costly gown. The K. C. must pay a fee of $25 or $30 to the Attorney-General's Department, so the honor does not come free of all cost.

There are now in Ontario 377 King's Counsel, out of a total number of practicing barristers of 1,050. The proportion of the King's Counsel to the rest of the profession is, therefore, one in five. In England and Wales there are 260 King's Counsel to 9,000 lawyers, so there is a proportion of one to thirty-five. There are now 117 more silk robed counsel in Ontario, with a population of less than three million, than there are in England and Wales with a population of over 30 millions.

In England a King's Counsel was formerly not allowed to plead in a case against the Crown without a special license. He was then paid a nominal retainer. The distinction was afterwards removed. After the confederation of the Canadian provinces, the question of whether the provinces might appoint K. C.'s was unsettled for some time. It was finally ruled by the Court of Appeal that the Lieutenant - Governor - in - Council had the authority to appoint King's Counsel and give them such privileges as they thought proper in provincial courts.

A Popular Young Man Passes Away

Lamented Death of Late Principal of St. Peter's School, Peterboro.

Peterborough Review; A death that will be greatly regretted in the city, occurred Feb. 4th, at 5.30 o'clock in St. Joseph's Hospital, when Mr. Charles Joseph McDonald passed away in his 32nd year. He was the principal of St. Peter's Separate school until he gave up teaching last fall, owing to ill health, and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He recovered somewhat and was able to go to his home. About three weeks ago he was again taken ill with bronchitis and was taken to the same hospital again, where he died yesterday.

Mr. McDonald was thirty-two years of age and had a large number of friends in the city and surrounding townships. He was born in Smith, and is survived by eight brothers and four sisters as follows; George and Robert of Rochester; Alexander and Michael, of Toronto; Stephen, of Prince Albert, Sask.; John, of Bobcaygeon, and Louis of Otonabee. The sisters are Mary, of Toronto; Mrs. S. J. Anglesey, and Mrs. James Morland, of Peterboro and Mrs. Francis Wade of Smith township. The sorrowing relatives will have the sincere sympathy of a large number of friends.

Heat, light and moisture are the arch enemies of canned fruit, preserves, jellies, and similar stores. For this reason the fruit closet should be cool, dark and dry.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

Ontario Legislature Was Formally Opened Yesterday.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Brilliant Scene In the Chamber—Important Legislation Outlined—Question of Prison Labor—Law Reform to Be Dealt With—Appropriation For Urban Schools—Three New Members Introduced.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—The Legislative machinery of the province was set in motion yesterday afternoon, when His Honor Sir William Mortimer Clark, the Lieutenant-Governor, formally opened the Legislative Assembly. The first day of the fourth and last session of the eleventh Parliament of Ontario did not materially differ from the first days of preceding sittings of the House. As in the past, the dignified ceremonial was observed by a large and fashionable gathering, and in the Legislative Chamber the gay dresses of the ladies and the uniforms of officers and consular representatives of other countries lent a dash of color to the scene.

The advent of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor at the Parliament Buildings was witnessed by a considerable crowd of persons, who found the higher temperature of about 16 degrees quite endurable, despite the high east wind which foretold the approach of snowstorms or even rain. Sir William Mortimer Clark arrived attended by a traveling escort of an officer and twelve troopers of the Royal Canadian Dragoons. He was greeted by the general salute from a guard of honor selected from the Tenth Royal Grenadiers and the discharge of fifteen guns, fired by "B" Battery of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Attended by his military secretary, Major J. Fraser Macdonald, his aide-de-camp, Capt. Douglas Young, and the commanding officers of the garrison, his honorary aides, he was conducted by Hon. J. P. Whitney, the Prime Minister, to the Chamber. He proceeded to the throne, while the audience stood, and read his address to the members of the Assembly.

Speech From the Throne.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

It affords me satisfaction to once more meet you as the representatives of the people in Parliament assembled.

Our thanks are due to Almighty God that while in some sections of the province the harvest was not as abundant as in the previous year, yet the general interest and activity of our people, displayed during the past year with reference to business and commercial undertakings, indicate continued prosperity. It is also a matter of satisfaction that our province has suffered comparatively little from the financial stringency which has been very marked in other countries during the past few months.

It will afford you gratification to know that the first payment of the additional subsidy from the Dominion, arranged for at the late interprovincial conference and payable under the act passed at the last session of the Imperial Parliament, has been received.

No disposition has yet been made by the Dominion Government of the territory extending northward to Hudson Bay and forming the hinterland of Ontario, but a decision is expected soon.

The work of the revision of the statutes has made such progress that several of the important acts will be laid before you for your approval.

The construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway has been nearly completed, the rails having been laid as far as a point two hundred and eight miles beyond North Bay, and about forty miles south of the probable junction with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway; while the earnings have continued to be satisfactory, and largely in excess of the outlay incurred in operating the road.

Very fair progress has been made in the development of the mining industry at Cobalt and vicinity; and the investigation and working of the Gillies limit have been very satisfactory.

Emigration Problem.

The Minister of Agriculture paid a visit to Great Britain during the past summer for the purpose of investigating the conditions surrounding the emigration problem. While there, he was able to take steps for the careful supervision of intending immigrants to Ontario. By agreement the distribution of immigrants has been taken over by the Dominion Government, thus making it possible for the Provincial Government to devote more attention to the careful selection of desirable settlers.

A demonstration farm has been established at Driftwood River, north of the height of land, in a good agricultural country. By experiments in crop-raising conducted there, much practical information will be gained for the use of intending settlers.

Important documents and reports relating to the distribution of electric power under the statute will be laid before you.

At the request of my Ministers, the Hon. Mr. Willoughby, Dr. Clark, superintendent of the Asylum for the Insane, Toronto, and Dr. Ryan, superintendent of the Asylum for the Insane at Kingston, proceeded during the recess to Great Britain and the continent in order to investigate modern methods of caring for and treating the insane. Their very interesting report will be laid before you.

In accordance with my reference to the subject last year, my Ministers have considered the question of prison labor, with a view to preventing competition with free labor, and the Provincial Secretary and other gentlemen proceeded to several of the prisons in the United States, in order to observe the systems in operation there. The result of their visit will be laid before you, together with interesting and valuable information obtained by them.

My Ministers will propose for your consideration, a scheme of law reform, with a view to decreasing appeals, expediting trials and lessening the cost of litigation.

A bill to rearrange the constituencies of the province, in order, as far as possible, to equalize representation, will be laid before you.

The large increases in the appropriations for the teachers' salaries, additional Normal schools, and various other educational purposes, have received the commendation of the public, and you will be asked now to consider increased appropriation for urban schools. The policy of throwing open the publication of text books to public competition has led to considerable reductions in the prices of school reading books, and it is confidently hoped that reductions in the prices of other books will result from an extension of this policy.

Bills will be laid before you in amendment of various enactments of a public nature, now on the statute book, including the Mining Laws, the Liquor License Act, the act creating the Railway and Municipal Board, the Public Lands Act, the Free Grants Act, the Supplementary Revenue Act.

Owing to the steady increase of settlement, it has been found necessary to create the new judicial district of Rainy River.

Provincial Rights.

A conference has been held with the Dominion Government with a view to adjusting the differences which have arisen relating to the respective jurisdictions of the Dominion and the province on the subject of railway and other companies, and it is to be hoped that a satisfactory solution will be found.

You will be glad to learn that the revenues of the province are largely in excess of the estimates and more than sufficient to meet the public expenditure during the year.

The public accounts will be laid before you for your consideration at the earliest moment, and the estimates for the coming year will also be submitted for your approval at an early date.

Down to Business.

At 3.15 the Lieutenant-Governor's party left the House by the Speaker's entrance, and eight minutes later the Speaker took his seat, the mace was laid on the table, and prayers were said, Dr. Carman standing up during the ceremony.

The result of the new writs for the west riding of York, and the electoral districts of Dufferin and Brockville having been officially announced, the three new members were escorted in, Premier Whitney and J. S. Callagher of Frontenac leading up Albert Edward Donovan, the hero of Brockville; Hon. J. J. Foy and J. S. Duff, West Simcoe, supporting Charles Robert McKeown of Dufferin, and Hon. Dr. Pyne and Alexander McCowan, East York, introducing Dr. Forbes Godfrey of West York.

Premier Whitney moved that the speech be taken into consideration today, and this was carried. Messrs. McKeown and Donovan will orate on this occasion, and it is expected that the debate will be closed this afternoon after the House has heard from Messrs. Whitney and McKay.

A motion to enable the appointment of the usual select standing committees having been adopted, the House was adjourned at 3.25.

Subsequently the ladies adjourned to the Speaker's apartments, where a reception was held.

The House will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rejected; Ends His Life.

Paris, Feb. 6.—Horace Simonson, son of J. Simonson, Brantford, shot himself here last night through the right temple about 6 o'clock and died shortly after.

Deceased is said to have been engaged to a young lady here, and as she refused to marry him he took his own life.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—All the Atlantic steamers of the C. P. R. fleet will be equipped with wireless apparatus. The Empresses alone have this equipment at present.

TROOPS ARE MOVING

Turkish Infantry Concentrating in the Caucasus.

HOSTILITIES ARE FEARED

Inhabitants Near Frontier Are Alarmed—Sultan's Spies Are Busy—Troops Could Seize the District—Precautionary Measures Taken—Moslems Are Being Stirred Up to Fanaticism and Disorder.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—Recent advices received from the Caucasus indicate that the Russian inhabitants are considerably alarmed over the concentration of Turkish troops in Armenia and the region seized from Persia, which, it is believed, is designed as a reply to any attempt at demonstration on the part of Russia.

Under the cover of Kurdish tribesmen, the Turks are reported as massing infantry at Bayazid and other strategic points near the frontier in such strength as to dispose of the probabilities that the movement is intended solely against non-militant Persia.

Russia now only has two army corps in the Caucasus, a large part of which is dispersed in detachments through the country to preserve order or engaged in punitive expeditions. An officer is quoted as saying that the Turks could, in case of trouble, sweep the Caucasus and occupy Tiflis in ten days.

Turkish emissaries and spies, it is stated, are to be found everywhere, fomenting disorder, and the Moslem inhabitants, particularly Daghestan, are in open sympathy with their co-religionists across the border.

The authorities here, although admitting the seriousness of the Turko-Persian relations, do not share the alarmist views held in the Caucasus, and declare that the possibility of hostilities with Turkey, over which Russians there are panicky, is utterly excluded. Certain precautionary measures, however, are being taken by the military council, and during the past three weeks all regiments in that territory have been notified to hold themselves in readiness to move at short notice.

SAVED FIREMAN'S LIFE.

Engineer Showed Quick Wit In Bad Wreck on M. C. R.

St. Thomas, Feb. 6.—A bad wreck occurred on the M.C.R. at Ridgetown shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday night, and blocked the westbound track until noon yesterday.

The wreck happened under rather peculiar circumstances, and only for the presence of mind and strength of the engineer the fireman would surely have lost his life.

The freight was going west about thirty miles an hour, and just as the engine was going over a road crossing near Ridgetown, for some unknown reason it separated from the tender, letting the fireman, Joseph Underhill, fall down between the engine and tender. Engineer John Allen saw the danger, and giving the engine more steam, keeping it a sufficient distance from the tender to prevent Underhill from being crushed to death. Finally Allen succeeded in pulling the fireman safely on deck, and believing he had shut off steam, he called to his fireman to jump, as he was afraid it was going to tip over. However, the engine stuck to the track, and stopped of its own accord, near Mull, six miles away.

The train itself was not so fortunate. It had not gone far when the tender jumped the track, wrecking over twenty cars, piling them up every way, rendering some of them to kindling wood. Most of them were empties, so no merchandise of any account was damaged.

The sand house, which is near the track, was completely demolished, and the water tank, being only a few feet away, but out of commission for some time. Considerable damage was done to the track, breaking ties and tearing up track for some distance. Only one car fell across the eastbound track, so traffic in that direction was not delayed more than an hour.

Engineer Allen and Fireman Underhill were severely shaken up by the fall, but suffered no serious injuries.

Arm Mangled In Gearing.

Kingston, Feb. 6.—William Friendship, aged 25 years, an employe of the Cereal Company, was oiling the flaking machine yesterday when his coat sleeve caught in the gearing and his left arm drawn in and mangled up to the elbow. Amputation followed in the General Hospital.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

THE PUBLIC HEALTH

Enormous Loss Sustained From Preventible Disease.

SUGGESTS NATIONAL BUREAU

Subject Brought Up In the House of Commons—Appalling Infant Mortality—Doctors Make Startling Statements—Deaths From Typhoid—Quebec Bridge Subsidies—Motion For Returns Agreed to.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—No contentious subject commanded attention in the House yesterday. F. D. Monk (Con., Jacques Cartier), moved for the appointment of a committee to investigate the financial condition of the Quebec Bridge Co., and this the Premier granted. Then the House listened for a couple of hours to a discussion by the medical members of the means to be taken to suppress causes of contagious diseases.

A new member was introduced, accompanied by applause from the Liberal side. Charles H. Lovell of Stanstead, Que., was brought in by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. Brodeur, the Speaker, also read the certificate of election of M. Y. McLean of South Huron, and he is now entitled to take his place in Parliament.

Rejected Immigrants.

Alphonse Verville (Maisonneuve) asked if Canada was paying bonuses on immigrants rejected by Australia and sent out by the Central Immigration Board of London.

Hon. Mr. Oliver said bonuses had been paid on 30 immigrants sent out by the board at a cost of £14 10s, but he had not heard the statement of T. A. Coghlan of New South Wales, Government office in London, that all but two of 368 emigrants offered by this board had been rejected "because it would have been unkind to themselves to send them to farm work," nor did he know how many of Australia's rejected had come to Canada.

Mr. Gervais moved the first reading of his bill to amend the act respecting the Supreme Court of Canada. It aims at placing all appeals from the court of review of Quebec to the Supreme Court on the same basis as an appeal from the Court of King's Bench.

Mr. Gervais also introduced a bill to amend the criminal code with regard to the speedy trial of persons charged with indictable offences, the object being to get rid of commitment to jail while they await trial.

Mr. Monk moved for a select committee of seven to investigate conditions and guarantees under which the Government paid moneys to the Quebec Bridge Co., and endorsed or guaranteed bonds of the company and what measues were adopted by the Government to ensure the preparation of suitable plans of construction and proper execution of same, and what security the Government at present possesses for sums already received by and guaranteed to the company.

Cost $12,000,000.

Mr. Monk said when it was considered that the ultimate cost of the bridge would be, at a moderate estimate, about $12,000,000, he was justified in calling for a thorough investigation. He recalled that when the vote was put through the House within a few hours of prorogation, the members were in possession of scanty information.

Mr. Monk went on to show that on Oct. 15, 1903, when the Dominion Government undertook to guarantee bonds of $6,678,200 of the company, that the company had a floating debt of $779,-551, and it was impossible to arrive at any other conclusion than that the company was hopelessly insolvent and that the Government had committed an act of a very improvident and imprudent nature.

He showed that as the bridge was absolutely necessary for an undertaking that had been largely financed by the Dominion it was folly to confide the bridge project to a company that was absolutely in bankruptcy. The company, Mr. Monk claimed, was as insolvent to-day as it was in 1903, and it was the duty of Parliament to ascertain exactly the situation. As far as he could ascertain the Phoenix Co. was not in financial condition to face this very large loss. He was told there was no insurance against loss. No one had been found to be responsible, and he concluded that the loss must fall upon the country. The obligation to pay the debts of the company, contracted with the approval of the Government, rested with the country.

Country Must Build.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said as the country was committed to the construction of the bridge, and it was important that a full investigation should be made of all circumstances he readily agreed to the motion, which was declared carried.

Mr. Crockett moved for the correspondence with regard to alleged discrimination against the City of Fredericton in the matter of freight rates. This was granted.

Dr. Black (Hants, N. S.) moved that an organization should be perfected for suppression of causes of preventable diseases. In a speech of an hour he exhaustively dealt with many of the causes of disease which carried off a large proportion of the population. A bureau of health was suggested to deal with this question.

Dr. Black declared that typhoid fever could be eradicated with proper attention given to water and milk supply, and more than one-half the deaths that occurred could be prevented.

Save the Babies.

Dr. Chisholm (Huron) warmly supported the resolution, pointing out the absurdity of spending large sums to bring in filthy foreigners to take the place of our own dead babies when with proper nourishment those lives might be saved. What was needed more than anything else was a commissioner of health, whose duty it would be to disseminate literature instructing people in proper modes of living.

Dr. Boland (Beauce) invited the members to carry on a campaign of sanitation, and the ministers of the gospel to thunder the new gospel from the pulpit.

Bureau of Health.

Dr. Worthington (Sherbrooke) favored the creation of a bureau of health, while Dr. McIntyre discussed the question of provincial control of sanitation. The proposed Dominion board need not interfere with provincial boards, but would rather supplement their work.

Dr. McIntyre declared that the growth of Christian Science must necessarily increase the spread of contagious diseases.

The debate was adjourned at 6 o'clock by Dr. McLennan.

FOSTER TURNED DOWN.

Charge Against Liberals In Committee Is Rejected.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The sub-target matter was before the public accounts committee yesterday. Mr. Foster renewed his motion to have the proceedings of the committee reported to the House along with the decision of F. B. Carvell, chairman of the committee, disallowing a question which Mr. Foster had put at the last meeting.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley declared that after going carefully into the practice of the House he could find no precedent for Mr. Foster's motion.

Hon. Mr. Foster appealed to the committee not to stand on technicalities and charged the Government supporters with coming to the committee to block the investigation.

Mr. Foster's remarks were objected to as a gratuitous insult to the Liberal members of the committee.

Sir Frederick Borden declared that the animus shown by Conservative members of the committee disclosed their motives. They took particular pains to insinuate what they dare not say.

Mr. Foster's motion was defeated by 17 votes to 30.

RUSSIA WAS NOT READY.

Gen. Stoessel Makes Earnest Appeal For Justice.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—Deputy Syrtlanoff, counsel for Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, pleaded yesterday before the court-martial that is trying the general on the charge of having surrendered Port Arthur to the Japanese for the full acquittal of his client. The speech was in reply to the summing up of Judge Advocate General Gursky for the prosecution Tuesday.

Counsel for Stoessel laid emphasis on Russia's general unpreparedness for war, and said that Port Arthur under Gen. Stoessel resisted heroically, repulsed all the attacks made by the Japanese, and surrendered only when it was as good as taken. M. Syrtanoff closed his address with the following words: "Gen. Stoessel is an old and invalid soldier and he faces his judges to-day asking only for justice."

Parlor Car Burned.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The parlor car on the G. T. train leaving Ottawa at 4.45 yesterday afternoon was practically destroyed by fire between Vaudreuil and Montreal. An explosion of gas is supposed to have started it. The passengers beat a hasty retreat into the forward cars, and west of Dorval the car was cut out.

The crew shoveled in snow in an attempt to put out the fire, but in vain, and the peculiar accident will cost the company some $30,000.

English Settler's Suicide.

Port Arthur, Feb. 6.—An Oliver Township farmer named John C. France, shot himself yesterday, and was found in the barn by his brother. He was 35 years of age, and came from England two years ago. No reason for his act is known.

The .... Rogue's March.

By E. W. HORNUNG,

Copyright, 1896, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS.

In all their talks the only name Tom heard was Clarinda. It was characteristic of his state that he never inquired the other. His sympathy and his interest were confined to his friend; real curiosity he had none. He asked no questions, but a crooked answer was ready for him if he had.

"You must let me tell her all I owe to you," Tom said once. "It will be a pleasure to her and a relief to me."

"Perhaps you owe as much to herself."

It had slipped out, but Tom was not at all excited.

"You mean that she believed in me, too?" he asked with a mild sort of incredulity, and he saw from the other's face that she had not. "Upon my soul," he thought, "I begin to disbelieve in myself, especially since I've done as bad out here—and perhaps not heard the last of it yet!"

Daintree wondered why he shuddered in the sun. It was because his one true and fierce emotion was the base fear of further tortures. He despised himself for that most of all.

Meanwhile the cork ship with the paper sails was creeping slowly, but surely, across the great white south Atlantic of the chart, and the wall on which it hung had been repapered, and the whole bungalow smelt of paint. It was a fair sized house of two stories, with a veranda encircling the one and a balcony the other. Very pretty it looked in its new coat of paint for the summer, a white coat with yellow trimmings, which stood out delightfully on the blue water's edge. The garden lawn merged into a narrow strand that slid straight under the wavelets themselves. As summer set in the trees behind the house broke out in every gay and gorgeous color; it was the plumage of the parrots that now came and perched in flocks among the branches.

Tom gave up his room, as two ladies and a maid were expected. It was repapered for the maid. A room was found for Tom in the pretty little stables amid the trees, where he helped Fawcett with the horses and the curricle, which was in Sydney on some errand every day. Generally the master went alone. Once he took Tom with him. It was on the occasion of his cashing a check to meet the running expenses of these elaborate preparations.

They were on their way home at dusk when Daintree pulled up on the outskirts of the town and hailed a disconsolate, soldierly figure with one arm in a sling.

"Why, Harry!" cried Daintree. "That's never you?"

"I wish it wasn't, sir."

"These six months. It was my arm. Look there, sir!"

An emaciated hand came through the sling. The thumb and forefinger were uninjured, but half the middle finger and both the other two were like dead, distorted branches on a living tree.

"What did it?"

"A bullet; caught me on the funny bone and paralyzed half my hand. My right hand too. It's set me on the shelf at thirty-three."

"An accident, Harry?"

Tom held his breath.

"Quite," said Harry bitterly. "It was meant for my heart. You would hear of the bushrangers at Dr. Sullivan's last summer—that's when it was—and the one that did it was the only one to get away."

Tom's clothes were sticking to him, freezing him. "Drive on!" he whispered. "For God's sake, sir, drive on!"

Daintree expressed sympathy with the man and whipped up his horses.

"Not so fast!" cried Tom. "You offered me wages. Advance me £5 of what you got from the bank!"

His face was white with horror, his tone so piteous and so eager that Daintree pulled up, took 5 sovereigns from a bag and dropped them one by one into the trembling hand. Tom sprang out and ran back to the disabled man.

"From my master!" he gasped and thrust the money into his left hand and darted back without daring to look in his face. The astonished trooper had not time to say a word.

"God bless you for that money!" faltered Tom in terrible agitation as they drove on. "I gave it to him from you. I want no wages. Give them all to him!"

The other remained silent.

"You don't ask why!"

"I think I know."

"It was I who smashed his arm and spoiled his life!"

"I suspected it."

"When?"

"Ah, no!" cried Tom, almost beside himself with grief and shame. "That was for something else. See what a villain I have been! You should have left me one. I could have stood it if you'd left me what I was! Oh, what am I to do—I in luxury and that man shattered and ruined by my hand? I can't bear it! I must confess! And I an innocent man in the beginning! Oh, that was bad enough, to be condemned for what you never did, but it's as bad to know you're guilty and to go scot free!"

The other said nothing, but listened attentively as Tom now unbosomed himself of the whole truth of his adventure with the bushrangers, whereupon Daintree justified his offense with such warmth of conviction that Tom was a little soothed. But his lavish friend went further. He undertook that the disabled man should want for nothing, but first they must find out what his circumstances really were.

They found out within an hour, and from the man himself. He had followed them on foot to render thanks. He even wanted to return the money. Not only was the department treating him handsomely, the surgeons had hopes of his arm, and he was ashamed of the way in which he must have exaggerated matters in the street. So Tom was assured when the man was gone. He kept out of the way while he was there.

The assurance consoled him—a little. He never forgot that half withered hand. He dreamed of it at night, it haunted him by day, and all the while that withered hand was surely though invisibly restoring the shattered temple of his soul. It did for Tom what mere kindness had failed to do, for now a horror of his acts replaced the dread of their consequences. Those ignoble terrors passed quite away. It never even occurred to Tom that he had lightly confessed what no living witness could have proved.

He had been with Daintree now some eight or nine weeks. There were deep lines in his face, but his eyes were no longer inflamed and ferocious, and he was beginning to hold them up again as of old. The debonair glance had not come back. It was gone forever. And his back was still marked (the master saw it when they bathed), and his walk was still shambling. Yet day by day peace was creeping into his heart, day by day he liked Daintree better, and day by day the little cork Rosamund left the Cape farther astern and came nearer and nearer Sydney heads.

CHAPTER XXVI.

ONE morning when Tom was busy in his pantry a tearful voice advised him that he was wanted in the study at once. The woman vanished as he turned; the kitchen door slammed upon her sobs, and in the study Tom found his master in a towering rage.

"You profess some gratitude toward me, I believe?" said Daintree, with a biting ceremony of voice and manner.

"Not more than I feel—not half as much."

"Then you are the exception, and now's your chance of showing what you say you feel. I'm going to ask a favor of you, Thomas."

"You shouldn't put it so, sir. I love to serve you."

"Then go to Parramatta factory and choose a wife!"

Tom twitched all over and stood very still without a word. The other covered him with an ugly eye.

"So even your gratitude has its limits!" he sneered. "Another time I should protest a little less if I were you."

MACHINERY BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Force of Explosion at Powder Mills Was Tremendous.

Tweed, Feb. 6.—A visit to the place where the powder works stood reveals a sight of complete wreckage. The gelatin building and the nitrator have been completely blown from the face of earth, and the only thing left to mark their location are two deep holes.

In the gelatin works there was heavy machinery, some of it weighing three to four tons, but not a trace of this is seen in the vicinity of the ruins, although the gun cotton storehouse near the destroyed buildings, a circular building of solid cement, was practically undamaged.

Mr. Frank Knight, who is in charge of the works, is unable to say how the explosion occurred. The first indication of trouble was when flames and smoke were seen coming from the nitrator.

Daniel Smith and C. A. McPherson of Kingston, president and secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Powder Company, arrived in town yesterday afternoon and at once went to view the ruins.

Mr. McPherson said no estimate of the company's loss could be given, but it would be heavy. He said the explosion was as bad as could possibly happen at the plant, and he believed the people living in the vicinity would now feel that the danger was not as great as had been believed.

A movement is under way among some of the citizens of Tweed to interview the management and have the buildings erected further from the town, or to at least force the company to make provision against a repetition of such a catastrophe.

Many peculiar freaks are recorded as the work of the explosion. Practically every window on the west side of the main street was broken, while the stores on the east side nearer the explosion, were only slightly damaged.

At the tailor shop of F. D. Huyck, the strong iron hinges were torn from the lower half of the door, while the glass front was not damaged and the door not broken.

The Tweed News office door was blown open, bending a strong steel lock, and all the glass on one side of the door was broken to atoms, while on the other side not even a crack was made.

Paul Trumpour is the only person reported as injured. He was working in the drying room of the powder plant, some distance from the mixing room, where the explosion took place, and when he was told to run he started to argue that it was too cold to leave the building. Before he had made up his mind that there was danger, the explosion came and he was hurled across the room, but escaped with some severe bruises about the head.

One of the new machines installed in the gelatin factory weighed about five tons, and was destroyed, not even a trace of it can be found.

Speaker Rules Resolution Out.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 6.—A resolution introduced into the local Legislature by John Oliver (Liberal), which had for its object an appeal to the Governor-General for the removal of Lt.-Gov. Dunsmuir from office, was ruled out of order.

In the opinion of the Speaker, improper motives were attributed to his honor in the resolution, if not in plain language, by inuendo.

Had Stormy Passage.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 6.—Four days late the Allan liner Siberian, came into port yesterday, reporting a terrific trip of fourteen days across the Atlantic, which culminated in an encounter with Saturday's terrific gale.

From the time the steamer left Liverpool a succession of gales were met with, and one day she only made 81 miles. The steamer shipped an unusually large amount of water, and the passengers were all very sick. During Saturday night and Sunday the steamer had a terrific time.

Buffeted by tremendous seas she pitched and tossed so that passengers nearly abandoned all hope of ever reaching Halifax. There were twenty-five passengers on board, eight second cabin, and seventeen steerage.

Some Moors Still Live.

Paris, Feb. 6.—The Foreign Office is without confirmation of the statement published on Tuesday by a London news agency, that there had been a battle between the French and the Moors near Settat, Morocco, in which 10,000 Moors were killed or wounded, and wherein the French losses amounted to 160 men, including four officers.

It is believed that this report refers to the recent engagements near Kasbah Ber Rechid, in which eight Frenchmen were killed and fifty wounded. Kasbah Ber Rechid is near Settat. Further reports of this fight show that not less than 500 Arabs were killed by the French.

Hired Man Suicides.

Aylmer, Feb. 6.—William Marshall 45 years of age, committed suicide by hanging at noon yesterday. He was employed as a hired man by Harvey Brown, a farmer four miles south of here. While Mr. Brown was in town yesterday morning neighbors found Marshall hanging in Brown's barn. He was an Englishman and had worked for Brown for many years. No special reason can be given for his act. He was not very bright-minded. An inquest will probably be held today.

G. R. T. Conductor Arrested.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—W. F. Bottomley, conductor of the G.T.R. freight train which was run into at St. Martin Junction and killed Engineer Symonds, was arrested for manslaughter. He pleads not guilty. The charge is that he had not protected his train by lights.

Railway Situation Shows Improvement —Ocean Rate War at an End.

DEAD AT OTTAWA.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Gordon B. Pattee, a wealthy pioneer lumberman of this district, died this morning at an advanced age. He was father-in-law to G. Berkley Powell, ex.-M.P.P., of Ottawa.

RAILWAY LINES OPENING.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—The railway situation in the province is improved this morning. On the Grand Trunk some branches are open, and agents have been instructed to sell tickets again. The C.P.R. main line east of Toronto from Montreal to Burketon is open, and snow plows are now working in this direction. It is expected the track will be opened this afternoon, and with this expectation the C. P. R. sent out a passenger train at 10.50 this morning — the first in three days. The roads are accepting perishable freight. The Canadian Northern is still tied up.

OCEAN RATE WAR OVER.

Montreal, Que., Feb. 7.—Steamship passenger rate is over with a vengeance. Shipping agents who met here to-day announced that the price of tickets will jump from their present rock bottom position right to the old summer figures. The old winter special rate which was ten dollars below the summer schedule is eliminated.

Entertained the Methodist Choir

Members Were Guests of Dr. and Mrs. Clarke Last Evening.

The hospitable home of Dr. Clarke was thrown open to the members of Cambridge-st. Methodist church choir last evening, who thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality and kind efforts of the genial doctor, and other members of the musical committee of the church.

The evening was spent in various literary contests; one in particular which created much enjoyment, was the well-known "Title and Authors" contest. Several vocal numbers were given during the evening by the following members of the choir.; Mrs. Widdess, solo; Mrs. Blackwell, solo; Miss Daly, solo; Miss Brisbane, solo; Miss Edith Flavelle and Mr. H. Brimmell, duett; and quartette by Mrs. Widdess, Miss Flavelle, Mr. Parish and Mr. H. Brimmell.

Dainty refreshments were served and brought the evening to a close, after a cordial vote of thanks was tendered by Mr. Forsythe, choirmaster, to Dr. Clarke, on behalf of the choir.

Flying Machine or Snowshoes.

Mr. W. B. Sparling, wholesale grocer, would be willing to pay a steep rent for the use of a reliable flying machine for a half day or so. Mr. Ross, one of his travellers, has been snow-bound in Kinmount all week, and prospects for liberation are slim. He is putting in the time practising at the use of snowshoes, and his friends may look for him some time on Sunday.

Board of Trade Met Last Evening President W.B. Sparling's Address

Members in a Position to Help the Council and Benefit the People Generally by Investigating and Reporting Upon Various Matters.

The Lindsay Board of Trade met last evening in the Council chamber. There were present W. B. Sparling, President, Mr. J. F. Donald, sec.-treasurer, and Messrs. Lytle, Morson, Loosemore, Ray, Bowes, Pogue, Kitchener, Kylie, Cinnamon, Morton, Ford, Marion, Wilson, Weldon, Neelands, Robson, Dr. White.

The nominating committee brought in a report suggesting the following gentlemen to compose the Council for 1908, Messrs. Ray, Kylie, O'Reilly, Lytle, Carew, Wm. Flavelle, Ross, Stewart, Williams, Clemes, Anderson, Fisher, Staples, McWatters, Cinnamon, Horn, Smale, McLean, Reesor, Brady, Appelby.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The annual meeting just past has created machinery with which effective work can be done in the interests of Lindsay. It is our desire that this machinery shall be operated in such a manner as to produce positive results. To do this the co-operation of every member is required.

Questions of live interest will be discussed, and an opportunity afforded for the open debate of problems facing us as a municipality.

Looking out into the year, I would suggest that our attention be given to such matters as the following;

1. Would it be advantageous to petition our Legislature to pass an act prohibiting the granting of bonuses, giving of land, guaranteeing of bonds, etc., for prospective industries?

2. Are we getting out of our waterworks plant a fair and reasonable return, as should be expected from so valuable an asset?

3. Should the matter of the filtration of our water not be thoroughly investigated again, and all facts weighed with a view to the education of the public toward such a system?

4. Has not the time arrived when we should have all information placed before us respecting permanent roadways?

5. Why not give our citizens an opportunity of investing in local improvement debentures, whereby they can increase the earning power of their money 50 per cent. and have an absolutely gilt-edged investment?

From time to time other matters of importance will present themselves for consideration.

At all times the fact must be kept in mind that we, as a Board of Trade, have no absolute authority to act on municipal matters. Our function is that of an advisory board. In this capacity we have wider scope, and in many respects we have an advantage over our friends in the municipal Council, for when a measure is introduced in our meeting there is opportunity for the fullest debate, and for the viewing of every aspect of the proposition. Then, having matured a plan, we can present it to the Council as the concensus of opinion of the business men of Lindsay.

For your approval I wish to make a suggestion along another line, that for, say two of our meetings, we should invite a prominent gentleman to address us, a man who stands at the head of some branch of mercantile life. Mr. J. Osborne, General Superintendent of the C.P.R., if he could be secured, could give us valuable information of the railway problems of our great country. Mr. Byron Walker, President of the Bank of Commerce—where could we find a greater treat? Mr. J. K. Durston, of the Bell Telephone Co., some prominent newspaper man, (but there we might introduce trouble), and so on. These are merely suggestions.

The point is this; let us be decidedly alive. Introduce into the Board of Trade any topic that will build up our town, that will create smoking chimneys, that will beautify our streets, or any topic, the discussion of which will eventually take a mill on the dollar off our tax rates.

As this is the year of our majority, a sketch of the history of the B. of T. of Lindsay might be found interesting. Now that we have reached twenty-one years of age, and thereby, have a right to exercise the franchise, surely we should carry weight in the community.

Think for a moment, what percentage of the taxes of this town are paid by the business, mercantile and commercial interests of this town, 75 per cent? Is that a fair estimate? Well then, our object is this—so to conduct the business of the Board of Trade that, when we secure a vote on a resolution that will clearly indicate the thoughtful desire of the majority of so large a portion of the electorate, that it will be a potent force in whatever direction it may be used.

Sketch of History.

Organized and obtained charter on March 3rd, 1887. Late Senator Dobson, president, John Kennedy, vice-president, and F. H. Dobbin, now of Peterborough, secretary. Fee $5.00.

1905—R. Kennedy.

1907—R. Kylie.

Council 1887—R. Sylvester, J. D. Flavelle, Wm. Robson, C. E. L. Porteous, J. H. Sootheran, R. Bryans, E. Gregory, A. Campbell, F. C. Taylor, C. D. Barr, Sam Hughes, Thos. Brady.

Meetings were held at 9.30 a.m. in the Merchants' Institute.

AGAINST BONUSING

The following resolution was read by the secretary from the Guelph Board of Trade;

Whereas, the granting of bonuses, loans and special favors to factories and industries has been largely abused, putting cities and towns in competition with other cities and towns to secure industries; in some cases one city or town securing an industry from another, and all, or partially all, in the interest only of the bonus hunter, and at a very large expense to the cities and towns of the Province, resulting often in causing the establishing of industries unsuitable in character or unwisely located, or without proper capital for business, and these have in many cases afterwards proved financial failures.

Therefore, be it resolved that this Board of Trade earnestly requests the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its coming session, to pass an Act prohibiting in future the granting of bonuses, giving of land, the making of loans, guaranteeing of bonds, stocks, or otherwise, for industries or prospective industries, or the selling of water, power, gas, or other services, at less than cost for their use.

Furthermore, that a copy of this resolution be mailed to the Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, to Mr. J. P. Downey, our local member, and to sister Boards of Trade throughout the Province of Ontario.

Dr. White proposed that a committee be appointed to give the matter thorough consideration, and report to the Board. Mr. R. J. Lytle concurred in the idea, both gentlemen expressing themselves in favor of the Guelph resolution, but wished it thoroughly considered before any action was taken.

Mr. John O'Reilly, said he did not concur with the previous speakers, as Lindsay was not in as good a position as Guelph in regard to manufactories. The ones the town had we had to get by inducements, and he thought any concessions made along that line had been in the interests of the town. Our town has been lacking in railway facilities and other inducements until a short time since, but we are now in a position to offer such inducements and can attract manufacturers to our town.

Mr. Weldon said we must have some special inducement to offer manufacturers or we could not attract them. Peterboro had secured a number of good concerns but now it was almost impossible to secure a 60 per cent. vote, which was necessary to pass any bonus. Industries are being encouraged by the government and should we not do the same, but consider each case on its merits.

Mr. Ray also thought that Lindsay could not afford to support the resolution of the Guelph Board of Trade—Guelph, Berlin, Stratford, Brantford, and several other western towns, have all the manufactories they want, and could attract others without offering any inducements. We have splendid electric power to sell, and we must dispose of it to the best advantage of the town.

President Sparling thought it too important a matter to dispose of at a small meeting, and on motion it was referred to the Council of the Board for their careful consideration.

Messrs. Fisher, Ford, Staples and McWatters were appointed a committee to solicit new members for the Board.

The chairman said he wished to have the meetings interesting, and to discuss matters that were directly to the interest of the town, to assist and confer with the Town Council where they could be of any service to them, and to work together harmoniously in the general interest of the town. The matter of permanent roadways, for instance, is a very pertinent subject — the members could fortify themselves with information, and come prepared to discuss the matter intelligently. Mr. Campbell, the Provincial Commissioner, would be asked to address the meeting, and the time could be profitably spent. The chairman's suggestion was referred to the Council for consideration.

A question of selling the town bonds in small lots of from $500 up was introduced by Mr. Kylie, who showed that the town could save money and local investors could have a first-class investment.

Mr. Lytle said that several municipalities were now doing it, and he could not see any disadvantage in the proposition. It was thought wise to suggest the proposition to the Town Council.

The Board adjourned.

Tankard Winners Off to Winnipeg

Skip Flavelle and His Rink Will Leave Town This Evening.

The victorious winners of the Ontario Tankard returned to town about 1.30 this morning from Toronto, via Port Hope. Early though the hour, and uncertain their arrival, they were welcomed by a bunch of admirers, among whom was the energetic secretary of the Lindsay Curling Club, Mr. J. C. Harstone. The victors were escorted to hacks in waiting, and were driven to their homes.

OFF TO WINNIPEG

To-morrow Skip J. D. Flavelle and his rink leave for Winnipeg. The eyes where they will endeavor to reap other honors for Lindsay. The eyes of our citizens will be on them from the first game to the last, and win or lose, they will deserve the admiration and praise merited by all true sportsmen.

Success to Skip Flavelle and his rink—Messrs Geo. A. Little, L. V. O'Connor and W. E. Reesor, who leave town to-night for Toronto, and will begin their journey to the west to-morrow. May they return with trunks filled with trophies of their curling skill.

Curlers in the Blockade.

A number of enthusiastic curlers, who left here Wednesday morning for Toronto to see the Tankard finals, had rather an adventurous and unpleasant journey. The train which took them got stuck in a snow bank on the road, and was unable to get to Toronto till last night, when, of course, the bonspiel was all over and Lindsay had won. Now that they are in Toronto, the next thing will be to get home again.

When boiling old potatoes, which are apt to go to a very dark color, put a teaspoonful of milk into the water in which they are boiled and you will find they will be beautifully white when cooked.

Railway Notes.

—The first locomotive on the Baltimore and Ohio had sails attached. So did the cars. These sails were hoisted when the wind was in the right direction so as to help the locomotive. The rivalry between the railroads using locomotives and those using horses was very bitter. In August, 1830, an actual trial of speed was held between a horse and one of the pioneer locomotives, which did not result in favor of the locomotive. The race was on the Baltimore and Ohio, the locomotive being one built by Peter Cooper, who also acted as engineer.

Cambridge-st. Methodist S.S. Anniversary

School Entering Upon its 68th Year—Special Services Sunday.

Next Sunday the Cambridge-st. Methodist Sunday school celebrates its sixty-eighth anniversary. This school is now known throughout the province as one of the most progressive, and has been complimented on the order kept again and again by ministers and Sunday school workers from all parts of the province. The musical part of the school is one of its strongest and most attractive features, the singing being hearty and the music of the large orchestra very inspiring.

There are at present ten officers and thirty teachers, having under their charge about four hundred pupils. The present superintendent, Mr Jos. Boxall, has occupied that position for about fifteen years—a longer period than any of his perdecessors His associate superintendent, Mr. Wesley Staples, is now in his third year. The other teachers and officers are all efficient and experienced workers

The services of next Sunday will be both interesting and instructive to all who may have the pleasure of attending. Dr. Shorey, of Cobourg, who is one of the church's most respected and efficient pastors, and filled the pulpit of the Cambridge-st. church for three years some years ago, will take charge of the morning and evening services, and will also give an address in the afternoon.

Controller Hockin, of Toronto, is known to many of Lindsay's people through the daily press of that city, and is judged to be one of the brightest men of the day. His subject in the afternoon, when he speaks at the open session of the Sunday school, will be the "Life of a Politician." In our Saturday's issue we will publish the program of the Sunday services

The school concert and entertainment will follow a week later

Rev. Dr. Bishop goes to Cobourg on Sunday to preach educational sermons.

Good News for Ontario Growers

Sale of Blended Flour Tending to Enhance the Price of Wheat.

Ask our millers about the outlook for Ontario wheat, and they say that the future promises a steadily increasing market and higher. Ask our farmers, and some of them put on a long face and say there is no money in Ontario wheat.

These men are about fifty years behind the times. They have never heard about such "new fangled things" as blended flours. They use "Western hard patent flour." The scientific farmer knows all about Western flour. He knows, to his sorrow, that it was the coming of Manitoba wheat that sent down the price of Ontario wheat. He knows, too, that it is because the average farmer uses Western wheat flour that the price of Ontario wheat has been kept so low. This modern farmer grows Ontario wheat, for which he receives a fair price. With this money he buys blended flour, which contains Ontario wheat, and a little Manitoba wheat to add strength. Thus he spends his money for the products of his own farm. He makes a profit on his wheat, and keeps his money here at home. The farmer who uses "Western patent flour" is making rich the wheat growers of Manitoba and Alberta.

All this aside, however, there is a healthy demand for Ontario wheat. The blended flours are meeting with the most gratifying success. The sales for each month, as reported by the leading mills, show a big increase over the corresponding month of the previous year. This increased demand for blended flours means an increased demand for Ontario wheat. Farmers who keep abreast of the times, know about these blended flours, are using them, and are planting Ontario wheat for the advancing market.

It is a great pity that every farmer in our province does not realize the importance of making these blended flours a success. And every farmer can help in this great work simply by buying blended flours whenever the "flour barrel is empty." The farmers themselves will benefit by getting more money for their wheat. Stockmen and dairymen will share in the profits by paying less for bran and shorts. As is well known, the reason these foodstuffs cost so much now is because our local mills do not grind as much grain as they should, and consequently have not the bran, etc., to sell. And finally, the whole province will benefit, because higher prices for wheat means more money for everybody.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. (Conductor) Geo. Adams celebrated their silver wedding Wednesday. Presents received were both numerous and costly, and showed how Mr. and Mrs. Adams' friends held them in esteem. All had a most enjoyable time and wished the Conductor and his charming wife the pleasantest of journeys through the rest of life and prosperity wherever their lot should be cast.

Profanity Growing.

(The Home Journal.)

A crusade is sadly needed against the vice of profanity. One has only to pass through the streets, more especially of our smaller cities and towns, to realize the extent to which the evil is developing. In a half-hour's walk one evening in a western town a gentleman claims to have heard more vile language than in Montreal or Toronto in a year. In the corridors or sitting-room of almost any country hotel one will be compelled during a single evening to listen to more profanity than he would hear in six months in a large city. What is the reason for this overflow of filth? Is this all we are to expect from our large investment in schools and churches? A little stirring up of the local administrators of law would doubtless help to lessen this plague if moral suasion is powerless, and those who will take up and press the matter will be doing society a good turn.

Passenger Cars Made of Steel

Would, it is Claimed, Prevent Great Loss of Life on Railways.

The Travellers' Protective Association of the United States is supplementing its active campaign for a passenger fare of two cents a mile by another for steel passenger cars. Backed by more than a half a million travelling salesmen, there will, within a week, be introduced into Congress a bill, which, if passed, will compell all the railways of the United States to replace their present wooden passenger equipment with fireproof steel coaches. It is desired that the railways retire 10 per cent. of the wooden cars each year for the next ten years.

The association, which is actively engaged in working for the proposed legislation, has compiled some startling tables, showing the great destruction of life during the past five years as a result of collisions, derailments and other accidents. In nearly ever case the great sacrifice of lives was due almost wholly to the fact that the wooden coaches were crashed into splinters or caught fire after the wreck. Steel cars, it is claimed, would have prevented the loss of life.

It further states that in the 19 years since the interstate commission began the collection of facts about accidents, nearly 6,000 passengers and over 48,000 employees, besides nearly 90,000 other persons, have been killed on American railways, and nearly 1,000,000 more have been crippled. In 1905, it was twice as dangerous to travel on a railway train or to work for a railway company of the United States as it was in 1895. It is only accidents which are reported to the commission which are included in these statistics. The fact that a large number of railway companies do not report accidents is demonstrated by the fining recently of one of the largest railway companies for failure to report over 200 accidents.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living wi h the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

FARM NOTES

HORSE MARKETS IMPROVE

As the spring approaches the tone of the horse market improves, says The Breeders' Gazette of Chicago. Never in the history of the trade in the west has there been such an insistent enquiry for farm workers. Not only has this demand developed unprecedented proportions, but it has begun much earlier than usual and more farmers are visiting the cities in person to make their selections. In some instances farmers in a locality have pooled their money and sent representatives, taking carloads. This early purchasing is very sensible indeed, but it is quite plain that as February passes the farm demand must assume much larger proportions. This certainly does not look as though there can be much of a surplus concealed in the breeding districts. Another feature of the trade just at present is the number of farmers who are seeking to buy second-hand horses that have been used in cities. Carload after carload of these animals, all more or less sore-footed, have gone into the country and at prices not much lower than first cost in the rural regions. The cessation of activity in teaming circles during the last three months of last year threw many good workers onto the market. The big teaming concerns, eager to buy "hard" horses accustomed to city feed and life, snapped up the better offerings of this kind quickly, leaving only the sorer sorts to go back on the land. Prices are advancing all along the line and no one would be surprised to see them back on the old high level by March 1.

FARM INDUSTRY IN CANADA.

The number of mares of all classes bred in Ontario last year was largely in excess of the record of 1906, and prospects are sufficiently encouraging to expect still greater results this year. There has been an active demand for good horses at remunerative prices, and farmers are now satisfied that neither the automobile nor the electric railway are likely to kill off the horse for many years to come. The one important fact for breeders to keep in mind is the necessity of securing the services of a well-bred stallion. It matters not what class of horse you are raising, whether a driver, saddler, hackney, Clydesdale, Shire or Percheron, you should be willing to pay what it costs to obtain the best specimens of their respective breeds.

It has been generally expected that the Ontario Government would ere this have formulated a well digested scheme for improving the breed of horses in this Province. That they have so far failed to accomplish anything of value in that direction has been a great disappointment to their friends. It is unfortunate that the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Mr. Monteith, is not a horseman. He perhaps has a strong regard for cattle, sheep and swine, but he has given no evidence of particular fondness for the horse, and this industry, one of the most important in the country, representing a monetary value of between fifty and sixty millions of dollars, has so far been given the cold shoulder. The farmers of Ontario are entitled to as much consideration as any other class of people, but so far they have had scant official attention paid to this, one of their most important industries.

Yet, notwithstanding these drawbacks, the farmers of this Province have bred a class of horses of quality so high that for years they have won the highest prizes in the show rings of this continent. Even when pitted against the best in Great Britain and the continent, the Hon. Adam Beck defeated their champions, securing for Canada the highest honor of sending to the great London show the champion saddle horse. More especially was the success noteworthy from the fact that Mr. Beck rode his own horse against the Irish and English champion prize winners, the first named being ridden by the most noted gentleman rider in the Green Isle, and the other was mounted by the crack gentleman rider of Austria.

The Canadian champion was bred by a farmer in the county of Middlesex and realized for the man who bred him a good round figure. Our Canadian-bred Clydesdales are simply invincible at American shows, and a western paper in reporting the big fair lately held in Chicago admitted that it was no use showing against the Canadian heavy horses, the latter being able to literally clean up the entire prize list.—Canadian Sportsman.

To refuse to yield to others when reason or a special cause require it is a mark of pride and stiffness.

Of volunteers we used t' have 'round here
That's been disbanded now fer twenty year.

It seemed I 'us back a-sleepin' 'neath the eaves—
The night was still—so still the lokus leaves
A-droppin' on the roof, I heerd wunct more
Jest ez I have a thousand times before;
Somebody passed—I heerd 'em holler "Fire!"
I seemed t' see the flames a-leapin' higher,
A lurid glow, an' then I heerd the call—
The fire bell in air ol' Village Hall.

Well, I tell you, it wa'n't no circumstance,
The time I spent a-gittin' in my pants
An' histin' up my winder, no sir-ee-e,
And naybors' folks was doin' same ez me,
A-histin' up THEIR winders quick as scat
An' lookin' out an' astin; "Where's it at?"
Till someone sed, from where HE looked it 'peared
"The Baptist sheds was burnin' up, he feared."

An' then, thru all my dream, gum to my ears,
The warnin' bell of air ol' volunteers
With Hi ahead, an' Henry Smith an' Tup
An' others takin' holt, ez they ketched up,
Of that ol' hand injine. It seemed that it
Fair seemed t' snort fer jist a chanct t' git
At ONE more fire! An' then cum 'Vester Ladd
Nigh petered out, his asthmay got so bad!

I follered 'em an' legged it down the road,
Like years ago when we was boys an' go-ed
T' fire nights, an' never missed a thing—
A habit that has left me now, by jing!
An' there they was, a fightin' flames again
An' Hi a callin loudly; "Water, men!"

Them words they woke me up an' jiminey,
'Twas stormin' hard, AN' RAININ' IN ON ME!

The Woman Who Worries.

(Galt Reporter.)

Let me sing you a song of a woman I know,
Who always was flurried and hurried,
Don't ask me her name, if it's all the same,
Just call her "the woman who worried."

There was ever the battle with rust and moth,
For moths were slyer than foxes;
And so, poor thing, she spent all the spring
Putting things in bundles and boxes.

She worried at morn and she worried at noon,
And worried when night descended
For without some hurry and without some worry,
The day hadn't been well ended.

And she'd carry her burden of household cares
Till sleep put an end to her labors.
And the dog ran away, and he went to stay,
And the cat went to live at a neighbor's.

And the children stayed out of doors when they could,
For mother was always hurried,
And noise and dirt were the things that hurt
The woman who hurried and worried.

C.L.S. Concert Tuesday Evening

Most Successful Ever Held Under the Society's Auspices.

The concert and social held Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, under the auspices of the C.L.S. was one of the most successful, if not the most successful, that was ever held in the hall. Despite the cold weather, there was as large a crowd present as could be easily accommodated.

A short musical programme was given as follows; Violin solo, Miss Nettie O'Boyle; vocal solo, Mr. T. J. Flurey; instrumental duett, Misses Flurey and Meehan. Miss O'Boyle's violin solo was rendered in her usual pleasing style, and judging by the applause, it certainly found favor with the audience. The song by Mr. T. J. Flurey, the popular president, of the society, brought down the house, and 'Tom' received a hearty encore. The instrumental duet was exceedingly well rendered, and received no mean share of applause.

Refreshments were served, and afterwards the room was cleared for dancing. Mr. Fred Roberts favored the audience with a step dance, and had to respond to an encore. The dancing then became general, and continued until 1.30, Mrs. Jackson supplying the music.

The officers of the society received the hearty congratulations of all present, on the success of their entertainment. Needless to say they are extremely pleased wiht it.—B. K., sec.

The Meaning of the Bye-Elections.

(From the Halifax Chronicle.)

It beats all, how these Tory prophecies about "reactions," "turn of the tide," "moral weakness," "losing ground, "staggering blows" and "deserting the sinking ship" vanish into thin air when the electors get the opportunity to record their opinion of the Liberal record and policy.

Where the Money Comes From.

(From the Ottawa Journal.)

The size of Canadian borrowing from Great Britain is illustrated anew by some figures for the year just closed, given by Mr. E. R. Wood, of Toronto, to the shareholders of the Dominion Securities Corporation. This yearly statement has come to be regarded as the most authoritative review of the bond situation made in Canada. Mr. Wood announces the fact that out of $82,635,740 bonds sold during 1907 England took over three-quarters, or, to speak exactly, $63,095,057. Of the remainder Canadian investors absorded $13,761,683, and the United States $4,799,000.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Hockey.

THE DOUBLE HOCKEY BILL.

Unfortunately owing to bad roads and severe weather, Little Britain was unable to get in last night to compete in the scheduled Town League hockey match at the rink. This left only one game, the C. L. S. vs. Y. M. C. A., to be played. The Bankers and Little Britain will play at some future date.

The C. L. S., as usual, had a first-class line-up, which was; Goal, McGrath; point, Duck; cover-point, Killen; rover, Cain; center, Dougan; left wing, Burke; right wing, McConnell.

The Y.M.C.A. line-up appeared last night. The game was fast and clean throughout, and both teams showed good training and some excellent material for future O.H.A. teams. McGrath, the big C.L.S. goalkeeper, was on the job all the time for his team, and stopped many a hot shot. Killen was perhaps the star of the team, and his rushes and stick handling were the admiration of the spectators. Dougan is certainly a comer and is bound to show up well later. Cain, Burke and McConnell all did first-class work to help their team to victory and deserve credit, as also does Duck, the heavy C. L. S. point.

Of the Y.M.C.A. team, Carew at cover, showed greatest promise of being a mighty man in the future. His rushes were A1, but he needs more practice in shooting. Preston, as rover, put up a good game, and was every place where needed and fast on his runners. Menzies, Yarrold and Williams, the forward line, were first-class, and did well in holding down their man as well as they did. Touchburn, at point, played a good game and saved many a shot that would otherwise have gone into the goal. Goalkeeper Newton needs a little more practice, and should not depend too much on the point player.

The score, 5-3, indicates pretty well the relative strength of the teams.

A FEAST OF HOCKEY.

Lindsay people will have an opportunity of seeing two outside O. H. A. teams play here next Monday evening, when Uxbridge and Port Perry, who are tied for the championship of Group No. 3, have arranged to play a sudden death game at Lindsay-st. rink. Both teams will, of course, be pretty evenly matched, and some good hockey will be played. Specials from Port Perry and from Uxbridge will be run to carry supporters of the respective teams to see the game and cheer their boys on.

Lindsay Intermediates will likely have to play the winner next week. Either Tuesday or Friday and Monday night's game ought to give the townspeople a pretty good idea of how our boys will stand for winning later in the week.

RENFREW BETTORS 'SCOOPED.'

Ottawa sports made a great clean-up last Tuesday evening at the game between Renfrew and Ottawa teams. It was an exhibition game, and 1500 people were present. The Renfrew sports wagered all kinds of money that Ottawa would not double the score on them, but they did by a narrow margin—16 to 7. The game was a fast one, and considerable rough work was indulged in.

PICTON WON FROM PORT HOPE

The district tie in the junior O. H. A., between Port Hope and Picton, was played off Wednesday in Belleville, but prove to be a poor exhibition. Jack Brown, the much-talked o' 15 year old hockeyist, who besides being the youngest player in the league, was described as a little wonder, who could "put it over" many older players, proved to lack experience in the game, but undoubtedly will make a name for himself later. Picton had it all over Port Hope, as the score indicates. Port Hope scored its first, last and only goal before Picton scored in the first half.

At half time the score stood 4-1 for Picton. During the second half Hemmick, of Port Hope, was ruled off for the rest of the game, and at full time the score stood Picton 5, Port Hope 1.

Curling

A SENSATIONAL FINISH.

Toronto World; Lindsay defeated the Toronto Caledonians in their final game of the thirty-fourth annual competition for the Ontario Silver Tankard at the Granite Rink, in what might be termed a sensational finish. It looked like Caledonians most of the journey—in fact, after the second end they were ahead right till the last. R. Rennie was making a runaway race from O'Connor, while T. Rennie held Little considerably closer. The former had a margin of 16 shots on his rival on the twelfth head, when Tom was only 8 behind. The younger skip maintained his position thereafter, his minority at the finish being still 8. The O'Connor team made a strong finish, scoring 15 of their 17 shots in the last ten ends, while his opponent was collecting 4. They piled three stones on the tee the last head, half-guarded. R. Rennie missed by a hair with his last rock, or a different tale might be told. Little also built up the best end for a finish and counted one, without playing his last. Both rinks finished together.

The game, while of the strenuous order, was of the most friendly character. The veteran J. D. Flavelle was in fine form, and in merry mood, and, though the odds looked against his side along halfway, they kept right on curling, with the inevitable result.

There was a large gathering of enthusiastic curlers and their friends from the time the game started, at 1.35, till the last stone was delivered at 7 o'clock. The ice was Burley's best, and with flakes from the snowstorm forcing through the smallest chinks in the big building, surely it was an ideal day for the brithers of the besom.

THE PRESENTATION.

World; At the close of play the curlers repaired to the Granite Club room, where the ceremony of presenting the historic Tankard was gone through in short order. Vice-President David Carlyle made an oration of about one minute duration. J. D. Flavelle accepted the trophy in his usual pleasant and modest manner, saying a nice word for the vanquished. Robert Rennie replied for the runners-up, making the important statement that the Caledonians would keep at it, though in some quarters the idea was prevalent that this would be their last attempt to win the Tankard.

BUMPED 'EM THROUGH.

World; In the final for the Tankard yesterday, like most games where so much depends on the result, all the players on both sides at times made misses that on other occasions would be easy. Still the curling throughout was up to the standard, and those spectators who desired to see close contests were surely well rewarded. Both the Caledonian rinks conformed to the draw game throughout, while the Lindsay players never hesitated to drive an opposing stone through, even when only on the front ring.

NEEDS PATIENCE OF JOB.

World; This is Lindsay's fifth championship, winning the lot in 12 years, while the present generation of Caledonians have never done better than figure as the last competing club and they have been runners-up three times in seven years. The Caledonians won a Tankard final just 26 years ago.

To-night's Hockey Game Brockville vs. Lindsay

Chance for Our Citizens to See Hockey of a Brand Rarely Witnessed, and at the Same Time to Reward Our Boys for Their Grand Work in Winning Fame for Their Town.

The Brockville team will be here to-night this evening, and Lindsay citizens will have a chance to see one of the fastest teams in Central Ontario lay the game.

The expense of bringing the visitors here from such a distance is very great, and our boys will have to bear it all, as well as pay the referee a good fee and defray the numerous debts, large and small, incurred about town.

It has always been the practice here to charge 25c. for every game, no matter of what class, played on Lindsay ice, but on figuring the matter out it was found that even 1400 spectators at 25c. would hardly pay expenses, and as all know, the rink cannot accommodate within 300 of that number. The management then wisely decided to do as is done in all other towns of Lindsay's size in final and semi-final games, and charge an admission fee of 50c. This will, at the best figuring, just let the club out.

In Peterboro the Hockey Club usually winds up the season $300 or $400 ahead, but on account of poor attendance and the low rate of admission Lindsay has always had to face a large deficit. Surely, with the number of sports in every line there are in Lindsay we can encourage our clever team by getting together a decent-sized 50c. house to-night.

Although beaten in the first game by our boys, the Brockvillians have still a good chance to win out, and are by no means a weak team. They have been greatly strengthened since they met their defeat, and now understand the method of the Lindsay team's play. They will, therefore, be likely to give our boys all they are looking for.

LINDSAY MAN, LOST IN FIELD, NEARLY PERISHES IN BLIZZARD

Employee of Beal Larrigan Factory Had Very Narrow Escape the Other Evening in Raging Storm---Rescued in Nick of Time.

Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock Walter Leach, who is working at Beal's larrigan factory, started for home, which has been for some time at Mr. Kennedy's, about a mile and a half out on the Bobcaygeon road.

Leach, who is a vigorous, hearty young chap, never wearing an overcoat going to and from work, was rushing along through the severe storm of wind and snow which prevailed at the time, and had filled up the road and obliterated all landmarks. When he came to the jog in the road he passed over the fence into Logie's field, and after wandering around for some time, concluded he was out of his bearings and completely lost, so he started to shout and call for help. Fortunately Mr. Walter Calvert, who lives a short distance away, heard him and went to his assistance with a lantern. The young man, when found, was badly frost-bitten and thoroughly exhausted, and could not have held out very much longer.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

SEED GRAIN SUPPLY

Government Will Only Pay For Administering Scheme.

GRAIN MUST BE PAID FOR

Mr. Castle of Winnipeg to Make Purchase—Mr. Staples Wants Manitoba Included—Working of the Fruits Marks Act — Hillsboro Bridge Arbitration—More Opposition Insinuations—Was Defeated.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—The resolution to provide for the purchase of seed grain for distribution among the farmers of Alberta and Saskatchewan and the bill in this connection were passed unanimously by the House yesterday afternoon.

Both sides having agreed to vote, and as it was their wish to adjourn at 6 o'clock, it was decided to defer discussion on the regulations contained in the order-in-council till Tuesday, when the fullest opportunity will be afforded members to suggest changes, though the Ministry were careful not to commit themselves to amending the regulations.

The bill calls for an expenditure of $2,850,000, of which $585,000 is for purchase of seed grain for homestead settlers in two provinces, cost to be repaid by settlers, with interest at 5 per cent., by March 31, 1909; $440,000 as an advance to Alberta for the purchase of seed grain for settlers, and $1,825,000 as an advance to Saskatchewan for the same purpose.

Wanted Manitoba Included.

Mr. Staples (Con., Marquette) thought Manitoba should be included, and Mr. Burrows, from the other side agreed with him.

Mr. Fielding said it was important that the vote be made without delay, as it was a matter of utmost urgency. Then the House could take time to consider the regulations.

Some of the Manitoba members insisted that their province be included. Mr. Oliver stated that no representations had been made by the Government. However, the Government was prepared to deal with Manitoba if the same conditions existed in that province.

Mr. Blain Sarcastic.

Mr. Blain asked what about Ontario. Some farmers in the province were in need of assistance.

Mr. Martin (Queen's, P.E.I.) protested against rushing the vote through and Mr. Foster said that the Government was open to censure for delaying the bill. He was willing to extend a little grace and allow the vote to go through, as the matter was urgent.

After protests from several members who did not vote for the principle without being fully informed on the regulations, Mr. Fielding said that the Government would consider any suggestion the Opposition might make when the regulations were taken up on Tuesday.

Mr. Oliver said the regulations were made with the co-operation of the Provincial Governments and any change would have to be with their consent.

On motion to go into supply, Dr. Reid raised the question of the cost of Hillsboro, P. E. I., bridge. The original estimate was $756,000. The cost to date has been $1,363,000, while accounts outstanding amount to not over $396,000. The claim of the contractor, Haney, for $300,000, was referred to Collingwood Schreiber, who made the original estimate, and Dr. Reid feared he had been appointed to cover up a bad bungle.

In Prince Edward Island there was a strong suspicion that the Government had paid a great deal more than it should. The dispute should have been referred to the Exchequer Court.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier complained that Dr. Reid had given no notice of his intention to bring the matter before the House, but he would bring down the papers. It was exceeding bad taste for Dr. Reid to cast reflections on Mr. Schreiber, who, no doubt, had made mistakes, but whose integrity no one had any right to challenge.

Mr. Emmerson said the engineer who made the estimate was W. B. MacKenzie, chief engineer of the I.C.R. Moreover, the plans were materially altered.

Mr. Martin (Queen's, P.E.I.) said extras were incurred after the bridge was completed. The superstructure was an old bridge, and the whole structure had cost twice as much as estimated. In addition, the railway connected with the bridge, which was estimated to cost $12,000 a mile. Really it cost $31,000 a mile. Mr. Martin believed there had been a rake-off for somebody of three quarters of a million dollars on the bridge, and an equal amount on the railway.

Mr. Hughes (Prince Edward Island) denied that the railway cost $31,000 a mile. It was about $16,500 a mile.

Mr. Haney Head and Front.

Mr. Bennett (Simcoe) said Mr. Haney was head and front of the Liberal organization in Toronto. While he had every respect for Mr. Schreiber, he thought that gentleman should not be put in that position. He had also heard that a close relationship extended betwen Mr. Haney and Mr. Butler, chief engineer of the railway department.

Mr. Graham said he was debarred by illness from making a statement of the case. He had been instructed that Mr. Haney was not related to Mr. Butler. Mr. Haggart objected to officers of the Government sitting in review upon their own work.

False Fruit Marking.

Mr. Blain (Peel) drew attention of the Minister of Agriculture to a cable from England, declaring that Canadian apples sold in England had been wrongly marked, and, in consequence, sold at a lower price than quality warranted. There had been many complaints of this, said Mr. Blain.

Dr. Sproule read letters complaining that an inspector under the Fruit Marking Act in Nova Scotia had been mixing in municipal politics.

The doctor thought officials should not be permitted to enter in municipal affairs if their duties were liable to be prejudiced. Regarding wrong marking of fruit packages, the Minister said the department had over forty proceedings under way.

Mr. Lalor referred to a couple of Haldimand Liberals who also shipped No. 3 apples stamped No. 1, and, when remonstrated about it, he said: "We got a pointer. We can do anything we want to this year."

"Where did they get it?" asked Mr. Fisher. Mr. Lalor could not say, but he went on that inspection was loose.

Mr. Owen (Conservative, Northumberland) said he had been informed that the inspection of apples in Western Ontario was not nearly so rigid as in the east.

Mr. Lalor suggested that there should be an inspector at each point of export.

Mr. Marshall (Conservative, Elgin), gave the Minister credit for an efficient inspection of the canning factories, which he believed would lead to an improvement of the product.

Entry of High Grade Stock.

A discussion then ensued on regulations regarding the entry of Canadian pure-bred stock into the United States.

Mr. Henderson (Halton) brought the matter up. United States pure-bred stock was allowed free entry into Canada, while a special duty of $100 was imposed on Canadian stock by the United States.

The Minister said regulations were unfair, but the duty was imposed at the request of the Live Stock Association, which were close corporations. He did not expect any relief.

At 3.15 yesterday morning the House of Commons divided on Mr. Lake's amendment to the motion to go into supply, which was defeated by a vote of 111 to 55.

The amendment asked for a committee to investigate into the alleged timber sale scandals and was debated three days.

On the Government side the policy and methods of carrying it out were defended by several speakers.

Jap Question In Senate.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—The Senate yesterday discussed the Japanese treaty. Senator Macdonald of British Columbia declared a happy solution of the question had been reached, and it should not be stirred up again.

MONTREAL WOMAN'S SUICIDE.

Hanged Herself In Harlem Boarding-House—No Clue to Identity.

New York, Feb. 8.—Without leaving a clue to her identity or the cause that impelled her to take her life, a young woman, evidently a Canadian, who had recently arrived from Montreal, was found dead yesterday hanging by the neck from a bedpost in a room which she had engaged at a Harlem boarding house.

The suicide was well dressed and about 25 years of age. She had used a piece of clothes line to strangle herself. In a pocketbook was found a sales slip made out to a Miss Hebert from the store of the S. Carslay Company, Limited, dated Dec. 30, and a transfer of the Montreal Street Railway, dated Feb. 4. The names on the sales check appeared to be those of two French salesmen.

Alderman Unseated.

Brantford, Feb. 8.—The outcome of the ward one election case before Judge Hardy yesterday, was the unseating of Ald. James Wright, who was found ineligible to hold the seat because, as a contractor, he had an uncompleted contract with the city for the erection of the east ward fire hall at the time of the election, thus disqualifying him under the Act. Wright's counsel objected. Walter R. Turnbull, next highest candidate at election taking his seat on the ground that irregularities were alleged in Turnbull's election contest.

Turnbull announced that as he has not secured a majority he would not take the seat, in face of the protest. Hence Judge Hardy, on agreement of both parties, ordered a new election for one vacancy. Wright's contract is still incomplete, and it is doubtful whether he will be eligible to seek re-election.

Life Saved by Rail.

Cobalt, Feb. 7.—Kenneth McDonald, a timberman at the Kerr Lake narrowly escaped death yesterday morning while standing in the bottom of one of the shafts at the cage landing. Owing to mis-signal, the cage dropped suddenly, and came upon McDonald before he had time to get out of the way. He had one of his legs broken near the ankle. Were it not for an iron rail that McDonald held perpendicularly in his hand, and which broke the force of the fall, he would have been crushed.

NEW ELECTION ACT

Hon. Mr. Foy Places Measure Before Ontario House.

TO PREVENT CORRUPTION

Indians Get Franchise—Hiring Vehicle to Take Voters to Poll to be Made Illegal—Stringent Rules as to Corrupt Practices—False Statements of Withdrawal—Severe Penalties Are to Be Imposed.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The election act introduced by the Attorney-General, Hon. J. J. Foy, and read a first time, was the feature of a brief sitting of the Legislature yesterday. This act is entirely a new issue, and the old act is to be repealed. The chief object is to make the provincial law correspond with the Dominion election act. The same machinery for elections will be provided, and thus officials are prevented from becoming confused in the two laws.

The bill in question, which is entitled "An Act respecting the election of members for the Legislative Assembly," provides among other things that any application for, or promise of a Government position, if done with a view to influencing an election, shall be deemed in law a corrupt practice, and shall be punishable as such. Other Government favors will be dealt with in like manner.

In his bill dealing with controverted elections Hon. Mr. Foy provides also that all election trials or appeals shall be concluded, notwithstanding dissolution of the Legislature or other causes. This is designed to do away with much of the pernicious "saw-off" evil, and to prevent the party in power choking off disclosures in the courts by terminating the Parliament. Heavy penalties for infraction of the act will be provided.

Other interesting clauses are the adoption of the Dominion ballot in its entirety, the requiring that the original voters' lists shall be used in polling booths and the abolition, in consequence, of the tendered ballot. The franchise is extended to Indians, except those who live among Indians or upon Indian reserves, and an Indian voter may accept money from the Indian fund without being disqualified. It is also provided that temporary absence from the municipality does not disqualify, even if the absence is not in pursuance of the voter's avocation. If a bona-fide voter finds he has been personated he is entitled to another ballot, which will be kept separate but counted.

Relative to the trial of election cases it is provided that any two judges of the Supreme Court of Ontario may conduct the trial, instead of a rota of special judges as at present.

On motion of Hon. Messrs. Foy and Whitney the bills were given a first reading.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, has given notice of a bill respecting the registration of births marriages and deaths in the province. At the present time these returns are made half yearly, and it is understood that it is proposed to have these returns made quarterly, and in other ways make the general system of registration more modern.

Notices of Motion.

Following are the notices of motion:

Mr. Hoyle, on Monday next—Bill to amend the assessment act.

Mr. Auld, on Tuesday next—Bill to amend the municipal drainage act.

The House adjourned till Monday afternoon.

TEN MINERS KILLED

BODIES ALL RECOVERED

Brave Workers Volunteered For the Rescue—Deadly Fire Damp Feared —Men Met Death Without Warning—Victims Were Mostly Married — Mine Practically Uninjured — Cause Unknown.

Port Hood, N.S., Feb. 8.—At half-past seven yesterday morning, shortly after the men had gone to work, an explosion occurred in one of the southern levels on the Port Hood mine. The news spread rapidly. Much anxiety was felt throughout the town by relatives and friends of workmen in the pit.

Manager McLellan organized and headed the rescue party and proceeded immediately to the scene of the disaster. It was then discovered that all occupants of the room had been instantly killed. The position of the bodies when found indicated that the men did not receive a moment's warning. In the hands of some were pick-axes, augers and other working tools, held firmly in the death grasp. Of ten men killed, six were miners, natives of the town and neighboring districts, and four were Bulgarians.

The miners were all young men, married, except one, and left widows and in some cases children. About 1 o'clock all the bodies had been recovered and brought to the surface. Considerable difficulty was experienced in identifying them, so charred and disfigured were they from the force of the explosion, but the clothing enabled the relatives to identify the bodies. They were laid out in a room in the company's office, which had been improvised into an undertaking room, and the scene was indeed pitiful.

All the employes of the mine stood around with voices hushed. It was the first accident at the mine attended with serious loss of life and its awfulness made a deep impression. The officials did everything possible to show their sympathy and consideration for the feelings of the employes and relatives and friends of the deceased.

Coroner Cameron empanelled a jury and proceeded to hold an inquest. After hearing evidence of identification, he ordered the bodies to be interred and adjourned the inquest, awaiting the arrival of the deputy inspector of mines. A committee of the P.W.A. took charge of the remains after the inquest adjourned. There is considerable speculation as to the cause of the accident, whether done by gas or powder. The mine is practically uninjured.

Those killed in the explosion are: John Campbell, who leaves a wife and three children; Duncan R. McDonald, leaving a wife; Malcolm Brown, leaving a wife and one child; Lauchlin Gillis, leaving wife and two children; Allan R. McDonald and Willie McKenzie, single, and four Bulgarians, all married, leaving families of two and three each.

Charged With Murder.

MacLeod, Alta., Feb. 8.—The preliminary trial of Maximi Pilyczuk, alias Mike Phillips, charged with the murder of Monte Lewis, a resident of the red light district at Blairmore, in November, was heard before Inspector Starnes of the R.N.W.M.P. on Thursday. The case was remanded until Thursday next, the prisoner being brought to MacLeod for safekeeping. Meanwhile it is likely that a special sitting of the court will be applied for in order that the trial may not be long delayed. The crown produced the blood-stained knife with which the crime was committed. The details of the crime are said to be particularly atrocious.

Nearly three years ago a rancher named C. R. Johnson was arrested here, charged with cattle-killing, and was placed in the Mounted Police guard-room to await his trial. Before that took place, however, it is thought that with the connivance of a guard he made good his escape. He is now in custody at Great Falls, Montana, and will, it is thought, return without fighting extradition. The case promises to be one of the most sensational in the history of the district.

No Change In Fleet.

London, Feb. 7.—The Associated Press is officially authorized to declare that there is absolutely no truth in the report telegraphed from Halifax yesterday, that the British squadron in the Pacific is to be materially increased.

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.

Liniments only reach the skin and the muscles directly under the skin. Now, liniments can't cure Rheumatism. They simply deaden the nerves for a time. When the effect wears away, the pain returns worse than ever.

If the bowels do not move regularly—if the kidneys are strained or weak—if the skin is dry or harsh—the blood is sure to be filled with impurities or urea. This urea is changed into uric acid which is the poison that causes rheumatism.

Now, the only possible way to cure Rheumatism is to prevent uric acid from being formed. Logically, the only way to do this is to keep kidneys, bowels and skin in good working order, and prevent the stomach from being too acid. And the only way to do this is to take "Fruit-a-tives."

These marvelous tablets of fruit juices and tonics act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin—and put them in perfect condition. That is the only secret of their great success in curing rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

FEET FROZEN SOLID.

Thomas Crawford Slowly Freezing With Help In Sight.

Kemptville, Ont., Feb. 7.—A sad occurrence is reported from Osgoode Township, Carleton County, as a result of the recent storm and severe cold snap, during which Thomas Crawford of Reid's Mills had his feet frozen solid to the ankles and his fingers frozen to the knuckles.

Mr. Crawford left the home of his son Willie on Wednesday for Greeley. He then started home, going by way of North Gower, Kars and Osgoode. About three miles south of Osgoode Village, at a turn in the road leading to Reid's Mills, his horse got down in the snow. Mr. Crawford unhitched his horse and tried to get to William Hicks' house, which was only about 30 rods away, and found he was unable to reach it, so he left the horse at the fence and returned to the cutter.

This was about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and a fierce storm was blowing. Mr. Crawford lay down beside the cutter and there remained until Monday morning at 9 o'clock, when Messrs. James Moses and William Hicks found him. They had started to open roads on Monday, after the storm, and seeing the horse and cutter ahead, hurried to investigate.

They took the unfortunate man to Mr. Hicks', and did all in their power to relieve his sufferings. Dr. Ruby of Kars was summoned, and it is not known at time of writing whether the feet will have to be amputated or not. A small piece of bush between Mr. Hicks' house and the road kept Mr. Crawford from being seen.

EX-JUDGE SHOT DEAD.

Murdered by His Son After Drunken Carouse.

Jackson, Ky., Feb. 7.—Former County Judge James Hargis, for many years member of the state Democratic executive committee, accused of complicity in many killings, and a prominent figure in the feuds which have disrupted Breathitt County for several years, and shot and instantly killed in his general store here yesterday by his son, Beach Hargis.

The son fired five shots in rapid succession at his father, who fell dead while his clerks were waiting on customers.

The exact cause of the murder has not been learned, but it is supposed to have been the result of differences which have existed between father and son for some time. The two men are reported to have had a quarrel several nights ago, when the father, it is alleged, was compelled to resort to violence to restrain his son.

Young Hargis, it is said, had been drinking heavily of late. He came into the store yesterday afternoon, apparently under the influence of liquor.

Young Hargis was placed in jail. He was raving like a maniac, and the officers were compelled to drag him to prison.

Judge Hargis had long been prominent in Kentucky political circles, and has figured in the courts in the meantime for years, on account of the murders of Dr. Cox, Attorney James B. Marcum and Jim Cockrill.

Thaw Don't Like Asylum.

Fishkill, N.Y., Feb. 7.—Harry K. Thaw has requested that neither his wife nor his mother visit him while he is in the State Hospital for the Insane at Matteawan.

A. Russell Peabody of Thaw's counsel, and Dr. Britton D. Evans, the alienist, visited Thaw yesterday. Mr. Peabody said that Thaw does not want either his wife or mother to see him in the hospital, and that he has changed his views on that point since reaching the hospital. Mr. Peabody said no action would be taken yet to secure Thaw's release.

Train Rolled Into River.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 7.—The tender and first three coaches of Western Maryland passenger train No. 2, from Elkins, W.Va., yesterday left the track a half mile north of Gorman, and rolled down the hill into the river. Express Messenger Charles Cochrane of Baltimore and Adam W. Reihl of Cumberland were killed. George Schaffer, brakeman, and R. L. Burch, baggage-master, both of Cumberland, and several passengers were injured.

Frank Drew Kills Himself.

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—Frank Drew, a well-known insurance agent, shot himself Wednesday night, leaving a note saying he feared that he was about to become a victim of epilepsy. Death followed yesterday. He is the son of James Drew of the Gurney Company, one of the old-timers and prominent business men of the city. The family came from London, Ont., to Winnipeg.

TIMBER IN THE WEST

Mr. Sifton Explains His Policy in the House.

DEFENCE OF GOVERNMENT

Same Policy Under Conservatives and Liberals—Ex-Minister of the Interior Contributes Lucid Speech to the Debate — Minting of Gold Coins In Canada — Homicide While Hunting Deer.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Hon. Clifford Sifton spoke yesterday on the western land scandals. The Liberal legion made a great noise when he got up, and rattled their desks intermittently throughout his discourse.

The defence of the ex-Minister of the Interior was on lines similar to that presented by his successor. He declared that the Conservatives in the early eighties, alienated large areas of the public domain; that in 1889 the Conservatives changed their timber lands policy, and this amended policy was continued by him. Moreover, there was a large part of the public domain that had not been alienated.

Not a word was uttered as to the charges of tampering with the tenders for the benefit of a few favorites. The Minister relied entirely upon the argument used by previous Liberal speakers, that if there was anything wrong with the system the Conservatives were to blame. Only he made it stronger. From the Government point of view the Minister made the strongest speech of the debate.

Hon. Clifford Sifton.

Mr. Sifton said he proposed to elucidate the answer to the question whether the present Government continued the policy in force from 1881 to 1896 with respect to timber and he observed at the outset that he did not think the leader of the Opposition was justified in drawing the inference that Mr. Oliver had said that the policy was continued.

At the time the timber lands were taken up by Conservatives in 1881-2-3, the route of the C.P.R. had not been definitely settled, and this accounted for the fact that so many Conservatives had given up their licenses. In the past 11 years the present Government had disposed of 6,400 square miles to meet the wants of 90,000 people, while in three years the Conservatives gave away 21,000 square miles to meet the wants of 100,000 people.

Mr. Sifton had defended the settlers in court against the raids of timber speculators. It was 21,000 square miles for speculators and police court for settlers, said Mr. Sifton amid applause. Regarding the claim that under the present Government timber lands fell into the hands of speculators, Mr. Sifton proceeded to show what the duty of the Government was. First of all, it was to see that lands got into the hands of lumbermen. There was the testimony of the Opposition that at least two-thirds of the timber lands got into the hands of actual operators. Then it was the duty of the Government to choose such lands as would be operated in the interest of the settler, and finally to put these lands up to public competition. He repudiated any responsibility as to who the tenderers were, the only consideration being that the timber should go to the highest bidder.

There were so many objections to the policy in force in 1881-2-3, that in 1889 the Conservative Government made a change.

Guarantee of Permanency.

It was the policy of Ontario and every other Provincial Government to give the limit holders every guarantee of permanency. It was good policy to encourage them in cutting the lumber providentially and to ensure protection against destruction by fire.

As a matter of fact, continued the ex-Minister of Interior, very few sales of timber limits had been made in the Northwest. The limits brought from the Government were still in the hands of the buyers to-day.

The limits sold were to supply the people of the Northwest. As to the price it was not just to compare these limits with the white pine areas of Ontario. The fairest comparison was with the spruce areas of Quebec, and according to the statement of Premier Gouin, the Quebec Government between 1888 and 1905 had sold 25,000 square miles of spruce lands at an average of $81.62 per square mile. The sales made in the Northwest compared favorably with this. The Department, under his own administration, had not sold all, or nearly all, the timber in the west.

Forest Preservation.

Mr. Sifton agreed with Mr. Foster as to the importance of forest preservation. He himself had inaugurated a system of tree planting, under which 9,000,000 trees had been planted in the Northwest, although Conservatives fought against the scheme as a "political dodge." Moreover, he had started a system of fire-guarding which he believed had saved more than the 6,400 miles he had sold in 11 years. It had also been his intention to have appointed Dr. Furnow, one of the greatest of living forest experts, and he hoped it would yet be possible to get him, or some one of equal ability, so that a system of careful and scientific forestry could be inaugurated in Canada.

Dr. Roche Replies.

Dr. Roche (Con., Marquette) replied. He remarked at the outset that it was strange, that in his speech of an hour and a quarter, Mr. Sifton, from whom a practical reply had been expected should have sat down without once expressing an opinion as to the resolution before the House. Instead of generalizing the ex-Minister should have devoted some attention to the real question at issue. "He had taken us back to his police court days," said Dr. Roche, "which were not so long ago, either, as they lasted until his advent to this Parliament. If the hon. gentleman had been as good a financier for the country as he has proved to be in his own affairs, it would have been a grand thing for the country to have had him as Finance Minister."

Continuing at evening session, Dr. Roche said there was evidence of gross manipulation of tenders and Mr. Turriff would have to have an epidermus like a rhinoceros to stand any more charges than have been made.

How Sifton Came In.

George Taylor gave the Prime Minister a little "friendly talk," as he phrased it, and incidentally gave a little inside history of the deal by which Mr. Sifton come into the Cabinet. When Mr. Sifton was asked to fix up the Manitoba school question he consented on condition that he get clear of Messrs. Prendergast, Martin and Greenway. Prendergast was accordingly made Chief Justice of Manitoba. Mr. Martin was appointed C.P.R. solicitor in British Columbia for five years, the C.P.R. in return getting an increased subsidy in the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, and Mr. Greenway was promised a Senatorship, which he hasn't got yet.

Proceeding to deal with tenders for Moose Lake limits, Mr. Taylor said the figures $7,000 in Nolan's tender were not written by Mr. Fraser, nor was the tender signed by Mr. Nolan and Mr. Turriff, who opened the tenders, well knew it. The signature of Nolan was forged. Mr. Turriff had no business to open these tenders alone. The Conservative Government always had tenders opened by the deputy minister in the presence of two first-class clerks.

Mr. Lalor of Haldimand pointed out that only one Liberal member from Ontario had dared to stand up and defend this, namely, Mr. Miller of South Grey, and he would defend anything the Government could possibly do.

No Quebec Liberal member, by the way, had spoken in support of Sifton. It was well-known that the Quebec Liberals were rather disposed for certain reasons to let the Sifton quartette, who had got rich over these transactions, defend themselves. If the course pursued by Sir John Thompson were adopted, some of these non-members would be expelled from the House.

J. G. Bergeron was followed by Mr. Foster, the latter making a vigorous attack on Mr. Turriff, who, he said, as an employe of the Government, went into his private office, locked the door, turned all inconvenient witnesses out and adjudicated upon the applications of his brother-in-law and other political friends.

Mr. Foster was still speaking at 1 o'clock.

Will Make Gold Coins.

To Mr. Bergeron the Minister of Inland Revenue yesterday said the proposed bill respecting proprietary and patent medicines was still under consideration.

Mr. Thompson (Yukon) desired to know when the new mint would be making gold coins, and of what denominations the coins would be.

Mr. Fielding answered that if gold of sufficient purity could be obtained from the smelters in Canada the mint would be in operation very shortly, otherwise it might be necessary to erect a refinery. The coins would be the denominations of $2.50, $5 and $10.

Mr. Taylor was told by Mr. Aylesworth that the Government had no information as to how many suits were tried before Mr. Justice Magee in 1905, on which he has not yet delivered judgment.

The judges were not amenable to Government control as to the time decisions may be announced.

E. N. Lewis (Huron) introduced a bill to amend the criminal code by providing for punishment for homicide while hunting. He explained that it was not necessary to show criminal intent. The law provided that if a hunter killed a cow moose or a deer under one year old he is liable to punishment, and newspapers had told of men who had been hunted out of the country for unmanly sport of killing a cow moose by mistake.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients — Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Copyright, 1906, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS.

"You ask the one impossible thing," replied Tom, with a groan.

"Dynamo me, I did not ask it," replied Daintree, whose blacker moods inspired him with a perfect genius for picking quarrels. "Though you have not honored me with your confidence, it may relieve you to hear that I have not the least desire to tamper with your loyalty to some lady unknown. I ask you to choose a wife—not to marry her."

"I don't understand you, sir," said Tom respectfully.

"You will if you condescend to listen. The woman Fawcett says we shall require another servant here. I don't believe a word of it—the hussies are bringing their own maid with them—but this able, impudent, ungrateful woman holds a pistol to my head and threatens to desert me at this juncture if I don't get her a girl. I've had her here bullying me for the last half hour, and this is the hole that I'm in—either the Fawcetts leave this dog mouth, or when I shall want them most, I must apply for a convict woman, and God knows what kind they'll send me. Now, if you applied for a wife you'd have your pick and choose a decent one, and, as I say, there's no earthly reason why you should ever marry her."

"Surely it would be unfair not to," objected Tom, who would have used a stronger adjective to anybody else.

"Unfair on the girl? Not at all. You simply let her off a blind bargain, and she gives you and you get a comfortable home. The girl comes out of it deuced well, the atheists are none the wiser and none the worse, while I have the advantage of your selection instead of theirs."

"I might make a bad choice"—

"Oh, if you want to keep out of it," cried Daintree, "keep out of it and refuse me the first favor I've ever asked you to do and I shall know better than to ask another. Only in future let me hear less of your gratitude till you've some to show."

Tom consented without further words. He disliked the plan as cordially as he resented the outrageous tone adopted by his host, but he was anxious to be both sooner than deny the man to whom he owed more than he could ever pay outright.

Meanwhile the necessary letters, in which the owner applied for a wife and the master undertook to support her, were written, the one with hypocrisy unknown, the other with a sinister gusto. Next day Tom received his order to the matron of the factory to supply him with a wife and started in the early morning following on an errand which his whole soul repudiated.

"You are to take her back with you," said the woman, having read her letter, "and to be married from your master's house."

Tom found Peggy O'Brien and selected her. By noon she was a completely free woman. Alas, she was as unutterably happy one!

Her arms slide off when Tom's car drove. He had neither the courage nor the heart to tell her the truth outright. It was a cruel position for them both. He glanced with horror at her radiant face, and again he noticed her hair.

"Where's it all gone to, Peggy?" he asked, pointing to the short strong locks. "What have you done with it?"

They had reached the outskirts of Parmoutte. New buildings were springing up in every direction, and Peggy jerked her head toward some scaffoldings.

"Is it where me hair's gone?" she said, with a laugh. "Mebbe there's some of it there."

"Where, Peggy?"

"Is them new buildings, like as not. An' didn't yo hear they strengthen the morther wid the hair of the women's heads? 'Tis three, then, be Parmoutte. An' 'tis mighty kind they think themselves to give us the rinse instead o' the cut. But where's their bricks an' morther if they hot up?"

"They used that glorious hair for bricks and mortar!"

Her face of it was dearer far than her possession. She colored with pride and happiness as she told him it had proved long ago when first she came there.

"But why did it happen?" he asked indignantly. "What could you have done to deserve such treatment?"

She hesitated and squeezed his arm.

"Nat Sullivan came"—

"Nat Sullivan?"

"An' I was to swear whether or not you were one of the bushrangers, an' you may think what I swore, an' he said I was a liar, an' I struck 'im in the face wid me open hand, an' they shared me for that!"

Tom felt miserable. She had suffered for him all along. How could he tell her he was deceiving her now and had no intention of marrying her after all? Not one word of that had passed her modest lips, yet the presence of her homely hand was eloquent with love and joy. What could he do? What could he say? For miles he never opened his lips. Peggy was tired and happy, and leaned at him and his face so wretched that at last she could bear it no longer.

"What is it, deary?" she asked him tenderly. "Yo'd hev yo' pale make such an your wedded wife? Because yo needs't, Tom dear, if ye think better nor, 'twouldn't take aught wid me bein' happy."

Then in a burst he told her of his master's plan and how he had entered into it against his own better judgment, because that master had rescued him from the jaws of death and from the gates of hell, and how from the moment he saw Peggy his only thought was to do for her what his master had done for him.

"My one idea," he said, "was to get you out of that horrible place. I'm sure you my word I never thought of anything else. But"—

Her sweet eyes had fallen. There were tears on her lashes. Claire was dead to him, so what use mourning? Better be true to the living than to the dead.

"And I do now!" he cried through his teeth. "Yes, Peggy, I mean it now! I hate such trickery! I'll have no truck in it. I applied for a wife and by the Lord I'll marry her, too—if you—"

She had withdrawn her arm and was shaking her tent black head.

CHAPTER XXVII.

SEPTEMBER finished on its westerly side, a mild breeze blowing off the south Pacific, a cloudless sun in a sapphire sky, and a harbor fretted with waves like azure shells and winding among shores still green and bloomless from a long drought. It was Sunday, too, and round the wooded promontory across the dark blue inlets came the sound of bells for afternoon church. I was in the hatch, on hand beneath a Norfolk island pine, his heels in the warm sand at the water's edge. His eyes were closed, but he was listening to the bells.

He fancied the sound as 14,000 miles away, for so had he lain and listened until the Catholic church vespers on summer Sundays when his home was in the east coast town of Pembroke. His spirit was in Suffolk now. Then the bells stopped. Then he lifted his still dazed head and he turned he half expected his sock to smart and his legs to plague him. Once more he was a felon in a felon's country. It was that despite one and seven and twenty years of sand, and felon was his name no less for this his unmerited case. As he looked over the bay he felt the bright the blue and smile as allegory with a single exception. Even as there waved waters teemed with sharks, so the fair land that nicked them was rank with rotten with intolerance and cruelty and corruption.

Twenty thousand miles! The distance was brought home to Tom by a letter printed on the chart, beyond an ideal course, in small type, which the little Rosamund was sailing over at a single angle

PROFIT IN SPECIALIZED FARMING

In view of the rest meetings of the Farmers Short Course in Lindsay, and the advice given by Profs. Creelman, Day and Zavitz, in support of specialized farming, the following from the Toronto Star should prove of much interest:

A statement covering the number and amount of chattel mortgages to secure existing indebtedness in Ontario has been issued by the Bureau of Industries.

This statement shows that the total number of such mortgages in the Province has been reduced from 19,526 in 1898 to 14,698 in 1906, but that the amount of the indebtedness secured by these instruments has been increased from twelve million dollars to fifteen and one-quarter millions in the same time. The amount of the indebtedness in 1906 was, however, nearly two millions less than for the year before.

The number of chattel mortgages registered against farmers on account of existing indebtedness decreased from 10,514 in the year first named to 6,943 in 1906, and the amount covered from three and one-half millions to $2,781,000.

It would seem from these figures that farmers have been turning to better account the increased incomes which have been received during the fat years than have those engaged in other callings.

The counties in which the amount of chattel mortgages against farmers is greatest are; Simcoe, $276,000; Kent, $218,000; Grey, $140,000; Northumberland $122,000; and Lambton $109,000. In all other counties the amount is under $100,000. It is worth noting that the counties in which dairying and truck farming have been most largely developed are among those making the best showing. In Leeds and Oxford, the two chief dairy counties of the Province, the amount of chattel mortgages registered against farmers to cover existing debts was $60,875 in the case of the former and $56,121 in the case of the latter. In Lincoln, the fruit garden of the Province, the total amount registered, was only $29,626; in Prince Edward, one of the chief centres of the canning industry the amount was less than $26,000. It is evident that in those sections in which agriculture is most thoroughly specialized, farmers are most prosperous.

THE PULP SITUATION.

The paper situation in the United States is a live topic. The great consuming newspapers refuse to keep quiet, while the paper manufacturers politely, but firmly, squeeze the life out of them. Mr. Don C. Seitz, business manager of The New York World, has contributed to The World's Work an article which shows a comprehensive grasp of the situation from the paper consumers' point of view. He says that the message of the manufacturers to the consumers is virtually "double the price of your newspapers, increase your advertising rates, cut down the size of your papers, and give us the bene... In 1896 the paper which the ... $1.65 per hun... ...t move of the ... these com... ...e formation of ...hers proceeded ...dgment, and ... ...e, the manu... ...n able to el... ...t any for... ...presenta... ...and fix... ...ing the price was jumped to $2.50 per hundred pounds. This increase in so important a factor in the production of a newspaper virtually brought consternation into many offices. The increased cost of the prime raw material wiped out their profit. A cry of anger arose on all hands. But it has failed to soften the hearts or mitigate the prices of the monopolists. "Here is the whole material of a vast industry," Mr. Seitz says, "held in the hands of less than twenty men." Yet the mills are selling their paper in London, England, three or four thousand miles away, at $2 a hundred pounds, and in Australia, on the other side of the world, at $2.40.

Mr. Seitz points out that an is probable Canada will within a year place a prohibitive duty on the export of timber. "American manufacturers", he says, "are already prying to the newspapers and periodicals to save them from this calamity. They will get no help. They have pulled the house down upon their own heads. With a rare unwisdom they have capitalized their business until it can be capitalized no more." He puts the case very strikingly when he says that they are asking the publishers to curtail, to keep down, to diminish, when if their mills were wisely managed they would be in a position to urge the publishers to increase, to progress. Mr. Seitz commends a removal to Canada, on the ground, for one thing, that they can then give the American forests fifty years to reproduce themselves. The statement is a further hint to us, if any were needed, that whatever policy we adopt must be a policy that will not at the end of a generation leave our pulp areas in ruins. Mr. Seitz concludes his able paper in these words; "If the timber land owned in Canada by American mills cannot be tapped, manufacturers will go to Canada and invest, and the tariff will come down. It is only a question who shall get there first."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Montreal Herald; About the funniest thing in politics is Mr. Borden's persistent effort to make us believe that the Government of 1895 and 1896 was a perfect institution. And this, with Sir Mackenzie Bowell, the victim of the Nest of Traitors, in the Senate nearby, and Mr. Foster, the czar of that cast, sitting alongside.

The Toronto News, in an editorial referring in terms of praise to last week's short course in judging seeds and live stock, starts off with the sentence, "Farmers in the vicinity of Lindsay evidently appreciate their opportunities." Reference is made to the attendance of over three hundred farmers and farmers' sons, after which The News goes on to quote from The Evening Post's report a number of the points so ably set forth by Prof. Creelman.

Mogul Engine Off Track.

One of the C. P. R.'s big mogul engines was working with a plow about two and a half miles from Burketon, on this branch of the line, today, and owing to the snow slipped from the rails. It fell on its side alongside the track, blocking the line. No one was hurt, but it will delay somewhat the work of clearing the line of snow. A smaller engine, with a car of men to shovel snow, was following the mogul, but stopped when it sighted the plight she was in.

The Funeral Was Delayed.

Among those who came to town yesterday in connection with the funeral of Mrs. Thorndike were Mr. Geo. Douglas, of Manilla, and Messrs. Jas. A. Thorndike, Wm. Thorndike, F. G. Perrin, E. G. Lytle, W. Wallis, Rev. Munroe, J. B. Weldon, Gordon King, Fred Coad, Geo. Martindale, Elmer Harris, Dave Dundas, D. Grant, E. Cummings, Jos. Coad, Geo. Lane, W. Lane, A. Whymark, A. McFee, Fred Kempt, H. Tinney, J. Channon, and J. F. Bragg, all of Oakwood. Great difficulty was experienced in breaking a road, four horses having to go ahead to make the road at all passable. The farmers along the way rendered all possible aid, turning out with horses and snow shovels to help clear a passage. The funeral was appointed for Thursday, but it was found impossible to get out.

Cambridge-st. Methodist S. School Will Celebrate 68th Anniversary

To-morrow's Program One of Exceptional Interest---Addresses by Rev. Dr. S. J. Shorey, Cobourg, Controller H. C. Hocken, Toronto, and Others.

Cambridge-st. Methodist Sunday School will celebrate its sixty-eighth anniversary to-morrow. The members of the school are looking forward with great pleasure to the event. Rev. Dr. S. J. Shorey, of Cobourg, a much esteemed former pastor, and Controller H. C. Hocken, of Toronto, a very prominent man in the city's public life, will be the speakers.

In the morning the School will occupy the centre rows of seats. Special music will be rendered by the orchestra and members of the School.

Dr. Shorey will address the School on the subject, "What Would I do if I Were You—Were Young Again".

CONTROLLER H. C. HOCKEN,

AS TRAVELLERS COME AND GO

Movements of Citizens and Strangers Within Our Gates.

—Mrs. Austin, of Haliburton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Barnum, north ward.

—Mr. F. H. Robinson, an old Lindsay boy, at present engaged in construction work with the Canadian Northern Railway, is in town for a few days —Miss Jean Clark, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Clark, was taken to the hospital Tuesday evening, suffering with an attack of pneumonia.

—Millbrook cor. of Port Hope Guide; Miss Blanche Adams, of Lindsay, spent a couple of days this week with her brother and sister, Mr. and Miss Adams, guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Adams.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goodwin and son Gordon, of Painsville, Ohio, left some days ago for home via Oshawa, after spending a couple of months with the formers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Goodwin. At Oshawa they will be guests of his sister, Mrs. Will Ross.

—Mr. F. M. Black, of Nelson, B.C., who came to Toronto on business, is paying a flying visit to his brother-in-law, Mr. D. S. McLennan, town. Mr. Black was one of the passengers on the train which was snowbound at Locust Hill station.

Fell Into River Late Last Night

Young Man Had Narrow Escape After Long Snow-shoeing Trip.

Mr. Harold Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wallace, Colborne-st., had an exceedingly narrow escape from death about 9 o'clock last night, on the river opposite the Baker Lumber Co's mill.

Harold, who is in charge of the school at Fairbairn, South Verulam, had walked from Bobcaygeon on snowshoes, being accompanied by Mr. Arthur Phelps, who is engaged in missionary work in Bobcaygeon vicinity.

The pair separated at the mill, Mr. Phelps proceeding to his father's home on St. Paul-st. and Mr. Wallace heading for the family roof-tree on Colborne-st. While crossing the river, near the west shore, he suddenly plumped into a hole in the ice and sank down to the neck, further progress being prevented by the snowshoes carried on his back catching on the ice in some way and rendering him valuable service.

He clambered out and continued his homeward journey at a fast pace in order to keep from freezing. When he reached the house his garments were frozen stiff and rattling like a suit of armor. The prompt application of proper remedies warded off all unpleasant results, and to-day Harold is as fit as ever, and mighty thankful for his providential escape from going under the ice.

Walked From Powles' Corner

Splendid Feat of Endurance Performed By Lindsay Citizen.

Mr. Robt. Bryans, license commissioner, is no longer a young man, yet he is a good sample of Canadian virility, and apparently need not yet take a back seat when feats of endurance are being discussed.

Tuesday last—just before the last and worst blizzard—Mr. and Mrs. Bryans went to Fenelon Falls by train to spend a day or two with Mr. and Mrs. Golden, who are old friends. Then came the blockade which rendered them prisoners.

Having important business matters to attend to in town, Mr. Bryans essayed to get through yesterday with a team of horses, but had to give up at Powles' Corners, a few miles south of the Falls, and instructing the driver to make his way back as best he might, Mr. Bryans set out to walk to Lindsay, following the railway track as well as he could in the blinding snow. Several times he thought he would have to give up, and once he came near falling asleep when he lay down in the snow behind a clump of trees to rest, but he pulled himself together and was in fairly good trim when Lindsay was reached. Many of the young men of our town would hesitate long before undertaking to duplicate Mr. Bryans' feat.

Victoria Loan and Savings Company

On our 8th page will be found the eleventh annual report of the directors of the Victoria Loan & Savings Company, one of the model institutions of the Province. It is pleasing to be able to note that the company has shared generously in the prevailing prosperity, and that shareholders earned not only an increased dividend but also an enhanced rate of interest last year.

The company is splendidly officered and managed, and the investments are of the gilt-edge kind. We predict a future of great usefulness for this excellent financial institution.

Six men who were inside escaped through a hole broken in the side of the plow, sustaining only a few minor bruises.

Consult Our Thermometer.

The Post has been investing in a first-class self registering and what is said to be an absolutely correct thermometer. It is hoped that The Post's new thermometer may take an upward turn, and we may be able to report much milder weather, and we shall promise to use our influence towards a thaw, that may make the roads passable, so we may be able to again see our country cousins who have been forcibly detained at home. The lowest point during last night was 11 below zero.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

Notes Bearing on Church Work, Clipped From Exchanges and Original.

BETWEEN THE DAYS

Between the days—the weary days—
He drops the darkness and the dews,
Over tired eyes His Hands He lays,
And strength and hope and life renews,
Thank God for the rest between the days!!

Else who could bear the battle stress
Or who withstand the Tempter's shock,
Who tread the weary wilderness,
Among the pitfalls and the rocks,
Come not the night with folded flocks!

The white light scorches, and the plain
Stretches before us, parched with heat;
But, by and by, the fierce beams wane;
And lo! the nightfall, cool and sweet,
With dews to bathe the aching feet.

For He remembereth our frame!
Even for this I render praise,
O, tender Master, slow to blame,
The falterer on life's stormy ways,
Abide with us—between the days!

LIFE'S HARD TASKS.

Life has to be a series of new beginnings, with all the misery and trial that fresh attempts to do right may bring. Dr. J. R. Miller tells the story of a boy who joined a skating party. He was so evidently a beginner that his frequent mishaps awakened the pity of a tender-hearted, if not wise, spectator. "Why, sonny, you are getting all bruised," she said, "I wouldn't stay on the ice and keep falling down so; I'd just come off and watch the others." The tears of the last downfall were still rolling over the rosy cheeks, but the child looked from his adviser to the shining steel on his feet, and answered half indignantly, "I didn't get some skates to give up with; I got 'em to learn how with." The whole philosophy of earthly discipline was in the reply. Life's hard tasks are never sent for us "to give up with"; they are always intended to awaken strength, skill and courage in learning how to master them.

A CHRISTIAN MOTTO.

"Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul, according well,
May make one music as before,
But vaster."

METHODISTS

The returns from the Methodist churches of Great Britain and Ireland, Canada Australasia and the United States, give the following very interesting figures of the world-wide Methodism: 51,196 ordained ministers, 103,116 accredited lay preachers, 8,422,988 church members, 83,753 Sunday schools, with 828,511 officers and teachers and 6,914,996 scholars and 96,402 churches.

GOSPEL CRUMBS

You may have to pay the price for standing by right principles, but your work will show the result.

All that is worth having in this world is within the compass of two arms, and unresisting. — Frankfort Moore.

Let a man overcome anger by love, let him overcome evil by good, the greedy by liberality, the liar by truth.—Buddha.

Health is the only riches that a man ought to set value on, for without it all men are poor, let their estates be what they will.

Shall we speak of the inspiration of the poet or priest, and not of the heart impelled by love and self-devotion to the lowliest way of life?

On account of the illness of Dr. Crews, who has gone to Clifton Springs Sanatarium, the concert for the 17th at Queen-st. Methodist church has been postponed to the 24th, when Rev. C. O. Johnson will lecture — in place of Dr. Crews.

At Queen-st. church to-morrow morning the quarterly services will be held, commencing at 10 o'clock with the love-feast and reception of new members. The communion of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the close of public worship.

Passengers Were Well Looked After

A number of persons bound for Bobcaygeon reached here this morning, after having been on the road from Toronto just two days and two nights. They left Toronto Wednesday on the afternoon C. P. R. train. Near Beaverton the train got stuck in a snowbank and had to wait till dug out. The main line to Peterboro was open before the line here, so they went to that place and took the G. T. R. to Lindsay. They arrived in Peterboro last night, and, as was mentioned before, got here this morning. If the weather remains first-rate, and there is no word of a train going through, they intend to snowshoe to Bobcaygeon this afternoon. They all say they were treated in fine style by the railway officials and lived on the best to be had as long as they were steck.

Dr. J. M. Rice, V. S., of Bobcaygeon, who attended a meeting of the Central Canada Veterinary Association, held at the Biological Laboratory, Ottawa, arrived in town this morning on his way home. He said the train he took left Ottawa on Thursday. Near Havelock the engine was no longer able to negotiate the drifts and got stuck hard and fast at about 6 o'clock Thursday evening. The line wasn't clear enough to go on till 3 o'clock yesterday, when he was able to get as far as Peterboro, where he transferred to G. T. R. for here. There were about fifty passengers on the train, among whom were Dr. Barr, M. P., of Sheldon, Mr. Edison, M. P. for Middlesex, and Mr. Watson, M. P., of Parry Sound. Before leaving the train the passengers gathered and voted Conductor Jackson a hearty vote of thanks for the manner in which he and the C. P. R. had used them during the tie-up. Dr. Rice at noon had not decided whether to snowshoe to Bobcaygeon or to wait in town till a train gets through. He received a vote of thanks at the meeting of the Veterinary Association for a very able paper he read to his colleagues.

Both the G.T.R. and C.P.R. authorities are entitled to praise for the heroic efforts made to maintain a service. The working crews on both roads performed wonders, and endured hunger, thirst and stress of weather with a fortitude worthy of trained soldiers. The G.T.R. people managed to maintain some kind of a service except on one day, thanks to the strenuous efforts and fertility of resource displayed by Trainmaster Irwin and his assistants; the C. P. R. has been blocked for three days.

Cambray Mail Route Open.

For the first time in some days the Cambray mail reached town this morning near dinner time. Messrs. Kennedy, Neil Murchison, Wallace McIntyre, Thos. Wood, Jas. Wood and Jas. Wells volunteered to bring His Majesty's mail to town, and set out this morning with teams of horses and shovels to try to get through the drifts. They shovelled the drifts away right to the half-way house, where they were on the verge of giving up and going back, but finally decided to leave the horses and sleighs at a farmer's and walk the rest of the distance, carrying the bags. After a hard, and adventurous trip they reached town, pretty tired. They started on the return trip about three o'clock.

Lazy Man's Wife Told to Saw Wood

Sent by Charity Officer—Husband Objected to Axe as Being too Noisy.

(Montreal Herald).

Indisposition on the part of several immigrants to work, with the result that their homes are very poorly supplied with the necessities of life, have kept the Children's Aid Society busy for some days past.

One of these immigrants and a father of a family poses as an aristocrat and points out that in former years he had come on a trip to Canada as the guest of an English nobleman. He has been a resident of the country now for two years, and refuses to work. His children are suffering from want of food and clothing. When an agent of the society called at the house a few days ago, about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, he found the man just getting out of bed. In the living room was piled a load of cordwood which the charity officer had had sent up, and the alleged aristocrat told the visitor he would like to borrow a saw for his wife, as the noise she made in splitting wood was jarring to his nerves.

The agent, though angry enough to throw the fellow through the window, simply suggested that if he would do some of the splitting himself his nerves might not be so affected. He told him, moreover, that he had better get work or his children would be taken from him.

In one of the suburbs recently annexed, certain residents had been supporting the children of an immigrant, but finally got tired doing so. As the man refused to work, a place was found for his wife, and the children were taken away.

Another case is where a city official offered two jobs to an immigrant but to no purpose, as the latter objected to going to work as early as 7 o'clock in the morning. He will be notified to take employment, or otherwise have his children placed in charge of the society.

Hard luck, rather than a disinclination to work has made the home of another of these people such as to bring it under the notice of the society. Work will be obtained for the head of the family, but his request for money will be refused. He at first claimed he wanted the money for medicine, but later said he wanted it because he felt it awkward not to have any in his pocket.

Don't Suffer All Winter

Read This Evidence and Begin To-day to Cure Yourself With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve. Its origin is generally rheumatism and is the direct result of taking cold. For this reason the disease is commonly known as "sciatic rheumatism."

There is only one thing more painful than sciatica and that is the treatment of it, as practiced. The sickening burning of the flesh is only one of the forms of cruelty employed by the old school doctors, and all too often this is entirely vain for the relief gained is but temporary.

It is a scientific fact that the majority of sciatica cases result from exposure to cold when the patient is in an anaemic or bloodless condition, in which the nerve is literally starved. It needs no argument to show any reasonable person that a starved nerve cannot be fed by the application of a hot iron to the outer flesh. It may deaden the sciatic pain for a time but it will not cure sciatica.

Absolute rest is the best aid to proper medical treatment. Rest and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which actually make new blood, and thus feed the starved nerve, will cure most cases.

Mr H. W. Awalt is one of the leading merchants of Hemford, N. S. A few years ago he was a great sufferer from this excruciating trouble. He says; "The attack was so severe that I had been off work for some time. The cords of my legs were all drawn up and I could only limp along with the aid of a stick. The pain I suffered was terrible. I was in misery both day and night. Every movement caused me such pain as only those who have been tortured with sciatica know. I was treated by several doctors, but they did not help me a bit. in fact I almost began to think my condition was hopeless, when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my notice. I got a half dozen boxes. I had used the entire quantity before I found any benefit. But I was encouraged and got a second half dozen boxes, and before these were all gone every vestige of the trouble had disappeared. Not only this, but I was improved in health in health in health in every way, as it will be readily understood that the long siege of pain I had suffered had left me badly run down. I can't speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I can't recommend them too strongly to other sufferers."

Sciatica is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient often suffers for years. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not simply relieve the pain They cure the disease caused by poor watery blood. They actually make new blood and have therefore a direct and powerful curative effect on such diseases as rheumatism, anaemia, general debility and after effects of the grip. As the nerves depend upon the blood for nourishment, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unequalled for the treatment of even the most severe nervous disorders, such as neuralgia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are used everywhere with the greatest success, building up wasted bodies and bringing the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Happened to Corrigan.

"Lend my dress suit? Not on your life!" replied the man. "I might get it in the neck the way Corrigan did.

"What happened to Corrigan?"

"Well, two years ago a fellow whom he knew slightly borrowed Corrigan's dress suit to go to a dance. Next thing Corrigan heard was the fellow had dropped dead o' heart disease. Corrigan went to the funeral to do the thing right. When he peeked into the casket he noticed the deceased had on his dress suit. The undertaker had picked it out because it was the only dark suit in the fellow's wardrobe. Corrigan wept real tears when he saw them lowering the coffin into the grave. That was his first and last dress suit. He vowed he'd never get another."—Exchange.

COMMUNICATIONS

THE MAYOR'S PROMISES.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly give me space in your valuable paper to make suggestions as to way in which Mayor Begg and his colleagues might show their interest in the citizens of this little burg.

Unlike other towns of similar importance, we, as citizens, are at the mercy of our fuel dealers. Our cash is demanded with our order for a cord of wood or a ton of coal, and we have no way of knowing if we get value for our money or not, but we do know that there are instances that we have not, for it has been weighed and found wanting, and measured and found lacking, and in some instances the dealer has been compelled to come and take away the wood or coal.

Now, we would simply remind Mayor Begg of one of his promises that he made repeatedly—that if he was returned as mayor of the town of Lindsay, that he would pass a bylaw compelling the Chief of Police to weigh a number of loads of coal each week, and measure a number of loads of wood also each week, and report on them, and confiscate any that should not be up to the weight or measurement that was on the ticket for the said load. Nothing short of 128 ft. to be taken for a cord only in 22 in. wood, and that might be called standard wood. We have no right to accept wood 3 ft. 11 in. long as 4 ft. wood at the present ruling prices. All that is asked is that we get just what we pay for, and a knowledge that we get it.

Now, we would kindly ask Mayor Begg to exercise his double voting privilege in protecting the rights of the working men of Lindsay in this one way especially.—Yours, etc.,

Marconi Co. Ready for Business.

Montreal, Feb. 4.—The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company announces that it is prepared to accept messages in Montreal for transmission to the United Kingdom at the rate of fifteen cents a word. For some months the Marconi Company has transmitted messages for newspapers by wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic, and since October 17 last, when the service was first started, there has been no interruption in it. This service will now be extended to ordinary commercial messages, in addition to press work.

It is understood that the company has concluded a contract with the C. P. R. for the equipment of the steamers Lake Manitoba, Lake Erie, Lake Champlain, Lake Michigan, Montrose, Mount Royal, Montezuma, Montreal and Monfort with wierless apparatus.

Getting Imformation Out of Pa.

My pa, he didn't go down town
Last evening after tea.
But got a book and settled down
As comfy as could be,
I'll tell you I was offul glad
To have my pa about
To answer all the things I had
Been tryin' to find out.

And so I asked him why the world
Is round instead of square,
And why the piggies' tails are curled
And why don't fish breathe air?
And why the moon don't hit a star,
And why the dark is black,
And just how many birds there are,
And will the wind come back?

And why does water stay in wells,
And why do June bugs hum,
And what's the roar I hear in shells,
And when will Christmas come?
And why the grass is always green,
Instead of sometimes blue,
And why a bean will grow a bean,
And not an apple, too?

And why a horse can't learn to moo,
And why a cow can't neigh?
And do the fairies live on dew,
And what makes hair grow gray—
And then my pa got up an' gee!
The offul words he said,
I hadn't done a thing, but he
Jest sent me off to bed.

SURPLUS $600,000?

Two New Members Speak in Provincial House.

THE REDISTRIBUTION BILL

Premier Whitney Introduces Skeleton Measure—Law Reform Resolution to Be Immediately Brought Forward—Debate on the Address Is Commenced—Mr. McKeown Eulogizes Government—Temperance Legislation Proposed.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—Though the Provincial Legislature was supposed to have commenced its real business yesterday afternoon, practically nothing was done beyond opening the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Two speakers only were heard—Mr. C. R. McKeown, M.P.P. for Dufferin, and Mr. A. E. Donovan, M.P.P. for Brockville, both of them new members These speeches were somewhat brief, and, while much of the field of Provincial politics was touched upon, the references to the Provincial surplus were especially marked. The exact amount of this surplus has not been made known officially, but Mr. Donovan intimated that it was over half a million dollars. The general impression, however, concerning the surplus is that the figures will mount to nearly $600,000. Before the House adjourned, Premier Whitney introduced a skeleton redistribution bill, which was read for the first time. The bill in its present form makes no disclosure of the Government's intention with regard to redistribution, none of the important schedules being presented. Mr. Whitney announced his intention of conferring with the leader of the Opposition, Hon. A. G. MacKay, regarding the procedure to be adopted before the bill is presented to the House in its complete form. The debate was adjourned on motion of Mr. C. N. Smith, Sault Ste. Marie. It is probable, however, that when the Legislature meets to-day, and following the tradition of purely formal business, there will be a further adjournment until Tuesday. It is understood that a number of members on both sides of the House are desirous of taking part in the debate.

Mr. McKeown opened by alluding to the vacancies which had occurred since the last session by the hand of death. He paid a tribute to the late Dr. Lewis, his predecessor for Dufferin. Proceeding the speaker eulogized the administration as wise, just and honest.

"Under the present rule," he declared, "private vested rights in this province are secure, but any monopoly in the assets of the province to the injury of its people is not permitted."

The Power Policy.

Mr. McKeown proceeded to discuss the development of the power policy, the most important project, he declared, that Ontario had taken up in years. Mr. Beck's policy was destined to make the province the great manufacturing centre of the continent.

He congratulated the Provincial Secretary on his decision to further improve the Liquor License Act, and upon his determination, successfully carried out, to enforce the law without fear or favor. He commended the Government on its position that legal technicalities must not be permitted to annul the will of the people of any municipality when expressed for local option.

Mr. McKeown congratulated the province upon another surplus—"an actual and substantial surplus, one not secured by cutting off the acres of the homestead, or sacrificing the minerals or the timber, but earned by honest business methods—and that," he added, "has not meant false economy."

Prisons and Asylums.

Money had been spent wisely. Much had been done in relieving the condition of unfortunate and mentally weak women and girls, and in improving the conditions of the prisons and asylums. The decision of the Department of Agriculture to extend the work of agriculture and to insist upon the best class of immigration was endorsed.

Referring to the Department of Education, Mr. McKeown eulogized the decision to give increased grants to rural schools, now to be supplemented by increased grants to urban schools. He commended the increasing of teachers' salaries. The teachers had, in the speaker's opinion, the most influential and important avocation. Mr. McKeown's reference to the reduced price of school books was received with applause.

Mr. A. E. Donovan was greeted with Government applause. He congratulated the mover on his address, and thanked the House for the honor done the constituency of Brockville in his selection to second the resolution. He confessed to feeling some temerity over his maiden effort, but hoped it would be more successful than was the initial effort of the leader of the Opposition (Hon. Mr. Mackay) "when," said Mr. Donovan amid laughter, "he came up into Brockville and assisted me in turning a Liberal majority of 169 into a Conservative majority of 320."

The result was not to be wondered at. The Whitney policies were founded upon principle. It was an honest Government, a business Government and a Government that kept its promises. (Applause.)

Help the Workers.

Continuing Mr. Donovan expressed strong sympathy with all legislation to improve the condition of the laboring men. The Government purpose, he declared, was to make all men equal in fair legislation. The legacy of prison labor competition with free labor left by the old Government was, he said, soon to be completely abolished. Mr. Donovan commended the splendid administration of the mines by Hon. Mr. Cochrane and the handling of provincial finances by Hon. Mr. Matheson. "There is a good surplus this year," he declared. "I hazzard a guess that it will be well over half a million."

Clergyman Out on Bail.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—Judge Grosscup of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals granted a writ of error and supersedeas in the case of Rev. Dr. Kaye of Oak Park, Ill., convicted of counterfeiting and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

He has been in the jail annex here pending the action of the higher court, and was yesterday afternoon admitted to bail. Dr. Kaye was born and reared in Woodstock, Ont.

Beat Mother to Death.

Yarmouth, N. S., Feb. 6.—A few days ago an old woman named Hilton, who lives at Ohio Village, near here, was beaten by her son, Ebenezer Hilton, who used an axe-handle as the implement of punishment.

The evidence given at the inquest yesterday showed that the son had beaten his mother into insensibility, had dragged her over the frozen ground and kicked her. The evidence also established the fact that the woman had never revived after her terrible ordeal. The jury found that death had been caused by the beating received at the hands of her son, and recommended that the Attorney-General should immediately take the matter up.

Match Would Have Saved Life.

Melfort, Sask., Feb. 6.—Word has been received of the death of Helmar Loftus by freezing, which occurred about 25 miles north of here. The victim was out hunting, and was one of a party of four. Fatal Vaccination.

Brockville, Feb. 7.—Lorimer Hay, 10 years old, son of C. J. Hay, florist, died early yesterday morning, a victim of lockjaw. At the time of the recent vaccination of school children on account of the smallpox epidemic, the little fellow was one of the number. The vaccination was healing nicely until last Sunday evening, when symptoms of the disease developed and grew worse. He had been playing in his father's greenhouses, and it is supposed a scratch on the hand or arm became inflamed with plant earth.

Say People Will Act.

Seattle, Wn., Feb. 7.—Before taking adjournment yesterday, the Asiatic Exclusion League of North America framed a "memorial to Congress" protesting against the presence of orientals in America as a menace to labor, and suggesting that if Congress does not act quickly the people will take the law in their own hands.

BURIED UNDER RUINS

Firemen Caught Between Collapsing Floors at New York Fire.

SEVEN WERE BADLY INJURED

Large Warehouse Destroyed — Monetary Loss $200,000—Frost Stops Supply of Water — Elevator Cable Parted — Occupants Dashed to Bottom of Shaft But All Escaped—Some Gallant Rescues.

New York, Feb. 5.—Caught between collapsing floors, seven firemen were injured last night while fighting a fire which destroyed a five storey structure, occupied by drygoods firms, at 43 Worth street, in the heart of the wholesale drygoods district. Fireman Frank Eglanton is missing, and is believed to be in the ruins. The monetary loss is estimated at $200,000.

The firemen fought the flames in the bitter cold which froze water in the standpipes and made the pressure inadequate to confine the fire to the third floor, where it started. The injured were found lying beneath the ruins in pools of fast freezing water.

The fire spread rapidly and the employes in the building had to make ...urried exits. As they were escaping ...m the place the cable of an eleva... parted and the car, jammed with ...htened women and men, dropped ...he basement. Fortunately no one ... seriously hurt and to their descent they may owe their lives. Hardly had the passengers scrambled from the wreckage of the car, when, without warning, the third floor gave way and carried with it the second floor and 16 firemen, who were working within the walls. A moment later a score of firemen had reached into the burning wreckage, recklessly determined to rescue their comrades, whose cries could be heard above the noise of puffing engines.

Meantime the fire was burning briskly on the top floor, and streams of water thrown from adjoining buildings half drowned the imprisoned men, as well as those who chopped away valiantly wherever burning timbers held a captive. The temperature was well down toward zero, and the men suffered intensely. One by one the injured men were released with the exception of Eglanton, who could not be located. Though badly injured, it is believed that the rescued men will recover. The building had been ruined before the fire was controlled.

MOTHER KILLS HER CHILD.

Goes Insane and Only Overpowered After Terrible Struggle.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—While in a fit of insanity, Mrs. Thomas Doucette dashed out the brains of her two-year-old child and was in the act of killing another child when discovered by her family. The family consisted of father, mother and eight children. The father, who worked on the Intercolonial Railway, was confined to the house with a broken rib. Mrs. Doucette became violently insane at 4.20 yesterday morning and arose without awakening the other inmates of the house, and took the child from the cradle to the back door, and there smashed its head in, violently beating it against the ice. Returning, she took the three-year-old child, but in so doing she awakened her daughter, aged 18, who called her father. In a desperate struggle the mother was overpowered, and a policeman called.

At the inquest yesterday afternoon it was brought out that the woman had been insane several times. The mother said she killed the baby by taking it by the feet and beating its brains out on the side of the house.

MEN RAN FOR LIVES

Powder Mills Destroyed by Explosion at Tweed, Ont.

WHOLE TOWN WAS SHAKEN

Workmen Had Narrow Escape But Got Out Safely — Many Windows Smashed Causing Much Suffering In Zero Weather—Fifteen Buildings Wrecked — Heard Many Miles Away — Big Loss.

Tweed, Ont., Feb. 5.—An explosion which broke nearly every window in town and caused scenes of excitement occurred a mile east from here shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, when the powder mills of the Ontario Powder Co., comprising from 12 to 15 buildings, were destroyed.

The men in the works had only been at their occupation a few minutes when one of the big vats of nitric acid was observed to boil over. It ate its way into the floors and soon the wood caught fire. For the flames to reach the nitro-glycerine mixer took only a few minutes. A warning was shouted and the men ran for their lives. With an awful, deafening roar the buildings were torn from their foundations, lifted up high in the heavens, and completely demolished.

There was considerable of a panic in the town for a little while until some of the powder makers arrived on the run with the glad intelligence that all had been saved. As it is, there will be considerable inconvenience in town, if not suffering, as with all the windows broken and the thermometer much below zero it is impossible to keep the houses warm.

Much perishable foodstuff has been frozen in the stores, and rendered absolutely useless, the plate glass fronts having been smashed. Business is practically suspended, and will be for some days.

The churches of the town are also without windows, and as the glass is somewhat hard to replace, there will not likely be services next Sunday.

The factory of the Steel Trough & Machine Co., which is situated a short distance away from the powder mills, had its big chimney blown down, as well as the glass broken.

The shock was felt at Napanee, 25 miles away, and it is reported that glass was broken at Madoc, 16 miles distant. Much damage was done to windows at the village of Stoco, six miles across the lake.

The cause of the explosion is said to be the fact that the extreme cold weather congealed the nitro-glycerine and it entered the mixer and caused the nitric acid to boil and pour over the floor, thus setting the building on fire. The mixers, seeing the danger, ran through the works calling to the men to run for their lives. The men needed no second warning, but rushed to places of safety, and as the thermometer registered well below zero, many of them had ears and fingers frozen.

The loss on plate glass and other glass in the town is estimated at over $1,000. All the buildings owned by the powder company were badly shattered. The company's loss will reach $25,000.

BUSINESS SECTION BURNED.

Disastrous Blaze Does Enormous Damage at Berlin, N. H.

Berlin, N. H., Feb. 5.—A conflagration raged here last night, and at the time of this despatch is transmitted, its extent cannot be estimated. Assistance has been asked for from Portland and Lewiston.

The fire broke out about 10 o'clock in Burbanks furniture establishment and spread with rapidity and has almost entirely wiped out all buildings on Exchange and Main streets. The Berlin National Bank, postoffice, Central Telephone office, Gerrish block, Green block, Gilbert property, and a residence are among those destroyed.

The fire has taken hold of the building adjoining the telegraph office, and the operator must abandon the office.

At midnight the first fire was under control, and the department were striving to control a second fire which started at 10 p. m. It was controlled at 1 o'clock. The total loss of the two fires is estimated at about two hundred thousand dollars.

Four Mnoths For Assault.

St. Catharines, Feb. 5.—County Judge Carman yesterday tried the aggravated assault charge against Emmanuel Stewart. He found the prisoner guilty and sentenced him to four months in the Central Prison.

As the outcome of a dispute at the nomination meeting in Niagara Township, Stewart held up Arthur Muir on the Queenston road one night, climbed into the buggy, and severely wounded Muir. Stewart had given bail to the general sessions, but changed his mind and asked for a speedy trial.

Insane Mother's Deed.

Boston, Feb. 5.—During a period of mental depression Mrs. Frances Willers of Dorchester killed herself and two little girls, aged 2 and 11 years respectively, by means of illuminating gas Monday night, the note left saying:

"God forgive me for what I have done. It was a case of the insane hospital again."

Escaped From Institute.

Brantford, Feb. 5.—John Jacobs and Reuben Lewis, two Indian boys, ran away from the Indian Institute in this city some weeks ago, and, despite the efforts on the part of the authorities, have not been seen since.

FRANCO DOWN AND OUT.

No Further Disorders Reported In Portuguese Capital.

Lisbon, Feb. 5.—Lisbon is beginning to recover from the shock and horror of Saturday's bloody tragedy, but a strong undercurrent of popular and governmental nervousness remains.

The political tension is slackening, although the Progressists refuse to join in the construction of the Cabinet, which Admiral Ferreira de Amaral is forming from all the Monarchial groups because the Conservatives are in predominance. The hitch, however, is likely to be straightened out and a temporary union of all the Monarchial elements attained for the purpose of getting the country back on a constitutional basis, "ending agitation and restoring tranquility," as expressed by the leaders.

Senor Bernadino Machado, leader of the peaceful wing of the Republicans, agrees to a truce, provided that his friends now under arrest are liberated, freedom of the press restored and the elections ordered.

Admiral de Amaral, the devoted friend of the Queen, who assumes power, is committed to the reversal of the entire policy of the dictatorship, the abolition of repressive measures, and the restoration of "the old Liberal monarchy."

On Saturday, government by decree will be withdrawn, amnesty accorded political offenders not implicated in deeds of violence, and the embargo on the press raised.

Franco Down and Out.

Franco's downfall is complete. He recognized that it was impossible to saddle the youthful King at the outset of his reign with the stern program involving the immediate banishment and deportation of several hundred political offenders, to which he had committed himself, if he retained office. He told a friend that the assassination of the King ended his political career. He offered his services, however, but these were refused, both Queen Amelie and the Dowager Queen Maria Pia agreeing with the unanimous view of the council of state that the author of the dictatorship must be cast aside.

A high official said yesterday that Franco wanted to exercise even a more despotic power, and that at the interview with the new King he said it was quite impossible for him to join the coalition movement. It was with eyes filled with tears that King Manuel finally accepted Franco's resignation. The former Premier then hastily left the palace, and has not been seen since.

Queen Amelie herself issued orders to the military that the life of Franco should be carefully guarded.

DEMANDS DEATH PENALTY.

Trial of Gen. Stoessel Drawing Near Its Close.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—The final session of the Stoessel court-martial was held yesterday. Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, together with Gen. Feck and Gen. Reiss, are being tried for the surrender of the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese.

In his summing up, the judge advocate demanded that the court impose the death sentence upon Stoessel, Feck and Reiss—upon Stoessel as the responsible agent for the shameful surrender of the fortress and the cowardly ending of its glorious defence, and upon Feck and Reiss as the men who inspired and abetted him. Governor-General Smirnoff, who was declared guilty of not having taken measures to prevent the surrender, the judge advocate asked the severe punishment of imprisonment at forced labor for four years.

Gen. Guersky paid the highest tribute to the brave defenders of the fortress, several hundred of whom were seated in the crowded courtroom. He said it was necessary to draw a sharp distinction between them and their leaders, men who had covered their names with ineffacable shame. He reviewed history in vain for a precedent to show failure to punish the men responsible for such a surrender, and he declared that their undeserved decorations should be torn from the breasts of the uniforms they had disgraced. Continuing, the judge advocate pooh-poohed the idea of a massacre, which Gen. Stoessel had advanced in justification of the surrender, and said that even the civilians in Port Arthur had no fear of such an occurrence. The passions of the early days of the siege had given place, he said, to a quiet fulfillment of duty by Russians and Japanese alike.

Counsel for the defendants will make their answers to-day, M. Syrtlanoff speaking first on behalf of Gen. Stoessel.

Revolting Beyond Credence.

London, Feb. 5.—The murder of old Mrs. Hartwick at Cobblehill by her insane husband, James Hartwick, who is now in London jail, was revolting almost beyond credence. No weapon was used, but the unfortunate woman was disemboweled by her assailant's hand in a manner which cannot be stated in print.

The jury looked at the body yesterday. Dr. Ford of Thorndale was appointed to make the post-mortem, and the inquest was adjourned to meet at Thorndale on Thursday.

Japan Increases Duties.

Tokio, Feb. 5.—After a heated debate lasting five hours, an increase in the taxation bills on sugar, sake, alcohol, beer and kerosene was past yesterday in the Diet. The Government had a majority of 84 in every case except in that of kerosene, on which the majority vote was 24.

Johannesburg, Feb. 5.—A movement was inaugurated here yesterday at a largely-attended meeting to boycott Asiatic traders and all employers of Asiatics.

THE TIMBER LEASES

Hon. Frank Oliver Answers Charges in the House.

TENDERS WERE ON SQUARE

Policy of Old Conservative Government Continued — Highest Bidder Got Berths Every Time — New Regulations Introduced — Mr. Boyce and Mr. Borden Speak —Supply of Seed Grain.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The debate on Mr. Lake's amendment to the motion to go into supply, asking for a committee to probe the lands branch of the Interior Department, was resumed by Mr. Boyce (Conservative, Algoma). He laid down three main principles.

(1) There should be an enquiry by the Department as to the value of the timber limit, the amount of timber thereon, and its present and future accessibility.

(2) The administration should decide first if it is necessary to dispose of timber at all.

(3) The administration should protect the country from collusion and dishonest tendering.

Mr. Boyce proceeded to give some instances of apparent collusion in tendering for limits. Many cases were mentioned to show that limits had been prematurely sold by tender, and that the successful tenderer was only slightly in excess of the second. It was no wonder, said Mr. Boyce, that the present Minister of the Interior had taken little interest in the present discussion.

Mr. Boyce, continuing, referred to the Ames' motion, which wrested the original papers in respect to the granting of timber limits from an unwilling Government. Mr. Turriff, who was land commissioner at the time the tenders were put in here, claimed that definite charges which Mr. Turriff had taken to heart. Mr. Turriff, the speaker went on, was the official who alone was responsible for the opening of the tenders.

It was charged that there was dishonesty in opening of tenders, that a spurious tender was put in, and that these tenders came under the supervision of Mr. Turriff when he was commissioner of Dominion lands, and when such grave reflections were cast upon him (Turriff) in Parliament all the reply he had to make was: "Stop making insinuations."

Did the fact that Mr. Turriff had a seat in Parliament now exonerate him from blame? Mr. Lake had made definite and distinct charges. No one who had seen papers brought down could fail to come to the same conclusion as Mr. Lake, namely, that one of the tenders was a spurious and improper one.

Did the man who opened tenders know it was a spurious tender? was asked.

Mr. Turriff interrupted: "He's making insinuations again. I ask him to make charges." He went on to say that he had opened tenders that came to him, and it was not for him to question who wrote them. "I am not a detective. Any insinuation that I had anything to do with the filling in of tenders, or that there was any collusion, is entirely wrong."

Mr. Boyce replied that until Mr. Turriff gave explanations or the Premier granted an investigation he would continue to lie under suspicion. As an official of this Government, it was his first duty to be a detective, and if there was any suspicion it was his duty to refer tenders to the Minister.

Minister of the Interior.

The Minister of Interior followed. He declared that the discussion had been a farce. For twenty-five years past the policy of the Government had been to secure development of the lumbering industry, and not to secure a price for standing timber. A provision was inserted in the license requiring the erection of a mill within a year. The Conservatives never enforced the provision and the present Government changed it.

R. L. Borden said of the 29,000 square miles granted by the Conservative Government a large proportion was given up because of the enforcement of conscience. Probably Mr. Oliver would say what conditions were regarded as onerous.

Mr. Oliver did not know, but he continued that the Opposition must either admit their policy was one of development of timber resources, or there was on record one of the most outrageous pieces of jobbery the country ever saw. Mr. Oliver, however, did not charge any improper conduct, but both Governments had the same policy of development. The present administration had produced better results in a greater amount of lumber cut.

Referring to the speculative values of some of the timber areas, Mr. Oliver proceeded to show that they were no greater than when the Conservatives were in power. Timber limits were of no value until they have been cut into lumber, and no reliance could be put upon the speculative values of limits alienated by the present Government. There was nothing that the Government need be ashamed of in the administration of timber lands by the present Government.

Proceeding at the evening session, Mr. Oliver declared that there was no favoritism in the awarding of tenders. Many of the tenders showed a wide range, and in all cases the limits went to the highest bidder. In one case, in which the Opposition charged that there was a corrupt deal, the limit was granted to a Conservative. The main object of the Department was to get the timber in the hands of people who would work it. It was the fact, however, that a large number of limits under license were not being operated.

Inspection of Documents.

The Minister finally got to the question of Inspection of original documents. Could the Opposition point to a single instance where members had done this. Several Opposition members gave instances.

Mr. Ames said a year ago he had no difficulty in gaining access.

"Because the privilege was accorded then, does the hon. gentlemen think he has the right?" asked Mr. Oliver.

The Minister said it was not in the interest of those holding titles that the original papers should be let out of custody of the Department. Mr. Oliver gave the explanation of Mr. Fraser, already published, in respect to the Moose Lake tenders. If the value put on the limits by Mr. Ames was a fair one, Mr. Fraser would have been in a position to secure them for himself by bidding slightly over his clients. "The policy of the late Government was right, but their administration was rotten," declared the Minister. In 1881 the Northwest was parcelled up among the friends of Conservatives without regard to revenue or to the conditions existing in the country. To grant 450 berths at that time was nothing less than an outrage. Mr. Oliver claimed there was nothing in Mr. Lake's resolution but insinuation.

Mr. Lake declared that he made nine specific statements upon which he based his resolution, one of which was alone sufficient to warrant the Government in granting an enquiry.

Mr. Oliver said the Opposition did not want an investigation, but merely the opportunity of maligning their fellow citizens.

There were cries of "Order!" and "Take it back!" and Mr. Oliver was called to task by Mr. Speaker. "If I have offended," said Mr. Oliver, "then I do not understand their position."

This did not satisfy Mr. Speaker, and the Minister made a proper retraction.

R. L. Borden spoke next. He said he did not know anybody who had been guilty of making insinuations to the extent of the Minister of Interior. Discussing Mr. Oliver's claim, that the present Government was continuing the policy of the Conservative administration, he asked did Mr. Whitney hand out timber limits to the first-comer just because his predecessors did so?

It was absurd for the Minister to say that he did not give a longer time for the survey of timber limits because the Government was not looking for revenue. Surely Mr. Oliver gave his case away when he argued that timber limits had only a speculative value for the reason that they cannot have an actual value for many years to come. That was the claim of the Opposition. The Province of Ontario derived an enormous revenue from its timber, because timber limits were held till they possessed a real value. It was not Alexander Mackenzie or Sir John Macdonald who were on trial, but the Government of this day, said Mr. Borden.

Saskatchewan Asked First.

A return of correspondence brought down yesterday in connection with the supplying of seed grain to the west shows that the first request came from Saskatchewan on Nov. 20. For some time Mr. Oliver held out, claiming that the matter was one for the provinces to deal with. Later he was led to a different view of the situation. The correspondence shows that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has offered low rates on seed grain over the C. P. R., and the big milling companies, especially Ogilvies, have also promised their assistance.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) introduced his bill to amend the Passenger Ticket Act, requiring railway companies to issue 500 and 1,000 mile tickets at two cents a mile.

THAW AT MATTEAWAN.

Evelyn Overcome at Sight of the Crazy Inmates.

Matteawan, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The horrors of the madhouse, coming close upon the nervous strain of the murder trial, overcame Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw. She had opened the door of the reception room and looked into the hall. At sight of a group of lunatics, gesticulating and chattering, she stepped quickly back into the reception room, sank on a sofa and became hysterical.

"This is no place for Harry, in with all those insane people," she sobbed. "He is as sane as you or I. But he will go crazy if they keep him locked here with these creatures for another 48 hours. I would go crazy myself here. Look at these gloomy painted walls. Hear the voices of those poor men and women. It's horrible—horrible."

Then she turned on Lawyer O'Reilly.

"Mr. O'Reilly," she demanded, "I don't care what any one else says—I tell you to get that writ of habeas corpus and save my husband from this terrible place. In his nervous state he will surely go mad here. You must get him out of here before it is too late."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

County Judges Report Equalization Assessment of The County of Victoria

In the matter of the appeal of the Municipality of the townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford, and the Corporation of the County of Victoria, and in the matter of the Assessment Act.

In the matter of appeal of Corporation of the Township of Somerville and the Corporation of the County of Victoria, and in the matter of the Assessment Act.

Before proceeding with my report upon the actual equalization of the taxable real property of the county, I shall dispose of the several legal questions discussed before me.

1st. As to the powers of the County Council in the equalization of the taxable real property of the county.

There are two methods provided by the Assessment Act (4th Ed. 7th Chap. 23), either of which the County Council is at liberty to adopt.

1st. By the 81st section of that Act the Council of every county shall, yearly, and not later than the first day of July, examine the assessment rolls of the different townships, towns and villages in the county, for the preceding financial year, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the valuations made by the assessors in each township, town and village, bear a just relation one to another, and may by the by-law for the purpose of county rates, increase or decrease in any township, town or village, the aggregate valuations, adding or deducting, so much per cent. as may, in their opinion, be necessary to produce a just relation between them, but they shall not reduce the aggregate valuation for the whole county as made by the assessors.

2nd.—The second method is provided by the 80th section of the same Act which provides "that the Council of every county may appoint two or more valuators for the purpose of valuing the real property within the county, and it shall be their duty to ascertain in every 5th year the value of the same in the manner directed by the County Council, but the valuators shall not exceed the powers possessed by assessors. The valuation so made shall be made by the county council the basis of equalization of the real property for a period not exceeding five years.

This section appears to authorize the county council to direct the valuators as to the manner in which the equalization shall be made, whether by valuing every parcel of real property or by adopting the method authorized by the 3rd sub-section of section 80, permitting the valuation of the percentage therein mentioned. After the valuation has been made, and the report of the valuators has been delivered, the county council have no authority to tamper with, alter or amend it, but must make it the basis of equalization of the real property of the county for a period not exceeding five years unless at or before the expiration of that period they extend the time for a term not exceeding five years, further as provided by the 2nd subsection of the same section 80.

Should any township, town or village be dissatisfied with the result of the equalization by the county council or with the report of the valuators, they are entitled to appeal in the manner provided by the 82nd section of the Act.

By the 7th subsection of section 82, I am required to equalize the whole assessment of the county, and in performing that duty I am not restricted in the mode of procedure to be adopted. I quote this sub-section 7, of section 82, "Where all the parties to the appeal have agreed as above provided, (S. S. 1 and 2 of Sec. 82), to have the final equalization of the assessment made by the County Judge, the Clerk of the County Council shall forthwith notify in writing the County Judge, and the County Judge shall appoint a day for the hearing of the appeal, not later than ten days from the receipt of such notice of the appeal, and may on such day proceed to hear and determine the appeal, either with or without the evidence of witnesses, or with such evidence as he may decide upon hearing, and may examine witnesses under oath or otherwise, and may adjourn, from time to time; but the judgment shall not be deferred beyond the 1st of January next after such appeal; and the judge shall equalize the whole assessment of the county, and shall forthwith report the same to the County Council."

Sub-section 8 of section 82: "The right of appeal shall exist whether County Valuators have been appointed or not, and upon any such appeal the report of the County Valuators shall be open to review by the Court or Judge as herein provided."

I have added the amount of business assessment and taxable income for the year 1906, as it appears upon the several assessment rolls of the townships, towns and villages in the County of Victoria for the purposes of making a complete report and fixing the total equalization value for the purpose of levying county rates in the year 1908. The amount of these assessments are to be added from year to year, and are variable, and will be added as the business assessment and taxable income may appear upon rolls, beginning with the rolls for the year 1908.

By "The Stroller."

The other day our genial friend, Sir William Van Horne, returned from a month's trip to Cuba and Guatemala, where he had been looking over his investments. This is one feature about our money kings, that we do not like. To say the least of it, it is very unpatriotic and unjust to our own country. It is surprising that a man like Sir William Van Horne, who probably knows Canada and its needs, better than any man living should seek outside investments for his money. Nine-tenths of what he has was made in Canada, and it would seem that the square thing to do, would be to leave his money here, and use it, or let others use it, to develop our land. There are others. This Sao Paulo business has several millions of Canadian money invested in it, and by men who would probably like to have it now, where it would be more useful to them. There is Twin City Railroad, and Detroit Street Railway, mostly owned by Canadians.

We presume there is no help for it, but it does seem a pity to see so much of our money invested outside, and so much needed at home for the development of our resources. Then there are the fortunes made here, and being spent in Britain. There are the Redpaths, Stephens and Strathconas, drawing immense revenues from Canada, and it is not as if Canada had borrowed the money from them, as we have from other Britishers, and used it in our business. These people came out here with the proverbial sixpence, and after exploiting the resources of our land, have left us, and now we, the people of Canada, are paying tribute to them to the extent of millions of dollars yearly. Talk about absentee landlordism. Ireland has not got three absent landlords who are drawing out of Ireland as much as these three are drawing out of Canada by a million or two dollars. It is only our wonderful vitility that enables us to stand it. Here is Lord Mount - Stephen entertaining the Prince of Wales, every now and then, and such entertaining is not done for nothing, but the people of Canada are paying for it. Lord Strathcona buys up Glencoe, the scene of the famous massacre, and has castles and mansions all over the land. He also, with his cousin, Mt. Stephen, subscribes a million pounds sterling to the Queen's hospital fund. They get the glory, with pierages thrown in, but we Canadians foot the bills.

The Americans are doing the same thing. There is Andra' Carnegie, Laird o' Skibo, and general gift giver to the British nation, all at the expense of the American people, for we do not suppose that anyone will have the hardihood to claim that Andra' made or produced his many millions himself. That is one reason why we have no shame in advising any and every Canadian town to get a library building from Andra before he shuffles off this mortal coil. He made a good many of his millions out of Canada, and it is only fair that some of them should be returned. Andra' says a man is disgraced who dies rich, but in spite of his liberal givings, he will die disgraced, if he does not hurry up. It is computed that Carnegie is worth 400 millions, most of it in five per cent. bonds (not stock) of the U. S. steel trust, and that he has not given away any of the principal yet.

There are no doubt many British people who spend British money in both Canada and the U. S., but we rather imagine, that what they spend will not be a tithe of what Americans and Canadians spend in the old land. On the other hand, their investments on this continent, will be overwhelming, and the dividends will of course go to swell the exports. We believe that the surplus of exports over imports in the U. S. represents the dividends on British capital, plus expenses of mother and the girls, spent in Britain and the Continent. Probably the saw-off all round, will equalize matters, although we have an idea that there is more of our money going out of the country, than there should be, for these things.

A Not Unfair Comparison.

(From the Brantford Expositor.)

Some Chicago newsboys have been arrested for making a bogus outcry in order to sell their wares, that war had broken out between the United States and Japan. They were simply using an international complication for their own benefit. Is that, after all, very much worse than the conduct of Canadian Conservatives in seeking to make capital out of the ticklish situation existing between Canada and Japan for party advantage?

Man Undressed Slept in Snow

Foolish Act of George Hopworth, of Bolton, Who Had Been Drinking.

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Bolton, Feb. 4.—With the thermometer down to zero and a cutting north wind blowing, George Hepworth on Saturday night lay out on the snow. Hepworth, who is an employee at the Bolton Woollen Mills, which with the boarding houses are situated about three-quarters of a mile from the village, left one of the local hotels at about 12 o'clock on Saturday night. He wandered into a field at the outskirts of the village and took off his overcoat, under coat, hat and mitts, and lay down to sleep.

Towards morning some neighbour about four hundred yards away heard cries of distress, and went to his assistance. He was carried to the nearest house, where Dr. Lepper was immediately summoned. The doctor found Hepworth's feet badly frozen to the ankles, and his hands to the wrists; also his ears.

A remarkable coincidence exists with the family of William Monday, of Owen Sound. Of a family of six members, consisting of father, mother and four children, every one was born on a Tuesday.

Secured Valuable Steel Industry

Campbellford Citizens are Rejoicing Over a Bit of Good Fortune.

Campbellford, Feb. 4.—The Campbellford town Council has entered into an agreement with the Canadian Steel Rolling Mills Company by which the town will give the company five acres of land, exemption from taxes, excepting school and local improvement tax, furnish it with 1,000 horse power at $10 per h.p. per year, and an additional 500 h.p. at $12 per h.p. per year for a period of ten years.

The company is to erect a building and equip it with modern machinery for carrying on its business at a cost of not less than $60,000, and commence the manufacture of sheet and bar steel on or before January 1, 1909; that it will employ continuously in Campbellford not less than 100 hands for 11 months each year.

Saint Andrew's Congregational Tea

Large Turnout Despite Bad Weather---An Enjoyable Program.

The annual congregational tea of St. Andrew's church was held in the schoolroom on Wednesday evening. Despite the fact that the night was the worst of the season, about two hundred and fifty arrived at six o'clock for tea. The tables were spread in the schoolrooms of the Sunday school. They were handsomely decorated and loaded with all the delicacies of the season.

After tea a musical programme was given, which was pronounced to be one of the best ever given from that platform. Those taking part were Miss Adam, Mr. Lamont, Mrs. McLean, Mr. Gray, Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Percy Mulhern. A lady soloist who had been engaged to come from Toronto, did not get any nearer than Stouffville on account of the stalling of the morning train. Rev. Mr. Wallace occupied the chair and by his happy remarks succeeded in making every one feel at home.

Altogether, while regret was felt at the absence of so many on account of the inclement weather, the general verdict was that this was the most enjoyable annual tea which had been held for some years. After thanking very heartily those from other churches who had come in to help, Mr. Wallace closed the evening by pronouncing the benediction.

In the first of the home and home games between the local team and Barrie, the homesters had things all their own way, winning from Johnny Dyment's Colts by 13-2.

LINDSAY'S INVINCIBLES DOWNED BROCKVILLE

Game Was Swift in First Half, But Visitors Tired in Last Half—Small Attendance of Spectators Owing to Late Arrival of Team.

Owing to the snow blockades, the visitors did not reach town till nearly 9.30, after having been on the road since 2 o'clock in the morning. They had to stop both at Bethesda and Port Hope owing to the snowy and very slushy roads, and lost time during the night. They left Port Hope for Lindsay at twenty minutes to 6, and some time in the night, the supper time, were unable to get anything except some sandwiches to munch on their cars. With the game to the last, though, and came onto the ice a few minutes after their arrival in town. They certainly deserve all the praise coming to them for their plucky game and could have possibly put up a better game in the second half if they had had a decent ice trip. Every expected to get back to Brockville on the night of the game, but, though it was a clear night, [illegible]

THE GAME.

The play commenced at about ten minutes to 10, and went off with a rush. The Brockvilleites were soon in hot lead and playing well, and it looked as if they would make things interesting for the Intermediates if they could but play up a little better. For nine minutes there was nothing doing in the line of goals, both team owing from end to end on fruitless rushes.

The ice seemed to have a long-armed jaw that was pretty sure to take the puck from Lindsay, and Lindsay in vain tried to get a chance for a shot at the goal from one side. There was then another long wall-eaters session, and it was surprising that the Lindsay goal, Lindsay would then travel down and have to shoot the puck over all of our men, would break away with the rubber on a rush for Brockville, and Brockville in turn, managed to prevent a score and the whole performance was gone through with variously again and again till in 10 minutes to half-time Keefe got hold of the puck and made his usual grand rush up the ice, bodyling manager two for Lindsay. The play stayed clean and fast to the end of this half, but no more goal were put in by either side, so that the score at half time stood Lindsay 2, Brockville 1.

The second half started out with a rush, but from the beginning Lindsay seemed to have it all over Brockville, who did not play nearly as good a game as they did in the first half. Lindsay, on the other side, skated faster and did all round better work, better "team" and better stick handling. Not scoring several times as soon as the half began, Rundall tending the first, Rowntree four for Lindsay was gotten on a fluke, one of the Brockville boys slid in it in by mistake when stopped one of Keefe's rushes, Rundall's two shots on goal, Rundall landed five and six for Lindsay on quick manoeuvres, each about this time he got a nasty crack on the ear from his man and intended to bring his stick down on Lindsay's ear, he was over it again in a few minutes. Scoddard got, goal in some good work for Lindsay and added a goal to Lindsay's already proportionately high score.

Medicine of Brockville, had the misfortune late to get a bloody nose in his mouth through a bump on the neck. Nine other minors, totally, Frego, the Brockville centre, in which case there was for his crack around after at 15 minutes of time. Stoddard retaliated with two in quick succession, and Sullivan land the nets 10 minutes to time with number ten on a magnificent long shot. At one minute from time Stoddards gain scored, making Lindsay 10 and Brockville 2.

NOTES OF THE GAME

The Brockville team, while not up to it with our boys, certainly have some good men. Frego, the captain, was particularly fast and clever, which took much cooper be said for goal-keeper Kerr, who in second only to Lindsay's Keefe work was the best in the rink, but they lacked a leader to play, they expected to get back to Brockville on the night of the game, but, though it was a clear night, [illegible]

Rundall put up a cracker-jack of a game, and what is better, his help has held throughout every game so far—Keefe, Lindsay, Sun.

Cole put in some good work during the hard check he got from his check.

MUSIC & DRAMA

MAGNIFICENTLY STAGED.

Mr. Ernest Shipman has this season taken out the most curious act of scenery for his great production of "When Knighthood was in Flower," that has had New York City in some years. Five hoists are required for the play, and all have been prepared after more excellent descriptions of the country where the play is laid, during the Tudor period which is so excellent. The properties and settings have been made from the most exacting models obtained in France and English museums, are are said to be magnificent. The five sets represent Windsor Castle, London, one of the most beautiful palaces of the time, the street room of the famous Inn at Stratford-on-Avon, Bristol, the hall room of the Palace des Tournelles, Paris, and the morning room of the Palace of Whitehall, London.

At Academy of Music, Lindsay, on Saturday, Feb. 15th.

COMPANIES SNOW-BOUND.

Friday, March 1, Theatrical companies playing the one-night stands in Ontario are also having a difficult time fulfilling contracts owing to the inability of transportation companies to run on scheduled time. A telegram received at the booking office of A. J. Small yesterday afternoon, stated that a company from Marie Company was tied up at Blackwater Junction, on the way from Griffith to Pedjemsen, "Jerry From Cherry" troupe were stalled at Lorneville on their way from Petersboro to Lindsay, "Uncle Josh Spruddle" was in Perry, ex" were unable to get away from Huntsbury to make Gooch.

On Wednesday night the latter troupe arrived at Berlin, but their baggage didn't, and they acted in Berlin in overcoats and opera hats rather hideous in endeavoring to keep warm the people in the audience, who were Bundled in sealpoms and highly placed with the show.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Curling.

ALL CRACK CURLERS

Hamilton Times: Lindsay and the Toronto Caledonians are not among the strongest clubs numerically in the Ontario Curling Association, but they are with the highest in curling, nobility, and their meeting in the Granite Tankard finals was a most attractive game for lovers of the sport with the stones. It is a quarter of a century since the Caledonians won the trophy, the coveted trophy, while in that interval Lindsay has been five times successful. This is the first occasion when the ultimate honor in this competition has been fought out by the same clubs, and it is interesting to recall that six years ago the Tankard play found them in the same position.

STORE STAFF WON.

A friendly game was played at the rink last night between the office and store staffs of the Dundas & Flavelle Limited, and the office staff were pulled off, which made some of the older elders lookin' on wink the other eye. The store staff are now lead in the early stages of the game that the money handlers could not overcome, and now we hear that a membership of the Curling Club will have a sensational increase as a result of the game last night. Who wants another trimming?

THE SLEAMAN TROPHY.

The curling season in the cold and snow game getting ready will take place at Collingwood this year, instead of Lindsay, as was decided on Wednesday, February 19th. The Collingwood club is arranging for the bonspiel, which promises to be the greatest event of the winter season in this section.

SOUTHAMPTON WINS FINAL

The final for the Governor-General's plaque at Prospect Park Wednesday night was won by Southampton, they defeating Newmarket by five shots.

Hockey

THE GAME AT BROCKVILLE.

Recorder: The Lindsay Midgets, where they derive the name of "Midgets" is hard to understand, have heralded as world-eaters of their class, and the hockey loving public turned out to spend good money on them. Their showing was certainly a keen disappointment. There are a few of the Lindsay players who are very high on wind and skating qualities. As far as having mastered the game, they may have got more to learn.

• • •

Who ever is the wrote the above had better get a hockey player to attend hockey in Brockville, and keep him informed as to when the game is in progress. If he can't do that he should be capable of placing 25 goals in the second half of the game in Brockville, his needs, and the Brockville team, if backed, if he had any knowledge of the game, he would know that the only two goals that the Lindsay team scored, were made by the Brockville team, and that the Lindsay team were intended to deliver, the boards or the goalkeeper, and that the puck turned the goal. As a matter of fact, the boys did not work at all, but took turns in running the goal, and the goal keeper. Of course, they couldn't hit him at the time, and thus big the two goals were scored. Another one what "Gorm" Lindsay possessed if he fulfilling contracts, "Gorm" The Brockvilleites and nice boys all right, but rather slow.

PRO. HOCKEY KILLED

Guelph Mercury: Guelph has no more salaries, Bonds and Stanford losing the only players left in town, and the chances of the present management of securing new players are absolutely nil. Professional hockey in Guelph has been killed. The only solution is for a new management to take control and get practically a new team and do it quick. The players must be got in at once—the public want to see them before they go to another game.

Trenton defeated Belleville last night on the former's ice by 23 to 1 in the first match of the St. Lawrence Cup.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

FATAL FOOTBALL

According to the London Lancet, football in England had on November 1st, some centuries of six deaths and the disablement of sixty other people at the Association game. Some The season was then but a few weeks advanced, and it does not end till the last of March, so that if the ratio of the early weeks is continued the record will be a terrible one. Even when it does, it would seem that such a game might be capable of some changes in the direction of moderation in this civilized age. Football must be strenuous, but it does not need to be murderous. Big fish pipers are flopped to change some of the blame for the shingles of late due to the fact that it is not altogether in the hands of professional players, who, as Lord Rosebery said "are all the time out for the money. If a club cannot uphold its reputation it does so by upon the gounte and ceases to be a money making concern. Then the premium placed upon winning is very great, and the temptation becomes proportionately urgent among the players to resort to methods which do not come within the range of legitimate sport."

SHRUBB RETURNS TO ENGLAND

Alfred Shrubb, the English runner and world's record holder, who has been carrying all before him and has accomplished some remarkable performances in Canada and America, sails for England to-morrow. He will be the guest of a special car of the Southern Counties and National Championships, the events in which, while an amateur, he never knew defeat.

THE ONE-ARMED MAN.

The Montreal Star says: "Mr. B. Doak, of Toronto, the one-armed boxer, was one of the marvels of the meet. He won the 220 easily, and proved to be the best bet entered in the Amateur Skating Association of Canada to remark: "If that man had two arms, nothing could beat him."

The Tri-County game between Woodville and Beaverton resulted in a victory for Woodville by a score of 12 to 10, in ten minutes' overtime. The game was fast and clean.

Peterborough Examiner: Mr. J. B. Hay, late sporting editor of the Toronto World, is in the city making arrangements for establishing a big bowling alley in the old opera house. Mr. Hay will be a big acquisition to the city probably next week.

Eddie Durnan, the Toronto sensation, is anxiously awaiting news from Cobalt as to the Durnan and Webb rowed for the world's championship on Jan. 30. Durnan forwarded a challenge to the winner to row him, either in England or in Canada, for $1,000 a side.

To Double-track The Midland R'y

Well Established Report That Work Will Commence in Early Spring.

The Grand Trunk Railway is going to double-track the Midland Division, according to the Orillia News-Letter. An official of the Company stated to that paper the other day about it. It has been intended to double track from Port Hope to Midland, and work on the two last recently the management decided to proceed with the work this season, so spring open it is intended, he says, to have almost a new right of way from Port Hope to Midland, the old one being eliminated, and much of the present resulted being abandoned. The intention is to have a double line with as little grade as possible and to have the work completed by the fall of some places forty feet of filling will be required to reduce the resulted to a proper grad.

Gentlemen,—We beg to report that we have made an audit of the accounts, and examined the vouchers and securities of the Victoria Loan & Savings Company for the year ending December 31st, 1907, and found everything in order.

We hereby certify that the accompanying statements are a true exhibit of the affairs of the Company as on that date.

D. EAGLESON, C. A.
JOHN KENNEDY, Auditors.

Dated at Lindsay this 16th day of January, 1908.

DISCUSSION UPON THE REPORT

Mr. Flavelle, the President, in moving the adoption of the report, said in part:

It is gratifying to come again with an annual statement, showing satisfactory progress and earnings. After providing for cost of management and all other expenses, we have out of the year's earnings been able to carry a further sum of $3,000 to our Reserve Fund. Our total capital and reserve now amount to $177,814.87.

As hinted at our last annual meeting, your directors have seen their way clear to increase the dividend from five to five and one half per cent, during the past year.

The safety of deposits in the Victoria Loan & Savings Company is assured by the quality of the investments in which the money is invested. We have always tried to place our money on the best of first class investments, no matter how attractive, if they partaken of a speculative character, and the history of Canada demonstrated that where this policy has been followed, the result has always been one of profit and permanency.

Further, it is always difficult for the individual to find profitable and safe investment for his accumulations, and even when this is effected sometimes, irregularity in the payment of principal and interest is the cause of a good deal of inconvenience, and it was in recognition of these difficulties that our Company was organized and placed in the hands of trained men, whose exclusive business it became to look after the same.

Mr. McLaughlin, Vice-President, in seconding the adoption of the report, said:

The past year had been a very trying year to financial institutions in this country, perhaps one of the most trying years they had ever experienced. This company, however, had been passed through the year, not only without loss, but with a very substantial gain.

The recent financial stringency had also demonstrated the fact that mortgage companies, the amount of the safe and stable character of their investments, suffered much less, and were much better able to withstand the strain that were the banks, many of the institutions which were in severe straits. We are, therefore, congratulated in this town in having a concern only of the very strong ranks.

The company is every year still further justifying the reasons for which it was created, viz., the conservation and investment of local capital. The satisfactory nature of the investment is shown by the fact that there is very little of the company's stock ever offered for sale. The security that the shareholders have in the stock is well known and more to investors. There is no security on earth like the earth itself, and the most of the company's funds are invested in first mortgages on farm lands largely in the County of Victoria. People are accustomed to have substantial and attractive propositions made for their money from all parts, are beginning to recognize the value of placing their money with an institution which has been under our own eyes, and which has managed with care, judgment and economy or men whom they know, and in whom they have confidence.

The prospects for our business are now greater than at any previous period of the company's history. Rates of interest are much better than formerly, and the directors confidently hope for very substantial gains in the near future, which will increase the value of the shareholders' stock and interest in the company from year to year.

THE DIRECTORS

The following were elected directors for the current year:

W. Flavelle, President; R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., and W. H. Clarke, M. P., Vice-Presidents, with W. H. Stevens, B.A., H. J. Little, C. Chittick and F. C. Taylor.

Auditors re-elected—D. Eagleson, John Kennedy.

To the Grave on Stretchers.

A remarkable thought rather melancholy aspect was given to a funeral near Allisdale on Sunday last by reason of the cruel sleighing. The roads and a half from their directions, the roads became impassable. The pallbearers carried the coffin out of the hearse, and placed it on a toboggan, wrapped on sleigh robes and drawn it the rest of the way to the grave, where the interment took place, the mourners piling on top of the coffin, the snowshoes and muffled up in their frost coats while the coffin was better lowered into the ground.

"But when temperance orators and workmen, large gangs of men, with their patronage, but they did not. Neither, Even Moody preferred the Robinson hotel to the selfrespect parlors of the temperance hotelier, and the Robinson house degenerated into a tribes boarding house and then into decay."

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

FUNERAL AT LISBON

Large Crowds Pay Last Tribute to Portugal's Royal Dead.

KING CARLOS AND HIS SON

Laid to Rest In the Pantheon—Stately Service and Pageant—King Manuel and Queen Mother Not In the Procession — Perfect Order Was Maintained — Foreign Royalties Were Represented.

Lisbon, Feb. 10.—With the church bells tolling continually, the bodies of the murdered King and crown prince, in two golden chariots shrouded in black velvet and drawn by eight hooded horses, were escorted by a glittering funeral pageant on Saturday, across Lisbon to the Portuguese pantheon, and laid at rest beside their ancestors of the Braganza dynasty.

Seven hours elapsed from the time the foreign princes and the special ambassadors of all the powers gathered at the palace for the ceremony there until three salvos of twenty-one guns and three volleys of musketry, reverberating over the terraced and sun-bathed hills, and answered by the British warships in the harbor, announced that the last rites were over.

Not a single untoward incident marred the last act of Portugal's tragedy. The vague forebodings proved baseless, and there is a general feeling of relief that all passed well, in view of the political turmoil.

The great outpouring of people along the line of the procession was noteworthy. They packed the pavements, crowded the windows and choked the side streets. While evidences of deep and popular sorrow seemed to be absent, many stood with uncovered heads as the funeral cars passed, and nowhere was actual disrespect witnessed.

Troops guarded the streets and were massed in numerous parks and plazas along the route; all shops and cafes were closed, and shutters covered the windows of the Ministerial buildings in the Praca do Commercio, where the King and prince were assassinated a week ago.

It was a grief-stricken palace, hearts were turned in pity, and strong men shaken at the scene in the private apartments where the special embassies were received. Neither Queen Amelie nor the Dowager Queen Maria Pia were to be seen, but King Manuel carried himself as bravely as he might, though deadly pale and on the verge of complete breakdown when the ordeal was finished.

The Duke of Connaught, Prince Eitel Frederick, and Infanta Fornindo, in addition to verbal condolences, presented letters from their sovereigns to the King, who was greatly touched at these messages. Tears that were almost constantly in his eyes several times overflowed.

When the members of the court and the special representatives of foreign countries entered the chapel for the last brief service, the King remained behind. Neither he nor the two Queens followed the cortege to the cathedral.

The violent death of his father, it is explained, absolved King Manuel from conforming to the tradition of walking behind the dead to the grave. Nevertheless, his absence and the absence of Queen Amelie and the Dowager Queen has causd universal comment, being generally attributed to other reasons.

Apart from the hearses themselves, which were covered with heavy draperies and trapping of black velvet, bordered with fringes of gold, the feature of the cortege that attracted the most attention was the gilded state coaches of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, which were reserved for the use of the foreign missions and the highest dignitaries of Portugal.

As the procession advanced through the guarded streets the crowds became denser. All stores and business establishments along the route were closed and tightly shuttered.

The funeral cortege moved more slowly than had been expected, and it was the middle of the afternoon before it reached the church.

The Church of San Vicente is an historic edifice, built in the reign of Philip II., where, in an adjoining wing or royal pantheon, are entombed members of the royal family. It is situated in the old quarter of the town, near an ancient monastery, now the palace of the Primate of Lisbon.

Situated on a height, it dominates all sections of the capital. A group of clergy, headed by the patriarch of Lisbon, awaited the cortege at the steps leading to the church. The coffins were carried from the hearses, and, enveloped in the national flag, were placed on biers in front of the church. Troops formed about them in open square, and now occurred, what seems to many, the most touching incident of the day.

From one side slowly marched a company of men, wearing long black robes and carrying lighted torches. They were members of the ancient sacred fraternity of the Holy House of Pity, organized in the thirteenth century, to which Portuguese tradition has accorded the privilege of uttering the first absolution over dead sovereigns, as well as later of claiming the calafaque and burial pall, which they may sell for the benefit of their charities. Their service is symbolized by disregard for all worldly vanities and by humility.

The chaplain of the order intoned the accustomed prayers while the troops stood at attention and in the distance could be heard the minute guns of the land batteries, to which the British and Spanish cruisers replied gun for gun. This brief but imposing ceremony finished, the primate, with the words, "Requiescat in peace," sprinkled the coffins with holy water, and they were borne by the high court dignitaries into the church and laid side by side on a catafalque in front of the altar.

Meanwhile, the master of ceremonies conducted the special missions, and the diplomats to special tribunes built for their use. The interior of the edifice was draped from ceiling to floor with rich hangings of purple velvet, embroidered in gold. Vari-colored jewels encrusting the ebony cross, gleamed in the subdued light of numberless candles, which also was reflected from the jeweled orders covering the breasts of most of the mourners, who filled the cathedral.

The second absolution having been pronounced by the patriarch, a requiem mass was celebrated. The ceremony in the church lasted half an hour, and the coffins remained for some time for public view and were then conveyed to the mortuary chapel adjoining the church, where another mass was said for the repose of the souls of the dead.

The cortege, on account of the ancient coaches, moved at a snail's pace, the three mile journey consuming two hours.

The religious service at the church was very stately. The interior was draped and literally buried in floral tributes. The bodies will lie in state for three days, and then will be consigned to the tombs, in the pantheon.

King Edward at St. Paul's.

London, Feb. 10.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Victoria and many Government officials attended the memorial services yesterday at St. Paul's for King Carlos of Portugal and the crown prince. Immense crowds filled the streets along which the King and Queen drove, and about the cathedral and within were more than three thousand persons, including the members of the Cabinet, members of Parliament and the diplomatic corps.

When King Edward and Queen Alexandra entered the cathedral the band of the Oxfordshire Light Infantry, of which King Carlos was honorary colonel, played Chopin's funeral march, and during the service it played the dead march in Saul.

Archdeacon Sinclair read the lesson, and the Archbishop of Canterbury pronounced the benediction.

The members of the royal party drove to and from the cathedral in closed carriages, and were not attended by an escort.

WORK IN CANADA.

Labor Member Says Conditions Are Worse Than In England.

London, Feb. 10.—(C. A. P.)—John Hodge, Labor M.P., told the metal trades workers of Sheffield that lack of employment was more acute in Canada than in Britain, and declared that at the Toronto Council Employment Bureau there registered 400 Britishers the first day of a total of 487

The shipping conference entered into an agreement for three years, whereby saloon rates are uniform. Canadian lines are permitted the option of reducing rates in winter on first and second cabins, generally $5 higher. Third class rates remain as before.

Black Hand Leader Shot.

New York, Feb. 10.—Coly Calcagno, an Italian barber who was shot to death in East 106th street last Monday, may have been the leader of the Black Hand organization in the United States. Detective Wm. H. Atkinson of Baltimore, after seeing the body on Saturday, said he was convinced the dead man was the chief of the Black Hand in this country.

Calcagno was not his real name, Atkinson said. He is convinced, however, he said, that the body is that of the man who, when known as the leader of the Black Hand organization, dynamited a house in Baltimore several years ago, and at that time was being sought on a charge of having shot and killed a prominent man in Pittsburg.

The local Italian detective bureau will make an effort to verify the identification. Calcagno was about 27 years of age.

Factory Fire at Kingsville.

Kingsville, Feb. 10.—Early Sunday morning fire broke out in the tobacco factory of George Jasperson. As the fire made considerable headway before being noticed, the three buildings were completely destroyed, nothing being saved. Fortunately there being no wind, the adjoining large factory of Darius Wigle was saved. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Accident to Wabash Flyer Near Delhi—Broken Rail Was the Cause—Train Was Running at Good Speed—Several Receive Bad Injuries—Track Plowed Up For 20 Yards—Another Rail Twisted.

Delhi, Feb. 10.—Wabash flyer No. 1 is lying in the ditch two miles east of this town as a result of a broken rail. The Wabash flyer consisted of an engine and five coaches. She was running westbound and left Simcoe about 9.30 yesterday morning.

All went well until about two miles east of Delhi when the entire train jumped the rails and tore along the ties for a distance of a hundred yards, when the two rear coaches broke loose and tumbled down a fifteen-foot embankment. These two coaches are badly wrecked. They are lying on their sides, and the trucks in some places are badly smashed and torn completely off.

In these two cars there were only six passengers and two porters. One old lady was said to be badly injured, and one man had his head badly cut. Apart from this none of the occupants were severely injured, beyond a bad shaking up.

It is little short of a miracle that all the occupants were not killed, as the train was traveling at the rate of a mile a minute, and these two rear coaches were hurled a considerable distance. The other three coaches remained right side up.

Word was sent to Delhi, and a wrecking train from St. Thomas was sent to the scene of the disaster. No. 6 Wabash, going east, came along shortly after and took the passengers from the ill fated train. Fortunately there was a doctor on No. 6, who looked after the injured passengers on the flyer.

One rail is torn up for a distance of about twenty feet. This rail is broken into over a dozen pieces. The track in another place is twisted, and will have to be taken up and replaced before traffic can be resumed.

THAW IN NEW ROLE.

Shoveled Snow In Order to Forget His Troubles.

New York, Feb. 10.—Harry K. Thaw did real work Saturday, when, armed with a large shovel, he went at the heaps of snow on the walks about the Matteawan Asylum, and for two hours, with a score of other inmates, helped to clear the pathways.

Tiring of the piano and the books which have meant so much to him during his confinement, Thaw asked permission of Dr. Robert E. Lamb, the medical superintendent of Matteawan, to be allowed to do some work that would keep his mind away from his troubles.

"How would you like to try your hand at snow shoveling?" asked the physician.

"That would suit me all right," replied Thaw, and forthwith he was provided with a shovel and went to work with a vim.

Stead Will Cut Whiskers.

London, Feb. 01.—When it was noticed that Oliver Cromwell was to be excluded from the list of characters to figure in London's historical pageant, W. T. Stead protested vigorously to the committee in charge that this would be to boycott "The Greatest Man in English History."

The committee replied that it would include Cromwell if Mr. Stead would appear in the part. Stead gladly and proudly consented, although it will involve the sacrifice of an ample beard, which never yet has known the razor. It was never even trimmed till Stead was past forty. But Stead declares he would have shaved his head, if necessary.

New Armor Plate.

Rome, Feb. 10.—Naval Engineer Baratta has patented a new armor plate. A composition is laid about a foot thick over a single sheet of steel.

The armor thus made is light, and cheap, and it is claimed that it has remained unperforated by the projectile from the heavy naval gun the Italian admiralty is now experimenting with.

Russian Paintings Loaned For Exhibition Seized by U. S. Customs.

New York, Feb. 10.—The official Russian collection of paintings that was brought to this country for exhibition at the St. Louis Exposition has been seized by the custom authorities, and to-day the collector of the port issued an order for the sale of the collection.

Permission of the Emperor of Russia was secured to allow the paintings to be sent out of Russia, it was stated Saturday, and a bond of $50,000 was given to the United States treasury department as a guarantee that the collection would be returned to Russia within a certain period after the exposition. Collector of the Port Fowler, decline to give any information concerning the seizure. It is understood that the allowance of time within which the collection was to be returned, having expired, and no duty having been paid, the Government found it necessary to take possession of the paintings.

The collection is said to include some of the best examples of Russian art, and that among the paintings is one owned by the Emperor, taken from the palace in St. Petersburg and loaned to the collection to make it complete.

The order for the sale will not, it is believed, be actually carried into effect until there has been further correspondence concerning the collection between the Russian authorities at St. Petersburg and the Treasury Department. The paintings are packed in forty-six cases, and no statement concerning their value has been obtained.

AUSTRIAN RAILWAY PROJECT.

Sublime Porte Not Very Ready to Accede to Terms.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—Advices received here from Constantinople indicate that the Sublime Porte is backward in acceding to Austria's project of constructing a railway connecting the Austrian line through Bosnia, with the Turkish line to Salonica through the district of Novipazar which is opposed by Russia.

It is surmised here that the project, on this account, will be deferred for some time, as the Turkish territory has been depleted of resources.

The British proposal to create a flying column of gendarmerie to be commanded by Europeans and charged with the task of stamping out marauding bands in Macedonia, mentioned in King Edward's throne speech, has not met with favor from Russia on the ground that previous undertakings of a similar sort in Egypt and Crete have not proved effecacious, and have entailed a vast amount of trouble for the native population.

Douma Cools Down.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—Prof. Paul Milukoff's recent address in New York continues to monopolize attention. Copies of the address and also the New York papers of Jan. 15 are in great demand. A perusal of the original text, however, has considerably modified the prevalent excitement, and several of the Octoberists now declare that the speech is practically without reproach and gives no opportunity for the further hounding of Prof. Milukoff.

Prince Mestchersky, the editor of The Grashganin, in an article in that paper, rebukes the Douma in scathing terms for its action with reference to M. Milukoff, saying:

"The schoolboyish demonstration on Friday is another proof of the lack of brains and the lack of sense in the third Douma, which truly does not possess a single sound Conservative or Octoberist Leader."

One of the principal grievances against M. Milukoff consists in a widespread idea that the brilliant reception which he met with in Washington might serve to counteract the movement in favor of a Russo-American alliance, which is supposed to have begun at the time of Secretary Taft's visit to St. Petersburg. M. Milukoff's appeal to the American people for sympathy for his cause also has met with bad temper here.

Threaten the Czar.

Paris, Feb. 10.—A morning journal declares that recent rumors of the assassination of the Emperor of Russia were the outgrowth of the actual finding by the Empress upon her son's bed of a letter announcing that the Emperor and infant were condemned to death, and of the discovery in the Imperial palace of 17 bombs, connected by electric wires, concealed in different parts of the building.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

OHIO TOWN FLOODED.

Ice Diverted Stream and Three Young People Drown.

Dillonvale, Ohio, Feb. 7.—Heavy rain caused the ice in Short Creek to gorge early yesterday, and at the Dillonvale Athletic Park a bank of ice 30 feet high formed. This changed the course of the stream and water and ice covered the lower portion of the town to a depth of 15 feet.

Fifty families escaped from their homes by horses and boats, and it was but a few minutes until the first floors were submerged. Two Polish boys and one girl were drowned.

Tangier, Feb. 7.—Caid Sir Harry MacLean, who has been in the hands of the Bandit Raisuli for the past seven months, is within a few hours ride of Tangier and was expected to be released yesterday.

The British Government has succeeded in bringing their negotiations with Raisuli to a close, and in return for the release of Caid MacLean will pay $100,000 to Raisuli and guarantee him protection and immunity.

MORE THAN SATISFIED.

Tariff Reform League Holds Its Annual Love Feast.

London, Feb. 8.—The Tariff Reform League held its annual "love feast" here yesterday, and, judging from the enthusiasm of the fifteen hundred delegates in attendance, the protectionists are more than satisfied with the progress of the movement which Joseph Chamberlain himself declared in a message he sent to the meeting "has surpassed my most sanguine expectations."

Viscount Ridley, president of the League, made an address in which he referred to the wide support given the movement by the educated classes, and pointed out that the 2,186 vice-presidents of the League included sixty-five members of the new House of Commons, 170 members of the House of Lords, and 204 parliamentary candidates and former members of Parliament.

The principal resolution embodying the tariff reformers' "confession of fiscal faith," which was declared to be the official policy of the Unionist party, was carried by acclamation.

Worked 120 Lays on Pumps.

San Francisco, Feb. 8.—The long overdue schooner William Nottingham, on which 50 per cent. of the re-insurance was quoted, arrived here yesterday, 340 days from New York on her way to Seattle via Melbourne.

During nearly the entire trip she encountered rough weather and was obliged to remain at Melbourne from Aug. 29 to Oct. 8 to repair damages. After leaving that port she sprang a leak, and for 120 days the men were forced to work at the pumps to keep afloat. The officers and crew were almost prostrated when this port was reached yesterday.

Bold Highwaymen Easily Captured.

Arlington, Mass., Feb. 8.—Two of the three highwaymen who terrorized the citizens in the towns of Woburn, Lexington and vicinity Thursday night, shot two police officers, the driver of a police wagon and a small boy and were responsible for the calling out of a local squad of militia in Woburn by Capt. Blodgett of that town, were captured on an electric car near the centre of this town yesterday. They are mere youths.

The arrest was made by Officer Hooley, unassisted. He caught the highwaymen unawares and had them so well covered that no resistance was offered.

Fatal New York Fire.

New York, Feb. 8.—One woman is dead and several persons are in the hospital suffering from injuries as the result of a fire which destroyed the five-storey brick apartment building at the northwest corner of Columbus avenue and Seventieth street yesterday. Margaret Landon, 22 years of age, had been standing on the fire escape, when she slipped on the icy grating and fell to the pavement. She died a few moments later. The fire was only three blocks from fire headquarters.

Premier Bond's Denial.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 8.—Replying to a series of evidently inspired questions, Premier Bond stated in the Assembly Thursday night that no understanding or compact existed between the Governments of Newfoundland and Canada in regard to the fishery dispute being referred to The Hague tribunal, and that it was not his intention to proceed to Ottawa concerning this or any other question.

King Carlos Died Poor.

QUIET IS RESTORED

Confidence in New Portuguese Cabinet Steadily Growing.

DEPUTIES ARE RELEASED

Repressive Measures Suspended—Pessimists Are Still Doubtful—Resent Domination of Queen Amelie Over the Young King—Riot In Oporto—Red Flag Hoisted on the City Hall Tower.

Lisbon, Feb. 7.—A very good impression has been created among the people by the decrees issued by the new Government nullifying the dictatorial repressive measures that still were in force from the Franco regime, and the confidence of the press and the public in the new Ministry is growing. This attitude of the Government was well exemplified in the release from prison yesterday of three deputies, all prominent republicans, who were incarcerated the latter part of January, charged with plotting against the State.

In spite of the present tranquility in the capital and throughout the country and the general optimism as to the immediate future still there are pessimists who believe that revolutionary activity is more widely spread than appears on the surface, and that the situation for the throne is not improved by the combination of a young and inexperienced king under the domination of an adored mother with reactionar, clerical tendencies, a make-shift ministry and a premier who is a soldier rather than a statesman. The fact that Franco has chosen a party leader to continue his policy adds to their foreboding.

It is reported in court circles that Queen Amelie is considering going on a visit to Spain or England as soon as the improvement in the home situation warrants her absence. The departure of the Queen, it is stated, would give to the beginning of King Manuel's reign a character of much desired neutrality. Queen Amelie, who is a devout Catholic, has been criticized by the Anti-Clerical party on the ground that her many works of charity were too closely restricted to Catholic ends.

A Republican newspaper of Lisbon says that Franco has transferred his entire fortune to French or Swiss banks, and that his ultimate destination is Switzerland, where he purposes to live with his family.

It is learned that King Carlos held among other insurance policies on his life, one with the New York Life Insurance Co. for $25,000, one with Urbaine Company of Paris for $30,000, and one in a South American Company for $50,000.

Madrid, Feb. 7.—A special despatch received here from Lisbon states that revolutionaries in Oporto made a sudden and determined attack upon the city hall. They took the municipal guard by surprise and succeeded in forcing an entry. They then hoisted the red flag of revolt on the big tower. Their triumph, however, was short lived, as reinforcements of police soon arrived and drove out the revolutionaries and tore down their banners. Many were wounded on both sides.

Lost Two Days In Snow.

Montreal, Feb. 8.—Rodolphe Robidoux, a game warden of St. Jovite, and his wife, have been brought to this city in a badly frozen condition. They got lost in a storm on Tuesday while going to a neighbor's, and were buried in the snow until Thursday when found. Mrs. Robidoux is so badly frozen that she will likely die, but her husband, who is 76 years old, may survive.

EMPIRE MUST BE SECURE.

Sir Edward Grey on the Risk of an Invasion.

London, Feb. 8.—In connection with the recent reports of a serious difference among the Government's supporters in Parliament on the question of reducing naval expenditures, much importance is attached to a strong speech which Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made in the House of Commons last night, in reply to a suggestion from the Unionist side that it was to Great Britain's interest, as the greatest sea carrier in the world, that private property at sea should be immune from capture and that it was England's refusal to assent to the principle of immunity which hindered the disarmament proposal at the Hague Conference.

Sir Edward said that the Government could not consistently and with safety to the country take the risk proposed.

"The British Empire," he said, "is a tremendous obligation, but it might if we were weak, become a tremendous temptation. At the present time we have the good will of the world, but supposing the policy of immunity had been adopted and supposing that our navy should lose command of the sea; it would mean not only defeat but conquest.

In solemn tones, Sir Edward concluded his speech by pointing out the possibility of invasion, urging the nation to beware of acting in such a manner as to increase the risks of war and prolonging it indefinitely at a minimum risk to other powers.

ICE SHOVE CAUSES FLOOD.

Mills Obliged to Close, and Cornwall Is In Darkness.

Cornwall, Feb. 8.—The water in the St. Lawrence has been stationery for the past two days, but at a few minutes before noon yesterday the ice gave away, and there was a shove, which smashed the upper gate at lock No. 17.

The dry dock was flooded, and the water rushed in a torrent. The bridge near the Canada mill was soon under water and the mill had to close down. At the Stormont mill the water went up about 9 feet in less than an hour. The employes had left for dinner before the shove occurred, and when they returned they found the mill shut down. The water was four feet deep on the floor of the finishing room and half way up the doors of the boilers. The water backed up in the Government sewer and the gas house was flooded, shutting off the town's supply. Several cellars in the front of the town were flooded and considerable damage was done.

The bay above the narrow passage in the river at the east end of the town is a solid field of ice, the enormous blocks being piled so high that they can be seen from the town above the canal banks. The water in the river seems to be almost as high as in the reach of the canal opposite the town, but there is no sign of it receding at present.

The street cars are tied up again, their power being cut off by the flood.

TURKEY IS "CHEEKY."

Takes Advantage of Russia Because She Is Crippled.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—The reports of a Turkish mobilization in Armenia and threatened movements of troops on the Russian-Persian frontier, are admitted by the general staff. It is not known yet whether this action on the part of Turkey is directed against Russia, and measures so far taken by this country are confined to certain precautionary dispositions of units within the Caucasus.

Foreign diplomats here believe that Russia and Turkey are engaged in a game which neither is desirous of carrying to an extreme, although Turkey might be willing to go far, relying upon the supposed weakness of Russia, because of her quarrel with Austria over the Macedonian question. The prestige of M. Iswolsky, the Foreign Minister, has suffered severely on account of the defensive attitude that Russia has been compelled to assume in this matter, Austria's defection over Macedonia railroad construction and the failure to establish stable order in Persia, but the anticipated retirement of the Minister is attributed here more to the interior situation than to international influences.

France Calls Them Madmen.

Madrid, Feb. 8.—Senhor Franco does not believe that the murders of the King and crown prince resulted from an elaborate political plot; they were the acts of madmen instigated by a money bribe. The best proof of this is found in the fact that after the assassinations when the monarchy was passing through its critical hours, and the nation was without a Government, no serious attempt was made to proclaim a republic.

The ex-Premier will leave his son at a German university, and will probably reside in Switzerland.

Explosions Kill Two.

Kenora, Feb. 8.—Two distressing dynamite accidents occurred at Campbell's Camp at Kalmar. The foreman, James McHale, while attempting to explode a hole previously loaded, was killed. A second explosion caused the death of William Campbell of Winnipeg, and seriously injured Matin Affick, an American, and Alphonse Schork, a Swede. The men mistook their instructions, going to the wrong hole.

Factory Fire at Three Rivers.

Three Rivers, Que., Feb. 8.—The National Tool & Axe Works, owned and operated by T. G. Rawthorne, was been totally destroyed by fire at 7 o'clock last evening. The origin of the fire so far is unknown. Loss $5,000.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

mile off now, and the first thing he saw was a frock fluttering on the poop.

"Now I have it!" he muttered. "The sun's on the letters; one, two, three—yes, there are eight! R-o"—

He lowered the glass and held out his hand.

"I congratulate you from my heart. The Rosamund it is, and I think that with the glass you may find the young lady herself upon the poop."

It was Tom who led the cheers a moment later.

"I sha'n't be there to meet them," moaned Daintree as they were running back. "Ninety-nine days—ninety-nine days!"

"They're not doing four knots; they're shortening sail; you'll see the Cove as soon as they do. Even if you don't, they won't land at once."

"Suppose they did!"

"...ey won't; we'll put to in five minutes."

Tom was the cheery one, the one with his wits about him, but then it was nothing to Tom. He would not go in with the curricle, though Daintree was as bent as a flurried man could be upon having the livery and the cockade in waiting on the quay. Tom, however, pointed out that the two ladies, their maid and the driver were all the curricle could possibly hold; also that there was more to do at the bungalow than the other realized, but he promised to receive them in all his buttons, and in less than ten minutes the dazed man started both horses at a gallop down the Point Piper road.

He led the way, with Daintree thundering close behind.

Tom heard him rattle out of earshot among the trees without audible mishap. He then ran back to the house, where Mrs. Fawcett was already beside herself in the kitchen, but Peggy had paused on the veranda with an anxious face.

"'Tis you should be wid 'm, Tom," said she reproachfully.

"There wasn't room, Peggy."

"Room enough the one way. I take shame o' ye for lettin' the masther go alone in his haste."

"Why?"

"'Tis thrown out an' kilt he may be on the way to meet his lady!"

"God forbid!" cried Tom, and the words came back to him next day.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Tom had done well to stay behind. There was so much to make ready that none of the others knew where to begin until he showed them. At his best in most emergencies, he was resolved to strain every nerve in this one and so perhaps show some little gratitude at last. The opportunity was unique. Tom seized it with characteristic ardor.

He began by putting Mrs. Fawcett on her mettle, invented the dinner for her and got old Fawcett out of his wife's way by sending him to a neighboring nursery for the asparagus and the green peas. Peggy he set to work to make the beds, while he himself gathered flowers for the table, flowers for the ladies' rooms, flowers for the veranda upon which the bride must tread. The new flag, bought for this day, had never been unpacked. It was soon flying bravely from the flagstaff on the lawn. And by 5 o'clock Tom had his table exquisitely laid, but it was nearly 7 before the curricle lamps shone through the open gate and the horses swept up to the veranda, where Tom stood in ardent readiness.

He had spent the interim in arraying himself most carefully in all his menial finery, in shaving for the second time that day, in laying out his master's evening clothes, in gathering the books which had been left upon the shore, in reading and re-reading the poem that expressed his case, in talking to Peggy and in thinking of Claire.

The whole situation put him sadly in mind of Claire, but he was not thinking of her as the horses trotted up. He had forgotten all about her when he heard her voice. Next moment the curricle bridged the stream of lamplight issuing from the hall. And Tom stood among the roses he had strewn, silhouetted against the doorway, without moving hand or foot or once lifting his unseen gaze from Claire Harding's face.

What followed seemed to be happening to another man. Daintree cried to him, and he helped the ladies to get down. He touched her hand. Their eyes never met. Daintree jumped down and led Claire on his arm through the roses. Fawcett came up, the curricle was gone, and Tom stood alone in the drive, watching the ladies go upstairs within, followed by their maid and Daintree, and after that he stood watching the staircase until Daintree ran down it and had him by both hands.

"You dear, good fellow, you have thought of everything!" he cried. "You couldn't have done more if you'd been the happy man yourself, and I shall never forget it—especially the flowers."

"Nor I," cried Tom bitterly.

"Why, what's the matter?"

"You might have told me who it was, sir. I recognized Miss Harding at once. Her family used to come to our village for the shooting, and her father was my father's enemy. It's hard for me to meet her like this after that. I'd have run away if I'd known."

"Precisely why I didn't tell you," rejoined Daintree triumphantly. "Come, come, my good fellow, I know all about the relations between the two families, and you mustn't flatter yourself that Miss Harding will remember you. You've altered considerably, for one thing, and I dropped your surname on purpose to spare you any such recognition. Miss Harding won't know you from Adam."

"I would rather not wait upon her all the same."

Daintree showed his teeth.

"Not wait upon the lady who is to be my wife and your mistress? You dare to say that to my face? Let me find you at your post when I come downstairs—or take care!"

And he stood a moment at the door, with the most significant and malignant expression, after which he went upstairs to dress, leaving Tom to regret for the first time his impulsive confession of complicity in the Castle Sullivan outrage and to reflect upon the many sides of the man whom Claire Harding had come out from England to marry. Memories lashed him by the score. He had seen how the tyrant could treat his servants and his dog. He had pitied the bride in the abstract, and was it to be Claire Harding, and was he to stand there and see them married?

His head was in a whirl of conflicting emotions and anxieties. Still stunned by the mere shock of seeing her whom he had never thought to see again in that outlandish place and all but another man's bride, he was faced by an immediate dilemma which called for instantaneous decision. If Claire were to recognize him at dinner, then she was pretty certain to betray a secret which Daintree, on the other hand, was almost as certain to guess if his servant absented himself after what had just passed. Well, Claire knew best why she had made a secret where none was necessary. But if more trouble was to come of it, let him be there to take her part. Let him be there forever to watch over her in those passionate hands! And Tom found himself mechanically lighting the candles on the dinner table and lowering the shades to lessen the chance of his face being seen.

While he was so engaged the inner door opened, and Tom and Claire stood face to face.

Her eyes were great with horror. She shut the door behind her and then stood close against it, shrinking from him to whom she once had clung.

"I can't bear it!" she gasped. "I must either speak to you or go mad! Yes, yes, I know we may be caught! I can't help that! Tell me quickly, did you know who I was before I came?"

"No, indeed!"

"Is it by accident that you are his servant?"

"No; he sought me out. So you knew me again, Claire?"

"What did you say? Never call me that again. Of course I knew you! How could I forget you after all you have made me suffer? If I only could!"

The cruelty of this speech struck him dumb. He drew himself up and grimly challenged her with his eye. Her sufferings, indeed! What had she suffered? She was on the point of marrying a rich man. No doubt it was distressing to her to encounter him again at that juncture. His lip curled at such distress.

She read his thoughts to the letter. "You think I have not suffered!" she cried in a low voice. "You little know, but this is the last straw—the punishment I so richly deserve! Mr. Daintree saved your life. You knew that, of course? But I don't think you know why he did it. It was because I asked him. It was for my sake!"

"You?" he said hoarsely. "I see now—I see! I might have guessed it long ago!"

"He wanted to do something for me," she continued in a choking voice. "I let him do that. I deceived him to save your life. I am here because I deceived him!"

He thought he had seen everything. He had not, but he was beginning to now. Good heavens! Why was his heart beating so fast? It ought to bleed instead. Here was the girl he loved, and upstairs was the man he had reason to love better still, and they were going to marry like that. He tried to forget, to think only of what Claire had done for him.

"God bless you!" he murmured. "He has saved my life twice over and much more than my life, and I owe it all to one brave girl who believed in me and made him believe in me when all the world"—

"Stop!" she cried. "I never believed in you at all."

"What?"

"I was sorry for you."

"You believed me guilty, even when you tried to save my life?"

"Of manslaughter—yes!"

"Let us split no hairs! You think—I did it—still?"

"I can think nothing else."

In the dead silence following these words the servant heard his master stamping into evening dress overhead; he felt his own crested buttons glittering in the candlelight that shone upon the table he had set so beautifully for the bride, and as she tossed back the ringlets that he knew so well and repeated with unflinching eyes what she had told him in so many candid words all that had distracted him up to this moment ceased to do so any more. Her coming was nothing to him now. Her errand was nothing; she was welcome to marry the next day. But believe in his innocence she must and should. Injustice from her was the last bitterness, the crowning wrong, the one intolerable misery which absorbed all that had gone before.

Stole From Friend In Jail.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.— A unique case has arisen here wherein a prisoner in jail accuses a friend at liberty of theft committed during the time the plaintiff was in jail. Ada Williams, serving a six months sentence in default of $50, was visited by a friend. The prisoner told the visitor where $45 was concealed in her home, and told the visitor to get it and with $11 extra which she gave her, to pay the fine. The visitor got the $45 in the place designated, but did not return for a week, and upon doing so told the prisoner that she might stay in jail as the visitor had no intention of paying the money for her release.

Baboons In a School.

Ocean Park, Cal., Feb. 8.—Mark Howlett, 13 years old, and a pupil in the Ocean Park school, was bitten in the face, back of the neck and legs on Thursday by a baboon which had escaped from its cage at the home of George R. McClelland and broke into the lunch-room of the school, causing panic and confusion.

Another baboon which escaped at the same time raced around the school yards and chased the frightened children, who took refuge in the schoolhouse and other buildings. Young Howlett's wounds are regarded as serious.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto News says that the general impression is that the Whitney redistribution bill will give at least ten more members to the Legislature. Of these, four will be given to Toronto, and four to Northern Ontario. Four, or possibly five, new constituencies are likely to be created throughout the older portion of the province, but at least two of the smaller existing constituencies will probably be merged into others, Morck and Brockville being wiped out.

It was very inconsiderate of the Ottawa Liberals to carry the timber limit war into the Tory Africa. Did they not know that the Tories did not wish to go beyond 1896 in discussing timber deals? Of course, there was much between 1878 and 1896 that must not be uncovered, and the scandal-hunting crew is probably shocked by the Liberal incursion into the records of Tory distribution gratis, or at a few cents a square mile, of those days. Why can't the Grits refrain from stirring up that noisome cesspool?

Hamilton Times: Capt. Blake, in charge of the Toronto office of the Church Army, has issued a circular with reference to the emigration work of the society, in which he says that the men and families sent out by it were undoubtedly of the right kind—willing and able to work and to adapt themselves to Canadian ways. Of the number brought out only a dozen of them remain unemployed, and he expects to place these soon. The Church Army is entitled to this notice at a time when so much is said about Englishmen being unsuitable for this country and unable to find employment.

Montreal Herald: The experience of Winnipeg in regard to Sabbath observance seems to suggest that on subjects the most excellent law is liable to become a nuisance unless it is administered with some regard to the opinion of the community. The summoning of newspaper men to answer to the charge of editing the sermons preached by the Sabbath observance ministers puts the last touch of irony on the situation. It must not be forgotten, however, that there is always the possibility that the police officers were as extreme in their toleration before the upheaval as they have been in their intolerance since it. Sabbath legislation need not be absolutely disregarded because it is possible by means of it to annoy harmless newspaper men.

The Montreal Star (Con.) has this comment on the line of criticism of the Government by the "Screeching Sister" in Toronto;

"The Toronto Mail and Empire, which has more than once referred to the critics and opponents of Hon. George E. Foster, as 'a lot of grafters,' has a new line of attack upon the Liberal contingent at Ottawa. 'The state of affairs in Canada under Laurier,' says this journal, 'is somewhat similar to that experienced in Britain when the Norman conquerors overwhelmed that country. The followers of the victors were permitted to help themselves to all the real estate they could seize and thus to form the fortunes of their families. The only difference between the case of Britain and that of Canada is that whereas the friends of the Conqueror held the land that was granted them, the followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier sell out and take the cash instead.' One could well afford to laugh at this style of argument were it not for the venomous appeal to certain prejudices that lurks between the lines.

Cambridge-st. Meth. S. S. Observed 68th Anniversary

Yesterday's anniversary services at the Cambridge-st. Methodist church turned out an unqualified success. The attendance, morning, afternoon and evening, was extremely, the lower part of the church as well as the gallery being filled.

In the morning the children of the Sunday school gathered in the schoolroom shortly after half-past 10, and at 11 o'clock formed into line and marched upstairs, singing, to their allotted places in the two middle rows of seats. The congregation took the seats outside of these and also those in the gallery. The singing of the children was a feature of the service, as also was the fine, large Sunday school orchestra of about a dozen pieces.

MORNING ADDRESSES

Rev. Dr Shorey, now of Cobourg, but formerly a pastor here, took charge of the service. He complimented the congregation on its fine school, which was still growing better. He asked those present to consider what would be the condition of things in this country if we had no churches nor Sunday schools. There is a growing conviction, said he, that christianity has in it the best elements for the civilization of mankind, therefore we have our ever-widening church influences, our missions and our Sunday schools. From this point he took up the subject of his address, as given on the program, "What I would if I were boy—were young again," and gave the children some excellent and helpful advice in their relation to God and what to do to get the best out of life. The little ones remained spell-bound throughout the morning and seemed to enjoy the service. Quite a number were present from the other churches of the town.

The afternoon session of the school met as usual at half-past 2. At a few minutes to 3 all marched upstairs to the body of the church. The seats not occupied by the scholars were filled with friends and relatives.

MR. BOXALL SURPRISED

Mr. Jas. Boxall, superintendent of the Sunday school, acted as chairman. He opened with an interesting address, saying how much pleasure it gave him that the school had grown so large, that the friends of the children had turned out so well, and that they were able to have with them two such men as Dr. Shorey and Controller Hockin.

Just as Mr. Boxall had made an announcement, Associate Superintendent W. Staples came forward and announced that since yesterday was the Superintendent's birthday, the school the officers, teachers and in fact everyone connected with the school, wished him many happy returns of the day. A little girl then came forward with a large bouquet of flowers.

Mr. Boxall, taken entirely by surprise, was not completely "floored," however, and thanked everyone for their kindness in a few neat words.

REV. DR. SHOREY

Miss E. Flavelle and Mr. H. Brimnell then rendered a charming duet, at the close of which Dr. Shorey spoke to the school on "The Use and Abuse of Ideals." He said in substance, that our ideals always keep ahead of us, for as we achieve one thing, if we are of any consequence, we must look forward to achieving greater things. Yet, withal, we must not set our ideal too high, for we will then be continually mortified by a sense of failure to measure up to our standards. We must aim high, however, to make progress at all. In closing he said a few words to the parents, saying that they cannot live life for their children and save them from all mistakes, for it only by mistakes that they can learn. Parents should not be disappointed if children do not see by the same lights as they do and do not live up to their ideals. Each human soul has its own standards, but let that standard be raised through life higher and higher till the better things are reached.

CONTROLLER HOCKIN

Controller Hockin, of Toronto, was then introduced to the school, and gave a very interesting talk on Samuel, at the conclusion of which he drew some well taken lessons. Mr. Hockin complimented the school on its size and good condition. He said he was personally acquainted with Mr. Boxall and had had Dr. Bishop as pastor many years before.

At the close of Mr. Hockin's address, the school dispersed, after singing a hymn.

A FINE SERMON.

The evening service, taken by Dr. Shorey, proved interesting also. The text was taken from Ecclesiastics, 11th chapter and 9th verse, "Rejoice, O Young Man in thy Youth," etc. Dr. Shorey said we either do or do not believe there is a moral plan in the universe of which it is to the interest of all mankind to know. If there is none then we may take our own choice of what our life will be, but if, on the other hand, there is a plan, we must find out and choose the best way, for surely that is the way to live. The distinction between barbarism and civilization is that we are always finding some better way in life. The largest, freest and happiest is divine life. God gives everlasting life. Because a thing is pleasant, it is not necessarily wrong. It is not for pursuits of pleasure alone that we will be called to account. Pleasure will enter into the sum total of everything that is judged. Christ's coming to the world was to make life here and hereafter just as free and pleasurable as is possible for man.

God did not intend to give us pleasures that we might go altogether for them, and then afterwards we must endure the lash. We should be properly balanced in our life, in pleasure and in duty. The problem is to find the time between use and abuse. A great many things to which human nature turns are wrong merely in the abuse; the too great use of them. God did not hang up temptations for us, and then judge us when we touch them. What is wrong in the sight of God is harmful to man. Why shouldn't youth give way to its high spirits? Why should it become prematurely grave and sedate. The grave youth is the unhealthy youth. High spirits show health and strength.

The man who controls his appetites, desires, ambitions, and all that is in him, makes a well-balanced life. The better things must not be sacrificed for the lesser things nor the best things for even the harmless, but useless better things.

Cares will come at last to every life, then let all who can carry their light-heartedness as long as possible. Look at it that the call for pleasure is always to the better, higher, nobler pleasure. All pity the man who follows the things that are not the best. The whole teaching of God's word is that everything was done for the good of man and the choice of the advantages of life distinguishes the man of high tastes from the man of low tastes. We must sometimes sacrifice present joy for future good.

Station, position, wealth, etc., can be retrieved when lost, but there is no hope when a man goes down. God intended for us all that love and wisdom can bestow, but man alone must choose the right course through life and render a well-balanced account at the end.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

There is little doubt that troubles are exceedingly gregarious in their nature, and, flying in flocks, are apt to perch capriciously.

Be cheerful. It is better to live in sunshine than in gloom. If a cloud rests upon your heart, turn its silver lining to your friends, and cast the glow of cheer upon them, and the cloud will give way before the brightness and joy its own light has begotten.

While advocating cold meals for church-goers on Sunday, Rev. D. S. Ingram, rector of Great Oakley Episcopal church, Essex, England, is said to have spoken in favor of golf on Sunday for business men who found no time for amusement during the week.

Bishop Walden, of the Methodist Episcopal church, addressed a street crowd in Cincinnati the other evening, and proposes to take part in street meetings hereafter. "If the people will not come to church," says the Bishop, "the church must go to the people.

We can only give what we have. Happiness, grief, gaiety, sadness are by nature contagious. Bring your health and your strength to the weak and sickly, and so you will be of use to them. Give them, not your weakness, but your energy—so you will revive and lift them up.

For every woman who sought aid of the Salvation Army anti-suicide bureau in the last year there were 12 men who begged to be delivered from self-destruction. General Booth infers from this unexpected ratio that women endure sorrows more courageously than men.

Complete religious liberty is now allowed in Bolivia, and the London Council of the Bolivian Indian Mission is therefore preparing a special invasion into that country, where Mr. and Mrs. George Allen have been working four years in a very modest way.

The world is not a racecourse or a battlefield or a prize fight. It is a place in which each man is given his own sphere to occupy and his own duty to do; and, if in that sphere he occupieds honorably and that duty be done well, every man is undoubtedly a victor and a "fit survivor."

Power, wealth, position, ease and luxury are apparently dispensed with a good deal of caprice, but nobody ever heard that a character was got by chance. The gifts of fortune are often taken away as rapidly as they came, but everyone knows that strength of mind and personal nobility are possessions which survive the external circumstances of life.

—Last night's service at St. Andrew's church proved very interesting and instructive. The sermon by the pastor was impressive, and was listended to with much attention. Mr. Russell McLean, well known to a great number of our citizens, soloist in one of the leading New York churches, sang a much appreciated selection. The choir singing also was good.

—Christian Guardian; Of the nine members of the Toronto City Council who are Methodists eight voted and spoke in favor of the by-law for the reduction of the number of liquor licenses. Without at all reflecting upon the integrity of the one who voted against the by-law, this fact is another illustration of how Methodists usually see eye to eye on any question bearing upon the liquor traffic. They usually show a decidedly militant spirit when they get up against that traffic.

COMMUNICATIONS

A MATTER OF MOMENT.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—We understand there is likely to be a vacancy on the Board of License Commissioners for West Victoria, caused by the resignation of Mr. Robert Bryans, who will leave town in the near future for the West. It is now up to our Conservative friends to select a man who will fearlessly realize his duty, and has sufficient backbone to insist on the Liquor Act being carried out to the letter, notwithstanding any outside influences, either political or otherwise that may be brought to bear.

The present Board, while composed of good citizens, has been sadly lacking in these essentials. The local inspector, Mr. Thornbury, is looked upon as being a good officer, but his efforts to enforce the law have not been supplemented by the active support of the Board. The dropping of Mr. Hogg, of Oakwood, from the Board of Commissioners was a mistake which has been regretted by Conservatives and Reformers alike, as he administered the liquor law as the statutes prescribed, and showed no fear or favor to friend or foe. Such an administration is bound to give satisfaction, both to the public and the better class of the liquor trade, who desire to keep the law, but do not wish to see their less scrupulous neighbors selling in prohibited hours. There would be less talk of local option, or cutting off an odd license occasionally, if the law was strictly administered. There are such men in the Conservative party, but why not ask Mr. Hogg to again accept the office he is so well qualified to fill.—Yours, etc., TEMPERANCE.

Some Interesting Paragraphs Culled From Our Exchanges.

That lobsters are right handed and left handed is a discovery by Sir. J. Crichton-Browne. About 96 per cent. have sharp teeth only on the right claw, but a few have those teeth on the left side.

A young woman has just arrived in Vienna who claims to be the tallest woman in the world. She is only 27 years old, but stands 7 feet 5 inches and weighs 26 stone 10 pounds. She is rather spare than stout, is hard of feature and voice, and altogether somewhat of the masculine type. Her father and mother are not above ordinary stature.

Handcuffed and shackled, Police Judge James Austin, jr., of Toledo, O., was carried to the patrol wagon and taken to the workhouse to-day, where he will serve a short time with the inmates for the experience to be gained. The judge sentenced himself to the workhouse because he wanted to learn from experience what punishment he was imposing on others.

Replying to the theme advanced by Paul Bourget in his play, "A Divorce," Aristide Briand, the French Minister of Justice and Worship, practically comes out in favor of trial marriages. The endorses the idea of the gradual evolution of the doctrine of divorce until the point is reached where a marriage may be contracted for a specified period under legal safeguards protecting the interests of both parties.

There is no country in the world which has its population more scattered than Canada, and yet only two countries have as many telephones per 1000 inhabitants. The United United States has 70 to the 1,000, or a telephone to every 14 inhabitants. Sweden comes second with a 'phone for every 40 people, and Canada third with a 'phone for every 45 people. Great Britain is very compact and thickly populated, but a 'phone serves 95 people and Germany and France are about the same.

Destitution in Town.

It has been ascertained that at least half-a-dozen cases of destitution await the charitable assistance of citizens. The Post furnished the names of several to a well-known lady helper this morning. Mr. G. H. M. Baker has already supplied one of the needy families with a load of wood, and offers three-half cords more if needed. Mr. F. W. Sutcliffe will supply a number of warm winter coats for women and children; Mr. J. E. Adams offers groceries, and Mr. Clark, tailors, offers several suits of clothing. No doubt others will be heard from.

A Successful Effort.

The "Candy Social" held Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knowlson, by Miss Olive Knowlson and assistants, proved to be a popular affair indeed, the financial returns far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of the youthful enthusiastic workers for charity. The handsome sum of $17.35 will be forwarded to the treasurer of the Toronto fund for the relief of destitute children in that city. Miss Knowlson's zealous assistants were Miss Evelyn Curry, Miss Helen McLennan, Master Neil Gregory, Master H. Jordan and Master Anthon Knowlson.

Some Remarks On Things in General

By "The Stroller."

Every Canadian ought to feel somewhat "chesty" when reading over the figures that show up the remarkable progress being made by their country. Canada, in days gone by, has had a hard row to hoe. Outsiders, and even insiders, in comparing our growth along any particular line, have always done so do our detriment as compared with the U. S. Had we been in a part of the world off to ourselves, or had the U. S. been peopled by a people such as Mexico, or some of the South American States are, our chances of going ahead would have been vastly improved. For the last 125 years the eyes of the world have been on the U. S., and people of all climes and nations have been taught to believe that, if they could only reach it, they would have reached the Eldorado of life, and be happy ever afterwards. Canada was unknown, even by the people who lived in it, and it is only to-day, or during the past ten years, that we ourselves, not to say anything about outsiders, are waking up to the fact, that we have a country that is worth fighting for. This can be seen by looking at some of the figures. For instance, the total foreign trade in 1870 was 123 millions; in 1876, 162 millions; in 1900, 336 millions; and in 1906, 519 millions. It is the same all along the line. The banks afford a very good illustration of the way we are realizing our opportunities. The assets of the chartered banks in 1870 were 103 million; in 1876, 183 1-2 million; in 1900, 460 million, and in 1906, 878 1-2 millions, being a gain of 80 millions in the former six years, and of 419 millions in the latter six years.

The question is, where did the money come from? As in the Saney case, it has never been answered. Had our population increased in anything like the same ratio, we could have understood it, but although it has done remarkably well, we all know that it has not increased in any such way. There must have been a remarkable lot of money down the farmers' socks, and hidden in the parlor stoves, and other out of the way places, for we cannot conceive that it has all been produced in that short time. We believe the opening of so many branch banks is responsible for the drawing out of this hitherto unproductive wealth, and placing it in the channels of commerce. Take a town of one thousand inhabitants. Ten years ago the thought of a bank there would have been considered ridiculous, and yet to-day a town will have two, and both seem to be doing well. It is claimed that there was, in 1906, 638 millions of dollars at the credit of depositors' accounts, or 309 1-2 millions more than in 1900. We remember passing Fenelon Falls some years ago on the boat, in company with one of our local bankers. It was about the time a branch bank was being opened there, and in discussing the situation our banker friend figured out, to the satisfaction of both of us, that the bank could not possibly make a living. Since that time, another bank, and a conservative one at that, has opened a branch there. Not only that but banks have opened north, east, and west of it, thus cutting off any hope of trade, except in the immediate neighborhood, and all are apparently doing well.

The matter is easily explained, if we take it for granted that the money is there. A branch bank can be run by three men, or two boys and a man, at a salary outgo of $1800, with an outside expense account of $2500. The rate of interest allowed to depositors in 3 per cent. The amount charged to customers is 6, 7 and 8 per cent. Him as has, gets it at 6, and him as has not, pays 8. There is very little lending, however, to be done in a small place, but there is lots to be done in a large place, and so the head office allows the branch 4 per cent. for any surplus it has, and charges any branch 5 per cent. for anything it needs. In this way a country branch has only to get $250,000 in savings accounts, and lend it to the head office, to pay its expenses. It will have its exchange and any little it lends to customers itself, for profit. Now, 250 farmers and others, putting in $1000 each, will do it, and scores of them have $10,000 in such accounts. Up to the time the mania for branches took hold on the banks, most of this money was lying idle, so that it evidently was a good move for Canada on the part of the banks. In addition, we have our yearly accumulation of gain. Presuming that we are saving at the rate of $100 a head, that would mean an additional $100,000 yearly for the banks, from a town of 1000 people.

Railway Lines Clear of Snow

Trains Were on Time To-day and Freight is Being Accepted.

The G.T.R. line was cleared of snow to Haliburton yesterday, and the trains were running as usual this morning. All the branches are now clear with the exception of Coboconk and Sutton, and the trains are running only a few minutes late.

The C.P.R. has cleared its line also, and things are about as usual. Some of the cuts through snow banks are ten or twelve feet deep.

The management of both railway lines put in a busy time yesterday, every available man being out on the lien trying to raise the blockade. That they were successful proves that good work was done, because the obstacles to be surmounted were formidable indeed.

The Grand Trunk are accepting freight from all points except Coboconk and Sutton, which branches are still closed, but are expected to be cleared out to-morrow morning.

How Lindsay Won the Ontario Tankard
The Two Games Described by Ends

UPHILL FIGHT OF SKIP O'CONNOR
SKIP LITTLE WAS NEVER HEADED

Toronto Rinks and Their Supporters Were Confident of Victory, But Lindsay Pulled The Chestnuts Out of the Fire in the Last End.

Play started phsty at 2 o'clock and there was quite a gallery present at that early hour, but before the game was half way through there was a large crowd of enthusiasts, who followed the game shot by shot, and by end, showing lively the fine plays on both sides. The Caledonians' roosters were easily in the majority, but the Lindsay visitors, considering quite a few Indian made chair pressers felt on the right time, and treated their favorites to their plucky uphill fight. Nothing sound sounded much a victory. They were certainly no sure during the game till the last end was played, when they pulled out a shaver 14 to 5.

THE LUCK OF THE DRAW.

The luck of the draw put Tom Rennie up against Little, which Flavelle playing vice, while O'Connor was matched up against Robert Rennie. If the situation had been reversed the score would probably have been more or all ground. The strongest rink of each side was against their weaker of his opponents, and it was a question of which could pull away the hardest majority. O'Connor generally looked to carry the day against Tom Rennie knew quite well that he was doing all that could be expected if he could hold Little down to a comparatively small lead.

EXPECTED TO WIN.

Up to the last end it was confidently expected the Caledonians would finish a few shots ahead. Robert Rennie's aggression started out to make a runaway game with O'Connor, but at the halfway house the scale changed and Lindsay started pulling up a score that made Caledonian supporters anxious.

Tom Rennie meanwhile making a game fight with the veteran Flavelle. Twice Little is the skip of the Lindsay rink, but the valued influence of Flavelle is seen and heard and felt all the time.

THE SECOND FLIFTEE GAME.

Little won the toss of 28 cut the first end, pulling out four before the Caledonians had quite caught their breath, so to speak, for 2 ft. didn't carry. He got two of them back on the next end, one each the next, two gals taking the scores 4 to 2.

Fifth End—Watson drew short, Rennie drew in behind, but not on the ring. Watson put his second stone through, and Rennie was also heavy. Garrett placed a stone just in front of the circle. Sisson failed to draw, Garry raised but not far enough. Thus Sisson came down through a narrow port with the two Rennie drew a shade short. Flavelle glided a shot, and Rennie raised his own for a shot. Flavelle tried to count a stone in, but just put it on the ice. Rennie attempted to draw, but was too heavy. Little with his last stone, gained his opponent's church in a beautiful raise, lying two shots. Score 6-4.

Sixth End—Bath looks glued very steadily. Tommy's hose Little heavy and raised Garrett's first stone to the short. Garry put down a half-guard. Flavelle's shot was a little short. Sisser failed to guard a raise which Flavelle made perfectly. Sisser drew to the ice, nothing him out. Little repeated the performance, leaving the stone guarded, after edging his opponent out of the ice. It made a pretty combination raise, regaining the shot. Little followed with his last stone, which caused the Caledonians back and left Lindsay 2, but there was room to put in, and Little put down a third guarded the Lindsay stones over and scored 1. Score 6-5.

Seventh End—Rennie beat out Watson for position, and Garry made a nice raise, then Sisson drew shot, which he guarded with his last stone. Sisser drew in a saving shot, Flavelle guarded, Sisser took it off, and he guarded again. Rennie tried a drew shot drew through two guard, but got a rub on the big one. Little guarded and Rennie failed to double the shot. Score, 7-5.

Eight End.—In this end Garry was a trifle heavy and raised his opponent in. Little guarded to hold down, still he put down his own stone, when he succeeded in getting a lucky wick which gave him two. The best T. Rennie could do was to out one of them out. Score 8 to 5.

Ninth End.—The heads were short, but Sisson got on the ring while Garrett guarded in effort to draw. Flavelle guarded and Sisser fell short in an effort to draw, while Flavelle put in another. Sisser tried to open it with his next but failed. Little placed another guard, Rennie lifted a guard and Little replaced it. It became to look like a bad end; Rennie made a gallant attempt to draw and save the shot, but the best he could do was to bump a stone in which on a measure, was tie for third end. Score 10 to 8.

Tenth End.—The front end of Little's rink again got the worst of it; Flavelle came down with what looked like a nice clean guard on their shot, but society that it was shaping up nicely he shoved for them to come in, and curled in for shot itself. Little on the ice and half guarded. Lindsay was now 2 up. The shot was still apparently open for a raise. Garry put Rennie asked Sisser for a difficult raise which he failed to negotiate, rolling right through the port. This looked like a tactical blunder from the beginning. Flavelle guarded, Rennie came down heavy, but failed to double, and shot, Little then drew a fourth shot, but Rennie on out this one out. Score, 13 to 5.

Eleventh End—In this end the game was a little off. Rennie one shot, Flavelle raised one in instead of guarding it through. Sisser drew a pretty shot out it was open for a raise, and Flavelle took it; Sisser repeated the performance, Little guarded it, but failed to double; Rennie fell down as a guard, but Little won the shot, and Rennie declared the end, taking the one. Score 13 to 6.

A Sea Saw Finish.—Little moved one on the next end, the play going very close and careful all through two rinks playing for one point. Little secured it in a splendid draw and lucky wick. Score, 14 to 6.

In the 14th end Rennie got one back, working a combination raise. Score 14 to 7.

Little very pulled out a couple in the fourteenth and one in the fifteenth, making the score 17 to 7, a lead of ten shots down to the Caledonians' majority all round to four, and the thermometer went up accordingly.

In the eighteenth end Rennie recovered two, then it looked easier again. He was lying shot, and with his last stone drew a second shot and cleared. Score, 17 to 9.

Seventeenth End.—This was one of the critical ends of the game. Rennie drew a fine2 shot with his second stone, which Rennie tried to pass through, but unsuccessfully, leaving it getting his own. Garrett guarded and Sisson was heavy. Rennie now recovered to one of Flavelle's shots, and brought Garry down heavy, passing through Lindsay's only stone on the port. Sisson out of a trifle, and raised in a third shot for Rennie. Sisser guarded, Flavelle rushed it off; Sisser replaced it with a perfect close. Flavelle opened the church and Rennie raised a very good guard. Little tried an overdraw and bumped in a fourth shot his own, on the port, leaving it out. On the edge of the ice Rennie's last stone came a little too far and left a rest, Little opened out for it, but was heavy, and for hitting it, swung over to the side and Rennie got 3. Score 17 to 12.

Eighteenth End.—Little got a gully making it 19 to 12.

Nineteenth End.—On the 19th, the tables turned, Sisser, on second stone, side. With Lindsay shot, Sisson guarded, and Garry lifted. Flavelle guarded. Sisser raised, but failed to get shot. Flavelle placed close guard on ring. Sisser tried a short raise, yet it didn't work. Rennie brought down the house, making a magnificent draw through the port right to the ice, scoring one. Little failed to rub it out. Score, 19 to 13.

Twentieth End.—Rennie beat out Watson in leading, and Sisson guarded; while Garrett was short when a full shot was wanted. Sisser drew a second, but failed to negotiate a narrow port with his next. Flavelle drew another shot, and Lindsay friends cheered. Rennie ran one of the shots out. Little guarded. Rennie tried a tamp, but failed, and Little drew a third. Score, 22 to 13.

Twenty-First End.—Watson got one in the front rink, and was lying with his second. Rennie by shot at back. Then Sisson drew shot. Garry was short and Sisson got the Caledonians' best stone through, lying three. Garrett came down heavy, cleaned off Lindsay's two best shots and lay shot himself. Flavelle drew the shot. Sisser passed it through. Flavelle tried to lead with his next one. Sisser put down a guard. Nothing left for Little but a draw, and he was equal to it. Rennie raised in a close shot. Little ran and picked off one. Rennie drew for a third and wrestle inches short. Score, 22 to 15.

The Last End.—The strain was so great to tell on the last end. It had gone badly on the other rink, and shots were badly wanted here to save the day. Watson just got first shot stone over the hog, and his second went through. Rennie drew to the ring and guarded. Garry drew on to second ring. Sisson guarded. Garrett raised a guard, out he go in the place. Flavelle drew a second shot. Little lifted a guard and Flavelle put down another in the place. At this time the game was on the other rink, O'Connor scoring three, and it was known that Tom Rennie would have to make a big end to pull the game. It was practically impossible. Sisser came down a little heavy, counting a guard, and the 3rd Rennie failed to get the shot. Flavelle guarded. Rennie lifted the guard. Little replaced it. Rennie drew, but it was impossible to reach the shot, and it was all over, including the shouting. It looked for the last end as though Tom Rennie and his merry Caledonian man would envelop Larry O'Connor in a whitewash, but Larry thinks completely in the whirlwind snowstorm that Little with Flavelle as mate on the other rink, would come in and to rescue them. Never a score for the case, with the score-board showing Caledonians 14 to 5, and pretty rough sledding, and when they left the ice Lindsay had 21 and Tom Rennie came back on the ninth with a two, and with twelve ends played the Caledonians had the tore-from on this rink 18 to 2.

Then the Lindsayites took a bit of a brace and pulled up a few shots three ends and fifteen on the last too, so against four ends the game came at the proper moment, and in quantities sufficient to save the day. The Lindsay rink playing the last end, play was remarkably improved over the earlier portions of the play, when the score and the decision for them to win.

LITTLE'S FIRST PLAY

The trouble seemed to be that in those earlier stages O'Connor's rink was playing too uphill game on every end, and it was their weak spot. Running shots failed them but when they came to the end of the game available. And to make matters worse, the Rennie lectom did not play the game on the ice, and lost than that of trying to use Lindsay, and the assembled rocks, and Caledonians Rennie failed to wear the button. However, that conflict ended, and the Lindsay rink came in, once they could resort to draw shots or rising stones the eastern gap, and Lindsay's much better form and pulled out more than their share.

The game was remarkable for the fine shots made by both rinks, and the end. Wits one pretty well equal, and Lindsay's ability to guard, and several times the end came with only one stone belonging to each in the rink, and the game was decided by a calculation of rocks, but success of the careful guarding play. As a rule the Lindsay players the game did not display the skill that rank in the end of which each did some on occasions. Tom Rennie, the Lindsay shooting that it meant, was the big player, and he was in risk in the beginning, and, beginning a little nervousness on the part of Caledonians, he soon had the game in hand, and the reputation of the Caledonians.

PLAY BY ENDS

Two ones to the Caledonians on the first, one on the second and two on the third ends, all by certain guarding and the failure of Lindsay to run the shot, lift or draw, gave the Caledonians a big way, Caledonians 5, Lindsay 0.

The fifth end again saw Caledonians with two stones in the ring, with one of Lindsay's only on much away. The guarding was close. Mr. Lemon removed them, but O'Connor failed with two running shots, leaving nothing. Caledonians 8, Lindsay 0.

The sixth end saw some really fine play. Caledonians lying shot. McLennan raised Lindsay in for shot, John Rennie Carried it out, but Lindsay still had a stone closer. A very narrow port showed between two guards, but Rob. Rennie drew between the port, but Lindsay came through, and leaving five stones on the ice—four his own, yet a splendid shot, with only half an inch on each side to work in. O'Connor missed a running shot. Caledonians 12, Lindsay 0.

Seventh end—Caledonians lay one and hanged another in. Rennie tried to force to make a running shot but missed. Caledonians 14, Lindsay 0.

GREAT SHOT

Ninth end—Lindsay had a stone in the ice, lying touching and behind a Caledonian rock, with another of the latter brand also touching in front. Only half an inch of the Lindsay stone showed but John Rennie cleaned it and drew to it, shoving it away. O'Connor again failed to run. Caledonians 16, Lindsay 1.

Tenth end — The first five stones were on the ice, Caledonians lying shot by an inch. Burke drew through an impossible port, but was strong. A close guard prevented Lindsay therefter. Caledonians 17, Lindsay 1.

Eleventh end—Lindsay lay three, but John Rennie carried two of them out and lay shot, but he was around one in turn and Lindsay gathered one. Caledonians 17, Lindsay 2.

Twelfth end—The leads were pretty fine, stones well on the end and there was a strong collection with guards piled up. Caledonians 1 by one which could not be got at. Caledonians 18, Lindsay 2.

ENJOYS THIRTEENS

Thirteenth end—The tide turned on the unlucky thirteenth. Each got one stone on and then piled up guards, with Lindsay nearest the ice in an impregnable position. Caledonians 18, Lindsay 3.

Fourteenth end—A close draw pulled Simpson Rennie around a shaved port, Lindsay had a stone lying on an inch to spare, and he lay shot. Opening a.f. O'Connor drew through port, Lindsay guarded, and John Rennie through, held the port with two well guarded. Bob Rennie was shot. Caledonians 18, Lindsay 4.

Fifteenth end—Caledonians were in a good position behind a few wicks, O'Connor picked them out and drew a second. Caledonians 18, Lindsay 5.

CALEDONIANS BRACE

Sixteenth end—A very narrow port gave entrance to the guarded Caledonian stone. McLennan run it away, and John Rennie gave Lindsay one foot, nullifying the Lindsay menace effort. O'Connor yielded a foot to shot, and John Rennie drew out with his last stone, counting one. Caledonians 19, Lindsay 5.

Seventeenth end—The leads were again guarded. Caledonians lying shot, and Lindsay lying three in the ring. Lindsay failed to get by the guards, but Bob Rennie drew in for a second. Caledonians 20, Lindsay 5.

Eighteenth end—It was a good end with the rings full of stones. John Rennie gave no chance for the ice to a genuine raise, but McLennan to be a strong combination raise, and it worked perfectly, bumping Caledonians out and swinging in mate to the button, leaving two on the button, which was second, and Lindsay got three. Caledonians 23, Lindsay 10.

Nineteenth end—Caledonians had a margin of an inch on a Lindsay shot, but McLennan drew in for a Lindsay lead, but McLennan in trying to run Lindsay shot missed, leaving a running shot, and a second attempt with Lindsay three but Bob Rennie drew one out. Caledonians 24, Lindsay 12.

MADE MOST OF IT

Twentieth end — As usual, Caledonians had an inch of two marginal shots, Lindsay had a foot in shot, leaving four Lindsay stones on the ice to one for Caledonians. John Rennie lost two Lindsay stones in running too wide, but with his last stone Bob Rennie swished two of them in through a narrow port, leaving Lindsay with two. Caledonians 26, Lindsay 12.

Twenty-first end—Lindsay missed by one inch, Rennie passed a series of draws and raises by both rinks, with nothing particular to mark them except close shots. Caledonians 22, Lindsay 14.

Last end—Caledonians lay shot and had it well protected, but McLennan cleverly drew to the shot and put in the counter himself. John Rennie carried two of his own through, and Lindsay had them two to the good. Bob Rennie was forced to try a combination raise, but failed, and left a running shot with his last stone, giving Lindsay the three they wed.

The fifth end again saw Caledonians with two stones in the ring, with one of Lindsay's only on much away. The guarding was close. Mr. Lemon removed them, but O'Connor failed with two running shots, leaving nothing. Caledonians 8, Lindsay 0.

The sixth end saw some really fine play. Caledonians lying shot. McLennan raised Lindsay in for shot. John Rennie Carried it out, but Lindsay still had a stone closer. A very narrow port showed between two guards, but Bob. SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead, or upon a homestead held by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform the residence duties by living with the father (or mother) of a. The term "vicinity" in the preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than ninety miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances, crossed in the measurement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

NON GOVERNOR'S CUP.

Peterborough curlers shared with Lindsay curlers in the glory of winning trophies in the recent meeting of Ontario Association stacks in Toronto. The Peterborough men were not in the Tankard competition, but they had their eyes on the Governor-General's Cup, another trophy of rare sentiment and value to the Tankard, and despite the fact that they have been homeless since the burning of their rink, and as a result have had little practice, Skips Frost and Fenn succeeded in annexing the trophy, winning out from the Toronto Granites in the final by 56 shots to 38. Congratulations.

MR. SHIPP'S SOUND VIEW

Bob Independent, The Lindsay Curling Club has two rinks that are almost invincible. The one is skipped by Mr. O'Connor, and used to Wm. McLennan, and the other skipped by Mr. Little, and used by Mr. J. D. Blavelle. They have again won the Ontario Tankard, defeating Paris, Sarnia, Toronto and the Toronto Caledonian Curling Club, of Toronto. No club in the province has won the Tankard so often as the Lindsay Club. It is a habit that seems to be growing with age.

WINNING IN EUROPE

Celerno, Switzerland, Feb. 8.—(Canadian Associated Press).—A rink of Canadian curlers, captained by Mr. W. Jarsine, are proving invincible in the big competition here. It is anticipated that they will be victorious in the final.

Hockey

DONT MISS THIS GAME.

Tonight, when Port Perry plays Uxbridge in a "sudden death" game at the Lindsay skating rink, will be decided which team the Midland Intermediates must play Lindsay in their own town, and Port Perry or Uxbridge here on home ice. It promises to be a clean and fast, and will give Lindsay hockey fans a chance to see two of the best teams in the district, and they will have a very fast bunch, but the Uxbridge boys are equally good up in the district, and they will be ready to play a good game since the teams are so well matched.

Uxbridge claims by special this afternoon, and Port Perry should have no difficulty in getting here, as the roads are all dried again and trains nearly on time.

Owing to the warmer weather, Manager Parkin, of the skating rink, expects a big house tonight. The seating accommodation at the south end of the rink will be reserved, the Independence Hall. (The game will be called at 8.15.

County Judge's Report Equalization Assessment of The County of Victoria

Full Text of Judge Harding's Decision—Manner in Which Municipal Assessors Observe, or Fail to Carry Out, the Requirements of the Act.

By S. 8. of Sec. 20, the assessors for the municipality may ascertain the value of the real property by inspecting the value from five to eight per cent. of the different parcels of land by the different parts of each municipality in the county. If, upon such inspection and valuation, the said valuators shall compare their valuations with the valuations in the last revised assessment rolls made by the assessors of the several municipalities within the county, and if upon such comparison it is found that the valuations of the county valuators nearly correspond in the aggregate with the valuation upon the assessment roll of a municipality, the valuations, and thereupon the County Council, shall accept the assessment roll as correct for the purposes of county valuation. This section is so drawn as to permit the greatest possible injustice to be done to certain municipalities. Take for instance, the township of Somerville, in the County of Victoria, where 88 per cent. and over of the real property within the said township was assessed in 1906, at or above its real value, and the balance at an under value, particularly the best farms. The county valuators, in valuing the township properties, valued the best farms in the township, finding them assessed at or above, and the balance, thirdly their value, they entered a percentage of 157 per cent. to be added to the assessment of the township raising the assessment from $246,215.00 to $432,777.00, or more than double the value of the last revised assessment of the township. The legislation that permits wrongs of this character to be perpetrated, is sadly in need of amendment. This proceeding was no doubt authorized for the purpose of assessing fairly so called. There can be no proper valuation of a township with lands of different assessing having different values in any other manner than by enquiry upon oath of each particular parcel of land by persons competent and accustomed to value lands in the locality. If the Ontario Municipal Act, 1903, 3 Edward VII., 1903, as amended from time to time, and you then enlarge authority to enable them to inspect the property, the reason that the property lands are generally covered with snow, there will be no necessity for such expensive proceedings as the present, in the close now is, every assessor shall begin to make his roll in each year not later than the 15th day of February, and shall complete the same on or before the 30th day of April in each year. The assessors in the rural districts lands are generally covered with snow to a depth rendering it impossible for them to enter upon the intelligent valuation of the same. There should be a change in the law with regard to the date of commencing and finishing the assessment roll. (See Sec. 47 of the Assessment Act.)

So long as Counsels are satisfied by the debtors to have those most important and difficult duties performed by the men who will take the least for so doing, we must expect errors in the valuation of the lands of such municipalities. For instance, take the assessor of one of the townships, in the affects of which most so considered by the Legislature are long. Mountain ellmonts is given a place and the department of agriculture viroous life and are full of interest. —Grippe is sweeping the country; stop it now. Preventive before it is not deeply seated. To check head colds with these little candy cold cure tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventive contain no opiates, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Sold in box, 40 tablets, 25 cents. Very pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Busy Stork Ties Up Depot.

Winsted, Conn., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Hartford Tribune, a weekly newspaper, came out two days late this week because a dual performance by the stork made the getting out of the paper on schedule time next to impossible.

On Monday the wife of the editor, H. Roger Jones, a graduate of the Yale Law School, presented him with a boy, and on the same day the foreman, Lawrence P. Hotchkiss, was presented with a daughter by Mrs. Hotchkiss. Both became happy for the first time, and little was accomplished on the newspaper Monday and Tuesday.

Police Busy at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Feb. 10.—The police again yesterday issued evidence against those breaking the Lord's Day Act. Several hundred violations were reported, including restaurants, newstands, undertakers, and even business offices.

The newspaper offices were again very busy, and the same work was being taken. The summons of these violating the Lord's Day Act will be issued today. The cases are causing a good deal of talk here.

Hughes Announces Retirement.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 10.—Governor Hughes served notice today on the Tax Commission of the State of his determination not to succeed himself as governor in any circumstances in a speech at the annual dinner of the National Guard Association of the State of New York.

The governor in closing his remarks said that "This is my second and farewell appearance before you in commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces of the state."

Legal Fight Over Titles.

London, Feb. 10.—It looks as though there would be a great legal struggle for the Titanic newspaper. A syndicate representing the owners of several million pounds in the paper has been formed with a capital of $4,250,000.

Mr. Pearson and his associates assert that their deal has been approved by the Titanic's owners. The question of the lease will be fought out in court.

Treasurer Found Guilty.

Binghamton, N.Y., Feb. 10.—Arthur W. Hall, former county treasurer, who has been on trial here, charged with wrongfully taking the county's funds, was found guilty Saturday by a jury, which returned the verdict after deliberating on the evidence for over three hours.

Indian Badly Frozen.

Mariposa, Feb. 10.—Jerry Shilling, Indian, celebrating at Lindsay, returned to Mariposa on a belated train at 11 p. m. in an intoxicated condition. Shilling left the Mariposa station and started for an Indian camp about a mile from the station. He got as half way home he lay down and was not discovered till nine o'clock yesterday morning. Dr. Dale of Oakwood was summoned and found both his hands, feet and ears frozen solid. Amputation will be necessary. The thermometer registered 12 to 15 degrees below zero.

Pestoffice Robbed.

Essex, Feb. 10.—The provincial police were notified that the pestoffice at Colinby, Kent County, had been broken into by robbers during the night and the till rifled of $30 in stamps and small change.

To Five Years Penitentiary.

London, Feb. 10.—Carl Fisher, a Muncie Indian, was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years for burglary. John Paul, a companion, was sent down for two years for a similar offence.

Detective Committed.

Emerson, Man., Feb. 10.—George Foulkes, the American secret service detective, charged with kidnapping two Canadian citizens, was committed for trial yesterday by Mayor Nelson.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Three men were fatally injured and several others seriously hurt as the result of an explosion of dynamite in the quarries of Dolor & Shepard, in the suburb of Hawthorne yesterday.

Winter Number Of Rod and Gun

A Splendid Canadian Publication—Interesting in Every Department.

When Winter is King in Canada the delights of the Dominion come into the mainland forces. The world put on new beauties and sportsmen turn to the open, sure of fresh pleasures and increased enjoyment. Winter scenes are so characteristic of Canada, so much misunderstood and so seldom fully enjoyed within the borders of our own wide country, that Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor at Woodstock, Ont., in seeing a winter number and attracting attention to the wonders of that season in Canada, is doing good service. There are stories of hunting in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and British Columbia, while the echoes of the deer montreyers' bugle time to be heard in Ontario. The forceful papers which form no mean contribution to a question the full

PREPARING FOR WAR

Czar and Sultan Rushing Troops to Persian Frontier.

SUPPLIES FROM THE DOUMA

Russia Despatching 60,000 Fully Equipped Soldiers—Trouble in the Balkans—European Nations Take Sides—Francis and Great Britain With Russia — Germany With the Sublime Porte.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—The Russo-Turkish relations have entered upon a menacing phase. Alarmed at the unchecked Turkish penetration in Persia, and the mobilization in Armenia, the Russian Government has decided to execute a formidable military demonstration to reply on the Turko-Persian frontier, despatching there a compact expedition of 60,000 select troops from Central Russia, with full war equipment, and it is acting with uncommon rapidity with a view to overawing the Turks by a formidable exhibition of force.

The War Office has drawn up plans of the expedition, and submitted them hurriedly for legislative enactment to the Douma on Friday. The proposal on national defence assembled in a virtually unanimous vote. A representative of the War Office briefly and succinctly outlined the Turkish preparation, of which Russia is fully informed, and asked for an open credit for the maintenance of an army of 60,000.

He met the possible arguments of economy by saying that Russia had expended blood and treasure in Manchuria in vain, owing to the initial Japanese success in Korea. The empire's prestige in the middle east, he said, is now also in the balance, and Russia must be prepared to defend it.

M. Guchkeff, leader of the Octobrist party in a speech said that the majority in the Douma were Russian patriots and willing to deal with their "last enemy" to defend the fatherland. "The committee in a high pitch of patriotism of Russia has unanimously approved the proposal for the appropriation of the sum of $10,000,000 to create building facilities along the Black sea coast, which, owing to the weakness of the navy, is at the mercy of Germany.

Situation In Balkans.

Rome, Feb. 10.—The situation in the Balkans, which suddenly has attracted attention here because of the reported recall of Prince Ourosoff, Russian Ambassador to Constantinople, seems to be graver than official statements would indicate.

Austria and Germany charge that Russia is trying to create a revolt for her failure in the far east by turning her attention to the Balkans, and is renewing her ancient traditional policy of aiming at Constantinople. It is further asserted by officials of these Governments that she is helped in this above Turkey by France, and secretly by Great Britain, the Russian opposing German influence.

Russia has emphatically declared that it would be impossible to tolerate the carrying out of the proposed plan for the construction of railways in the Balkans, and as announced by Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, as this would mean, under the guise of commercial interest, a practical Austrian occupation of the Balkan States. Indeed, it would mean Austria's reaching Salonica, and, Russian remarks, this would be equivalent to having Austria at Sebastopol.

However, it is believed here that if a conflict breaks out Turkey will not be between Russian and Austria, but between Russia and Turkey, the latter being accused of favoring the Austrian plans under German influence.

The Popular Romano goes as far as to chronicle the rumor that a Russo-Turkish war is likely to occur in the spring. Turkey has been making preparations, for she now has in Mesopotamia 100,000 of her best troops, which she is ready to great extent by German.

Ambassador Not Recalled.

Vienna, Feb. 10.—The foreign office yesterday denied the report that the Russian ambassador to Constantinople, Prince Ourosoff, had been recalled by his Government. It is stated he is getting over his illness, and is in delicate health, and has asked and received permission from his Government to go home or to some southern resort as soon as the weather and his health permits him to travel.

King Leopold Not Sane.

Brussels, Feb. 10.—There are indications that the Government may soon have to deal with a difficult problem in regard to King Leopold. Its nature may be inferred from a remark made by a member of the Cabinet Saturday in the lobby of the Chamber of Deputies. He said:

"The King is no longer in a normal condition of mind."

Signs of mental breakdown of Leopold have been noticeable for several months.

Arrested, Though Legally Dead.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Frank Lewis, a fugitive from justice upon an indictment charging him with sending bombs to two persons and trying to blow up an hotel with an infernal machine, and who last year was legally declared dead as a suicide, was arrested at the Union Station, Rosedale station, Rosedale, Saturday night. He was found in charge of a lady housekeeping an appointment with the wife who had deserted him in the west.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

NOTHING TO HIDE

Government Offers No Objection to Producing Timber Papers.

NEW MEMBER INTRODUCED

Committee Appointed by the Premier to Investigate Old Age Pensions—Mr. Maclean Seeks Opportunity to Air His Hobby—Extended Debate on Subsidy Alleged to Have Been Taken by G.T.R.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—A motion for production of the original papers in respect to granting of timber licenses passed the House last night without the slightest objection from the Prime Minister, except that he suggested an amendment requiring the return of the papers after inspection.

Mr. Lake (Qu'Appelle) moved for the original papers in respect of timber berths 1,220 to 1,226, 1,238 and 1,272. His reasons were that he could not do justice to the question without them and that copies did not give all the information he desired. With the change noted the motion carried.

M. T. McLean, the new member for South Huron, was brought in by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. G. P. Graham.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the appointment of the following as a select committee to investigate old age pensions: Messrs. Lemieux, McIntyre (South Perth), Sinclair, Ralph Smith, MacKenzie, Verville, Monk, Pringle, McCarthy (Calgary.)

On orders of the day being called, W. F. Maclean (South York) called attention to the condition of the order paper. As it now stood it was impossible to reach public bills and orders unless a change was made in the procedure. These bills must come up on Mondays and Wednesdays, but they were preceded by pages of notices of motion, and it was doubtful if they would be reached this session. He complained that he could not get on with his bills.

To Mr. Taylor, the Prime Minister said it was not the intention of the Government to recognize the services rendered by the forty ladies who went to South Africa as school teachers.

W. B. Northrup (East Hastings) brought up the case of the Belleville and North Hastings Railway, which had been paid $21,000 in subsidies for a road seven miles in length, and the road being taken over by the Grand Trunk, that company pocketed the $21,000 and discontinued the operation of the line.

Altogether $97,000 was paid by Federal and Provincial Governments to the County of Hastings and Township of Madoc. Mr. Northrup argued that it was the duty of the Government to compel the fulfilment of the obligations, but there was a doubt as to the powers of the Railway Commission.

When W. F. Maclean (South York) attempted to show that the Grand Trunk was delinquent in other matters, he was promptly met by objections from Mr. German, who was backed up by the Prime Minister and the Speaker of the House.

Mr. Northrup (Hastings) moved for correspondence between the Government and Belleville and North Hastings Railway, or Grand Trunk, or any other railway relating to granting and payment of subsidies to the Belleville and North Hastings Railway.

Mr. Northrup did not attach blame to the present Government, as he was not aware its attention had been called to the matter. There was springing up in the country, Mr. Northrup went on, a feeling of resentment against the railways for failing to live up to their obligations, and people were justified in asking Parliament for more drastic legislation. It was a simple matter for the Government to obtain justice; it should demand the return of $21,000, and he was prepared to say that the G.T.R. must come before Government with clean hands or no further favors would be granted.

The Two Cent Fare.

W. F. Maclean seized the opportunity to ventilate the grievance of the G.T.R. attempt to repudiate its obligation in the matter of two-cent-per-mile fares.

W. German of Welland, who interrupted with a cry of "Order," adding the protest that "a penny-a-mile service has nothing to do with the subject under discussion."

"The motion," interrupted Mr. Speaker, "is for a return of copy of certain papers. It does not seem to me that on such a motion such matters can be discussed as those which the hon. gentleman (W. F. Maclean) is discussing.

"In supporting the contention of the hon. gentleman, surely I have the same privilege that he had of appealing to the Government to do its duty," returned the member for South York.

"My hon. friend (Mr. Maclean) says that he intends to bring up this matter on motion for committee of supply. That will give him his opportunity for discussion," Sir Wilfrid observed.

"I think," observed Mr. Speaker, "that Mr. Maclean is quite within his right in discussing reasons why this order for papers shall be made, but he has no right to travel outside that and discuss matters that are purely irrelevant."

At this point Dr. Sproule took a hand in the contest.

"I rise," he said, "to a point of order. Is it not the proper practice in this House, if a member wishes to bring any subject of importance before the House, to move for papers, when that motion expresses his views. We find that course followed even when the member knows that there are no papers. This is one of the methods we have always adopted for the discussion of matters of importance. It seems to me that this should give us the right to travel just beyond the exact record in the discussion, whether papers should be brought down or not."

"The point of order," said Sir Wilfrid, addressing Mr. Speaker, "is taken, and you have decided that it is well taken. All I can say to the hon. member for South York is that I shall be happy, when he wishes it, to give him an opportunity to bring up this question on motion for committee of supply."

The House at night discussed a resolution of Mr. Guthrie (Wellington): "That in the opinion of this House it is desirable that a commission of enquiry be forthwith appointed to investigate the needs of Canada in respect to technical education and to report on ways and means by which these needs may best be met."

The importance of technical instruction was emphasized by Messrs. Smith (Oxford) and Cockshutt (Brantford), and the debate was adjourned at 11.20 by Dr. Sproule.

MOB TOOK VENGEANCE.

Another Southern Negro Lynching—Hanged on Telegraph Pole.

Brookhaven, Miss., Feb. 11.—Eli Pigot, a negro, who criminally assaulted a young white woman here several weeks ago, was taken from the custody of the Jackson Military Co. and a posse of deputies yesterday by a mob of 2,000 and hanged from a telegraph pole within less than a hundred yards of the court house. He was to have been tried yesterday for his crime.

The mob began to assemble here before daylight in wagons, on horseback and walking. It included some of the most prominent farmers in Lincoln County, especially in the neighborhood of Rith, where the assault by the negro is alleged to have occurred. By the time the train from Jackson had arrived, there were over 2,000 men in the mob at the railroad station. No attempt at concealment was made, not a man in the mob wearing a mask.

The two men shot down in the fight were Jos. Cole of Brookhaven, and an unidentified farmer. Neither of them is seriously wounded.

Captain A. L. Sairley commanded the Jackson Company, which had in its ranks about 30 men. He has reported the affair to the governor and is awaiting his orders.

MANY INJURED.

Express and Stock Trains Collided on Main Track at Port Colborne.

Port Colborne, Feb. 11.—Ten persons were injured yesterday morning when No. 35 express, due at 8 a. m., collided with a through stock train from the west, which was standing on the main track.

Conductor Buchanan of the express had a shoulder and his back bruised.

Expressman Williamson and Baggageman Stewart were badly shaken up and several passengers were slightly injured.

The names of the injured passengers are as follows: Mrs. H. Prediman of Buffalo, back injured; D. Hyman, Niagara Hotel, Buffalo, shoulder bruised; C. E. Clifford, Buffalo, right hip injured; George Weyand, Buffalo, right wrist cut; W. Tallman, Buffalo, left knee injured; L. Consadine, Buffalo, back injured; Mrs. Dell of Ridgeway, Ont., knee injured; The morning was hazy. The auxiliary from Bridgeburg cleared away the wreckage.

Mr. Bastedo Appointed.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—S. T. Bastedo, formerly commissioner of fisheries at Toronto, has been appointed special commissioner by the Dominion Government to arrange a modus vivendi between the Federal Government and the provinces, by which one uniform jurisdiction can be secured.

He will negotiate with all the provinces, but will begin with British Columbia, leaving for Victoria next week.

Murderer Now "Cured."

Versailles, Feb. 11.—Henry Huntington, son of the late Major Henry Alonzo Huntington, who last July shot and wounded his two brothers and two sisters at the bedside of his dying father in this city, and who later was adjudged insane, has returned here. He states that he was allowed to leave the private asylum where he was confined and was certified as cured.

MINERAL WITH LAND

Proposal to Give Ontario Settlers Full Title to Crown Lands.

CONCESSION TO OPPOSITION

Liberals Had Advocated the Course at Last Session—Protection to Be Given Against Speculators by Inspection — Proposal to Erect Provincial Sanitorium For Tubercular Patients.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Another Government bill was brought down at yesterday's sitting of the Legislature, a measure to amend the Public Lands Act, which was introduced by Hon. Mr. Cochrane, the Minister of Lands and Mines. The principles of this bill have been advocated by the Opposition and its submission is a concession to their efforts.

Mr. Cochrane's act respecting public lands provides that when it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the Minister of Lands and Mines, by inspection and report of an officer appointed by him for the purpose, that crown lands in any township or portion of a township not reserved from settlement, are not valuable for the mines or minerals, the Minister may, under order in council, open such lands to actual settlers and such settlers shall be entitled to all mines or minerals thereafter found therein.

The act is made retrospective, clause two providing that in all townships already opened for sale, the Minister may at the request of any purchaser, or any person claiming under such purchaser, declare such purchaser entitled to the mines and minerals thereafter found, if the same are the property of the crown and not staked out, recorded, leased or granted under the Mines Act. All sales of agricultural lands under this act hereafter made in such townships shall include the mines and minerals therein. Clause three provides that all reservations of mines or minerals expressed or implied in any patent heretofore issued, where such is the property of the crown, and not granted under the Mines Act, are rescinded, and all minerals pass to the owners of the land.

Mr. Godfrey (West York) gave notice that he will move that, whereas the prevalence of pulmonary tuberculosis demands that action be taken by the Legislature of this province to afford relief from existing conditions, and, whereas the movement for the establishment of municipal sanatoria where sufferers from tuberculosis can be given necessary treatment and education to cure and prevent the spread of this dread disease, has received practically the unanimous endorsement of the medical profession of this province as well as that of the press, therefore in the opinion of this House a commission of three persons, two of least of whom shall be physicians who have given some study to the question, should be appointed to investigate conditions existing in the province in this regard and the advisibility and practicability of the establishment of a provincial sanatorium, such commission to report to this House at an early date.

Dynamite Injures Three.

Cobalt, Feb. 11.—While blasting in a shaft at Spring Creek, forty miles up the Montreal River from Latchford, Homer Bedford, Thomas Nixon and Fred Beckett met with an accident. A load had missed fire, and Beckett went down to refire. He neglected to put tamping on the dynamite after inserting cap and fuse.

Beckett received serious injuries on the left arm, and his right leg and his side were literally perforated. Nixon and Bedford, who were at the mouth of the shaft, received cuts and bruises.

Crown Prince Killed Murderer.

Lisbon, Feb. 11.—A Lisbon despatch to a news agency here says that the official medical enquiry indicates that before being killed the crown prince avenged the death of his father. It shows that two bullets in the prince's revolver had been discharged and that a bullet wound in the head of one of the assassins was the same size as the bore of the crown prince's revolver. Members of the household aver that they saw the prince rise after the King had been shot and fire twice.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

Christopher D. Graham is a well known citizen of Ottawa—formerly in the City Hall and largely instrumental in forming the Ottawa Hunt Club. Mr. Graham's voluntary testimonial as to the great benefit he received from taking "Fruit-a-tives" will carry conviction.

Ottawa, Ont. Nov. 26th, 1907.

Dear Sirs:—

I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time—pains in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

I wish to state, also, that I suffered from haemorrhoids, or piles, for years, I used all kinds of ointments and treatment and nothing did me any good, but after taking "Fruit-a-tives" for my rheumatism I am entirely cured of these dreadful piles. (Sgd) C. D. GRAHAM.

To Unseat Toronto Council.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—The quo warranto proceedings to unseat Mayor Oliver, Controllers Harrison, Hocken and Spence, and Aldermen J. J. Graham, Vaughan, Foster, Bredin, Bengough, Hales, Adams, Keeler and R. H. Graham, were set in motion yesterday by Millar, Ferguson & Hughes, when a fiat was secured from the master-in-chambers which allows for the filing of the necessary notice of motion.

It is claimed that the members named did not file statutory declarations, have not the required property qualifications, are not British subjects (this aimed more particularly at Mayor Oliver) and have neglected to file declarations of qualifications. The action is instigated by the liquor interests as a result of the license reduction bylaw.

Thickest Ice at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Ottawa has the thickest ice of any spot in the inhabited portion of Canada. So say the records of the meteorological service of the Dominion, which have just been published for January. According to the report the local ice froze to the depth of 30 inches, surpassing by three inches the closest rival, Swift Current. The average, not including the Arctic regions, was 15 inches. The ice as reported from the various stations is as follows: Western provinces—Edmonton, 20 inches; Battleford, 24 inches; Medicine Hat, 18 inches; Swift Current, 27 inches; Minnedosa, 24 inches.

Fire at Sherkston.

Welland, Feb. 11.—On Saturday morning at an early hour fire was discovered in the basement of Thos. DeSantis' store at Sherkston. There were no fire-fighting appliances, and the building was soon enveloped. The flames also caught Mr. DeSantis' residence and both store and house, with their contents, were destroyed. The stock was worth $4,000. Very little insurance was carried.

Mother and Six Children Burned to Death at New Liskeard.

IMPRISONED IN UPPER ROOM

Lawrence Haacke Left Homeless and Childless by the Flames—Fought Desperately to Effect a Rescue—Compassionate Citizens Contribute Fund to Send Bodies to Their Former Home.

New Liskeard, Feb. 1.—Six children and their mother were burned to death on Sunday morning when the shack in which they were living burst into flames.

The victims are Mrs. Lawrence Haacke and her children, Vera Margaret, aged 11; Mabel Irene, aged 9; George Frederick, aged 6; Clarence Henry, aged 4; Annie Evelyn, aged 2; and a new born infant.

Haacke formerly lived at 3 Bleecker street, Toronto. His home is in Markham Township, where the bodies will be sent for burial, a collection being taken up in town for this.

The house was a small building, twelve by fifteen, with one room down stairs used as a sitting room and one room upstairs used as a bedroom. Behind this was a kitchen of about ten by twelve. Haacke got up at 9.30 and kindled a fire in the front room, and then went outside to get some kindling for the kitchen stove. The rest of the family were asleep in bed.

While lighting the kitchen stove he heard his wife scream, and rushing in discovered that the front part of the house and stairway were on fire. He ran and summoned his brother-in-law, Fretz, who lived next door, and they got a ladder and put it up to the only window upstairs. When they broke the window a flame shot out, and they were badly burned themselves, especially Haacke, who was at the top of the ladder.

By this time the screams of the mother and children had been silenced.

An alarm was sent in, but when the firemen arrived the building, which was of frame and tar-papered inside, was burned to the ground. The body of the baby girl, two years old, was the first to be recovered. The body was very slightly scorched, due to the fact that it was wrapped in blankets. The body of the boy, 4 years old, was charred almost beyond recognition. The mother's limbs were all burned off.

The mother was 36 years of age, and at the time of the fire was in confinement. A sister lives on Hamilton street, Toronto. The family had lived in New Liskeard for two years, the husband being a carpenter, but latterly a teamster.

TO PROTECT THE YOUNG.

Britain Proposes to Prohibit the Cigarette and Save Lives of Infants.

London, Feb. 11.—If a bill which passed its first reading in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon becomes a law, juvenile lovers of the cigarette will have a hard time indulging their appetite. The act is a Government measure, which amends the existing laws for the protection of children. It prohibits smoking under the age of 16, provides penalties for anyone less than 16 years old caught smoking in the streets or other public places, and makes the sale of cigarettes to any person under the age of 16 a punishable offence.

Among other interesting features, the bill establishes juvenile courts throughout the country and calls for special places of detention for children, instead of sending them to the ordinary prisons. It proposes furthermore that the imprisonment of children be entirely abolished.

An effort also is to be made to end the terrible waste of infant life, through drunken parents rolling on their children in bed. The returns show that 1,600 infants perish annually from this cause, and in the future parents will be punished for such deaths. Burnings are responsible for an almost equal number of infant deaths, and penalties are provided for parents who leave children alone in rooms with unguarded fires.

The Kaiser's Free List.

Berlin, Feb. 11.—The Emperor has decided that the free list and the sale of tickets to the public for the royal opera be suspended for six evenings in February and March, so that what is called "society night" may be held.

The Emperor maintains the opera out of his private purse and has a permanent free list of four hundred. His Majesty frequently directs that tickets be sent to professors, artists and distinguished persons who he has received in audience, as well as to the trades people with whom he has dealings.

For a Big Labor Party.

New York, Feb. 11.—The decision of the United States Supreme Court awarding three times the damages asked for to Loewe & Sons, of Danbury, Conn., in the suit of the firm against the United Hatters of America for boycotting its products, came up for discussion, and resulted in the submission of resolutions by the executive committee at the meeting of the Central Federated Union calling on the American Federation of Labor to order a national convention of the unions to go into independent politics.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 31 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Copyright, 1895, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS.

something of this he showed her in his bitter, proud, inexorable look; then suddenly he retreated to the open French windows.

"You are going?" she cried. "I might have known. You were always —generous!"

"I am not now. I hear my master on the stairs."

"You are not going altogether?"

"Certainly not at present."

"When, when?" she cried below her breath.

"When you do me common justice."

Daintree had gone into the wrong room. The girl ran recklessly to the window.

"Tom!"

"Miss Harding?"

"Will you swear—to me—that you are innocent?"

But Tom was gone. She heard him treading viciously on the dark veranda. A moment later Daintree found her deeply engrossed before the chart. She wanted to know what the ship meant. He told her in a tender whisper.

"What a beautiful idea!"

"Well, it wasn't mine."

"Whose was it?"

"My servant's; he made her, and he moved her on each day. You would have said he was the lucky fellow himself!"

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE breeze had freshened; there were white wisps in the blue above and tiny crests upon the blue below. It was early morning, and Tom, having waited admirably overnight, was setting the breakfast table when his master came in glowing from the morning dip. As a rule they bathed together; this exception was their first. They had not spoken since the previous evening, but here was Daintree in a glow for more causes than salt water and fresh air, and a glance told the other that he was forgiven.

"Well, Thomas, will you listen to me another time? Neither lady has the slightest idea who you are."

"I am thankful to hear you say so," said Tom, laying the knives.

"Lady Starkie never set eyes on you before. I feel certain that Miss Harding doesn't know you from Adam. Don't you think it was rather vain of you to imagine that she would?"

"I was afraid of it, sir," said Tom; "that was all."

"And very natural, too," said his master kindly. "I quite enter into your embarrassment and only fear I said more than I meant in the heat of the moment last night. You must forgive me, Thomas. It was unpleasant for you, I admit, but you won't mind another day of it, will you? One more day will end it—for the present."

The swarthy countenance was more radiant than ever. Tom was nonplused.

"Only one more day?"

"For the present," repeated Daintree. "The ladies return to Sydney this afternoon. They go to the Pulteney. Shall I tell you why—shall I tell you why?"

And now one man was on fire, but the other felt a chill run down him as he nodded his head. He could not speak.

"Because it's to be at once!" cried Daintree, beside himself with joy. "Because a special license is to be had by paying for it, so why on earth should we wait for banns? My boy, we shall be married by the end of the week. Only think of it! I can't believe it myself. It's weeks sooner than I dared to hope. But women are all alike. The very best of 'em, Thomas, will take you by surprise if they can. What do you think? I'd tell this to no other living man. When I met her on board no day was too distant, and before we said good night it couldn't be too soon!"

The fine eyes glistened; the deep voice shook. There was no doubt about this man's love. But Tom was thinking of his darker side, and it had never seemed so dark before, for never before had he allowed himself to dwell upon it without shame. Now this was a duty. The point of view was changed, and the regrettable in Tom's benefactor became the intolerable in Claire's husband. Could she be happy with so dangerous a combination of the spoilt child and the unscrupulous tyrant! Would she be safe? Tom sweated with the thought. It was horribly entangled with that of his debt to Daintree. Yet for all that was in his heart the fitting and conventional speech passed his lips, and he found himself shaking the other by the hand.

"Congratulate me?" cried Daintree. "I should think you did! You have only to see her to know how happy she will make me. She is a sweet, true, unselfish girl. She has beauty and goodness and strong common sense. She can appreciate and admire and understand. She is the poet's ideal. I have been longing for her all my life. And then her manner! She will be a leader of society when I come to my own. Yes, Thomas, you may well congratulate me. She is going to make me the very happiest of men. I can see her now—friend of the wits, patroness of all the arts, gracious queen of an ideal salon—when the exile returns to his own."

And doubtless he could also see himself—as Tom could see him—swelling with happiness and pride and satisfaction. Her happiness he appeared to take for granted. It might be unfair to say that he never thought of it at all, but he very seldom spoke of it even to Claire.

Tom was in and out at breakfast. He contrived to be out as much as possible. Her face tortured him. He saw marks like bruises beneath the lustrous eyes that never looked his way. He noted the nervous effort of her conversation while he was present. But after breakfast, when he must have met her face to face on the veranda, she turned her back upon him in a manner not only pointed, but barbed. And for awhile his compassion deserted him altogether.

Claire was indeed not herself. Her indisposition became more and more transparent, and when she ultimately confessed to a perfectly sleepless night Daintree put it down to her great happiness and was the first to insist that she should "run away and rest" till luncheon. Lady Starkie, on the other hand, made herself extremely comfortable, quite doting on the harbor and Rose bay, while she declared that she had seldom felt better in her life. Nevertheless when her host began reading her his poems a faintness overcame the lady before he had got very far. It was quite inexplicable and most disappointing, but she feared that both Claire and herself were still suffering from the effects of the atrocious table on board that horrible ship. So Lady Starkie followed Claire upstairs, with the poems, which she took care to leave there when she came down again.

It was a little hard on Daintree, but he was now much too happy to be readily depressed or vexed. His rampant spirits sought relief in activity, and he galloped off to Sydney to secure rooms at the Pulteney hotel.

Tom was meantime behind the scenes. So was Peggy O'Brien, and already those keen Irish eyes had seen more than he thought, for hopeless love had fitted them with strong lenses, even as his triumphant suit had blinded her master to every passion but his own. The girl had long divined that some other woman stood between herself and Tom, and there were more reasons than might appear for her instantly pouncing upon Miss Harding as the one.

Peggy was sure that Tom and Daintree must have known each other in England, or why were they more like brothers than master and man? Tom would not tell her, and the Fawcetts could not. So Peggy set them down as two old friends, and what if the friends had loved the same woman? The idea occurred to her when she saw Tom manipulating the cork ship and so zealously preparing for the bride. It was then an idea only. It became a suspicion on the evening of the bride's arrival, and Claire was not the only young woman who lay awake all that night.

The other had been transported for a comparatively venial offense and had come through the thick of her ordeal a better woman than most. She is not put forward as an average specimen of her sex and kind in that colony and at that time. The Irishwomen were almost invariably the best of a deplorable lot, and Peggy was certainly not the worst of the Irishwomen. But there was evil in her, and passion was to bring it out, as it had already brought out the good. A callous man she could bear with and wait for so long as he was callous and cold to all. But to see and hear him sighing for another woman—and that other woman there on the spot—was to lash a patient and single hearted devotion into tumults of jealousy and bitter rage.

The thing galled her while it was still a suspicion. It maddened her when she knew it for a fact. And that was when, in the same half minute, she met Claire on the stairs in tears and saw Tom in his pantry with his head clasped tight between his hands. Peggy stole away without a word, and there was mischief in every noiseless step she took.

Her first thought was to tell Daintree. It she dismissed on consideration and tried making friends with the ladies' maid in order to acquire information. This young woman, however, could only talk of the fourth officer aboard the Rosamund, and it took Peggy half an hour to discover that she had never even seen Miss Harding before the voyage. So she knew nothing, and half the morning was gone, but Peggy was all the more determined to learn everything before the visitors left.

None of our people attended the quarterley service at Manilla on Sunday, Feb. 2nd, owing to the blockade of the roads from Saturday's storm. The services at our own church were omitted because of the quarterley service there.

Mrs. G. W. Hardy spent some days at her father's, Mr. Wm. White's, recently.

Miss Jean Bullock spent some days here last week, the guest of her friend, Miss Lena Bolton, of Forest Hill.

In Peterboro, on Wednesday, Jan. 22nd, Miss E. Brown, of that place was married to Mr. Elmer Jones, of this vicinity. The hpapy couple will reside here.

Miss Maud Jones, who for the past year has been keeping house for her brother, Mr. Elmer Jones, has returned to the parental roof at Omemee. She will be greatly missed, as she has made many warm friends during her stay here.

Miss Maggie McIntyre is visiting her sister, Mrs. McLeod, at Lindsay.

Mr. Sam Moore, of Powles' Corners, visited his brother, Mr. Will Moore, this week.

In spite of the bad roads several of our young men attended Mr. R. Thomas's sale at Woodville on Tuesday last.

Miss Winnifred Hardy is visiting her cousin, Mrs. (Rev.) J. U. Robins, of Seagrave, and also Whitby and Bowmanville friends.

We have our share of snow here.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Moore and children are spending the week at Mr. S. Moore's, Powles' Corners.

Mr. Hector McLean has returned home.

On account of the blockaded roads Rev. Jos. Ward had to spend from Sunday to Wednesday at Mr. Thos. Osborne's.

For the same reason your correspondent has not been able to send in his billet of news lately, but better late than never.

Public Library Board's "Annual" Mr. R. M. Beall Re-elected Chairman

County Will be Asked to Increase it's Grant to the Institution From $50 to $250 or $300 per Annum--- Election of Officers and Committees.

The annual meeting of the Public Library Board was held last evening. There were present; Chairman R. M. Beall, Judge Harding, Mr. W. Flavelle, Dr. Vrooman, Mayor Begg, Mr. Moore, Rev. Father Collins, Mr. Knight, Mr. Watts and sec.-treasurer Patrick. The minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed.

A number of communications were received, and on motion of Judge Harding, were filed for future consideration.

The following accounts were then read and passed; G. W. Beall, periodicals, $152.05; Light, Heat & Power Co., $8.79; Librarian's account, $8.60; M. Consedine, copying, 75c.; Geo. Little, ink, 60c.; McLennan & Co., coal, $34.55; Moran & Co. $2.37.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

The librarian's report was then presented as follows,

Report for month ending January, 1908; Circulation in detail—History 83, Biography 40, Voyages and Travels 64, General Literature 67, Juvenile, Boys 78, Girls 66, Little Ones 52, Found Periodicals 17, Poetry 26, Science 78, Religion 16, Miscellaneous 39, Fiction 867. Total circulation for month 1593. Number of new tickets issued during month, 12, cash receipts 90c.

On motion of Judge Harding, seconded by Mr. Beall, the report was fyled.

CLOSING THE LIBRARY

Considerable discussion then arose over the question of stock taking. Mr. Beall said that he did not consider it necessary for the library to be closed for stocktaking. Mr. Moore was of the same opinion, saying that a merchant did not close his store for stock-taking, and so he did not see any necessity for closing the library. He thought that the public would rather not have it closed for a week if it could possibly be prevented. The matter was left for further consideration by the members.

The sec.-treasurer then read a report of the receipts and expenditures and assets and liabilities, and on motion of Judge Harding, seconded by Mr. Walks, the report was fyled.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

The chairman then read his report for the year, which was as follows;

To the members of the Lindsay Public Library Board;

Gentlemen,—It may or may not be a wise thing that a member occupying a temporary position of honor on a board or other body similar to this, should, at the end of his term, have the privilege of addressing his fellow members. There is no doubt but that many unwise things have been said on such occasions, and it may be that some things that are said at this time may not meet the views of all or of any members of this Board, but if what is said is received in the spirit in which it is given, I am sure that no evil results will follow.

While it is a matter of regret that there has been an apparent falling off in the number of books taken throughout the year as shown by the secretary's report, it is gratifying to note that the decrease, if any, has been mainly in fiction. It is also encouraging to be able to report that we have an increase of one hundred and twelve in the number of borrowers for the year, and in view that there is an increase of one hundred and twelve in the number of borrowers for the year, and in view that there is an increase in the number who have taken books, it is possible that the volumes taken are longer time books, and if so would account for the greater part, if not all, of decrease in number as shown.

Our honored member, Mr. Knight, was appointed as representative of this Board, and attended the convention of the Ontario Library Association and from him we received a verbal report as to the proceedings.

Owing to extra expense, including increase in salaries and such unavoidable items as overdraft for $45.30 from 1906, and the bulk of insurance premiums for three years having to be paid, and in order to keep expenditure within the income, it was thought prudent this year to curtail the usual amount expended for books. However, with some of the above mentioned items disposed of, it is hoped that the Board will be enabled in 1908 to spend the sums necessary in order to draw the full amount of grant allowed by the Government.

Some system should be adopted whereby new books and books of current interest may be had more quickly. This applies more particularly to works of fiction and also works of note published throughout the year, and in order that the Library may not suffer, and may continue in the public favor, these should be had with as little delay as possible, before interest has ceased or before such books have been obtained other channels.

With our present practically fixed income, and almost annually increasing expenditure, it is becoming a more difficult matter to do justice to the Library and keep within the allowance, and it devolves on the Board to watch every dollar and to demand full value for every dollar expended. Owing to the well-known financial condition of the town, I think it is useless to expect more from that quarter at present, but I think that this Board would be fully justified in asking from the county an increased grant to the amount of at least two hundred and fifty dollars per annum. The present annual grant from the county of the sum of fifty dollars is really not worth considering, and when the county shall have increased its grant to this very reasonable sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, they will then be contributing only about one-sixth of the amount necessary for the support of the library, and the town, by its connection with the county, will be contributing a part even of that amount, and it certainly is worth more to the wealthy and important and intelligent County of Victoria than this small sum asked, to have an educational institution, such as this continually at its service, and I trust that with the assistance of the other members of this Board that the County representatives on the Board and on the town Council will endeavor to secure this increased grant at an early date.

I think the time has come when this Library should be kept open throughout the day from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Lindsay is large enough and of enough importance, to have passed beyond the status of a country hamlet, and it is certainly annoying that citizens of the town and county should seek admittance within these hours and find the building closed. And if we are to keep abreast of public opinion I think that some plan should be devised whereby the Library can also be kept open on all public holidays. There are many citizens who take advantage of such days to read, and for others it is the only time that they have an opportunity for looking at the periodicals or for visiting the building, and it is a hardship that they are not allowed to come in for that purpose and also choose a book if they so wish on these days, but if on account of extra expense this Board cannot see their way clear to keep the circulating department of the Library open, arrangements should be made whereby the public can be admitted to the reading rooms. It does not appeal to me as good judgment, nor as tending to public morality, that on public holidays, and at certain hours of any day or evening throughout the year, not a single publicly owned place in our town is open for the reception and convenience of any citizen who make desire to make a business appointment, meet a friend, engage in friendly conversation, or while away a pleasant hour; surely what we have of such places are few enough in number that we should need to look up those we have. And although the functions of a Board such as this are already numerous, I think that one more could be profitably added — that is, the making of a centre of educational interest in the broadest sense for the community, not officially, or as members of a Library Board, for should they attempt to do anything of that kind in their official capacity, I have no doubt but that something enacted by some person in the time of an Elizabeth, a Napoleon, a Nicholas or Julius Caesar, would prevent them from doing it.

People who are alive should continually make laws and conditions for the people who are living, and the same laws and conditions that ually make laws and conditions that the law makers make for other people should apply with equal force to themselves, and as all service that contributes to the general welfare, is valuable service, the ideal could be a Communal building, but as a start they could interest themselves by forming the nucleus of a Canadian, or what would be better, a national or international or Peoples' Club. I do not think that it is to the credit of Lindsay to lag behind in matters such as this—the ambition should be to lead; other towns no larger, and others again not so large, have long since enjoyed many things of which Lindsay has deprived herself. Lindsay is blessed, or otherwise, (mostly otherwise), with its full quota of private and semi-private clubs, and of societies galore, but of the things that make for the general welfare and comfort and intelligence of the people as a whole, or that draw people together as a community, a nation or a race, it is sadly deficient.

Should the members of this Board, either in whole or in part, decide on a line of action such as this, I feel sure that they would have the hearty co-operation of the citizens generally.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Moved by Judge Harding, seconded by Mr. Beall, that Mr. Knight be appointed to meet the County Council re increase of grant. Carried.

The officers for 1908 were then elected as follows;

Moved by Judge Harding, seconded by Dr. Vrooman, that Mr. R. M. Beall be re-appointed chairman. Carried.

Moved by Judge Harding, seconded by Mr. J. D. Flavelle, that Mr. G. S. Patrick be re-elected sec.-treas. —Carried.

Moved by Mr. Knight, seconded by Mr. Beall, that the present librarians, the Misses Reazin, be re-appointed. Carried.

On motion of Mr. Harding, seconded by Mayor Begg, the present janitor, Mr. Kelley, was re-appointed. —Carried.

Moved by Judge Harding, seconded by Mayor Begg, that the following gentlemen comprise the Library committee; Dr. Vrooman, Rev. Fr. Collins, Mr. Walks, Mr. Moore, Mr. Knight.—Carried.

Moved by Judge Harding, seconded by Mr. Knight, that the following gentlemen comprise the Finance and Building committee; Messrs. Flavelle, Vrooman, Begg, Devlin, Harding. —Carried.

Moved by Mr. Flavelle, seconded by Judge Harding, that sec.-treasurer's report of estimates be read, adopted, signed and forwarded to Town Council.—Carried.

A PRESENTATION

Mr. F. C. Moore then arose, and in a neat speech asked the Board to accept a fine large portrait which he took great pleasure in presenting to them. The subject of the picture, Sir John Macdonald, has been dead many years, but his name is fresh in the memory of a great many people of Canada to-day. The portrait was originally the work of one of the world's best artists, and was admired by all who beheld it, but was burnt in a disastrous fire several years ago. The portrait presented by Mr. Moore was a perfect copy, and will make an impression on all who view it on the walls of our library.

Moved by Judge Harding, seconded by Mr. Knight, that Mr. Moore's gift be accepted, and that the heartiest thanks of the Board be extended to the donor for same.—Carried.

The board then adjourned. After adjournment the different committees met and elected their chairmen as follows; Library Committee, Dr. Vrooman; Finance and Building, Judge Harding.

THE CONFESSED MURDERER IN A HIGH FEVER IN JAIL

Young Canadian From Ontario Worries Himself Sick.

Detroit, Feb. 8.—Percy Bowins, of Woodville, Ont., the slayer of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, was taken sick in the jail Thursday night, and was so bad yesterday that County Physician Grimes was called.

Bowins has a high fever, caused, it is thought, by disappointment over the non-arrival of his mother. He has been moody and fretful for the past few days, and has frequently retired to his cell to cry like a child.

Attorney Kennedy appeared before Judge Phelan yesterday morning and announced that he would make a motion to-day to quash the information, on the ground that the police obtained the confession by holding out false inducements, and that the boy should have been given a preliminary examination in the Police Court. Bowins' illness may make a difference in this plan. Kennedy contended that he must have more time in which to prepare for the trial.

COMMUNICATIONS

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—By carefully reading The Evening Post of Saturday, 8th, I notice that there are a few generous-hearted people in Lindsay who have more of this world's goods than others, and who are willing to share some of it. The writer of this letter has a family able to work, but I write to say it would be an act of charity to send a ton of coal or some provisions to No. —, Glenelg-st. west, as the lady is a widow and too old to go out to work, and her daughter has been sick all winter — not able to do anything. They did not want to ask, as they have never had to ask help before, being always able to manage till sickness came. This is a deserving case, but I don't wish the name made public.—Yours, etc.,

HARD ON THE WORKING MAN.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—"Old country" people, whilst at home, are monotonously informed that immigrants to this country will act wisely by adapting themselves to "Canadian methods."

The lavish literature produced and distributed by the Canadian Government emphasizes the fact, and one of the strong points of still yet another canvass, which I see by the present issue of the "War Cry", the Salvation Army are despatching to England to induce the people to emigrate, is the advisability of immigrants adopting "Canadian methods."

There is one method to which I strongly object. There have been several cases brought to my notice, so I take it as being correct. A man is engaged to work at a stipulated rate of pay. After performing his part of the contract he is told there is no money and he can have an order on some particular stores for groceries and provisions.

In the old country for many years the "Truck Act" has prevented a man getting commission from the stores by giving the worker the full liberty to spend his own wage wherever he thought fit. If there is not a law here to this effect, it is time the method was improved.—Yours, etc.,

County Judge's Report Equalization Assessment of The County of Victoria

Full Text of Judge Harding's Decision—Manner in Which Municipal Assessors Observe, or Fail to Carry Out, the Requirements of the Act.

On the 5th day of June, 1906, the County Council of the County of Victoria, by By-law 621, appointed Geo. H. Graham, esq., of the township of Ops, and Henry W. Jackson, esq., of same place, and Geo. B. Lindsay, esq., of the town of Lindsay, valuators, under the provisions of the Assessment Act, Section 89.

Going to the illness of William B. Graham, esq., it became necessary to appoint another valuator in his place, and on the 29th day of August, 1906, the County Council by resolution, appointed George B. Graham, esq., of the township of Mariposa, to fill the place as valuator for the said county.

On the 17th day of September the said valuators, Messrs. B. Graham, Henry W. Jackson and George B. Lindsay, made the necessary declaration of office before A. B. Yeomans, esq., a justice of the peace in and for the County of Victoria.

By the 3rd paragraph of the said By-law 621, the said valuators were directed in the performance of the duties assigned to them under said Act, and the said by-law to be governed by the conditions of S. S. 8 of the said Act, Section 89 of the Assessment Act, and in ascertaining the value as at from 1 to 8 per cent. of the different parcels of land in the different parts of each municipality in the county. They shall value and percentage in each polling sub-division of each municipality, and in all other respects whether or not expressed or implied, they shall be governed by the provisions of S. S. 8, 4 and 8 of said Sec. 89.

By the 4th paragraph in valuing farm property the assessors shall not go more home than Nov. 1st, next coming, nor earlier than May 1, 1907.

And by the 5th paragraph the final report of the said valuators shall be filed with the County Clerk not later than the 31st day of May, 1907.

By the 2nd paragraph of the said By-law it was provided that in the event of the said valuators, or any of them, refusing to accept the office to which he is appointed, or being unable from any cause to enter upon or complete his work, the warden of the county shall have authority, upon the advice, and with the concurrence of the Advisory committee, of his Council to appoint another person or persons to fill any vacancy or vacancies thus arising, and this Council doth hereby ratify and confirm such appointment or appointments so made by the warden.

It is further provided by the 6th paragraph that in the event of the said valuators being unable to agree as to the value of any parcel of property they shall make a note of the differences that may arise in the course of the discharge of their duties and shall submit the same to the Advisory committee of this Council, and the said committee shall take such steps as they shall deem advisable in fixing the value of such proportion as is disputed.

The valuators have complied the valuation according to the directions contained in the said by-law presented their report dated the 11th day of June, 1907 to the County Council of the County of Victoria, attached to the said report was a certificate signed by the three valuators and verified by their sub-scribers before F. A. McDiarmid, commissioner of the High Court of Justice, on said 19th day of June, 1907. This report was presented to the County Council on the 19th day of June, and after an adjournment for the purpose of having the report printed and distributed to the municipalities of the local municipalities, the matter came up before the County Council again on the 27th day of June, 1907, when the said report was adopted by the County Council, and By-law 641 was passed confirming the equalization of the assessment of the County of Victoria, for the purpose of levying the county rates in 1908 for the year 1908. On the 16th day of July the clerk of the County Council received notice with a notice of appeal on behalf of the Municipality of the Village of Sturgeon Point, and on the 16th day of July with a notice of appeal of the townships of Bexley, Carden, Dalton, Eldon, Fenelon, Laxton, Digby and Longford, and on the 16th day of July I received the notice required by S. S. 8, 9 of Sec. 89 of the Assessment Act, from the Clerk of County Council of the County of Victoria, and on the 19th day of July I appointed the 5th day of August for each of the said appeals, which upon a meeting of the counsel of the different municipalities of the County of Victoria, it was agreed to adjourn the hearing until the 10th day of September, when the matter of the said appeal was proceeded with.

On my investigation of the Assessment Rolls of the different municipalities, I found that four assessors in the local county had carefully and properly performed their duties, thus enabling me to adopt their figures in the county valuation. These municipalities were the town of Lindsay, and the townships of Bexley, Eldon and Mariposa. The assessors of all the other rural municipalities had made their assessment without any regard to the provisions of the Assessment Act. The two townships that had most flagrantly violated the law were Emily and Ops. The assessor of the township of Ops in making his return, instead of assessing that he had assessed the real property of the township at its actual value, certified that he had assessed it at two-thirds its value, and the clerk of that township negligently accepted this improper return of the roll. It is a fair question as to whether the ratepayers could be used for the account of the taxes, founded upon such a deceitful assessment. On my pointing this matter to the notice of the Council for the township of Ops, it entered a new valuation to be made by two independent valuators, and I have used their valuation in my valuation. The township of Emily paid no attention to the matter, and if they suffer in the equalization they have themselves to blame. In the townships of Carden, Dalton, Digby and Longford, Somerville, Fenelon and Verulam, practically now assessments were made by the assessors in the rolls were so defective that I could not place any dependence upon them.

The assessors of the four villages municipalities except Sturgeon Point, performed their duties in a fair and proper manner, but still there is great room for improvement in the assessment of these villages. The best assessment of the village of Sturgeon Point made after the commencement of these proceedings in notice/appeal, I have adopted to take the figures as the basis upon which the assessment of that village was made for equalization purposes.

Board of Investigation's Report In the Telegraphers' Wages Case

Employers Have Interests—Not to the Public's Advantage That Properties Should Be Made Unprofitable.

The following, which will appear in the February "Labor Gazette," is from the Report of the Board of Investigation under the Lemieux Act, composed of Prof. A. Shortt, J. G. O'Donoghue and Mr. Justice Cassels, K.C., which recently adjusted the dispute between the Grand Trunk Ry. and the Telegraph operators:

"The board were much impressed by the suggestions that the same course had recommended in the minute of pay to the telegraphers in the employ of the Canadian Pacific than they were prepared to recommend in the present instance. We are glad to be able to state that the parties appreciated the reasons why the members of the board could not in this instance see fit to go to the recommendation of any high or rate than that finally agreed upon between the parties, and we desire to put upon record some of the reasons which have influenced our decision.

"We thought, under the present conditions, that the offer of the company in the matter of increase of pay was one that could be justified. There are many considerations entering into the question, in our view, there is the right of the men to receive a living wage, and that right is paramount. The workman is entitled to get a fair day's wage for a fair day's work. What, however, often seems to be ignored is that capital and labor are both necessary in order to produce a profit, whether it is in the operation of railways, in manufacturing, or in any other branch of trade. The aim of the worker should be to secure a fair share of this profit. But there is also to be considered the position of the man who advances the money to enable the undertaking to be carried on which gives employment. He, too, is entitled to receive a return for his money and his risk. A hundred millions of the capital stock of the Grand Trunk Railway receives no dividend whatever. If the employees of the property at all are now being paid are still further reduced by the wages bill being increased, what then would inevitably follow? The company cannot obtain further money for expansion, for it will be more remunerative to invest in other undertakings. This certainly would be a disadvantage to the vast numbers who find employment on railways. Then there is the question of the public demand for the betterment of the service and equipment, for increase of facilities, for the lengthening of sidings and general improvement in the accommodation. These can only be satisfied where the parties asked to advance the money can see some possibility of return for the advance. Our experience on a number of these boards has led us to the conclusion that there seems to be an antagonism on the part of the public of two things: First, that there is a constant demand for an increase of expenditure on the part of the company for facilities, and second, a continual demand for a reduction of the tolls which furnish the money necessary for such increase facilities and accommodations. The growth of earnings is not keeping pace proportionately with the growth of expenses. If operating expenses and wages to employees must be increased from time to time, and the public so demand, very serious considerations must be given to the proposals for the reduction of freight and passenger rates, inasmuch as every reduction of rate affects the ability of the railways to pay the wages asked by their employees. There is no doubt that the cost of living has greatly increased, and that the employees of railway company are entitled to be better compensated to meet such increased cost, but the question is, should they be compensated at the sole expense of people who have invested their money in railways, and who have depleted of their means of livelihood. The public should bear their share. We like the suggestion made recently for the benefit of every other industry of the community, namely, that the employees of the community who receive the benefit of the money expended should contribute a share towards enabling him to get the money he has to spend, and it is for the foregoing reasons that, under the present conditions, and having in view all the surrounding circumstances, we thought that the offer of increase made by the officials of the Grand Trunk Railway Company had gone as far as could be justified, though not necessarily to the limit which the telegraphers ought to receive under the circumstances. The deferring of the investment of capital in railway undertakings would certainly not be a benefit to the community at large, and if the property of lenders is to be jeopardized, it must lead to a general reduction in wages or a diminution in the number of employees, with a much greater ultimate loss to labor. It has been suggested that this state of affairs must be met by the state becoming sole owner of the railways. To accomplish this it would be necessary to make railways and work them, would not the state be a gainer? The mere fact of state ownership does not bring capital down from the skies like the manna of old, and lenders in the desert. If borrowed by the state, interest must be paid for it, and probably at higher rate than the state now has to pay, for two reasons, first, because of being tied up in a lump, and second, because

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

HER HEAD SPLIT OPEN.

Mysterious Death of Former Toronto Woman In Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11.—Death yesterday sealed the lips that might have cleared the mystery of Mrs. Madeline A. Booth of Toronto, Ont., who was found in the home of Dr. H. H. Hoppe on Sunday with her head split open in three places with a hatchet, supposedly by a burglar. The woman died without having regained consciousness. The authorities failed to get in communication with her husband, James R. Booth, who was a contractor in Toronto, in September, 1903, when the couple were married in that city, but who, since their separation, is reported to have removed to Sault Ste. Marie.

The only address of Booth found in letters among the woman's effects is Earl Grey, Province of Saskatchewan, Canada. The case is the most mysterious the local police have had to deal with in years.

When Mrs. Booth was found lying in a pool of blood in the pantry of the Hoppe home there was not another person in the house and all the doors were locked. Her skull was crushed like an egg-shell, yet she lived until yesterday. Detectives were constantly at her bedside at the hospital, but the vigil was in vain, and now that she is dead the police have not the slightest clue to work on. The hatchet with which the deed was done was found by her side, and Dr. Hoppe declared it his belief that Mrs. Booth wielded the weapon herself, citing the case of a man who drove a nail into his own skull.

Mrs. Booth was a widow when she married Booth, who was her third husband. She is said to have murdered a son by her first husband 15 years ago, and was for a time in an insane asylum.

FATHER FIRED ON SON.

Quiet Village of Moriel Stirred by the Awful Tragedy.

Alfred Holsworth, aged 50, had quarrelled with his son, William, aged 24, who went into a woodshed and barricaded himself. The father got a shotgun and fired through the door. The boy was wounded in the left hand and right arm, and screamed. Thinking he had killed the son, the father returned to the house, and taking down a shotgun, turned it on himself. He was prevented from doing himself injury by a neighbor, Frank Fitch, who took the gun away. Then the old man attempted to swallow some carbolic acid, but again was thwarted by Fitch. The latter took the cartridges out of the gun and in due time left, thinking Holsworth safe. The latter, however, had other cartridges in the house, and fired three shots before he succeeded in seriously wounding himself. Part of his face and nose is blown away and he will probably die.

Sunday Court In Canada.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—A unique case has arisen in Ottawa which establishes a Sunday session of the police court last Sunday. The magistrate held court at 11 o'clock in the morning and remanded a prisoner until yesterday. The court will be held every Sunday owing to the fact that the county jail authorities refuse to accept prisoners from the police over Sunday who have not already appeared before the magistrate and been remanded. The jail people take this view in consequence of the recent death of a prisoner in the county jail. This man died shortly after admission and remained over Sunday on a remand signed by a police sergeant. The Sunday court is the only one of its kind in Canada.

Man Found Frozen.

Preston, Feb. 11.—Word was received here yesterday morning that Jos. Leyman of this town had been frozen to death while walking from Guelph to Little Germany.

Leyman was a tinsmith in Clare Bros'. stove works, and left Saturday evening for Guelph with the intention of walking to Little Germany, where his wife and five-year-old daughter were visiting. He was found Sunday morning on the road near Weisenberg.

The man had become exhausted from tramping through the deep snow and froze to death before help reached him.

Murder In Street Car.

New York, Feb. 11.—A girl of the tenderloin, known to her companions only as "Queenie," about 27 years old and decidedly pretty, was shot and almost instantly killed while riding on a northbound Second avenue car at Eighth street early yesterday. A young man who was sitting opposite the girl in the car fired the shot and then made his escape.

Thousands Destitute.

Philadelphia, Feb. 11.—An appeal for aid for destitute people in the Kensington Mill district of Philadelphia, one of the greatest industrial centres in the world, was made at the meeting at the Central Labor Union. A delegation of textile workers claimed that from 35,000 to 50,000 men, women and children were destitute.

Babe Smothered In Bed.

Peterboro, Feb. 11—The five months' old son of Thomas Jones of this city was found dead in bed yesterday morning. The little one was smothered to death by becoming wrapped up in the bed clothes.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—(Special.)—At the Montreal stock yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 8 were 2048 cattle, 837 sheep and lambs, 1637 hogs and 122 calves. The supply this morning for local consumption consisted of 425 cattle and 180 hogs. The attendance of local buyers was large and as they all wanted some beef a good trade was done, considering that the supply was very limited. The demand was principally for small lots to fill actual requirements, consequently they all managed to get sufficient beef to see them over until later on in the week, when it is expected that supplies will be more plentiful, if no more storms strike the country in the meantime. Choice beeves sold at 5½c to 5¾c; good, at 4¾c to 5¼c; fair, at 4c to 4½c; common, at 3½c to 3¾c, and inferior, at 2¾c to 3¼c per lb. There were no sheep or lambs on the market, but prices were reported firm and choice lambs were quoted at 6¼c to 6½c; good, at 5¾c to 6c and common at 5¼c to 5½c; choice sheep, at 4c to 4½c; good at 3½c to 3¾c and culls, at 3c to 3¼c per lb. A strong feeling has developed in the market for hogs and prices have advanced 30c to 50c per cwt., since this day week. This has been due entirely to the scarcity of supplies on account of the severe weather of late and the general opinion is that the present values will not be maintained when receipts become normal again. Sales of small lots of selected stock were made at $6.50 per cwt., weighed off cars. Cable advices from London and Bristol on Saturday on Canadian bacon were stronger and noted an advance in prices of 1s 6d per cwt., but the Liverpool market was weaker and 2s to 3s lower than a week ago.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 1900 head; heavy, steady; others, active and strong to 10c higher; prime steers, $5.75 to $6; shipping, $5.10 to $5.55; butchers', $4.50 to $5.55; heifers, $3.60 to $5.40; cows, $3 to $4.75; bulls, $3.25 to $4.75; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3.25; fresh cows and springers, steady to $2 higher, $20 to $57.

Veals—Receipts, 800 head; active, 25c higher, $5 to $10.

Hogs—Receipts, 18,700 head; fairly active, 15c to 20c lower; heavy, $4.65 to $4.70; mixed and yorkers, $4.70 to $4.75; pigs, $4 to $4.75; roughs, $3.90 to $4.10; stags, $3 to $3.60; dairies, $4.60 to $4.75; closing, slow.

GOODERHAM.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. W. J. Armstrong, G. C., of the Toronto Jct. R. T. of Temperance, held a very interesting lecture in the church on Tuesday, the 21st. Although the weather was disagreeable, quite a crowd gathered, and a number of members were added to the list. Mr. Jas. Shea, of Wilberforce, also took a prominent part in the lecture. Refreshments were served, and everyone came home well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Miss Lillia Filkin left on Saturday for her home in Irondale.

Mrs. Conkell, of Wilberforce, who has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Vallean, has been very ill, but under the skillfull treatment of Dr. Walker is favorably recovering.

Mrs. A. McColl has also been suffering from erysipelas, and at the time of writing is in a precarious condition.

Mr. R. Hill has been confined to bed for a couple of weeks with lagrippe.

Mr. R. H. Baker, editor and proprietor of the Minden Echo, spent Tuesday in the village on business.

Mr. N. Trotter, of the Eby Blain Co., Toronto, called on the merchants on the 31st.

Mrs. Day, of Tory Hill, made a short visit with her daughter, Mrs. A. Graham. She was accompanied on her return trip by her two little grandchildren.

We understand the section boss has had a deal of trouble with the public taking occasional drives on the track.

Miss Lizzie Barr left Monday to spend a few days with friends in Irondale.

SNOWBOUND AT LOCUST HILL ON BOARD A C. P. R. TRAIN

52 hours from Toronto to Lindsay—an experience which will not soon fade from the memory of those of our citizens who boarded the C. P. R. train on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 5th.

The train pulled out of the Union Station into the worst blizzard in years, and although preceeded by two pair of mogul engines, with two snow ploughs, they were soon embedded hard and fast in the drifts, and the passenger train advanced only as far as Agincourt, where it remained that night. Train loads of "navvies" from Toronto, with several more powerful engines, with their equipment, were sent out to do battle with the drifts, but despite all the efforts of the company they only succeeded in clearing one track as far as Peterboro by Friday night, and several snowbound trains were relieved.

The train containing the Lindsay contingent pushed on as far as Locust Hill on Thursday morning, where it was obliged to remain until Thursday evening. Owing to the inclement weather all hands spent the first night in the coaches, as it was almost impossible to reach the nearest houses for provisions. The second night several of the ladies were comfortably entertained by the kind people of Locust Hill, the rest of the passengers stretched themselves out as best they could between the seats in the coaches and in the waiting room and baggage car. One of the gentlemen, on being complimented by his friend that he looked fresh, answered, "Nodoubt, for I'v been in cold storage all night."

Despite inconvenience, everyone made the best of the situation, and a happy, social crowd played tricks, cracked jokes and told stories, and at no time during the long hours of waiting was anyone heard to worry, or complain. Mr. Major, of Whitevale, P.O., the well known horse breeder, spent the first night on the train, travelling from Toornto home to Locust Hill. Upon reaching home on Thursday he immediately returned to his new-made friends in distress, bringing a barrell filled with choice Northern Spies, also a jar of sweet cider, which he presented to the passengers and train crew.

NEWS OF TANKARD GAME.

Although only a few miles from Toronto, no word had been received as to the result of the Tankard games, and as the Lindsay rinks were behind when the train had left Toronto, it was felt that there was hope for Lindsay up to the time when the last end was played. When, in answer to the telephone message, "Who Won the Tankard?" the answer came, "Lindsay!" a great shout went up, the like of which has not been heard in Locust Hill since the days when their famous football team, by clever farmer lads, won the Midland District championship two years in succession.

TRAIN CREW HONORED.

Never was there a more genial and obliging conductor and train crew than those in charge. They were the target at which thousands of questions were hurled, questions which none but the seventh son of a seventh son could have answered. Conductor McAllister, of Tweed, was on the alert to see that meals were provided for everyone, and everything was done for our comfort which was possible, under the circumstances. The following "round robin" was signed by over half a hundred passengers, and read by Mr. F. M. Black, of Nelson, B.C., to the conductor and crew, after which all sang, "For they are jolly good fellows";

Locust Hill, Ont., Feb. 7, '08.

B. H. McAllister, Conductor, and staff, C.P.R.;

Dear Sirs,—Owing to the unavoidable mysteries of the Ontario winter, some fifty odd of us have been shepherded by you in storm and sunshine for over forty-eight hours. Since we shall never all meet again under such circumstances, we, the undersigned, wish to place on record our hearty appreciation of you reconstant care and thoughtfulness for us in the midst of many difficulties. We have feasted with easy minds and good appetites and slept as well as our crowded car and our near neighbors would let us. It was our desire to accompany this expression of our esteem with something suitable in the way of service of plate, elaborate shaving outfits, etc., but finding ourselves at Locust Hill, confined to a choice between canned salmon and 5c. cigars, we leave our signatures instead, trusting that in all your connection with this run you may never again have as much trouble or responsibility, but that you may always have a pleasant and good natured a crowd with you.—We beg to sign ourselves, yours very truly, (Over fifty names).

Port Perry Defeated Uxbridge Last Night In Fine Game of Shinney

Uxbridge Boys Ahead at Half Time---Game Was Strenuous in Character, But Shooting Was Poor---Port Perry the Faster Team.

The attendance at last night's Port Perry-Uxbridge hockey match was first-class, and ranked far above the attendance the Lindsay team receives. But as far as hockey goes, it was a failure. It would have delighted the hearts of old-timers, who say they cannot understand the game of to-day, to see the players go scurrying round the ice without the least method in their madness, passing the puck to men that weren't there, shooting from the far end for a goal that couldn't be seen for men in the path the puck must take, and slashing, checking and tripping at every opportunity.

Referee Thomas, of Barrie, certainly had his work cut out for him. Hardly an offside escaped him, and it kept him busy tinkling his bell to keep up even with these. There were over fifty offsides tallied in the penalty box. Men would deliberately loaf off side and wait for the puck to come out to them.

Where Uxbridge lacked particularly, was that when a man got the puck shot out to him from a scrimmage, he held it on his stick too long and id not seem to be able to get under way till the other team had had time to recover, and knowing about what he was going to do were prepared to stop him. Neither team could rush worth a cent, although Port Perry was better than Uxbridge. Both teams seemed to think they were playing on their own little bandbox rinks and kept taking long shots at the goals without being able to shoot straight.

THE GAME.

Play commenced at about nine o'clock, and although fast for ordinary teams it wasn't in it with the style of hockey played by other teams seen here lately. Shortly after nine the referee got a bad cut on the lower lip with the puck, as some one raised it. Lifting, by the way, was a favorite method of getting the puck along.

Lott, of Uxbridge, had the honor of scoring goal number one about five minutes after the play began. Things settled down to the usual hurry-scurry till he again scored eighteen minutes later.

Port Perry's man, Price, got back with a goal a minute later, but no more were scored during the half. Uxbridge 2, Port Perry 1. Lott, Carnegie and Anderson adorned the fence at intervals for tripping, etc.

The second half started off with a little faster play. In one minute Carnegie, of Port, scored their second. Gordon had a similar shot for Uxbridge a minute later. Play was again commonplace for the next fifteen minutes till Price landed number three in the nets for Port Perry. A few minutes later Carnegie, of the same place landed number four, which he again followed a couple of minutes later with the fifth. Vansickler, of Uxbridge landed the fourth goal for his team, and the last of the game a bare minute before time was called, making the score at the end of the game, Port Perry 5, Uxbridge 4.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Curling.

D. & F. TEAMS WILL PLAY.

What promises to be a very interesting event in curling circles is being pulled off this evening at the rink between Dundas & Flavelle Bros' staff and the Flavelle Milling Co. The losers are to put up an oyster supper at the close of the game. The strongest players in both places have been chosen for the occasion, and some fine shots are sure to take place. The personnel of the rinks is as follows;

D. & F. Bros. L'td	Flavelle Mill. Co
H. McMullen,	P. Shannon,
E. Armstrong,	G. Corneil,
B. Searl,	J. McDonnell,
R. Menzies, skip	A. Watson, skip.

THE DADDY OF THEM ALL.

Peterborough Review; Lindsay is famous nearly the world over, at least in all those parts of it where snow and ice prevail, for pluck and proficient curlers. The dean, or daddy of them all, is Mr. J. D. Flavelle, who is said to curl up even when he goes to bed. His onslaughts upon the Winnipeg prizelist has made him a national hero and now that he has led his men to victory for the seventh time in the Tankard competition, Lindsay's cup will be full—of joy. We recognize, or he does, that it is not the eight men comprising both rinks, but like John Brown, his spirit goes marching on. There being no need of Peterborough's fighting for the Tankard, we contented ourselves with the next best—the Governor-General's medal.

THE GAME IN QUEBEC.

Toronto World; The fact that Montreal curls with iorns would indicate that it is ordinarily a ladies' game. Anyway, they have a ladies' bonspiel all arranged for next week. It is curious that the big Freench-Canadian city is aboutt he only place in the world that indulges in the great Scotch winter pastime without the regulation granites. The irons are heavy as the curling stones, but, of course, much smaller, and are capable of the turns. The chief drawback is the lack of intercourse with the rest of the curling world that it is thus forced on a city that might otherwise figure as prominently in the game as, say, Toronto or Winnipeg.

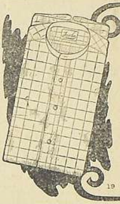
Hockey

TO-MORROW FIXTURES.

Hockey lovers will have a chance to witness two good games to-morrow night at Lindsay-st. rink. The first — at 8 o'clock — will be between the Y.M.C.A. and Little Britain; the second, between the Bankers and C. L. S. The weather having moderated, there should be a good attendance of spectators.

IN THE LAND OF SILVER.

New Liskeard and Haileybury severs came together Saturday night in a scheduled championship game that was full of ginger and dynamite, and hockey sticks. The score ended 2-1 in favor of the former town. The game was the roughest ever played in that district, and the statement means something in a land where the rough miner predominates and where the goalkeeper is presented with hunks of native silver. One player retired with a broken jaw, and several came near having their heads fractured, before the police were called in.



Tooke SHIRTS

No stiff-bosomed shirt, no matter how well it fits, can ever give the same comfort that a soft bosom does.

With a Neglige, or Soft-bosom Shirt, there is no binding across the chest—nothing stiff or uncomfortable to impede your movements.

Tooke Neglige Shirts can be had either with plain or pleated bosoms in a big variety of exclusive designs.

They are made either with or without attached cuffs.

Shirts having attached cuffs are the most popular and most convenient.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

Constantinople Shoemakers.

In Constantinople the shoemakers are all poets. While a customer is having a heel repaired or a shoe relaced the attendant recites extemporized or memorized verses to him. As the language is Arabic or Turkish, the listener rarely knows whether he is hearing a good or bad verse. On the Muski, the Broadway of old Cairo, one can buy the red leather, sharp toed slippers, universally worn in a land where there is rarely any rain, for about 60 cents. They are not worth more, being very flimsy articles in construction. SEED GRAIN LOANS

Hon. Mr. Fielding Assures Farmers of Fair Consideration.

EXTEND TIME FOR PAYMENT

Mr. Lake Would Give Farmers Three Years to Pay—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Gives Facilities For Bringing In Public Bills—Rules Block Progress Says W. F. Maclean—Sir Chas. Tupper's Expenses.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—In the House yesterday Mr. Lake (Qu'Appelle) brought up the question of the vote for seed grain on motion to go into supply being reached. Mr. Lake had an amendment to extend the time for payment for seed grain from one to three years, but said he did not intend it as a vote of want of confidence and would prefer to have the Government adopt the amendment. The condition of western farmers was the result of the financial stringency.

Quoting prices of the Winnipeg Exchange, Mr. Lake said for every bushel of seed the farmer gets he will have to repay two or perhaps three bushels in the fall.

Mr. Oliver pointed out that regulations were drawn up after consultation with provincial authorities, and he thought they ought to be adopted as they stand. The regulations as to homesteaders had been framed to conform with the ideas of the provinces in dealing with settlers possessing patents.

Mr. Borden argued for the resolution, urging that perhaps regulations could be changed by negotiations with the provinces.

Mr. Fielding said the resolution of Mr. Lake had served a good purpose in opening up the whole subject of the regulations, and many suggestions had been made which would be considered by the Government. He, however, thought that Mr. Lake should not press his motion. If next year's crop be a good one, an extension of time might not be necessary, but if people could not pay their obligations it would be competent for the Government to grant an extension. It was a matter that could safely be left to the judgment of the Government.

Mr. Knowles (Lib., Assiniboia) was fully in accord with everything said by Opposition members, and he was sure the Minister of the Interior would take the suggestions given into his serious consideration.

Mr. Taylor (Leeds) suggested that the Federal Government assume any loss that might be incurred by the provinces by extension of time to settlers holding patents. The provinces should be told to go on and distribute the grain the same as the Dominion.

Mr. Herron (Alberta) urged the extension of time, while Dr. Sproule feared that pressure might be brought to bear upon some settlers to pay when such payment would be a hardship.

On the orders of the day being called, R. L. Borden asked on what authority Mr. Brodeur stated in reply to a question that part of the expenses of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper in England during the Behring Sea negotiations were paid by the British Government. He had received a letter from Sir Charles, who said that such was not the case. Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to enquire.

Dr. Sproule read a circular sent by the manager of the I.C.R., to the effect that employes would not be allowed to take part in municipal elections as candidates except under exceptional circumstances. In the face of this certain employes were candidates in recent elections.

Mr. Graham hesitated to forbid any employe running an election. The exceptional circumstance was shown in the result of the election, for the people evidently wanted the men, as they were elected.

Mr. Crocket (York, N.B.) drew attention to the postmaster at Woodstock, N.B., who was alleged by a newspaper clipping to have taken part in a political meeting. He had sent the clipping to Mr. Lemieux, who had replied that he had written to the postmaster for an explanation. Later on, a question being put on paper, Mr. Lemieux had replied that his attention had not been called to the matter.

Mr. Lemieux said he meant that no "complaint" had been made.

Mr. Emmerson fathered the circular, but there were exceptions. He had consented to a couple of employes at Stellarton running for the council, as it was represented that good men were scarce and the duties of office would not interfere with their duties on the railway.

Rules Block Progress.

On motion to go into supply at the evening session W. F. Maclean (South York) again called attention to the state of the order paper. Under the new rules public bills and orders could only be reached on Mondays and Wednesdays after notices of motion had been disposed of. These were very numerous and every one of these days had been taken up with them, so that it seemed to be impossible to reach public bills and orders this session. Many of them were of more importance than notices of motion and they ought to have precedence. They were the schooling ground for Government legislation and were often incorporated in Government legislation.

Mr. Maclean suggested that the leaders get together and bring about a change in rules, so that on alternate Mondays and Wednesdays after the first four weeks of sessions public bills and orders be given priority over notices of motion.

Among the measures thus shifted to the bottom of the paper were bills to amend the Railway Act, Criminal Law, Shipping Act, Immigration Act, Fishery Act and Conduct of Elections. Unless, he said, it was the intention to cut off this legislation altogether it would be advisable to amend the rules.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed out that it was not necessary to change the rules on Thursday for the first four weeks; the first order was questions and public bills and orders. If he could accommodate Mr. Maclean he would be glad to arrange a date for bringing on his railway bills, and there would be no objection to settling them down for some day next week.

R. L. Borden pointed out that all of four weeks in the early part of the session were not available, and it might be well to make it four clear weeks.

The seed grain regulations were discussed again last night. Mr. McCraney (Saskatchewan) dealt with the question of the security, while Hon. Wm. Paterson said the motion was an expression of want of confidence in the people of the west. David Henderson (Halton) said a heavy obligation was being put on the people of the west.

Col. Sam Hughes thought the settlers would have enough to do to meet their obligations without having to meet payments for seed grain at the end of the year.

The amendment of Mr. Lake was defeated by 98 to 88. All the western members voted with the Government.

The following bills were given a final reading last night:

To incorporate the Bank of Winnipeg (Bole); respecting the ministers' widows and orphans fund of the Presbyterian Church in Canada (Bickerdike); respecting patents of Montague, Moore and T. J. Heskett (Osler); respecting patents of the Goodwin Car Co. (Osler).

FORTY WOMEN ARRESTED.

Suffragettes Made Desperate Attack on British House.

London, Feb. 12.—A band of militant delegates from the Parliament of Woman Suffragists, now in session here, made a vigorous assault on the House of Commons yesterday.

Their attempt to rush the doors of the lobby, however, were frustrated by the police, who had a sharp skirmish with the shrieking women, two score of whom were arrested for disorderly conduct.

The attacking party was trying to deliver to the House of Commons a resolution protesting against the "unconstitutional action of the Government in refusing a vote to women taxpayers."

The delegates secreted themselves in furniture vans in the vicinity of the buildings and were thus enabled to get close to the point of attack before being discovered.

Immigration Statistics.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—According to a return tabled by the Minister of the Interior yesterday, 189,064 immigrants arrived in Canada during 1905-6. Of this total 65,135 were English, 15,846 Scotch, 5,018 Irish, 6,056 Russian Jews, 7,959 Italians, 5,656 Galicians, 1,648 French and 57,919 Americans.

The return for 1907 covers only the nine months' period. In that time the total immigration was 124,667, of whom 41,156 were English, 10,729 Scotch, 3,404 Irish, 502 Welsh, 1,314 French, 5,802 Russian Jews, 5,114 Italians and 34,748 Americans.

China Musters Her Troops.

Pekin, Feb. 12.—Border complications and the success of the rebels on the French border, due, it is believed, to foreign assistance, have induced the Chinese Government to hasten the organization of her modern drilled troops at all frontier points. The Government proposes again to send Prince Su to Mongolia for the purpose of developing the plans looking to the organization of defences for frontier districts. A modern drilled skeleton brigade is now on its way to Thibet for the purpose of organizing a Thibetian division.

Year For Wife Beating.

Walkerville, Feb. 12.—Convicted of wife beating on the evidence of his own children, a boy of 10 years and a girl of 11, who told the story of a brutal assault in the most matter of fact way, Michael Lenne was sentenced to spend a year in the Central Prison, Toronto.

TO HELP WORKERS

Hon. Richard Harcourt Urges Advance in Technical Training.

PLEA FOR TRADE TEACHING

Vocational Education Not Sufficiently Attended to—Whitney Government Simply Appropriating Liberal Measures — Ross Was Honest Premier — Mr. McGarry Continues Debate on Address.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—Hon. Richard Harcourt continued the debate on the address in the Legislature yesterday. After complimenting Messrs. McKeown and Donovan, he said he desired to make a suggestion, and not a critical speech, and to confine his remarks to one paragraph in the speech from the throne. He suggested that a sum of money be appropriated for a distinctly new educational force. His plea was not for technical education broadly, but for one phase of it. No one had ever heard him carp about the expenditure of money for educational purposes, and he thought that the higher technical education would be sufficiently cared for. He desired to plead for industrial or vocational educational forces. There were no pathways, not a blazed trail, in the province to-day for those who labored with the hand. Greater capacity for the worker at his trade, greater happiness in his home was the object he had in view.

He hoped the Federal Government would see to it that in the matter of technical education they did their whole duty. The domestic exports of the country would increase five times over the amount of any grant the Federal Government would give for the purpose. He admitted that all he had said might equally well have been said when he sat in the seat of the Minister of Education. He had tried then to blaze a trail, and made some small beginning, which he hoped would be followed up.

Mr. McGarry (South Renfrew) facetiously opened by confessing himself at a loss whether to sympathize with or congratulate the hon. member for Monck (Mr. Harcourt) on his loss of the Liberal leadership. He had wondered all the time he was speaking why Mr. Harcourt had totally neglected to do a thing along the lines he now ably advocated. As a result, Mr. McGarry said, the present Government was sending a special inspector throughout Ontario to cultivate interest in manual training and technical education.

Continuing, Mr. McGarry declared that the great issue before Ontario at the present time was Provincial Rights. The Dominion Government, he said, "was systematically endeavoring to defraud Ontario of her rights. "This," he continued, "was evidenced in the recent charters granted to electric corporations at Ottawa."

Mr. McGarry concluded by congratulating the Attorney-General on his advanced measure of law reform and the Minister of Mines on his administration of Northern Ontario.

Mr. C. N. Smith (Sault Ste. Marie) followed. He blamed the Government with stealing the Liberals clothes, and endeavored to make some capital out of alleged irregularities in the Department of Mines, but when asked by the Prime Minister to prefer a charge, declined to do so.

"Oh," said Mr. Smith, in reply to Mr. Whitney's challenge, "you'll find trouble enough without looking for it. Nobody denies that the present Prime Minister of Ontario is an honest man. We all admit it. But Ontario never had other than an honest Premier."

On motion of the Prime Minister, committees were appointed for the following purposes—To assist the Speaker in the care of the library; to strike the standing committees; to direct the expenditure of any sum set apart for art purposes.

Bills Read.

First readings were given to bills by Hon. Mr. Cochrane, to amend the Forest Reserve Act; to amend the Act Respecting Free Grants to Homesteads in Rainy River District; to amend the Act Respecting Free Grants of Homesteads to Actual Settlers in Public Lands. By Hon. Mr. Matheson: To amend the Supplementary Revenue Act; and by W. H. Hoyle, to amend the Assessment Act.

SHOCKING FATALITY

Nine Men Blown to Pieces by Nitro-Glycerine.

BUILDING ENTIRELY WRECKED

Vaudreuil, Que., Scene of Death Yesterday Afternoon — Every Man In Factory Was Killed—Three Hundred Escaped by Being Away For Lunch — Shock Felt For Miles—Like an Earthquake.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—Nine heads of families crushed and burned beyond all possible recognition, and one so seriously injured that he may die, is the sum total of the result of the terrible explosion which took place at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Ile Perrault, opposite Vaudreuil Station, 20 miles from this city.

It was the nitro-glycerine building and the two mixing rooms of the Standard Explosive Works where occurred the dreadful fatality which so greatly exercised the entire community, yesterday afternoon.

The dead are: Pierre Menard, Arthur Legault, Urgel Lauzon, Joseph Cayen, Joseph Roson, J. B. Robillard, N. Rousseau, S. Trepanier and Thos. Dunberry, while John Leduc seems to have been the one man badly injured.

The explosion occurred at noon, when most of the employes were outside the building, otherwise the loss of life would most likely have been much greater.

Were Blown to Atoms.

The nine victims of the explosion were inside the building, which was blown up. Their bodies were literally blown to atoms, and when recovered were so frightfully mutilated as to be beyond recognition. Several of the other buildings were damaged and the workmen who were in them in many cases had narrow escapes from death. Several doctors from Vaudreuil were quickly on the scene and they rendered aid to those who were suffering, while the more fortunate who escaped with slight wounds, assisted in the work of searching for the bodies of their dead companions in the debris of the wrecked buildings.

All of the victims of the accident resided in the neighborhood of the factory or in the little village of Vaudreuil, across the river. There were 300 employes in the works, but most of them were away at dinner at the time of the explosion. The shock was so great that it shook houses in the village of Vaudreuil and caused many of the inhabitants to rush from their houses in alarm. Windows were broken in many places and the ground for half a mile around shook as though an earthquake had occurred.

When the people of Vaudreuil realized what had happened there was a rush of friends and relatives of the workers for the wrecked plant. Women and boys hurried down the road to the factory, anxious to learn the fate of their loved ones. The names of the dead were obtained by taking a census of the living and getting the names of those who were in the building when the explosion occurred.

Last summer the powder house of the Standard company exploded, but on that occasion no lives were lost.

Arm Caught In Shaft.

Tweed, Feb. 12.—Peter Windover, belt repairer at the Marlbank Cement Works, near here, had his arm caught in the coal belt and crushed to a jelly, and he was held in position with the belt grinding over his arm for perhaps half an hour until his fellow-workmen discovered the accident.

Count Boni Guilty.

Paris, Feb. 12.—Count Boni De Castellane, the divorced husband of Anna Gould of New York, was yesterday found guilty by the Correctional Court of criminal assault and battery on Prince Helie De Sagan, his cousin, and fined $20. The prince was awarded twenty cents damages.

INJURED WHILE COASTING.

Twenty-Seven Persons Seriously Hurt In Pittsburg—Two May Die.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—Twenty-seven persons were injured, two probably fatally, in coasting accidents, in Greater Pittsburg during the past 24 hours—21 of them in one accident on the north side, and five in another accident in the same section.

Twenty-five boys and several girls started for Brighton road down the Marshall avenue hill on a four-board sled about 15 feet long, Monday night. The weight of the crowd and the grade of the hill carried the sled at an uncontrollable speed. For over 300 feet it dashed, and when George Becker, the guide, tried to drop the chain it refused to work.

There is a curve at the foot of the hill. Here the sled took a sudden turn crashing into a telegraph pole.

Ten of those who occupied the front part of the sled were hurled clear to the street car tracks, 50 feet away. Two were injured so seriously they may die. Others sustained broken limbs, cuts and other minor hurts.

CRASHED INTO FREIGHT.

Three Injured In Head-on Collision Near Bridgeburg.

Bridgeburg, Ont., Feb. 12.—Wabash passenger train No. 9, which left Buffalo last evening at 9.20, collided head-on with a freight train just outside the yards here and three people were injured. These are:

James Black of St. Thomas, engineer of the passenger train, hurt about the head and shoulders while jumping.

Ed. Scriber of St. Thomas, fireman on the passenger train, leg sprained in jumping.

Peter Humphrey of Buffalo, Miss., a passenger, aged 79, critically injured. He was going home after visiting in the east.

Both engineers claim they had orders for a clear track.

HE COULD NOT DIE.

Man Tries to End His Life Several Ways Without Success.

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—John Williamson, a Scotchman, lately arrived, made a determined though unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide yesterday. He first purchased carbolic acid, but as that burned his mouth, he placed a revolver to his head, but after clicking four chambers he threw the weapon away in disgust. He then took an overdose of strychnine, but it did not prove successful. He was taken in charge by the police and will recover.

Liable to 1,461 Years.

Berlin, Feb. 12.—"The accused has incurred fines amounting to $2,000,000, or, in default, 1,461 years and two months' imprisonment," declared the state's attorney in the criminal division of the Berlin County Court, in the case against Otto Hugo for breach of the law of August, 1904, prohibiting the sale of non-Prussian lottery tickets within Prussian territory.

The court, however, decided that as the circulars had all been issued in two days and thus technically only two offences committed, a fine of $375, or, in default, 100 days' imprisonment, would teach the defendant a lesson.

The state's attorney entered an objection to the court's reading of the law.

Turkey Withdrew Troops.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 12.—The withdrawal of Turkish troops from the Russian territory to the west of Tabriz, as well as the more conciliatory spirit shown at Constantinople, is regarded here as obviating the necessity for the present, of taking further precautionary measures on the Turkish and Persian frontiers, and it is probable that the despatch of troops from the interior of Russia to the Caucasus will be abandoned pending further developments.

Crusade Against Usurers.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—The first result of the renewed crusade against usurers in this city is the issuing of a warrant for the arrest of C. I. Campbell, a well-known moneylender, who, it is alleged, has violated the criminal law relating to usury. Action has been taken by Col. Hibbard, acting under instructions from the Attorney-General.

It is stated that Campbell has left the city.

Shoe Company Burned Out.

Masson, Que., Feb. 12.—One of the most destructive fires which ever visited this town has wiped out one of the chief industries, the Masson Boot & Shoe Manufacturing Co. The whole factory, a brick structure, which was erected about a year ago, and which, with its machinery equipment and stock is conservatively estimated to be worth $40,000, is a total loss. There is $16,000 insurance.

Insurance Agent's Suicide.

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 12.—F. J. Carskaden, representing himself as agent for the Globe Life Insurance Co., committed suicide in a hotel here yesterday by blowing his brains out with a revolver. He was a tall distinguished-looking man of middle age.

Lit Fire With Kerosene

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 12.—Mrs. Norah Price is dead at a local hospital as the result of burns caused by an explosion of kerosene oil in lighting a fire. She leaves a number of children, including a babe five days old.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Dora McDonald was acquitted by the jury yesterday on the charge of murdering Webster Guerin.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 31 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

The .... Rogue's March.

By E. W. HORNUNG, Author of "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," "Stingaree," Etc.

Copyright, 1896, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS.

The master's departure on horseback at last inspired the way. Tom in the pantry was still listening to the clattering hoofs when Peggy opened the door.

"Oh, Tom, the masther would like ye to clane out the boat for 'm when ye can find the time."

"Did he say so, Peggy?"

"Sure, he tould me not to tell ye, wid all the extra work ye've got, but he only wished it could be done."

"Then I'll set to work this minute."

"An' ye won't be tellin' 'm I tould ye?"

"No, I'll take all the credit if you like," said Tom in a voice and with a face which he took no pains to discipline for Peggy's benefit. Both supported her theory and hardened her in her plot. And as he reached the boat shed she was knocking at Miss Harding's door.

"Askin' yer pardon, miss, I think I know what would be better for you than lyin' down up here."

"What is that?"

"Lyin' in a hammock by the say."

"It sounds pleasant. Thank you very much, but I think I'll stay where I am."

"Sure, ye'd find one in the boat shed, an' it's all the good the air would do ye!"

"You are very kind," said Claire wearily. "But who would put the hammock up?"

"Masther's gone to Sydney," said Peggy reflectively, "an' he won't have me meddlin' wid such things. Wait till I tell ye, miss. Go this minute, an' you'll find Thomas in the boat shed cl'anin' the boat. He'll have 't up in a twinkle."

"Well, I'll see."

Claire had colored.

"Will I tell 'm, miss?"

"No. I'll see. I think I would rather be where I am."

Peggy withdrew. In three minutes she heard the young lady coming downstairs. In two more she was herself outside the shed, crouching between timber and shrubs and sand and sky.

CHAPTER XXX.

"YOU won't condescend?" said a scornful voice.

"Since you have made up your mind, why should I?"

"It is only your word that I ask—your solemn word to me that you are innocent."

"If you don't believe in me, what's the use of giving you my solemn word? I can't prove it and never could. The evidence was too strong."

"It would have been stronger still"—

The voice stopped short.

"Well?"

"If I had told them all you said to me that very night, that very hour!"

The voice was no longer scornful. Even to Peggy it seemed to falter and to tremble with the pent up agony of years. But Tom's tone did not change.

"I know that," he said bitterly. "I have always known that you had more reason than anybody in the world to think me guilty. Yet I would rather you had thought me innocent and let me die than saved my life to show me what you still think after all these months. My cup has been pretty full, but that's the bitterest drop."

"And still you won't deny it," persisted the girl. "I am ready to take your word, yet you will not give it."

"What's the use?" he asked. "What difference could it make, even supposing you believed me?"

"All the difference to me," was the quick but low reply. "It would alter everything—everything. Can't you see that it must?"

"No; it is too late to alter anything at all."

Yet his voice shook in its turn.

"Too late? Too late?" cried the girl wildly. "Nothing is too late if you are innocent. Speak, Tom. Why don't you speak? Oh, Tom, it would alter all our lives, yet you will not speak."

"Because I cannot!" he cried out. "Because I—I am not an innocent man. I am not—I am not—I am not! And now leave me—leave me, I say, for God's sake! Never you pity me again."

Almost from a shout his voice died down to a whisper. The last words were hardly audible outside. But they were followed by a silence so heavy that Peggy O'Brien heard herself breathing and thought she must be heard within. And then came the sound of light, unsteady steps retreating, and nothing more—not another sound within.

The silence appalled Peggy. At last, when she could no longer bear it, she crept over the soft sand to the mouth of the shed and peered round the corner. He was standing within as the other woman had left him. He had never stirred. His open hands were still extended in some unfinished gesture. A glimmer of sunshine glanced off the waters and pointed the cruel contrast between the lined face and the yellow hair thrown proudly back from it—the one so aged, the other so boyish. And his eyes—they seemed still to be pouring tenderness and strength upon the other woman. They never saw this one at all.

She stole away, loving him more than ever. But must not the other one too? She had seen the same look—had won it—but his crime made a difference to her. To Peggy it made none. She neither knew nor cared what it was, and there lay her slight advantage. It was too slight. She loved him, but so much the other. Her love lay near to hate. She would see if she could not push the other woman's nearer yet.

She reached the house, and nobody was in the way. Lady Starkie was writing letters in the breakfast room. Peggy was soon listening at the other woman's door—listening to her sobs. She compressed her lips and nodded to herself with splendid confidence. At length there fell a silence, in which Peggy knocked and entered.

"I beg pardon, miss, but was Thomas not in the boat shed? It's sorry I am if I sent ye on a fool's errand—savin' your presence, miss!"

"No; he was there."

"An' did he refuse ye?"

"No—I—changed my mind."

"Glory be to God, miss! 'Tis meself would let 'm know 't if he gave any of his sauce to the masther's lady. I'd have no more to do wid 'm at all."

Claire turned pale.

"You would have no more to do with him?" said she very slowly. "I don't understand you."

"Sure an' how would you? He wouldn't be afther tellin' a lady like you."

"Telling me what, my good girl?" She was trembling now.

"He came to the factory last week, miss. Ye'll niver guess why—to choose a wife."

"A wife!"

"An' it's me he chose—you ask the masther when he comes back."

The master came back in time for lunch. He found Claire on the veranda with a white face and an angry eye, loudly declaring she felt another being.

Tom heard and saw her and waited infamously for the first time. He could not understand it at all. She had left the boat shed with a very different mien. What could she have found out since then? That he had purposely misled her for her own good? That was impossible. Yet he knew so well from her proud, averted face that Claire had discovered something fresh against him. Whatever that discovery might be, however, it was destined not to be her last that day.

They were still at luncheon when Peggy burst into the room.

"Nat Sullivan an' the thraps!" she gasped. "It's afther Tom they are, an' I tould 'm he absconded last night. Oh, sir, say that same, for Ginger's there, too, an' there's the blood in their eyes!"

Here was a bombshell from the least expected quarter, at the least expected time. Tom felt the blood rush to his face, draining his heart, but he stood his ground until Daintree ordered him out of the way of the windows. Claire sat motionless. Lady Starkie was less calm. But Daintree rose up from the table with perfect but ostentatious sangfroid, and he patted Peggy on the back as a party of horsemen rode in front of the veranda.

"Quite right, my girl!" cried he. "They shall not lay a finger on him. Never you fear. He has me at his back, and so have you." With that he strutted through the French windows, flourishing his napkin and quite delighted at the prospect of a little simultaneous display of power, generosity and laudable cunning before so select an audience.

"Sorry to trouble you, sir," said a voice, "but I believe you have an assigned convict here of the name of Thomas Erichsen."

"What name?" cried Lady Starkie.

"Hush, aunt!" whispered Claire.

"I have not," said Daintree.

"You have not?" roared Nat Sullivan himself.

"I have not," repeated Daintree blandly. "I had, but he has absconded from my service."

"When?"

"Last night."

"Any notion where he went?"

"Not the least."

"And you don't much care, eh?"

"Not a bit. May I ask a question in my turn?"

"Surely, sir."

"Do you want him for the Castle Sullivan business?"

"We do."

"I thought so. I've heard the idea. But who will you get to swear to him as having been there?"

"This man here," said Nat. And Tom, in the background, listened curiously. He was cool enough now and his air shameless. It was assumed for Claire's benefit.

"I am not so sure," said the voice of Ginger in a rather dejected tone.

"You were sure enough in your cups!"

"That's another thing."

"Well," said the constable, "he's left this, anyhow. No use our wasting any more time here, Mr. Sullivan. Good morning, sir. I'm afraid he's given us the slip again."

"But not for long!" cried Nat. "I mean to catch him and to hang him yet!"

They had ridden away. Daintree had re-entered the room, puffed up and smiling. Tom also had a kind of smile, and Peggy was gazing at him with shining eyes when Claire rose from the table and swept out of the room without a word.

"I believe you have an assigned convict here of the name of Thomas Erichsen."

Daintree looked at Lady Starkie in dismay and hastily ordered the servants to withdraw. Her ladyship rose also.

"Can you wonder at it?" she cried.

"At what?"

"Your bride disliking to be waited on by convicts. And—and—did I understand that young man's name was Erichsen?"

"Yes."

"The murderer of Captain Blaydes?"

"No."

"Who then?"

"His reputed murderer. He is an innocent man. You know I thought so at the time. You know, I believe, how I backed my opinion to the tune of several hundreds? I'm backing it still, Lady Starkie; I'm backing it still—that's all." It was not all. He went on to tell all Erichsen had gone through, to his knowledge, in the settlement; how he was trying in his small way to make up to the poor fellow for the shocking injustice of his fate, and yet how even now the unlucky wretch went in danger of his neck, as Lady Starkie had seen for herself, and all for siding with some bushrangers under circumstances of extraordinary compulsion and provocation com[illegible]d. Of all this James Daintree s[illegible]so feelingly and with such an obviously earnest purpose that Lady Starkie was quite moved and undertook to use her influence with Claire in the matter of the convict servants.

But it was of no avail.

Daintree drove the ladies into Sydney and drove back alone late at night. Tom awaited him, and as they walked from the stables to the house the master's arm ran affectionately through that of the man.

"My dear fellow," he said, "it grieves me more than I can say, but I cannot go against my young wife where there is apparent right upon her side. She will have no convicts in her house. You and I will be compelled to part."

"It was bound to come," was Tom's reply. "I am only thankful it didn't come before you gave me back a little of what I have lost. I shall be grateful to you till my dying hour."

"Oh, but I've not done with you yet. I must have you out of this country by hook or crook—that I'm bent upon. That brute Sullivan is actually at the Pulteney. It seems his overseer never meant to split on you for some reason, but he did so when drunk, and now the other holds him to it. Until we spirit you out of the country you'll never be safe."

"That doesn't matter," said Tom. "I would rather stay where I am and take my chance."

He was thinking of Daintree and his wife. Even through his gratitude he was thinking of that darker side.

Letter From California

Mr. J. J. Wetherup Gives Some Impressions of That Land.

The following letter will be read with interest by the many friends of Mr. J. J. Wetherup in Lindsay and vicinity;

Hollywood, Cal., Jan 29, '08

Mr. T. C. Matchett, Lindsay;

Dear Sir,—We got along fine, had no inconvenience except the long wait over at Chicago. We like this part of California very much — the weather and surroundings are much like June in Ontario. The rainy season commenced about Jan. 15th, and is not quite so pleasant, but rain is quite necessary here in the winter, as there is no rain during the summer, when everything has to depend upon irrigation.

The cost of living is considerably more than in Ontario. Bread, butter, cheese, eggs and poultry are about 25 per cent more, while fruit and vegetables are much cheaper; clothing about the same, but real estate and rents go very high; building lots in Hollywood or Paradena, 60x150 ft., range in price from $1000 to $5,000, according to location. Upon the whole I think, for one owning their own house, the cost of living here is not much more than in Ontario, and to counterbalance any deficiency there is the pleasure of an all-the-year-round summer. I have been here six weeks, and have not had fire for heating half-a-dozen times so far, but now, being in the rainy season, we may require more heat.

I like California in many respects; of course it has its drawbacks, and I think anyone having a good home or a good position in Canada will do quite as well to remain at home. It requires lots of money and brains to succeed here. While many have made fortunes here, ten times the number have not realized their expectations. For Myself, I found it a necessity to move to a warm climate on account of my health. I do not intend settling until I see Vancouver.—I am, yours respectfully,

J. J. WETHERUP.

MARY'S WARNING.

Our hearts are sad, our faces grave,
We bear a common sorrow,
We do not heed our work to-day,
We're thinking of the morrow.
We sit in listless attitudes,
To hide our grief we're scorning;
Come weal, come woe, what do we care,
For Mary's given warning.

But yesterday we played and sang,
The whole house rang with laughter;
We did not note the gathering gloom
That's clouded our hereafter.
We needed not, poor blinded fools,
Till mother in the morning,
Announced to all the dining room
That Mary's given warning.

But now the blow has fallen, we
Our conversation flavour
With various remarks upon
Her ominous behaviour.
Her sullen looks, those ill-washed plates
Her slowness in the morning—
How could we be surprised to hear
That Mary's given warning!

Now for a month the front door bell
Will shake in agitation;
Young persons will be coming for
The vacant situation.
And so we sit in attitudes,
All occupation scorning,
Since we all heard at breakfast time
That Mary's given warning.

Some Remarks On Things in General

By "The Stroller."

A matter that is constantly before parents, and which is a bone of contention whenever it comes to the front, is the matter of home work for children. Occasionally some authority on such matters gives it as his or her opinion that children should not have homework of any kind before school age, and yet the practice goes on, and youngsters 9, 10 and 11 years of age, will be studying their eyes out for one, two and three hours when they ought to be between the sheets, recuperating for next day. The teachers are not altogether to blame for this state of affairs, nor is the superintendent. Probably the parents, or at least some of them, are as much to blame as anybody. There is a class of parents who want their children to go through school as fast as possible; they want them to have home work, so as to occupy their attention, and keep them out of mischief. If their children did not have home work to do they have not got sufficient control over them to regulate them, and as a consequence they would no doubt be on the street. Such children with such parents, are far better with home work, and plenty of it. We will, however, give the great body of parents credit for having more interest in their children than to permit them, had they no home work to do, to run the streets, or do anything but what they ought to do.

To our mind, a child should not be "compelled" to do home work before it reaches the fourth book. If they are interested enough in their lessons to take them up at home voluntarily, well and good, but no compulsion. All the compulsion should be at school, during school hours. The youngsters should be out in the open, playing from 4 to 6, and after tea should be taken in hand by the parents and made to read some good standard reading for at least one hour, and then sent to bed by eight o'clock. Were this plan followed, we doubt if the youngsters would be very much behind in their studies from where they are to-day, but even supposing it did take some of them a year or two longer at the public school, it wouldn't hurt them. We would not have the half baked fledglings going through the Collegiate that we have at different times. We heard a parent—one who knows —say the other day that her child actually knew less grammar now than when it passed the Entrance, showing that the knowledge gained in the public schools had not had time to take proper root. On the other hand, the teachers and officers are not altogether free from blame, nor are the trustees. If a teacher is not able to shove her class, or most of it, up a peg at each examination, she is dubbed useless by the trustees. What she has taught them may be for their good, but that don't count, if there is not enough of it, even if that enough is only superficial, and as we are all out for our bread and butter (even teachers who love their work), they are not going to fly in the face of fate, and destroy their living, even if they know it is not the best way of teaching.

Here is where the Socialistic plan of running things would fit in, and give good satisfaction. We are very much afraid, however, that a great deal of the home work is given by the teacher to save himself or herself trouble. A class is taught how to do a sum—it is much easier to give them half-a-dozen of the same kind to do at home, and have the class check them next day, than to drill the children thoroughly — especially the dullards. The same with history, geography, and worst of all, grammar. Very few parents are capable of supervising their children in grammar, and as a consequence it is very imperfectly taught and understood. The youngsters get a parrot-like knowledge of it, but are far from mastering its principles. In depending on home help, or home work, it is a good deal like the blind leading the blind, where both fall into the ditch of despair. The question is a very large one, and we do not think our trustees give it the thought that it deserves.

Lived in Lindsay Many Years Ago

Was Bell Telephone Company's First Manager Here.

The following from the Vancouver Daily Province will be read with interest by many of the older citizens of Lindsay;

The proudest moment in his life, declared Mr. H. W. Kent, general superintendent of the B. C. Telephone Company, occurred shortly after five o'clock last night, when he was surprised by a deputation of over one hundred of the employees of the company, who presented him with a magnificent roller top desk, an office chair, and, most prized of all, a handsomely bound address of appreciation signed by all the Vancouver employees of the company.

Mr. Kent, who to-day severs his long connection with the B. C. Telephone Company, was completely taken by surprise. He made a speech, expressive of his great and heartfelt appreciation of the evidences of esteem on the part of his fellow workers, but so great was his feeling in the matter that five minutes afterward he was not sure that he had properly presented his thanks.

Next Tuesday Mr. Kent will leave for Toronto, Peterboro Montreal, New York, and other eastern cities on business connected with his private affairs. He expects to be absent from Vancouver about six weeks.

Second Meeting of Mariposa Council

Drainage and Other Matters Dealt With —Another Session in March.

Mariposa Council met Monday, Feb. 10th, 1908. The members were all present and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Communications were received from Messrs. McLaughlin, Peel & Fulton, in reference to Mark Hicks' contract on the Dunn drain, and also in reference to the settlement for closing part of the road, lot 19, con. 5.

From Wesley Thern, in reference to drainage matter at lot 10, con. 17.

Mr. Neil McLean asked the Council to complete their agreement to fence the gravel pit at lot 8, con. 13.

The Reeve reported the settlement made on Jan. 17th for the expense of the rock cutting on the Lownsborough drain. Mr. Lownsborough and Mr. Silverwood were not present at the time. Mr. G. J. Coad was awarded $177.50, James Taylor $32.50, Wm. Lownsborough $60, J. Mitchell $5, William Silverwood, $20, and the balance to the township.

The Clerk informed the Council that Mr. Lownsborough refused to pay until he had a better outlet for his drains.

Mr. McKague, collector for the north half, was present to get his roll settled up.

The auditors' report was presented and examined by the Council.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Swain and Varcoe — that the Reeve be appointed to interview the persons interested in regard to the settlement of the rock cutting on the Lowasborough drain.—Carried

J. I. Michael was appointed to look into the matter of drainage on the roadside at lot 10, con. 7.

By-law 613 was read the usual times and passed, authorizing the Reeve to appoint an arbitrator in reference to settling the compensation for closing a part of the road at lot 19, con. 5.

The following accounts were paid, J. S. McFadyen, expenses of committing Malcolm Blue to the House of Refuge, $5; The Watchman-Warder, printing account, $45.30; Richard Rich, expenses of men and teams drawing tile for the Dunn drain, $47; C. H. Lapp, salary as auditor, $20; The sum of $7.05 taxes was rebated in the south roll, and the sum of $15.88 from the north roll. $11.80 is charged against property belonging to A. McKinnon, at Oakwood, $1.20 against A. J. McLean's property at Manilla, and $3.81 against J. McLean's property, at Manilla.

The auditors' report was received and adopted after making a small change in the value of the township property. The Council then adjourned till the second Monday in March, to appoint overseers, etc, etc.

COMMUNICATIONS

THE REMEDY FOR HUMAN ILLS.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—In reference to the existing evils, as per "Stroller's" article in the issue of The Post of Dec. 31st, there seems to be no remedy forthcoming, as requested by "Farmer" of Oakwood, in the issue of The Post for Jan. 13th.

Now, with regard to the evils now existing, we cannot confine them to the injustice of the "wage slave in the departmental stores." However, by looking around us and viewing conditions as they exist socially, financially, and ecclesiastically, we would most certainly be led to conclude that the Prophet Isaiah, (24; 1 and 19; 20) was about right when he prophetically, looking down through the ages, penned these words; "Behold, the Lord maketh the earth empty and maketh it waste, and turneth it upside down and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof."

Now, viewing matters from this standpoint, I ask, when should we look for a "remedy" from human enmity? Verily, man has been trying for six thousand years to better his condition, and what do we find? Namely this—that man is evoluting upwards, as many tell us, and is now within a stone's throw of perfection. Well, if rings combines, monopolies, federations, armament of nations and starvation, will bring about the desired remedy, that for which the whole creation is groaning and travailing in pain, (Romans 8; 22), then I fancy we will soon have that desire. But that is not so. Looking at it from the ecclesiastical point of view, are we to expect that only the Golden Rule will bring the golden age, or that the conversion of the world will result through the instrumentality of the church, in its present condition? Or can we expect that all wrongs will be rectified or all rough places made smooth? Again the scriptures answer, "No!" Still, we surely are not to give up in despair, hoping for the best, but really preparing for the worst, and say, "Surely God has not created man for His own good purpose; or if so, the devil has got the start in the matter somehow, and God's work, that has gone forth out of His own mouth, shall return void and shall not accomplish that which He pleased, and shall not prosper in the thing whereto it was sent."

Dear readers, have faith in God; remembering that not ONE letter of the law shall pass till ALL be fulfilled; that His word shall not return void, but that it shall accomplish all that He pleased, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto it was sent. (Isiah 55; 11).

Let us now look for the desired remedy. In Matthew 6; 10 we are instructed to pray, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in heaven." This is the kingdom, or the appointed day, in the which God will judge the world in righteousness, (Acts 17; 31). By or through the prophet which the Lord Jehovah shall raise up, viz., the Lord Jesus Christ, then the world shall hear; those who hear and they shall live, and those who do not hear shall be cut off in the second death, (Acts 3—22, 23, and Rev. 20; 12, 13 and 14). Then shall avarice and greed be utterly put down, and the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea. (Isaiah 11; 3-9). Then the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live. All they that are in their graves shall hear His voice and shall come forth; they that have done good unto the resurrection of life (Rev. 26), and they that have done ill unto a resurrection of judgment, (St. John 5-25, 28 and 29). Then the new Convenant shall be given (Heb. 8; 6, 10, 12.) Then they, i. e., the whole human family, (for as in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive, I Cor. 15-22.) and then they shall not teach every man his neighbor, and every man his brother; saying, know the Lord, for all shall know me from the least to the greatest. Then shall the children no more say, "Fathers have eaten a sour grape, and our teeth are set on edge," but then every one who dies shall die for his own iniquity, and every man who eateth the sour grape, his teeth shall be set on edge (Jer. 31-29-34.) Now, the nations are beating their ploughshares into swords and their pruning-hooks into spears; then after the coming storm of trouble (Dan. 12-1 and Math. 24-21) in that glorious kingdom for the which we are told to pray, and for which the whole creation is groaning and travailling in pain and trouble. Then matters will be reversed, for they will now beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks and shall learn war no more (Joel 3-10 and Isa 2-4).

Dear fellow pilgrim, these are not cunningly devised fables, but the sure word of prophecy whereunto you do well to heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place (II Peter 1-19). This is the grand restitution of all things, which is spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began, (Acts 3-21). This is the glad tidings of great joy which shall be to all people (Isa 52-7.) This is the desired remedy for present ills.

Thanking you for intruding so lengthily on your space and patience, I am, sincerely yours,

BIBLE STUDENT.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Jas. Thorndike, Oakwood.

The death of Ellen Kate Douglas, beloved wife of Mr. J. A. Thorndike, Oakwood, and only daughter of Mr and Mrs. Geo. Douglas, Manilla, on Tuesday, Feb. 4th, 1908, coming so unexpectedly was a great shock to the people of Oakwood and Manilla.

The deceased was born in Manilla and resided there continuously until her marriage about four years ago. Among her schoolmates and those who have known her from childhood she was always a favorite on account of her fun-loving, kind, sunny disposition and true heartedness. She always took a great interest in the Manilla public library, and chiefly due to her efforts raised the membership and circulation to the highest ever attained.

Mrs. Thorndike's first thought was —that noblest of womankind — her home and the comfort of her husband and family. That she had made many good friends during the less than four years she had resided in Oakwood was plainly evidenced by their solicitude during her illness and the very many practical ways they showed their sympathy to the bereaved husband and his motherless babes.

The impassable condition of the roads prevented many in Oakwood as well as Manilla, who were desirous of attending the funeral, which took place to Riverside cemetery, Lindsay, Friday, Feb. 7th, 1908.

The floral offerings were very numerous, but, unfortunately, many of them, on account of the snow blockade, did not arrive in time for the funeral.

Thus has passed a young life full of promise, and a young husband and three babes are left to mourn a fond, affectionate and devoted wife and mother and a true woman.

Rev. Newton Hill Dead.

Gloss; Rev. Newton Hill, pastor of Davisville Methodist church, and a well-known minister, passed away yesterday afternoon at the parsonage after an illness of about a year. The late pastor was born in Whitchurch township about sixty years ago, and for forty years he was in the ministry of the Methodist church, filling pastorates at Simpson avenue church, Toronto; Markham, Stouffville, Belleville, Lindsay, King city, and Davisville. Rev. Mr. Hill is survived by his widow. The funeral to-morrow at 2.30 p. m., will take place to Mount Pleasant cemetery from the parsonage.

The above will be read with sorrow by many in Lindsay and surrounding country. Mr. Hill made friends here while pastor of Queen-st church some years ago.

THURSDAY—Same.

Eight Flights Up.

When the first fire company, in response to an alarm, reached the long row of tenements, the fire captain at once jumped from his engine and endeavored to locate the fire. When he had ineffectually hunted through three or four structures for it, he descried an old woman sticking her head out of a window of the topmost floor of an eight story tenement a little farther up the street.

"Any fire up there?" he yelled, when he had reached the pavement beneath this building.

In answer, the old woman motioned for him to come up.

Accordingly, the captain, with his men lugging their heavy hose behind them, laboriously ascended the eight flights and burst into the room where the old woman was.

"Where's the fire?" demanded the captain when no fire nor smoke became visible.

"Oh, there ain't none here," replied the old woman, flashing an ear trumpet. "I asked y' up 'cause I couldn't hear a word you said way down there." —Bohemian.

Old Trinity Churchyard.

There is no more dismal and hideous sight than a new graveyard full of glittering, obtrusive white monuments, square, ponderous and costly. But a burying ground which has attained a ripe age, say, a century or so, is capable of affording a distinct sensation of aesthetic pleasure. Toned and tempered by wind and weather into neutral harmony, the intrusive lettering on the stones half obliterated, there remains no ghastly funeral suggestion, but only a gentle impulse to quote Omar on the evanescence of things. Such a graveyard is the old Trinity, past which the busy crowds of Broadway and Wall street surge all day. It is a thing of beauty, though perhaps not one in a hundred of those eager faced men hurrying past ever stops to look at it or think of it. If he did, one imagines he would slacken his pace and perhaps take a half holiday. The ancient plot of ground, sown thick with low gray and brown stones and looking like a field of mushrooms, makes that human torrent rushing by seem melancholy and meaningless.—New York Globe.

In Buying Perfumes.

"If you give her perfumery for her birthday," said the druggist, "give with discretion. Find out first the effect of perfumes on the system.

"Heliotrope is a bad scent for any but the boisterous and gay. It is depressing. It often causes the neurasthenic to weep. Would it suit her?

"Musk is a powerful stimulant, a good thing for those with weak hearts. How is she that way?

"Stephanotis creates languor. If she is lazy, then avoid it.

"Violet is the best perfume. It elevates the mind. It spurs to deeds of bravery, of sacrifice. It creates beautiful thoughts. Get her violet, my boy." —Exchange.

The Commutable Cook.

"My wife and I are keeping house in the suburbs this year."

"What does the transportation cost you?"

"Well, let's see. We bought three commutation tickets at"—

"Three! Who uses the third?"

"That's for the cook. I take one out every night, and she leaves the next morning."

The Cure.

"In love with that penniless young scamp, are you?" said old Roxley. "Well, I propose to cure you of that."

"You can't," retorted the willful young girl. "I'm determined to marry him."

"That's it exactly. I propose to let you do it."—Exchange.

War on Beer Tonics.

(The Home Journal.)

The license inspectors at Toronto have commenced a crusade against preparations of the malt extract variety that appear to be nothing less than alcoholic beverages sold by druggists instead of liquor dealers. Some these contain, it is claimed, as high as thirteen per cent. of alcohol, while two and a half per cent. of proof spirits is the limit fixed by the law for medicinal preparations. There seems to be little doubt that a growing use is being made of these "tonics" for other purposes than that for which they are advertised, and the authorities are getting after them none too soon.

County Judge's Report Equalization Assessment of The County of Victoria

In the troubles the assessment of taxable income has either not been attended to, or the people in the different townships are very much poorer that I supposed they were. The Assessment Act is, in my opinion, most unfair in its application to towns and villages in taking in the business assessment and taxable income in the equalization of the property of the county. Take, for instance, the town of Lindsay, not only is its real property taken into consideration at its full value, but also a sum of $256,900, of a business assessment, and a sum of $31,250 of taxable income, or a total of $288,150. Whereas the ten rural municipalities in the county have a business assessment of only $66,327, and the income assessment, $3,621, or a total of $73,948, while the four villages have $110,491 of a business assessment, and $9,936, of an income assessment: or a total of $120,427.

Thirty-one days were occupied in taking the evidence of the different witnesses which before me on the hall of the appealing municipalities in the county, as well of the valuators and the different assessors. I also spent six days in driving throughout the townships of Bexley, Carden, Eldon, Dysart and Longford, Somerville, Verulam and Emily, on part of Ops and part of Mariposa, in order to examine the properties valued by the valuators of the county, and also to see the increasing territory traversed. I also had the notes of the evidence of between 30 and 40 witnesses, which amounted to 1,321 pages of typewriting, all of which had to be carefully read over and considered in connection with the assessment of the different municipalities. I trust that the careful examination that I have given to the equalization of the county may be of value in compelling the assessors of the different municipalities to at least attempt to perform their duty instead of as formerly, entirely ignoring the provisions of the statute.

The township of Lonsford, the most northern township in the county is owned by the Sand and Lumber and Stone Co., and is valuable for its timber almost entirely. The quantity of timber suitable for sawlogs amounted to 24,536,000 feet on the 24th day of December, 1906, inclusive of dry and down gitns, which was not estimated, and all the timber not fit for sawlogs, and also all the cut of sawlogs of the winter of 1906 and 1907. Upon the evidence of the president of the company, I fixed the value of this timber at $2.00 per thousand, although upon the evidence I would be fully justified in fixing a much higher rate, particularly for the lower grades, I fixed it at the lowest rate owing to the fact that my valuation is to extend for a period of five years, and the quantity of timber will be reduced from year to year during that period. For the same reason I fixed the value of the land and timber not fit for sawlogs, and the buildings at the sum of $10,000, instead of the higher value that the evidence would justify. I therefore fixed the valuation of the township of Lonsford at the sum of $59,000.

Township of Digby. Upon a full consideration of the evidence of the value of this township, I fixed the same at $24,000, and I fix that valuation of the township of Laxton at the sum of $32,000. I visited and drove through the township of Laxton and Digby, as well as having the evidence of a number of respectable residence about the value of the property in the said townships. These three townships comprise the municipality of Laxton, Digby and Longford, and the total amount of taxable real property in said townships amounts to $175,000. There is no income or business assessment in any of the three townships.

Townships of Dalton. I fix the amount of taxable real property in this township at the sum of $115,000, adding the amount of the valuation of the said township furnished by the assessor. His roll for 1906 shows like the three former townships, of no value as a basis for the equalization of the values. There is $75 of a business assessment in the township of Dalton, making the whole amount of property liable to municipal taxation in the municipality, $115,075.

Township of Carden. I visited the township on two occasions. On the first occasion I drove throughout the township and saw the properties valued by the county valuators, and also had the benefit of the evidence of a number of most respectable residents of the township, upon consideration of their evidence, and the new valuations supplied to the assessor, I fix the value of property liable to municipal taxation in this township at $737,000. There is no income or business assessment in this township.

Township of Bexley. The assessment of this township was so unsatisfactory that upon the examination of the assessor and one of the councillors of the municipality, I accepted the assessment roll of the said township, and fix the valuation of taxable real property at $211,000. To this is added a business assessment of $8,427, making a total qualified value of $220,427. There is no income assessment in this township.

Township of Somerville. I visited a part of this township and am familiar with other portions of the township. The value of the taxable real property in this township is more difficult to arrive at than any other township in the county. It was somewhat familiar with the township before those proceedings commenced, and during the proceedings visited another portion of the township with which I was not familiar and also had the benefit of the evidence of the assessor and a number of the most intelligent and respected ratepayers in the township, and after considering the evidence, caused a new valuation of the said township to be made by the assessory, which I have adopted as the basis of my valuation for the township. This valuation of the taxable real property amounts to $289,730. The business assessment amounts to $5,775, making a total property liable to municipal taxation of $295,505. No income assessment in this township.

Township of Eldon. The examination of the assessment roll of this township for the year 1906, and the examination of the assessor and several other respectable residents of the township led me to believe that the assessor of that township had properly performed his duty, and that the taxable real property in the township was set down on his roll. I adopted his figures and fixed the amount of the taxable real property in the township at $1,097,767, less $25,784. Dominion property exempted, leaving a balance of $1,071,983. To this is to be added the sum of $15,415 business assessment, making a total amount of property liable to assessment in the said township of Eldon, at $1,087,398.

Township of Verulam. This township was assessed by the assessor in 1906 in such a manner as to render his assessment roll of no value. The township Council caused the assessor to make a valuation of the township since these proceedings commenced, and upon consideration of the evidence and a view of the township, I concluded that the assessor was 25 per cent below the proper valuation of the township. The assessor's valuation amounted to $921,312, and to this I added 25 per cent, $230,328 or a total amount of taxable real property of $1,151,640. To this I added the business assessment of $4,290, making a total amount of $1,155,930. This township had no income assessment.

Township of Fenelon. In this township the assessors made a special assessment of the real property in the township, and after considering the said assessment and the evidence of the assessor, his masters and other witnesses produced, I concluded that the percentage of 33-1-3 per cent should be added to the figures of the special assessment. The assessor's valuation amounted to $894,505, to which I added 33-1-3 per cent, $297,835, making a total assessment of taxable real property in the township of $1,192,500, to this I added the business assessment of $2,605, in to one sum, making a total of property liable to municipal taxation in this municipality of $1,189,606. This township had no income assessment.

Township of Emily. This was the township in which most evidence was dealt with in the county. I was obliged to take their roll, $1,279,781, and from the evidence I became convinced that an addition of one-third should be added to the amount of the roll, making the total amount of taxable real property within the municipality, $1,706,374. To this I added the amount of business assessment of $2,750, and the amount of taxable income, $22,846, making a total of property liable to municipal taxation, $1,708,974.

Township of Ops. This township having appointed two independent valuators to make a proper valuation of the township, I took their figures as the basis for my equalization of that township. Their figures amount to $2,016,012, to which I add $294,000, or $105,240, making a total of taxable real property, $2,209,212. To this I add business assessment, $4,275, making the total property liable to municipal taxation in the township of Ops, $2,212,487. No income assessment.

Township of Mariposa: The assessment of this township for the year 1906, gave amount of taxable real property, $3,449,542, which I accept as correct. To this I add business assessment of $17,550, taxable income $9,976, making a total of property liable to municipal taxation of $3,476,469.

Town of Lindsay: The assessment of this town was most satisfactory, and I was able to accept the figures in the assessment roll for 1906. Total amount of real property, $2,166,900, less exemptions 70,000, leaving a balance of taxable real property of $2,096,900. To this I add business assessment, $256,900, and taxable income, $31,250. Total amount of property liable to municipal taxation, $2,385,150.

Village of Fenelon Falls: The valuators in their report took the greatest pains to the total actual value of real property as the basis of their equalization, $430,613. In the same report they recommend a slight increase, amounting to $17,000, and of the Public Library $1,700, making a total of $448,700, which was clearly not liable to taxation, being the property of the municipality of Fenelon Falls. Instead of taxing the sum of $430,613, a took the sum set forth in their report, of taxable real property amounting to $395,615. From this I deduct an error in addition of $8,000, less also seven per cent. discount for over assessment, as allowed by the county valuators, amounting to $27,695, and the Public Library, $1,700, or a total of business assessment of $363,710, as the total amount of real property liable to taxation in the said village. To this I add $37,425 for business assessment and $3,835 for taxable income, making the sum of $404,970, as the total property liable to taxation in this municipality.

Village of Sturgeon Point: The assessment of 1906 of this village was ridiculously small, and I was aware, but the counsel of the said village very wisely made a new valuation of the property of the village for the year 1907, which I adopted as the basis of my equalization, after hearing the evidence of Mr. John Dolville and the assessor. The amount of taxable real property according to the valuation was $64,135, to this I add $612, business assessment, and $148 taxable income, making the total property liable to municipal taxation in this village of $64,895.

Village of Bobcaygeon: In the village the amount of taxable real property is $187,931. I add 25 per cent to this amount, $46,982, making a total of real property liable to municipal taxation, $234,913. To this I add the business assessment, $22,741. Taxable income, $3,238. Total property liable to municipal taxation, $260,892.

Village of Woodville: Total value of taxable property according to the roll of 1906, $116,375. Add 33 per cent, $38,895. Total of real property liable to municipal taxation in this municipality, $154,775. To this I add business assessment, $4,050, and taxable income, $830.00. Total of property liable to municipal taxation, $159,655.

Village of Omemee: Amount of taxable real property by the roll of 1906, $158,421. Business assessment, $818,995. Taxable income, $1,420. Total property liable to municipal taxation, $1,278,841.

It will be seen by those figures that the appealing municipalities have succeeded on their appeal.

I order and direct that my expenses and disbursements incurred by me and statutory charges be paid by the corporation of the County of Victoria.

I also direct that the said corporation of the County of Victoria shall pay the costs, charges and expenses incurred by and on their behalf, including counsel fees and disbursements as between solicitor and client. And further order and direct that the costs and disbursements incurred by and on behalf of the municipalities of the said county, other than the township of Eldon, be taxed and paid by them, so far as the same are taxable as between party and party, be paid by the said county corporation, and that the solicitors and client costs, charges and disbursements of the said municipalities be taxed, and the said municipalities to the several sums so taxed, be by the municipalities so retaining them.

I direct the witness fees of the townships of Carden, Laxton and Digby to be taxed and paid by the county corporation.

And I order and direct that all other witnesses' fees be paid by the municipality calling the said witness.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN E. HARDING,
Judge of the County Court of the County of Victoria.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Justified In Abandoning Ship.

Boston, Feb. 12.—A special naval court of enquiry convened under the new British Admiralty Act, and the first of the kind ever held in this city, yesterday rendered its report, justifying the abandonment of the British steamer St. Cuthbert, which caught fire off Nova Scotia on Feb. 2, a loss of fourteen lives resulting. The others of the crew were saved by the steamship Cymric and brought to Boston.

King Manuel Goes to Cintra.

Lisbon., Feb. 12.—The Diario de Noticeas, in its issue of yesterday says that King Manuel will lease Lisbon shortly for Cintra, where he will pass several months. Cintra is 14 miles from Lisbon, and has a royal summer residence. Furthermore, the Chamber of Deputies will reassemble Feb. 20, when King Manuel will take the oath.

Drummond Postoffice Burned.

Peterboro, Feb. 11.—The house and barns of Robert Carey, postmaster at Drummond station, were completely destroyed by fire early yesterday. The loss is estimated at $5,000, and the cause of the fire is unknown. All the papers, letters and other mail matter in the postoffice were burned.

Diamonds In Mexico.

Mexico City, Feb. 12.—T. J. Robinson and two other Americans who own what is said to be a genuine deposit of diamonds in the State of Guerrero have just refused an offer of $100,000 gold for the property. The offer was made by a British syndicate that is interested in diamond mining in South Africa.

The formation of the Guerrero diamond field is identical with that of South Africa. Several gems of much value have been taken recently from the property which Mr. Robinson and associates own.

Ten Firemen Injured.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Ten firemen were injured, one probably fatally, by the explosion of a gasoline tank of an automobile while fighting a fire in a garage at 4,756 Grand Boulevard yesterday. The men were on a ladder almost directly over the automobile.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Curling.

Yes, the game between the millers and the rag pickers is over, and any person or persons who hold that curling is pretty much made up of luck, just let them look at the score board of last night's game. They will see it is all in the curling. The "King of Patents," big Bob Moller, went at Skip Menzies with both feet and hands, and if the chalk had not run out, would be scoring yet. The front end of Menzies' rink got in some pretty work, but the hind end in many cases were playing for Miller. Adam Forepaugh, the "Oat King," on Ice No. 6, was also doing things to Skip Warner in about the same fashion, and the games wound up very much to the bad for the knights of the yard stick. But, cheer up, boys, the best is to come—the oysters, which will be ready when the millers are.

Rev. Wallace won his game from Mr. F. Knowlson on the 13th end, two up.

Collingwood's big bonspiel will open on February 18, when the Sleeman trophy, valued at $500, will be competed for.

Some fancy doings were happening on Ice No. 5 between Dr. Sutton and his opponent, T. Burke. The Dr. was down five when he went to play his last stone; he got what he went after and lay six, getting out one to the good.

Hockey

ACCOMPANYING THE BOYS

Lindsay is going to try to trim Port Perry on their own ice this evening. Of course they will be laboring under great difficulties, as the rink is small and very badly lighted, and the Port Perry boys know exactly how to take advantage of all these little things to oust any visiting teams who may hope to beat them. Our boys are going to do their best and hope to do the trick.

A special has been arranged to leave here at seven o'clock, returning immediately after the game. Everyone who can should come along and root for Lindsay, as the Intermediates have a big deficit to meet from last game.

A CASE OF SOUR GRAPES

Peterboro Review: Lindsay is feeling in high glee over their defeat of Brockville. Lindsay has every reason to be glad and make a loud noise, but from here it looks like Midland should the Lindsay-Midland outfit ever meet. Lindsay certainly has a nice little team, but by no means a bunch that is overly fast for aspirants for intermediate honors. But they may win the championship at that, although, if they do, intermediate hockey is not as fast as it used to be.

MAY PLAY HERE

Midland are still keeping well ahead in Intermediate hockey circles, and are trimming everything they run up against. Last night, at North Bay, in a sudden death game, they downed Sudbury to the tune of 11-4.

Odds and Ends of Sport

Boston, Feb. 10.—An International ocean yacht race on an historic course from Palos, Spain, to the Canary Islands, over which Christopher Columbus sailed on the first stage of his voyage to the New World, has been arranged for next summer by the yachtsmen of Spain, according to advices received here by the members of the Eastern Yacht Club.

It is planned to send the contestants away on August 3rd next, the 416th anniversary of the sailing of Columbus, and to have the start as near the point as possible from which the Santa Maria, Pinta, and Nina weighed anchor. The finish will be at Santa Cruz, on the Island of Teneriffe, a distance of about 60 miles, which Columbus covered in six days.

All the yacht clubs of North and South America will be invited to join with the Spaniards, and it is possible that European clubs may also be asked to participate, but at present it is intended to confine the race to those countries directly benefited by the discoveries of Columbus.

AN ADVT. IN THE POST PAYS

Correspondents' Newsy Letters

GLENARM

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Owing to the heavy snowfall and zero weather, people, as a rule, were housed in, consequently times were dull. We did not know of happenings beyond our burg, as we had no mail for four days. Several grew tired waiting for the storm to subside, and made skees, so don't be surprised, Mr. Editor, if they reach town.

Mr. Grant Keown, of Palestine, is learning to swing the anvil, under the supervision of or genial blacksmith, M. Wood.

Mr. Percy Moynes, of Souris, Man., is visiting in our community.

The rink has materialized at last and whiles away the spare moments of our lads and lassies.

We enjoy the remarks of "Stroller" in your valuable paper. They are interesting and contain much wisdom. In fact, they alone are worth the price of the Post.

WOODVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. J. F. Perie visited our town on Tuesday.

Miss L. Switzer is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Burton is the guest of Mrs. Wm. McKee.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dairs and children were the guests of Mrs. Henry Dairs last week.

Mrs. Brown, of Cannington, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. McTaggart last week.

A number of travellers were detained here last week on account of the heavy snowstorms.

A friendly game of hockey was played on Friday night between Beaverton and Woodville, the score being 11-10 in favor of the home team.

In the third tri-country hockey league game between Pefferlaw and Woodville, Woodville was defeated 6-4 at Pefferlaw.

Miss Dora McLeod was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. McNabb, of Eden, last week.

Miss Jessie Ferguson has returned to Toronto after spending some time with her mother here.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Hagerman have returned to their home in Whitevale, after spending some time with their daughter, Mrs. Rube Smith.

JANETVILLE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A concert and social will be held in the Methodist church on Friday evening, Feb. 21st. Dr. Olive Rae, of Lindsay, will lecture on missionary work. In addition a programme is being prepared, consisting of music and recitations. Admission 15 cents.

Owing to these two weeks of continuous storms, everything is rather slow in our village. I think we have had mail twice in about two weeks.

Mrs. J. Nasymith, of town, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Armstrong, at present.

The many friends here are sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. W. J. Peel, but at the time of writing we are glad to report that he is recovering.

The death of Mr. George Moorehead, on Monday morning last, was rather unexpected, notwithstanding he had attained a ripe old age. The Orangemen deserve praise for their faithfulness in attendance and in the respect shown to their deceased brother, who was a member of their society.

Miss Effie Hobbs was a guest under the parental roof a few days last week.

MOUNT HOREB.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Owing to the bad storms which have continued for the past two weeks, everything has been quiet.

Mr. Wm. Elliott, our postmaster, had a trying journey to Reaboro, but has been very successful in getting the mail.

The attendance at school has kept up well considering the roads.

Many friends will be glad to hear that Mr. Geo. Caldwell is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davey, of Saskatchewan, visited friends here and at Fleetwood.

Master Elmer Coulter met with a painful accident while in the woods chopping. He fell on the axe and cut his hand badly. There were five stitches put in the wound, and under the careful attention of Dr. Brown, he is able to be out again.

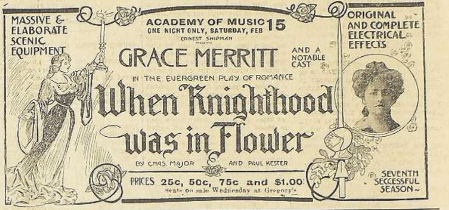
Master Ivan Moore and Luther Hart had a hard time getting to Omemee last week to attend High school.



A MILITARY SURPRISE.

President Grant and the "Drummer Boy of Shiloh."

Colonel John L. Clem, the "drummer boy of Shiloh," never attended West Point. In the early part of Grant's first term Clem obtained an audience with the president. "Mr. President," he opened the interview, "I wish to ask you for an order to admit me to West Point." "Why do you not take the examinations?" questioned Grant. "I did, but I failed to pass." "That was unfortunate. How did it happen?" "Why, you see, I was in the war while those other boys of my age were in school."

Clem was barely eighteen then and boyish looking even for his years. He had made his own way to the president and had no political sponsors to back him. "What!" exclaimed the president. "You were in the war?" "Yes, I was in the war four years." And Clem related his experiences. Grant wrote something, which he handed to the young applicant, saying: "Take this to the secretary of war. I guess it will fix you all right."

Clem went back to the secretary of war, who had before received him coldly, and delivered his note. The secretary read it and asked, "Do you know what this is?" "No," replied Clem. "I suppose it is an order to admit me to West Point." "Well, it isn't. It's an order to commission you second lieutenant in the regular army."—Chicago News.

THE FACE IN ILLNESS.

To the Trained Eye It Quickly Shows a Patient's Condition.

The face is a good index to the state of one's physical being, and from it symptoms of disease can be detected almost before the patient is aware that anything serious is the matter with him. For instance, incomplete closure of the eyelids, rendering the whites of the eyes visible during sleep, is a symptom in all acute and chronic diseases of a severe type. It is also to be observed when rest is unsound from pain wherever seated.

Twitching of the eyelids, associated with the oscillation of the eyelids, or squinting, heralds the visit of convulsions.

Widening of the orifices of the nose, with movements of the nostrils to and fro, points to embarrassed breathing from disease of the lungs or their plural investment.

Contraction of the brows indicates pain in the head, sharpness of the nostrils pain in the chest and a drawn upper lip pain in the abdomen.

To make a general rule, it may be stated that the upper third of the face is altered in expression in affections of the brain and the middle third in the diseases of the organs contained in the abdominal cavity.

Cotton Spinning Feats.

"Sea island cotton is the best kind," said a southerner. "It is finer and silkier than any other cotton in the world. A pound of it can be spun into 4,770 miles of thread. For an experiment once in the English town of Manchester a skilled spinner spun a pound of sea island cotton into a single thread 1,000 miles long. Then for another experiment he took another pound of cotton and spun it into as many hanks as he could get. He got 10,000 hanks in all, and the yarn in each measured 840 yards. Thus, out of a pound of cotton 4,770 miles of yarn was produced. This yarn, though, was too fine to be of any practical utility. Those two experiments made a superb experiment for the cotton of the south."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

What He Knew.

Master—If your friend were to borrow 12 shillings from you, agreeing to pay 1 shilling a month, how much would he owe at the end of the year?

Pupil—Twelve shillings.

"You don't know the elements of arithmetic."

"But I know my friend."—London Scraps.

No Vulgarity.

"You inherited quite a nice little fortune," said the lawyer.

"Yes," replied the fortunate youth.

"I suppose you will pay a lot of your debts now?"

"I had thought of it, but I concluded to make no change in my manner of living. I don't want to be accused of vulgar display."

A SPANISH TRICK.

The Incident Which Moved England to Turn Drake Loose.

The relations between which Drake's raid into the south sea had for a time threatened with open rupture had greatly improved—at least in outward appearance—and in 1585, under special promises of immunity from molestation on religious or other grounds, Philip had invited to his ports a fleet of English corn ships in order to supply the deficiency of his own harvests. No sooner, however, had the English ships arrived than an embargo was laid upon them and their crews arrested.

One ship, the famous Primrose of London, managed to escape. While lying off Bilbao quietly discharging her cargo she had been visited by the corregidor of Biscay and his guard disguised as merchants. Suddenly called upon to surrender, the crew flung themselves upon the Spaniards, drove them all overboard and made sail. Some of the discomfited Spaniards as the shore boats fled were seen clinging to the English vessel. These were humanely rescued and carried in triumph back to England, and among them was the corregidor himself. Upon him were found his official instructions, setting forth expressly that the embargo was ordered for the purposes of the expedition which Philip was preparing against the English. This was enough for the queen and the powerful public opinion of commercial circles in London, which had obstinately clung to pacific relations with Spain. A retaliatory embargo was proclaimed, letters of general reprisal were issued, and Drake was let loose.—From Publication of Navy Records Society.

British America Indians.

A French titled lady made a trip that took her 1,000 miles beyond civilization in the far northern districts of British America. She went forth accompanied by only two Indian guides and penetrated to the sixtieth parallel, riding astride, tramping, paddling in light canoes, floating down treacherous, rock picketed rapids in clumsy native barges and for one period of two weeks seeing no human being except her two Indian servants. "The Indians in that region are very superstitious, very ungrateful, very independent, but very honest. I invited a chief to have luncheon with me. He refused. To eat in company with a woman would degrade him. He would lose caste with his tribe. In another part of the country I had some Indians and their squaws on an expedition. But the Indians would not permit me to shoot any game. One of the traditions of the tribe, left by some old medicine man long since dead, was that if a woman were ever permitted to shoot moose or elk game would become scarce and the squaws would become powerful and master the men. I offered them $10 for every shot I might make, but money was no inducement."

A PORTO RICAN CUSTOM.

Prayers For the Dying Recited In the Public Streets.

"A few evenings ago while we were at dinner in our hotel," writes an American author visiting in Porto Rico, "we heard the tinkling of a small bell just outside the hotel doors. Instantly Salvador, the waiter, stopped in the little bustling run with which he waits on the guests, hurriedly procured a candle, lighted it and carried it out on the balcony. Almost as soon as that candle was on the balcony railing we three Americans were beside it, questioning Salvador, for we were sure something unusual was going on.

"We saw a procession of many people, led by two priests, coming down the street, each person bearing in his hand a lighted candle. They stopped in front of a house facing the hotel, and Salvador told us that somebody was dying there and they were praying for his soul. Up and down the street as far as we could see on every balcony railing was burning either a candle or a kerosene lamp.

"From the absorbed interest of the people gathered in front of open doors and windows of the afflicted house the sufferer was apparently trying to die in full view of the spectators.

"Presently the bell began to ring again, the procession formed once more, and they all moved up the street, Salvador telling us in explanation that there was a second person dying and they were now going to pray for him."—Exchange.

A Slight Deduction.

In Mrs. Lapham's family circle her powers of reasoning were accounted most remarkable and convincing. Outside the family her ability to convince was not so marked.

"See here," she said without releasing the ten cent piece for which the conductor of the trolley car had gone to her side. "I've only brought Willy with me. He's eight, so I've got to pay his fare. I've left Myra, that's four, and Neddy, that's two, at home. Now, you wouldn't have charged me for them, would you?"

"No, madam," said the conductor. "Your fare, please."

"Well, they'd have taken one seat," persisted Mrs. Lapham, still retaining her hold on the ten cent piece. "I couldn't have held 'em both. I thought of bringing them, only 'twas too far. Now, why can't you take off something from Willy under the circumstances?"

Never Took the Hint.

Jackson—Well, what did your wife say to you when you got home so late last night? You know you were afraid she'd scold. Fairleigh—My wife's a jewel. She didn't scold a bit. In fact, she didn't even ask me where I had been or what had delayed me; but, late as it was, she sat down at the piano and began to play and sing. I tell you she's one in ten thousand. Jackson—What did she sing? Fairleigh—"Tell Me the Old, Old Story."

ESTABLISHED 1817.

Rest .... $11,000,000 | Total Assets........................$165,234,768

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

MEMBERS FEAR RETALIATION

Mr. Lancaster Would Amend Canada Shipping Act — Western Lumber Combine — Discussion of Trade Matters Not Conspiracy—Copyright Act Amended—Suggested Amendment to the Rules.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—In the House yesterday Mr. Maclean (Lunenburg) asked that the rules be amended by requiring that the two days' notice be given of the intention of any member to discuss any definite or substantive matter on a motion to go into committee of supply on ways and means. The object, he explained, was to prevent the House being taken by surprise.

It was, of course, an ancient right possessed by members to ventilate grievances on going into supply, but no harm could come from requiring notice.

R. L. Borden said the proposal would cut down to a considerable extent the privileges of the House. The present practice had been in effect in Great Britain for 500 years; there had been no very great evil attendant upon this practice since Confederation.

Mr. McIntyre, named as seconder, said as far as he had considered the resolution, he had not found himself favorable to it. He did not know but the Government to-day might be in opposition to-morrow. He would hesitate before taking away any of the privileges of Parliament, and he asked the mover to accept some other seconder.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the rules had recently been amended after considerable thought, and this matter had not escaped his attention. He believed that it would be better to follow the old practice. Sir Wilfrid did not look for a change of Government in the near future.

"You may be taken by surprise," suggested W. F. Maclean.

"Or you may want two years' notice," said G. W. Foster.

Sir Wilfrid asked that the motion be withdrawn, and Mr. Maclean (Lunenburg) obeyed, observing that he did not agree with the reasons given by those opposed.

The Lumber Combine.

Mr. Schaffner (Souris) asked if the Government proposed to take action upon the finding of the committee appointed last session to investigate the lumber combine in the west. Mr. Aylesworth said the question was under provincial jurisdiction, and one of the Provincial Governments had already taken action.

Mr. Gervais (Montreal) introduced a bill to amend the Criminal Code with regard to conspiracy in restraint of trade. The rigorous application of the present statute had proved detrimental to certain classes of trade, said Mr. Gervais, and he proposed that commercial men should be allowed to come together to discuss trade matters with the same freedom as workingmen.

Claude Macdonell's bill to amend the Copyright Act was read a third time.

To-day the House will discuss the French treaty and marine estimates.

The bill of Mr. Lancaster (Lincoln) to amend the Canada Shipping Act by requiring that masters and mates on Canadian vessels on inland waters and coasting voyages much be British subjects, was read a second time in the House yesterday, but further consideration in committee of the whole was decided on, Mr. Brodeur expressing doubt that the Canadian Parliament had jurisdiction, and that the bill might conflict with the British Shipping Act. The Lancaster bill will again be taken up after the consideration of the general act.

Mr. Lancaster, in moving the second reading, said it was not an act of retaliation, but he urged its acceptance because it was a good thing for a nation to have its vessels officered by its own citizens.

Mr. McCarthy (Simcoe) was in sympathy with the bill if it would secure the object desired. It was time that we had a policy of Canada for Canadians in regard to our marine.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) said he knew American citizens, officers of Canadian vessels, who have never been domiciled in Canada.

Dr. Sproule supported the bill, but Mr. Pardee (Lambton) feared that it would bring further retaliation on the part of the United States. There were many marine officers who had taken out naturalization papers in the United States, but kept their domicile in Canada.

Mr. Maclean (Lunenburg), while expressing sympathy with the principle, would vote against the bill because in the Maritime Provinces it was impossible to obtain a full complement of officers for some ships.

Mr. Brodeur did not see why a difference should be made between sailors on inland waters and those operating sea-going ships. To his mind it was more urgent that sea-going ships, which might be requisitioned in case of war, should be officered by British subjects. It had been shown that out of 3,659 certificates issued to masters and mates on coasting, inland and minor waters, only seventy-nine were issued to men coming under the three years' domicile requirement, and of the seventy-nine only fourteen were issued to Americans.

Will Bring In a Bill.

Mr. Borden imagined we would have power to enact the clause in view of the fact that we had already required three years' domicile. Mr. Brodeur still doubted. He proposed to bring in a bill later in the session which would arrive at the object desired by Mr. Lancaster, and this would be submitted to the Home Government.

Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro) declared the bill was vicious and would irritate the Americans. He would confine restriction to the upper lakes. Mr. Borden said the British North America Act gave to the Parliament of Canada exclusive jurisdiction in respect to inland waters. It was a matter of importance to ascertain if an act of the Imperial Parliament repealed our own statutes regarding merchant shipping, and possibly it would be advisable to refer the question in the Supreme Court. On the bill being referred to committee of the whole. Mr. Brodeur read the opinion of Mr. Aylesworth, that it might conflict with the British Shipping Act, and he suggested that further consideration be deferred until his own bill was before the House.

The committee rose at 6 o'clock and the House adjourned.

OPPOSE ST. LAWRENCE DAM.

Mr. Gervais Protests Against Spoiling River's Beauty.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—The disastrous results that would follow the construction of a dam across the St. Lawrence near Cornwall were brought to the attention of the House yesterday by Mr. Gervais (Montreal), who moved for the correspondence between the Government and international waterways commission on one part and the St. Lawrence Power Co. and Long Sault Development Co. of the other part.

It would be an outrage, and Mr. Gervais, to permit the obstruction of the St. Lawrence, and there was a keen feeling throughout Eastern Canada that this piece of commercial vandalism should be prevented. Mr. Graham agreed the proposition would be a shock to every Canadian. Tourists from all parts of the world had glorified in the beauties of the river, and any attempt to mar it was bound to be resented. He doubted if the work could be done without jeopardizing property on the Canadian side by floods, and the Government would have to be satisfied regarding the property question, as well as navigation interests.

Mr. Gervais asked if the United States had the right to undertake work of this kind on international waterways, in view of existing treaties, and Mr. Graham said nothing would be allowed to interfere with international arrangements. The Canadian section of the international waterways commission was discussing the question seriously.

Mr. Borden asked whether the Government had statutory power to make arrangements, and Mr. Graham replied that the company would have to come to Ottawa for a charter.

Dr. Reid declared the proposition was monstrous, while George Taylor said any Government which sanctioned such work would itself be damned. Mr. Haggart was glad of Mr. Graham's assurance. Nothing should be done pending the report of the waterways commission. We had thousands of water powers, and nothing should be done to mar the beauty of this spot.

R. L. Borden said there was the further consideration that these water powers belonged to the people of Canada, and nothing should be done to exploit this great natural resource without consulting the people's representatives in Parliament.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier assured the House that the Government would not deal with the question till all interests had been consulted. The motion was carried.

Anti-Home Rule Campaign.

Dublin, Feb. 13.—An appeal for a fund to maintain an anti-home rule campaign in Great Britain has been issued. It is signed by Lord Lansdowne, the Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Marquis of Ormonde, Viscount Iveagh, Baron Ardilaun and other Irish Unionist peers.

The appeal describes the danger to the cause of union as imminent and asks for a large sum of money, so that the methods by which home rule as advocated by Gladstone was defeated, may be resumed.

BLACKMAIL WAS THE CHARGE

Von Veltheim Played For High Stake of $80,000—Wealthy Rand Magnate the Victim — Prisoner Had Married Seven Women and Robbed Then All — Was Formerly Accused of Murder.

London, Feb. 13.—Carl Ludwig Von Veltheim, Germon-born, but a naturalized American, who posed as a baron, was sentenced yesterday to 20 years' penal servitude at the Old Bailey, having been convicted of attempting to blackmail Solly B. Joel, a wealthy London and South African financier and mine owner, out of $80,000.

Von Veltheim was arrested months ago in Paris and extradited to England. He has served in the German army and navy; was once in the Bulgarian army and has had many adventures in Australia, America and Japan. He went to Cape Town in 1897 and ten years ago shot and killed Wolfe Joel, a brother of Solly Joel, at that place. He was arrested and tried, pleaded self-defence and was acquitted. Some years afterward a body recovered from the Thames was identified as Von Veltheim by his wife, but later the adventurer was discovered serving in the Bechuanaland police.

Before sentence was passed on Von Veltheim, the police told a remarkable story of his career of crime and fraud. According to this recital Von Veltheim has committed bigamy with no less than seven women. This list includes a woman he married in 1904 at Yankton, South Dakota, and a young American woman in Paris by a mock priest.

The prisoner is alleged to have obtained a large sum of money from most of his "wives."

The police allegations against him include charges of theft and blackmail and the assertion that he is a deserter from the German navy.

VICTIM MADE GREAT FIGHT.

Defied Lynching Party and Severely Wounded Ten.

Valdosta, Ga., Feb. 13.—Attacked by a mob of lynchers just across the Florida line, Jack Long, a white man, fought his assailants desperately, wounding ten of them and forcing the others to kill him in the fight.

Long was accused of killing James Sapp, a wealthy citizen. A son of Sapp had killed a brother of Long and escaped. Long saw the father of the slayer and shot him to death. Long was arrested and 50 men visited the prison and took the prisoner out to hang him. Long fought the mob to a standstill in the prison, but was knocked down by a mob.

He was beaten to death before he was finally hanged. Four of the members of the mob were wounded so badly that they may die.

Eagle Point Arrives.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—The Eagle Point arrived here shortly after two o'clock. The web cranshaft of the steamer broke during a violent storm and the ship rolled helplessly in the rough sea. It was found almost impossible to repair the damage, but Chief Engineer Jack took the engine apart bit by bit and practically remodeled it, finally putting it in such working order as to permit the steamer to proceed slowly.

There are 48 men in the crew, and in addition the steamer carried eight cattlemen. The fresh meat gave out and all hands were put on short rations. Capt. Lloyd said he was spoken twice and offered assistance, but declined the proffered aid with thanks, as he was confident that his engine room staff could effect the necessary repairs.

Jail For Suffragettes.

London, Feb. 13.—Nearly fifty women suffragettes who on Tuesday made a raid on the House of Commons were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday and sentenced to pay a fine or one month's imprisonment.

All but two of the women preferred to go to jail rather than pay the fine.

NEW WAY TO BE WELL

Healthfulness of Oranges.

The one lesson which most people never seem to learn is, how to guard their health.

We have been eating oranges since time immemorial, yet how many of us know that orange juice contains a medicinal principle which has a marked action on the stomach, bowels, kidneys and skin. Some physicians go so far as to say that they can cure the average case of Indigestion, Constipation, Billiousness and Dry Skin with orange juice and proper diet.

This can be easily proved to the satisfaction of any sufferer. Take the juice of one or two oranges every morning before breakfast, take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" every night at bed-time, exercise a reasonable care in diet, and the proof will be found in health.

The cure will be greatly assisted and hastened by taking "Fruit-a-tives" in conjunction with the orange juice. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the medicinal principle of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are many times increased by the special way in which they are combined. Then tonics are added and the whole made into tablets. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. TWITS THE PREMIER

Sharp Repartee in Legislature Over Question of "Balderdash."

HON. MR. WHITNEY FORGOT

Member For South Brant Creates an Incident—Debate Is Continued by Three Speakers—Mr. Gamey Retaliates—Brings to Light Several Errors — C. W. Smith Chaffs the Minister of Agriculture.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—There was a moment of sharp repartee in the Legislature yesterday afternoon between the member for South Brant, Mr. T. H. Preston, and Premier Whitney. It all centred around the Premier's use of the now famous word "balderdash." About a year ago the leader of the Government applied this word to a portion of a resolution aiming to give the mineral wealth to the settler. The other day a Government measure was introduced practically along the lines of the resolution of a year ago. Mr. Preston pointed out that as far back as 1904 the Liberals had favored such a policy, and even a Conservative convention had passed a resolution also favoring it. Then the member for South Brant gently twitted the leader of the Government about being so unfamiliar with it as to use the word "balderdash" when practically the same resolution was brought up in the House, but by a Liberal. This roused the ire of the Premier, and he hastily replied to the effect that he was familiar with details of the resolution, and thereby got deeper into the mire.

The debate on the address was continued first by Mr. C. N. Smith, Sault Ste. Marie, who finished his speech of Tuesday by making a special plea in the interests of Ontario's pulpwood. Then followed Mr. R. R. Gamey, Manitoulin, who spoke for about an hour and a half. Mr. Preston only spoke a few minutes, when he moved the adjournment, and he will conclude his address to-day.

In resuming the debate Mr. Smith (Sault Ste. Marie) facetiously tendered an apology to the Minister of Agriculture for having held him wholly responsible for the purchase of a blind mare for $1,500. The speaker had since learned that another member of the administration was present and assisted in the purchase of the decripid mare.

Continuing, the member for the Soo pointed out that there was in Northern Ontario over 150,000 square miles of minerals and timber that were inaccessible and undeveloped. To open up this country he suggested to the Government the advisability of building two lines of railway from the great lakes north. Many of the immigrants, now a charge on the public, could be given employment on the work of construction, and the enterprise would more than pay for itself in opening up and developing a greater Ontario than has been.

Quoting statistics to show the export of pulpwood to the mills of the United States, Mr. Smith advocated the appointment of a Government commission to look into the whole matter, and to seek to develop the timber richness of the province along practical lines.

In concluding, Mr. Smith alluded to Mr. McKeown's query, "where is the Opposition's Moses?" "We don't want a Moses," declared Mr. Smith. "Moses lived for 120 years and then died outside the promised land. There is another figure in history we are interested in. There was a great Alexander of the past who conquered the world and wept because there were not others to conquer. We Liberals have our Alexander." (Opposition applause.)

Mr. R. R. Gamey (Manitoulin) alluded to the previous speaker's "pathetic plaint that in giving the settlers the mineral and timber rights of the north country the Government had stolen the Liberal clothes." Why, declared Mr. Gamey, it was the Liberal Government that took these rights from the settlers.

Continuing, Mr. Gamey said that the Conservatives had been twitted because they were proud of their honest Premier. Mr. Smith had declared that every Premier of Ontario had been honest.

"There is," he continued, "a kind of honesty that will keep a constituency vacant for two years. Well, that's the kind of honesty you had prior to 1905. There is a kind of honesty that would call the Legislature hurriedly and prematurely to close off an election trial in which a Minister of the crown was involved."

Continuing, Mr. Gamey took up the spruce and pulpwood questions the member for the Soo had alluded to. The present Government had, he said, decreed that all Ontario's pulpwood must be manufactured into pulp within the province. No stealing of old Liberal clothes there. The former Government had allowed the forests to be depleted to aid the mills of the United States. Moreover, they handed out fat concessions of the public lands to political favorites for mere songs."

Mr. Smith—"When and to whom?"

Mr. Gamey—"Just before the elections, to a certain Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., of Toronto. You may have heard of him. If you haven't, I have." (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. Gamey, proceeding, said the present Government had established a system by which all pine timber and other sales of the public domains must be made at public auction. Business principles now prevailed and the day of graft was over. No one was stealing the old clothes—nobody wanted them. It was well they should stay buried.

"If the great Alexander we have heard about," observed Mr. Gamey, "ever conquers, I have faith enough in him to think that he would never think of resurrecting the old clothes."

Mr. Gamey reviewed the administration of Hon. Mr. Cochrane, "its freedom from graft, its business principles and its great results for the province." He bespoke what had been done in laying new roads and encouraging the upbuilding of schools. This work would be carried on to a still greater extent in the future. "The present Minister of Mines," he concluded, "has consecrated himself to the upbuilding of a greater Ontario." (Government applause.)

Mr. Preston (Brant) moved the adjournment of the debate.

Lawyer Attacks Detective For Treatment of Bowin.

Detroit, Feb. 13.—The trial of Percy Bowin, the 18-year-old Canadian boy charged with the murder of Mrs. Welch, has been set for Feb. 24, but Mr. Kennedy, Bowin's attorney, says he cannot be ready before the March term of the recorder's court. Judge Phelan said that if necessary the trial would be postponed until March, as he would insist upon every opportunity being given the young man to prove his innocence.

The judge overruled Mr. Kennedy's motion to quash the information against Bowin on the ground that he had been induced to plead guilty in the police court by Captain of Detectives McDonnell. Mr. Kennedy violently assailed officials of the police department, accusing them of taking advantage of Bowin's youth and ignorance of legal matters, in an effort to railroad him to prison.

NORWAY'S INTEGRITY.

Terms of the Treaty of Guarantee Made Public.

Paris, Feb. 13.—The treaty signed recently between France, Great Britain, Germany, Russia and Norway, the object of which is to guarantee the independence and territorial integrity of Norway, was made public yesterday.

It provides that Norway shall cede to no power any part of her territory, and the signators agreed to recognize and respect the integrity of Norway and to act in concert in her support in the event of her being menaced by any power. The life of the treaty is ten years, but it will remain in force for a second decade if it is not nullified within eight years of its inauguration.

The withdrawal of one of the signatory powers does not make it impossible for the others to renew the treaty.

Big Blaze at New Liskeard—Loss Estimated at $15,000.

New Liskeard, Feb. 13.—Fire, started by an explosion of a coal oil stove in the building of A. J. Coombe, tailor, did over $15,000 worth of damage to the neighborhood yesterday morning about 8 o'clock.

The damage to Coombe's premises is $5,000, with $2,800 insurance. The damage to his stock and household goods was $2,000. Others who suffered are: T. Hanington, barber, loss $500, no insurance; Gordon & Davies, butchers, loss $500, all covered; S. Jewell, barber, $500 on building, insured, household goods a total loss; Rymal & Son, grocers, loss $1,500, insured. Ten roomers who lived over the building lost everything.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and, through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

of all. Claire and her aunt had been absolutely the only guests at the bungalow in all Tom's time there. Nor was it because Daintree had never made a friend in the settlement. It was because he had never kept one in any quarter of the globe.

Meanwhile the ladies came to Rose bay no more. The happy man went to them instead and would stop till midnight, to gallop home by starlight and pour out his happiness to Tom until the harbor turned from jet to polished steel; and twice the steel was silver, and once the silver was flaming gold before the poet would hold his peace. It was a long week, but the nights went quicker than the days. Daintree had never been a better companion than in those long, confidential, starlit talks. They were not exclusively on the one subject. Tom learned at last how the murder had affected the party at Avenue Lodge, and one whole night and day he never closed an eye for thinking of two men in two new and startling lights. They were the living man Harding and the dead man Blaydes. The first haunted Tom the longer. Why had he insisted on dragging Daintree to the trial?

The days were lengthened by Peggy in the kitchen, with her kind, uninjured looks and the unfailing, friendly, amiable word that made him feel the meanest of men. The girl could be an angel when she had him, with all his coldness, to herself. He never suspected what she had been from the Sunday night to the Monday afternoon. And now they were both under notice to leave.

"If only you two would make up your minds to marry!" said Daintree to Tom. "I have you both on my mind, but I could provide for the two of you at one stroke as a married couple. It has long been my wish to start a model farm up country, and you and Peggy would certainly make model managers." But Tom shook his head more decidedly than he had shaken it while the little Rosamund was pricking her way across the chart.

On the Friday, the same breeze holding good all the week, Daintree decided to sail round to Sydney instead of driving. He had a solid check to cash for the wedding trip, and the Point Piper road was no route for a pocketful of money and a life at its very highest value. Tom asked if Nat Sullivan was still in Sydney and was told that he had drunk himself prostrate at the Pulteney, whereupon Tom volunteered for the voyage, and so escaped Peggy for one afternoon. To make safety doubly safe, however, they ran into Farm cove, and Tom and the dog were to wait in the Domain while Daintree went to the bank and called at the hotel.

It was then 3 o'clock, and Daintree was to be at least two hours gone, but he returned in less than one, bringing Claire with him for a sail. Tom's surprise at seeing her was less than that of the girl at sight of him. The indignation was altogether on her side and sufficiently perceptible in spite of Claire's efforts to conceal an inappropriate displeasure. Daintree did not see it, but what they all three missed was the furtive figure which emerged from the trees as the boat put off.

Claire was given the tiller and told simply to obey orders, Daintree took the sheet, and Tom was put into the bows to be out of the way. The sail made a convenient screen. It also prevented Tom from knowing in the least what happened. As a matter of fact, they were just taking the wind—which was by this time fresher than ever—when Daintree's attention was diverted by an apparition at the water's edge. It was the man who had followed him through the Domain, and so rapt was the gaze with which Daintree beheld him that he forgot to let the sheet go at the critical instant. Smack came the wind against a sail like the side of a house. "Let go! Let go!" screamed Tom. It was too late. She was gunwale under. The sail lay a moment on the water, drinking it like blotting paper. Then the saturated canvas sank, and the boat tossed keel upward within fifty yards of the shore.

Claire sank clear of the wreck and had the presence of mind to strike out before coming to the surface, and even as the sun lashed her wet eyes strong hands slid under her arms and she was being pushed face forward to the shore. The trees were waving in the sun. It was no distance, and Daintree's dog was swimming happily on ahead. Suddenly, with a piercing yelp, the dog disappeared. At the same moment Daintree began splashing vigorously, and when the smooth sand came under Claire's feet, but a few yards farther on, her knees were too weak to support her weight.

"The happiest moment of my life," said a deep voice in her ear. "I have saved"—

She turned, and there was Daintree, up to his waist in water, with the drops raining from his face and whiskers and shaded eyes sweeping the blue. The boat was coming in keel upward with the tide. The dog and Tom had vanished off the face of the waters.

Daintree dashed in again and met the wreck as her mast struck bottom. Tom was still struggling underneath her, caught fast in the cordage. His struggles ceased as he was wrenched free. When Daintree got him to land his mouth and ears were in a froth, and Claire stood by like a woman turned to stone.

A small crowd collected slowly. It did not contain the man who had caused the mischief. The trees had swallowed him once more.

The crowd surrounded Tom and Daintree, who had stripped his servant to the waist and was sawing the air with the drenched white arms and the helpless sunburnt hands. Claire stood on the fringe of the crowd, without a clear thought in her head, but in her hand a packet that had fallen at her feet when Tom's shirt and vest were torn off and hurled aside. The packet was sewed up in dripping oiled silk as transparent as glass. Through it she could read a name she but dimly realized to be her own, and the voices of those jostling her seemed far away.

"He is alive," said Daintree, looking up. "Has nobody run for brandy?"

Nobody had.

And it was wanted now for two people.

Claire Harding had swooned away.

Daintree had his hands full with the pair of them, but in a little they were both conscious and able to drive away with him in a hired chaise. They drove to the hotel, forgetting the risk. On the way Tom stretched forth a feeble hand.

"How many more times are you going to save my life?" he asked.

"You saved mine, too," said Claire sadly.

"It was nervous work after the way my poor wee dog went," said Daintree. "Did you see that, Claire? Poor thing! It was a shark!"

"Yes." She shuddered.

"But if he will but splash a bit, your man of courage is all right. Do you mind if we drive round by the Herald office? They publish on Monday, but it's just as well to be in time."

Daintree was sawing the air with the drenched white arms.

So the conceit of him overlapped even his heroism. And Claire and Tom sat shivering in their wet clothes, while Daintree in his was several minutes inspiring and all but dictating the paragraph which duly appeared in the Sydney Herald. But during those minutes the pair in the chaise never exchanged a word, and afterward, in the hotel, not one word.

CHAPTER XXXII.

DAINTREE was driven home before dusk, for his pocketbook was bloated with moist bank notes, besides which Lady Starkie positively refused to have him about the hotel that evening. It was against the rules for bridegrooms as laid down by her ladyship, who dined very solemnly with her niece alone and got to bed at a reasonable hour for the first time that week. Claire then had their sitting room to herself, and she drew out the oiled silk packet which had fallen into her hands that afternoon. It was thin and oblong, like the letter it plainly contained. Under the lamp Claire's name and the address of her old home were still legible beneath the silk, though they no longer stood out as when the skin was wet. And on the reverse side was written very small, "For pity's sake, forward this."

When? After his death? Fate had forwarded it before. Should she read or destroy or return this letter to its writer—to the criminal who had confessed to her his crime? Some minutes after Claire Harding asked herself this question she turned up the lamp and cut the oiled silk open with a pair of scissors. She now saw that the letter had been written some time, yet it was with a strange thrill, a wonderment beginning at the heart, that she read the heading within. It was Newgate and the date May 29, 1837, the blackest day of all her life, the eve of that on which they would have hanged him.

Agitated as she was, however, by these dreadful memories and touched by the mere fact of his having written to her on that awful Monday, it was the first sentence of his letter that ran into her heart like molten lead. He called himself an innocent man! From the brink of the grave came that lie, that blasphemy, which he had lived to confess to her with his crime! She read on mechanically, and all at once her pain ceased. She was lost and absorbed in the plain, straightforward, circumstantial story into which he plunged without preliminary. He told her everything from the moment they parted at the garden gate. Nothing was left out, nothing extenuated, nothing enlarged or even commented upon by the writer. Her heart was beating wildly long before she reached the end of this plain statement. She had forgotten all about his confession. This rang true; this rang true.

"Sweetheart," he went on—"for I must call you so once more—I cannot tell you how I feel, for I vary from hour to hour. Now and then I feel the murderer they say I am, now and then an abject coward (without the pluck to show it), now and then a sort of Christian martyr. But with God's help I hope to finish up a man. Do not grieve for the ugly way of it. There's no disgrace in that, since it's a mistake, and if there is a God never fear but he will make it up to me one day. Oh, but it is sweet to talk to you again! I used to tell you everything, and so I must until the end.

"The turnkeys are looking through my grating now. They are telling each other what I am at and coming back and back again to have a peep. My Christianity isn't proof against that. I say nothing, but I could do the thing I am going to die for—God help me, I may do it yet! You see how I change. There is only one thing in which I can never change—my grateful love and reverence for the great girl soul that forgave me and would have given me another chance if this had not happened. Sweetheart, my love for you has grown in prison; it has been my only comfort in this vile place, and it will go with me where I go tomorrow—it will stay with my poor soul through all eternity. Only do not grieve for me, Claire, for I never was worthy of your sweet love. I would not leave this behind for you, I would not have you reminded of me for a single day, but for one selfish thing. Sweetheart, it is to make you believe in me. You have not done so yet. Why should you? Nobody knows what you know and have so nobly hidden, but, for all I said to you, I am innocent. He was alive when I left him. I did give him the receipt, and we shook hands at the end. That is God's truth. I tell it you with the last words my hand will ever write. I meant to write to the kind fanatic who paid for my defense and is working still (they tell me) for a reprieve, but now I cannot. If you could find him out and thank him for me, I should be grateful, but my last words in this life must be to you. God bless you, dear, and give you somebody much better than I ever could have been. Only do know that I never did this thing, and when you realize that think no more of me, my dear love, but pray tomorrow for the soul of your unworthy boy"—

His signature followed, better written than the rest, a touching effort to "finish up a man." All the last pages were blurred with the condemned man's tears, and now after seventeen months her tears were raining, raining, on the same paper, on the same words, that bore the blots of his.

This postscript remained:

"Reprieved at the last moment! I shall not send this now, but I hope that it may reach you when I am gone."

Claire went to the window, and the rings rattled along the rod as she flung the curtains back.

The hotel garden lay very still below. It was the back of the house, and now the hour was late. Suddenly there was a movement on the gravel underneath.

"Claire, is it your voice?"

He whispered—it was Tom.

"Yes," she said at last. "Come up. I want to speak to you."

"Now?"

"Yes! How is it you are still in the town?"

"I lost something. I have been hunting for it on the beach. I have come back to have another look here."

"I have it. Come straight up to the room you were in this afternoon."

He appeared to hesitate.

"You—you are not alone?"

But Claire had left the window and was waiting impatiently at the open door. How long he kept her! It seemed an age before his halting step was heard upon the stairs, while she, on

THE DOMINION BANK.

The annual report of the Dominion Bank, published on page nine, will bring to the general public, as it must so to the shareholders of that institution, a sense of satisfaction. It shows that notwithstanding the world-wide financial stringency prevailing in the latter part of 1907, the year's business was very profitable, and that the bank is in exceedingly sound financial condition. The net profits for the year out of which twelve per cent. dividend was paid, amounted to $286,236.56. The amount of $253,452.87 rendered on premium on new stock was transferred to the reserve fund, which now totals $4,835,354.87 upon a paid up capital of $4,848,507.56. In accordance with a resolution passed at the preceding annual meeting, $100,000 of new capital stock was issued, and of this during the year $98,300 was subscribed and $88,600 paid up. The general statement shows that the Dominion Bank is well prepared for emergencies. Against total liabilities to the public of $26,298,551.82 it has assets amounting to $40,207,217.82. These include $5,142,053.71 in cash; and the readily realizable assets figure up to $18,689,980.15 over forty per cent of the liabilities to the public. The management seems to have wisely carried out its announced policy of restricting advances without interfering with the proper requirements of customers, and at the same time of giving the necessary assistance required for the marketing of the Western crops, while maintaining the strong cash reserves, rendered necessary by the abnormal financial conditions which have prevailed for some time past. The directors and Mr. C. A. Bogert, the general manager, are to be heartily congratulated upon a good year's business and perhaps even more upon the strong position of the bank.

May Spread to Human Beings

Something in the Air That is Affecting Equines at Present.

The present fine weather has made everyone feel cheerful and have brighter all over them. Its greatest effect, however, in the last few days has been on the animal kingdom. Tuesday there were reported no less than four runaways, and obstreperous horses seem to be the order of the day. The animals, made frisky by the fine weather, were delivery horses belonging to A. Chapman, Spratt & Gilliat, and T. A. Fisher. Besides these, the team drawing the Queen City Oil Co's big tank, which frisky while behind McLennan's store and started off in a good old way of the lang and onto Kent-st. (They were stopped before any damage was done).

Yesterday morning Brady's delivery horse lifted the fresh air so well, and felt so frisky, that it dashed into a street while its driver was off the store. What one of the jury corners it explored are not known, but it was finally discovered with its nose up against a building at the end of a blind alley near the Post building. Its driver was phoned for, and came and got his stuff.

There is a rumor in circulation to the effect that the "runaway" germ is spreading to human beings. The wife of a north ward man is said to have disappeared within the last few days.

Are Citizens of Vermillion Afia.

The Pilkie Family, Formerly of Lindsay, Doing Well in West.

An illustrated copy of The Weekly Journal, Edmonton, just to hand, contains a "write-up" and photo-graph of scenes in Vermillion, the busy junction point on the C. N. R. The following information to the Pilkie family, formerly well known residents of this town, will interest our readers:

Pilkie Bros., the pioneer merchants of this city (Vermillion), have been in business since 1905. They were here one year and a half previous to the railroad entering the town, when all stock had to be trucked from Edmonton, taking a team about 12 days to make the round trip.

The photo herewith shows the sod shingles (government shingles), as they are termed. As soon as the railway reached to the landing, it took their place in 1905. The old store was not only a place of business, but also in the early, out it was turned into a place of worship on Sunday afternoon. The first Episcopal Church of Vermillion was held here conducted by Archbishop Lloyd. The majority of the congregation were men, some forty or fifty miles distant, which would have been kept by a resident more prominently seen than by a Mounted Policeman, and it was this old store still keeps its record, and we think Pilkie's will take its place in the spring of 1908.

Underneath a picture of the new C. N. R. station appears the following: The photo from which the above cut was made was taken from a $250 corner lot on the H. R. Pilkie subdivision, showing the C. N. R. station and the business section of Vermillion. The population of the town is held at 8100 a foot frontage.

A picture of the four Pilkie sons, with their mother, and of "J. R. Pilkie, J. P., Secretary of the Vermillion Agricultural Society," add interest to the article.

A Final Rally In Good Cause

Two Months Course in Agriculture at Lindsay Collegiate.

To-day, at the Collegiate Institute, the Two Months' Course in Agriculture opened with several in attendance. Applications for the course in agriculture have yet arrived, and there must still be many young men who could, with profit to themselves, pulver, find time to take the course, and with many others start in on the course on Feb. 18th, 1908.

This is a special course arranged for farmers and farmers' sons who cannot be spared for a longer period from the farm. The course opened on Wednesday, 12th, and will continue until April 10th, or until those taking the course are "required for "spring work on the farm.

The course will be made as practical as possible, and will comprise animal husbandry, soil management, dairying, or the formation, care, and management of a dairy herd; field husbandry, or the growing of field crops; horticulture, or the growing of fruits and vegetables; agriculture botany, or the study of the life of grains, grasses and weeds; farm bookkeeping and farm management. Instruction will be given during regular school hours, 9 to 4 o'clock, and the classes will be conducted in such the same manner as other Collegiate classes.

The expenses of this course will be: Tuition fees (the same as for all courses at the Collegiate) $1 per month (books, Jordan's Lave Stock, $1.50; "Canadian Dairying," 90c; "Soils and Crops of the Farm," 90c; "Cultivation Crops," 90c). All together with board and travelling expenses will probably total about $30.

This course is open to men of all ages over 18 years, who are of good moral nature, and the course will prove very helpful to farmers, and farmers' sons.

Golden Wedding Anniversary at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. John Quibell—Member of Fenelon Falls Camera Club Meets With Misfortune.

A pleasant event occurred in Fenelon Falls last Wednesday, Feb. 5th, when Mr. and Mrs. John Quibell celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their residence on Elgin-st. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Daniel Wright, Baptist clergyman at Blythe hall a century ago. Mr. Quibell came to Canada from Nottinghamshire, England, in 1851. Mr. Quibell, then Miss Ann Wilson, came to this country from Yorkshire in 1854. Both were residents of Zion, in Fenelon township, at the time of their marriage, some years afterwards they removed to Fenelon Falls, where they have since resided. They are members of Methodist church, and during their long residence in this village have won the esteem of all. It was a matter of regret at the celebration of their golden wedding that a number of the members of the family were unable to be present owing to the terrible weather prevailing at the time. Notwithstanding all, those who were present enjoyed the occasion. Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Quibell, twelve of whom are living. These are Mrs. J. W. Kelly, Mrs. H. F. Pearce, Mrs. Jas. Kelly of Toronto; Messrs. Albert and Charles Quibell of Lindsay, Mr. Wm. Quibell of Toronto, Mrs. Jas. Patrick Quibell, of Montana; T. S. Thomas, Rossport and George, who resides in Omaha. Of the deceased children Martha and Arthur living at home with their parents. There are sixty-two grandchildren and three great grandchildren. A number of relatives and friends from a distance attended. Thos. Quibell, of Lindsay; Barkey and family, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Braund, of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. George Kelly and family and Mr. and Mrs. Carter and family, of Toronto. Many congratulations were sent in from those who for happy reasons from those who were prevented by the storm from attending the celebration. A number of these were Mr. and Mrs. Millis, of Coldwater; Messrs Charles and A. Quibell and family, of Omaha, Neb.; Mr. Frederick Quibell, of Montana; Wm. Quibell and family, of Petersboro; Mr. George Quibell, of Cavendish township; Mrs. LaPaire, of Lindsay; Mrs. Jas. Kelly, of Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Quibell were the recipients of numerous and handsome presents, the gift of the occasion, also of a purse of gold from their children, accompanied by the following address read by Mr. Thos. Quibell: "It is with feelings of joy and congratulation that we are gathered together to-day, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of your wedding, as a family we have very much to be thankful for, and we are especially thankful that you have been spared to us for so long and that as a family we are together. We ask you to accept this purse of gold, not that we think we can ever repay you for your loving care ever we, but as a slight evidence of our love, for, as we have, may, separed for many years yet to welcome us home, and that the money in your hands may bring you closer and more sunshine. May God's blessings, which maketh rich and adds no sorrow, rest upon you both now and at but we mee, as an unbroken family around the throne of God. Signed Children."

A young lad named Willie Miller, aged 13 years, son of Mr. Wm. Miller, of Dover Mills, was killed by a freight train last Wednesday morning to one Dr. Sisson, our local dentist, on Kent-st. Harry Sisson, who was present over to the station, intending to take the train which leaves the Falls at 8 o'clock, and was standing there that the train was coming, and owing to the terrible weather conditions, the southward, he espied a walk home, a distance of about 3 miles, and he thought it would not seem gone more than an hour when the storm, which was the worst so far this winter, prevented him. His friends at home telephoned to the Falls, and learning that he had left here at 8 o'clock concluded the rational track in search of him, but finding no trace of him, feared that he had lost his way and perished in the terrible storm. Going back on Thursday morning and enquiring at many of the houses along the way where it was supposed he might have taken refuge, they still heard no news of the lad, and had about given up hope when he appeared about noon at his home, greatly to the relief of his parents and friends. He had been overtaken by the storm when near the residence of Mrs. John Fell (about the only house not related by the search party) about four miles from the village, where he had been hospitably sheltered for the night.

Last week was our busy week in Fenelon Falls, talk about our Land of the Snows. Why, we didn't do a thing for the last ten days or so, only shovel snow, except wait for the mail. On Tuesday, Feb. 4th, a train arrived from the north, about three hours late, bringing Monday's and Tuesday's mail. Then three days without mail. On Friday morning a team and sleigh from Edwards' livery was sent to Lindsay in charge of J. Taggart, accompanied by four nonmercial men. On Saturday the return trip was made, arriving Wednesday, Thursday and Friday's mail which reached us about 2 p. m. On Sunday the nonsleigh went through to Haliburton, and since then there has been no interruption in the train service. This snow was reported to be fifteen feet deep near Haliburton, so the nonsleigh was expected to run through, quite a number of sleighs out on snowshoes to see it, including the lodak brigade. A number of snowshoe parties from Lindsay, Toronto

Unwise Charity Being Dispensed

Children Soliciting Gifts of Clothing Without Proper Warrant.

Chief of Police Vincent has received several reports lately of children going from house to house collecting old clothing, ostensibly for the poor. He has good reason to believe that the stories told are false and the whole thing a fake.

On investigating an address given by one of the youngsters, who said she lived at a certain place in the east ward, the Chief found there was no such place, nor was the name given known by anyone in the vicinity. It looks very much as if these youngsters are taking advantage of the present hardships reported round town, and of the generosity of Lindsay people, to obtain clothing on false pretenses, which, on being sold later to the second-hand man, will yield them a certain amount of pocket money.

Clothing and supplies given in this way is worse than wasted, as it encourages the young rascals in wrong-doing. People should give, but should see to it that their stuff reaches the right persons.

—The report of last night's meeting of Council committees is unavoidably crowded out, along with other interesting matter, owing to the illness of our chief typograph operator.

—Citizens, don't miss the Port Perry-Lindsay game to-morrow night—the boys need the money. If Lindsay win, they will play Midland in Midland next Tuesday, and here on Friday, according to the list of Secretary Hewett, of the O. H. A.

—At a very pleasant meeting of the I. O. O. F. Tuesday night, the Orientals' baseball team was entertained. Quite a large number were present, and a good time was spent. Refreshments were served and toasts drunk to the team, the society, and so forth. The members dispersed at about midnight.

—Ice cutting is in full swing now. The ice on the upper river is about two feet deep and of very good quality. It is reasonable to suppose that it is of a like thickness on the lower river and on Sturgeon Lake, so that with good weather immense quantities will be taken out in the next few weeks.

Saturday Night's Grand Attraction.

The play, "When Knighthood was in Flower," affords great opportunity for lavishness in scenery, settings, properties and costumes, and every advantage of the many openings along this line has been taken by Ernest Shipman. It is a safe prediction that one of the largest audiences of the season will be seen at the Academy next Saturday evening.—d1.

Curling Notes.

THE WINNIPEG RINK

Owing to the mild weather, play did not start yesterday in the Bonspiel games, as expected, A cold snap was setting in, however, and the curlers expected the ice to be in shape this morning, Lindsay being down to play in the first draw for the Dingwall Trophy.

CHALLENGE TO THE CLANS

The Presbyterian members of the Lindsay Curling Club hereby challenge the Church of England members to a friendly game of curling on any night that may be mutually agreed upon. Four rinks a side to be selected, if possible. Rev. J. W. Wallace and Rev. C. H. Marsh are asked to look after the details.

Warning to Children.

Yesterday Campbell's grocery horse took a run by himself in the east ward. It seems that the driver went into a house with an order, and while he was inside a couple of little girls ran up and jumped on the sleigh. The horse, being trained for delivery work, thought it was the driver, and started off without waiting for the whip. The girls got thoroughly frightened, and started to scream, this, in turn, frightening the horse, which started at race horse speed up the road. At McWatters' bakery it turned in and ran to the stable door, where it stopped. Luckily no damage was done. Children should takee warning and know enough not go go near a sleigh when the driver is out of the seat.

Lindsay Won From Port Perry Has Lead of Two Goals in Next Game

Small Size of Rink Hampered Our Boys in Their Rushes and Combination Work---Port Perry Players Put Up a Good Game.

What was perhaps the hottest game of the season was played last night at Port Perry. It was a corker from start to finish, and our boys played the game of their lives. It was the first time Port Perry has been defeated on its own ice in eight years, and not a Port Perryite expected a trimming even from the Lindsay boys.

Nearly 100 supporters accompanied the team on the special which left here a few minutes after seven. Port Perry was reached at eight o'clock, and the team went on the ice as soon as possible after arriving. It was the longest game played this year, lasting from start to finish about an hour and a half. It was also somewhat rough and the referee had quite a time keeping things straight.

At one stage of the game, when Randall and Stoddard were both off for five minutes, Cote was the only man on the forward line, and he put up such a game as has seldom if ever been seen around here. He simply outplayed the whole of the opposing line, and kept them from scoring or getting even a look in toward the Lindsay goal for five long minutes. He was here, there and everywhere. When one man would pass to another he followed and forced his hand again and kept it up till finally he would get it himself and rush up the ice till stopped on. when the whole performance was repeated. He's a hummer, all right.

During the whole game Stoddart, Taylor, Randall and Sullivan only totalled nine penalties. Port Perry totalled nine, but they took in almost everybody on the team. There were Corin, Carnegie, Price, Dank, Burke and Anderson.

At half-time the score stood Lindsay three, Port Perry two. In the second half Lindsay still did the most scoring, and off course far outplayed the lake team. The score finished Lindsay five, Port Perry three, Lindsay scoring two goals in the second to Port Perry's one. Lindsay's score should have been six, for Stoddard sent in a hot shot into the Port net that burst through and came out behind. The goal umpire wouldn't count it, for some reason.

The goals were scored as follows, Randall 2, Stoddard 1, Koyl 1, Cote 1.

The boys arrived home about twelve o'clock. All report a good time

Benjamin, James Scott, F. J. Harris (Hamilton), A. H. Campbell Wm. Mulock, Chas. Cockshutt, W. G. Cassels, C. H. Ritchie, K.C.; C. C. Ross, A. R. Boswell, K.C.; A. C. Morris, F. E. Macdonald, Thos. Walmsley, Colonel Sir Henry M. Pellatt, C. A. Bogert, Wm. Crocker and others.

It was moved by Mr. L. H. Baldwin, seconded by Mr. A. W. Austin, that Mr. E. B. Osler do take the chair, and that Mr. C. A. Bogart do act as Secretary.

Messrs. A. R. Boswell and W. G. Cassels were appointed scrutineers.

The Secretary read the report of the Directors to the Shareholders and submitted the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank, which is as follows:

To the Shareholders:

The Directors beg to present the following Statement of the result of the business of the Bank for the year ending 31st December, 1907:

Balance of Profit and Loss Account, 31st December, 1906			$ 28,798 33
Premium received on new Capital Stock			933,456 87
Profits for the year ending 31st December 1907 after deducting charges of management, etc., and making provision for bad and doubtful debts			635,235 51
			$1,597,490 71
Dividend 3 per cent., paid 2nd April, 1907	$ 95,149 79
Dividend 3 per cent., paid 2nd July, 1907	107,078 20
Dividend 3 per cent., paid 1st October, 1907	111,351 61
Dividend 3 per cent., payable 2nd January, 1908	114,413 63
		$428,893 23
Transferred to Reserve Fund		933,456 87
			1,362,350 10
Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward			$235,140 61

RESERVE FUND

Balance at credit of account, 31st December, 1906	$3,900,000 00
Transferred from Profit and Loss Account	933,456 87
	$4,833,456 87

In view of the financial stringency which prevailed throughout the world in 1907, and the unsettled monetary conditions existing in the United States, it has been necessary to exercise unusual caution and prudence in administrating the affairs of the Bank. Our policy has been to restrict advances without interfering with the proper requirements of the customers of the Bank and to assist in marketing the products of the country—more especially the crops of the North Westerndistricts—at the same time maintaining strong Cash Reserves.

Having reference to our announcement at the Annual Meeting that one million dollars of new Capital Stock would be offered to the Shareholders in 1907, we have to inform you that on December 31st $983,700 of this amount was subscribed for, and $848,597.50 paid up.

During the past year it was considered advisable to establish Branches of the Bank at the following points: In the Province of Ontario, at Berlin, Hamilton, Ottawa, and at the corner of Queen and Victoria streets, Toronto; in the Province of Quebec, at the corner of Bleury and St. Catherine streets, Montreal; in the Province of Alberta at Strathcona; and at Vancouver, British Columbia.

The opening of our Vancouver Office not only marks our entrance into British Columbia, but completes a chain of Branches at all important centres from Montreal to the Pacific Coast, including the Capitals of the Western Provinces. Results so far indicate that these extensions will be of great benefit to the Institution.

We have to record with regret the death in January last of Mr. Timothy Eaton, whose varied business knowledge and sound judgment made him a valued member of your Directorate. Mr. John C. Eaton, his son, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Board.

The Directors, as is customary, have verified the Head Office Balance Sheet, as on the 31st of December, 1907, including therein the auditing of our foreign balances and the certification of all Cash Reserves, Securities and Investments.

The usual careful inspection of the various Branches of the Bank has been made during the past twelve months.

E. B. OSLER,
President.

The Report was adopted.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year, and to the General Manager and other Officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Carruthers, R. J. Christie, J. C. Eaton, J. J. Foy, K.C., M.L.A.; Wilmot D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton and E. B. Osler, M.P.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., was elected President and Mr. W. D. Matthews Vice-President, for the ensuing term.

IN A FALLING BALLOON

Fearful and Tragic Experience of Three Aeronauts.

ONE SAVED AS BY A MIRACLE

The Terrific Cold and the Peculiar Sensations That Encompassed the Daring Voyagers at an Altitude of Over Five Miles—The Descent.

One of the most terrific experiences in the history of ballooning was that of three aeronauts who in 1875 made an ascension in a large and well made balloon, the Zenith. In this voyage the object was to reach the greatest possible altitude. The balloon rose to a height of 28,000 feet—that is, about five and a half miles from the earth. At this point something happened—what, no one will ever know, since the only surviving balloonist, Tissandier, was at the time insensible. But the balloon began a rapid fall and finally struck the ground with such a frightful shock that Sivel and Croce-Spinnelli were killed instantly, while Tissandier's life was spared by a miracle.

The account of this voyage is perhaps best told in Tissandier's own words:

"At 23,000 feet we were standing up in the car. Sivel, who had given up for a moment, was reinvigorated. Croce-Spinnelli was motionless in front of me. I felt stupefied and frozen. I wished to put on my fur gloves. But without being conscious of it the action of taking them from my pocket necessitated an effort that I could no longer make. I copy verbatim the following lines which were written by me, although I have no very distinct remembrance of doing so. They are traced in a hardly legible manner by a hand trembling with cold:

"'My hands are frozen. I am all right. We are all right. Fog in the horizon, with little rounded cirrus. We are ascending. Croce pants. He inhales oxygen. Sivel closes his eyes. Croce also closes his eyes. Sivel throws out ballast.' Sivel seized his knife and cut successively three cords, and the three bags emptied themselves, and we ascended rapidly.

"When Sivel cut away the bags of ballast at the height of about 24,000 feet I seemed to remember that he was sitting at the bottom of the car and nearly in the same position as Croce-Spinnelli. For my part, I was in the angle of the car, thanks to which support I was able to hold up, but I soon felt too weak even to turn my head to look at my companions. This was about 1:30 p. m. At 2:08 p. m. I awoke for a moment and found the balloon rapidly descending. I was able to cut away a bag of ballast to check the speed and wrote in my notebook the following words:

"'We are descending. Temperature, 3 degrees. I throw out ballast. Barometer, 12.4 inches. We are descending. Sivel and Croce still in a fainting state at the bottom of the car. Descending very rapidly.'

"Hardly had I written these lines when a kind of trembling seized me, and I fell back weakened again. There was a violent wind from below upward, denoting a very rapid descent. After some minutes I felt myself shaken by the arm and recognized Croce, who had revived. 'Throw out ballast,' he said to me. 'We are descending.' But I could hardly open my eyes and did not see whether Sivel was awake. I called to mind that Croce unfastened the aspirator, which he then threw overboard, and he threw out ballast, rugs, etc.

"At 3:30 p. m. I opened my eyes again. I felt dreadfully giddy and oppressed, but gradually came to myself. The balloon was descending with frightful speed and making great oscillations. I crept along on my knees and pulled Sivel and Croce by the arm. 'Sivel! Croce!' I exclaimed. 'Wake up!' My two companions were huddled up motionless in the car, covered by their cloaks. I collected all my strength and endeavored to raise them up. Sivel's face was black, his eyes dull, and his mouth was open and full of blood. Croce's eyes were half closed, and his mouth was bloody.

"To relate what happened afterward is impossible. I felt a frightful wind. We were still 9,700 feet high. There remained in the car two bags of ballast, which I threw out. I was drawing near the earth. I looked for my knife to cut the small rope which held the anchor, but could not find it. I was like a madman and continued to call, 'Sivel, Sivel!' By good fortune I was able to put my hand upon my knife and detach the anchor at the right moment.

"The shock on coming to the ground was dreadful. The balloon seemed as if it was being flattened. I thought it was going to remain where it had fallen, but the wind was high, and it was dragged across fields. The bodies of my unfortunate friends were shaken about in the car, and I thought every moment they would be jerked out. At length, however, I seized the valve line, and the gas soon escaped from the balloon, which lodged against a tree. It was then 4 o'clock. On stepping out I was seized with a feverish attack and sank down and thought for a moment that I was going to join my friends in the next world, but I came to. I found the bodies of my friends cold and stiff. I had them put under shelter in an adjacent barn. The descent of the Zenith took place on the plains 155 miles from Paris as the crow flies. The greatest height attained in this ascent is estimated at 28,000 feet."—W. R. C. Latson in Minneapolis Journal.

Handsome Dogs Are Good Dogs.

In the most characteristic of English dogs, with the English bulldog as an unfortunate exception of a glaring sort, common sense principles in the canon of judging are distinctly marked. In the case of hounds any good eye can pick out the best animals. This was curiously illustrated not long since in private when an artist taken over one of the bigger kennels of foxhounds picked out the prize and pedigree dogs one after the other. He went purely by his own sense of what was strong and comely, of "strength and beauty met together," as Shelley says in a very different connection. — London Outlook.

Gray Hairs In Wall Street.

"It seemed to me down in New York the other day," remarked a Clevelander who had just returned from the metropolis, "that one might almost recognize Wall street and the financial region by the number of gray haired young men you see. I had occasion to be in several offices on Wall street the other day, and I honestly believe more than half of the young men I saw had gray hair. I noticed the same thing along the street. It may have been just a coincidence, but I couldn't help wondering if they would have been gray just as soon if they had been at some other game for the last few years."

To the Manner Born.

Whether the word be "manner" or "manor," in the often used quotation, is a question frequently asked. That "to the manner born" is correct is evident from the context of the phrase, which occurs in "Hamlet," act 1, scene 4. While Hamlet and his friends, Horatio and Marcellus, are waiting on the platform outside of the palace for the possible appearance of the ghost of the dead king the noise of a flourish of trumpets and the roar of a cannon are heard. In explanation of this Hamlet says:

The king doth wake tonight and takes his rouse,
Keep wassail and the swaggering upspring reels;
And as he drains his draught of Rheinish down
The kettledrum and trumpet thus bray out
The triumph of his pledge

This allusion is to an actual practice at banquets among the ancient Saxons and Danes of proclaiming with a salute each time that the king drained his goblet. Therefore, to the question "Is it a custom?" Hamlet replies:

Aye, marry, is't;
And to my mind, though I am native here,
And to the manner born, it is a custom
More honored in the breach than the observance.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Crushed by Falling Ice.

Barrie, Feb. 13.—At last the long-expected has happened, when a citizen, Angus McPherson, was very seriously injured yesterday by ice falling from the roof of the postoffice. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and hurried to the hospital, where every effort is being made to revive him.

This building was erected in 1884, and has ever since been a considerable source of anxiety to the local officials. While the crowd was awaiting the removal of Mr. McPherson, another lot of snow came crushing from the roof, but luckily no one was injured.

Mr. McPherson is a Canadian, unmarried, and belongs to Beaverton. He was a foreman in the lumber camps and had been in town for a couple of weeks at the Vespra House, waiting for the spring work to open in the north. He is not expected to recover.

Quebec Tercentennary.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—The great event which is to take place at Quebec next summer with a view to celebrating the three hundred anniversary of the foundation of the old City of Champlain, appears to be becoming popular on all sides.

Lord Mount Stephen has subscribed $1,000 towards the project of a national park being located on the battlefield, and yesterday Premier Gouin announced that at the coming session of the Legislature he will ask that body to vote $100,000 in order that the event may be worthy of the old city, and province.

It will also be remembered that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. S. Fielding stated that the Dominion Government would also give a grant.

Two Years For Eloper.

Woodstock, Feb. 13.—Thomas Roseellee, aged 26 years, was yesterday sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary at hard labor, by Police Magistrate Ball, for stealing a quantity of furniture from George A. Leney of Stratford.

A charge of forgery was laid against the prisoner, but on this he was not convicted. Roseellee eloped with Leney's wife. He said that his crimes were committed for the woman's sake.

Husband Slept Beside Dead Wife.

Hopewell Cape, N.B., Feb. 13.—While the husband slept, death came to Mrs. Sarah Steeves of this place Tuesday night. The husband awoke in the morning, and thinking his wife asleep, went out. Returning to the room in a few minutes he found she was dead. Doctors were summoned, but announced that the woman had passed away several hours before.

Two Waiters' Suicide.

New York, Feb. 12.—Peter Toomey and George Molloy, about 30 years of age, who had been employed at waiters, committed suicide in Toomey's room in West 38th street, yesterday by inhaling gas.

Must Observe "This Side Up."

New York, Feb. 12.—That railroad companies in New York State must observe the injunction "this side up" when it is placed on a freight package, has been decided by the Court of Appeals.

Six Bodies Recovered.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—Up to a late hour yesterday six bodies had been recovered from the ruins of the ill-fated powder works at Ile Perrault, the remains being those of Menard, Dumbarry, Roson, Roussau, Legault and Narge, leaving the bodies of Trepanier, Lauzon and Robillard still in the ruins and some believe that they may never be secured, or, rather, that they will not be in any kind of recognizable shape.

The funeral of these poor fellows will take place to-day, and it is announced that Bishop Emard of Valleyfield, the diocese in which Ile Perrault is located, will be present at the ceremony.

Shot Shooting Gallery Man.

Port Arthur, Feb. 13.—Daniel McLeod, proprietor of the shooting gallery on the east side of Cumberland street, was shot in the groin by a bullet from a 32-calibre rifle said to have been in the hands of Ernie Wilson, an employe of a rival gallery on the opposite side of the street, Tuesday night.

Both men explain the shooting as accidental.

Slocum Conviction Affirmed.

New York, Feb. 13.—The conviction of William H. Van Schaick, captain of the excursion steamer Slocum, which was burned on June 15, 1905, in East River, with a loss of over one thousand lives, was affirmed yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Capt. Van Schaick was convicted of neglect of duty and sentenced to ten years in prison. Capt. Van Schaick is 70 years old. He has been married since the conviction.

Germany Will Sign.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—Speaking before the budget commission of the Reichstag yesterday Dr. Kriege, permanent German member of the arbitration court, said that Germany soon would sign the agreement reached at The Hague last summer. This was not signed by Germany at the conference itself, because the other powers had postponed affixing their signatures.

Detective Kidnapped Youth.

Detroit, Feb. 13.—William A. Murray, a clerk, 17 years old, who lives in Toronto, is held at the central police station on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences by bogus checks. Murray was smuggled out of Toronto and taken to Detroit without his arrest becoming known.

TWELVE MEN INJURED.

Fifty Tons of Molten Steel Splashed Over Workmen.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 13.—A dozen men were burned in a terrific explosion of molten steel at the Monogahela Blast Furnace of the National Tube Co., McKeesport, yesterday. The huge steel-plated furnace, 100 feet in height, burst at the taphole, and 50 tons of liquid metal dropped to the floor, accompanied by explosions as it spread and splashed over the heads and bodies of the workmen nearby.

A slip in the furnace caused hundreds of tons of iron ore, coke and limestone to drop to the bottom, forcing the heavy steel plates apart.

Condemned Defence Policy.

Sydney, N. S. W., Feb. 13.—(C.A.P.)—G. H. Reid roundly condemned Premier Deakin's defence policy and said Deakin's position in regard to the naval agreement with Great Britain humiliated Australia. Britain had done her duty magnificently, but Deakin, who had promised £200,000 a year for naval defence, was now endeavoring to devise means of getting money from the pockets of struggling British taxpayers. It was one of the meanest things ever attempted by Australia.

Feet Badly Frozen.

Brockville, Feb. 13.—William Read, a young Englishman employed by a farmer near Dublin, was brought to the hospital here yesterday for treatment.

During one of the cold snaps towards the end of January, he had both feet frozen by being exposed to the weather. One of the limbs is in a serious condition and will most likely require amputation.

War Reports Reach Japan.

Tokio, Feb. 12.—A fresh crop of sensational war reports, chiefly emanating in New York, are being cabled in specials to Tokio, creating unrest in the minds of the Japanese public.

IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

Told in Interesting Form by the Bright Correspondents of The Post at the Various Centres.

ARGYLE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is with the deepest feelings of sympathy we record the sadden death of thet wo little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. McEachern, of this village. The two deaths occurred only a week apart.

These lovely children, young and fair,
Called hence by early doom,
Just came to show how sweetly flowers,
In Paradise could bloom.

The greatest sympathy is extended to the sorrowing parents, in their exceptionally sad bereavement.

OMEMEE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Everyone is out today, rejoiced to get over the cold and stormy weather without any casualities.

Our new Council had its initiatory meeting under our new mayor, Geo. Griffin, and Councillors Rogers, Carey, Skuce and Graham, new member who represents the east ward. They were quite at home, and a splendid new program of necessary improvements is in contemplation, such as improved fire protection, further pavements, clearing of our streets from snow, sprinkling streets to keep down the dust, village band encouragement, etc.

Township Council is in session today. Every member was present for the first time owing to the state of the roads. They are a capable lot of men, under Reeve Boate.

There will be regular services held in all the churches next Sabbath.

Logs are beginning to come in plentifully to Courtenay's mill. Sawing has begun.

Mrs. Byers and Mrs. White, of Lindsay, are the guests of Mrs. T. C. Ivory.

Our hockey team are lying quiet since the bad, cold weather. They will soon play Bethany.

Walking clubs are now all the rage, kept up by the ladies. They go out once or twice weekly, notwithstanding the inclement weather, the result being no doctors' bills to pay, although two of our doctors' wives are the leading spirits.

We expect the easiest navigation on our waters this spring known in the history of the village, snow being about 5 feet deep on the level. We expect all kinds of crafts here in the spring, which will open up the traffic for the summer.

OAKWOOD

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Indian, Jerry Shilling, who was found frozen on the road on Saturday morning last, was removed to the Ross Hospital. Dr. Dale took his patient to town. Some of his fingers will have to be amputated.

Mr. Geo. Wilson's youngest daughter, Iva, is at present very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. Robt. Nichols had the misfortune to lose one of his team. The animal dropped dead on the road from the station with a load of coal.

Mr. Judson Mark also lost a valuable horse.

The entertainment, announced in last week's issue, is indefinitely postponed on account of the bad roads.

Mr. Reginald Rennie, of D. & F. dry goods store, Lindsay, was at home over Sunday.

Miss Cullis was the guest of Mrs. G. A. Washington.

The Misses Connor, of Stouffville, are visiting friends in our village.

In the Methodist church next Sunday night, a song service will be held. The choir will be composed of men only, who will conduct the singing.

Quite a lot of our people, at present, are suffering from lagrippe.

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday last, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Coppicstone, when their second daughter, Edna, was united in marriage to Mr. John Gordon of Nestleton. The Rev. T. Brown performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and friends. We wish the happy couple many years of happiness and prosperity.

Mr. Eaton Prouse had his face badly frozen coming to this village on Saturday last.

The Woman's Institute will be held on Wednesday afternoon, the 19th, at 2.30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Albert Cameron. A good program is being prepared. All members and other ladies are invited to attend.

Mr. Douglas and Miss Douglas have returned to their home in Manilla. Mrs. Douglas is still with Mr. Jas. Thorndike.

The skating rink is being well patronized this week on account of the storm. There has been no skating for the past few weeks.

LITTLE BRITAIN

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The funeral of the late Eleanor Yerex, who died on Monday, aged 74 yrs. and 10 months, took place on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. E. Moore, Ph. B., preached an appropriate sermon from Amos 44-12, "Prepare to meet thy God." Rev. M. Metherell and Rev. C. H Haines assisted in the service.

The famous orator, J. R. Clarke, of Gowanda, N. Y., will lecture on "To and Fro in London," in the Methodist church next Tuesday, evening, Feb. 18th.

The Epworth League will have a debate on Friday evening, 21st inst. Subject, "Resolved, that the foreign element is beneficial to Canada." Mr. F. H. Moore and Ed. Thompson are the captains.

The late Mrs. Ann Rodman was buried last Saturday aged 80 yrs., and 10 months. Rev. Mr. Moore preached from the text, "The Master is come and calleth for thee."

BALSOVER

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is our sad duty this week to have to chronicle the death of the late Mr. Robert Dalgleish, of this place, at the advanced age of seventy-five. Mr. Dalgleish had been sick for some time and so his sudden collapse was not unexpected. Mr. Dalgleish was one of the early pioneers of this neighborhood, settling here at a time when there were few roads or settlers in this part of the county. His wife and family of four sons and four daughters survive to mourn his loss. Mr. Dalgleish was buried on Saturday last at the Balsover burying ground, followed by a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives.

Mr. Duncan McRae, of Uphill, attended the funeral of his uncle, Mr. Dalgleish, last week.

Not in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of this place can they remember a longer and more continued cold and stormy weather, as has been the recent cold snap experienced around here.

The hard times are not seemingly felt in these parts yet, judging by the building operations that are being planned by some of our most progressive farmers.

Miss Bell McGilvray, of Kirkfield, is spending a few days with her uncle, Mr. A. McGilvray, here.

Mr. Willie Bray has had the misfortune to lose three valuable horses this winter.

Owing to the bad state of the roads, the mail driver was only able to make two trips to our village last week.

Mr. T. Bateman and Richard Daniel have a large contract of wood cutting from Mr. McPherson, of Gamebridge.

Mr. Art Bateman, who has spent the past eight years farming in Manitoba, is visiting his relatives here. Art has prospered in his new home in the West. We suspect he will not go back alone.

The government's contract of gravelling the road between locks 1, 2 and 3 on the T. V. canal here has been completed. The Dominion government has spent a lot of money around here in the last eight years.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Some Interesting Paragraphs Culled From Our Exchanges.

Patrick Kerwin, aged 111, died at Johnstown, Pa., on Jan. 4. For forty years he was a Newfoundland fisherman.

In some Viennese schools a phonograph, which repeats speeches as recited by eminent actors has been introduced to teach the pupils declamation.

"THE POSE OF POWER."

A Doctor Says It Can Only Be Obtained by Carrying the Body Right.

The human body is a machine—a machine in some respects not unlike a watch. If you bend the watch slightly you displace its parts (its organs, if you please), and then the watch will not go aright.

The same is true of man. In his body every organ has its place. If his body is bent some or all of his vital organs are displaced. They cannot perform their work, and the man, like the watch, is out of order.

"How many of us are like that?" Well, in an examination covering several thousand people I found less than one in a hundred who was right. Ninety-nine people out of a hundred have displaced organs.

I may add that I have never found disease in any organ that was habitually carried in its normal place. The organ always becomes displaced before it becomes diseased.

And what is the cause of this universal displacement? In a word, the cause is a bad method of holding the body in standing, in sitting, walking about and lying down. The trunk is merely a flexible, hollow cylinder inside of which the organs are supported, each in its place. When, however, the body is bent and collapsed, as in most people, the organs drop out of their places and are crowded against each other. They are then unable to do their work, and thus they become diseased.

Every case of chronic indigestion which I have ever examined has had a stomach that was hanging from two to five inches lower than its right position —a condition known to medical men as gastroptosis.

And the rare man who holds his body aright in standing, walking or sitting, such a man is always a man of power. Cromwell was a man of this type. So were Napoleon, Washington and Bismarck.

"And how shall I restore my organs to proper position?" asks one of the ninety-nine.

By so developing the body that it is at all times erect, uplifted and expanded. This will draw each organ into the position in which it can do its best work. A glance at the pictures of the men I have mentioned will show you what I mean.

As to practical methods, take the following exercise for five minutes four or five times a day:

Place the feet together, arms at sides, head back, chest up and forward, abdomen in, knees back, weight on balls of feet—"the position of a soldier." Throw the weight as far forward as you can. Hold the position from half to one minute, then relax. Repeat the exercise from six to twelve times.

Add to this reasonable habits of living, and in three months you will have gone far toward gaining the pose of power.—Dr. Latson in Chicago Journal.

Warding Off a Cold.

The first point that must have struck almost every careful observer of catarrhal pneumonia is that in nine cases out of ten a cold is caught as the result, not of getting cold, but, on the contrary, of getting unduly hot. This apparent paradox is, of course, intelligible enough when one considers that it is when the body is heated that the pores of the skin are opened and are then much more likely to take a chill than when they are closed by the action of the cold. This is also the explanation of the efficacy of a cold shower bath after taking a Turkish or even an ordinary hot bath, as the sudden action of the cold water closes the pores and so protects the skin from the action of the air. The best possible preventive from catching cold is cold water, applied either in the form of a cold bath or, if that is considered too drastic a measure, it will be found that merely bathing the neck in cold water, both in the early morning and also the last thing at night, does a great deal toward giving one immunity from colds.—Modern Society.

Reason For Objection.

Fond Mother—Why don't you like your roommate at college, Reginald? The professor told me he would be a good companion for you because he studies so hard.

Young Collegian—But, mother, he uses so many sesquipedalian words.

Fond Mother—That settles it, my son. I don't want you to be contaminated by association with anybody who uses such dreadful language.—Baltimore American.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserve and large assets. It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

AT THE OLD TACTICS

Opposition Made Statements and Met With Prompt Denial.

PREMIER GIVES HIS WORD

Story of a Promised Postmastership Is Exploded—Other New Brunswick Political Affairs Aired—Hon. Mr. Pugsley Is Attacked In His Absence—Bill on Telephones and Telegraphs Next Week.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The absence of Hon. William Pugsley in New Brunswick, where the provincial election is on, was seized upon by Mr. Crocket (York, N.B.) as the text for an attack on that Minister and a general review of the Robinson Ministry.

Mr. Crocket called attention to the improper use of Federal patronage in connection with the New Brunswick elections. It was well known, he said, that when Hon. William Pugsley ceased his exploitation of the Government of New Brunswick a few months ago, to turn his attention to the larger opportunities which this Government afforded, that he left a Government so thoroughly discredited that very few who formerly supported it would give it any countenance and that men of capacity and reputation could not be induced to join it. The Government which Mr. Pugsley handed over to Mr. Robinson, therefore, found itself in great difficulty.

Mr. Crocket went on to say that the Robinson Government held on till its statutory term had expired and when it was necessary to prepare for the elections, so discredited had Mr. Pugsley left the Government that it was impossible to procure candidates and again the patronage of the Government was called into play.. Although in the last House the Provincial Government held three seats in the City of St. John, it was necessary in order to secure a ticket to offer another Federal office. It had been stated openly that Mayor Sears of St. John was slated for the position of postmaster of St. John.

Mr. Lemieux denied that any promise had been made Mayor Sears.

Mr. Crocket, however, thought Mr. Pugsley was capable of looking after the interests of the party in that section of the country.

In the County of York there had been a transaction. Although the Government held four seats there, it was unable to get four candidates in the county and was forced to go into Westmoreland for the claims agent of the I.C.R., who stipulated that he was to receive a portfolio and in the event of defeat was to be provided for by the Federal authorities.

In Kent a Federal Government employe had been induced to accept nomination. Mr. Crocket said in Queen's and Sudbury the Liberal candidate was going around with a Public Works engineer to influence the electors there.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that Mr. Crocket was evidently taking newspaper reports too seriously. He could assure the hon. member that Mayor Sears had not been promised the St. John postmastership.

"Will the Prime Minister say there is no intention whatever to appoint Mayor Sears to an office under this Government?" asked Mr. Crocket.

"So far as I know and am concerned there is none whatever, and I have something to say in these matters," replied Sir Wilfrid. "So far as I am aware, no promise or intimation of any kind has been made to Mr. Sears."

Sir Wilfrid also gave an unqualified denial to the report that another Liberal candidate had been promised the custom office in Fredericton.

Dr. Daniel enquired if it were not true that Dr. Ruddick of St. John had been appointed quarantine officer.

Mr. Fisher said it was true.

Dr. Daniel protested against this interference in local affairs. He was sure that when Mayor Sears read the Prime Minister's denial he would get after the Minister of Public Works and ask him who was to be believed in this matter. Notwithstanding Sir Wilfrid's denial there was evidently an understanding between Sears and Mr. Pugsley.

Mr. Crocket observed that this was no change at all. Postmaster Smith was charged with having attended a meeting of Liberal campaign workers. As to the postmaster of Woodstock, he had a letter from that official denying that he had spoken at public meetings in the Liberal cause.

Mr. Lemieux said that the postmaster in his letter declared he had never spoken at a meeting in his life. His name was Smith, and the candidate was a Mr. Smith, and the postmaster thought it might be the names were confused.

"Does the Postmaster-General think it likely that it was the Conservative candidate who attended the Liberal rally?" asked Mr. Borden amidst laughter.

George Fowler said that as to the denials; the Minister had made lots of them before.

Mr. Lancaster contrasted the case of Postmaster Smith with that of the postmaster at Beamsville, who had been dismissed for partizanship. The enquiry showed that all he had done was to remark, after the election, that Mr. Gibson, the Liberal candidate, was "in the soup."

Dr. Roche (Marquette) called attention to the despatch from Regina to the effect that R. E. A. Leach of the "Thin Red Line" notoriety, had been appointed by the Federal Government to superintend the distribution of seed grain in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Dr. Roche asked if Leach was the officer in charge of distribution or would be connected with it in any way.

"As far as I can gather, the despatch is in the main correct," replied Hon. Frank Oliver.

"If I am in order," Mr. Speaker called attention to the rule which forbids a member being interrogated giving more than a direct answer.

Mr. Foster asked if it was correct in regard to Leach, and the Minister said Leach was "employed in that connection."

"What's the matter with Wagner?" asked Mr. Bennett of Simcoe, but Mr. Oliver said as to him he did not know.

R. L. Borden questioned the Prime Minister as to some items of legislative program mentioned in the speech from the throne. There was a bill as to telegraph and telephone companies, boundaries of Manitoba, annuities, amendments to the Election Act and other bills.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the bill respecting telegraphs and telephones would probably be down next week. The election bill was about ready. The bill on annuities would be down on Monday. In re boundaries of Manitoba, the legislation of Manitoba had laid before the House a petition in which the position they had taken previously in regard to that and other matters had been materially altered, and it might be expected at no distant date.

RIOT IN HOUSE.

Japanese Representatives Enact Wild Scenes in Discussing Finances.

Tokio, Feb. 14.—After an exciting debate lasting six hours, which developed into a riot on the floor of the House of Representatives, the financial budget was passed by a majority of 192. Speaking on both sides occupied a long time, and towards the last they howled at the chair and charged favoritism, the Opposition members demanding an apology.

The chair suspended the session for half an hour, and upon resuming the chair apologized handsomely to the Opposition.

Impressive speeches were made during the debate, all making a point of the feature that more than one-half of the budget was expended in armaments. It was also urged that the financial measures of the Government did not contain provisions to prevent an outflow of gold, while the balance of trade had a tendency against Japan, fear being expressed that the basis of the gold reserve might be endangered. Upon the side of the Ministry the principal speakers eloquently argued that it was both unwise and dangerous to publicly discuss the nation's finances from a pessimistic standpoint, thereby creating unnecessary alarm abroad. He called attention to the natural resources of Japan, which were only awaiting development by cheap capital.

STOPPED THE JAPS.

British Columbia Officers Held They Could Not Pass Educational Test.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 14.—A conflict in the courts over the Natal Act seems imminent. One hundred and seventy Japs are now being detained in quarantine here. Failing to pass educational test in the new act, they are likely to be excluded. Should this happen the action of the provincial authorities a conflict will result.

The Japanese consul will not only claim rights under the treaty, but also that their arrival and detention in quarantine happened two days before the Natal Act passed, the act does not apply.

The steamship companies are also likely to refuse to accept the rejected immigrants, the companies being under the Federal and not the Provincial immigration regulations. The penalty is $500, imprisonment in default for violation of the act by immigrant or person or corporation assisting him to evade it.

Nova Scotia Legislature.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 14.—The Provincial Legislature opened yesterday afternoon. The Lieutenant-Governor's speech was not lengthy. It referred to the past year as "one of continued general prosperity throughout the Dominion, and to Nova Scotia's success as having rewarded the industry of the people.

There was nothing in the nature of new legislation proposed.

Finish Diet Opens.

Helsingfors, Feb. 13.—The Finnish Diet was opened at the palace yesterday. The attitude of Finland in the present controversy with the throne is to be defined, and a number of important reforms will be acted upon.

Rifle Company Goes On.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Sir Charles Ross, head of the Ross Rifle Co., yesterday gave an absolute denial of a story that the Ross Rifle Co. was going out of business because of the Government's refusal of further orders for rifles.

Shot Young Girl.

Phoenixville, Pa., Feb. 13.—Norma Tholan, aged 15 years, daughter of Hiram Tholan, was shot and killed on the highway by John Miller, a young farm hand, who afterwards shot himself. Miller had been employed by the girl's father.

ASKS A FAIR DEAL

Mr. Preston Urges an Honest Provincial Redistribution.

MR. WHITNEY IS EVASIVE

Can Only Speculate as to the Date of the General Election—Member For Brant Advocates Advanced Educational Reform—Mr. Hoyle Replies—Continuation of the Debate In the House.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—The Legislature yesterday afternoon devoted itself to a continuance of the debate on the speech from the throne. Mr. T. H. Prescott (Brant), in a thoughtful address, advocated advances along the lines of educational progress. He urged the Government to pursue a fair and just course in its redistribution measure and protested against the proposal to give Toronto too great a representation.

Mr. Preston (Brant) resumed the debate by stating that the mover of the address was not quite fair in stating that prison labor competition was a legacy from the previous Government. "Had the late Government remained in office a little longer," said Mr. Preston, "no such legacy would have been left. The former Government was already well under way in dispensing with it, and the wooden ware contract had been abolished." But the new Government, he continued, had made a new contract in binder twine.

"Prompted by a useful lesson in East Hamilton," he added, "and prodded by the Labor organizations, a special committee was appointed to look into the matter. Then they discovered that there was no contract at the model Mansfield reformatory—"

Hon. Mr. Hanna—"Oh, yes, there were two of them, with a rate of 4 cents per hour."

Mr. Preston—"Well, that's a better rate than yours."

Hon. Mr. Hanna—"But ours was 4 1-2 cents on the same basis."

Mr. Preston said that Mansfield was just waiting the termination of these two contracts to abolish the system.

He added that it was a principle of the Liberals that the three-fifths local option clause should be repealed. Was the Government going "to steal these clothes, too?"

Hon. Mr. Hanna—"Too many holes in them."

This, Mr. Preston continued, was the last session of a Provincial Parliament.

The Premier—"How so?"

Mr. Preston—"Is it not?"

The Premier—"A general election is not necessary for two years yet."

Hon. Mr. Mackay—"Oh, no."

The Premier—"Let me explain. The statutory term of the present Parliament expires in March 1909, and it is not necessary to bring a Parliament together for 12 months after that time."

Mr. Preston—"Have I, then, the right to assume that there will be no general election this year?"

Proceeding, Mr. Preston said a redistribution was assured anyway. This was reasonable as there had not been a redistribution since 1894. He hoped it would be done by independent commission or by a committee fairly representing both parties.

The Premier—"I am surprised that there should be any doubt as to its fairness."

Mr. Preston—"The Prime Minister need not be, after what his party did at Ottawa."

The Premier—"Heretofore Ontario has never experienced anything but a gerrymander. A redistribution on fair and proper lines will be an innovation."

The member for Brant said it had been intimated in the press that Toronto was to have four additional members. He did not think this was warranted. Toronto was aided in representation by her press and the fact that several of the Cabinet Ministers resided in the city. It was also recognized that urban representation should be below rural representation.

After deprecating the prevalence of child labor and urging advanced prohibitive legislation along those lines, Mr. Preston turned his attention to educational affairs. He advocated the abolition of a fee in the high schools and all distinction between lower and high schools. It should be a continuous course and vocational courses should be provided for boys of 12 to 14 years. "It is a reflection on our educational system," said Mr. Preston, "that there are 20,000 young people in Ontario studying with an American correspondence school, and only 2,000 in our own technical schools." Mr. Preston hoped that the province would never concede to the Dominion Government the right to control technical education.

The Premier—"It will never do so."

Mr. Preston—"That's right. Do not sell your birthright for a grant, though I believe the Dominion ought to come to the aid of the province with a substantial grant."

Mr. Preston concluded by urging the inauguration of a course of moral training in the schools.

Mr. W. H. Hoyle (North Ontario) followed. Why was it, he asked, that in all his campaign the new Liberal leader had said nothing about the three-fifths local option clause? He sarcastically alluded to the plebiscites taken by the Dominion and Provincial Liberal Governments, when prohibition was carried by over three-fifths majority. And the Liberal leaders did nothing. They claimed that the expression of opinion wasn't strong enough. In church and state there was a call for a strong expression of public opinion on important changes.

"The church to which I belong requires a two-thirds majority," observes Mr. Hoyle.

"What's the name of that church?" put in the irrepressible Mr. Clarke (Northumberland) amid Opposition laughter.

"If my hon. friends," retorted Mr. Hoyle, "was more familiar with the character of the churches he would never ask that question." (Government applause.)

As to Mr. Preston's observations on education Mr. Hoyle had no quarrel with the manner or matter of his words. All that he advocated had been foreshadowed by the present Minister of Education in a speech at Brantford, and a Government bill was now in preparation along the lines indicated. The present Government had already doubled the grant to the technical schools.

Mr. Hoyle directed attention to the fact that during the last year the Agricultural Department had issued to the farmers of Ontario over three times as many bulletins as the Liberal Government had issued during the whole 35 years of its tenure of office. He declared the reference of the member for the Soo to a blind horse was unfortunate.

"We tried the menagerie business in the past," he declared, "and we found it a lamentable failure. (Laughter.) I thought our friends over the way had had enough of the old horse and were glad to see it finally go to the glue factory, without trying to resurrect it." (Renewed laughter and applause.)

Martin Roasts Laurier.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 14—The Laurier and McBride Governments on the Asiatic question were roundly condemned by former Attorney-General Joseph Martin before a crowded meeting of the Asiatic Exclusion League last night.

Martin declared Laurier should have given notice of the abrogation of the treaty when Japan last year broke her pledge given by Nosse, when the Japanese treaty was adopted. Lemieux's assurances contained no definite promise by Japan. The Ottawa Government was flim-flammed by Baron Hayashi's letter.

Premier Laurier should accept Chamberlain's advice and pass the Federal Natal Act. He declines to do this, and disallows the British Columbia Natal Act to please his corporation and commercial friends.

McBride was blamed for retaining office after the refusal of Dunsmuir to assent to last year's act. The Speaker was wrong in deciding the official actions of a Lieutenant-Governor could not be discussed in the House. Finally both Ottawa and Victoria Governments should be turned out.

Archbishop Obdurate.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—Since Archbishop Bruchesi placed the ban on mixed marriages, eighteen applications have been made to him for dispensations. Miss De Lery Macdonald, unable to secure a dispensation to be married to A. Shepherd by a Catholic priest, will be married by a Protestant minister, and the ceremony will take place during the Lenten season, a time proscribed by the Catholic Church. Miss Macdonald is a relative of Sir W. C. Macdonald, the tobacco king.

In Receiver's Hands.

Lima, Ohio, Feb. 14—On the petition of B. K. Russell, of the National Consolidated Oil Co., a million dollar concern, with outstanding bonds of $200,000, was placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday, George W. King being named. The receivership, it is stated, followed default upon semi-annual interest due on the bond

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

BRYCE IN OTTAWA.

He Will Consult Government on Important International Questions.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Ambassador Bryce leaves for Ottawa to-morrow to take up with the Canadian administration the details of negotiations affecting Canada and the United States, which it is hoped to conclude and to embody in a treaty which will close all pending matters between the United and Great Britain.

Negotiations providing for the submission of the Newfoundland fisheries question to The Hague are already under way. The visit of Secretary Root to Ottawa some months ago paved the way for negotiations in which he is now engaged, and it is expected that Mr. Bryce will encounter comparatively little difficulty in reaching an understanding with the officials at Ottawa on points which remain to be settled.

The various questions which are to be made the basis for this treaty may be summarized as follows:

First—Transit free of duty of merchandise across portions of American and Canadian territory.

Second—Transit of merchandise without payment of duty until arrival at points in interior.

Third—Application of alien labor laws to citizens of the United States and of Canada.

Fourth—Reciprocal mine owning rights.

Fifth—Conveyance of American prisoners through Canadian territory, and vice versa.

Sixth—Reciprocal salvage and wrecking rights.

Seventh—Use of logging booms in St. John River.

Eighth—Disposition of certain pecuniary claims.

Ninth—Exemption of Canadians coming temporarily to United States from paying a head tax.

Tenth—Distribution of power from Niagara Falls.

It would afford the utmost gratification to the President and Secretary of State to see every question between the United States and Great Britain disposed of before the close of this administration, and while it is entirely possible that arbitration of the Newfoundland fisheries question may not be concluded, ratification of a treaty providing for its arbitration would be regarded as virtually disposing of that troublesome and long-standing contention.

Artilleryman Cut Down.

Kingston, Feb. 14.—The Horse Artillery officials have Driver Odell in confinement for attempted suicide. He is said to have first attacked his wife, beaten her, and then going upstairs tried to commit suicide with a razor, but evidently quailing at the scratch made, he strung himself up with an apron. A hurry call was sent, and a river pilot, Gus McDonald, saved the man's life, for he was quickly cut down. Odell has been in trouble before with his wife.

Bigamist Sentenced.

Bristol, Feb. 14.—Arthur Hyne, a man of many aliases, who has been on trial here charged with bigamy and fraud in connection with matrimonial advertisements, was yesterday sentenced to seven years' imprisonment on the bigamy count, and to five years for fraud, these sentences to run concurrently. He is said to have lived in Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and elsewhere, and to have married women wherever he went.

Mrs. Dowie Aspires.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—The Tribune says: Mrs. Jane Dowie aspires to her husband's place as head of the Christian Catholic Church, and believes she is destined to bring the warring factions at Zion together.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 14.—The Novoe Vremya publishes an article dealing with the breaking up of the concert of powers hitherto engaged in pressing the Porte's consent to the introduction of judicial, financial and administrative reforms in Macedonia.

Troops to Preserve Order.

Washington, Feb. 14.—By direction of the President, Acting Secretary of War Oliver yesterday ordered a company of infantry from Fort Gibson in Alaska to Fairbanks, in that territory, to preserve order during the mining strike in that section.

Second Victim Dies.

Glencoe, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Solomon Parish, who, in company with her husband, was so seriously injured while crossing the Kingscourt branch of the G.T.R., a mile west of here, died Wednesday night, having been conscious for only a short time since the accident. Her husband was killed at the time of the accident.

ELECTRICITY.

It Has Taken From Fire Its Supremacy as Man's Servant.

As we hear the whir of the dynamo or listen at the telephone, as we turn the button of an incandescent lamp or travel in an electromobile, we are partakers in a revolution more swift and profound than has ever before been enacted upon earth. Until the nineteenth century fire was justly accounted the most useful and versatile servant of man. Today electricity is doing all that fire ever did and doing it better, while it accomplishes uncounted tasks far beyond the reach of flame, however ingeniously applied. We may thus observe under our eyes just such an impetus to human intelligence and power as when fire was first subdued to the purposes of man, with the immense advantage that, whereas the subjugation of fire demanded ages of weary and uncertain experiment, the mastery of electricity is for the most part the assured work of the nineteenth century and in truth very largely of its last three decades. It begins at once to marry the resources of the mechanic and the chemist, the engineer and the artist, with issue attested by all its own fertility, while its rays reveal province after province undreamed of and, indeed, unexisting before its advent. Every other primal gift of man rises to a new height at the bidding of the electrician.—F. Nelson Tracy in Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

CELESTIAL WONDERS.

Color of the Sky and the Moon and the Hues of the Stars.

It is the atmosphere that makes the sky look blue and the moon yellow. If we could ascend to an elevation of fifty miles above the earth's surface, we should see that the moon is a brilliant white, while the sky would be black, with the stars shining as brightly in the daytime as at night.

Furthermore, as a most picturesque feature of the spectacle we should notice that some of the stars are red, others blue, yet others violet and still others green in color. Of course all of the stars, if we bar the planets of our own system, are burning suns, and the hues they wear depend upon their temperature.

The hottest stars are blue. Thus Vega, in the constellation Lyra, is a blue sun hundreds of times as large as our own solar orb. We are journeying in its direction at the rate of millions of miles a day, and at some future time it may gobble us all up.

For, after all, humiliating though the confession be, our sun is only a very small star—of the sixth magnitude or thereabouts—and of an importance in the universe so slight as to be scarcely within the pale of respectability.—Reader Magazine.

One Seam For Fifteen Years.

It has been said that the most monotonous form of labor is gumming labels. But there are many others which come very near it. In the boot and shoe trade, for instance, the work is divided among as many workers as possible. One will thus make a single cut in the leather and another give one turn of the machine handle. In some cases a pair of shoes have passed through fifteen pairs of hands before reaching completion. As a natural result, there are workers who week after week go on performing the same work hundreds of times a day. Indeed in one factory there is a woman who for fifteen years has sewed only one seam. Her machine works so rapidly that she spends as much time inserting and withdrawing her work as in the actual sewing.—Westminster Gazette.

Skating or Swimming.

Some one once asked Tim Sullivan of New York for information as to the prospects of a politician who was popularly supposed to be "on the ragged edge."

"Well," said Sullivan, "he seems to think he's getting on all right, but there are others who entertain a different opinion. The situation reminds me of the story of the old woman up in Maine. Being asked as to the whereabouts of her husband, she replied:

"'If the ice is as thick as Jim thinks it is, he is skating; if it is as thick as I think it is, he is swimming.'"—St. Louis Republic.

Regular Bargain.

"You refuse me," said the ardent youth.

"I do, indeed!" replied the beautiful girl.

"Ah, then I shall go off to the war. Suppose I return minus an arm, minus an ear and minus a chin. Suppose I return a mere remnant of a man. What would you say?"

The beautiful girl brightened up.

"I should accept you on the spot. I always had an irresistible fascination for remnants."

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

are to crave his forgiveness and mindful of nothing else, could not imagine what held him back. Even when he came his eye was timid and his feet slow to cross the threshold—in fact, the inveterate conventionality of the male was not a little fluttered at her receiving him alone at this hour of the night and that night her marriage eve. Yet his qualms were entirely on her account. Nor could they quench the inextinguishable lovelight in his honest eyes.

As for Claire, however, she forgot everything but the cruel wrong she had done the man before her, the sufferings cut so deep upon his bronzed face and her own new and blinding realization of his innocence and heroism. For a space she could but stand and gaze upon him with burning eyeballs. Then, with the noble unconsciousness of a woman stirred to the soul, she took him by both hands and drew him into the room and besought his forgiveness upon her knees, but with his hands still clasped in hers.

Tom released his hands, shut the door nervously and then almost brusquely asked her what he had to forgive.

"I thought you guilty," she sobbed. "I said so—and you were innocent all the time! Oh, thank God"—

"Wait!" he interrupted. "How do you know that?"

"What you lost I found. I have it here. Oh, Tom, I have read every word! Oh, why did you not send it at the time? You were innocent—innocent! Can you ever forgive me?"

"Get up," he said. "You have forgotten something."

"Nothing," she answered. "Your marriage has no more to do with it than mine."

"My marriage! With whom, pray?"

"The wife you applied for—at some factory!"

She could not help her tone. It stung Tom into telling her the facts and so inadvertently exposing Daintree's chicanery. He instantly defended it as the accepted course.

"But that's not what I meant at all," he added hurriedly. "You must have forgotten what I told you the other day in the boat shed!"

"My hero!" she whispered. "You thought it best that I should never know, and so you said you were not an innocent man."

"Nor was I," he faltered. "You soon saw that for yourself. They may hang me yet!"

"And you wouldn't have me think of you any more," continued Claire, a spasm of pain crossing her face at his words. "But I will—I will! I'll think of you till I die—my own hero!"

He fidgeted horribly, looking toward the door. She would compromise herself, she would do herself harm. That was still his first thought. She saw it, and it floated her to the crest of that emotional wave in whose trough he trembled.

"I believed you guilty—may God forgive me!" she cried. "But—shall I tell you something?"

"Well?"

"I loved you all the same!"

"I won't believe it," he said, at last.

"I did; I know it now."

"Then forget it!" he cried hoarsely. "For God's sake, remember nobody but the man you are to marry tomorrow morning. What? Claire?" He started from her. She had shaken her head. She shook it more passionately for that, but she did not speak. So he began—hardly knowing what he said—but pleading for his best friend—pleading for her honor—pleading for sacred duty as his male eye saw it. She was going to marry a generous and brave man, to whom he owed, not only his life twice over, but any good that was left in him. Yet neither was the other a faultless man, though so generous and so brave, and his one great anchor to good sense and good living was his love for Claire. Tom spoke plainly, even eloquently, as he went on. He would have gone on longer, but there was no need. Claire sat meekly weeping. He bent over her—his face wrung with anguish now that hers was hidden—and so took her hand in his for the last time.

"God bless you always," he whispered in a broken voice, "and make you good to him—and make him good to you!"

She clung passionately to his hand. She held it to her bosom and looked piteously up into his face. The tears sparkled in her eyes and on her cheeks. Her sweet lips quivered. It was more than man could bear. He fell upon his knees, he threw his arms about her, and for a very little space these two torn hearts beat and sobbed as one.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

THE master was busy at his desk, but there was no rhyming dictionary at his elbow, and the book of synonyms was suffocating under a pile of papers that were stuffed into a drawer as Tom entered guiltily. The clock—an athletic trophy in the form of a kettledrum—was then striking midnight, and Daintree wheeled around in his chair with the eleventh stroke.

"Shut the window," said he. "I have two things to tell you which I don't want the girl to hear. If her windows are open she might."

Peggy happened to be listening at the door.

"In the first place," proceeded Daintree, "tell me frankly and finally whether you mean to marry the girl or not—yes or no?"

"No, sir; it is impossible."

"You shall do just exactly what you like. At the same time, she tells me you did ask her."

"I did. I wronged her in doing so, but she had the sense to refuse me, and I'm not going to wrong her worse by asking her again."

"That settles it. I've found a captain who's willing to smuggle you over to America for a consideration, all details to be arranged before I leave Sydney tomorrow. Will you go?"

"Will I not! Thank God for the chance!"

"Then that settles that—for the present. You shall be spirited aboard tomorrow night, and by Monday morning you shall have seen the last of New South Wales forever."

Peggy crept away from the door. Her mind was made up.

"The other thing's a trifle," said Daintree. "A pretty place this New South Wales! I go to the bank and cash a check, come in and shove the notes into one of these drawers, and a man breaks into the house and all but into my desk while I am sitting in the next room at my dinner! Look at this!" And he pointed out the marks of a jimmy on the polished mahogany. The circumstance did not appear to excite him in the least. He smiled loftily on Tom's concern and at once exaggerated an attitude which had been perfectly genuine before.

"Ah, Thomas," he remarked, "even you don't know your Sydney yet or you would be like me and think nothing of such trifles. I was eating my dinner, as I say, when I heard him at his work. Unfortunately I let him hear me. Still, I chased him out of that and some way down the road and could have caught him if I hadn't preferred to come back and finish my dinner."

"By Jove," exclaimed Tom, "I wonder whether it was the fellow who turned up on the beach almost at the instant we went down!"

"What!" cried Daintree. "Did you see him?"

"Yes, I caught a glimpse of somebody as we heeled over. Depend upon it, that's our man!"

Daintree turned nasty in a moment.

"Why depend upon it?" he snapped. "Did you see the man's face? Would you know him again? Oh, you would not! Then let me recommend you not to make a fool of yourself, my good fellow. Nobody but a fool would connect the two men."

His ill temper was inexplicable, yet to treat an attempt upon his property as a joke and an inoffensive theory of the attempt as something of an insult was but in accord with the capricious character of the man. And, indeed, Tom would have gone to bed like a lamb and thought no more about the matter, but yet another caprice detained him. Daintree would not hear of his going. It was their last night together; they must sit up and talk, and he apologized for what he had said. So they sat up once more, but the conversation languished for the first time on these occasions. Something had unnerved and depressed Tom's master; he was never himself until the last night of his single life was at an end, and in the first light of dawn a full rigged ship sailed in just as the Rosamund had done on the previous Sunday afternoon.

"Letters!" he cried. "Letters for my wedding day! Who knows but what I may get the best of news to crown my joys? What if my wife were never to be Mrs. Daintree at all? Yonder ship may dub me baronet. Open a bottle, Thomas, and we will drink to all she brings us!"

Then at last they lay down, but sleep came neither to the happy man nor to his miserable valet, and by 10 o'clock the one was helping the other into his wedding garments. A few minutes before the hour the coach arrived which was to take the bridegroom in state to church. A few minutes after a man was observed rowing in the bay, and Daintree insisted on taking a look at him through his spyglass. Evidently the rower saw him, for he shot out of sight behind a headland, but not before Daintree had brought his telescope to bear upon the rower, and now the glass joggled between fingers which seemed smitten with the ague.

"That was the man," whispered Daintree, "and he's after me still. I—I didn't mind last night. I suppose it takes less to turn one queer on one's wedding morning." He was struggling in vain against some growing terror. "Brandy, man, brandy!" he gasped and subsided in a chair.

Tom rushed downstairs for the decanter and, returning, found the terrified man fumbling with his pocket pistol. He tossed off the spirit and handed the pistol to Tom.

"There," said he, "better withdraw and reload to make sure. Stop, give it back!" He snatched the pistol and fired excitedly through the open window. "That'll show him I'm armed," he cried. "Now load up again!"

He seemed beside himself with excitement. Tom went out without a word and on his return handed back the pocket pistol. Daintree cocked it and felt the trigger.

"I've a good mind to fire through the window again," he snarled, "to see if you have loaded it, but I'll trust you, Thomas. You're the one man in this world I do trust. And now put on your hat and come in with me to Sydney."

Tom drew back. This was not in the programme. On the contrary, he was to stay and mind the house.

"D—n the house!" cried Daintree. "The girl can look after the house. Your place is at your master's side or else you are the foulest ingrate in New South Wales! But you are. I have always known you were. You have only waited for this hour to turn and rend me!"

"You are wrong," said Tom grimly. "I do not leave your side again," for the man must be mad, and Tom no longer shirked the ceremony, but for one instant had a mad design himself; the next, his right hand was warmly held.

"Thank God!" cried Daintree in a breaking voice. "I knew you didn't mean it. No more did I mean anything I said. Forgive me, Thomas, and don't desert me at the last."

And Tom's heart sank as it once more softened to the man who was not mad, but only unstrung, and again he longed to eschew the church, but he kept his word, and fortune was yet to prove his friend. A mile they had driven when a loud cry broke from Daintree. In his agitation he had forgotten the ring. He burst into tears at the discovery.

"Never mind! Never mind!" cried Tom in his oldest role. "We can turn back. What, isn't there time? No, I know it would never do to keep her waiting. Then look here, I'll run back and gallop in again on your horse. I'll be there almost as soon as you, and the ring isn't wanted till quite the end."

Daintree thanked him through his tears—the first Tom had ever seen in those fiery eyes—and he sped back strangely touched, but strangely comforted too. At least he loved her! The man might be egotistical and vain and overbearing, all three to the verge of lunacy, but that he was marrying for sheer love was even more palpable than it had been before. Tears in those eyes! Tears at the thought of losing her for one more day! Then God grant that with Claire at least he might be unselfish, meek and gentle, though an egotist, a coxcomb and a tyrant to all the world beside!

So praying as he ran, forgetful of his own debt to Daintree—for the moment self forgetting altogether—Tom was at the bungalow gate in time that would not have shamed the bridegroom in his athletic youth. And in the very gateway he stopped dead. He had caught a glimpse of ragged coattails disappearing through the study windows. A crazy skiff lay hauled up on the strand.

Tom kicked off his shoes. He made no sound on the veranda, but he wasted some seconds, and heard two drawers burst open as he crept nearer and nearer. He was totally unarmed; his one chance lay in taking the thief by surprise.

The veranda on this side was in deep shadow all the morning. In the cool dusk of the study a masked man was rifling drawer after drawer and tossing the contents right and left. The floor was strewn with papers as Tom leaped across it and hurled himself upon the thief. They crashed to the ground together. The man's head caught the corner of the bookshelf, and he lay supine, with a mouthful of crumbling teeth grinning horribly below the mask.

His nerveless fingers still clutched a packet of bluish letters half torn from their wrapper. Tom took them from him and rose up panting. A moment later they might have heard his shout at Piper's point.

All but one letter had slipped from his trembling hand. On the back of that letter a few lines had been scrawled with a lead pencil.

It was the receipt.

Penciled by Blaydes on the back of a letter, signed by Tom in the moonlit Hampstead fields and taken by the murderer from his victim's person, it was neither more nor less than the missing document whose production would have acquitted Erichsen at the Old Bailey. And now after eighteen months and here on these outlandish shores it had cast up at his very feet. He held it—held his freedom—in his own trembling hands.

The words spun like midges as the paper rustled and shook. He had to set it on the chimney piece to read it through:

> Received from J. Montgomery Blaydes, late captain, Coldstream guards, his watch and chain, etc., in settlement of all claims and in consideration of which I undertake to return pawn ticket for same to said J. M. Blaydes, Ivy cottage, West End, within three days from this date. T. ERICHSEN.
> April 27, 1887.

He forgot the wedding ring, forgot the wedding. He was an innocent man. He could prove it now before all the world by this incomparable testimony, this inanimate witness that could not lie. That was Tom's first reflection. His first emotion was a rush of thankfulness, ineffable and unmixed. Curiosity succeeded. How came the receipt here? But as he wondered, as his thoughts flew from the broken headed robber to his friend Daintree, it was not the bridegroom that they pursued to the church, but Tom's benefactor that they followed back to Avenue Lodge. Did Daintree know who had committed the murder and was that the secret of his belief in Tom? Inconceivable. But the document? Tom turned it over in his hand, and the address on the missive came uppermost. It began, Nicholas Harding, Esquire, M. P.

This name plunged Tom in a vortex of new suspicions. It neither recalled the bride as such nor the marriage nor the ring. Yet the clock stared him in the face, the short hand almost on the eleven, the long hand rapidly overtaking the short. It was ticking loud enough for dead of night. He both saw the time and heard it flying. But he had forgotten his errand. He could prove his innocence at last. Suddenly there was a groan, then a movement behind him, and as he wheeled round the man in the mask sat up.

"Ha!" said Tom. "So it was you who followed my master from the bank

HOW SHE KEEPS BEAUTIFUL.

The Mystery Solved.

Like the flowers that bloom in the spring the young girl just budding into womanhood is an inspiring sight and she is usually beautiful if she is perfectly healthy. She stays beautiful just so long as her health and constitution remain good. Let her be nervous, have backache, sleepless nights, and how soon does it take for wrinkles, crow's feet and dark circles to appear in the face? Her cheeks were rosy until she began to suffer from woman's weaknesses and the constantly recurring pains and drains brought her quickly from the beautiful age to the premature middle age. It was not meant for women to suffer so—it is due to our unnatural, but civilized methods of living, and to the fact that so many neglect those small ills which soon lead up to larger ones. Nothing so drags a woman down as those constantly recurring periods when she suffers more and more from a chronic condition that can be easily cured. No woman should take an alcoholic compound for that will disturb digestion, and the food is quickly compacted and becomes hard and tough in contact with alcohol, rendering the food indigestible. She must go to Nature for a cure. The native Indians of early times were far from wrong when they called a marvelously effective medicinal plant "Squaw root"—what the physicians of our day called Caulophyllum or Blue Cohosh. This and Black Cohosh, Golden Seal, Lady's Slipper, and Unicorn root, are important ingredients of a wonderfully successful remedy in modern times, namely, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Having made a specialty of the diseases of women in the early sixties Dr. Pierce soon found that a glyceric extract of these roots with Hydrastis or Golden Seal and Lady's Slipper root, combined in just the right proportions, made the very best tonic and cure for the distressing complaints of women. Where women suffered from backache, weakness, nervousness and lack of sleep, it was usually due to functional trouble, therefore this prescription directed at the cause cured 98 per cent. of such cases. That is why Dr. Pierce soon put it up in a form easily to be procured all over the United States.

Aching from head to foot—that is the condition that afflicts some women at stated periods—backache, dizziness, and pains almost unbearable. An honest and a safe remedy which no woman can afford to lose the opportunity of trying for the cure of these distressing complaints which weaken a woman's vitality is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. Pierce not only assures you that his "Favorite Prescription" is honestly made, but he lets you know just what it contains.

The best of medical authorities recommend and extol the virtues of the above ingredients in "Favorite Prescription." Thus F. Ellingwood, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica, Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions." Of Lady's Slipper root he says: "Exercises special influence upon nervous conditions depending upon disorders of the female organs; relieves pain, etc." Prof. John King in the AMERICAN DISPENSATORY, says of Black Cohosh root: "This is a very active, powerful and useful remedy." * * * "Plays a very important part in diseases of women; in the painful conditions incident to womanhood. In dysmenorrhea it is surpassed by no other drug, being of greatest utility in irritative and congestive conditions." * * * "Its action is slow, but its effects are permanent." "For headache, whether congestive or from neuralgia or dysmenorrhea it is promptly curative.

Dr. John Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ELECTIC REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica), one of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine (womb) invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine."

"In Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

The Foundation of Every "Progress" Coat

The good looks, and shape, and wear, too—of a "Progress Brand" Coat, depend on the part you never see—the INSIDE.

This figure shows the anatomy of "Progress Brand" Coats. The patent sleeve and shoulder pads—the strong felt, genuine hair-cloth and thoroughly shrunken canvas. This foundation is moulded by hand and held by hand stitches.

It is this perfect building of the foundation that gives perfection to the finished "Progress Brand" garment.

"Progress Brand" Suits and Overcoats prove that they are made right, by the wear they give.

MANITOBA'S REDUCED ASSETS.

A dismal note comes from Manitoba, whose budget for 1908 shows diminishing assets, and such a poor outlook, that the treasurer talks of retrenchment. But only in some things. Grants to various purposes will be reduced, and the aid to education will not be so generous. Of all the objects that need encouragement, education should stand at the head, and the fact that it is to suffer is indeed regrettable.

While there is a plea for economy in other directions, the members of the government and members of the House will vote themselves larger salaries and indemnities, the one set from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, and the other set from $500 to $1,000 per annum. A grab or a graft under the circumstances certainly does not look well.

The province claims a surplus in ten years' operations of about $2,000,000, but there is really only $664,000 on hand, and it is part of the sinking fund which will be wanted to meet the bonds coming due in 1910, and amounting to $1,043,000. The government, too, practices what the conservatives of Ontario condemned as a wrong. It puts the revenue from the sale of land, respecting capital, into consolidated account, and uses it for general expenses; at the same time all items of capital account are subtracted, and this should not be unless the items of capital revenue were removed from the account.

The marvel is that the decrease of assets is not laid to the financial contingency of last year, or the "rich man's panic", as the treasurer described it. But it is candidly admitted that the financial results are "not due to the hard times," and it is a statement which will be regarded as a significant under the circumstances.—Kingston Whig.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Provincial Board of Health had under consideration the proposal of the town of Orillia, which is that the town's sewage be dumped into Lake Simcoe. As the Government institutions at Orillia, and the town itself, are supplied from Lake Simcoe, and as it is a source of supply to many other places, it is probable that the town will not be allowed to dump its sewage in the lake. Applications from Guelph and Blind River were also discussed.

Helped in His Time of Need

Ops Man Will Figure in Presentation This Evening.

Some time ago Mr. Robt. Corley, of Ops, had the misfortune to lose four of his fine horses in one way or another. The blow was a pretty heavy one, as without them he could not carry out the season's work and keep things going. His neighbors, who are all big, kind-hearted men, each dug down into his pocket, and to-night, they are going to present Mr. Corley with a purse of $100 in token of their high esteem of him, and of their sympathy in this hard blow of fate.

An oyster supper has been arranged for this evening, at which all will be present, and Mr. Corley will be presented with the purse.

It is this class of man, who stand by their neighbors, that the country is justly proud of.

Town Committees Deal With Affairs

Local Investors Do Not Want Town Debentures---Other Matters.

A meeting of Council committees was held Wednesday evening, Mayor Begg and all the members, with the exception of Ald. Campbell, being present.

Chairman W. Jordan, of the Town Property committee, and Chairman McGeough, of the Police and Lighting committee, successively presented a number of accounts, which were recommended for payment.

The Board of Works slate was next cleaned. Applications from Jos. Marks and Thos. S. Begg for positions in connection with the building of walks were allowed to stand.

Chairman Eyres handled the Finance committee's business. The first item dealt with was the treasurer's financial statement for the year. Instructions were given to have the report published in pamphlet form.

The affidavit of the Beal Leather Co. in connection with the by-law granting him exemption, stated that the Co. had employed 26 men and paid out $11,902.30 in wages.—The document was fyled.

The advisability of sending a delegate to the meeting of the National Sanitarium committee in Toronto on March 4th was discussed for a few minutes. It was pointed out by Alderman Wm. Jordan that as the County Council had appointed Warden Mason and Reeve Jordan, it would be a useless expense on the part of the town to send a representative; but some of the other members thought the convention an important one, and that it would be unworthy of the town to seek to benefit by the county's expenditure. On motion of Ald. Smale, seconded by Dep-reeve Eyres, it was decided that Mayor Begg should attend.

TAKEN TO TASK.

Mr. G. H. Hopkins, former town solicitor, in forwarding a letter sent him by the secretary of the Railway Commission, added a note to the effect that if the remarks of some aldermen in connection with a similar incident had been correctly reported, it would serve the Council right if he placed such communications in the waste paper basket, instead of forwarding them. The letter referred to certain interswitching matters in which the town is not interested.

Veterinary Surgeon Cowan appealed against being held liable for interest on taxes unpaid when he had not received his tax slip. The opinion was expressed that the Dr. would have placed himself in a better position by paying the amount due at the time and leaving the question of interest due to be decided later. He will be asked to pay the original amount and to discuss the overdue interest question at the committee's next meeting.

Charity orders by dispensers engaged attention for a time. It was pointed out that 51 orders had been granted by one dispenser, and the Council deemed this too much of a good thing. The Mayor and Chairman Eyres will give the matter their attention.

Messrs. Stimson & Co., Toronto, wrote with reference to the unsold town bonds.

Ald. W. Jordan—"What about disposing of them in small lots to local investors?"

Treasurer Knowlson—"I tried that last year—I consulted a number of local parties without result — they didn't want to invest."

The committee then adjourned.

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE

The second round in the play for the McDiarmid McFadden cup between Fenelon Falls and Lindsay was to have taken place to-day, but the game was postponed owing to the thaw. The Fenelon rink is under water, and the local sheets of ice are none too good.

Toronto Star: Skip Flavelle, of Lindsay, who is at Winnipeg, has been kept busy all week renewing acquaintances and receiving congratulations upon having been one of the winners of the Ontario Tankard. His rink is regarded as the best he ever took west.

LONGBOAT A WONDER

Boston, Mass., Feb. 13. — Running with speed that did not warrant any such time as was credited to him, Tom. Longboat, the Canadian Indian runner, was given by the holders of the watches at the Park Square Coliseum to-night a new American ten-mile record of 50 minutes 52 2-5 seconds. The track was registered as being 11 laps to the mile, and the winner of the B. A. A. Marathon cross-country run was called upon to defeat three Canadians, Percy Sellen, Claude Pearce, and Bill Cummings. The Indian was the victor.

The intermediate times for the distance by miles in the contest won by Longboat were: One mile, 4 min. 24 3-5 sec.; two miles, 9 min. 23 sec.; three miles, 14 min. 14 sec.; four miles, 19 min. 6 sec.; five miles, 24 min. 8 sec.; six miles, 29 min. 13 4-5 sec.; seven miles, 35 min. 4 3-5 sec.; eight miles, 40 min. 23 2-5 sec.; nine miles, 45 min. 34 2-5 sec.; ten miles, 50 min. 52 2-5 sec.

Shrubb's time by miles Jan. 16th were as follows: 4 min. 39 4-5 sec., 9 min. 38 4-5 sec., 14 min. 38 sec., 20 min. 41 1-5 sec., 25 min. 52 sec., 30 min. 48 2-5 sec., 35 min. 51 2-5 sec., 41 min. 31 sec., 46 min. 30 4-5 sec., 51 min. 33 2-5 sec.

SHRUBB KNOCKS LONGBOAT

Alf. Shrubb, who is now in England, says that Longboat is not in the same street as Deerfoot. Longboat is a good stayer, but lacks speed. A man with a short stride could run him off his feet. He is improperly trained, says Shrubb, who returns to Canada in the spring.

TRENT CANAL.

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION.
SECTION No. 3.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterboro, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

The Hockey Team Have Sound Case

Were Justified in Charging 50c. Admission to Brockville Game.

The Post has heard a few citizens —who ought to know better — say that they were not going to patronize our hockey team's next game because the management jumped the admission fee to the Brockville-Lindsay game to 50c. Well, we wish to tell these wise guys that the management couldn't do anything else and justify their position.

The rink only holds 800 people, who at 25c. represent only $200. The rink management get 50 per cent., which is $100, and that would leave $100 to pay $165 expenses incurred in bringing Brockville to Lindsay. Anyone with any sense would laugh at the idea of the team playing a game when they know beforehand that they were bound to lose $65 even if the rink was crowded to the doors.

We think we have as good a team as there is in the intermediate series. The players work hard, and the people stand to one side and criticize. Some say it would be better to have the rink crowded, and lose $65, and have the good will of the people, but the management have found from experience that good will is a poor thing to pay bills with.

Champagne in Tea Pots.

Stratford Herald: George H. O'Neil, proprietor of the Tecumseh house, London, Ont., appeared in the police court on the charge of violating the License Act by selling champagne in teapots after hours. The liquor was served in the new grill room, and is said to have been a regular custom since the opening of these new apartments. The case was laid over for a week.

Y.M.C.A. Swimming Pool.

The monster plunge bath and swimming tank in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. was opened up a while ago, and is being greatly enjoyed by all the members. It affords many who cannot swim an opportunity of learning during the winter months in nice warm water, and with no danger of being drowned. In the spring they will be able to strike off into the river without fear. Every member who cannot swim should learn now and fewer accidents would happen in the summer.

Railway Notes.

—Beginning March 1, half-fare rates for clergymen will be granted by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg as a result of the decision of the supreme court of Pennsylvania in the Pennsylvania's test of the two-cent fare law.

—In the Dominion house a bill has been introduced, making it compulsory upon all railroads to sell at the ticket office mileage books of 500 and 1,000 miles at two-cent rate, to be accepted on any passenger train. The bill also makes a ticket of one railway valid for transportation over any other railroad starting from the same point and leading directly to the same destination.

Workingman Lost House and Goods

How the News Was Broken by a Blundering Sympathizer.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon the frame house on William-st. occupied by Jas. Blake was entirely destroyed by fire. It seems that Mrs. Blake lit a fire in a stove in the outside kitchen and then went out to gather some chips. The pipe from this stove, and from the stove in the house both fed into the same chimney, and it is thought that soot must have filtered into the unused pipe and, when the stove was lighted took fire, and in turn set the house on fire.

When Mrs. Blake got back from her wood gathering she found the whole kitchen ablaze, and could do nothing to stop the progress of the flames. The only persons near were two neighbors, Mrs. Copeland and Mrs. Oliver, who came to Mrs. Blake's assistance, and between them they managed to save a couple of pictures, four chairs and a few of Mrs. Blake's clothes. Everything else fell a prey to the flames, the house being entirely consumed. There was little insurance.

The firemen were not called, since the place is outside the corporation and the nearest hydrant is too far for the town hose to reach. Mr. and Mrs. Blake are now living in a house offered them by Mr. Steve Oliver, formerly occupied by himself.

Blake is just back from Kinmount, where he was sick, and was down town at the time of the fire. In some way he heard of the fire, and was hastening home when a neighbor, seeing him passing at such speed, undertook to break the news gently.

"Jim," he hollered, "what's the rush? Where you goin'?"

"Home!" was the reply.

"O blazes! No you aint. You aint got no home—your place was a heap of cinders fifteen minutes ago."

However, Jim kept right on going.

Has Invented a Good Thing.

Mr. W. H. Stevens, of this town, inspector of schools for West Victoria, has just taken out a Canadian patent, No. 109,983. The invention is described as a cushion support for buggy tops, intended to fit on shank of railing of buggy to support the steel tubulars, and thereby prevent the bending and breaking of same. Mr. Dougald Sinclair has examined the device and his verdict is that it supplies a long-felt want. He will use it on all covered buggies turned out by him, and says it is bound to be adopted with eagerness by makers everywhere. Mr. Stevens, who is now applying for an American patent, is to be congratulated.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

—Intermediate class was well attended last night, when two athletic events were decided. The 60 yd. potato race was won by McMahon, in 15 1-2 seconds, the fastest time made so far on the local floor. The high jump was keenly contested with McMahon, Newton, McDonald and Henley tie at 4.2. The games will be continued next Thursday, when the standing broad jump and the 440 yd. potato race will be the events. Every member under 18 is requested to be on hand. The four leaders are as follows: McMahon 97, Newton 82, McDonald 72, Mercer 64. The basketball team also had a good practise.

A Word About The Weather

Just Now Old Probs. Seems to be Sorting Up After Stocktaking.

The weather man seems to have taken a vacation during the last few days, and it looks as though he could do it without carrying the kitchen stove under one arm and the water pail under the have been snowed in so badly that locomotive engines tied in snowy banks buffed the dirt, and now—weeks now the temperature has been so moderate that in places sleigh runners have cut through the snow, and the changes come so quickly that it is pretty safe prediction when you go for an hour's stroll, to take along an overcoat, a fan and an umbrella, for it is likely you will need all before you get back.

There is something in the air to-day that seems to say spring is near, but look out, it may be a false scent. Last night the thermometer was over rattling along a back street about midnight time a jinkbird made its appearance on Kent-st., which again and everybody is getting that parent moving instinct feeling, typical of the glorious, glowing, glowing months of spring.

However, the lover of the strenuous winter months need hardly or thereafter—the probs say rain and snow for to-morrow, so we are hardly through with winter yet, spring is welcome when she comes.

Church Arrayed Against Church

The Golden Rule is Endangered for the Time Being.

Some days ago the happy proposal wasmade by some good curler that it would be a good idea if the Church curling schedule games for one night by arranging a competition between a number of rinks made up, only of members and adherents of the Presbyterian and Episcopal faiths.

The proposition at once secured the seal of popular approval, and Rev. C. H. Marsh, of the Church of England, and Rev. J. W. Wallace, Presbyterian minister, at once applied themselves to the task of choosing the rinks. It was found, after checking off the number, that nine rinks a side could be placed on the ice as follows:

PRESBYTERIANS.

Rink No. 1—A. L. Campbell, J. M. McLennan, W. Neelier, W. McLennan, skip.

Rink No. 2—O. E. Clarke, Alex. Ross, T. J. Tilley, J. C. Harstone, skip.

Rink No. 3—J. N. Gray, W. Carley, J. W. Anderson, Thos. Gage, skip.

Rink No. 4—A. Shanks, M. Williams, Jas. Keith, L. McIntosh, skip.

Rink No. 5—Chas. Williams, N. McFadden, B. D. Menzies, W. Dundas, skip.

Rink No. 6—R. J. Menzies, D. McFadden, R. Millar, J. Wallace, skip.

Spare men—Dr. W. Brown, T. C. Matchett, D. Duncan, P. A. Ferguson.

Patrons—Past Presidents Sheriff McLennan and Dr. John McAlpine.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Rink No. 7—C. Warner, R. A. Fields, G. H. M. Baker, G. H. Hopkins, skip.

Rink No. 8—Ed. Armstrong, T. McCorrell, R. Cuthbert, Dr. Walters, skip.

Rink No. 9—R. A. Playfair, W. T. C. Marson, W. Roenick, F. Knowlson, skip.

Rink No. 4—W. Knowlson, J. Lessemore, Wm. Hunterford, J. M. Knowlson.

Rink No. 5—B. Sylvester, Rev. Mr. Marsh, R. M. Fee, M. H. Sisson, skip.

Rink No. 6—T. Cowles, T. Stalker, H. G. Bald, F. R. Wilford, skip.

(The center will take place as soon as the ice is in condition for the great congratulational struggle.

The Winnipeg Spiel.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 14.—Play in the 20th annual bonspiel of the Manitoba branch, R.C.C.C. opened this afternoon with a rush, the weather man having decided to smile on the gallants devoted to the "roarin' game." The ladies bonspiel, with curlers and their friends, and a jollier set of sportsmen could not imagine. The spirit of the jollity and good game seemed to fairly enthuse everyone, and now or been the game good and flowing seemed to be prevailing it was, indeed, an auspicious opening for the great spiel.

The ice is all the kicks want in fairly good shape, considering that it had suffered from two days' thaw, and the weather has not yet thawed up sufficiently to assure the keen and glassy surface which all the curlers delight to play on. Only one sheet of the eighteen was out of commission, this being No 6, at the Grand, which was unfit to play on.

In addition to this, one default was recorded at the Thistle, thus only sixteen out of the eighteen games scheduled for the morning draw were played off. This play afforded but little sport, the victories everywhere go to the winners, almost without exception, coming out victorious. One exception was J. Lemon, of the Granite, who found the reborn Jubbie Steele, of Glencoe, too hard a proposition. (The appearance of Flavelle and other well known skips in this afternoon and evening's draw add renewed interest for the morrow.

In the Dingwall competition, Flavelle won from Patton, of Assiniboine, in the opening game, by 12 to

OUT OF ONE COMPETITION.

Winnipeg, Feb. 14. (C.P.R. Telegraph).—The Flavelle rink was defeated this morning in first draw for the Empire Trophy, by one shot.

SEVENTH SECCESSFUL SEASON

Double - Header League Game

Little Britain Won From Y.M.C.A., C. L.S. Won From Bankers.

Wednesday evening's double-header Town League games at the Lindsay-st. rink turned out to be extremely interesting and fast. All four teams were on their mettle and developed unlooked-for speed, endurance and good play. Throughout each game the score was uncertain till time was called. However, despite the good qualities of the games played, there was also the great drawback of far too much loose work, such as tripping, unnecessary checking, slashing and loafing and playing offside. This, of course, did not spoil the games from an uninitiated spectator's point of view, but made them more exciting. However it is looked at, from the standpoint of hockey, though, it sadly spoiled the game and made it at times a type of organized shinney.

Neither the Bankers nor the Y. M. C. A., the beaten teams, were satisfied with the referee, charging that he could not keep the game in hand and that he was partial to the C. L. S. and Little Britain. They announced their intention yesterday of protesting the game.

In the first game, the Y. M. C. A. vs. Little Britain, the local septette developed unlooked for hockey qualities and played up well beside the Britains, who seemed a little off color at the beginning of the game. The Association lost by being too much on the fence, for which they blame the referee. At one time two or maybe three Y. men had to sit on the perch and watch the opposing team score two or three times. They were off for getting caught playing naughty. Whether or not the score of Little Britain 4, Y. M. C. A. 2 stands, is yet to be seen.

The game, Bankers vs. C.L.S., went off with a rush. The teams played fast and furious and see-sawed the score time and again. At first it looked easy money for the financiers, but the pace began to tell and before the end of the game they were self-crippled before the onslaughts of the opposing team, who had not played quite so hard at the start. The game was rough throughout, but each got about as much as he gave. The half-time score was 2-0 for the Bankers. At the end of the game the score stood C. L. S. 7, Bankers 4.

Why This Silence.

(Weekly Sun.)

Mr. Downey of South Wellington and Mr. Clarke of Centre Bruce were particularly active in pushing the Pettypiece Bill in the last session in which the Ross Government held power. Mr. Preston, of East Durham and Mr. Carscallen, of Lennox, made the question of equalization of taxation prominent in the general elections which followed. None of these gentlemen have, since Mr. Whitney came into power, lifted a voice, that has been heard beyond the limits of Queen's Park, in support of this most important reform.

An explanation of this silence, or a renewal of previous activity, seems to be due to the constituents who accepted in good faith the protestations made four years ago.

— I wish that I might talk with all the sick ones about the actual cause of stomach, heart and kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak stomach nerves leads to stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak hearts or weak kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the stomach, heart and kidneys. It is wrong to drug the stomach or stimulate the heart or kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made expressly for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop Box 8, Racine, Wis. For sale by all dealers.

Ravages Being Made By Wolves Says Old Haliburton Co. Hunter

Many Deer Slaughtered This Year—They are Easily Caught.

A reporter met an old hunter at a local livery barn to-day who tells some interesting tales of the wild animals of the north and particularly of the killing of the deer.

"Are there any being killed now?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, the ravages of the wolves this year have been greater than for many seasons on account of the depth of the snow."

The hunter hails from the north-western portion of Haliburton County where the wolves roam about in hungry troops and prey upon other wild game of the forest.

"Have they any difficulty in running down the deer," was asked.

"None in the least. The deer's feet cut through the snow no matter how hard the crust is, while the wolf trots along and secures its terrorized victim with no trouble."

"Is there no remedy for such a slaughter?"

"Raise the bounty. It is now $15 per head and possibly if it were $25 for a few years the number of wolf hunters would be doubled."

He told the reporter that it was a frequent occurrence in the north where he spent the greater portion of his days to hear from the shanty the howling of the timber wolves as they pursue the deer through the forest.

"Is that the only cause for the decline of the deer?" was asked.

"Oh, no," he remarked, "the increase in the number of hunters during the past few years and also the cheapness of firearms as compared with the prices 10 years ago have a great deal to do with the decrease."

He also attributed the killing off of the deer to the wilful ignoring of the game laws and said that if he was the maker of the regulations he would allow only one deer to each hunter and that he would have well paid inspectors travel the province to lessen illicit hunting.

A GOOD SEASON.

The reporter inquired about the trapping in the north and was told that rat and mink have been plentiful on the rivers and marshes in Haliburton and Hastings. The red fox was plentiful and his furs, which were disposed of at Lindsay and Peterborough, proved that the past season had been a profitable one for him.—Peterborough Examiner.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Former Ottawa Man Leaves Double Claimants to Estate.

A FIGHT FOR A FORTUNE

Strange Story of Matrimonial Tangle to Be Told In Court—Clergymen Said to Hava Investigated For the Second Wife—Estate Valued at $52,000 — Judge McDonald Appoints Two Executors.

Prescott, Feb. 14—Two women, both claiming to be the wife of the late J. G. Warnock, the Ottawa horseman, who died in Brockville recently, are fighting for the estate of the deceased, valued at $52,000. Warnock lived for many years at Ottawa with Agnes Wilson, who passed as his wife, and by whom he had four daughters.

Casting her adrift last October, he married Eva McCallum, his shop girl, and they came to Brockville. Warnock willed his four children each $5,000, and the balance to Mrs. Warnock No. 2. The first wife by that name promptly filed a caveat and her solicitors made application before Judge McDonald to have an administrator appointed pending litigation. This the judge to-day granted, appointing the executors, Messrs. W. H. Brown and A. H. Swarts of Brockville as special administrators, in a bond of $8,000.

An affidavit filed by Mrs. Eva Warnock, the alleged second wife, throws some interesting light on the matrimonial tangle. She states that before her marriage she caused careful enquiry to be made by the minister, who afterwards performed the ceremony, and swears that the clergyman satisfied himself and assured her that Agnes Wilson was not the lawful wife of James Gregory Warnock.

Continuing in the affidavit, she claimed to have seen a document executed by Agnes Wilson, in which she released all claims upon the deceased in consideration of $3,000, and certain household furniture. Agnes Wilson, or Mrs. Warnock No. 1, is said to be in possession of a certificate certifying to her marriage with Warnock at Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1891. The Brockville widow is in deep mourning while the other alleged widow is making her home in Ottawa, where she instituted legal proceedings to annul the last will and testament of the dead horseman. Her daughters are living with her. The case is arousing great interest in the courts.

DASHED TO DEATH.

Nova Scotia Miners Fell 700 Feet Down the Pit Shaft.

North Sydney, N.S., Feb. 14.—Another mining horror in which two men were sent suddenly into eternity, occurred at the Winning pit of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. yesterday.

The victims are Malcolm Stuart, brother to Mayor Stuart, and also a member of the Town Council, and John Dorsey, ex-councillor. Both were underground managers in the Winning.

The accident occurred about seven o'clock yesterday morning when the men got into the cage. No sooner had they got into the big iron structure than through some defect a hook which held a strong wire rope to the cage became detached and they dropped with an awful crash nearly 700 feet below.

Both men were crushed beyond recognition.

Dorsey leaves a wife and 12 children; Stuart leaves a wife and one adopted child. Owing to the popularity of both men the town is cast in gloom over what is one of the worst mining accidents in its history.

Portugal Cabinet Decides Not to Rescind His Dictatorial Decrees.

Lisbon, Feb. 14.—The Cabinet council has resolved not to rescind the dictatorial decrees promulgated during the last days of King Carlos' reign, except those considered offensive to the public dignity. This unexpected action of the Cabinet has caused the utmost astonishment.

The council of state has decided to pardon all the sailors imprisoned for the fleet mutiny in April, 1906. King Manuel, who presided, inserted the following at the beginning of the decree:

"It is my dearest wish to begin my reign by availing myself of the prerogative of pardon which the constitution give me."

Thick Neck Saves Life.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—William Salmon, aged about 50, attempted to commit suicide yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a razor. His landlady discovered him standing before his mirror. Had it not been for the heavy roll of fat in Salmon's neck he would have succeeded in completing the deed. He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital and will recover. Salmon was employed by the G.T.R. as a freight handler and had not been working steadily during the last six weeks.

A General Arbitration Treaty.

London, Feb. 14.—The subject of a general arbitration treaty such as has been concluded between France and the United States, was mentioned in the course of negotiations now going on regarding the submission to The Hague of the questions under discussion between Canada, the United States and Newfoundland.

Great Britain, it was learned yesterday, is hopeful that such an understanding will be brought about.

Pork, prime mess, western, easy, 77s 6d. Bacon, weak; Cumberland cut, 56s 6d. Short ribs, 39s; long clear middles, light, 38s; long clear middles, heavy, 38s; short clear backs, 38s; clear bellies, 39s. Tallow, prime city, steady, 29s. Cotton seed oil, Hull refined, spot, steady, 22s 7½d. Tallow, Australian and London, dull, 31s.

New York Dairy Market.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 1029.

Eggs, easy; receipts, 12,565. Western and southern firsts, 23c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Are Lower With Continued Heavy Receipts.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 12½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 9¾c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—The total receipts of live stock at the City Market, since Tuesday, as reported by the railways, were 167 carloads, composed of 2830 cattle, 1071 hogs, 1058 sheep and lambs, 220 calves and 2 horses.

Exporters.

The prices quoted for export steers ranged from $5 to $5.35 per cwt.; export bulls, $4 to $4.50.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers, $4.80 to $5.10; loads of good, $4.50 to $4.75; medium, $4 to $4.40; common, $3.65 to $3.90; cows, $2.50 to $4; canners, $1 to $2.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report not many stockers and feeders coming forward. The scarcity of butcher cattle up to this week made it hard to buy steers at all killable at stocker or feeder prices. This week receipts of cattle were larger and prices got down to a lower basis. Messrs. Murby bought 50 head this week at prices ranging from $3.25 to $3.60 for good 750 to 850-pound steers, and $3.60 to $4 for good 850 to 1000-pound steers.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a fair trade for milkers and springers of good quality, but the common, light strippers offered as milkers were slow sale at low prices. About 75 to 100 cows changed hands at $30 to $50 each. One very choice Holstein springer sold at $60.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was again strong; that is, for good quality. Prices ranged from $4 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The market for sheep and lambs, especially lambs, was not as strong, but prices held fairly well for the best. Export ewes, $4 to $4.50; yearling ewes and wethers for butcher purposes, $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; rams and culls, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; lambs, $5.50 to $6.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted prices unchanged at $5.15 for selects, fed and watered, and $4.90, f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $5.75 to $6.

Veals—Receipts, 300 head; active and steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 6800 head; fairly active and 5c to 10c lower; heavy, $4.65 to $4.70; mixed and yorkers, $4.70 to $4.75; pigs, $4 to $4.50; roughs, $3.80 to $4.10; stags, $3 to $3.50; dairies, $4.60 to $4.70.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; active; sheep, steady; lambs, 10c to 15c lower; lambs, $5 to $7.50.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Beeves—Receipts, 1493; no trading; feeling steady. Calves, receipts, 357. Feeling steady. Common to choice veals, $5 to $9.75 per cwt.; barnyard calves, $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 9139; sheep, nominal; lambs, quiet and steady. Ordinary to prime lambs sold at $7.50 to $7.75 per cwt.

Hogs—Receipts 2844; feeling about steady, at $5 per cwt.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at about 5000; market steady; steers, $4.25 to $6.15; cows, $3 to $4.75; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.25 to $4.50; calves, $3 to $7; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at about 36,000; market, 5c lower; choice heavy shipping, $4.40 to $4.45; butchers', $4.40 to $4.45; light mixed, $4.30 to $4.35; choice light, $4.35 to $4.40; packing, $4 to $4.40; pigs, $3.50 to $4.30; bulk of sales, $4.35 to $4.40.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

PREMIER GIVES HIS WORD

Story of a Promised Postmastership Is Exploded—Other New Brunswick Political Affairs Aired—Hon. Mr. Pugsley Is Attacked In His Absence—Bill on Telephones and Telegraphs Next Week.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The absence of Hon. William Pugsley in New Brunswick, where the provincial election is on, was seized upon by Mr. Crocket (York, N.B.) as the text for an attack on that Minister and a general review of the Robinson Ministry.

Mr. Crocket called attention to the improper use of Federal patronage in connection with the New Brunswick elections. It was well known, he said, that when Hon. William Pugsley ceased his exploitation of the Government of New Brunswick a few months ago, to turn his attention to the larger opportunities which this Government afforded, that he left a Government so thoroughly discredited that very few who formerly supported it would give it any countenance and that men of capacity and reputation could not be induced to join it. The Government which Mr. Pugsley handed over to Mr. Robinson, therefore, found itself in great difficulty.

Mr. Crocket went on to say that the Robinson Government held on till its statutory term had expired and when it was necessary to prepare for the elections, so discredited had Mr. Pugsley left the Government that it was impossible to procure candidates and again the patronage of the Government was called into play. Although in the last House the Provincial Government held three seats in the City of St. John, it was necessary in order to secure a ticket to offer another Federal office. It had been stated openly that Mayor Sears of St. John was slated for the position of postmaster of St. John.

Mr. Lemieux denied that any promise had been made Mayor Sears.

Mr. Crocket, however, thought Mr. Pugsley was capable of looking after the interests of the party in that section of the country.

In the County of York there had been a transaction. Although the Government held four seats there, it was unable to get four candidates in the county and was forced to go into Westmoreland for the claims agent of the I.C.R., who stipulated that he was to receive a portfolio and in the event of defeat was to be provided for by the Federal authorities.

In Kent a Federal Government employe had been induced to accept nomination. Mr. Crocket said in Queen's and Sudbury the Liberal candidate was going around with a Public Works engineer to influence the electors there.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that Mr. Crocket was evidently taking newspaper reports too seriously. He could assure the hon. member that Mayor Sears had not been promised the St. John postmastership.

"Will the Prime Minister say there is no intention whatever to appoint Mayor Sears to an office under this Government?" asked Mr. Crocket.

"So far as I know and am concerned there is none whatever, and I have something to say in these matters," replied Sir Wilfrid. "So far as I am aware, no promise or intimation of any kind has been made to Mr. Sears."

Sir Wilfrid also gave an unqualified denial to the report that another Liberal candidate had been promised the custom office in Fredericton.

Dr. Daniel enquired if it were not true that Dr. Ruddick of St. John had been appointed quarantine officer.

Mr. Fisher said it was true.

Dr. Daniel protested against this interference in local affairs. He was sure that when Mayor Sears read the Prime Minister's denial he would get after the Minister of Public Works and ask him who was to be believed in this matter. Notwithstanding Sir Wilfrid's denial there was evidently an understanding between Sears and Mr. Pugsley.

Mr. Crocket observed that this was no change at all. Postmaster Smith was charged with having attended a meeting of Liberal campaign workers. As to the postmaster of Woodstock, he had a letter from that official denying that he had spoken at public meetings in the Liberal cause.

Mr. Lemieux said that the postmaster in his letter declared he had never spoken at a meeting in his life. His name was Smith, and the candidate was a Mr. Smith, and the postmaster thought it might be the names were confused.

"Does the Postmaster-General think it likely that it was the Conservative candidate who attended the Liberal rally?" asked Mr. Borden amidst laughter.

George Fowler said that as to the denials, the Minister had made lots of them before.

Mr. Lancaster contrasted the case of Postmaster Smith with that of the postmaster at Beamsville, who had been dismissed for partizanship. The enquiry showed that all he had done was to remark, after the election, that Mr. Gibson, the Liberal candidate, was "in the soup."

Dr. Roche (Marquette) called attention to the despatch from Regina to the effect that R. E. A. Leach of the "Thin Red Line" notoriety, had been appointed by the Federal Government to superintend the distribution of seed grain in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Dr. Roche asked if Leach was the officer in charge of distribution or would be connected with it in any way.

"As far as I can gather, the despatch is in the main correct," replied Hon. Frank Oliver.

"If I am in order," Mr. Speaker called attention to the rule which forbids a member being interrogated giving more than a direct answer.

Mr. Foster asked if it was correct in regard to Leach, and the Minister said Leach was "employed in that connection."

"What's the matter with Wagner?" asked Mr. Bennett of Simcoe, but Mr. Oliver said as to him he did not know.

R. L. Borden questioned the Prime Minister as to some items of legislative program mentioned in the speech from the throne. There was a bill as to telegraph and telephone companies, boundaries of Manitoba, annuities, amendments to the Election Act and other bills.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the bill respecting telegraphs and telephones would probably be down next week. The election bill was about ready. The bill on annuities would be down on Monday. In re boundaries of Manitoba, the legislation of Manitoba had laid before the House a petition in which the position they had taken previously in regard to that and other matters had been materially altered, and it might be expected at no distant date.

RIOT IN HOUSE.

Japanese Representatives Enact Wild Scenes in Discussing Finances.

Tokio, Feb. 14.—After an exciting debate lasting six hours, which developed into a riot on the floor of the House of Representatives, the financial budget was passed by a majority of 192. Speaking on both sides occupied a long time, and towards the last they howled at the chair and charged favoritism, the Opposition members demanding an apology.

The chair suspended the session for half an hour, and upon resuming the chair apologized handsomely to the Opposition.

Impressive speeches were made during the debate, all making a point of the feature that more than one-half of the budget was expended in armaments. It was also urged that the financial measures of the Government did not contain provisions to prevent an outflow of gold, while the balance of trade had a tendency against Japan, fear being expressed that the basis of the gold reserve might be endangered. Upon the side of the Ministry the principal speakers eloquently argued that it was both unwise and dangerous to publicly discuss the nation's finances from a pessimistic standpoint, thereby creating unnecessary alarm abroad. He called attention to the natural resources of Japan, which were only awaiting development by cheap capital.

STOPPED THE JAPS.

British Columbia Officers Held They Could Not Pass Educational Test.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 14.—A conflict in the courts over the Natal Act seems imminent. One hundred and seventy Japs are now being detained in quarantine here. Failing to pass educational test in the new act, they are likely to be excluded. Should this happen the action of the provincial authorities a conflict will result.

The Japanese consul will not only claim rights under the treaty, but also that their arrival and detention in quarantine happened two days before the Natal Act passed, the act does not apply.

The steamship companies are also likely to refuse to accept the rejected immigrants, the companies being under the Federal and not the Provincial immigration regulations. The penalty is $500, imprisonment in default for violation of the act by immigrant or person or corporation assisting him to evade it.

Nova Scotia Legislature.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 14.—The Provincial Legislature opened yesterday afternoon. The Lieutenant-Governor's speech was not lengthy. It referred to the past year as "one of continued general prosperity throughout the Dominion, and to Nova Scotia's success as having rewarded the industry of the people.

There was nothing in the nature of new legislation proposed.

Finish Diet Opens.

Helsingfors, Feb. 13.—The Finnish Diet was opened at the palace yesterday. The attitude of Finland in the present controversy with the throne is to be defined, and a number of important reforms will be acted upon.

Rifle Company Goes On.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Sir Charles Ross, head of the Ross Rifle Co., yesterday gave an absolute denial of a story that the Ross Rifle Co. was going out of business because of the Government's refusal of further orders for rifles.

Shot Young Girl.

Phoenixville, Pa., Feb. 13.—Norma Tholan, aged 15 years, daughter of Hiram Tholan, was shot and killed on the highway by John Miller, a young farm hand, who afterwards shot himself. Miller had been employed by the girl's father.

ASKS A FAIR DEAL

Mr. Preston Urges an Honest Provincial Redistribution.

MR. WHITNEY IS EVASIVE

Can Only Speculate as to the Date of the General Election—Member For Brant Advocates Advanced Educational Reform—Mr. Hoyle Replies—Continuation of the Debate In the House.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—The Legislature yesterday afternoon devoted itself to a continuance of the debate on the speech from the throne. Mr. T. H. Prescott (Brant), in a thoughtful address, advocated advances along the lines of educational progress. He urged the Government to pursue a fair and just course in its redistribution measure and protested against the proposal to give Toronto too great a representation.

Mr. Preston (Brant) resumed the debate by stating that the mover of the address was not quite fair in stating that prison labor competition was a legacy from the previous Government. "Had the late Government remained in office a little longer," said Mr. Preston, "no such legacy would have been left. The former Government was already well under way in dispensing with it, and the wooden ware contract had been abolished." But the new Government, he continued, had made a new contract in binder twine.

"Prompted by a useful lesson in East Hamilton," he added, "and prodded by the Labor organizations, a special committee was appointed to look into the matter. Then they discovered that there was no contract at the model Mansfield reformatory—"

Hon. Mr. Hanna—"Oh, yes, there were two of them, with a rate of 4 cents per hour."

Mr. Preston—"Well, that's a better rate than yours."

Hon. Mr. Hanna—"But ours was 4 1-2 cents on the same basis."

Mr. Preston said that Mansfield was just waiting the termination of these two contracts to abolish the system.

He added that it was a principle of the Liberals that the three-fifths local option clause should be repealed. Was the Government going "to steal these clothes, too?"

Hon. Mr. Hanna—"Too many holes in them."

This, Mr. Preston continued, was the last session of a Provincial Parliament.

The Premier—"How so?"

Mr. Preston—"Is it not?"

The Premier—"A general election is not necessary for two years yet."

Hon. Mr. Mackay—"Oh, no."

The Premier—"Let me explain. The statutory term of the present Parliament expires in March 1909, and it is not necessary to bring a Parliament together for 12 months after that time."

Mr. Preston—"Have I, then, the right to assume that there will be no general election this year?"

Proceeding, Mr. Preston said a redistribution was assured anyway. This was reasonable as there had not been a redistribution since 1894. He hoped it would be done by independent commission or by a committee fairly representing both parties.

The Premier—"I am surprised that there should be any doubt as to its fairness."

Mr. Preston—"The Prime Minister need not be, after what his party did at Ottawa."

The Premier—"Heretofore Ontario has never experienced anything but a gerrymander. A redistribution on fair and proper lines will be an innovation."

The member for Brant said it had been intimated in the press that Toronto was to have four additional members. He did not think this was warranted. Toronto was aided in representation by her press and the fact that several of the Cabinet Ministers resided in the city. It was also recognized that urban representation should be below rural representation.

After deprecating the prevalence of child labor and urging advanced prohibitive legislation along those lines, Mr. Preston turned his attention to educational affairs. He advocated the abolition of a fee in the high schools and all distinction between lower and high schools. It should be a continuous course and vocational courses should be provided for boys of 12 to 14 years. "It is a reflection on our educational system," said Mr. Preston, "that there are 20,000 young people in Ontario studying with an American correspondence school, and only 2,000 in our own technical schools." Mr. Preston hoped that the province would never concede to the Dominion Government the right to control technical education.

The Premier—"It will never do so."

Mr. Preston—"That's right. Do not sell your birthright for a grant, though I believe the Dominion ought to come to the aid of the province with a substantial grant."

Mr. Preston concluded by urging the inauguration of a course of moral training in the schools.

Mr. W. H. Hoyle (North Ontario) followed. Why was it, he asked, that in all his campaign the new Liberal leader had said nothing about the three-fifths local option clause? He sarcastically alluded to the plebiscites taken by the Dominion and Provincial Liberal Governments, when prohibition was carried by over three-fifths majority. And the Liberal leaders did nothing. They claimed that the expression of opinion wasn't strong enough. In church and state there was a call for a strong expression of public opinion on important changes.

"The church to which I belong requires a two-thirds majority," observes Mr. Hoyle.

"What's the name of that church?" put in the irrepressible Mr. Clarke (Northumberland) amid Opposition laughter.

"If my hon. friends," retorted Mr. Hoyle, "was more familiar with the character of the churches he would never ask that question." (Government applause.)

As to Mr. Preston's observations on education Mr. Hoyle had no quarrel with the manner or matter of his words. All that he advocated had been foreshadowed by the present Minister of Education in a speech at Brantford, and a Government bill was now in preparation along the lines indicated. The present Government had already doubled the grant to the technical schools.

Mr. Hoyle directed attention to the fact that during the last year the Agricultural Department had issued to the farmers of Ontario over three times as many bulletins as the Liberal Government had issued during the whole 35 years of its tenure of office. He declared the references of the member for the Soo to a blind horse was unfortunate.

"We tried the menagerie business in the past," he declared, "and we found it a lamentable failure. (Laughter.) I thought our friends over the way had had enough of the old horse and were glad to see it finally go to the glue factory, without trying to resurrect it." (Renewed laughter and applause.)

Martin Roasts Laurier.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 14—The Laurier and McBride Governments on the Asiatic question were roundly condemned by former Attorney-General Joseph Martin before a crowded meeting of the Asiatic Exclusion League last night.

Martin declared Laurier should have given notice of the abrogation of the treaty when Japan last year broke her pledge given by Nosse, when the Japanese treaty was adopted. Lemieux's assurances contained no definite promise by Japan. The Ottawa Government was flim-flammed by Baron Hayashi's letter.

Premier Laurier should accept Chamberlain's advice and pass the Federal Natal Act. He declines to do this, and disallows the British Columbia Natal Act to please his corporation and commercial friends.

McBride was blamed for retaining office after the refusal of Dunsmuir to assent to last year's act. The Speaker was wrong in deciding the official actions of a Lieutenant-Governor could not be discussed in the House. Finally both Ottawa and Victoria Governments should be turned out.

Archbishop Obdurate.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—Since Archbishop Bruchesi placed the ban on mixed marriages, eighteen applications have been made to him for dispensations. Miss De Lery Macdonald, unable to secure a dispensation to be married to A. Shepherd by a Catholic priest, will be married by a Protestant minister, and the ceremony will take place during the Lenten season, a time proscribed by the Catholic Church. Miss Macdonald is a relative of Sir W. C. Macdonald, the tobacco king.

In Receiver's Hands.

Lima, Ohio, Feb. 14.—On the petition of B. K. Russell, of the National Consolidated Oil Co., a million dollar concern, with outstanding bonds of $200,000, was placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday, George W. King being named. The receivership, it is stated, followed default upon semi-annual interest due on the bonds.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

BRYCE IN OTTAWA.

He Will Consult Government on Important International Questions.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Ambassador Bryce leaves for Ottawa to-morrow to take up with the Canadian administration the details of negotiations affecting Canada and the United States, which it is hoped to conclude and to embody in a treaty which will close all pending matters between the United and Great Britain.

Negotiations providing for the submission of the Newfoundland fisheries question to The Hague are already under way. The visit of Secretary Root to Ottawa some months ago paved the way for negotiations in which he is now engaged, and it is expected that Mr. Bryce will encounter comparatively little difficulty in reaching an understanding with the officials at Ottawa on points which remain to be settled.

The various questions which are to be made the basis for this treaty may be summarized as follows:

First—Transit free of duty of merchandise across portions of American and Canadian territory.

Second—Transit of merchandise without payment of duty until arrival at points in interior.

Third—Application of alien labor laws to citizens of the United States and of Canada.

Fourth—Reciprocal mine owning rights.

Fifth—Conveyance of American prisoners through Canadian territory, and vice versa.

Sixth—Reciprocal salvage and wrecking rights.

Seventh—Use of logging booms in St. John River.

Eighth—Disposition of certain pecuniary claims.

Ninth—Exemption of Canadians coming temporarily to United States from paying a head tax.

Tenth—Distribution of power from Niagara Falls.

It would afford the utmost gratification to the President and Secretary of State to see every question between the United States and Great Britain disposed of before the close of this administration, and while it is entirely possible that arbitration of the Newfoundland fisheries question may not be concluded, ratification of a treaty providing for its arbitration would be regarded as virtually disposing of that troublesome and long-standing contention.

Artilleryman Cut Down.

Kingston, Feb. 14.—The Horse Artillery officials have Driver Odell in confinement for attempted suicide. He is said to have first attacked his wife, beaten her, and then going upstairs tried to commit suicide with a razor, but evidently quailing at the scratch made, he strung himself up with an apron. A hurry call was sent, and a river pilot, Gus McDonald, saved the man's life, for he was quickly cut down. Odell has been in trouble before with his wife.

Bigamist Sentenced.

Bristol, Feb. 14.—Arthur Hyne, a man of many aliases, who has been on trial here charged with bigamy and fraud in connection with matrimonial advertisements, was yesterday sentenced to seven years' imprisonment on the bigamy count, and to five years for fraud, these sentences to run concurrently. He is said to have lived in Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and elsewhere, and to have married women wherever he went.

ELECTRICITY.

It Has Taken From Fire Its Supremacy as Man's Servant.

As we hear the whir of the dynamo or listen at the telephone, as we turn the button of an incandescent lamp or travel in an electromobile, we are partakers in a revolution more swift and profound than has ever before been enacted upon earth. Until the nineteenth century fire was justly accounted the most useful and versatile servant of man. Today electricity is doing all that fire ever did and doing it better, while it accomplishes uncounted tasks far beyond the reach of flame, however ingeniously applied. We may thus observe under our eyes just such an impetus to human intelligence and power as when fire was first subdued to the purposes of man, with the immense advantage that, whereas the subjugation of fire demanded ages of weary and uncertain experiment, the mastery of electricity is for the most part the assured work of the nineteenth century and in truth very largely of its last three decades. It begins at once to marry the resources of the mechanic and the chemist, the engineer and the artist, with issue attested by all its own fertility, while its rays reveal province after province undreamed of and, indeed, unexisting before its advent. Every other primal gift of man rises to a new height at the bidding of the electrician.—F. Nelson Tracy in Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

CELESTIAL WONDERS.

Color of the Sky and the Moon and the Hues of the Stars.

It is the atmosphere that makes the sky look blue and the moon yellow. If we could ascend to an elevation of fifty miles above the earth's surface, we should see that the moon is a brilliant white, while the sky would be black, with the stars shining as brightly in the daytime as at night.

Furthermore, as a most picturesque feature of the spectacle we should notice that some of the stars are red, others blue, yet others violet and still others green in color. Of course all of the stars, if we bar the planets of our own system, are burning suns, and the hues they wear depend upon their temperature.

The hottest stars are blue. Thus Vega, in the constellation Lyra, is a blue sun hundreds of times as large as our own solar orb. We are journeying in its direction at the rate of millions of miles a day, and at some future time it may gobble us all up.

For, after all, humiliating though the confession be, our sun is only a very small star—of the sixth magnitude or thereabouts—and of an importance in the universe so slight as to be scarcely within the pale of respectability.—Reader Magazine.

One Seam For Fifteen Years.

It has been said that the most monotonous form of labor is gumming labels. But there are many others which come very near it. In the boot and shoe trade, for instance, the work is divided among as many workers as possible. One will thus make a single cut in the leather and another give one turn of the machine handle. In some cases a pair of shoes have passed through fifteen pairs of hands before reaching completion. As a natural result, there are workers who week after week go on performing the same work hundreds of times a day. Indeed in one factory there is a woman who for fifteen years has sewed only one seam. Her machine works so rapidly that she spends as much time inserting and withdrawing her work as in the actual sewing.—Westminster Gazette.

Skating or Swimming.

Some one once asked Tim Sullivan of New York for information as to the prospects of a politician who was popularly supposed to be "on the ragged edge."

"Well," said Sullivan, "he seems to think he's getting on all right, but there are others who entertain a different opinion. The situation reminds me of the story of the old woman up in Maine. Being asked as to the whereabouts of her husband, she replied:

"'If the ice is as thick as Jim thinks it is, he is skating; if it is as thick as I think it is, he is swimming.'"—St. Louis Republic.

The beautiful girl brightened up.

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ure to crave his forgiveness and mindful of nothing else, could not imagine what held him back. Even when he came his eye was timid and his feet slow to cross the threshold—in fact, the inveterate conventionality of the male was not a little fluttered at her receiving him alone at this hour of the night and that night her marriage eve. Yet his qualms were entirely on her account. Nor could they quench the inextinguishable lovelight in his honest eyes.

As for Claire, however, she forgot everything but the cruel wrong she had done the man before her, the sufferings cut so deep upon his bronzed face and her own new and blinding realization of his innocence and heroism. For a space she could but stand and gaze upon him with burning eyeballs. Then, with the noble unconsciousness of a woman stirred to the soul, she took him by both hands and drew him into the room and besought his forgiveness upon her knees, but with his hands still clasped in hers.

Tom released his hands, shut the door nervously and then almost brusquely asked her what he had to forgive.

"I thought you guilty," she sobbed. "I said so—and you were innocent all the time! Oh, thank God"—

"Wait!" he interrupted. "How do you know that?"

"What you lost I found. I have it here. Oh, Tom, I have read every word! Oh, why did you not send it at the time? You were innocent—innocent! Can you ever forgive me?"

"Get up," he said. "You have for-[illegible] something."

"[illegible]othing," she answered. "Your [illegible]riage has no more to do with it [illegible] mine."

"[illegible] marriage! With whom, pray?" [illegible] wife you applied for—at some [illegible]ry!"

[illegible]e could not help her tone. It [illegible]g Tom into telling her the facts and [illegible]advertently exposing Daintree's chicanery. He instantly defended it as the accepted course.

"But that's not what I meant at all," he added hurriedly. "You must have forgotten what I told you the other day in the boat shed!"

"My hero!" she whispered. "You thought it best that I should never know, and so you said you were not an innocent man."

"Nor was I," he faltered. "You soon saw that for yourself. They may hang me yet!"

"And you wouldn't have me think of you any more," continued Claire, a spasm of pain crossing her face at his words. "But I will—I will! I'll think of you till I die—my own hero!"

He fidgeted horribly, looking toward the door. She would compromise herself, she would do herself harm. That was still his first thought. She saw it, and it floated her to the crest of that emotional wave in whose trough he trembled.

"I believed you guilty—may God forgive me!" she cried. "But—shall I tell you something?"

"Well?"

"I loved you all the same!"

"I won't believe it," he said, at last.

"I did; I know it now."

"Then forget it!" he cried hoarsely. "For God's sake, remember nobody but the man you are to marry tomorrow morning. What? Claire?" He started from her. She had shaken her head. She shook it more passionately for that, but she did not speak. So he began—hardly knowing what he said—but pleading for his best friend—pleading for her honor—pleading for sacred duty as his male eye saw it. She was going to marry a generous and brave man, to whom he owed, not only his life twice over, but any good that was left in him. Yet neither was the other a faultless man, though so generous and so brave, and his one great anchor to good sense and good living was his love for Claire. Tom spoke plainly, even eloquently, as he went on. He would have gone on longer, but there was no need. Claire sat meekly weeping. He bent over her—his face wrung with anguish now that hers was hidden—and so took her hand in his for the last time.

"God bless you always," he whispered in a broken voice, "and make you good to him—and make him good to you!"

She clung passionately to his hand. She held it to her bosom and looked piteously up into his face. The tears sparkled in her eyes and on her cheeks. Her sweet lips quivered. It was more than man could bear. He fell upon his knees, he threw his arms about her, and for a very little space these two torn hearts beat and sobbed as one.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

THE master was busy at his desk, but there was no rhyming dictionary at his elbow, and the book of synonyms was suffocating under a pile of papers that were stuffed into a drawer as Tom entered guiltily. The clock—an athletic trophy in the form of a kettledrum—was then striking midnight, and Daintree wheeled around in his chair with the eleventh stroke.

"Shut the window," said he. "I have two things to tell you which I don't want the girl to hear. If her windows are open she might."

Peggy happened to be listening at the door.

"In the first place," proceeded Daintree, "tell me frankly and finally whether you mean to marry the girl or not—yes or no?"

"No, sir; it is impossible."

"You shall do just exactly what you like. At the same time, she tells me you did ask her."

"I did. I wronged her in doing so, but she had the sense to refuse me, and I'm not going to wrong her worse by asking her again."

"That settles it. I've found a captain who's willing to smuggle you over to America for a consideration, all details to be arranged before I leave Sydney tomorrow. Will you go?"

"Will I not! Thank God for the chance!"

"Then that settles that—for the present. You shall be spirited aboard tomorrow night, and by Monday morning you shall have seen the last of New South Wales forever."

Peggy crept away from the door. Her mind was made up.

"The other thing's a trifle," said Daintree. "A pretty place this New South Wales! I go to the bank and cash a check, come in and shove the notes into one of these drawers, and a man breaks into the house and all but into my desk while I am sitting in the next room at my dinner! Look at this!" And he pointed out the marks of a jimmy on the polished mahogany. The circumstance did not appear to excite him in the least. He smiled loftily on Tom's concern and at once exaggerated an attitude which had been perfectly genuine before.

"Ah, Thomas," he remarked, "even you don't know your Sydney yet or you would be like me and think nothing of such trifles. I was eating my dinner, as I say, when I heard him at his work. Unfortunately I let him hear me. Still, I chased him out of that and some way down the road and could have caught him if I hadn't preferred to come back and finish my dinner."

"By Jove," exclaimed Tom, "I wonder whether it was the fellow who turned up on the beach almost at the instant we went down!"

"What!" cried Daintree. "Did you see him?"

"Yes, I caught a glimpse of somebody as we heeled over. Depend upon it, that's our man!"

Daintree turned nasty in a moment.

"Why depend upon it?" he snapped. "Did you see the man's face? Would you know him again? Oh, you would not! Then let me recommend you not to make a fool of yourself, my good fellow. Nobody but a fool would connect the two men."

His ill temper was inexplicable, yet to treat an attempt upon his property as a joke and an inoffensive theory of the attempt as something of an insult was but in accord with the capricious character of the man. And, indeed, Tom would have gone to bed like a lamb and thought no more about the matter, but yet another caprice detained him. Daintree would not hear of his going. It was their last night together; they must sit up and talk, and he apologized for what he had said. So they sat up once more, but the conversation languished for the first time on these occasions. Something had unnerved and depressed Tom's master; he was never himself until the last night of his single life was at an end, and in the first light of dawn a full rigged ship sailed in just as the Rosamund had done on the previous Sunday afternoon.

"Letters!" he cried. "Letters for my wedding day! Who knows but what I may get the best of news to crown my joys? What if my wife were never to be Mrs. Daintree at all? Yonder ship may dub me baronet. Open a bottle, Thomas, and we will drink to all she brings us!"

Then at last they lay down, but sleep came neither to the happy man nor to his miserable valet, and by 10 o'clock the one was helping the other into his wedding garments. A few minutes before the hour the coach arrived which was to take the bridegroom in state to church. A few minutes after a man was observed rowing in the bay, and Daintree insisted on taking a look at him through his spyglass. Evidently the rower saw him, for he shot out of sight behind a headland, but not before Daintree had brought his telescope to bear upon the rower, and now the glass joggled between fingers which seemed smitten with the ague.

"That was the man," whispered Daintree, "and he's after me still. I—I didn't mind last night. I suppose it takes less to turn one queer on one's wedding morning." He was struggling in vain against some growing terror. "Brandy, man, brandy!" he gasped and subsided in a chair.

Tom rushed downstairs for the decanter and, returning, found the terrified man fumbling with his pocket pistol. He tossed off the spirit and handed the pistol to Tom.

"There," said he, "better withdraw and reload to make sure. Stop, give it back!" He snatched the pistol and fired excitedly through the open window. "That'll show him I'm armed," he cried. "Now load up again!"

He seemed beside himself with excitement. Tom went out without a word and on his return handed back the pocket pistol. Daintree cocked it and felt the trigger.

"I've a good mind to fire through the window again," he snarled, "to see if you have loaded it, but I'll trust you, Thomas. You're the one man in this world I do trust. And now put on your hat and come in with me to Sydney."

Tom drew back. This was not in the programme. On the contrary, he was to stay and mind the house.

"D—n the house!" cried Daintree. "The girl can look after the house. Your place is at your master's side or else you are the foulest ingrate in New South Wales! But you are. I have always known you were. You have only waited for this hour to turn and rend me!"

"You are wrong," said Tom grimly. "I do not leave your side again," for the man must be mad, and Tom no longer shirked the ceremony, but for one instant had a mad design himself; the next, his right hand was warmly held.

"Thank God!" cried Daintree in a breaking voice. "I knew you didn't mean it. No more did I mean anything I said. Forgive me, Thomas, and don't desert me at the last."

And Tom's heart sank as it once more softened to the man who was not mad, but only unstrung, and again he longed to eschew the church, but he kept his word, and fortune was yet to prove his friend. A mile they had driven when a loud cry broke from Daintree. In his agitation he had forgotten the ring. He burst into tears at the discovery.

"Never mind! Never mind!" cried Tom in his oldest role. "We can turn back. What, isn't there time? No, I know it would never do to keep her waiting. Then look here, I'll run back and gallop in again on your horse. I'll be there almost as soon as you, and the ring isn't wanted till quite the end."

Daintree thanked him through his tears—the first Tom had ever seen in those fiery eyes—and he sped back strangely touched, but strangely comforted too. At least he loved her! The man might be egotistical and vain and overbearing, all three to the verge of lunacy, but that he was marrying for sheer love was even more palpable than it had been before. Tears in those eyes! Tears at the thought of losing her for one more day! Then God grant that with Claire at least he might be unselfish, meek and gentle, though an egotist, a coxcomb and a tyrant to all the world beside!

So praying as he ran, forgetful of his own debt to Daintree—for the moment self forgetting altogether—Tom was at the bungalow gate in time that would not have shamed the bridegroom in his athletic youth. And in the very gateway he stopped dead. He had caught a glimpse of ragged coattails disappearing through the study windows. A crazy skiff lay hauled up on the strand.

Tom kicked off his shoes. He made no sound on the veranda, but he wasted some seconds, and heard two drawers burst open as he crept nearer and nearer. He was totally unarmed; his one chance lay in taking the thief by surprise.

The veranda on this side was in deep shadow all the morning. In the cool dusk of the study a masked man was rifling drawer after drawer and tossing the contents right and left. The floor was strewn with papers as Tom leaped across it and hurled himself upon the thief. They crashed to the ground together. The man's head caught the corner of the bookshelf, and he lay supine, with a mouthful of crumbling teeth grinning horribly below the mask.

His nerveless fingers still clutched a packet of bluish letters half torn from their wrapper. Tom took them from him and rose up panting. A moment later they might have heard his shout at Piper's point.

All but one letter had slipped from his trembling hand. On the back of that letter a few lines had been scrawled with a lead pencil.

It was the receipt.

Penciled by Blaydes on the back of a letter, signed by Tom in the moonlit Hampstead fields and taken by the murderer from his victim's person, it was neither more nor less than the missing document whose production would have acquitted Erichsen at the Old Bailey. And now after eighteen months and here on these outlandish shores it had cast up at his very feet. He held it—held his freedom—in his own trembling hands.

The words spun like midges as the paper rustled and shook. He had to set it on the chimney piece to read it through:

> Received from J. Montgomery Blaydes, late captain, Coldstream guards, his watch and chain, etc., in settlement of all claims, and in consideration of which I undertake to return pawn ticket for same to said J. M. Blaydes, Ivy cottage, West End, within three days from this date. T. ERICHSEN.

> April 27, 1897.

He forgot the wedding ring, forgot the wedding. He was an innocent man. He could prove it now before all the world by this incomparable testimony, this inanimate witness that could not lie. That was Tom's first reflection. His first emotion was a rush of thankfulness, ineffable and unmixed. Curiosity succeeded. How came the receipt here? But as he wondered, as his thoughts flew from the broken headed robber to his friend Daintree, it was not the bridegroom that they pursued to the church, but Tom's benefactor that they followed back to Avenue Lodge. Did Daintree know who had committed the murder and was that the secret of his belief in Tom? Inconceivable. But the document? Tom turned it over in his hand, and the address on the missive came uppermost. It began, Nicholas Harding, Esquire, M. P.

This name plunged Tom in a vortex of new suspicions. It neither recalled the bride as such nor the marriage nor the ring. Yet the clock stared him in the face, the short hand almost on the eleven, the long hand rapidly overtaking the short. It was ticking loud enough for dead of night. He both saw the time and heard it flying. But he had forgotten his errand. He could prove his innocence at last. Suddenly there was a groan, then a movement behind him, and as he wheeled round the man in the mask sat up.

"Ha!" said Tom. "So it was you who followed my master from the bank

HOW SHE KEEPS BEAUTIFUL.

The Mystery Solved.

Like the flowers that bloom in the spring the young girl just budding into womanhood is an inspiring sight and she is usually beautiful if she is perfectly healthy. She stays beautiful just so long as her health and constitution remain good. Let her be nervous, have backache, sleepless nights, and how soon does it take for wrinkles, crow's feet and dark circles to appear in the face? Her cheeks were rosy until she began to suffer from woman's weaknesses and the constantly recurring pains and drains brought her quickly from the beautiful age to the premature middle age. It was not meant for women to suffer so—it is due to our unnatural, but civilized methods of living, and to the fact that so many neglect those small ills which soon lead up to larger ones. Nothing so drags a woman down as those constantly recurring periods when she suffers more and more from a chronic condition that can be easily cured. No woman should take an alcoholic compound for that will disturb digestion, and the food is quickly compacted and becomes hard and tough in contact with alcohol, rendering the food indigestible. She must go to Nature for a cure. The native Indians of early times were far from wrong when they called a marvelously effective medicinal plant "Squaw root"—what the physicians of our day called Caulophyllum or Blue Cohosh. This and Black Cohosh, Golden Seal, Lady's Slipper, and Unicorn root, are important ingredients of a wonderfully successful remedy in modern times, namely, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Having made a specialty of the diseases of women in the early sixties Dr. Pierce soon found that a glyceric extract of these roots with Hydrastis or Golden Seal and Lady's Slipper root, combined in just the right proportions, made the very best tonic and cure for the distressing complaints of women. Where women suffered from backache, weakness, nervousness and lack of sleep, it was usually due to functional trouble, therefore this prescription directed at the cause cured 98 per cent. of such cases. That is why Dr. Pierce soon put it up in a form easily to be procured all over the United States.

Aching from head to foot—that is the condition that afflicts some women at stated periods—backache, dizziness, and pains almost unbearable. An honest and a safe remedy which no woman can afford to lose the opportunity of trying for the cure of these distressing complaints which weaken a woman's vitality is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. Pierce not only assures you that his "Favorite Prescription" is honestly made, but he lets you know just what it contains.

The best of medical authorities recommend and extol the virtues of the above ingredients in "Favorite Prescription." Thus F. Ellingwood, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica, Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions." Of Lady's Slipper root he says: "Exercises special influence upon nervous conditions depending upon disorders of the female organs; relieves pain, etc." Prof. John King in the AMERICAN DISPENSATORY, says of Black Cohosh root: "This is a very active, powerful and useful remedy." * * * "Plays a very important part in diseases of women; in the painful conditions incident to womanhood. In dysmenorrhea it is surpassed by no other drug, being of greatest utility in irritative and congestive conditions." * * * "Its action is slow, but its effects are permanent." "For headache, whether congestive or from neuralgia or dysmenorrhea it is promptly curative.

Dr. John Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ELECTIC REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica), one of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine (womb) invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine."

"In Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

The Foundation of Every "Progress" Coat

The good looks, and shape, and wear, too—of a "Progress Brand" Coat, depend on the part you never see—the INSIDE.

This figure shows the anatomy of "Progress Brand" Coats. The patent sleeve and shoulder pads—the strong felt, genuine hair-cloth and thoroughly shrunken canvas. This foundation is moulded by hand and held by hand stitches.

It is this perfect building of the foundation that gives perfection to the finished "Progress Brand" garment.

MANITOBA'S REDUCED ASSETS.

A dismal note comes from Manitoba, whose budget for 1908 shows diminishing assets, and such a poor outlook, that the treasurer talks of retrenchment. But only in some things. Grants to various purposes will be reduced, and the aid to education will not be so generous. Of all the objects that need encouragement, education should stand at the head, and the fact that it is to suffer is indeed regrettable.

While there is a plea for economy in other directions, the members of the government and members of the House will vote themselves larger salaries and indemnities, the one set from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, and the other set from $500 to $1,000 per annum. A grab or a graft under the circumstances certainly does not look well.

The province claims a surplus in ten years' operations of about $2,000,000, but there is really only $864,000 on hand, and it is part of the sinking fund which will be wanted to meet the bonds coming due in 1910, and amounting to $1,043,000. The government, too, practices what the conservatives of Ontario condemned as a wrong. It puts the revenue from the sale of land, respecting capital, into consolidated account, and uses it for general expenses; at the same time all items of capital account are subtracted, and this should not be unless the items of capital revenue were removed from the account.

The marvel is that the decrease of assets is not laid to the financial contingency of last year, or the "rich man's panic", as the treasurer described it. But it is candidly admitted that the financial results are "not due to the hard times," and it is a statement which will be regarded as a significant under the circumstances.—Kingston Whig.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Provincial Board of Health had under consideration the proposal of the town of Orillia, which is that the town's sewage be dumped into Lake Simcoe. As the Government institutions at Orillia, and the town itself, are supplied from Lake Simcoe, and as it is a source of supply to many other places, it is probable that the town will not be allowed to dump its sewage in the lake. Applications from Guelph and Blind River were also discussed.

Helped in His Time of Need

Ops Man Will Figure in Presentation This Evening.

Some time ago Mr. Robt. Corley, of Ops, had the misfortune to lose four of his fine horses in one way or another. The blow was a pretty heavy one, as without them he could not carry out the season's work and keep things going. His neighbors, who are all big, kind-hearted men, [illegible] down into his pocket, and [illegible] are going to present to-night, [illegible] a purse of $100 in Mr. Corley with [illegible] token of their high esteem of him, and of their sympathy, in this hard blow of fate.

An oyster supper has been arranged for this evening, at which all will be present, and Mr. Corley will be presented with the purse.

It is this class of men, who stand by their neighbors, that the country is justly proud of.

Town Committees Deal With Affairs

Local Investors Do Not Want Town Debentures---Other Matters.

A meeting of Council committees was held Wednesday evening, Mayor Begg and all the members, with the exception of Ald. Campbell, being present.

Chairman W. Jordan, of the Town Property committee, and Chairman McGeough, of the Police and Lighting committee, successively presented a number of accounts, which were recommended for payment.

The Board of Works slate was next cleaned. Applications from Jos. Marks and Thos. S. Begg for positions in connection with the building of walks were allowed to stand.

Chairman Eyres handled the Finance committee's business. The first item dealt with was the treasurer's financial statement for the year. Instructions were given to have the report published in pamphlet form.

The affidavit of the Beal Leather Co. in connection with the by-law granting him exemption, stated that the Co. had employed 26 men and paid out $11,902.30 in wages.—The document was fyled.

The advisability of sending a delegate to the meeting of the National Sanitarium committee in Toronto on March 4th was discussed for a few minutes. It was pointed out by Alderman Wm. Jordan that as the County Council had appointed Warden Mason and Reeve Jordan, it would be a useless expense on the part of the town to send a representative; but some of the other members thought the convention an important one, and that it would be unworthy of the town to seek to benefit by the county's expenditure. On motion of Ald. Smale, seconded by Dep-reeve Eyres, it was decided that Mayor Begg should attend.

TAKEN TO TASK.

Mr. G. H. Hopkins, former town solicitor, in forwarding a letter sent him by the secretary of the Railway Commission, added a note to the effect that if the remarks of some aldermen in connection with a similar incident had been correctly reported, it would serve the Council right if he placed such communications in the waste paper basket, instead of forwarding them. The letter referred to certain interswitching matters in which the town is not interested.

Veterinary Surgeon Cowan appealed against being held liable for interest on taxes unpaid when he had not received his tax slip. The opinion was expressed that the Dr. would have placed himself in a better position by paying the amount due at the time and leaving the question of interest due to be decided later. He will be asked to pay the original amount and to discuss the overdue interest question at the committee's next meeting.

Charity orders by dispensers engaged attention for a time. It was pointed out that 51 orders had been granted by one dispenser, and the Council deemed this too much of a good thing. The Mayor and Chairman Eyres will give the matter their attention.

Messrs. Stimson & Co., Toronto, wrote with reference to the unsold town bonds.

Ald. W. Jordan—"What about disposing of them in small lots to local investors?"

Treasurer Knowlson—I tried that last year—I consulted a number of local parties without result — they didn't want to invest."

The committee then adjourned.

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE

The second round in the play for the McDiarmid McFadden cup between Fenelon Falls and Lindsay was to have taken place to-day, but the game was postponed owing to the thaw. The Fenelon rink is under water, and the local sheets of ice are none too good.

LONGBOAT A WONDER

Boston, Mass., Feb. 13. — Running with speed that did not warrant any such time as was credited to him, Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian runner, was given by the holders of the watches at the Paris Square Coliseum to-night a new American ten-mile record of 50 minutes 52 2-5 seconds. The track was registered as being 11 laps to the mile, and the winner of the B. A. A. Marathon cross-country run was called upon to defeat three Canadians, Percy Sellen, Claude Pearce, and Bill Cummings. The Indian was the victor.

The intermediate times for the distance by miles in the contest won by Longboat were: One mile, 4 min. 24 3-5 sec.; two miles, 9 min. 23 sec.; three miles, 14 min. 14 sec.; four miles, 19 min. 6 sec.; five miles, 24 min. 8 sec.; six miles, 29 min. 43 4-5 sec.; seven miles, 35 min. 4 3-5 sec.; eight miles, 40 min. 23 2-5 sec.; nine miles, 45 min. 54 2-5 sec.; ten miles, 50 min. 52 2-5 sec.

Shrubb's time by miles Jan. 16th were as follows: 4 min. 39 4-5 sec., 9 min. 58 4-5 sec., 14 min. 58 sec., 20 min. 41 1-5 sec., 25 min. 52 sec., 30 min. 48 2-5 sec., 35 min. 51 2-5 sec., 41 min. 31 sec., 46 min. 30 1-5 sec., 51 min. 33 2-5 sec.

SHRUBB KNOCKS LONGBOAT

Alf. Shrubb, who is now in England, says that Longboat is not in the same street as Deerfoot. Longboat is a good stayer, but lacks speed. A man with a short stride could run him off his feet. He is improperly trained, says Shrubb, who returns to Canada in the spring.

HARTLEY WILL BE THERE

David Hartley, Peterborough's famous long distance walker, has gone to Kansas City, Mo., where he will take part in a six-day walk for the championship of the world. The contestants will walk 12 hours per day. Good luck to Ontario's representative.

New York, Feb. 12. — Six automobiles started from Times square at 11.15 to-day on the race to Paris, by way of Behring Strait. The departure was witnessed by a great throng of people, and the racers were followed up Broadway by several hundred automobiles.

TOOKE SHIRTS

Do you ever find your cuffs a nuisance when working in your shirt sleeves?

Aren't they continually bothering you and hampering the free movements of your hands?

Some men use elastic bands to keep their cuffs up.

But these are always unsatisfactory and uncomfortable.

The "EZIAJUSTA" in

Tooke SHIRTS

keeps your cuffs out of the way.

No trouble is required to adjust them and no discomfort experienced

They're very convenient when working, rowing, playing tennis or golf, washing your hands, etc.

These "EZIAJUSTAS" also prevent your cuffs from wearing out and soiling quickly.

TRENT CANAL.

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION. SECTION No. 3.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the "Tender for Trent Canal," endorsed received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, [illegible] March, 1908, for the works connected [illegible] the construction of Section No. 3, Onta[illegible] Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form [illegible] the contract to be entered into, c[illegible] seen on and after the 5th February, [illegible] at the office of the Chief Engineer of [illegible] Department of Railways and Can[illegible] Ottawa, at the office of the Superintend[illegible] Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterb[illegible] and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

The Hockey Team Have Sound Case

Were Justified in Charging 50c. Admission to Brockville Game.

The Post has heard a few citizens —who ought to know better — say that they were not going to patronize our hockey team's next game because the management jumped the admission fee to the Brockville-Lindsay game to 50c. Well, we wish to tell these wise guys that the management couldn't do anything else and justify their position.

The rink only holds 800 people, who at 25c. represent only $200. The rink management get 50 per cent., which is $100, and that would leave $100 to pay $165 expenses insurred in bringing Brockville to Lindsay. Anyone with any sense would laugh at the idea of the team playing a game when they know beforehand that they were bound to lose $65 even if the rink was crowded to the doors.

We think we have as good a team as there is in the intermediate series. The players work hard, and the people stand to one side and criticize. Some say it would be better to have the rink crowded, and lose $65, and have the good will of the people, but the management have found from experience that good will is a poor thing to pay bills with.

Champagne in Tea Pots.

Stratford Herald: George H. O'Neil, proprietor of the Tecumseh house, London, Ont., appeared in the police court on the charge of violating the License Act by selling champagne in teapots after hours. The liquor was served in the new grill room, and is said to have been a regular custom since the opening of these new apartments. The case was laid over for a week.

Y.M.C.A. Swimming Pool.

The monster plunge bath and swimming tank in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. was opened up a while ago, and is being greatly enjoyed by all the members. It affords many who cannot swim an opportunity of learning during the winter months in nice warm water, and with no danger of being drowned. In the spring, they will be able to strike off into the river without fear. Every member who cannot swim should learn now and fewer accidents would happen in the summer.

Railway Notes.

—Beginning March 1, half-fare rates for clergymen will be granted by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg as a result of the decision of the supreme court of Pennsylvania in the Pennsylvania's test of the two-cent-fare law.

—In the Dominion house a bill has been introduced, making it compulsory upon all railroads to sell at the ticket office mileage books of 500 and 1,000 miles at two-cent rate, to be accepted on any passenger train. The bill also makes a ticket of one railway valid for transportation over any other railroad starting from the same point and leading directly to the same destination.

Workingman Lost House and Goods

How the News Was Broken by a Blundering Sympathizer.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon the frame house on William-st., occupied by Jas. Blake was entirely destroyed by fire. It seems that Mrs. Blake lit a fire in a stove in the outside kitchen and then went out to gather some chips. The pipe from this stove, and from the stove in the house both fed into the same chimney, and it is thought that soot must have filtered into the unused pipe and, when the stove was lighted took fire, and in turn set the house on fire.

When Mrs. Blake got back from her wood gathering she found the whole kitchen ablaze, and could do nothing to stop the progress of the flames. The only persons near were two neighbors, Mrs. Copeland and Mrs. Oliver, who came to Mrs. Blake's assistance, and between them they managed to save a couple of pictures, four chairs and a few of Mrs. Blake's clothes. Everything else fell a prey to the flames, the house being entirely consumed. There was little insurance.

The firemen were not called, since the place is outside the corporation and the nearest hydrant is too far for the town hose to reach. Mr. and Mrs. Blake are now living in a house offered them by Mr. Steve Oliver, formerly occupied by himself.

Blake is just back from Kinmount, where he was sick, and was down town at the time of the fire. In some way he heard of the fire, and was hastening home when a neighbor, seeing him passing at such speed, undertook to break the news gently.

"Jim," he hollered, "what's the rush? Where you goin'?"

"Home!" was the reply.

"O blazes! No you aint. You aint got no home—your place was a heap of cinders fifteen minutes ago."

However, Jim kept right on going.

BATE—BARBER.—At the Methodist parsonage, Fenelon Falls, by the Rev. W. J. M. Cragg, on Wednesday, Feb. 5th, 1908, Mr. John Alfred Bate, of Cameron, to Miss Harriet Rosetta Barber, of Fenelon Falls.

Has Invented a Good Thing.

Mr. W. H. Stevens, of this town, inspector of schools for West Victoria, has just taken out a Canadian patent, No. 109,983. The invention is described as a cushion support for buggy tops, intended to fit on shank of railing of buggy to support the steel tubulars, and thereby prevent the bending and breaking of same. Mr. Dougald Sinclair has examined the device and his verdict is that it supplies a long-felt want. He will use it on all covered buggies turned out by him, and says it is bound to be adopted with eagerness by makers everywhere. Mr. Stevens, who is now applying for an American patent, is to be congratulated.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

—Intermediate class was well attended last night, when two athletic events were decided. The 60 yd. potato race was won by McMahon, in 15 1-2 seconds, the fastest time made so far on the local floor. The high jump was keenly contested with McMahon, Newton, McDonald and Henley tie at 4.2. The games will be continued next Thursday, when the standing broad jump and the 440 yd. potato race will be the events. Every member under 18 is requested to be on hand. The four leaders are as follows: McMahon 97, Newton 82, McDonald 72, Mercer 64. The basketball team also had a good practise.

A Word About The Weather

Just Now Old Probs. Seems to be Setting Up After Stocktaking.

The weather man seems to have taken a vacation during the last two weeks. Right, we have it so cold that we hesitate to go out of doors without carrying the kitchen stove under one arm to keep warm; it seems to have been cold so long that locomotive engines tied in strong coonskin buffet the drifts, and people who have been paying high prices so much that in pieces looks like a rubber, so tiny does the snow must fall, and almost stands in humps on the sidewalks before it can run away. And the changes come so quickly that it is a pretty safe proposition, when you go to bed at midnight, to take along an overcoat, a fan and an umbrella, and it likely need them all before you get home.

There is something in the air today, that tells us the spring is here, but hold on, it may be false scent. Anyway, the first buggy was seen rolling along Lock street about dinner time, a blackbird made its appearance on Kent-st., a while ago, and everyone seemed to feel that winter has done tired feeling, typical of the fleeting showers, growing months of spring.

However, the last week of strenuous winter months need hardly in alarm, for it will pass away fast and now for to-morrow, so we are hardly through with winter yet. Spring is welcome when she comes.

Church Arrayed Against Church

The Golden Rule is Endangered for the Time Being.

Some days ago the happy proposal was made by some good earlier that a social be a good idea to meet after the regular rehearsals games for one night by arranging a competition between a number of rinks made up of any, of members and adherents of the Presbyterian and Episcopal faiths.

The proposition at once secured the seal of popular approval, and Rev. C. H. Marsh, of the Church of England, and Rev. J. W. Wallace, Presbyterian minister, at once applied themselves to the task of choosing the sides. It was found, after considerable difficulty, that exactly eight sides could be lined on the lee as follows:

PRESBYTERIANS.

Rink No. 1.—A. L. Campbell, J. M. McLennan, W. Noakley, W. McLennan, skip.

Rink No. 2.—G. E. Clarke, Alex. Hare, T. J. Tilley, J. C. Harstone, skip.

Rink No. 3—J. N. Gray, W. Carley, J. W. Cameron, Thos. Gaskin, skip.

Rink No. 4—A. Shanks, M. Williams, Jas. Keith, A. McIntosh, skip.

Rink No. 5—Chas. Williams, N. McFedden, B. D. Menzies, W. Dundas, skip.

Rink No. 6—R. J. Menzies, D. McFedden, R. Millar, J. Wallace, skip.

Rink No. 7—Dr. W. J. Brown, F. C. Mitchell, D. Dunnon, P. A. Ferguson.

Patrons—Pastor Presbyterian Sheriff McLennan and Dr. John Millar.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Rink No. 1—O. Warner, R. A. Fields, G. H. M. Baker, G. H. Hopkins, skip.

Rink No. 2—Ed. Armstrong, H. McCorkell, R. Cassidy, Dr. Walters, skip.

Rink No. 3—R. A. Pfeifair, W. H. C. Morrison, W. Roenick, F. Knowlson, skip.

Rink No. 4—W. Kincaid, F. Lockwood, Wm. Hungerford, J. H. Knowlson.

Rink No. 5—B. Sylvester, Rev. McMurch, H. M. Pass, M. H. Saxon, skip.

Rink No. 6—Cowling, Dr. Bedle, G. G. Beall, F. R. Wilford, skip.

The contest will take place as soon as the ice is in condition for the great congregational struggle.

The Winnipeg Spiel.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 13—Play in the 20th annual bonspiel of the Manitoba Curling Association, that began morning with a rush, the weather man having decided to smile on the curlers, and devoted to a "bright game." The rinks hummed with curlers and their friends, and a gallery of spectators made the curling interesting. The spirit of the grand game seemed to fairly enthuse everyone, and, men or boss, the same good fellowship around the tee prevailed. It was, indeed, an auspicious opening for the great spiel.

The ice at all the rinks was in fairly good shape, considering that it had suffered from two days' thaw, and the weather has not yet tightened up sufficiently to assure the keen and glossy surface which all the curlers delight to play on. Only one short of the eighteen was out of commission, this being No. 6, an old Grain, which was unfit to play on. In addition, to this, one default was recorded at the Thistle, thus only sixteen out of the eighteen games scheduled for the morning draw were played off. The Thistle rink was the few surprises, the veteran cranks who were playing, almost without exception, coming out victorious. One exception was J. Lamont, of the Granite, who found the redoubtable Steele, of Glenboro, too hard a proposition. The appearance of Flavelle and other well known skips in this afternoon and evening's draw add renewed interest for the spiel.

In the Dingwall competition, Flavelle won from Patton, of Assiniboine, in the opening game, by 12 to 7.

OUT OF ONE COMPETITION.

Winnipeg, Feb. 14, (C.P.R. Telegram)—The Flavelle rink was defeated this morning in first draw for the Empire Trophy, by one shot.

Why This Silence.

(Weekly Sun.)

Mr. Downey of South Wellington and Mr. Clarke of Centre Bruce were particularly active in pushing the Pettypiece Bill in the last session in which the Ross Government held power. Mr. Preston, of East Durham and Mr. Carscallen, of Lennox, made the question of equalization of taxation prominent in the general elections which followed. None of these gentlemen have, since Mr. Whitney came into power, lifted a voice, that has been heard beyond the limits of Queen's Park, in support of this most important reform.

An explanation of this silence, or a renewal of previous activity, seems to be due to the constituents who accepted in good faith the protestations made four years ago.

Double - Header League Game

Little Britain Won From Y.M.C.A., C. L.S. Won From Bankers.

Wednesday evening's double-header Town League games at the Lindsay-st. rink turned out to be extremely interesting and fast. All four teams were on their mettle and developed unlooked-for speed, endurance and good play. Throughout each game the score was uncertain till time was called. However, despite the good qualities of the games played, there was also the great drawback of far too much loose work, such as tripping, unnecessary checking, slashing and loafing and playing offside. This, of course, did not spoil the games from an uninitiated spectator's point of view, but made them more exciting. However it is looked at, from the standpoint of hockey, though, it sadly spoiled the game and made it at times a type of organized shinney.

Neither the Bankers nor the Y. M. C. A., the beaten teams, were satisfied with the referee, charging that he could not keep the game in hand and that he was partial to the C. L. S. and Little Britain. They announced their intention yesterday of protesting the game.

In the first game, the Y. M. C. A. vs. Little Britain, the local septette developed unlooked for hockey qualities and played up well beside the Britains, who seemed a little off color at the beginning of the game. The Association lost by being too much on the fence, for which they blame the referee. At one time two or maybe three Y. men had to sit on the perch and watch the opposing team score two or three times. They were off for getting caught playing naughty. Whether or not the score of Little Britain 4, Y. M. C. A. 2 stands, is yet to be seen.

The game, Bankers vs. C.L.S., went off with a rush. The teams played fast and furious and see-sawed the score time and again. At first it looked easy money for the financiers, but the pace began to tell and before the end of the game they were self-crippled before the onslaughts of the opposing team, who had not played quite so hard at the start. The game was rough throughout, but each got about as much as he gave. The half-time score was 2-0 for the Bankers. At the end of the game the score stood C. L. S. 7, Bankers 4.

—I wish that I might talk with all the sick ones about the actual cause of stomach, heart and kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak stomach nerves leads to stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak hearts or weak kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the stomach, heart and kidneys. It is wrong to drug the stomach or stimulate the heart or kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made expressly for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. Ravages Being Made By Wolves Says Old Haliburton Co. Hunter

Many Deer Slaughtered This Year—They are Easily Caught.

A reporter met an old hunter at a local livery barn to-day who tells some interesting tales of the wild animals of the north and particularly of the killing of the deer.

"Are there any being killed now?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, the ravages of the wolves this year have been greater than for many seasons on account of the depth of the snow."

The hunter hails from the north-western portion of Haliburton County where the wolves roam about in hungry troops and prey upon other wild game of the forest.

"Have they any difficulty in running down the deer," was asked.

"None in the least. The deer's feet cut through the snow no matter how hard the crust is, while the wolf trots along and secures its terrorized victim with no trouble."

"Is there no remedy for such a slaughter?"

"Raise the bounty. It is now $15 per head and possibly if it were $25 for a few years the number of wolf hunters would be doubled."

He told the reporter that it was a frequent occurrence in the north where he spent the greater portion of his days to hear from the shanty the howling of the timber wolves as they pursue the deer through the forest.

"Is that the only cause for the decline of the deer?" was asked.

"Oh, no," he remarked, "the increase in the number of hunters during the past few years and also the cheapness of firearms as compared with the prices 10 years ago have a great deal to do with the decrease."

He also attributed the killing off of the deer to the wilful ignoring of the game laws and said that if he was the maker of the regulations he would allow only one deer to each hunter and that he would have well paid inspectors travel the province to lessen illicit hunting.

A GOOD SEASON

The reporter inquired about the trapping in the north and was told that rat and mink have been plentiful on the rivers and marshes in Haliburton and Hastings. The red fox was plentiful and his furs, which were disposed of at Lindsay and Peterborough, proved that the past season had been a profitable one for him.—Peterborough Examiner.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Former Ottawa Man Leaves Double Claimants to Estate.

A FIGHT FOR A FORTUNE

Strange Story of Matrimonial Tangle to Be Told In Court—Clergymen Said to Have Investigated For the Second Wife—Estate Valued at $52,000 — Judge McDonald Appoints Two Executors.

Prescott, Feb. 14—Two women, both claiming to be the wife of the late J. G. Warnock, the Ottawa horseman, who died in Brockville recently, are fighting for the estate of the deceased, valued at $52,000. Warnock lived for many years at Ottawa with Agnes Wilson, who passed as his wife, and by whom he had four daughters.

Casting her adrift last October, he married Eva McCallum, his shop girl, and they came to Brockville. Warnock willed his four children each $5,000, and the balance to Mrs. Warnock No. 2. The first wife by that name promptly filed a caveat and her solicitors made application before Judge McDonald to have an administrator appointed pending litigation. This the judge to-day granted, appointing the executors, Messrs. W. H. Brown and A. H. Swarts of Brockville as special administrators, in a bond of $8,000.

An affidavit filed by Mrs. Eva Warnock, the alleged second wife, throws some interesting light on the matrimonial tangle. She states that before her marriage she caused careful enquiry to be made by the minister, who afterwards performed the ceremony, and swears that the clergyman satisfied himself and assured her that Agnes Wilson was not the lawful wife of James Gregory Warnock.

Continuing in the affidavit, she claimed to have seen a document executed by Agnes Wilson, in which she released all claims upon the deceased in consideration of $3,000, and certain household furniture. Agnes Wilson, or Mrs. Warnock No. 1, is said to be in possession of a certificate certifying to her marriage with Warnock at Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1891. The Brockville widow is in deep mourning while the other alleged widow is making her home in Ottawa, where she instituted legal proceedings to annul the last will and testament of the dead horseman. Her daughters are living with her. The case is arousing great interest in the courts.

DASHED TO DEATH.

Nova Scotia Miners Fell 700 Feet Down the Pit Shaft.

North Sydney, N.S., Feb. 14.—Another mining horror in which two men were sent suddenly into eternity, occurred at the Winning pit of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. yesterday.

The victims are Malcolm Stuart, brother to Mayor Stuart, and also a member of the Town Council, and John Dorsey, ex-councillor. Both were underground managers in the Winning.

The accident occurred about seven o'clock yesterday morning when the men got into the cage. No sooner had they got into the big iron structure than through some defect a hook which held a strong wire rope to the cage became detached and they dropped with an awful crash nearly 700 feet below.

Both men were crushed beyond recognition.

Dorsey leaves a wife and 12 children; Stuart leaves a wife and one adopted child. Owing to the popularity of both men the town is cast in gloom over what is one of the worst mining accidents in its history.

FRANCO ENDORSED.

Portugal Cabinet Decides Not to Rescind His Dictatorial Decrees.

Lisbon, Feb. 14.—The Cabinet council has resolved not to rescind the dictatorial decrees promulgated during the last days of King Carlos' reign, except those considered offensive to the public dignity. This unexpected action of the Cabinet has caused the utmost astonishment.

The council of state has decided to pardon all the sailors imprisoned for the fleet mutiny in April, 1906. King Manuel, who presided, inserted the following at the beginning of the decree:

"It is my dearest wish to begin my reign by availing myself of the prerogative of pardon which the constitution give me."

Thick Neck Saves Life.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—William Salmon, aged about 50, attempted to commit suicide yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a razor. His landlady discovered him standing before his mirror. Had it not been for the heavy roll of fat in Salmon's neck he would have succeeded in completing the deed. He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital and will recover. Salmon was employed by the G.T.R. as a freight handler and had not been working steadily during the last six weeks.

A General Arbitration Treaty.

London, Feb. 14.—The subject of a general arbitration treaty such as has been concluded between France and the United States, was mentioned in the course of negotiations now going on regarding the submission to The Hague of the questions under discussion between Canada, the United States and Newfoundland.

Great Britain, it was learned yesterday, is hopeful that such an understanding will be brought about.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Are Lower With Continued Heavy Receipts.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 12¼c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 9¾c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—The total receipts of live stock at the City Market, since Tuesday, as reported by the railways, were 167 carloads, composed of 2830 cattle, 1071 hogs, 1058 sheep and lambs, 220 calves and 2 horses.

Exporters.

The prices quoted for export steers ranged from $5 to $5.35 per cwt.; export bulls, $4 to $4.50.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers, $4.80 to $5.10; loads of good, $4.50 to $4.75; medium, $4 to $4.40; common, $3.65 to $3.90; cows, $2.50 to $4; canners, $1 to $2.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report not many stockers and feeders coming forward. The scarcity of butcher cattle up to this week made it hard to buy steers at all killable at stocker or feeder prices. This week receipts of cattle were larger and prices got down to a lower basis. Messrs. Murby bought 50 head this week at prices ranging from $3.25 to $3.60 for good 750 to 850-pound steers, and $3.60 to $4 for good 850 to 1000-pound steers.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a fair trade for milkers and springers of good quality, but the common, light strippers offered as milkers were slow sale at low prices. About 75 to 100 cows changed hands at $30 to $50 each. One very choice Holstein springer sold at $60.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was again strong; that is, for good quality. Prices ranged from $4 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The market for sheep and lambs, especially lambs, was not as strong, but prices held fairly well for the best. Export ewes, $4 to $4.50; yearling ewes and wethers for butcher purposes, $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; rams and culls, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; lambs, $5.50 to $6.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted prices unchanged at $5.15 for selects, fed and watered, and $4.90, f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $5.75 to $6.

Veals—Receipts, 300 head; active and steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 6900 head; fairly active and 5c to 10c lower; heavy, $4.65 to $4.70; mixed and yorkers, $4.70 to $4.75; pigs, $4 to $4.50; roughs, $3.80 to $4.10; stags, $3 to $3.50; dairies, $4.60 to $4.70.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; active; sheep, steady; lambs, 10c to 15c lower; lambs, $5 to $7.50.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Beeves—Receipts, 1193; no trading; feeling steady. Calves, receipts, 587. Feeling steady. Common to choice veals, $5 to $9.75 per cwt.; barnyard calves, $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 9139; sheep, nominal; lambs, quiet and steady. Ordinary to prime lambs sold at $7.50 to $7.75 per cwt.

Hogs—Receipts 3844; feeling, about steady, at $5 per cwt.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at about 5000; market steady; steers, $4.25 to $6.15; cows, $3 to $4.75; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.25 to $4.50; calves, $3 to $7; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at about 36,000; market, 5c lower; choice heavy shipping, $4.40 to $4.45; butchers', $4.40 to $4.45; light mixed, $4.30 to $4.35; choice light, $4.35 to $4.40; packing, $4 to $4.40; pigs, $3.50 to $4.30; bulk of sales, $4.35 to $4.40.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

TALK POSTAL RATES

House Discussed the Recent Changes in Regulations.

HON. MR. LEMIEUX EXPLAINS

Postage on Legitimate Newspapers Again Reduced — Country Purged of Nasty Literature — Injury to Canadian Printing Trade—Illiterate Immigrants — Protests Against Misrepresentation.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—On orders of the day being called yesterday afternoon in the House, Postmaster-General Lemieux rose to answer the enquiry of Mr. Armstrong (Lambton) as to changes in the postal regulations with regard to second-class matter. Up to July of last year, he said the post-offices of the two countries had an arrangement for carrying mail of this class at rates in effect in the country of origin. The Department found the number of newspapers and periodicals placing a heavy burden on the service, and besides a national spirit had developed in Canada and representatives went to Washington to arrange for a change in the regulations, with the result that rates on this class were increased to 4 cents a pound.

The rate had been one-half-a-cent and Canada had been a great sufferer because of classification of United States authorities, which recognized a type of newspaper which, according to our ideas, was not a newspaper. New regulations were brought into effect last year, but he found that the great trouble was not the daily newspapers, and it was decided to relax the regulations by giving legitimate daily newspapers of both countries access to the mails at the rate of one cent a pound.

Mr. Armstrong asked what object was gained by not giving the same rate to the weekly or semi-weekly papers.

Purged of Nasty Literature.

Mr. Lemieux said the postoffice was obliged to accept only such weeklies and periodicals as came under our classification. By this classification the country had been purged of a great deal of nasty literature. He went on to say that on representations being made last year, that the new regulations worked a hardship on magazine publishers, inasmuch as subscriptions were fixed at a rate to cover the old postage, it was decided to remit the difference in postage up to the first of this year.

Claude Macdonell mentioned the practice of United States publishers, of sending in loose leaves to be bound in Canada under the regulations. These bore the imprint of a Canadian publisher, but only the binding was done here, and this practice was unjust to the Canadian printing trade.

Mr. Lemieux said the rate on this class was raised in May last.

Dr. Worthington (Sherbrooke) thought there should be an exception in favor of technical magazines, but the Postmaster-General pointed out that those could be sent to Canada and remailed to subscribers at the rate of one cent a pound.

The Opposition leader referred to the decision to reimburse the magazine publishers for their extra outlay on postage. If that were the proper method, might it not be applied in the case of the manufacturer, whose business was injured by a change in the tariff.

Mr. Borden did not think there had been any change in the character of some of the United States dailies entering Canada, and hoped when the Postmaster-General attempted to reform regulations again he would give the matter full consideration.

David Henderson (Halton) hoped that when the Postmaster-General reduced the rate on drop letters in cities he would also consider rural municipalities.

Unsuitable Immigration.

Mr. Clements of West Kent drew attention to the class of immigration to Western Ontario.

He alluded to the return moved for by Mr. Gordon, to which Y. S. Waugh, the immigration agent in Kent, told of an immigrant who, when asked if he could talk, said "no," as he had never seen a cow. He said he had opposed the North Atlantic Trading Co.'s contract and on the same principle he opposed large expenditure for immigration to Ontario. There should be no misrepresentation to intending immigrants. For himself he had all sympathy for the pitiful condition of many of those misguided immigrants. "We could have taken care of a few," said Mr. Clements, "but when they come in by the carload it becomes a serious matter."

Kind Words For Mr. Waugh.

Mr. Gordon of East Kent read a number of letters from immigrants near Chatham highly recommending the efforts of Agent Waugh. Mr. Gordon even congratulated the Department of the Interior and its agents on placing the large number they had last year.

Mr. Clements asked if the hon. member approved of placing the large number that were dumped into Kent County.

Mr. Gordon replied that he was credibly informed a large number had been placed by others than the Government agent.

Uriah Wilson referred to G. Miller, an extremely partisan Liberal, who had last year received $200 for placing immigrants, and who, it was said, had taken money from persons for procuring them help. Mr. Wilson also criticized the alleged action of Agent Miller in neglecting to look after a number of immigrants who had arrived in Napanee upon a wet and stormy night.

J. S. H. Bergeron criticized the translation of titles of private and public acts of Parliament. He quoted several instances which bore out his complaint of lack of uniformity.

Mr. Borden also cited instances of lack of uniformity of rendering in the translation of titles.

Sir Wilfrid admitted there was lack of uniformity, but observed that translations could not be got to agree on the correct rendering of certain words or phrases.

Mr. Borden suggested that at least they might get together and agree upon terms.

Mr. Leich's Appointment.

Dr. Roche (Marquette) again called attention to the appointment of R. E. G. Leich in connection with the distribution of seed grain in Alberta and Saskatchewan and asked what his duties were to be.

Mr. Oliver said Leich was inspector of Dominion land agencies and could ascertain who were the real homesteaders. For that reason it was thought he might be placed in charge of seed grain distribution.

Dr. Thompson gave verbal notice that on Friday next he would discuss the treaty-making powers of the Dominion and move on going into supply that Canada be consulted on all matters affecting her interests.

The House spent the evening in committee of supply, but progress was slow. Mr. Jackson (Elgin) described a trip of a couple of Cabinet Ministers, accompanied by a score of Liberal politicians, to bye-elections meetings. They used the Government cruiser Vigilant.

Mr. Bennett feared the Government would want people to pay for horses and carriages for their election campaigns. Had the Vigilant a piano on board. Being answered in the negative, Mr. Bennett said the Minister was behind the times, for Mr. Hyman, who was a merry soul, had one on the Government yacht Paeny, together with a mahogany table costing $100, and other elaborate furniture.

By what right did the Government use the people's cruisers for their election expeditions asked Dr. Sproule.

"By right of majority," suggested Bennett.

"The majority on cruiser," added Dr. Sproule.

Then the item under consideration passed.

At the request of Claude Macdonell the Hamilton Radial Electric Railway Co. bill was laid over till Monday. The bill was down for consideration in committee of the whole.

An act to incorporate the Ruthenian Catholic Mission of the Order of St. Basil the Great in Canada was finally passed.

Quebec Bridge Damage.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Senator Landry called attention of the Upper Chamber to the report from Quebec that the main pier of Quebec bridge was liable to damages by ice, owing to the fact that the wreck of superstructure was still adhering to it.

Hon. Mr. Scott said he would bring the matter to the attention of his colleagues. If the company did not take steps to protect the pier, which cost a good deal of money, the Government should do something.

Carlos Escaped Bomb.

Lisbon, Feb. 15.—It has been learned that a bomb was found under the landing stage where King Carlos landed on the day of the assassination. It had failed to explode because of a defect in the fuse.

A number of persons have called at the late home of Bulca, one of the dead assassins, to give money to his mother-in-law for the support of his children.

Shortly before the crime Bulca had competed with the King in a shooting match, beating His Majesty by several points.

Back to Jail Again.

London, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Pankhurst, the well-known leader of the women suffragists, and the other delegates of the organization who were arrested Thursday when they attempted to make a demonstration in the House of Commons, all went to jail yesterday for a term of six weeks rather than give sureties for their good behavior.

Woman Run Over.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Grand Trunk mixed train No. 81, going east from Golden Lake to Madawaska at 11.20 o'clock yesterday morning, ran over and crushed the body of a woman lying on the tracks eight miles from Killaloe. It is at present difficult to identify the woman.

DIED AT HIS POST

New York's Deputy Fire Chief Killed While Fighting Flames.

RESCUERS RISKED LIVES

Kruger Had Been In Brigade For Thirty-Six Years—Was Leading His Men Through a Dark Cellar—Filled With Smoke and Deadly Gases—Fell Through Trap Door and Was Drowned.

New York, Feb. 5.—Deputy Chief Charles W. Kruger, known for many years as "The Grand Old Man of the Fire Department," lost his life yesterday while leading his men in a desperate fight against flames in Canal street.

While working his way cautiously through a cellar filled with smoke and gases, Kruger plunged through a trap door into a sub-basement filled with water. He was dead when taken out, but in the few minutes which elapsed between the time the old man fell and his body was drawn out, more than a score of men had risked their own lives in an effort to save that of their leader.

"I knew it would happen this way," said one of Kruger's men when the chief's body was being carried away. "I have been to many fires with him. He was always in the lead. He never said, 'Boys go into that place or this place,' he always led us himself. He said, 'Boys follow me.' And that's just what he said this time when he led us into that basement."

36 Years a Fire-Fighter.

Kruger was 57 years old, and had been a member of the department for 36 years. Several years ago Kruger was acting chief of the department for a time while Chief Croker was temporarily under suspension.

The fire started at 217 Canal street and before it had been subdued swept that building from basement to roof, spread to two buildings adjoining, routed the tenants from several surrounding tenement houses and threatened the Church of the Most Precious Blood, in Baxter street.

It was after the flames in the upper part of the building had been brought under control, that Kruger took his men to the basement. A great pile of excelsior in bales was blazing furiously, and attempts to reach it with streams from the street had been unsuccessful. After several attempts to get at the fire from the outside, Kruger asked permission of Chief Croker to take his men through the basement of 215 and cut a hole through the wall to 217 where the fire was burning. Croker consented, and a moment later, with a dozen men behind him, Kruger plunged into the cellar.

The place was filled with smoke, and the deadly fumes of illuminating gas which flowed from broken or melted pipes, but the men pressed cautiously forward in the darkness. Just in the middle of the cellar Kruger stepped on a trap and plunged into six feet of water in the sub-basement.

Then began a desperate fight in the gas-filled cellar to save the chief. He could do little to help himself, and when Battalion Chief Galvin plunged into the dark hole and raised the old man's head above the surface he was unconscious. It required the combined efforts of twenty firemen, weakened as they were by breathing smoke and gas, to draw Galvin, who still clung to Kruger's body, from the pit.

The property loss as a result of the fire is placed at $50,000.

ANARCHIST AT MONTREAL.

Emma Goldman Does Not Approve of Murder of King Carlos.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—The famous anarchist, Emma Goldman, showed up here yesterday to the great surprise of her friends, but they at once started in to organize a demonstration. She will deliver three lectures, two in Yiddish and one on Sunday next in English.

Miss Goldman started in to say that while she did not approve of the murder of King Carlos, that monarch had placed himself against the people and had to be removed. All oppressors of the people and robbers of the constitution will, she opines, suffer in the same way.

Smallpox at Vancouver.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 15.—Two cases of suspected smallpox were removed to the city pesthouse yesterday from a Water street boarding-house frequented by longshoremen. The authorities took prompt and vigorous measures to prevent the spread of the disease.

St. Moise, Quebec.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the marvelous good which I have received from the use of the famous tablets "Fruit-a-tives". I was a great sufferer for many years with serious liver disease and severe constipation. I had constant pain in the right side and in the back and these pains were severe and distressing. My digestion was very bad, with frequent headaches, and I became greatly run down in health. I took many kinds of liver pills and liver medicine without any benefit, and I was treated by several doctors but nothing did me any good, bloating continued. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I began to feel better, the dreadful pains in the right side and back were easier and when I had taken three boxes I was practically well. 150

TRAGEDY AT TORONTO.

James Feehely Attempts to Kill His Wife, Then Suicides.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Jas. Feehely, 30 years of age, shot and seriously wounded his wife, and then turning his weapon upon himself, put a bullet in his head at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The woman will recover.

The double shooting took place over a little grocery store purchased and kept by the woman at 62 Euclid avenue. Feehely had been ordered out of the place by his wife a week ago Wednesday becaus he was ruining the business by his discourteous treatment of customers, and strained family relations.

He appeared at the grocery store yesterday morning. Shaking hands with Dorwen Turner, his wife's 18-year-old son by a former marriage, he bade him good-bye, saying that he was going away. He was sober and the youth noticed nothing unusual in his behavior.

He then went upstairs to see his wife, who was still in bed. Entering he pleaded with her to allow him to return to the household, but was refused. He argued for some time, sitting on the foot of the bed. At last he said, "I am on the street. Will you not take me in and save my life?"

She replied that he was a young man and could work. She said that they could not get along together. He had been turned out four times previously. He rose as if to go, buttoning up his coat. His wife turned her back upon him, and a moment later she was shot.

A Marrying Scoundrel.

Berlin, Feb. 15.—A bogus American, "Colonel" Schiemangk, has been sentenced by the Criminal Court to three years' imprisonment, the loss of his civil rights for five years after his release, and to perpetual police supervision, as well as to pay a fine of $300, Schiemangk having been convicted of wholesale marriage swindles by means of advertisement, whereby he succeeded in obtaining considerable sums of money from women.

Schiemangk was born in Germany, but served in the First Artillery, U.S.A. He was promoted to non-commissioned officer, but finally deserted. He is an accomplished linguist.

Roblin Defends Purchase.

Winnipeg, Feb. 15.—In a sensational speech in the Legislature Hon. R. P. Roblin made a bitter attack on Rev. Dr. Duval, pastor of the Presbyterion Church, for stating in an interview that the Government paid too much for the Bell telephone system.

He stated that Expert Dagger, who had first made the charge, was discharged by the Government for incompetency.

Appeal For Autocracy.

Moscow, Feb. 15.—The nobility, in congress assembled in Moscow yesterday, adopted, by an overwhelming majority, a Loyalist address to the Emperor, dwelling upon the dangers of the present system of Government and concluding with a virtual appeal for the restoration of autocracy.

Farmer Shot Dead.

Huntington, W.Va., Feb. 15.—Because of his interference with the plans for the marriage of his sister, Henry Bean, a prosperous young farmer living at Prichard, was shot through the head and instantly killed by Virgil Haman, the young woman's fiance. The men are members of two of the oldest and most respected families of Southern West Virginia.

Rioting In Bombay.

Bombay, Feb. 15.—Serious rioting occurred here Thursday evening during the course of the celebrations of the Muharram, the first month of the Mohammedan year, arising from disputes between the Sunnites, or orthodox section, and the Shiahs, the second great division of Mohammedans. Eventually the troops were called out and camped in the streets.

Ten Seamen Drowned.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 15.—The American ship Emily Reed, 113 days out from Newcastle, N.S.W., for Portland, with coal, went ashore yesterday at the mouth of the Nehalem River, on the Oregon coast, and broke in two. Ten seamen were lost, while six were saved, including the captain and his wife.

BLAZE AT BUFFALO

Heavy Loss to Courier Lithographing Co. and Times Office.

NEWSPAPER LOSES PRESSES

$180,000 Worth of Circus Poster Plates Destroyed In Wrecked Annex—Three Stores and Two Dwellings Burned Out at Athens—Farmer's Bank Damaged—Theatre Fire Causes a Panic.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 15.—Fire which broke out on the fourth floor of the plant of the Courier Lithographing Co., 197 Main street, and extending through to 204 Washington street, yesterday, caused a loss estimated at $250,000. The plant is one of the largest of its kind in the country. Just after the fire was discovered there was a series of explosions, supposed to have resulted from the fire communicating with certain explosives used in the art department.

The press department of The Buffalo Evening Times adjoining was damaged to the extent of $30,000. The Evening News has offered The Times the use of its presses and The Times will be run off to-day from The News' presses.

Besides the large quantity of valuable machinery in The Courier building the company had just finished the plates for a $180,000 contract for circus posters, and these were in an annex which was wrecked.

The Baker-Jones Printing Co. suffered a loss of $50,000, and the R. H. Thompson Paper Co. $10,000.

Brockville, Feb. 15.—Thursday night at 11 o'clock the village of Athens, the home of A. E. Donovan, M.P.P., suffered a $20,000 loss by fire in the heart of its business district. The fire started in a tinshop, and before long three fine stores and two dwellings were destroyed, together with their contents.

The Farmers' Bank was damaged also. The loss will total about $20,000. All the buildings were the property of William Parish, a retired merchant of that place.

Medicine Hat, Alta., Feb. 15.—Thursday night fire broke out in the Edison Theatre, causing a panic. The building was entirely gutted, and damage was done to about the extent of $2,000. Charles Ness, the owner of the threatre, who was operating the moving picture machine, was badly injured.

WRECKED BY TORNADO.

Fierce Storm In Texas—Several Killed and Many Injured.

Tyler, Texas, Feb. 15.—Tyler was swept by the most disastrous tornado in its history before daylight yesterday. Coming from the southwest, the storm swept over the main residential quarter of the city, leaving a trail of death and devastation.

The known dead in Tyler are C. A. Francis, agent of the Dallas News, and his wife and baby, an aged negro, Mose Lee. Francis' body was found a hundred yards from his wrecked home. The body of his child was found in the street. Mrs. Francis was in the wreckage of the building.

Six seriously injured persons are reported. The death list in Tyler may reach a dozen, and the injured will probably aggregate two score.

Twelve buildings were wrecked. In the confusion it is difficult to compile an accurate list of the casualties.

It is impossible to ascertain the loss of life in the rural regions, but it is known that the tornado swept everything clean for a distance of five miles. Three miles from town the wind demolished the home of Irwin Franklin, severely injuring Franklin, his wife and their four children. The tornado tore a path through Tyler, 100 feet wide. Buildings, telephone and electric light poles were laid flat in the storm's path, while great damage was done in other parts of the city.

Little Towns Wiped Out.

Hattiesburg, Miss., Feb. 15.—A tornado passed over Jones County, north of here yesterday and three small towns, Mossville, Laurel and Nose, are reported blown away.

The noon northbound passenger train got a few miles north of Laurel and could not proceed because of the wreckage, and returned to Laurel. The passengers said they saw half a dozen dead negroes, but could not estimate the probable number dead. At Service, Miss., near Laurel, the home of Ike Holloway, white, was blown away and two of his children killed.

Boy's Head Cut Off.

Prince Albert, Sask., Feb. 15.—Earl McLeod, the 8-year-old son of J. D. McLeod, proprietor of the Prince Albert Hotel, was instantly killed yesterday morning. He went to the station on his father's 'bus and while the driver was checking trunks, the horses started up. The lad could not hold them, and as the 'bus overturned the edge struck the top of the boy's head, cutting it off.

Is Shah Assassinated?

Vienna, Feb. 15.—A report is in circulation here that the Shah of Persia is assassinated.

No confirmation of the report is obtainable in any quarter.

Hydrophobia Scare at Chippawa.

Welland, Feb. 15.—Chippawa citizens are excited over the prospect of an epidemic of hydrophobia. On Monday a collie dog bit Mr. Darr, his wife and daughter. He attacked Mrs. Lister and bit another dog before he was killed.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

and tried to break into his desk last night! You've succeeded a bit too late. My master's got his money in his pocket—and he isn't here!"

"I ain't after 'is money," said a harsh high voice.

"What then?"

"What you've got in your hand."

"This!" cried Tom. "Who are you?"

"Name's Wyeth. I'm a lag, same as you."

"Let me see your face."

Again that grin below the mask ere it was whipped off, and Tom's eyes lit upon a horrible face horribly disfigured. It was perfectly flat. Disease had razed the nose to below the level of the sunken cheeks, and the beady eyes seemed more prominent by contrast as they glittered upon Tom's visible abhorrence. In an instant, however, the abhorrence changed to recognition, and a great light blinded Tom.

"My God!" he gasped. "The man that did it!"

"Did what?"

"What I'm here for—the murder of Captain Blaydes! It was you who killed him! It was you! I saw you close to the spot that night! Never shall I forget you—and this is the receipt I gave him! I took it just now from your hand!"

"An' where do yer think I took it from?"

"The dead man's pocket."

"That there desk!"

At last Tom said: "Tell me! Tell me!" And his voice was very weak. He was leaning heavily on the chimney piece, and now his elbow hid the time.

Wyeth removed a hand from the back of his head, looked at the blood upon it and grimly showed it to Tom.

Tom hurled himself upon the thief.

"You've been rough with me, you 'ave, when you should ha' taken me to your 'art, but I will tell you, 'cos I ain't that much to lose, an' it may mean my ticket if you stand by me like a true man. Say you'll do that an' I'll tell you every blessed thing!"

"I will stand by you through thick and thin," said Tom.

The other eyed him for several seconds.

"I do believe you will," said he. "It's a bargain between true man and true man. Well, then, that night"—

"Stop!" said Tom. "We will have another pair of ears." He went to the door and called loudly for Peggy. No answer. His voice reverberated through an empty house. He had seen the Fawcetts start for Sydney an hour ago (even now he did not realize why), but Peggy had willfully deserted.

"Go on," said he. "What about that night? I met you not 300 yards from the stile where the body was found, and you were going that way!"

"I was," said Wyeth, "an' when I come near what d'ye think I heard? A couple of swells having a row. In 'alf a shake it come to blows, an' I counted five before there was a bit of a thud, and the one who'd been calling out 'My Gawd, my Gawd!' 'e shut up, but the other went on saying 'You devil!'—through 'is teeth—jes' like that—until I come up. I keeps quiet and sees one swell take a lot o' papers outer the other swell's pocket, when in I steps. You should ha' seen the one as was pocketin' the papers! Up he jumps, with a thick stick dripping at the end, and before you can say Jack Robinson 'e 'as me on the conk, an' that's the end o' me!"

"Did you ever see him again?" Tom's voice rang strange with horror and weariness. He did not want his freedom. He was sick of the life that Daintree had given him back, of the world to which Daintree had restored him. His benefactor! The man filled his mind in that first light only—and in this last!

"Yes, I see him at your trial," said Wyeth, "but I'm coming to that. Meanwhile I'm only silly, and what do I find when I come to? A dead man, a bloody stick an' me lyin' alongside! Nice, wasn't it? The moon was on 'im, an' he made me feel nice, I can tell yer. But I soon see it wasn't robbery. There was that there diamond pin. I boned it, an' there was some loose silver in his pockets, an' that come in 'andy too. I took to my 'eels an' did a slant the way I come, an' I never see that swell no more till your trial. I thought 'e might be there, an' 'e was. So the first day I lied in wait for 'im, but the Charlies knoo me, an' I got frightened an' went an' lost 'im. The next night I lost 'im again—an accident 'appened—an' I come out 'ere, I dessay in the ship arter you. An' yesterday I see 'is lordship comin' outer the Noo South Wales bank as bold as brarse. He never seed me till you got afloat, an' that's what upset you all. Arter that I dogged 'im, but dursn't say a word till I found a card or two to shove up my sleeve. So, thinks I, the man who steals papers may steal 'em to keep. We'll have a look. An' so it was. An' now them papers is yours, an' you're as good as a free man. You'll put in a word for that ticket when you git your own free parding? You won't go an' round on a pore chap Gawd Almighty 'as rounded on?"

"Heaven forbid!" said Tom from his knees. "You shall have your ticket if this can get it you and I can help." He was gathering all the smooth blue letters together again and thinking of an account which Daintree had given him in that very room that very week of his own proceedings on the night of the murder. Suddenly he sprang to his feet, jumped on a chair and examined the silver cups on the top of the bookshelf one by one. There were seven. All were for winning the mile. It was his old distance from Avenue Lodge to the hollow tree in the fields, between the Finchley road and Haverstock hill. Tom remembered his master's anger, inexplicable no longer, on the day he cleaned the cups. He jumped down and was looking at the inscription on the clock when it struck 11 in his face.

Tom clapped his hand to his head.

"We shall be too late!"

"Too late wot for?"

"She will be married to a murderer. And I forgot that. God forgive me! God forgive me!" He reeled into the veranda. "No, no; there is one chance! The ring! The ring! This way for your life!"

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THE pair dashed to the stables. By seven minutes past 11 the curricle cleared the gateposts, with Tom driving furiously and Wyeth seated grimly at his side. At twenty past they turned into Macquarie street, were rattling up Hunter street next minute, then into George street—the whip whistling, a wheel on the curb at every corner, pedestrians flying and constables challenging, and so up Charlotte place to the church. The clock on the round castellated tower made it 11:24—time yet if they had waited for the ring. But there were no carriages outside, and Tom's heart stopped as he saw a woman emerge and lock the church door.

"Is the marriage over?" he screamed.

"There's no marriage this morning. It's put off."

"For the ring?"

"No, for the bride; she never came!"

"Never came?"

But the woman had been robbed of her fees, and the loss involved that of her temper. "Better go to the Pulteney hotel if you want to know more," said she, and four wheels would have locked in the mad whirl with which Tom turned curricle and horses.

Over the bridge to O'Connell street. A vehicle was ahead of them at the Pulteney. A waiter spoke to the occupants, and it drove off without one of them getting out. Meanwhile Tom had seen the Fawcetts in the gaping crowd outside, had left them on guard over the curricle and Wyeth and himself rushed into the hotel.

"There's no wedding. The guests are being sent away," said a waiter, standing in his path.

"Where's Mr. Daintree?"

"In the ballroom, but there's a gentleman"—

Tom hurled him on one side and was in the ballroom himself next instant. It was a spacious saloon, the best in Sydney at that time, and the first thing Tom saw was the long table with the vista of silver and glass leading to a snowclad mountain of a wedding cake at the far end. The chairs were empty, the table uncovered, and only two men were in the room, the bridegroom in his marriage garments and a person of equal stature in top boots and a pea jacket, whose face Tom could not see. Next moment Nicholas Harding turned his head. It was to him Daintree had drunk in the gray dawn that seemed a year ago.

The ruddy hair was shot with silver, the massive face refined by suffering. He had aged ten years in eighteen months.

Tom went straight to his old enemy, turning his back on his old friend.

"You came out to stop this marriage, sir?"

"I did. It was the only way."

"I congratulate you on arriving in time. You would have had a murderer for your son-in-law!"

Daintree gave a cry. Tom had turned upon him with flashing eyes.

"How do you know?" cried Harding in amazement.

"I will tell you. This man has been my best friend. He paid for my defense, and he took me away from the iron gang. Do you know why?"

"I know one reason."

"So do I, but there was another. He's been hedging matters with his God. He murdered Blaydes himself."

"Blaydes!"

And Mr. Harding flung up his hands, while Daintree sank into a chair as yellow as a guinea, but with hot eyeballs fixed searchingly upon Tom.

"Your proofs!" said he hoarsely. "Your proofs in support of this—monstrous—charge!"

"I have clear proof in my pocket," said Tom to Mr. Harding as he buttoned up his coat. "I have the receipt I gave Blaydes for his watch and chain!"

Daintree sprang up. He was trembling from head to foot, but his fists and his teeth were clinched.

"Thief!" he hissed. "You have broken open my desk! I saved you from the gallows. You think you'll hound me there in return—you fool, when you know what I know! What you have stolen is no proof at all. Ingrate, serpent, it will only tighten the rope round your own ungrateful neck!"

He turned on his heel and wrote something on a card. He rang a bell, met the waiter at the door and handed him what he had written.

"That may be so," said Tom to Nicholas Harding. "I may swing yet, but, thank God, not for Blaydes!"

"It is really the receipt?"

"Undoubtedly, written by Blaydes and signed by me. It will clear me of that crime if it doesn't convict him. I don't want to convict him."

The other shrugged his shoulders.

"It would be useless. There's madness in his blood as well as crime! But is that your only evidence?"

"No. I have a witness outside who all but saw him do it. He did see him taking the papers from the dead man's pocket."

"Papers!" cried Mr. Harding. His high color fled and came again. "They belonged to me. Give them to me, Erichsen, for God's sake!"

"Then keep your eye on him, and you shall have all but the one I may want. I saw they were letters to you." And in an instant they were in Nicholas Harding's pocket, all but the one with the receipt upon the back, and he also buttoned up his coat.

Meanwhile Daintree was at the other end of the long room guarding the door, and now they saw him fling it open with an evil smile. Next moment a strange gang entered—two constables, Ginger, Nat Sullivan and Peggy O'Brien.

Peggy's presence is only too easily explained. When her own ears heard Tom consent to leave the country she shut her teeth and swore that he should not. In New South Wales he should remain, though back he went to the chain gang, but she trusted to her own testimony to save his neck. So she slipped out of the bungalow while the master was being dressed, followed the Fawcetts into Sydney and went straight to the Pulteney hotel to tell Nat Sullivan the truth about Tom. She found that worthy in his usual state when in town. Ginger complained that there was no doing anything with him. And so powerfully did the blear eyed, thick lipped sot repel Peggy, now she saw him again and in this condition, that she had told him nothing when Daintree's message was brought to Nat's rooms.

Nat read it in his shirt sleeves and staggered off to achieve a measure of outward decency, leaving Peggy in a strange turmoil. She could have betrayed Tom herself—so she still thought—but the idea of the master turning traitor in this way was to her intolerable. She had heard the marriage was put off, she divined some an sufficient cause, and with the ebbing of her lost hopes of Tom her first generous good will to him returned. She looked at Ginger and found Ginger looking at her. At Castle Sullivan he had been a furtive admirer. He was an open one now Nat was in the next room.

"Well, Ginger, an' what is it y' intind to say?"

"I shall have to swear to him, though I'd never have let this out in my sober senses. He saved my life. I meant to save his."

"An' you will do that same—say you made a mistake. It's his life ye'll be swearin' away!"

"But it's true, Peggy!"

"An' it's meself'll be thruer still, Ginger darlin', if you will but say the word an' do by Tom as he did by you!"

She had not thought of it before. It was a sudden inspiration of the quick Irish brain, a sudden impulse of the warm Irish heart. When Nat came in, with wet hair plastered over his thick skull, the coal black head and the fiery

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Saturday Sunset, Vancouver's society paper, makes some hideous disclosures regarding dens of infamy in the Chinese quarter of that city, remarks an exchange. It says; "No one who has heard the details from the officers can realize the horrors that have prevailed in that district. They are too awful to be printed. Suffice it to say that it is beyond question or doubt that respectable girls have been induced to try just one taste of opium, and that thereafter their damnation has been completed. They are then irrevocably the slaves of the Chinese fiends, who keep them under the influence of the drug. A more horrible trap for the ruin of girls does not exist in America than the one which through past police inefficiency, official complacency, and, is believed, graft, has grown up and flourished in this city. I cannot deface this page with even a suggestion of the things which are done in Chinatown by Chinese with white women, but any man who is interested in the movement to clean it out may obtain from Chief Chamberlain or Police Magistrate Alexander authentic information of practices that will turn sick the souls of men not necessarily prudes in the ordinary relations of life." These disclosures, it seems, have come to light through the efforts of the police to stamp out the evil. If, as the Sunset says, white slaves are held by yellow slave owners, the authorities cannot act too quickly to uproot the unholy thing. That is a yellow peril that cannot be allowed to exist a single day.

Church Notes.

The Rev. Dr. Chown, president of the Social and Moral Reform League of the Methodist church will preach to-morrow morning and evening in the Cambridge-st. church. Dr. Chown is an able speaker, thoroughly in touch with his subject, and no doubt will be greeted with large congregations.

The resignation of Rev. J. B. Kennedy, M.A., pastor of Memorial Baptist church, Tecumseh-st., Toronto, has been handed to the trustees. Mr. Kennedy has been in that position for some fourteen years.

Rev. J. B. Kennedy is a brother of Mr. Robert Kennedy, Lindsay, and is known as one of the brightest men in the Baptist ministry.

—At the Baptist church to-morrow, Rev. Mr. Welch will deliver two very interesting sermons. In the morning the subject will be "Christ and His Church." The evening service will contain a special sermon to young men, the subject being, "The Manly Man." Mr. Welch has just completed a very helpful series of ten sermons on the Lord's prayer.

—"A Soldier's Life in India" and "Personal Experience in the Afghan Wars of 79-82" will be the subject of a couple of half hour talks at the Salvation Army Barracks this evening. To-morrow the regular services will take place at the usual hours.

SNOWFALL IS DETRIMENTAL TO LUMBERING OPERATIONS

350 Men and 85 Teams Employed in Cavendish Lumber Company---Logging Hindered by Snowfall---Winter's Cut Will Not be Large.

Peterborough Examiner; After a tiresome journey over heavily snow-banked roads, Mr. William Cresswell, superintendent of the Cavendish Lumber Company, arrived lately from the seat of lumbering operations on Ketcheeum Lake. He was interviewed by an Examiner representative in the offices of the company on Hunter-st. shortly after his arrival, and he told several interesting stories concerning the lumber camps.

"We are experiencing considerable difficulty this year owing to the heavy snowfall," began Mr. Cresswell, "The men are in the midst of logging operations and the snow is very detrimental to our work. We employ about 350 men and 85 teams, and lately we have kept all hands busy clearing roads to the waterway. As soon as the snow falls we build a road to the water, and a sprinkler is sent over it to give it an ice surface. This year, as soon as we had a nice road laid out there would be a snowfall, and we would than have to do the work over again. The cut is not quite as large as last year, and we do not employ as many men as in former years."

The Cavendish Lumber Company has five camps, which include nine shanties, and in these the men are completely housed through the winter. The food is good and the men are in excellent spirits. When the spring opens up the men will all be employed on the drives. Though a dangerous operation, the men enjoy it more than any other branch of the lumbering work."

Mr. Cresswell is one of the most experienced lumbermen in the city. He has been connected with the lumbering business since he was a boy, and is acquainted with every branch of the business.

Injured in Coal Shutes.

Mr. William Goddart, a C.P.R. employee at Peterboro, met with an unfortunate accident on Saturday, in Havelock. While engaged in coaling a locomotive he was caught between the locomotive and the coal shutes and severely bruised. He will be confined to the house for a few weeks.

MUSIC & DRAMA

ACADEMY TO-NIGHT

"When Knighthood was in Flower," with Grace Merritt in Julia Marlow's old role of "Mary Tudor," is announced for the Academy this evening. The dramatization of the story is so complete that not a single sentence of importance in the book is missing from the play. From the opening scene in Windsor Park until the curtain drops on the final union of "Mary Tudor" and "Charles Brandon," Charles Major's book is before the audience. The play is in its seventh season of popularity, and is proving a greater favorite than ever before.

While Miss Merritt's clever work is undoubtedly the most prominent factor in keeping afresh its popularity, the play itself is one that will probably live for many years to come. The most ardent devotee of melodrama or even musical comedy finds the greatest enjoyment in this fascinating story of life in the court circles of England during the Tudor period. The supporting company of over twenty players, with which Miss Merritt has been surrounded, includes a number of well known artists, while manager Ernest Shipman has provided a most elaborate scenic and electrical equipment for the production.

Does your Food Feed You?

Dr. H. Snow, late Senior Surgeon, Cancer Hospital, London, wrote: "The maintenance of sound nerve equilibrium by scientific tissue nutrition like Bovril will do more to stay the ravages of any malady than a century of medical progress in drug treatment."

"Bovril" is all beef.

RE LIGHT-WEIGHT BREAD.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir.—I find by the issue of your paper of 13th inst., that steps are to be taken to enforce the existing bread by-law, which is only a repetition of the Provincial Act of some years ago, which is unjust and unfair and I presume was made to protect the large baking concerns of our principal cities. Now this act, as is other acts, is subject to any by-law of any municipality. Now, what is fair to the citizens of Lindsay is that a by-law be passed and enforced in the town that bread offered for sale be some standard weight. The old standard weight of 2 and 4 lb. loaves seems to be the most popular. It seems very unfair that some of our bakers are putting 1 1-4 lb. and 2-12 lb. loaves, while the others putting 1 1-2 and 3 lb. loaves in the trade at the same price. This is the state of affairs that is existing in Lindsay, and the public at large are unaware of the fact. Conditions in business have got in such a state that the working man cannot exist respectably and if he gets the least bit behind it is impossible for him to get even with the world. They have got to have protection to enable them to hold the position they rightly deserve.

Now, what is suggested is that a by-law be passed that the bread offered for sale inside the corporation be only 2 and 4 lb. loaves, as it local or foreign bread, with the exception of fancy bread and buns. And please Mr. Council don't forget a fu-l by-law and see that they are enforced.—Yours truly,

Some Interesting Paragraphs.

ECK WOULD TREAT A FOOT RUNNER LIKE A RACE HORSE

Records Would Go if They Could be Boxed up and Fed Regularly.

Tom Eck of Newmarket, the old-time trainer of athletes, skaters and bicycle riders, has some decidedly interesting talk to hand out when he feels like it. The other day, down at Tom Flanagan's he got on athletes and athletics and training.

"When I began training horses," says Mr. Eck, "my father told me always to let my horses have green grass every day, and I'd never have a horses go wrong. I made it a rule, I never did have a horse get out of shape under my handling. When I began training men I thought the same idea ought to work. In the old days they used the old English idea of training. Athletes ate no vegetables, much rare meat, and any amount of dry, stale bread. It was stale bread three times a day and ale to drink instead of water. Scores of athletes died of fever simply on account of that diet.

"I switched from that idea, gave my men plenty of fresh vegetables, whatever meat they wanted, and then more vegetables. The result was that none of the men I handled went stale or became fever dried. I let them have ice cream and good clear water. Good water never hurts ary athlete.

"Look at the way a trotting horse can repeat running ten or twelve heats in a day, and all within three seconds or so of the same time. I've seen horses go out and do 2.06 1-4 in straight heats, one after another. What man can run heat after heat in the same time? It's a matter of condition. A man has twice the endurance of a horse. Man is the strongest animal in the world. In six days a man can run a horse to death.

"If you could take your athletes and shut them up in box stalls, feed them within five minutes of the same time every day, give them nine hours a night of undisturbed sleep, work them under the supervision of men as smart as the men who train horses, and then send them out to compete, you'd have the greatest record-breakers in the world, and they'd be able to go out and repeat as often as you wanted them to.

"The only thing in which a man differs from a horse is that his brain is more active. He needs mental exercise, too, or he'll fret himself stale. When I had Jimmy Michael the most nervous little bike rider in the world, I watched him all the time. I saw that he trained right, and I carefully picked out his amusements. Once I took Jimmy to see the 'Floradora' show six times in three weeks. He liked it, and that kind of amusement was better than loafing around Manhattan Beach. A man with nothing to do but loaf and look for amusement will drink half a dozen bottles of ale a day, not because he wants it, but because he hasn't anything else to take up his thoughts."

Mad With Drink.

Weeks of domestic difficulties, says a Woodstock dispatch to the Toronto Globe on Monday, culminated this morning at the residence of Alfred Holdsworth, of the village of Oriel, nine miles from here, when Holdsworth, aged 50 years, after shooting his son, aged 25, through the arm, made a determined attempt at suicide which will probably result in his death. Holdsworth is a laborer, and for some time has been drinking heavily and quarreling violently with the other members of the family.

FARM NOTES

TIPS FOR FARMERS.

Proper blanketing of the horse is as important for his health as are wholesome food, clean bedding and good grooming. Give the horse a little daily attention, make him comfortable in cold weather with a good warm blanket, and you will have to spend little for doctoring and medicines. Then, again, the horse will be in much better condition for the heavy spring work. A good horse blanket really pays its cost several times over in one season.

It is none too early to begin planning for next season's crop. The seed iss to be selected and the crop rotation is to be worked out, that is if one is being systematically followed. If no system of crop rotation has yet been taken up then one should be decided upon before the spring. Read up everything on crop rotation and decide upon the best adapted to your conditions. A systematic crop rotation carefully followed out has made many a farmer wealthy.

Abuse of the soil is the common practice of all farmers who do not prosper. If an account were kept with the soil by each owner, crediting the land with what is removed by the annual plant foods and changing it with what is given back, farming processes would be reduced to maintaining proper soil conditions, and the books would show what has been done to destroy or build up.—Hon. James Wilson, secretary for agriculture, Washington.

CARE OF SHEEP.

Give the sheep all the clover or mixed hay they will eat up clean.

If the ewes are not in fine condition they should have a grain ration of wheat bran, ground oats and peas. About one-half pound of grain to each sheep will be a profitable ration.

The doors should be wide, so that the sheep will not be injured by passing through them.

Do not neglect to provide plenty of pure, clean water. It is necessary for the health of the flock. It does not pay to let sheep eat snow to satisfy their thirst.

Lack of exercise in ewes during winter means weak lambs at weaning time. Sometimes the feeder must compel the ewes to exercise by feeding them at a distance from the barn. Confinement in close yards always means more or less loss in weak and dead lambs.

Feed the lambs well so they will make a good growth.

Those intended for the butcher should be fattened and sold before the young lambs come.

Sometimes we may get ewes to own their lambs by feeding them by hand till the dams have a good supply of milk. To hasten this time give the ewes plenty of nourishing food.

Be sure the sheep barns are well ventilated. One night's overheating in a close stable will cause colds.

HAS A STIFF NECK.

Earl Cannington, president of the British Board of Agriculture, in an address at Lincoln, said that he never would consent to any alteration in the law excluding live Canadian cattle from Great Britain. The cattle interests of Great Britain, he declared, were so phenomenally large that it would be a crime to run the risk of again infecting British herds with disease.

GET A TELEPHONE.

Galt Reformer; A farm house with a telephone is no longer wholly isolated, though out of sight of every neighbor, for they are all within call. The conditions of the market can be ascertained and goods bought and sold without leaving home, the doctor can be summoned without loss of time, and distant friends can be communicated with at pleasure. The benefits are self-evident, and in a sparsely settled country, such as much of the Canadian West still is, they are simply enormous.

PECULIAR SITUATION.

The president of one of the leading breweries in Chicago is authority for the statement that May 1st next, one thousand saloons will have shut down in Chicago, due to scarcity of barley this past year. This scarcity of malting barley is seriously clipping the large breweries and the malt houses. Both brewers and malsters, for several weeks, have been building almost to the point of wiping out the margin of profit in order to get the few carloads of barley that arrive on the Chicago markets each day.

LABOR ON THE FARM.

The Toronto Weekly Sun says; In an address at a Farmers' Institute meeting, held in Whitby, E. C. Drury declared that the shortage in the supply of farm labor had produced one good effect, in compelling the general adoption of the ten-hour system on farms. Speaking from his own experience, Mr. Drury said the reduction in the hours, instead of reducing the amount of labor performed, had rather brought about an opposite result; more is being accomplished at present on some farms, with work beginning at seven and ending at six, than under the old plan of working from sun to sun.

Meal Time Miseries

Indigestion Can be Cured by the Tonic Treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There is only one way to cure indigestion and that is to give your system so much good, red blood that the stomach will have strength enough to do its natural work in a healthy vigorous way. Many dyspeptics dose the stomach with tablets, syrups, and other things alleged to assist in digesting food, but these things merely give temporary relief—they never cure indigestion — and the trouble grows worse and worse, until the poor dyspeptic is gradually starving. In a case of indigestion a half dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth all the mixtures and so-called pre-digested foods in the country. These pills cure indigestion because they strengthen and tone the stomach, thus enabling it to do the work nature intends it should do.

Mr. Paul Charbonneau, St. Jerome, Que., says; "For months I suffered tortures from indigestion. After every meal the misery was intense, so that I finally ate most sparingly. I tried several so-called indigestion cures, but they did me no good. My general health began to run down. I suffered from headaches and dizziness and pains about the heart. Often after the lightest meal I would be afflicted with a smothering sensation. Finally my mother induced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine the trouble began to disappear, and in less than a couple of months I had completely recovered my health and can now enjoy a hearty meal as well as anyone."

It is because they make new, rich blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always cure indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism, heart palpitation, neuralgia, sciatica, St. Vitus dance and the headaches, backaches and other indescribable ills of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Oldest Woman in Canada Is Dead in Nesbitt, Man.

Former Resident of Cavan Township Dead, Aged 108 Years---She Was Born In the Year 1800---Lived in Milbrook for a Short Time.

Mrs. Argue, the oldest woman in Canada and former resident of Cavan township, has passed away in Nesbitt, Man. She was born in the year 1800, so that she was almost 108 years of age at her death last week. The Manitoba Free Press gives the following account of her life and death. Probably the oldest woman in Canada died on Wednesday, the 5th inst., at Nesbitt, Man., in the person of Mrs. Argue. Her maiden name was Margaret Jameson, and she was born near the village of Pettito, Fermanagh county, Ireland, on August 15, 1800. She was married in Ireland and had one daughter, Mrs Miller, sr., with whom she was living at the time of her death. Mrs. Miller is 81 years old. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Argue emigrated to this country in 1843 and settled in the township of Cavan, Ont., near Peterborough. In 1845 she married John Speer and moved to the township of Dummer, where 17 years were spent, and then two years in Turnberry. Having become a widow for the second time, she returned to Cavan, and for the third time she entered the matrimonial state, this time being married to Henry Argue, of Millbrook. After their marriage they lived in Millbrook only a few months and then moved to Flos township, near the Georgian Bay, where Mr. Argue died. She then went back to Turnberry to reside with her daughter. Her grandson, T. W. Miller, came to Manitoba in 1882 and took up his present homestead south of Nesbitt, sending east for his mother and grandmother in 1886. According to family records, Mrs. Argue would have been 108 years of age next August, although several of her relations claim she was in her 111th year. She was peaceful to the last and it was clearly evident that death was due to advanced age only, as there were no evidences whatever of illness. Though in excellent health, with good appetite and spirits, her physical powers were not commensurate with these, and she had never left her bed since July, 1904. Her eyesight failed her in 1898, but her hearing remained good practically up to the time of her death.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

HOUSE HAS SHORT SESSION.

Legislature Sits For Half-Hour on Routine Business.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—The brief session of the Legislature yesterday was devoted to wiping three questions by members off the order paper.

Mr. O. B. McCoig (West Kent) enquired: 1. Has the Government decided to grant fishing licenses to fishermen on the River Thames this year. 2. If, not, is it the intention of the Government to make any provision for granting licenses, to fish in Lake St. Clair, to those fishermen deprived of licenses on the River Thames?

Hon. Dr. Reaume, replying, said the Government had decided last year not to grant licenses for seine fishing on the River Thames for two years. Fishermen thus deprived of their licenses might procure licenses to fish in Lake St. Clair or elsewhere by an application in the usual way without special provisions.

Hon. A. G. Mackay asked: Does the Government intend, during this session, to introduce further legislation in the matter of guarding life in case of accidents through fire, imperfect construction relating to ingress, egress, or otherwise, in public buildings?

"The Government has under consideration," replied Hon. Mr. Matheson, "legislation governing moving picture exhibits and other matters."

"Is that any answer?" queried the Liberal leader.

"I think so," was the Provincial Treasurer's brief response.

Mr. J. A. Auld (South Essex) asked: When did the Government purchase the steamer "Lurline." 2. From whom. 3. What amount was paid. 4. In what year was the boat built. 5. Who inspected the hull before purchase. 6. What amount of repairs were made after purchase. 7. On what date was the steamer wrecked. 8. What effort was made to save the steamer. 9. Has the wreckage been sold, and if so, to whom, and for what amount. 10. What was the amount of insurance held, and has the insurance money been paid?

Hon. Dr. Reaume replied to the queries in order: 1, Oct. 4, 1907; 2, J. Walker; 3, $10,000; 4, 1888; 5, Wm. E. Redway; 6, none; 7, Oct. 26, 1907; 8, the services of the Molten Dredging Co. of Goderich were secured; 9, the engine and boiler were sold to the highest bidder for $850; 10, none.

Hon. Mr. Foy's measure respecting inquiries concerning public matters was put through its committee stage without discussion.

MANY CHILDREN SCALDED.

Boiler Explodes at Public School—Pupils and Teacher Injured.

Adrian, Mo., Feb. 15.—An explosion of a boiler in the basement of the public school yesterday tore away the floor of the primary department and precipitated a teacher and 60 pupils into the basement, burning and scalding many of them frightfully. The teacher and half of the pupils sustained severe injuries. Many of the children were taken out in an unconscious condition, and some of the larger boys engaged in the work of rescue were overcome by smoke.

A son of M. D. Spangler suffered the most serious injuries, his hands being blown almost off and his body scalded. Miss Maud Morgan, the teacher, was found under a pile of hot cinders and other rubbish. She was severely burned. The son of William Bullock was thrown through a window and severely cut. The older boys of the school jumped into the basement at the risk of their lives and continued their efforts at rescue until every child was found.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The building is a two-storey brick, containing ten rooms. The property damage was $2,000.

ROBBED CROWN OFFICE SAFE.

Court Interpreter Arrested But Convict Confesses the Crime.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—The peace and crown office safe at the court house was robbed of $1,700 in December and A. Hobeika, a Syrian court-house interpreter, is awaiting trial before the Court of King's Bench on a charge of being the thief.

J. A. St. Julien, his lawyer, announces that he has received a confession from a convict at St. Vincent de Paul that he committed the robbery. This man is George Pigeon, who was recently sentenced to serve seven years' imprisonment on various charges of robbery and forgery. Pigeon had only completed a five years' sentence a short time before and soon resorted to his old tricks.

Mr. St. Julien is going to investigate the confession.

Prince Expelled From France.

Paris, Feb. 15.—The Italian Prince De Forlosa, a well-known member of the Travelers' Club, has been expelled from France by a decree signed by Premier Clemenceau. The prince asserts that he is the victim of the intrigues of his personal enemies. On the other hand, the police states that the decree of expulsion was issued because their attention had been called to his mode of living, which was far beyond his means.

The prince has instructed the Maitre Clemenceau, brother of the Premier, to begin suit to rescind the decree.

Maritime Express Wrecked.

Moncton, N.B., Feb. 15.—The Maritime Express, No. 34, was wrecked one mile west of Memramcook yesterday. Part of the engine and the postal and Pullman cars are off the track. The cause is said to be a broken rail. The train was in charge of Driver Lightbody and Conductor John Berry. An auxiliary left here at 1 o'clock. No one was hurt. This makes five accidents in three days.

KIDNAPPED HER CHILDREN.

Plucky Woman Arrested After an Adventurous Drive.

Detroit, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Bessie Rumble, who kidnapped her two children, Hazel, aged 7, and Winnifred, aged 5, from the Children's Aid Society in Chatham, Ont., last Friday and drove from Chatham to Robert's Landing, nearly 20 miles, in an open wagon, with the thermometer hovering around the zero mark, and then drove across the St. Clair River on the ice to the Michigan side, was arrested Thursday night by two immigration inspectors. With Mrs. Rumble were found her husband, Albert, who arrived in Detroit Thursday, and Miss Lizzie Siddie, aged 21, who landed in Detroit about three months ago.

The inspectors say they will all be deported.

Liquor Detective Acquitted.

Whitby, Ont., Feb. 15.—Christian Hansen was acquitted by Judge McCrimmon in the Criminal Court here last night on the charge of perjury. The case grew out of the prosecution of Donald Christie of Saint Field for selling liquor without a license.

Hansen is detective in the service of the Provincial Secretary's Department and bought native wine of Christie on Oct. 29 last while working in Brock Township, where local option is in force.

The trial occupied two days and many witnesses on each side were examined. There was strong corroboration of Hansen's story.

The Famous Pedestrian

Gentlemen:—

"I was a martyr to catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I was so bad the doctors feared consumption. I tried many physicians and medicines. A friend suggested Psychine. I tried it and it was the only thing ever did me any good. I am now perfectly well. It is the greatest remedy the world has ever known. I do not need it for my health now but I use it as a strengthener for my walking matches. I owe much of my physical endurance to Psychine."

ARTIFICIAL ICE AT HAMILTON.

Hamilton Herald. The success of the Hamilton hockey team has started the new artificial ice rink buzzing again, and it begins to look as though there would be something doing in the near future. Hamilton's need of a covered hockey rink has been felt many a time, but never so much as at present. Dr. Carr estimates that $75,000 would cover the cost of the rink he proposes, and says that he already has promise of $30,000.

NEARING THE FINALS.

The home stretch in the race for honors in the O.H.A. three divisions has been nearly reached, and it is now only a question of days when the finals will be played. Stratford has already qualified for a place in the senior final, and will meet the winner of the St. George-Kingston 41st Regiment game. These teams are tied for the group championship, and will have to play off on neutral ice. Kingston on form look like winners.

That either of the teams can defeat Stratford is not likely. The Westerners are faster all round, and have not had to extend themselves in any game this year. It is true that they have had very little to beat, but everything they have been called upon to do they have done like champions. They are the one best yet.

MIDLAND HAS THE CALL.

In the Intermediate, Lindsay and Midland play home and home Tuesday and Thursday of next week. Collingwood have a lead of 8 goals over Hamilton, and should qualify to meet the winners of the London-Preston argument. From a long distance point of view Midland projects itself across the hockey horizon more than the others.

STRATFORD AGAIN.

An interesting fight is in progress in the junior series, and as in years past the "Kiddies" are likely to provide the greatest finish. The winner of the Eureka-St. Michael game will be called upon to meet Picton in the semi-finals in home and home matches. In the west Stratford have to play the winners of the Midland-Barrie game next week, Wednesday and Friday. The dope figures St. Mikes and Stratford again as contenders. Last year Stratford beat St. Michael's easily in the semi-finals, but they will have a much harder task to accomplish this year, if it so happens that those teams battle through to the final round.

Baseball

BRIEF BASEBALL RECORDS

The following are a few brief baseball records:

Greatest number of runs in a game—Chicago v. cleveland, July 24, 1882, 35-4.

Player who played in greatest number of games—Barrett of Detroit, 162 games.

Greatest number of times at bat—Brown, of Louisville, 1882, 658 times.

Greatest number of one-base hits—Keeler, of Baltimore, 1897, 243.

Greatest number of chances accepted by catcher—Schreckengost, of Athletics, 1905, 890.

Greatest number of chances accepted by first baseman — Donohue of Chicago Americans, 1907, 1986.

Greatest number of chances accepted by second baseman—Evers of Chicago Nationals, 1904, 890.

Greatest number of chances accepted by third baseman—Collins, of Boston Nationals, 1899, 601.

Greatest number of chances accepted by shortstop—Allen of Philadelphia Nationals, 1892, 955.

Greatest number of chances accepted by fielders—Slagle, of Washington, 1899, 424.

Running

SHRUBB IS ALL LEGS.

Detroit News; Alf. Shrubb, the English long-distance runner, unlike most athletes, is markedly frail and unimpressive looking. The man who defeated three men in a six-mile race in Philadelphia lately, each opponent covering two miles, weighs only 122 pounds.

Shrubb is all legs and is anemic-looking about the head and shoulders. His paller and hollow cheeks suggest convalescence from a siege of illness, yet Shrubb insists that he has always been in the best of health and is perfectly sound and well.

In spite of these physical shortcomings Shrubb is one of the most remarkable runners who ever lived. He has been in this country nine months, and in that time defeated everybody who met him. Generally he has raced against relays of men or horses.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

NEW SWIMMING RECORD

H. J. Handy, the Chicago swimmer, established two new American swimming marks at Chicago Wednesday, doing the 100 yards on back in 1.19 3-5, breaking the record by 1-5 of a second, and the 200 yards in 2.03 2-5, seven seconds faster than the old mark. Both old marks were held by C. M. Daniels.

ANOTHER FOR PEFFERLAW.

Pefferlaw, Feb. 14. — Woodville and Pefferlaw played in a schedule game of the Tri-County Hockey League, resulting in a win for Pefferlaw by a score of 6 to 4.

The game was a clean, fast exhibition of hockey, both teams being out to win, but the orange and black boys had the game well in hand during the whole period. As this game had a deciding effect on the league, there was great interest displayed locally. G. Halward, of Cannington, handled the game satisfactorily.

The game of football is gaining a foothold in Venezuela, and bids fair to become a popular form of outdoor amusement. A game played recently in Caracas was a social event, being attended by the wife of the president and many people of prominence.

Baby's Own Tablets, a Smile in Every Dose

The mother who, in her gratitude for what Baby's Own Tablets have done for her child, said that "There's a smile in every dose" coined a very happy and very true phrase. The tablets cure all the ailments of babies and young children, and make bright, smiling, happy little ones. Mrs. John Young, Auburn, Ont., says; "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for more than a year and I think they are the best medicine that can be given a baby. They are splendid at teething time, and for stomach and bowel troubles. You don't need a doctor if you keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house." That's about the highest praise a mother can give and it's true, every word of it. You can get the Tablets from any medicine dealer or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Ingenious Scheme.

A Woodstock butcher who has been missing pails of lard from a stall in the market building adopted an ingenious method on Saturday of catching the thief. He placed a pail filled with sawdust on the counter, and through a hole in the bottom and through the counter the pail was connected by a long string with half a dozen bottles. In the middle of the morning the bottles suddenly tumbled to the floor, and there at the end of the string with the pail neatly tucked in a basket was one o' the most embarrassed women ever seen. She hastily removed the pail from the basket and decamped. It was considered that her punishment had been sufficient and no prosecution will take place.

Sauce for Goose, Sauce for Gander.

Mr. Jones, who sells wood in town, went to his baker and asked for a loaf of bread, demanding that it be stamped for full weight. After Jones had gone the baker went out to inspect two cords of wood for which he had paid Jones $12; on looking for the stamp indicating full measure he found none. On measuring it he found the wood forty-four inches instead of forty-eight inches long—just one-twelfth short, or $1 worth. Should not the police see that Mr. Jones stamps his wood full measure? The above is a true local incident.

THE BUILDERS.

To the builders of the highways that
skirt the canyon's brink
To the men that bind the roadbed
fast,
To the men that grade and the men
that blast,
I raise my glass and drink.

Theirs the great Endeavour and the deed of high Emprise
For they fight their fight with naked hands.
'Gainst forest swamps and shifting sands
And the fury of the skies.

To the builders who have fallen,
whose graves mark out the line,
To the blind who nevermore may see,
To the maimed and halt in their misery,
In silence drink your wine.

For them no crashing volleys or roll of muffled drums,
Only the roar of the great rock-
blast,
Is their requiem-song when the day is past,
And the final darkness comes.

To the engineers, the wizards, whose word brooks no delay;
Hearing, the sleeping glens awake
The snow-plumed hills obeisance make,
And lo, the Open Way!

For them no flaring banners when a bitter fight is won,
No cheering thousands in the street
Their gallant heroes ever greet,
Though dauntless deeds be done,

To the builders of the highways that
skirt the canyon's brink,
To the men that bind the roadbed
fast,
To the high and low, the first and last,
I raise my glass and drink.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

Broken Rail Causes Bad Accident Near Ottawa.

TWO DEAD, SEVEN INJURED

Heroic Conduct of Engineer Saved Many Lives—Stuck to Brakes and Died at His Post — Heavy Gale Blowing at Time — Fire Broke Out But Was Promptly Extinguished—Crew Worked Well.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—By an unexplained breaking of an 80-pound rail on the Grand Trunk Railway at 10.15 Saturday night, the regular train, No. 27, from Montreal to Ottawa, was derailed five miles east of the capital.

Engineer Alfred Parks of Ottawa East and Fireman Wm. Robertson Martin of 238 Frank street, Ottawa, were killed. They were both scalded to death.

Rural Dean Taylor of Aylmer and Mrs. Taylor were badly shaken up, and are in the hospital. Conductor A. J. Leamy, Ottawa, sustained severe cuts about the head. Baggageman I. C. Moore, Ottawa, had his hands badly cut. Expressman F. M. Griffiths, Ottawa, got his hand lacerated and leg bruised, while J. N. McIntosh, Ottawa, had a leg injured slightly. A. D. McBride was severely shaken up.

Died at His Post.

Engineer Parks stuck to his post heroically, and as the engine shot through the air shut off the steam and put on the brakes, thus saving the twenty-one pasengers most miraculously. Then he left his cab and crawled out fatally injured. He died at the Ottawa hospital at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

The fireman's body was found lying in the snow with life extinct. He was 24 years of age and married but four months.

The rail which caused the accident is in Superintendent Donaldson's office. The break is a clear one, with no sign of any previous weakness whatever. The edges of the fracture are rounded where the wheels of the engine struck. The forward truck of the last coach, the parlor car, left the rails and made a temporary hospital for the wounded. The engine ad all the other cars were overturned. Fire broke out in the forward cars, but were extinguished with snow, of which a heavy gale was blowing. The crew did admirable work.

The train was running on time and had entered the one and one-half mile straight stretch of track east of the N. Y. & O. diamond. The banks on either side, where the derailment occurred, were level, and the engine and three coaches skidded fifty yards over the snow-covered ground. The tender of the engine jumped first.

G. W. Riley of Montreal, an old-time telegrapher and a passenger on the train, walked back to Carlsbad and telegraphed to Ottawa. A bevy of doctors and wrecking machinery was sent out immediately.

The damage to the rolling stock is but $1,000.

AFTER ILLEGAL COMBINES.

Plumbers Indicted by New Orleans Jury Under Anti-Trust Law.

New Orleans, Feb. 17.—Fifty-four master plumbers and three plumbing firms were indicted by a Federal grand jury, on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictments make a total of over 125 indictments in two days, under the Sherman Act. Seventy-two labor union representatives, members of the dock and cotton council having been indicted.

The master plumbers are charged with conspiring to restrain a New Orleans plumbing manufactory from selling goods to a local hardware firm. All the plumbers indicted are members of the Master Plumbers' Association.

Foolhardy Sailor Killed.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 17.—In a spirit of bravado, a half-intoxicated sailor, at an early hour yesterday morning, undertook to walk the telephone wires between two of the 100 feet posts on Government street. When discovered in midair by the police, who were attracted by the man's singing, an alarm was turned in for the fire department, who spread nets in order to save the man's life should he fall. He however, made the trip all right and had descended to within 25 feet of the pavement, when he missed his footing and fell to the sidewalk, fracturing his skull and dying a few hours later at the hospital.

Traffic at St. John.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 17.—Up to date 51 winter port steamers have filed their papers at the custom house.

The cargo valuation shows as follows: Value Canadian goods, $7,680,-273; value foreign goods, $3,367,144; total value, $11,047,317.

The total value for first 11 winter port steamers for last season was $9,-289,462, which shows an increase of $1,757,855. The amount of grain gone forward in 51 steamers is 3,218,871 bushels. For the year 1906-7, 6,764,499 bushels went forward.

The number of cattle gone forward up-to-date is 9,252; sheep, 2,368; horses, 13. Sixty-four steamships have arrived with a tonnage of 246,000.

AFTER KLEPTOMANIACS.

Drygoods Merchants Will Prosecute Respectable Shoplifters.

New York, Feb. 17.—A number of large retail drygoods merchants have banded together to prevent prominent social connections from saving a woman detected in "shoplifting" from public prosecution.

"Store detectives generally spot professional shoplifters as soon as they enter the store," said a drygoods man Saturday. "But you can't do anything with a so-called respectable shoplifter unless you catch her with the goods. And then, as is usually the case, she has prominent relatives, or her father and mother are well-known socially, she sends for them, and the case is never heard of."

A number of large drygoods merchants met the other day and decided to engage Martin W. Littleton to prosecute all cases. All of these men agreed that as soon as a woman was arrested or detected shoplifting they would immediately have the case taken out of their hands, no matter how much they were appealed to by the woman's relatives and friends. District Attorney Jerome has been spoken to, and has expressed his readiness to do all he can to assist the merchants, it was said.

BOY HAD CLOSE CALL.

Fell Under Train and Eight Cars Passed Over Him.

Stratford, Feb. 17.—To lie beneath the rails near the Grand Trunk station here while eight cars thundered by was the unique experience of Eli Dion, a 14-year-old lad of Penetang, who has recently been released from St. John's Industrial School, Toronto. He had been under a three-year sentence, but was released after having served two years and sent to a farm near Seaforth.

Becoming tired of the dull monotony of rural life he filled his knapsack and decamped via a Grand Trunk freight train. Arriving at Stratford the boy attempted to leave the train while it was moving by the station and in so doing fell underneath the cars. Conductor Hayne, who stood on the platform of the caboose, is authority for the statement that at least eight cars passed over the boy. When the tail end of the freight disappeared from view the precocious Eli slowly rose from his crouching position and with merely a sprained ankle made a hasty retreat.

He was captured by the station officials and arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of vagrancy. He was remanded to jail.

GIRL BRUTALLY ASSAULTED.

Four Young Men Arrested at Kingston on a Serious Charge.

Kingston, Feb. 17.—On Saturday night a girl came to the police station and complained that four young men whose names she gave, assaulted her in or near Soward's coal yard. She alleged that she was seized by the throat and prevented making a noise. The marks on her body are evidence that she had been cruelly treated.

The police then went in pursuit of the accused quartette, arrested them and they are now held in the station pending developments in the Police Court to-day.

Their names are James Brickwood, "Reddy" Devine, Mozier and Crozier. Complaints have been made by girls lately that they have been followed in lonely places by young men and at times accosted by young men and few have been willing for some time to go out on the streets alone.

Want Captain Released.

New York, Feb. 17.—More than one hundred and fifty members of the American Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots met in this city last night to start a widespread appeal to save Capt. W. H. Van Schaick from prison.

Petitions asking President Roosevelt for clemency will be sent throughout the country for signatures.

It will be urged that public sentiment does not demand the imprisonment of the captain of the General Slocum, by the burning of which more than a thousand persons met their death.

Capt. Van Schaick was sentenced to ten years in Sing Sing, but a stay of sentence was secured pending the result of an appeal to the higher court. Last week the sentence was upheld.

The captain is 76 years of age, and has been living on a farm.

Verdict at Vaudreuil.

Vaudreuil, Que., Feb. 17.—The verdict reached in the explosion at the Standard Explosive Works, was that it was an accident, due to unknown causes and released the company from all blame in the matter.

CITY UNDER WATER

Widespread Damage Caused by Flood in Pittsburg.

DAYTON PARTLY SUBMERGED

Reservoir In Danger of Collapse—Banks Are Overflowing — Families Rescued by Boats — Many Cattle Washed Away—Loss Estimated at Millions of Dollars—Waters Are Now Slowing Receding.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 17.—After reaching 30 7-10ths feet at noon yesterday and remaining at that stage for three hours, the high water in the rivers is now slowly receding.

The danger mark in this city is 22 feet.

The damage and suffering caused by the flood is widespread. A remarkable feature, however, is that as far as is known, there has been no sacrifice of human life.

Live stock has perished in considerable numbers. Miles of territory in Greater Pittsburg and vicinity are submerged and thousands of business houses in the downtown portion of Pittsburg are attempting to clear their cellars of water.

The actual monetary damage, it is believed, will amount to several million dollars.

The suffering caused by the high water is intense. Thousands of persons are living in the upper floors of their homes, the lower portions of which are filled with water.

Floods at Dayton.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 17.—Latest news from the north is to the effect that the Lewiston reservoir has not broken, although its banks are overflowing and there is danger of a collapse. Already thousands of dollars damage has been done in this city, several of the low-lying residence districts being under water. Rescue of a dozen families had to be made by boats yesterday, and a further rise will imperil scores more.

White City, a pleasure resort, is entirely under water, and its buildings may be carried down the river.

POWDER IGNITED GAS.

Empty Can Explains Cause of the Disaster at Port Hood.

Port Hood, C.B., Feb. 17.—The verdict of the coroner's jury in the mine explosion of Feb. 7, which caused the death of ten men, was, in effect, that the disaster was caused by the explosion of some explosive mixture.

Since the close of the inquest another examination of the mine was made on Saturday, when Manager McLellan discovered an empty powder can completely shattered. Above the spot where the can was found there was a large hole in the roof, and timbers were blown away.

At this point the man who was most disfigured was found, and it is now believed that this discovery explains the cause of the explosion; first, powder, and then a small amount of gas along the level ignited.

Stewart, the fire boss has been dismissed, and it is said other heads will drop.

Almost Victims of Coal Gas.

Smith's Falls, Feb. 17.—The family of Rev. N. B. Topping of Perth had a very narrow escape from asphyxiation by coal gas a few nights ago. Mrs. Topping and one of her daughters awakened about the same time. Miss Topping could neither move nor speak, and it was with the greatest difficulty Mrs. Topping succeeded in reaching a window. Though in a half-dazed condition she managed to break a pane of glass and the sweep of fresh air partially revived her just as she felt consciousness leaving her. By almost a superhuman effort she aroused some of the other members of the family, and by their united efforts all were taken into the air and their lives were saved. Two of her sons were unconscious for some time, and all were very ill, but are gradually recovering. The dampers of a coal stove had been shut too closely and this accounted for the gas being in the house.

Seven Killed In Collision.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 17.—Seven people were killed and a dozen injured when a Big Four passenger train struck a Toledo and Western electric car at the Michigan Central crossing in West Toledo Saturday night.

The conductor stopped at the crossing to flag the car across. Seeing the train coming he motioned to the motorman to stop, but the signal was misunderstood, for the car came ahead and the collision followed.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

EPIDEMIC IN LONDON.

Several Ministers Ill—Judges Obliged to Close Their Courts.

London, Feb. 17.—Influenza is raging in London. The Prime Minister, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, has been confined to his bed for three days, and the Right Hon. Augustine Birrell, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, is also suffering from an attack. Several courts have been closed because the judges are down with the influenza, and many prominent people are included in the sick list.

The prevalence of the disease was the cause of the King's unexpected visit to Brighton, as great alarm was felt lest he should catch the malady. There are certain things that King Edward dreads, and he has an abnormal fear of influenza. He will avoid the slightest risk of infection, no matter at what inconvenience to himself.

It is a matter of court etiquette, as originally instituted by George III., that no one about the sovereign shall ever complain of illness or confess to it except when absolutely necessary. King Edward has kept this up strictly, but when anybody has the least symptom of influenza he has asked that immediate mention be made of the fact, and that the person so afflicted withdraw until absolutely well again.

FED BY HIS JAILERS.

Hartwick Will Be Carried Into Court If Necessary.

London, Feb. 17.—James Hartwick, the alleged wife murderer, will be brought into court this morning, if it is necessary to carry him. His preliminary hearing on the charge of having done his wife to death will commence at 11 o'clock.

So far as can be learned Hartwick will not be represented by counsel. He has not been visited recently by any relatives and he has no means at his disposal to secure legal representation. It is probable, however, that when he comes before a judge a counsel will be appointed.

Hartwick's mental condition has apparently changed but little. If anything he is less violent, and Saturday the "muffs," which were placed on his hands were taken off. He has not since evidenced a desire to tear off his clothing. Yesterday morning he took a drink of milk and some porridge when it was offered to him. He would not feed himself, however, and one of the turnkeys had to hold a spoon to his lips.

King Not Disqualified.

Montreal, Feb. 17—Dr. L. H. Davidson declares that the accusation to the effect that the King has forfeited the crown because he attended a Roman Catholic place of worship during the King Carlos obsequies is so much rubbish. He said:

"The act speaks of communion with the Church of Rome. There is no communion established by attending a Roman Catholic church in connection with a funeral. Many of our Roman Catholic fellow citizens of Montreal, for instance, attend Protestant funerals. Would anybody say that because of that they have had communion with the Protestant church? The thing is absurd. Communion means alliance; it means that one has joined the communion and participated in its life and work.

"I am sorry this matter was brought up at all. The King of England attended this Roman Catholic church as a matter of courtesy. Why should he be criticized for so doing?"

Held Up Sunday Editions.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Some of the big United States papers this week ran against an unexpected snag in the amended postal regulations. The Sunday editions were not allowed to come into Canada as "dailies" and obtain the concessions as such. The original regulations were framed to exclude some of this very class of matter, and the postal authorities consider the big Sunday paper as a "weekly."

The Canadian Government officials hold that as separate subscription lists are made out for these and as they are not part of the regular daily editions they are not under the favored amendment and must be fully prepaid for entry.

Sixty-Three Vote-Seekers Given Forty Days in Jail.

RAISE MONEY FOR CAMPAIGN

Suffragettes Have Self-Denial Week—Many Curious Expedients—Demonstrations Every Day—Ministers Live In Terror—Lady Recruiting Sergeant — Miss Pankhurst Says Will Not Be Subdued.

London, Feb. 17.—Whatever the result to their cause may be the suffragettes have captured the attention of the entire country. No day passes without a demonstration of some sort, usually having its sequel in the police courts. Sixty-three suffragettes have gone to jail this week for 40 days each.

All the Cabinet Ministers live in terror. Asquith, who is the special bete noir of the women, never ventures upon the street unless accompanied by two detectives. His colleagues seek to avoid recognition in public places, like undetected thieves.

The last batch of arrests was really rather outrageous. A band of 13 suffragettes started from Caxton Hall to take a petition to Westminster. They did not go in procession, but attempted to walk the sidewalks like ordinary pedestrians. A crowd who had been expecting some such movement followed and the police gobbled up the women before they had gone a hundred yards, and they were by no means gentle about it. These women had committed no offence, but the magistrate before whom they were taken ordered them to furnish recognizances to keep the peace or go to jail for six weeks. They all went to prison.

The suffragettes especially resent the insinuation that they are lacking in a sense of humor. This is a libel on some of the leaders. Chrystabel Parkhurst, who is the greatest individual inspiration in the crusade, says frankly: "Of course we are ridiculous. But what can we do? The movement would be ignored for another half century unless we compelled attention somehow. We must be either criminal or silly. Men under like circumstances would be criminal. We prefer to be silly."

The suffragettes have decreed a self-denial week, beginning yesterday, to raise funds for the campaign. They have adopted many curious expedients. One woman makes "Vote for Women" marmalade. Another takes a barrel organ about the streets. Others collect subscriptions at the railway stations. Others make five-minute speeches between the acts at the theatres and music halls and pass around collection boxes. Hundreds will bombard friends with subscription cards. Boarding-housekeepers will fine men boarders who mention the suffragettes at table. Dozens of girls will walk to work and send their omnibus fares to the fund. Well-to-do women are expected to contribute a week's income and abjure luxuries for the benefit of the crusade.

The woman question has broken out in one place where it was least expected. The Government is officially utilizing the services of a woman recruiting sergeant for the British army.

Smooth Progress a Surrender.

London, Feb. 17.—(C.A.P.)—The Standard refers lengthily to the announcement of progress of the United States-British arbitration treaty, which it says will be received with uncomfortable misgiving in Canada and Britain.

"From past experiences in dealings with Washington it is natural to infer that smooth progress means surrender," says The Standard. It points out that if we make a bad bargain for the colonies the precedent set Ottawa in the recent treaty with France may not receive a welcome. It sincerely hopes that Bryce, with whom Root played as a cat with a mouse on the Newfoundland question, will not be permitted by Sir Edward Grey to undo by superfluous concessions to the United States the good impression produced in the Dominion by the satisfactory solution to the Japanese immigration problem.

Lions For the Pope.

Naples, Feb. 17.—Two missionary priests have arrived here from Abyssinia, having under their charge two splendid lions, in a huge cage, the gift of King Menelik to the Pope.

They will be delivered to the pontiff together with a message from the King, expressing his desire to insure the security of Catholic missionaries throughout Ethopia.

A Governor-General Removed.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 17.—Nicholas Ngerhard, the Governor-General of Finland, has been removed, and M. Von Boeckman, the Governor-General of Courland and commander of the twenty-second division has been appointed to that office. It is understood that M. Von Boeckman's duties will be chiefly military.

Bishops Removed.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 17.—Bishops Seraphim or Orel, and Hermogen of Saratov have been removed from the Holy Synod and ordered to return to their diocese because of their connection with a reactionary intrigue against Antonius, the metropolitan of St. Petersburg.

Rev. Thomas Spurgeon Resigns.

London, Feb. 17.—Rev. Thomas Spurgeon, pastor of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, has made definite his resignation of the pastorate, which was postponed from March last year. His health is still poor.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional indorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

beard were far enough apart. But it had not been so during every minute of his absence. And a pretty fiasco awaited him in the ballroom.

Led up to Erichsen, the overseer shook his head.

"No," said he. "The bushranger was inches taller. I can't swear to him after all."

"Not swear to him?" roared Mr. Nat. "Why, you took your oath he was the man!"

"Not swear to him?" said Daintree, stepping forward. "Happily, my good fellow"—

But Tom's eye was on him, and the police were in the room.

"Try the girl," said one constable.

"Ginger is right," said Peggy promptly. "It's a taller man he was entirely."

"But you're looking at his feet!"

Peggy raised her eyes, and calmly and coldly they met Tom's for the last time.

"No," said she. "This is not the man at all."

"The —— liars!" Nat Sullivan screamed. "They've made up their minds to lie, and you two fools stand there and listen!" He stormed and wept, grew violently abusive and was put out by the constables before they left themselves. In the scuffle and confusion Ginger found an opportunity both to grip Tom's hand and to whisper that one good turn deserved another. But Peggy O'Brien turned her back without word or look. Warm heart and nimble brain had done Tom Erichsen their last service, had undone their first and only injury, and this was the end between these two.

• • • • • • •

When the three men had the great room once more to themselves Tom turned quietly to Daintree, who was now perfectly livid with rage and chagrin, and inquired whether he still denied his own crime.

"Deny it!" cried Daintree. "It is too preposterous to be worth denying. Show me what you have stolen. Let us see this precious proof!"

"I have a live witness, too, if you force me to call him in."

Tom went to a window and had thrown up a sash before the other two joined him. Outside was the curricle and Wyeth seated at Fawcett's side.

"Stop! Stop! Don't call to him!" whispered Daintree in a choking voice. "I—killed him."

"Good God!" cried Nicholas Harding.

Tom shut down the sash.

"Yes, I killed him," cried Daintree, recovering his spirits, "and I'd do it again this minute. Why? You shall hear—and then Claire shall hear—for I mean to see her. It will take all Sydney to keep us apart. That night she refused me. God alone knows why. She loves me now and will stick to me in spite of you all, but she refused me then. I stayed for an hour where she left me. Then I got out by the back way and wandered through the fields—just as I was—thinking of her. At last—I hardly knew where I was or what I was doing—I heard voices. His was one. Yours was the other, Erichsen—I didn't know it then—and you were just leaving. I heard him say he was thinking of being married. I joined him when you had gone and asked who the happy lady might be. What do you think he said? What do you think? What do you think?"

"Claire?" said Nicholas Harding.

"Yes, Claire!" screamed Daintree. "That incarnate devil—and my angel! He said he loved her—that smooth hound—and she had hinted she did care for somebody. God knows what more he said! You would consent. He had you in his power. Either he said that or I saw it. At any rate he taunted me—maddened me—and when I looked about for something to strike him with there was the very thing at my feet. I killed him. I meant to kill him. I have never for one moment regretted killing him. What do you suppose was the first thing I found in his pocket? No, Harding, I'm not thinking of you, my honest friend. It was a letter that showed the kind of cur he had been. I let Claire see it. I thought of a way. I showed her that dead devil in his true colors. I cured her of her folly, and I thanked God I'd put him out of her way and mine. Regret it? Repent it? Never for an instant! Never to this hour!"

"You let an innocent man suffer for your crime!" said Nicholas Harding, with a shiver.

"Did I? And do you suppose I would have let him hang? I was under the impression that I saved his neck. I would have saved it with my own had that been necessary. Only yesterday I risked my life to save his. Who took him away from the iron gang? I had to commit a forgery and risk my liberty to do it. Who would have treated him like a brother from that day? It was his own doing, mark you, that made him a menial! And he would hang me, would he, for ridding the earth of the crying rascal who picked his own pocket like a common thief!

He shakes his head, but I know him better. And that's his gratitude—after all I've done! Something like yours, you, Harding! I save your daughter from a poisonous scoundrel, so I am not to marry her for my pains. A just pair—convict bushranger and fraudulent M. P.! A precious pair to join forces against an honest man! Do your worst. I shall marry her against you both. I shall, I shall, I shall!"

Tom knew this voice. He wondered he had not heard the madness in it from the first.

"Never!" cried Harding. "I would rather see her in her coffin."

"She loves me as I love her."

"She does not love you at all."

At these words a feeling of pity crept over Tom. They rang so true, and they told so palpably upon that distorted heart which could bear up better against a charge of murder.

"Does she not?" cried Daintree. "We shall see!" And he darted from them with an altered face, was first out of the room, first up the stairs and first into the ladies' sitting room, but Tom's foot was in the door before he could bang it behind him, and Tom and Mr. Harding burst their way in together.

On the threshold they stopped with one accord. Daintree had not turned to confront them. He had flung himself at the feet of Claire, who was seated on a sofa by her aunt's side.

"They say you do not love me," whispered Daintree in a voice that broke with very tenderness and yet retained a confident ring. "I love you better than my own life and all the world. Tell them nothing can part us, nothing they can say, nothing I have done. Tell them you love me as I love you. Tell them you would marry me if I had to go to prison tomorrow."

The brown curls moved slowly from side to side.

"What! There is truth, then, in what they say?"

"Forgive me! Forgive me!" were Claire's only words.

"So it is true!"

His tone would have been a marvel of restraint in any man. In this one it was a miracle. Still on his knees he besought her as a last favor to tell him whom she did love. Her eye flew to Tom's. The cunning of the criminal lunatic shone through the tears in his. "So it is Erichsen, not Blaydes," he said, getting up and standing harmlessly in their midst. Next instant he had whipped out his pistol and fired it point blank at Tom's heart. The report was appalling. A white cloud filled the room. As it thinned away there was Tom still standing, with the one calm face present. The charge had contained no ball. Next instant the pistol itself was hurled at his head, and Daintree was upon Tom with tooth and nail—cursing, raving, moaning—fighting Tom and Nicholas Harding both—fighting the constables and waiters, who poured in like water, and still wailing, raving, cursing, as he fought.

It was a horrible sound, human no longer, though the fist of the sportsman still flew hard and true from the shoulder, though the tears of the lover were still wet upon the madman's face. It was nevertheless but the husk of a man that was at last overpowered and carried to a distant bedroom. That complex heart still squirted liquid fire through every vein, but the brain was not. Inherent mania had claimed its own.

CHAPTER XXXV.

THE Sydney papers of the year 1838 contain no reference to the extraordinary scenes enacted at the Pulteney hotel on the first Saturday of the month of October. They do not report the removal of a magistrate of the colony to its best and most private madhouse, some from a sense of journalistic charity, others for reasons which the late Nicholas Harding's bankers might even now disclose. The curious, however, may still look up the advertisement which Lady Starkie read aloud from the Herald within an hour of the events described. It blew a trumpet for "the fine fast sailing ship Florentia, for London direct," and the call found a grateful echo in two young hearts, now so light and now so heavy that it was an act of mercy to stir them in this way. The Florentia was described as even then loading at the quay. It seemed as though they might all sail from that beautiful and accursed land within a week. As a matter of history, however, the Florentia did not complete her cargo until the new year. No other homeward bound ship was ready before her, and much happened on shore meanwhile.

Tom Erichsen, having voluntarily confessed the part he had borne in the Castle Sullivan outrage, fell ill as a man can be just as the road to joy and freedom lay smooth and clear before him. He was in a raging delirium when the free pardon arrived from Governor Gipps, together with an order for the convict's absolute release. It seemed he was about to be released indeed. Long weeks he lingered, battling indomitably, and what hand coaxed him back to light and life and whose prayers availed but the loving hand and the passionate prayers of the girl who only lived now to make him forget the past? Meanwhile her father was not idle. Nicholas Harding was useless in a sickroom, and his money could not save Tom's life. But there were other things that it could do, combined with the natural energy and the practical ability which were also his. Turn again to those old Sydney papers. They will not tell you who instigated the inquiry, found the witnesses, paid their expenses and indeed threw his money right and left in the good cause. But they do recount the ruin of the most glaring and atrocious slave drivers the colony contained. They do report the several litigations by which that most desirable end was achieved, nor to their eternal credit does a single sheet take the side of the Sullivans of Castle Sullivan. The name still lingers in colonial annals. It is still strong in all humane and honest nostrils, but of Dr. Sullivan and his ruffianly son all traces have been lost.

Not the least telling witness against them was one who certainly could not be accused of extravagant sympathy with the felonry. Major Honeybone enjoyed himself enormously in Sydney, both at the courthouse and elsewhere. He and Nicholas Harding became perfect cronies during the weary days of Tom's convalescence.

"Gadzooks, sir, he gave me more trouble than any three men in the gang," the major would say, "but I knew him for a gentleman at bottom. I'd like to shake his hand and tell him I'm sorry for this and that."

But Major Honeybone was not permitted to see the invalid, and indeed he quitted Sydney rather precipitately in the end. The plucky veteran had asked a question of Lady Starkie, as her ladyship long afterward confided to Claire, with an obviously pleasurable indignation, on the Florentia's poop.

Nor was it until the long and soothing homeward voyage was half over that the convalescent was vouchsafed an answer to certain questions which he had tired of asking in his illness. What had brought Nicholas Harding to New South Wales? He must have sailed but a few days after Claire. What had he found out in those few days, since the discovery of Daintree's crime still came as a surprise to him?

"You never saw the woman who took Claire's jewelry?" said Nicholas Harding. "It is to her we owe it that my girl is not a madman's wife. The woman was naturally a spy. She had spied upon her mistress, but on Daintree also, and to Claire she had cause to be grateful, as Claire will tell you if you ask her. The very night after she sailed in the Rosamund this woman came to my house. She had fallen very low. Death seemed to me to have set its seal upon her, but she had information which she would only sell, until I told her where Claire had gone and whom she was to marry. Then and there it all came out. I must say there was no huckstering then. The wretched woman seemed genuinely distressed. She told me"—Harding wiped his mouth, and his voice trembled—"she told me my daughter was gone to be a murderer's wife."

"Yet you did not know of it?"

"I did not know about Blaydes. That made the second."

"His second murder?" gasped Tom.

"Or manslaughter—call it what you will. The first was the worst. It was fratricide. There were two brothers. James was the younger. Out shooting one day when they were both mere lads, he shot a dog dead in his passion. The brother abused him. In an instant he also was shot through the heart. It was brought in an accident, but the family knew what it was. They drummed him out. They refused to see his face again. He was as much transported as any felon in New South Wales, with as good a cause. We never knew why his family would have nothing to do with him. Why, for instance, the very flowers he laid upon his mother's grave were summarily returned to him. It seemed inhuman, but I think it was very human now. God help me, I thought

REMAIN ON THE FARM.

A writer in "The World's Work," declares that it will require 100 years, and perahps more, as we are now going, for all of the forces now at work to make farm life attractive to reach all of the people, or stop the untrained rush to the town. The writer declares that the untrained rush to the town is largely due to archaic methods of agriculture. The farmers, he says, "know, as a whole, but little of improved methods of agriculture. They reap and sow as their fathers did." This is not an altogether accurate picture of farm life to-day. In some of the older states, in the east and south, old-fashioned methods of farming may obtain to some extent, but while one unprogressive farmer may reap and sow as his father did before him there are a dozen farmers who are actively engaged in farming according to modern scientific methods. This is the day of diversification, when scientific knowledge of agriculture is demanded of the man who would make his land yield a profit, and in the more progressive agricultural sections the farmers make use of the latest machinery, adopt the most advanced methods, and study diligently the literature of farm life in the form of scientific treatises, agricultural periodicals and the Government bulletins. Improved roads, the extension of inter-urban trolley lines and the elimination of the factor of isolation have aided in putting the farmer in touch with life, to provide a better market for his goods, and to advance the value of his products and property. The rush of the young men to the city is due to the allurements of city life, and to the fact that man, like all animals, is gregarious. The man in town, of course, cannot understand the desire on the part of the rural youth to desert the farm. Weary of the routine of business or professional life, tired of desk or counter, and oppressed by a thousand and one cares, he would welcome the freedom and fresh air that are a part of existence on the patrimonial acres. The simple life is attractive to the man who is cooped up in an office six days in a week, while the desk and the swivel chair are alluring to the man who follows the plow and sows and reaps. In a word men imagine they would be happier doing something radically different from what they are doing.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The increase in British trade last year was £95,514,595. That sort of thing rather staggers the mournful prophets of Chamberlainism.

The Spectator has been constrained to admit that there is no stress of examinations in the Public Schools or Collegiate Institutes—that with the one exception of the High School entrance examination, no pupil requires to take any examination from the time he enters the kindergarten till he is graduated from the highest form of the Collegiate Institute, the course the pupil may take is almost entirely one of his own selection. If a pupil wishes to qualify for a school teacher, however, examinations are required. Strange to say, the Spectator argues that "by eliminating the distress (?) of examinations," the tendency to crowd into the professions may be checked. That is perhaps as good an excuse for the theatrical changes recently made, as it could be expected to produce, but is it reasonable?

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

At the Cambridge-st. Methodist church yesterday morning the Rev. Dr. Chown, of Toronto, took for the subject of his remarks, part of the 11th verse and 21st chap. of Isaiah, "Watchman, what of the night?" As a watchman he wished to report the progress of the temperance and moral reform movement. It is now causing a great commotion in almost all countries, whose inhabitants were now waking up to the great havoc being wrought by the drink traffic. While in France last summer he had noticed large posters issued by the government, on the bill boards, warning the people against intemperance. In England the churches and societies are making more strenuous efforts than ever before to stem the evil effects of intemperance. One gentleman had offered to contribute one million, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars towards a temperance campaign, provided those interested contribute a similar amount. His offer would be accepted, and no doubt a great change would be witnessed in old England.

The christian people of the United States were also waking up, and liquor was being banished from the land almost as fast as it was possible to get rid of it; almost one-half the population lived under prohibitory laws. Newfoundland was almost entirely under a prohibitory law, Nova Scotia also, Prince Edward Island had had it practically for several years, and no political power, newspaper, or candidate for public office, dare ally themselves to the liquor party. In Prince Edward Island the cost of administering justice was so much less that the government was considering the closing of all the gaols excepting one, on the island. It was not infrequent to see the flag at the court houses raised to indicate that there were no cases for the court to sit on at the assizes. Canada was making good progress. Local Option was being carried almost wherever submitted, notwithstanding the unfair three-fifths clause, and wherever the Local Option by-law was voted it was sustained by an increased majority, there being only a couple of exceptions, and the majorities against were very small. License reduction in Toronto was going to be carried out without any interference from the government. In Manitoba — well, only yesterday we heard that that province had abandoned the three-fifths clause, and had made a majority vote the basis of local option. The highest court in the land had decided that the liquor traffic was a common nuisance.

The question of compensation was also touched on by Dr. Chown, who said that there was a more reasonable claim of compensation from the liquor seller for the ruined homes, lives and characters destroyed. The licenses were only issued from year to year, and the liquor sellers were satisfied to take them under those terms. When the dry goods merchant paid 50 per cent. on an article this year, and next year it was reduced to 10 per cent., and he had been caught with a large stock, did he ask for compensation? His appeal would be just as reasonable as the liquor seller's. The temperance cause is making great strides and could not be recognized as that of five years ago. Its success was in the hands of the christian people of this country. They are not asleep, but under God, and well planned leadership would sweep the traffic from the land.

EVENING SERVICE.

In the evening Rev. Dr. Chown preached a special sermon to young men. He took as his text the verse from the epistle of Paul to the Galatians, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ."

Dr. Chown said that at the present day there is a deep hunger in every human heart for a more practical definition of christianity. However, coming down to the basic principles of Christ's teachings no man can see the christianity of Christ and reject it. Everything worth while, and admittedly good by all, is represented or brought forth in His works, and so no man has ever been able to improve on the ethical teachings of Christ. As the text admonishes, if converted to Christ, you will bear the sins of those about you and try to help them from its clutches. To save your brother you must go down to him and clasp him to the rock of safety. You can't nowadays throw out the life line from a safe spot on a high rock and save men. Not only must you bear the sins of those about you, but the sufferings as well. It is a grand thing to have to work. There is a blessing in God's curse in the Garden of Eden. But pity the man who has to work day in and day out, year after year, without prospects and for a mere pittance.

"I have no theory," said Dr. Chown, "for bringing the extremes of society together. It cannot be done except by the grace of God." There is a great deal of invited poverty in the world. For instance, in Chicago a labor demonstration was being held. On the banners of the processions was the legend, "We must have bread for our children." After marching about the streets the whole parade went to a beer garden and there consumed 1400 kegs of beer. Despite the sin, however, there is a great deal of good in the world, more than we believe. We have unsuspected examples all around us.

If we are concerted, one of the burdens we must take upon us is the burden of government. If it had not been for Jesus and his followers and the principles he represents, we would never have had the ballot and the liberty it represents. Voting should be one of the most sacred rights performed by man. When you go to vote, remember when you mark your ballot that the ballot is to enable you to represent yourself, not the party your father usually voted for. It is for you own personal freedom. Seek always to vote for the man who stands for the highest things in life, not for the one dominated by party influence. A man dominated entirely by party cannot be a patriot or stand for the freedom of his country. Vote for the principle, not the party.

There is not enough masculine christianity to-day. If we have not enough religion to stir up the hatred of bad men, we haven't enough to carry around. Too many men are in the church to-day for the good name they will get, not for the good they may do, to work their passage to heaven.

Don't be one of these. If you receive good, work for it.

What's the Use.

If your walks in ways of gladness
 You arrange,
Then your life will be worth living,
 For a change,
Get a laugh that shakes the rafters—
 Turn it loose,
Fretting never gets you nowhere,—
 What's the use?

The Ladies of the Lake.

The shade trees look lonely, leafless as they are, unprotected and helpless in the snow. Even the rare rose bushes bundled up in their overcoats of rye straw and excelsior claim our pity. One can almost fancy he hears a muffled voice proceeding from the snowdrift and the straw; "Is there any sign of spring?"

How wait the willows that used to sing; how drone the dogwoods that used to make merry. A walk in the woods is not always exhilarating. There is a smear of blood on the snow where a poor little timid rabbit died in the dark—a midnight tragedy. And here all over this brush pile are scattered little pathetic feathers—the little fluffy feathers of a chickadee. Ah! that dark bunch in the branches of the dead tamarac that we both mistook for an old crow's nest is—a brown owl.

That's what it is! Oh, you big ruffian! You hawk-nosed reprobate! You big, silent assassin of the cedar swamps! Would nothing serve your turn but a chickadee? A poor little chickadee! It wasn't a mouthful for you, and you tore the life out of the sweet, gentle bird that made life worth living in this dark forest. I will miss that Chickadee, you big loafer! When the sound of my axe echoes through the cloisters of the woods she will come no more, waiting for me to knock an old stump to pieces, to beat open a rotten log, revealing such dinners as the King Edward or the Queen's never gave. Great, white, juicy grubs, sweeter than any oyster; great, big, red ants, finer than lobster; hidden snails, more toothsome than veal; a bunch of spiders' eggs, more appetizing and far more wholesome than goose livers; the larvae of a borer finer than a weinerwurst. And she is dead; Many's the time I've dug out a particularly luscious and comforting bug or worm with a twig and laid it on a clean chip, and sat it on the top of a stump, and she watched the whole proceeding from the depths of a cedar, and when I backed away she came fluttering down like a lady to the feast. I was her knight—her squire. I was her lover, seeking to please my lady's appetite—to make her happy and joyous.

COMMUNICATIONS

NOT SEEKING CHARITY.

Sir,—Seeing an article in The Evening Post the other night regarding children begging clothes, I have been informed that a family has been importuned by children asking for some left-off clothing, and stating that I had sent them. As I am not seeking charity, and have all the old clothes I want, I hope you will spare me space to deny this, as we are not running a second-hand clothes store.—Yours, etc.,

TEMPERANCE AND HOTEL LICENSES

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly permit me a little space in your paper, just now, when our citizens (to some extent) have lapsed into their usual receptive mood apparently. The feeling has almost subsided that was created by the large temperance delegation interviewing the Town Council lately. With excellency of speech and persuasive language they requested the Council to use its prerogative by introducing, and trying to pass a by-law to reduce the present liquor licensed houses by two.

With your indulgence, I will venture to offer, respecting this request, a few suggestions (void, I trust, of prejudice) from my point of view. The method adopted seemed premature (not wishing to use the harsher word arbitrary) in demanding summary judgment without directly accusing anyone of an offence, or breach of law to justify such a demand. It is not within the pale of British justice or fair play, to pass a sentence and demand its execution before presenting an indictment). It would have been more acceptable to public sentiment if they had used a little ingenuity used in finding other possible means of gaining the same result.

Of late the legislature has made very stringent enactments for the protection of the public against abuses of any kind by hotelkeepers, thus making it within the bounds of a possibility to achieve the purpose contemplated—as per example, a deputation acting in league with the license inspector, commissioners and aldermen, and in a courteous business manner, endeavoring to secure a pledge from those officials to this effect; That where any hotel is found not possessing the requirements of the License Act, or under conviction for any infraction of the Act, the penalty prescribed should be the cancelling of the house license, and in this way succeed in accomplishing the object sought, in accordance with law and order.

Some may think this subject a dead issue that ought to be relegated to the past, but on the contrary, it is very much alive at the present time in large centers. For instance, the federating of the temperance forces in Toronto just now, and the formulating of progressive plans on a somewhat democratic basis, will prove a powerful incentive that will make itself felt throughout the community. In particular would this progress be aided by adopting the Golden Rule for their guidance, with a consistent adherence to it.—Yours, etc.,

W. M. ROBSON.

'TWAS LOST

But is Found Again

If you have lost anything, a small "Lost Advt." in The Post will find it for you again.

DON'T WORRY DEAR!

Don't worry, dear. The bleakest years
 That clog the forward view
Each thins to nothing when it nears,
 And we may saunter through.
The darkest moment never comes,
 It only looms before,
The loss of hope is what benumbs,
 Not trouble at the door.

Don't worry, dear. The clouds are black
 But with them comes the rain.
And stifled souls that parch and crack
 May thrill with sap again.
The burden bear as best we can,
 And there'll be none to bear,
Hard work has never killed a man,
 But worry did its share.

Don't worry, dear; don't blanch, don't yield,
 But dare the years to come,
Nor give the enemy the field
 Because he beats the drum.
These little woes that hover near
 Are nothing, though they gall.
We know that life is love, my dear,
 And life and love are all.
—Samuel Merwin in Youth's Companion.

Our Mothers.

In the hurry and bustle of this busy life those dear old mothers, our best friends and champions, who gave us the very best years of their lives, who stood between us and all harm, who would willingly have laid down their lives for us, who, in times of sickness, were always our ministering angels—constantly at our bedside, responding willingly to every beck and call, attending with more than loving kindness to our every want and need—are too often forgotten and seldom accorded the loving attention which is their due, and when the grim reaper takes them from us we, for the first time, realize in anguish, sorrow and regret what the loss of a mother really means. It means more than all the other things of earth. All the riches of the universe could not compensate, and in all the whole wide world there is no other who could fill her place. Of all the beauty with which the world is embellished the most beautiful is the mother, and to her every human being truly owes a word of homage.—Papillion Times.

Guessing Competition Decided.

Mr. L. A. Murphy's Car-a-cas guessing contest, which ended on Saturday evening, turned out quite a success. The person who guessed the nearest number to the amount of Car-a-cas tablets displayed in a gem jar in Mr. Murphy's window, was to receive $10. The lucky person was Mr. Peters, of St. Catharines, who guessed 2,540. There were 2543 tablets in the jar. Second came Mrs. J. Robinson, town, with 2550; third, J. McFee, 2560; and fourth, Mrs. Mulhern, with 2565. Mr. W. F. McCarty, the jeweller, counted the contents of the gems and looked over the slips.

Hockey Excursion to Midland.

Quite a number of our sport-loving citizens have been talking of going to Midland with the hockey boys on Wednesday afternoon, but as yet sufficient volunteers have not come forward to justify the management in ordering a special train. It requires 85 tickets at $2.05 return to cover the cost, but the officers will accept 65 and pay the balance out of their depleted treasury. It will be a great game sure, and citizens having the necessary time and money to spare should go along to cheer our boys to victory. Hand in your names to Dickie Butler or Pat White before noon to-morrow.

To Star in New Play Next Year

Says She Likes Canada and Canadians, And May Come Here Again.

Miss Grace Merritt, who appeared here on Saturday night as Mary Tudor in "When Knighthood Was in Flower", will likely appear in New York in the spring in an entirely new play written especially for her by Cyrus Townsend Brady and Harry Leighton.

Our citizens would like to see her in her new role. Miss Merritt, who is an American, says she is delighted with Canada and its climate, and would always welcome a Canadian tour. She, and the members of her company, also expressed themselves as highly pleased with Lindsay in particular and the treatment they have received on all sides during their stay over Sunday in town. Her press representative, Mr. Sagerson, gave out that several London managers are negotiating for her appearance in London in repertoire including "Divorcons," "Frou Frou," and other plays of like calibre.

The company left this morning for Peterboro, where they are billed for this evening.

The Slaughter of Deer and Moose

The Killers for Lumber and Construction Camps Have Been Busy.

Large as the number of deer and moose killed last year by sportsmen, the number slaughtered was far short of the natural increase. There would be no chance of the extermination of either deer or moose in Ontario if the killing of them was confined by sportsmen to the legitimate season. The great danger arises from the indiscriminate slaughter of these animals out of season.

Commenting on this, the Canadian Sportsman recently said; "We have repeatedly through these columns directed the attention of the Game Warden to sections of the country where professional shooters were employed at so much per month to provide deer meat or moose meat to lumber camps. We outlined for him a section where tons of such meat had been sold by the Indians as cheap as 3c. per lb. No official notice was taken of the information, and their immunity from arrest caused the poachers to become bolder and bolder. A few efficient officers sent out in the close season would find ample opportunity to distinguish themselves and do at the same time an incalculable amount of good. The wolves also are a cause of trouble in many of the northern sections, and liberal though the bonus be, $15 per head, it does not seem to be sufficient to secure any number of them being killed. Laws on the statute book that are not enforced have a tendency to bring all law into contempt, and certainly there are a large number of people throughout northern Ontario that treat with the utmost contempt all mandates of the game department of the local Government."

C. O. O. F. Social Evening.

The Canadian Order of Oddfellows will have a social evening for themselves and their friends in the lodge rooms over Tangney's store on Thursday evening, 20th Feb. Humor

A SHOW CARD SIGN.

How It Aroused the Curiosity of a Windy City Man.

A tall, slim, loose jointed man was strolling carelessly along the street. He stopped, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, in front of a shop with a swell front, which had this sign painted on its plate glass window:

"Ready to Wear Garments Inside."

He stepped in and accosted the person who seemed to be in authority—a middle aged man, with a smooth face and an affable, self acting smile.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but that sign on your window interests me."

"Yes?" encouragingly responded the other.

"Yes. It arouses my curiosity."

"Yes? You are wishing perhaps to look at some"—

"It occurred to me, as I was looking at it and studying it, that possibly it might be a question"—

"Oh, no"—

"Oh, yes. Only it hasn't any interrogation point. Then the idea suggested itself that it must be an assertion, conveying the assurance that the person who painted the sign is ready to wear gar"—

"That sign, sir," interrupted the middle aged man, his smile narrowing perceptibly, "is so plain that anybody with a grain of common sense"—

"Then the fault must be with me, of course. That idea also occurred to me. I ought to understand it. Viewing it in my blundering way, however, as a question—am I ready to wear garments?—I unhesitatingly answer yes. I have been ready to wear garments for fifty-three years. But to wear them inside—no! If it's going to be the fashion to wear garments inside"—

"Say, look here"—

"You can count me out every time. On the other hand, considering it merely as the statement of a fact that you or the proprietors of this establishment are ready to wear garments inside"—

"You'll oblige me, Mr."—

"Gwilliams. My name is Gwilliams. I say if you are ready to wear garments inside, wear them. What does the public care how or where you wear your garments? What is the use of your sticking out a sign like that, in all the pomp and blazonry of gold leaf"—

"Will you stop just a minute?"

"I will."

"I'll try to bring that sign down to the level of your intelligence. You have heard of garments that are ready made, haven't you?"

"Now that you mention them, I think I have."

"Well, garments that are ready made are garments that are ready to wear—ready to wear garments—and we keep them here—inside. See?"

The tall, slender, "gangling" caller scratched his jaw reflectively.

"I think I do," he said, a genial smile wrinkling his lean features, "and I am greatly obliged to you. My only object in coming in was to get you to diagram that sign." Here he lowered his voice and became confidential. "And now, my friend," he added, "by way of conclusion, may I suggest that there is one important duty you owe to this community?"

"What is it, sir?"

"Get an intelligent schoolboy to edit that sign—have him put in some hyphens—so it will mean something. I believe that's all. Good afternoon!"

Too Much Cornstarch.

Little Johnnie doesn't like to be kissed, but sometimes he is compelled by some gushing friends of his mother's to submit to the ordeal. The last time they called he went through the operation as gracefully as possible. But after their departure he remarked, vigorously rubbing the powder from his face:

"Mamma, I don't like to have them kiss me. It tastes just like kissing a marshmallow."—Judge.

Interesting Event at Dunsford
Pastor Presented With Fur Coat

Presbyterian Congregation Surprise Rev. G. Wilson---Five Years' Patient and Zealous Labor Remembered by Congregation.

Business has been rather brisk in Dunsford since the fine weather has set in once more. From Wednesday, Feb. 5th till Monday, Feb. 10, there were no trains moving, and very little business was done.

Several Dunsford citizens who were snowbound in Lindsay walked home last Saturday.

Mr. W. Houston, of Cavanville, has returned to his home, after spending a week with friends in Dunsford.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Marshall, of Lindsay, who have been visiting friends around Dunsford, returned to Lindsay last Tuesday.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. Wm. Thurston last Monday evening, when about thirty young people gathered there. The evening was spent in games and music.

Last Thursday evening, Feb. 6th, a number of the members and adherents of the Presbyterian church, Dunsford, met at the home of Mr. Jas. Graham. The object of their gathering was to show to their pastor, by means of a gift, their appreciation of his good work. Mr. F. W. Woollard read the following address;

To the Rev. W. G. Wilson,—We, your congregation at Dunsford, have taken this opportunity of expressing in a tangible way our appreciation of your labors among us.

It is over five years since you commenced your duties as pastor amongst us, and during that time you have not only been to us all we could desire as a spiritual adviser, but we have learned in that time to regard you as a true and valued friend, ever kind and sympathetic in times of sickness and bereavement, and always a wise and prudent councillor when giving advice, both in things for our spiritual welfare and for our everyday walk in life, and we have learned from your preaching each Sabbath many things that have been of great value to us during the week. Many sentiments that have helped us over the rough places, and many truths, which have made life more worth living.

From your preaching we have learned much of the character of the man in this; that without fear or favor you are here to preach the truth as it is in God's Word. Since you entered on your work amongst us the congregation has greatly increased in numbers and improved in regularity of attendance, which is a proof of how highly you are esteemed among us both as a minister and as a man.

On behalf of the congregation we present to you, as a small token of that high esteem in which you are held, this fur-lined coat, asking that you will accept it in the sincerely, well-wishing spirit in which it is given, and may you be long spared to wear it in your going out and coming in amongst us.

Whether you stay and minister to us, or be called to some other part of the vineyard, where you can do more and better work for the Master, may you, Mrs. Smith and your family always remember that you retain the best wishes of this community, and that this small corner of the vineyard holds you, one of the great Master's workmen, in the very highest esteem.—Signed on behalf of the congregation,

JAS. GRAHAM,
W. F. WOOLLARD
WM. HUMPHREY.

Mr. Smith responded in a few fitting words, and a number of Scotch selections were sung.

A Good Play Well Presented

Mr. Ernest Shipman Sends Lindsay Theatre-Goers an Acceptable Treat.

"When Knighthood was in Flower," presented at the Academy of Music Saturday evening with Miss Grace Merritt starring, was certainly one of the best things that have been here for a long time. Miss Merritt seems to have been born for the part, and not for one instant during the entire play does she overdo the emotions and actions called for. She seems to have herself so well in hand, and understands her part so well, that she neither exaggerates nor belittles her part in the scene. She held her audience spellbound throughout, and played with their emotions as she wished.

Joseph Selman, as Charles Brandon, was, next to Miss Merritt, the favorite of the audience, while Mr. F. W. Smith, as Henry VIII, was a close second. Both parts were well taken. The other parts were also very well done, and the large audience was immensely pleased with the whole play. The principals had all to respond to repeated curtain calls throught the play.

Miss Merritt may rest assured of a good house when next she visits Lindsay.

The management wish to thank the merchants for allowing so many of their clerks to go early, that they might take in this attraction.

Complimentary.

Mr. Frides—If your wife had a voice like my wife, what would you do?

Mr. Grumpy—Have her tonsils cut.

—I wish that I might talk with all the sick ones about the actual cause of stomach, heart and kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak stomach nerves leads to stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak hearts or weak kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the stomach, heart and kidneys. It is wrong to drug the stomach or stimulate the heart or kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made expressly for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. For sale by all dealers.

The Forest Areas Of The Dominion

Estimate Considered Reduced---Three Hundred Million Acres Latest Total.

Three hundred million (300,000,000) acres is the largest estimate of the forest area of Canada. This was given recently by Dr. B. E. Fernow, Dean of the Faculty of Forestry in the University of Toronto. Dr. Fernow was for years head of the forestry work of the United States, and is regarded as one of the best authorities on forestry and timber on this continent. Dr. Fernow said: "If we look at this vast forest area from the manufacturer's point of view, from the standpoint of supplies for the arts and industries of its commercial value, and study merely the geography and nature of the country in the light of the reports on the more or less outlying parts of the same, we will come to the conclusion that three hundred million acres, and perhaps less, will cover fully the commercially valuable timberland area, actual and potential, or not much more than one-half of the commercial forest area of the United States."

At one time eight hundred million acres was the generally accepted estimate of the timber land of Canada. Mr. R. H. Campbell, Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion Government, was not quite so pessimistic in a recent estimate. Speaking at a forestry convention held in Yarmouth, N.S., he calculated the forest area of the Dominion at about 535,000,000 acres, divided as follows:

	Acres.
British Columbia	...182 million
Manitoba, Saskatchewan & Alta., and unorganized territories	...180 millions
Ontario	... 40 million
Quebec	......120 million
New Brunswick	...7 1-2 million
Nova Scotia	...... 5 million

Look at it as we may, one thing seems clear, and is that, on further knowledge, Canada's "inexhaustible" forests and forest areas are shrinking, and that this country does not possess the wealth that it was once thought that she did. The moral is plain; it must be Canada's duty to look carefully after what she has and carefully preserve it, and also make provisions that these areas shall be so handled that a future supply of timber from the same areas can be obtained. And this means the introduction of forestry management of these timberlands.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Family Nearly Wiped Out.

Hamilton, Feb. 17.—Another case of asphyxiation that nearly cost the lives of the three young children of S. Schreiber, 15 York street, was discovered yesterday.

Early in the morning Mr. Schreiber got up and lighted a gas stove in the room where his three children were sleeping. He then returned to his own room for a Sunday nap.

A short time after one of the children tottered into his parent's room complaining that he was very ill. Investigation revealed the fact that the other two children were lying unconscious in their room. An alarm was given, and by the prompt response of Constable Yanxley and others aid was obtained and the children were all brought around. The stove that caused the trouble did not have any chimney.

Burglars at New Hamburg.

New Hamburg, Feb. 17.—Burglars entered three places here the other night, but they did not succeed in finding much of value to them, as only small losses are reported.

At the postoffice letters were found opened and strewn about, but the safe was untouched and only about $1 worth of postage stamps taken. They then entered the office of the New Hamburg Manufacturing Co., and a couple of dollars' worth of postage stamps were stolen. The Canadian Express office, at the Grand Trunk station was visited and several boxes and parcels opened up and goods taken, among them a waterproof coat for one of the local merchants.

Asylum For Druce Witness.

New York, N.Y., Feb. 17.—Albert Caldwell, the American witness, in the famous Druce case in London, Saturday will be taken to the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island.

Caldwell's lawyer stole a march on the British Government, which is endeavoring to have Caldwell extradited to answer to the charge of perjury.

Cobalt Clerk Suicides.

Cobalt, Feb. 17.—Fred Anders, a clerk in the Cobalt freight office of the T. & N. O. Railway, shot and killed himself at 12.30 p. m. Saturday.

Anders sent a bullet from a 32-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver into his head and died within half an hour. The remaining five chambers were loaded.

He was found about a quarter to one by W. H. Hickey, the local manager of the freight department, and Charles Reckin.

He was 33 years of age and a widower. No cause is known for his act.

Shot During Quarrel.

Hattiesburg, Miss., Feb. 17.—As a result of a quarrel over the payment of $2,500, J. F. Wider, a wealthy sawmill operator, president of the Mississippi Pipe Association, and one of the leading lumbermen of the south, shot and killed W. L. Booth Saturday at Epp's Station on the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad.

Booth was a real estate dealer of Dallas, Texas. A special train with the sheriff and Wider's lawyer left for Epps Saturday evening.

Farmer's Loss by Fire.

Mount Albert, Feb. 17.—The outbuildings and barn belonging to Jacob Hopkins, a well-known farmer in East Gwillimbury, were totally destroyed by fire on Friday night, the work, it is believed, of an incendiary. All of his crop remaining, as well as his stock, was completely destroyed. The amount of insurance, if any, carried is not known.

Hanged In His Cell.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 17.—After being pursued for more than ten years by detectives, the search taking them three times around the world, Karl Rapp, who was being held here to await a further hearing charged with setting fire to a factory and dwelling in Rosswig, Germany, in 1898, was found dead in his cell at Moyamensing Prison yesterday, having committed suicide by hanging with strips of bed clothing to the bars of the cell.

Love Race and Country.

Rome, Feb. 17.—(C.A.P.)—Rome Osservatore Romano interviewed Dr. Begin, who said: "We French-Canadians are still French. We love our native country. Although we have no reason to regret British rule, which grants us a broad regime of complete and absolute liberty, we are attracted towards those who are our brothers in language and origin, and so we have received many of our co-religionists expelled from France."

New Japanese Minister.

New York, Feb. 17.—Baron Takahira, the new Japanese ambassador, arrived yesterday on the Etruria and declared that war between the United States and Japan would be the most inhuman event in the history of the world and was too "hellish" to be brought off.

One Auto Breaks Down.

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 17.—The French Moto Bloc, competing in the New York to Paris automobile contest, which left Albany early Saturday, was towed into this city last night with a smashed engine. The car must undergo extensive repairs before it can resume the journey.

It became disabled four miles east of this city.

Street Car Crushed Man's Arm.

Chatham, Feb. 17.—The left arm of Thomas Boyle, a farmer, aged 64, was amputated yesterday, as the result of a street car accident in Dover Township Saturday night, when the man left a northbound car and walked in front of a southbound.

THE WINNIPEG BONSPIEL

Winnipeg, Feb. 16. — (Special.) — The feature of the bonspiel Saturday was the winning of the international cup by the Americans and the defeat of the out-of-town teams by the city curlers by a score of 203 and 155.

In the city v. country, Flavelle, of Lindsay, defeated Lemon of Granites 9 to 8. Whalen, of Fort William, also won his game from Patten, of the Assiniboines, 10 to 6. Smith, of Kenora, was overwhelmingly defeated by Nichols, of the Granites, 21 to 4.

Flavelle was the only eastern rink to figure in the international contest. He was pitted against Bob Dunbar, the crack St. Paul skipper, who won out, 10 to 5. In the Empire, Whalen defeated McKay, of Saskatoon, 1? to 8. In the Tetley, though, Whalen was disastrously defeated, 14 to 3, by Cobb, of Melita.

Rev. Hiram Hull preached to the curlers to-night, and to-morrow night the big annual banquet will be held.

It was in the Empire Trophy that the Lindsay rink met first defeat at Winnipeg. Flavelle's conqueror being a young man named Jacob. The game was watched with interest by a large crowd of supporters of the Lindsay skip, and was a splendid exhibition of curling. The Granite boys are a young bunch, and they surprised everybody by their splendid showing. The easterners did not play their usual game, but the veteran did not miss many shots, his beautiful draws being a feature. The Granite skip was fortunate in building up large leads, two threes and a four spot being responsible for their victory. Flavelle tried hard to catch his opponent in the last stages of the game, he laying four in the eleventh, when Jacobs went to shoot his last rock, but the Granite man made a splendid draw, Flavelle only counting one. The Lindsay skip needed two to tie and three to win on the last end, and he made a noble attempt to win, lying three when Jacobs went to shoot his last stone, but the young skip delivered a perfect rock. The score;

Lindsay Rink's Standing

Empire Trophy—Lost 1st draw.

Dingwall Trophy—Won 1st and 2nd draws.

Tetley Trophy—Won 1st draw.

Blue Ribbon—Won in competition, beating Mark Lemon rink.

International (Canadians vs. American rinks)—Americans won; Flavelle rink defeated by Dunbar, 5 shots.

Five games were to have been played to-day (Monday), but up to 1.30 no report as to result had been received by Mr. Matchett, C. P. R. agent.

Hockey.

JUST LIKE LINDSAY

Toronto News; In Collingwood they think hockey talk and almost eat hockey. It is the one great sport of the town, and any team that beats Collingwood at its favorite game knows that it has been playing. If they don't win the championship it will not be because of want of encouragement.

BASELY DECEIVED

London Advertiser; The manner in which the Simcoe sportsmen bet their money and otherwise conducted themselves in this city, previous to the opening game, led one to believe that they were the real goods. This belief, however, was dispelled when they raised a howl after the game to the effect that Referee Weillaufer had not only been partial to London, but had actually accepted $100 to throw the game. All of which means that "it is to laugh."

Lindsay play in Midland on Wednesday, and Midland in Lindsay on Friday.

Mr. Sheridan, late of the Lindsay Roller Rink, has offered free tickets to all Lindsayites who accompany the team to Midland.

Running

THE TRACK WAS SHORT.

To-day's World; Tom Eck returned from Boston yesterday, where he witnessed Longboat defeating three men. Undoubtedly the indoor track was a short ten miles, but it is the identical course over which Shrubb made his mark of 51.32 2-5. Regardless of the misleading matter sent out about the event, the Indian simply performed the feat he set out to do, and nothing more. It was not the ten miles world's record he went after, simply to beat the mark made by Alfred Shrubb at the Park-square rink at Boston. Mr. Eck admits the track was probably a mile short, but no fuss was ever made over it when Shrubb received credit for his mark, but the Canadian went over and covered the same distance in 50.52 3-5, and then came the howl. There was no other performance except Longboat's race against Cummings, Pearce and Sellen, and the affair was sanctioned by the Canadian Union, just the same as the American Union sanctioned last summer's athletic meet in Montreal.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

SKATING CONTEST

Local skaters may be represented in the skating events to be held in Brock-st. rink, Peterborough, to-morrow night. The contest between F. J. Robson, the Canadian champion, and C. D Hefferman, of Toronto, the holder of the Canadian two-mile record, will consist of a series of three events, of which the winner must take two. The evnts are the half-mile, one mile and two mile races for the championship of Ontario, and some great racing should be seen. In addition there will be a mile race for boys, open to any boy under 18 years of age, for a gold medal, and a mile race for the championship of the county of Peterborough.

Too soft to curl in Winnipeg! Whew! There's yet a chance that an expedition may yet find a soft road to the North Pole, carrying in a cargo of soft drinks.

New Industry For the North

Forest Wealth of Haliburton Co. Will Shortly Attract Manufacturers.

With the opening of spring a new industry will be started in the north country—a plant for the manufacture of wood alcohol, acetate of lime, etc., similar to the one which has been in operation in Fenelon Falls for years. Toronto capitalists are interested, and operations will be commenced on an extensive scale. The promoters very wisely secured the services of Mr. Thos. Hodgson, late with the Fenelon Falls Company, to oversee the getting out of a supply of wood, and over 200 men have been employed for the past couple of months on the English Land Company limits. Local men were at first given the preference, but the quantity out was not satisfactory to the Toronto men. A number of Italians were then sent north to cut by the cord, and since then, it is said, the wood has stacked up at a great rate.

Sustained a Bad Fall.

Ald. Geo. Rea had a rather unfortunate and painful experience this morning. It seems that he was on the roof of a shed behind the house, shovelling the snow off, as the roof was weak and leaking. When he had finished his task, he started to descend to the ground again, and the ladder turned, or he slipped and fell to the ground, alighting in such a manner as to break several ribs. He will be confined to the house for some time.

Trials of a Funeral Party.

The rain Friday night and Saturday morning made the already bad roads still worse, and relatives who set out for Downeyville cemetery on Saturday with the remains of the late Mrs. W. A. Davis, of Bobcaygeon, had a desperate time getting through. The horses attached to the sleighs had to be unharnessed repeatedly and the rigs drawn by hand or shoved by main force over the huge drifts. Several of the horses received bad cuts while plugging through the drifts owing to being shod behind, and the shoes were removed before the home journey was made.

—Stop that tickling cough. Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by all dealers.

FARM NOTES

THESE APPLES KEEP.

Chatham Banner; Mr. W. H. Sutherland, the well-known farmer of the tenth concession of East Zorra, is in possession of apples that were picked in the autumn of 1902. The apples were of the Spitzenburg variety, and barring a slight shrinkage, appear to be in as good condition as they were when placed in Mr. Sutherland's cellars six summers ago.

Mr. Sutherland has discovered a method of preserving apples which seems to give satisfaction. The fruit is carefully picked and placed in boxes. The apples were allowed to remain in boxes for some time and are culled. Mr. Sutherland then takes them out carefully, wraps them separately in paper and then they are put back into bins. The remainder of the process of preservation is unknown, and Mr. Sutherland attributes the excellent preservation of his apples to the fact that his cellar is especially suited as regards temperature for the work.

Mr. Sutherland is a modern and up-to-date farmer. During the year he sells large quantities of apples, and his method of preservation of this commodity greatly increases his year's profits.

Rossetti's Way.

This striking picture of Rossetti appears in William Allington's memoirs: "Rossetti walks very characterically, with a peculiar lounging gait, often trailing the point of his umbrella on the ground, but still obstinately pushing on and making way, humming the while with closed teeth in the intervals of talk; not a tune or anything like one, but what sounds like a sotto voce note of defiance to the universe. Then suddenly he will fling himself down somewhere and refuse to stir an inch farther. His favorite attitude—on his back, one knee raised, hands behind head. He very seldom takes particular notice of anything as he goes and cares nothing about natural history or science in any form or degree. It is plain that the simple, the natural, the naive, are merely insipid in his mouth. He must have strong savors in art, in literature and in life. About these and other matters Rossetti is chivalrously bold in announcing and defending his opinion, and he has the valuable quality of knowing what he likes and sticking to it."

A Hopeless Pessimist.

At a gathering of men and women each one in turn was called upon to cite the attribute he or she considered of greatest worth in the formation of character, each attribute to be followed by the name of some one who best embodied it. For instance, a man gave sterling integrity and as his example Abraham Lincoln; a woman, tact, with Mme. de Maintenon as illustration; another woman, loyalty, adding the name of George Washington. At last it came the turn of a very plain spoken woman, who in loud, clear tones cried, "Honesty, and I know of no example, either living or dead!"

Mississippi Oratory.

Jasper county has been noted for the high grade of eloquence produced by the public men of that part of Mississippi. An appeal to the "mighty men of Jasper" made by one of that county's great men when a candidate to the voters who elected him is as follows:

"Mighty men of Jasper, if I can be instrumental in the hands of my people in adding a few jewels to those that now shine in imperishable luster on the queenly brow of our proud commonwealth, whose associated radiance, like the lambent beauty of the star, is to guide the footsteps of her children along the paths of peace and prosperity, security and happiness, I shall then have accomplished the ambition of my life."

The First Christmas Gift Book.

In the General Advertiser of Jan. 9, 1750, appeared the earliest known announcement of a Christmas gift book, and in this case it was undeniably a gift book:

"Given Gratis. By J. Newberry, at the Bible and Sun, in St. Paul's Churchyard, over against the north door of the church (only paying one penny for the binding). Nurse Truelove's Christmas Box; or The Golden Plaything for Little Children, by which they may learn the letters as soon as they can speak; and know how to behave so as to make everybody love them; adorned with thirty cuts."—London Mail.

Superlative Beauty.

A Swedish newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world. The first prize was carried off by an anonymous answer, "The eyes of my mother." More imaginative was the reader who won the next prize by suggesting, "The dream of that which we know to be impossible."

The most amusing answer was that which read, "The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying his mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in."

SHORT STORIES.

Of all callings the waiter's shows the greatest mortality, 23 per 1,000.

The Connecticut supreme court will shortly put gowns on the reporter and clerk.

Shower baths will be used by the Cleveland police to sober up drunks before trial.

Between Jan. 1 and Nov. 1, 1907, the fire loss of the United States was $180,765,300 compared with $424,460,200 in the same ten months of 1906.

A father and mother left their baby on a street car in Cleveland. The child rode to the end of the line and was cared for till the frantic father arrived.

The Lackawanna Railroad company has issued an order to the clerks at Scranton, Pa., that they must not sneeze on their books, as tuberculosis may be transmitted.

Fire recently destroyed the house in the town of East Peoria, Ill., where the prima donna Emma Abbott first sang. Recently the building was used for a dwelling, but it was formerly a schoolhouse.

A girl was so interested at a dance at Riverside, N. J., that she did not know that her arm had been broken by a fall on the floor. A surgeon said it was the worst fractured elbow he ever treated.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are reported to be doing well in their new play, "Bridge."

Frederick Paulding has written a play, "The Great Question," in which Jessie Bonstelle will appear.

Madge Lessing has one of the leading roles in "The Prince of Pilsen," now being produced in Paris.

William A. Brady is to produce a new political play, called "The Intruder," by Thompson Buchanan.

Grace Van Studdiford, Camille D'Arville and Helen Bertram are some of the singers now appearing in vaudeville.

Harry B. Smith has been engaged to write the book for the new musical play in which Sam Bernard will be the star after the expiration of his contract with Charles Frohman.

Lilian Albertson, the stately beauty who attracted much attention as the governess in "The Silver Girl," is to be the star of "Paid In Full," which was originally intended for Annie Russell. Ralph Delmore and Hattie Russell will be in the cast.

TALES THEY TELL.

Secretary Shields of the water board in New Orleans has a spaniel that delights to catch bugs and take them to the yard for the chickens to eat.

A Sturgeon (Mo.) man says he sent his overalls to a laundry, forgetting to remove his watch. The watch, he declares, went through the wringer and continues to keep good time.

Mrs. Scholler of Manayunk, Pa., bought a life size marble statue of Venus, which was placed in the parlor. When her husband came home late at night he thought the statue was a burglar, and Venus was smashed.

A Greenfield (Mo.) citizen says that when his dog saw two preachers approaching his house he trotted around the corner and returned with two plump chickens, which he deposited near the door and then went to sleep.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Braid is seen everywhere on street and house costumes alike. Soutache and the flat silk braid of plain weave are preferred to more fancy kinds.

The return of the tailored shirt waist —and its return is assured—bespeaks for the trotteur skirt the severest simplicity, as anything else naturally would be out of keeping.

Shaded satin and velvet have been revived and are being used for trimmings on cloths, as also are cords formed of silk and wound into fanciful border and other effects. In black this latter idea is particularly pleasing.—New York Post.

PITH AND POINT.

Lots of men are their own Jonahs.

Wise is he who knows when not to be patient.

The man who lives for himself alone dies unmourned.

When some men start out to look for the deserving poor their first stop is in front of a mirror.

Greatness will show up in a great man just as certain as littleness will show up in a little man.

Every man believes there is a reward laid up in heaven for him, but he is never in a hurry to claim it.—Chicago News.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—When the bill of the Hamilton Radial Electric Railway Co. was called in the House yesterday the Minister of Railways asked that it stand.

"This is an important bill," he said, "and there are certain points in connection with it that are now under consideration."

Mr. Lennox (Simcoe) objected to the report of the railway committee, which had not stated the grounds upon which the preamble was amended. He moved that the bill be referred back.

Mr. Graham thought his suggestion would answer and the bill stood over.

Active Partisans.

Mr. Foster read a telegram he had just received from New Brunswick, complaining of further interference by the Government officials in elections in that province. The message stated that A. E. Leblanc, traveling passenger agent of the I.C.R., was actively canvassing for the Liberal candidates and had announced that he would open a committee room for one of them and keep it open day and night until the election.

Another I.C.R. employe, Henry Leblanc, was also actively canvassing in the Liberal interests and denouncing Conservatives. Mr. Foster asked that the Minister of Railways and Canals look into the matter.

"I shall certainly cause enquiries to be made," Mr. Graham replied.

Mr. Brodeur informed Mr. Lefurgey that an agent (Mr. Bastedo) has been appointed by the Government with power to discuss with representatives of the various local Governments affected, the question of relative rights and jurisdiction with respect to fisheries.

Ross Rifle Figures.

A question by Col. Worthington elicited from the Minister of Militia the information that 32,500 Ross rifles manufactured to date, 23,091 are "on store charge" and 9,409 have been issued as follows: To permanent force 3,015, to the militia 4,635, and to rifle associations 1,757. Of the rifles in store 16,017 are in Quebec, 1,532 in Halifax, 1,009 in Winnipeg, 1,120 in Toronto, 1,004 in other military headquarters.

"Give the student a chance to earn a dollar by employing him on public works," was the burden of F. D. Monk's plea in the House last night. He moved that "in the execution of public works requiring technical knowledge the Government should, as far as possible, utilize the services of young men engaged in the pursuit of technical studies in our Canadian institutions so as to permit of their applying with profit during their vacations, the knowledge acquired by them during the period of tuition."

The member for Jacques Cartier argued that this would be a profitable way of encouraging technical education, but there was the danger that the selection would be made on political lines.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) asserted that for positions requiring technical knowledge men were chosen who were not qualified, but were simply loaded on the country because of their political activities.

Mr. Brodeur said the Government had encouraged technical education by the employment of students, while Andrew Broder (Dundas) would not put a student in charge of a public work. The superintendent should be a man of thorough, practical knowledge, while students might be employed under him.

Mr. Monk would, however, prefer a student to a political heeler, who did nothing but smoke a cigar and draw his pay.

Mr. Templeman said the resolution was acceptable, but the application was not happy. He claimed that students were given positions whenever vacancies occurred. Thirty were employed on the geological survey last vacation. The motion was adopted.

The debate on Mr. Cockshutt's resolution to discontinue the policy of assisted immigration was taken up by Uriah Wilson (Lennox and Addington). No special privileges for any class of immigrants was the sum of Mr. Wilson's idea of the question, and he strongly condemned the bringing in of illiterate Russians.

Mr. Johnstone's amendment having declared that the present regulations were a sufficient protection, Mr. Wilson moved in amendment to the amendment "That Canada's policy should include a more careful selection of the sources from which immigration shall be sought, a more rigid inspection of immigrants and the abolition of the bonus system, except under very exceptional circumstances, and for the purpose of obtaining particularly desirable classes of settlers."

Dr. Cash adjourned the debate and the House rose at 11 o'clock.

SAYS FARMERS ARE STINGY.

Bishop Du Moulin Denounces Anglicans In Niagara Peninsula.

Hamilton, Feb. 18.—With all the vigor of which he is capable and in a sermon that bristled at times with stinging sarcasm, the Lord Bishop of Niagara, Right Rev. J. P. DuMoulin, preaching at St. Thomas' Church Sunday night flayed the wealthy farmers of the Niagara Peninsula for their niggardly contributions to the church. He also took a rap at Hamilton business men, who, he said, when the clergy called, squirmed and showed a desire to get rid of them, promising an answer that never arrived. Many of the clergy, he declared, could not live honestly on the miserable pittance doled out to them. His lordship was preaching in support of the laymen's movement, and he did not mince his words in denouncing the stingy farmers.

After quoting statistics to show how small the contributions were, he said: "That is the record of our returns to Almighty God for His benefits. Although this diocese is rich beyond comparison its returns are the poorest. This has been stated time and again and it makes no impression whatever. It falls on deaf ears. I have had pastor after pastor leave the diocese because they could not live an honest life, that is to say, no man with a family that God had blessed him with can live on $60 a year doled out in coppers and silver pieces when it pleases the wardens and church officials to dole it out. That is invariably their reply when they came into my office with their resignation. 'I can't live on the stipend doled out to me.'

"Let me tell you that the wealthy and prosperous farmers of the diocese of Niagara, the southern peninsula particularly, and throughout the prosperous north, think they have discharged every obligation if they give $5 and are surprised if they give $10, that they think they should be translated to a place beyond the angels."

His lordship declared that he had not uttered a word that he could not substantiate with plain cold facts.

SLEEP IN TWO SHIFTS.

Father Vaughan Denounces Horrors of London Sweat Shops.

London, Feb. 18.—Father Bernard Vaughan, a brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, preaching in the Jesuit Church here, during the course of a powerful plea in behalf of the bill which will come before the House of Commons this week, against "sweat shops," gave a graphic illustration of the manner in which the poor workers in the east end of London are compelled to live.

In a small room, he said, that ought to be occupied by no more than two persons, there were twelve machines working all day and late in the evening. Then the machines were removed and straw mattresses laid on the floor, men being admitted to sleep.

At 2.30 in the morning, these men were turned into the streets and the room re-let to another set of sleepers, who were also driven out at 6.30 a.m. on the return of the machine workers.

Edison Saves a Life.

West Orange, N.J., Feb. 18.—J. F. Randolph, treasurer of the Edison Manufacturing Co., of which Thomas A. Edison is president, committed suicide yesterday by shooting.

That Mrs. Randolph did not follow her husband to death was due to the prompt and determined action of Mr. Edison. When he reached the house, Mrs. Randolph was hysterical, crying out that she would kill herself. He came upon her as she was about to throw herself from a second storey window, seized her, and, after a hard struggle, succeeded in pulling her back to a place of safety.

Stork on Train.

Brockville, Feb. 18.—During the recent storm, while a R., W. & O. Railroad train was stalled in the snowdrifts near Richland, the stork made his appearance in a coach, and a bright, healthy baby was born. There was no physician aboard the train, and when a doctor arrived through the storm the lady passengers had taken care of the little one, which was wrapped in a flannel petticoat. Mother and child proceeded north in the storm.

Child's Clothes Afire.

Brockville, Feb. 18.—Florence Wilder, aged four years, residing on a farm near Pulaski, was fatally burned while left temporarily alone with a younger child. Her cries attracted Miss Ivo Coon, who rushed into the house and found Florence with her clothes on fire. She caught the child up in her arms and placed her in a huge snowdrift, thereby extinguishing the flames, but not before nearly every particle of clothing was burned off.

BOY SHOT ON FARM

Richard McBay Found Dead With Bullet Through Breast.

THREE LADS LIVED ALONE

Deceased Used to Cook For His Brothers—Boys Declare They Had Not Quarrelled—Revolver Laid on the Floor Six Feet Away From the Body—Had Been Fired at a Very Close Range.

Dunnville, Feb. 18.—A mysterious shooting affair occurred in South Cayuga Township about six miles from here about noon yesterday, resulting in the death of Richard McBay, aged 9 years.

The farm where the tragedy occurred is owned by George McBay, a carpenter, who lives with his wife in Buffalo, leaving his three sons, aged about 17, 14 and 9, to take care of the stock and shift for themselves.

The story told by the eldest boy is that Richard was the cook and was left at the house to get dinner, while he and his brother went out to work. He says he gave the little fellow a shake by the shoulder, telling him to do his work better and left him. When the two boys returned, at nine, they found dinner partly ready, but Richard was nowhere to be seen. In searching they found his body still warm in the bedroom where all three boys slept, the two eldest boys on the bed, the youngest in a shakedown on the floor. A small revolver, which was kept under the pillow, lay on the bed some six feet away.

Dr. Door, coroner of Dunnville, was called by telephone and visited the home. He said there was no trace of blood anywhere, but a small bullet hole in the centre of the breast, through the breast bone, showed the cause of the boy's death. The clothing was burnt and the flesh about the wound showing the fatal shot had been fired at close range. How it all happened no one can tell.

The boys say they had not quarreled and think he was handling the revolver and shot himself by accident. It is probable an inquest will be held.

USED THE WHIP FREELY.

Night Riders Flog Police Judge, City Marshal and Others.

Eddysville, Ky., Feb. 18.—Three hundred night riders galloped into Eddysville at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, aroused inhabitants by firing hundreds of rifle shots, took the men from their homes and whipped them severely, and then dashed away before daylight, threatening to return later. Those whipped were: Police Judge C. W. Rucker, Leslie Woods, former city marshal; Bress Fralick, deputy city marshal; Grace Robertson, a saloon porter, and six negroes. The riders were well drilled and well armed. The home of Judge Rucker was riddled with bullets.

North Carolina's Speed.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The official report of the trial of the new armored cruiser North Carolina, off the Virginia Capes, Saturday night, confirms the statement in the press despatches that she averaged approximately 22.48 knots in her four-hour speed trial.

The acceptance of the cruiser by the Government is now guaranteed.

Although the speed made by the North Carolina is the best ever made by an American armored cruiser, English-built vessels of the same class have made much better records, running up to 24 knots an hour, and one of them, the Duke of Edinburgh, it was estimated, would make 27.75 knots.

Seven Suffer From Fire.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Fire damaged a row of shops and houses at the corner of Spadina avenue and Adelaide street, yesterday morning. The blaze broke out in the grocery store of Joseph Woldenger, 388 West Adelaide street, and spreading rapidly to adjacent properties did damage estimated at $7,000. The detailed losses follow: Isaac Hewitt, dwellings, damaged, $1,000; Jos. Woldenger, grocery stock, $5,000; T. L. Wong laundry, $150; George Querrie, butcher, $200; William Garson, furniture, $300; Martin Loftus, furniture, $50; Charles Tolhurst, furniture, $50.

Murdered and Placed on Track.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 18.—Special Agent J. P. Crawford of the Southern Railway was shot by unknown persons and the body placed on the tracks at Twenty-Seventh street, where it was run over by an incoming train.

Insure Them Good Health.

Ninety per cent. of children, under twelve years of age, are being poisoned and parents don't realize it.

Irregular bowels are the chief cause. You parents know that your bowels should move every day. You know you must be as regular as clock-work, or the blood will become tainted.

Don't you realize that the children must be as orderly in getting rid of the waste matter of their system?

Then, if you find that any of the little ones go two or three days without action of the bowels, don't run to castor oil, senna tea, calomel, cascara or harsh "liver pills." Those simply purge the child—strain the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the ideal medicine for children. They are fruit juices and tonics in the form of a pleasant tasting tablet. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulate the liver, causing more bile to flow. It is the bile, given up by the liver, which moves the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" regulate the liver and bowels, and thus completely cure constipation. They sweeten the stomach, and are the finest tonic in the world to build up the system and make children plump and rosy. 50c a box—six for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not handle them. "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

LOSSES BY FIRE IN ONTARIO.

Col. Munro Asks For Information In the Legislature.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—A bare quorum of members stood in the Legislative Chamber yesterday while the Speaker read prayers. The only business done besides the presenting of petitions was the first reading of a bill to amend the Lines and Fence Act, by Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario).

The present session has almost a record in petitions. In length, breadth, thickness and depth they surpass all previous efforts. Day after day they continue to pour in. Last year the obnoxious clause 606 in the Municipal Act is the subject of an enormous amount of autographing. Church and temperance organizations of all kinds are represented in these expressions of opinion.

The House adjourned to meet at 3 o'clock to-day, when the debate on the address will be resumed by Lieut.-Col. Clark. No night session is possible, as the university reception interferes. To-morrow the visit to Guelph O.A.C. interferes and will require adjournment until Thursday.

Premier Whitney is anxious to close the debate on Thursday, and some say he is sanguine enough to hope that a night session on Thursday may finish it. The flow of oratory from both sides of the House has by no means abated and it will not be surprising if the debate goes over till next week.

The private bills committee will meet at 11.30 this morning for organization. T. B. Lucas will probably be re-elected chairman. Four minor bills are down for consideration by the committee on Thursday morning.

Col. Munro will ask for an order of the House for a return showing the amount of losses caused by fire in the Province of Ontario during the years 1900 to 1907 inclusive, as reported to the Department of Insurance; the amount of such losses reported to have been caused by incendiarism; the amount of such losses caused by lightning.

Curator Boyle Gets Medal.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Curator Boyle of the Provincial Museum has gone to Auburn, N.Y., where he is to-day to be presented with the Cornplanter medal as a recognition of his services in Indian research. The presentation is to be made by the New York Historical Society.

Cornplanter was on Indian chief, whose fame places him beside Tecumseh, Pontiac and Red Jacket. The medal called after him is awarded once in two years. It has been given only twice before this year. George J. S. Clark of New York received it in 1904, and Rev. Dr. Beauchamp of Syracuse received it in 1906.

Home Office Suspicious.

London, Feb. 18.—The report that Robert Caldwell, the American who gained considerable notoriety as a witness during the recent hearing in London of the Druce case, had been committed to an asylum in the United States, came as a surprise here.

It is understood that a representative of the British Home office will make an independent investigation of the alleged commitment in New York. If this agent is satisfied of the genuineness of Caldwell's insanity the extradition proceedings against him on a charge of perjury will be stopped; otherwise steps will be taken to have the ruling of the court set aside.

$60,000 Jewel Robbery.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—A pearl necklace and pin of much beauty, valued at $60,000, have been stolen from the Countess Von Wartensleben. Upon her return from the opera Saturday evening she placed the necklace and pin in a jewel case in her dressing-room and then went to supper. Returning in about half an hour she found that the necklace and pin were missing.

The necklace was composed of exceptionally large pearls, the string measuring five feet in length.

ENTOMBED IN MINE

Accident at Midvale Colliery, Near Mount Carmel.

MUD BLOCKS THE GANGWAY

Breaking of Dam of Water Caused Sudden Rush—Twenty-Eight Miners Cut Off From Escape—Band of Rescuers at Work—Sounds of Life Heard After Several Hours of Hard Digging.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 18.—Twenty-eight miners were imprisoned in the Midvale Colliery, near Mount Carmel yesterday by the breaking of a dam of water which had formed in a drift which caused a rush of mud into the gangway where the men were at work. All day long a party of rescuers endeavored to reach the entombed men, and about 6 p.m. they were given encouragement by sounds of digging from the inside. Later a shot was also heard, indicating that the men were at work to effect their own rescue and also giving assurance that the air is good.

Among the men entombed are a number of experienced miners, and it is believed that it will be possible to effect the rescue of all the men unless some of them should have met death by being smothered in the rush of mud when the dam broke through the gangway. Seven of the number are Americans.

HON. JAMES BRYCE ARRIVES.

Will Stay at Ottawa a Week and Discuss Various Questions.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—His Excellency Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, arrived in Ottawa yesterday on the second of his annual visits to the Canadian capital. He was met at the Central station by Chief Justice Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Col. Hanbury Williams and Lord Lascelles, A.D.C., and will be the guest of Their Excellencies Earl and Countess Grey at Government House for a week. On Tuesday of next week Mr. Bryce will be the guest of honor at the annual banquet of the Canadian Club of Montreal.

During his stay in Ottawa Mr. Bryce will discuss with Sir Wilfrid Laurier the proposals which have already been made by the American authorities for an agreement with Canada with regard to the control of international waters, and possibly some of the other questions outstanding between the two countries. The terms are also to be settled under which Canada and Newfoundland will join with the United States in the reference to The Hague Tribunal concerning the rights of United States fishermen in the waters of British North America, under the treaty of 1818.

Car of Whisky Broken Open.

London, Feb. 18.—The police are working on what is expected to be the greatest round-up of car thieves in the history of the G.T.R.

Recently a car of whisky was broken into and from arrests which followed information was obtained that will probably implicate a number of G.T.R. men.

Perry Sinclair and Joseph Lanahan have been arrested and other arrests will follow shortly. Lanahan was released on $2,000 bail at the Police Court yesterday morning and Sinclair was committed to jail.

Discrediting Sunday Law.

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—The Lord's Day Alliance have disavowed responsibility for the house-to-house crusade to enforce the Sabbath Day Act, and the police commissioners decided not to attempt further petty prosecutions. This decision was the climax of action brought by 600 people into the Police Court last week and stirred the whole city to resentment. The Day Alliance claim the police were unnecessarily severe in order to render the law ridiculous in Winnipeg.

Killed at Saskatoon.

Saskatoon, Feb. 18.—W. R. Adams, a C.N.R. conductor, was killed here yesterday morning at 2 o'clock in the railway yards. He was on the front of the engine and gave a signal to go ahead. He had on ordinary boots and slipped, going under the wheels. He was horribly mangled, and died a few minutes later.

The victim was 33 years of age, and resided at Winnipeg, where he has a wife and four chidren. Adams was a native of St. Thomas.

Plotted to Reinstate Franco.

Paris, Feb. 18.—Senor Sebastio Magalhies Lima, a Portuguese Republican, who is now in exile in Paris, has made public a letter received from a friend in Lisbon, in which it is set forth that the followers of former Premier Franco plotted to reinstate their leader, but that they failed on account of the refusal of the leading officers of the army to support the movement.

Smallpox at Moncton.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 18.—Smallpox which has been prevalent in certain districts of New Brunswick during the winter, has practically disappeared, excepting in Moncton, where it seems to have gained new vigor. During the past few days seven cases have developed, six of the victims being school children.

Floods Wreck Houses.

Pittsburg, Feb. 18.—Two brick houses at Nos. 22 and 24 Penn avenue, weakened by the high water, collapsed early yesterday. One man was injured and fifteen others narrowly escaped being crushed to death.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody, Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

The .... Rogue's March.

By E. W. HORNUNG,

Author of "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," "Stingaree," Etc.

Copyright, 1896, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS.

... was only the ordinary wild oats made too much of. But I was at fault, grievously at fault. Bitterly I regret it. Bitterly I shall rue it till my dying day."

Nicholas Harding was deeply moved. He was indeed a different man. In a hoarse voice he described the horrors of the interminable outward voyage, the perpetual dread of being too late, the nightly nightmare of Claire married to a criminal lunatic if not dead already by his hand.

"Crime and madness," said he, "are in their blood. I found that out too. The mother was a saint, but I discovered she had died in an asylum. The father is sane, but you know his reputation. He had denied me an interview before. I forced myself upon him now. And he admitted the perfect truth of the story I had heard. You ask how that woman came to know of it. Well, so did I. As I told you, she had sunk as low as possible. It seems she made a practice of asking her companions whether they knew aught of the Daintrees, because she suspected our guest of some shameful secret, but never of killing Blaydes, and she had always the thought of repaying Claire the good turn of which Claire must tell you. Well, at last—call it chance or fate or what you will—but at last she hit upon a trail that led to the truth. She discovered an old gamekeeper who had actually seen the deed and been pensioned to keep it secret, but blabbed it in his dotage. And then she came to Avenue Lodge."

Once his tongue was loosed and it was seen that the subject excited the convalescent much less than had been feared, Mr. Harding would speak of it with apparent freedom. Yet the case had aspects which he sedulously shunned. And toward the end of the voyage he became visibly troubled and depressed, but at last one chilly northern night, when the western islands had been left astern, he took Tom by the arm, and his hand trembled.

"Erichsen," said he, "I was once your enemy. I am now your friend. In the near future I am to be something more, and I cannot face it a humbug and a hypocrite. You remember those letters you gave me back without a question? I have waited for that question all these months. That you have never asked it that alone shows what you are. It makes it the harder to have to tell you the kind of man I was. But I have made up my mind that you shall know."

And he confessed that he had been guilty enough of the bribery all but brought home to him and yet not more guilty than a hundred others, many of them in higher places, as he said with perfect truth, but little bitterness. The voyage out had purged him of self esteem and arrogance; the homeward voyage was rearing better qualities in their place.

"Yes, it was a true bill!" he sighed. "True also that my money had silenced the witness who refused to speak—true that I have made it worth his while to go to prison. But letters had passed between us. Blaydes got hold of them. He was on his way to me with those letters in his pocket—to sell them to me for a fancy price—when he met his death. Do you recollect the first lawyer who came to see you about the defense?"

Tom started, but said he did remember.

"He came from me. And he not only assumed your guilt—as I fear we had all assumed it—but he wanted to know where you had put what you had taken out of the dead man's pockets. You were only to tell him that to secure the best defense money could obtain. Instead of telling him you threw him out of your cell. You were quite right. I was well served. After two years, Erichsen, I tell you that I am sorry—sorry!"

Tom implored him to say no more. There was more, however, that must be said.

"Before your trial," continued Harding, "I was almost mad with anxiety. Every hour I expected those letters to be found. Daintree knew well enough what was the matter. The letters were in his own possession, but he obtained my confidence, wormed it out of me one night, and from that hour my soul was not my own. He began by dragging me to your trial"—

"He told me you dragged him there!"

"It was the other way about. I am ashamed to say it, but it was the other way about. I want to hang myself when I think of that time. I remember him taunting me by saying I ought to sympathize with you because I deserved to stand in the dock myself. He who had done the murder for which he saw you condemned! I feel sure he only kept the receipt in order, if necessary, to use the letter that was written on the other side."

"No, no," said Tom. "I prefer to believe he was always thinking of some way of proving my innocence by means of the receipt without incriminating himself. It would have been in keeping with his character. He had a kind heart in many things, and I wish we were leaving him in his quiet grave instead of in an asylum. I cannot help feeling grateful to him even now. He gave me back my manhood and my liberty, even if it was he who first took them away. Above all, he gave me back Claire!"

* * * * * * *

There was one addition to the homeward bound party who must not be forgotten. This was a manservant, with a withered arm, who grew gray and ultimately died in Thomas Erichsen's service. His was the second death among those passengers of the Florentia whose fate concerns this chronicle. Lady Starkie was the first to go. Nicholas Harding followed in the same year as his namesake of all the Russias. The next and last—it seems but the other day—was Claire, his daughter, a loving and beloved wife and a mother whose children miss and mourn her daily, though most of them have children of their own.

But a little while ago this story might have left them still together—the bent old man with the thoughtful eye and many wrinkles—the white haired, sweet faced motherly woman. Yet then their story had not been told, for there is that in it which Thomas Erichsen never would tell his wife. He never told how they tried to cut his heart out with the lash. He never told her how nearly they succeeded. And still, when he thinks of that, is he grateful to the long dead maniac to whom he owed so various a debt.

It is the old man's pleasure to hear and read of the noble colony sprung miraculously from the cruel dust and ashes of sixty years ago. He has never revisited it. In the old country he has lived and he will die. Less fortunate than Claire, his lot is that harder one of the last to go, but his life has been always brave, and he neither fears nor courts his death.

THE END.

France a Gold Glutton.

According to statistics just published by a Parisian contemporary, France, indeed, is the happy possessor of one-third of all the gold coinage in circulation throughout the world. The writer explains that this happens in various ways. In the first place, the people are thrifty, save and invest money and insist on the fragment of the interest in gold. Then every year crowds of foreigners come to France, spend some time at hotels and make purchases, paying mostly in gold. Exports again bring in large sums, so that France literally scores all round. Here are some eloquent figures about the reserve of gold in the Bank of France: In 1900 it amounted to 2,331,000,000 francs. In 1906 it reached 2,706,000,000 francs, while at the end of August last it had attained the figure of 2,806,000,000 francs.—London Telegraph.

When Rockefeller Was Poor.

J. C. Foster, a retired business man of Buffalo, who is spending the winter at the New Denechaud, was a hotel man years ago in Oil City, Pa. That was in the days of the Pennsylvania oil boom, and prospectors from all over the country were guests in the City hotel, many of whom have since risen to the front rank of finance, for among Mr. Foster's guests in those days were such men as Rockefeller, Satterfield, Taylor, Vandergriff, Forman and Dan O'Day. And it was no uncommon thing for these oil magnates to sleep two in a bed, for accommodations weren't plentiful, and even plastered houses were rare.—New Orleans Picayune.

A Seven Tailed Comet.

The new comet, generally called Daniels', which passed perihelion in August, offered the remarkable spectacle of seven tails, displayed simultaneously. In this respect it recalls the famous comet of 1744, which, it is said, also had seven tails. But the comet of 1744 was a brilliant one, whereas Daniels' comet was not conspicuous to the naked eye. According to Bredichin's theory, a multiplicity of tails, of different curvatures, indicates that the comet consists of substances of varying atomic weight. The lightest particles, being driven off with great velocity, form straight tails.

Crates.

A tremendous quantity of wood is being consumed in the fruit industry, and the demand it is making on our forests is attracting attention. The man who has ingenuity enough to devise a scheme which will permit fruit growers to market their product without packing it in costly boxes, if he can get it patented, will make several fortunes.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Wit and Wisdom

People with plenty of money are not always well bred, but they are always, says Peter, pretty well buttered.

It is the little pleasures that make life sweet, as the little displeasures may do no more than afflictions to make it bitter.

Every person has two educations, one which he receives from others, and one more important, which he gives himself.

Energy will do anything that can be done in the world; and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunities, will make a man without it.

This life is full of gladness and mayhap it is the gateway to another; and to live well here is surely the best preparation for a life to come.

Sandy—"Don't you love to hear the music of the bells coming over the water?" Mandy — "Yes, I adore everything that has a ring to it."

Aunt Clara—"What would you do were you to see a ghost?" Young Visitor—"I'd run for dear life, for I'm quite sure I should be paralysed with fright."

"Now, Hannah, just look at these chairs. There must be an inch of dust on them. "Well, ma'am, you know yourself you haven't had a caller for nearly a week."

It is an honourable thing to be rich. It is not dishonorable, not discreditable in any sense, so long as he who acquires it has remembered the golden rule.

HOT POTS OF HEBER.

The Curious Natural Formations Found In Utah.

Of ever increasing interest to natural curiosity seekers are the hot pots, about three miles from Heber City, Utah, on a branch line of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, running up through picturesque Provo canyon.

This region is a level plain, upon the surface of which arise in strange confusion numbers of conical shaped cisterns, the largest of them being all of fifty feet high, a hundred feet in diameter at the top and twice that at the base and containing in their dark depths immense volumes of water heated to a high temperature in the furnaces of the earth. The waters contain the usual chemical properties of thermal springs and are used for bathing and drinking with excellent effects.

These pots have evidently been formed by the slow deposition through countless centuries of the silica and soda which enter into the composition of the waters that once welled over the rim. The hot pots are found in the midst of cultivated fields and thriving orchards notwithstanding the peculiar rocklike soil composition.

One of the marked peculiarities of the region is the hollow, rumbling sound caused by carriages and horses as they move over the roadways for miles around. "Is there an enormous cavern just below the surface and will it ever cave in?" is the anxious inquiry of every visitor alarmed at the strange underground sounds.—Exchange.

Sweet Cane From a Far Country.

It has been supposed that sugar cane was the "sweet cane from a far country," mentioned in Jeremiah vi, 20, and in Isaiah xliii, 24. According to Strabo, Nearchus, the admiral of Alexander the Great, describes a kind of "honey" from an Indian "reed" which was probably sugar cane. Europe seems to be indebted for the plant to the Saracens, who introduced it into Rhodes, Cyprus, Sicily, Crete and Spain in the ninth century. The crusaders of the twelfth century found it in Syria. The Spaniards and Portuguese carried it to Madeira and the Canaries in the fifteenth century, and on the discovery of America it was taken to the West Indies.—New York American.

REASONS FOR OPTIMISM

The Canadian Courier gives six reasons for optimism which are based upon a conservative view of the outlook. These reasons are;

"The Bank of England's rate of discount has been lowered from seven to four per cent. Another world-wide money crisis has passed.

"In 1907 Canada received 17,000 more British emigrants than did the United States.

"Last year 117,586 British emigrants left for Canada, while only 14,369 went to Australia.

"The Grand Trunk Pacific hopes to have its line from Edmonton to Winnipeg in operation by September. The distance is 794 miles.

"The Dominion Government has decided that every man in the West, who has a farm, some horses and a speeding machine, shall have plenty of seed grain.

"The mild weather has made living less expensive and has saved hundreds of thousands of dollars for the railway companies."

The Courier might have gone further, remarks the Peterborough Examiner. To these reasons may be added others supplied by the Victoria Colonist. There are the large expenditures which the Canadian Pacific is going to make; the great outlay in connection with the eastern section of the National Transcontinental Railway and the Canadian Northern Railway; the certainty of a large influx of settlers, who will be attracted by the splendid manner in which the Dominion has come through a very hard year; the growing confidence of the people of Canada in their own country. The air is full of reasons for optimism.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The fact that they are about to teach Japanese and Chinese in the schools of Vancouver, with an eye on future commercial travelling in the Orient, may be gratefully accepted as a sign that not all Vancouverites have lost their heads to the yellow peril.

Montreal Herald: Poor old Winnipeg, which has been tooting its own horn at an ear-splitting rate for six or eight years, finds itself no longer able to raise the wind. The banks will not lend. If this reduces the swelling that has affected Winnipeg's head, it may presently be possible to live there as inexpensively as in New York.

Mr. T. H. Preston, M. P. P., proposes to press for the repeal of the three-fifths clause of the Liquor License Act, with reference to local option. He believes in the democratic doctrine that the majority should rule. There is some reason to suspect that Whitney is about ready to steal this plank from the Opposition, as he has already stolen a number of others this session.

During 1907 the deaths from consumption in Ontario totalled 1933. The deaths from other contagious diseases numbered something over a thousand. Thus consumption claimed nearly twice as many victims as all the other contagious diseases combined. Many of these deaths, perhaps, were unnecessary. Modern medical science has shown how to secure protection against consumption and to cure it in its early stages. Surely whatever may be done should be done to check the ravages of this awful scourge, and our aldermen are to be commended for their decision to send Mayor Begg to the National Sanitarium Convention in Toronto next month.

Exchange; Giving as a reason 'poor business', Detroit brewers have notified the city that renewals will not be asked for two hundred and twenty-five of the 1,800 saloon licenses renewable on May 1st. The deduction is that the temperance propaganda is reducing the drink expenditure of the people. Fifty professional and business men of the city, whose combined property is valued at $10,000,000, have organized to compel the officials to enforce existing license laws.

Those who were ready to ridicule The Hague Peace Commission's work for arbitration as a failure, were somewhat premature. Germany did not sign the agreement reached, and her course was assumed to be the death blow to the scheme. Now, is is announced that Germany will sign the agreement, and that the only reason for delay was that some of the other powers have postponed affixing their signatures. It is now probable that the convention will receive the signatures of most of the powers, if not all of them.

WEDDING BELLS

Shaver---Smith.

On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 12, 1908, at 2.30, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Richard Smith, Little Britain, the marriage of his daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith, to Mr. Herbert C. Shaver, of Pleasant Point, took place, in the presence of one hundred and twenty invited guests. The Rev. J. Edward Moore, Ph. B., of the Methodist church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. J. U. Robins, of Seagrave.

Promptly at the appointed time the groom appeared, followed by the bride-elect, leannig on the arm of her father, who gave her away as Miss Leah Robertson artistically played the wedding march. The merry throng having extended hearty congratulations, sat down to a most sumptuous wedding dinner, served with exquisite taste and delicacy. The happy pair left by the G. T. R. express for Toronto and other cities of interest.

Hundreds of dollars' worth of beautiful presents bespoke the high esteem in which the contracting parties are held by their many friends. The bridegroom is to be congratulated upon having won one of the most useful christian young women of our village. In the church, choir, Epworth League, missionary work, and in fact in all the departments of religious activity one seldom finds her equal. After their honeymoon tour they will take up housekeeping on the farm at Port Hoover.

Crowbar Slipped, Struck Man's Face

Popular Railway Conductor Meets With a Painful Accident.

Conductor Adams, of the Coboconk mixed, will be laid off for a few days as the result of an accident this morning. It seems the genial conductor was using a crowbar this morning around the engine—perhaps to give her a lift up a hill with the heavy loads of freight collected on the road.

Anyway, the crowbar slipped and struck him in the face. At first it was thought the jaw was broken, but later it was learned that, although the injuries were severe, he was not quite so unlucky. He will be off duty for a few days.

The Cost of Living.

(Toronto News.)

Prof. Mavor points out, in The Financial Post that the cost of living in Toronto was 67 per cent. higher in 1907 than in 1897. That is to say, $1.67 would go only as far last year as $1.00 would ten years ago. The greater proportion of the increase has been in the rent value of houses. In some cases rents have advanced 113 per cent. Food prices rose 46 per cent. in the decade, fuel 26 per cent, and clothing 40 per cent. No wonder the man on a fixed income or salary finds it more difficult to make ends meet than he did in the nineties. Forced economies, amounting to privation, have been the result in many households. No doubt the average bread-winner cherishes the hope that the present trade setback may reduce living expenses. On the whole, however, the tendency of prices on this continent may naturally be expected to be upwards.

COMMUNICATIONS

TOWN DEBENTURES.

(To the Editor of The Post)

Sir,—I notice that the suggestion to try and dispose of the town debentures to local investors was coolly disposed of by a wave of the Town Clerk's hand, and the assertion that there was "nothing in it". As I understand the matter, the suggestion came from the Board of Trade, and was made by men who possibly know, or ought to know, as much about financial matters as our respected Clerk. I think the chairman of the Finance committee should take this matter up, as as I feel quite satisfied that if it was rightly handled that there would be no great trouble in inducing local investors to take them. There is no doubt but that they are a style of investment unusual to our local investors but if they are educated as to the advantages of debenture security it should redound to the advantage of both the seller and buyer. It would suggest to the clerk that, while no doubt he is sincere, there can be quite another construction placed on his course. Here is an opportunity for the Deputy-reeve to win his spurs or the Mayor's chair next year. Don't let the opportunity slip away.—Respectfully yours, RATEPAYER.

Lindsay, Feb. 18th.

STURDY CHRISTIANITY.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—Apropos to the interest now being taken in the temperance question and other moral reforms, I beg to send you for publication a quotation from a new book recently issued, and entitled "The Reproach of the Gospel," by Jas. H. F. Peile, M. A. The matter here given should command a little thinking on the part of christian and temperance people—here it is;

"Now, Christian opinion is too often silent, or speaks with a weak and uncertain voice, because christians are divided and are much occupied with their differences; or, again, because they are reticent and afraid to declare themselves openly; or because they think their religion is concerned with their own personal salvation, and not with the material and moral welfare of all men.

"We hesitate and compromise because we lack faith, and dare not know our own strength by putting it to the test; and therefore the world goes forward without us, and the Christianity we represent, though not altogether as we must believe, without God.

"But if we count it our duty to help in doing God's work, and desire the politics and the business of our country to be honest and wholesome we must not let them alone while we try to save our own souls; we must create a strong, united, articulate Christian opinion, whose authority is based on the example of christian lives." Mr. Peile is evidently a man of clear mind and much foresight. —Yours, etc., Z.

NORTH COUNTRY MINERALS.

(Special to The Post.)

Sir,—In one of the January numbers of your valuable paper there appeared a report on mineral samples, sent you by Mr. James Shea, P.M., Pusey P.O., Wilberforce Station. Since then Mr. Shea has received several requests from persons, asking him to forward to them samples of ore similar to that sent to The Post, which goes to show the vast circulation of your paper, one request coming from Ottertail, B.C., which reads as follows;

Postmaster, Pusey, Ont.;

Dear Sir,—I read in The Lindsay Post, where you had sent some specimens of minerals to publishers of The Post, and I would like if you would send to my address some of a similar formation. I take a great interest in all kinds of minerals, and have a very nice collection of them from Colorado and Nevada, and some very nice ones from this part of British Columbia. W. HAYGARTH, Ottertail, B.C.

The writer wishes to communicate, through the columns of your widely circulated paper that his store of samples are exhausted, but he is gathering another collection. Later on he will be pleased to forward samples to those who are desirious of getting them.

The Williamson Mining Co., of Toronto, have commenced operations in the Dew Drop Mica Mine, about one mile south of Wilberforce Station, with Capt. Williams as manager, and is so far proving very satisfactory.—Yours, etc., JAS. SHEA.

Ontario Farmers Reap the Benefit

The Increased Use of Blended Flours Means Prosperity for Farmers.

Our farmers should back up the millers in their splendid efforts to widen the market for Ontario blended flours, and thus educate the whole Canadian people up to the merits of Ontario wheat. The farmer is the one most interested in this work, because he will be most benefitted by an increase in the price of his wheat. Yet he is the one who seems to be doing the least to bring about this desired end.

When the slump came in Ontario wheat our millers began to experiment with the various varieties of Canadian grains. They spent thousands of dollars trying to find some combination in which Ontario wheat would be the most important part. It took years of careful and costly research to perfect the blended flours. But the results justified the trouble and expense.

Blended flours, which contain Ontario wheat and a little Western wheat, are better for bread and better for pastry, than any other. What our farmers should do — and must do if higher prices for wheat are to be obtained — is to drop Western patent flours and use blended flours instead. If every farmer in Ontario would buy blended flours there would be an enormous demand for these blended flours and a corresponding demand for Ontario wheat. Then the price of Ontario wheat would go up to where it belongs, and where it would pay a handsome profit to the farmer.

Prices are always regulated by demand. When we think of the thousands of farmers right here in our own province who would buy blended flours, and who are probably using Western patent flour instead, it does seem as if there is much missionary work to be done in educating the whole people up to the importance of this subject. Everyone who has the best interests of the province at heart should make this a personal matter, and see that every barrel and bag of flour that comes into the house bears the trade mark of the Ontario Millers' Association, the band of men who are honestly and honorably striving to put Ontario flour on the high plane it once enjoyed.

COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY.

It Demonstrates Scientifically That There is No Fixed Color.

Color photography proves incontestably the general truth of Monet's observation that, in shadows, colors continue their vibrations, weakened, but still insistent, in contradistinction to the practice of the academic painters in making burnt umber and lampblack serve as shadows in their paintings. It also proves that the color of flesh is not always rose color, the color of foliage not always green or the color of a tablecloth not always white, and that color may be brilliant — indeed, sparklingly vivid—without being a patriotic demonstration in red, white and blue, and that what has long been accepted as "tone" in painting, that much coveted and widely exploited golden amber glow, does not exist in nature, which is wholly innocent of such petty subterfuges with which to harmonize its discordant elements, being frankly and blatantly crude when it is not exquisitely harmonious, as in the case of the butterfly's wing. The artist is the divine angler who fishes out these harmonies, revealing somewhat of the wondrous beauty and mystery of nature. It demonstrates for the first time scientifically that there is no fixed color whatever, that objects have no color of their own, but solely that which is imparted to them by the reflection of the sky and the enveloping atmosphere.

Color photography also shows that the line, as drawing defines it, is an error, an artificial means of determining forms, that everything in nature is a succession of perspective planes and surfaces which join on to one another, that nothing is abruptly terminated by a contour and that the vibrations of the atmosphere envelop everything and obliterate the contours which the weakness of our mind is constrained to create. In a word, color photography ushers in a new era in the study of color that promises to revolutionize color printing and that will surely exert a most important influence on the art of painting, establishing as it does the soundness of the much abused theories of the impressionists. Moreover, it will prove an invaluable aid to the accurate study of disease, notably skin diseases; it will make possible facsimiles of the paintings discussed by means of lantern slides, and for the first time indisputably authentic family portraits can be produced of a beauty and veracity far surpassing the most delicate and masterly miniature, and this in the short space of half an hour, avoiding the tedium of repeated sittings. While color photography will undoubtedly reveal the fallacies and empty pretensions of poor painting, rendering it more inutile and ridiculous than ever, it will also open the eyes of all intelligent and unprejudiced students of contemporary art to the beauty and truth of the work done by certain modern painters, confining in no uncertain terms what is best and most expressive in the art of today.—J. Nilsen Laurvik's "The New Color Photography" in Century.

—A small boy standing in front of Moore's Restaurant, looking wistfully into the window, was heard to remark; "G-g-g-g-gosh but t-t-t-t-those me-me-me-me-meat p-p-pies ma-ma-ma-make my mo-mo-mouth wa-wa-wa-wa-water.—d2.

—Port Perry people are feeling good over a definite assurance from the Dominion Minister of Public Works that a sum of $80,000 is to be spent at Lindsay in the construction of a new lock, and all necessary steps will be taken to maintain the water in Lake Scugog at a navigable level.

—A number of boys, who maintain a rink on the river near Baker's mill, have a rather curious state of affairs to contend with. In the fall, when the river froze over, the water was up to high level mark, and stayed there till just a few days ago. The ice of the rink froze quite a depth, being clear of snow, and seized into the timbers of the wharf, so that when the drop came one side of the rink remained fully a foot higher than the other. This is the only place along the river where it seems to have done this, but it may drop back into position anytime. The ice was not even cracked by being suspended, and the rink has not suffered in any way.

The annual meeting of the L. C. I. Literary Society was held on Friday, 14th, in the Assembly Hall. Each number on the program was heartily applauded. The instrumental by Miss M. Wray was well rendered, and the selection given by the Glee Club was also encored, but the chief feature of the programme was the talk by Mr Cornish on the "Sleeping Sickness," the dread disease now at its height in Uganda, in South Africa. Although chiefly addressed to the medical students and rising scientists, the talk was very interesting to all.

This Old Man Was Badly Frost Bitten

Seeking Work, He Endeavored to Walk From Beaverton to Lindsay.

John Hicks, a respectable looking old man of about 70 years of age, a carriage builder by trade, and hailing from Chatham, was brought into town to-day badly frozen.

Hicks had been looking for work at Orillia, but not being successful, was only able to pay his fare to Beaverton, from which point he undertook to walk to Lindsay on Saturday. He was overtaken by the heavy rainstorm that morning, and went into a section man's shack near Lorneville, on the road side, where he remained for some time resting. When he resumed his journey he discovered that his feet were frozen. He was found by a kind-hearted farmer, who took him home and looked after him until to-day, when he brought him to Lindsay and interested several citizens in his behalf. Alderman Eyres secured for him a ticket to Port Hope, where a sister lives.

Popular Young Citizen Remembered On Eve of Departure.

A number of the members of St. Andrew's congregation and choir met last evening in the schoolroom to say good-bye to a prominent and well-liked member of their choir, Mr. Jack Gray. A most enjoyable evening was spent, and a short but choice program rendered.

During the evening Mr. Gray was made the recipient of a very handsome extension suit case and a pair of ebony brushes, as a token of esteem. Mr. Gray made a fitting reply, and voiced his regret at leaving Lindsay. He left this morning for Pembroke.

Curling Notes.

IT'S A SLIPPERY GAME.

Our readers will learn with some disappointment that the Flavelle rink at Winnipeg, is now out of all the big competitions at the Winnipeg 'spiel, the last cracks being his defeat in the Dingwall by Sparling, and in the Dolge (the old International). The Lindsay men won against Dawson City for the O'Grady Cup.

To-night the curlers will attend a big banquet and may spend a few days in sight-seeing and visiting before starting their homeward journey.

CHURCH VS. CHURCH.

The much talked of match between six rinks of Presbyterians and six rinks of English Church men will take place Thursday evening, and will no doubt attract a great gathering of spectators. The ladies especially should make it a point to be on hand to encourage husbands, sons or favored swains to do their prettiest at the game.

Resources of Canada's Fertile Territory To the North of Saskatchewan Watershed

AN ENORMOUS TRACT OF LAND RICH IN TIMBER AND MINERALS

Some Extremely Valuable Information Collected---Thousands of Miles of Agricultural Land Fit for Settlement---Authentic Statistics for Government.

In the minds of many Canadians the idea is inherent that the vast country lying to the north of the Saskatchewan watershed and west of Hudson's Bay is unfitted for agriculture, and that its value to the Dominion lies in its annual production of furs, already exploited, its vast timber forests, known but not yet brought into service, and its mineral wealth, as yet unknown and almost absolutely unexplored.

For some time past it has been realized by numbers of far-sighted people that after a few more years' inflow of immigration at the present rate, Canada's future expansion as an agricultural, lumbering, mining and industrial country will depend upon the exploitation of the natural resources of this far north land, together with the northern portions of Quebec, the districts of Keewatin and Ungava, on the coast of Hudson's Bay, the immense Mackenzie and Peace River districts, and the Yukon territory.

The trend of settlement in Canada, and also in the United States, has been westward, following the construction of railways. The land in the railway belts—the more southern part of Western Canada—is being rapidly filled up, as the older railway lines throw out their branches northward, and as the location and construction of the new National Transcontinental Railway proceeds. Attention is, therefore, already being drawn to that portion of Canada, hitherto supposed to be not only inaccessible, but comparatively barren, which lies still farther north.

EXHAUSTING THE LANDS.

R. E. Young, of the Department of the Interior, in 1905 prepared a statement showing that the enormous influx of immigrants and settlers would, in a reasonable time, exhaust the available lands for free homesteads in the present settled portions of the western provinces, and calling attention to the practically unexplored timberland of Canada.

Mr. Young also had a map of the northern portion of Canada prepared which contained all available information from any source regarding the possibilities and resources of the country. As a result of Mr. Young's investigations, the matter was taken up by the House and a select committee of the Senate was appointed to inquire into the resources and value of that part of the Dominion lying north of the Saskatchewan watershed, east of the Rocky Mountains and west of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the Mackenzie territory. The districts of Keewatin and Ungava were also brought within the scope of the investigations.

In February, 1907, the committee commenced its work, and by March 30, 1907, when it completed its labors, the evidence collected formed a valuable collection of information on points hitherto practically unknown.

Capt. E. J. Chambers, of the Senate, edited and condensed into narrative form from the evidence given before the committee, and the Hon. Mr. Oliver decided to issue it for public information, as a publication of the Department of the Interior. The book is now available, and copies will be sent free on application to the Department.

INVALUABLE MAPS.

Three large maps of the country under investigation accompany the volume, and these contain a wealth of detail not hitherto found in any previously published maps. There are also charts showing the average possible hours of sunshine during summer in these districts, the isothermal lines, isobars, and the summer temperatures.

The area dealt with in this volume is of stupendous extent. The area of those portions of Alberta and Saskatchewan lying north of the Saskatchewan watershed may be set down at 250,000 square miles, or 160 million acres. Ungava has a total of 354,965 square miles. This is, by more than 300,000 square miles, twice the combined area of the four original provinces of Confederation, namely, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick. It is exactly 272,673 square miles greater than the combined area of the seven older provinces, and of those portions of the two new provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta which lie south of the Saskatchewan watershed.

The vast region north of the Saskatchewan valley and west of Keewatin, which may be broadly described as the great Mackenzie basin, is very much more valuable, according to thoroughly authentic and well substantiated evidence, than was at one time supposed; and is capable of sustaining a very large and prosperous population. The settlements in this distant region, while insignificant in number and extent as compared with its vast area, are important as demonstrating practically and unquestionably the great possibilities of this territory as an agricultural and industrial country, and also as emphasizing the importance of exploring and surveying such ideas as are likely to first attract the stream of settlement which is bound to set in before long.

GOOD AGRICULTURAL LAND

According to one witness, who has had exceptional opportunities for familiarizing himself with the country and its resources, there is in the Peace River section of this country as much good agricultural land fit for settlement, and yet unsettled, as there is settled in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to-day.

W. F. Bredin, member of the Alberta Legislative Assembly, who resides at Lesser Slave Lake, after a careful computation, estimates the area of agricultural lands available in the unorganized territory of Mackenzie and Northern Alberta at not less that one hundred million acres.

Owing to the attention which has been drawn to the Peace River country of late by reason of the almost immediate construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific through it, the evidences of those witnesses who dealt with this portion of the country is perhaps of most vital public interest at the present time. H. A. Conroy, of the Indian department, W. F. Bredin, F. S. Lawrence, of Fort Vermilion, and J. K. Cornwall, all gave evidence on this district. Mr. Conroy who has been travelling through the country for eight or nine years, gave some interesting details. From the southeast end of Lesser Slave Lake to the valley of the Swan hills, is a beautiful country, some portions heavily timbered, other parts open. The finest grass in the world grows there, blue top, some of it 6 and 7 feet high. The basin all round the lake is fine agricultural land. The blue grass grows on the high land not in sloughs. It is very good grass, and does not form sod. Probably four tons to the acre would be an average crop.

There is a good deal of open country all around the south side of Lesser Slave Lake. About 40 miles north there is some 20 miles of rolling prairie country. The feed is excellent The Prairie river country is the finest piece of the northwest that Mr. Conroy has seen. Most of it is level and open with nice bluffs of timber, mixed, with some spruce and poplar.

Between the Little Smoky river and the Lesser Slave lake the country is open. Along the banks of the Smoky is very tall fine spruce timber. The country north of Dunvegan, all along the river is fit for agriculture on both sides, and for a long distance back.

The evidence given by Mr. Bredin is fully as favourable as that given by Mr. Conroy. His judgment is that from the mountains to Peace point a distance of seven or eight hundred miles, and for an average of seventy-five miles back on each side of the Peace river, there is a tract of land fully equal to any soil on any similar length of the Saskatchewan. A great deal of it is clean prairie, especially on the north side, the balance being covered with scrub and small timber.

With regard to its possibilities for ripening grain and vegetables, he said, that on his own ranch at Grand Prairie he had raised vegetables and oats every year for six years. He has had cattle there for five winters, and the average length for feeding them during the five years was six weeks each winter. All the country is good for stock. Both slough and upland hay is abundant. Pea vine and all the usual northwest fruits grow there. At Lesser Slave Lake, they have had magnificent crops.

The Old, Old Story.

What cruel treatment it was to sell liquor to a young Englishman at a Colborne hotel till he was drunk, then let him out of the house at closing time in such weather as it was last week, The Enterprise says; He attempted to return home while under the influence of liquor and fell in the snow, and both hands and feet were so badly frozen that they may have to be amputated. He finally succeeded in reaching Mr. W. H. Colton's home, where he lived, and when found was in an unconscious condition. Dr. Sargeant was called and succeeded in resuscitating him. He was made as comfortable as possible and sent to the hospital at Cobourg.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Cattle Easier, Hogs Firmer at Chicago.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c per pound.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Feb. 17.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 58 carloads, composed of 1008 cattle, 72 hogs, 126 sheep, 17 calves and 96 horses.

Exporters.

Export steers sold at from $4.75 to $5.30, the bulk going around $5; export bulls, $4 to $4.50.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at $4.80 to $5.10; loads of good, $4.60 to $4.75; medium, $4.25 to $4.50; common, $3.85 to $4.10; cows, $3.25 to $4.10; canners, $1 to $2.50 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

None on sale.

Milkers and Springers.

Prices range at from $30 to $50 each.

Veal Calves.

Veal calves scarce; market firm, at $4 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export sheep sold at $4.50; lambs at $6.50 to $6.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 15 were 3847 cattle, 1600 sheep and lambs, 5969 hogs and 279 calves. The offerings this morning were 1800 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 3189 hogs and 150 calves.

Choice beeves sold at 5¼c to 5½c; good at 4½c to 5c; fair at 3¾c to 4¼c; common at 3¼c to 3½c, and inferior at 2½c to 3c per lb. Cables from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade in cattle very slow, and noted a decline in prices of ½c per lb. for Canadian steers, with sales at 11¼c to 11¾c per lb.

The condition of the market for sheep and lambs remains unchanged, the feeling being firm, owing to the continued limited supplies coming forward, for which there is a keen demand for local consumption, as many butchers prefer the fresh-killed stock to the frozen. Sales of choice lambs were made at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 5¾c to 6c, and common at 5¼c to 5½c, while the best sheep brought 4c to 4¼c; fair, 3½c to 3¾c, and culls, 3c to 3¼c per lb.

Receipts of hogs were large, and, altho the demand for the same was good, a weak feeling prevailed in the market, and outside prices were 20c per 100 lbs. lower than on Wednesday last, and the prospects are that a further decline will take place of 20c to 25c per 100 lbs., later on in the week. An active trade was done today, and sales of selected lots were made at $6 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 4200 head; fairly active; cows and bulls steady; others 10c to 15c lower; prime steers, $5.00 to $5.85; shipping, $5 to $5.50; butchers', $4.50 to $5.25; heifers, $3.50 to $5.25; cows, $3 to $4.75; bulls, $3.25 to $4.75; stockers and feeders, 3 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3; fresh cows and springers active and $2 lower, $20 to $56.

Veals—Receipts, 1200 head; active and steady, $5 to $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 17,000 head; fairly active and 5c higher; heavy, $4.60 to $4.65; mediums, $4.60 to $4.65; a few, $4.70; yorkers, $4.60 to $4.65; pigs, $4 to $4.60; roughs, $3.90 to $4.10; stags, $3 to $3.25; dairies, $4.50 to 4.60.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 22,000 head; sheep active; wethers steady; others 10c to 15c lower; lambs slow and 5c lower; lambs, $5 to $7.30; yearlings, $6.25 to $6.50; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $2 to $5.65.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Beeves—Receipts, 2266; steers slow but steady to firm on light supply; bulls steady to firm; cows steady; steers, $5.10 to $6; stags, $4.35; cows, $1.75 to $4; bulls, $3.25 to $4.20; extra do., $4.75.

Calves—Receipts, 1638; veals 50c lower; barnyard and western calves dull to 25c lower; veals, $5 to $9; choice and extra selected, $9.12½ to $9.37½; culls, $3.60 to $4; barnyard calves, $3 to $3.25; western, $3.75 to $5.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 11,029; sheep steady; lambs 10c to 15c lower; sheep, $3.50 to $5.25; culls, $2.75 to $3; lambs, $7 to $7.50; culls, $5; yearlings, $6.

Hogs—Receipts, 20,475; feeling weak; no sales reported.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at about 36,000; market lower; steers, $4.25 to $6.15; cows, $3 to $4.75; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.25 to $4.50; calves, $3 to $7; stockers and feeders, $2.60

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts estimated at about 25,000; market steady; sheep, $4.25 to $5.60; lambs, $6 to $7; yearlings, $5.60 to $6.40.

Coal Mining Precautions.

Paris, Feb. 18.—The commission sent by the French Government to the United States to investigate mining disasters, declare in its report, made public yesterday, that the precautions to prevent gas explosions in mines and otherwise to safeguard the lives of miners, are less effective in the United States than in France.

Brought In Cook's Body.

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 18.—A boat reached Tater's Height yesterday containing the first mate and two sailors off the sailing vessel Emily Reed, which was wrecked at Tillamook last Friday. They brought the body of the cook, who died on Sunday. The mate and two sailors believe only one except themselves escaped.

Floods In Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—Floods continue in Southern Indiana. The weather has turned clear and cold, which will check the rapid rise in streams, but the water is not yet at a standstill. At Petersburg the White and Patoka rivers are higher than since 1875, and thousands of acres of wheat lands are submerged. Schools have closed and trains have ceased running. The Ohio at Evansville is now 34 feet, and is rising 2 inches an hour.

Committed For Assault.

Kingston, Feb. 18.—The assault case came up in the Police Court yesterday, when the girl Topping, aged 17, told the story of her wrongs on Saturday night at the hands of James Brickwood, Michael Devine, James Crozier and Joseph Mozier. After hearing her evidence the magistrate committed the accused to stand their trial at the next assizes, and placed their bail at $2,000 each. No bail was offered.

Finds Husband a Suicide.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 18.—For the second time within eight months, Mrs. Caroline D. Sellers on Sunday returned from church to find a member of her family dead from a self-inflicted bullet wound. It was her husband, Henry D. Sellers, a leading real estate broker. The first suicide was that of her son, Henry D. Sellers, aged 22, early last summer.

Reared In "Godless Community."

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 18.—On the plea that Edward Turner, condemned wife-murderer, has been reared in a Godless community, seventy-five citizens of Breathitt County, Ky., have sent letters and petitions to Governor Patterson of Tennessee, pleading for a commutation of his death sentence.

Longshoremen Want More.

Montreal, Feb. 18.—A Quebec despatch states that longshoremen of that port will demad an increase of 5 cents an hour at the opening of navigation. Their rates are already the highest of any port in North America.

Will Plead Self-Defence.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 18.—In the defence of Beech Hargis, who, it is believed, will be indicted soon for the murder of his father Judge James Hargis, the expenses will be paid out of the $50,000 which is the boy's share of his father's large estate.

Counsel for young Hargis will claim self-defence, asserting that his father choked him and knocked out several teeth before the son fired.

Jury Disagreed.

Clinton, Ill., Feb. 18.—The jury in the Snell $2,000,000 will case yesterday was discharged without agreeing on a verdict.

The jury stood eight for breaking the will and four against it. The jury was out 46 hours. The case cannot be heard again before the May term of court.

Dresden Hotel Burns.

Dresden, Feb. 18.—At 2 o'clock yesterday morning, fire broke out in the second storey of the Clifford Hotel and completely gutted the building. Everything was destroyed. The cause is unknown. The insurance is said to be $5,000 on building and $2,800 on contents.

Fighting Local Option.

Kingston, Feb. 18.—A protest has been entered against the coming into force of local option in Pittsburg Township. The grounds are numerous, but the chief plea is the casting of illegal votes. The majority was only six for the law.

Morse Case Next Monday.

New York, Feb. 18.—Charles W. Morse, the former banker, organizer of the American Ice Co., and the $120,000,000 Consolidated Steamship Co., pleaded not guilty before Justice Dowling yesterday to two charges of grand larceny. A hearing of the case was set for next Monday.

Black Hand Roundup.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 18.—With 270 men captured in 32 raids conducted by the state police department in its war against Black Hand bands that have been terrorizing the foreign population in various sections of the Commonwealth, the authorities count on crushing them out.

Running.

THE GREAT PRIZE

The greatest event of all at the British Olympic games will be the Marathon race. Canadians take particular interest in this event, because it was won in 1906 by W. J. Sherring, of Hamilton, and because they hope and believe it will be won in 1908 by Thomas Longboat, of Toronto. This year the victor must win from the picken athletes of a land that has always been famed for the stamina of its men. Hundreds of fine English runners are already in preparation for the Marathon, and their training will continue for five months and more. There will be scores of elimination contests, and at least one or two great preparatory runs among the Englishmen.

In discussions on the probable outcome of some of the chief events of the meeting in July speculations as to the possible result of the contests between ancient and modern athletes are common. As the Greeks had no instrument for the accurate measurement of time, it is impossible to make comparisons of speed. Euchides the Boetian ran in one day a distance of 95 English miles and died, but even this feat has been surpassed by an ex-soldier now living in India who ran 100 miles in 20 hours, on the authority of the honorary secretary of the British Olympic Association. Nevertheless, they had some fine athletes in olden times, especially in gladiators, boxers, wrestlers, etc.

Perhaps the most famous strong man of antiquity was Milo of Crotona, who won the Olympic championship six times. At one of the assemblies he carried a four-year old heifer on his shoulder round the assembly. It is said that he was so strong in his legs that he could stand as steadily on an oiled disk as on the sand and no one could shake him. Milo could break a cord tied round his head by merely causing his veins to swell and it is said that he could close his hand on a pomegranate and no living man could open it or cause him to injure the fruit by squeezing.

INDIAN AND SHRUBB.

Says the Boston American;

Hurrah for Tom Longboat. For the second time he has astonished the running experts of the country by making sensational time and smashing records.

Not only did Longboat beat the record of Shrubb, but he also beat the three men who ran in relays against him, and it might be said that the trio of steppers were pacers of the highest calibre.

There was no let up for Longboat. He was kept at the task, but he showed no signs of weakening at any stage and not a bead of perspiration did he show, though the other runners gave evidence of the exercise.

When Shrubb made his best time he had four men running against him, and had Longboat run under the same conditions he might have bettered his time.

GREATER THAN SHRUBB.

That the track at Boston over which Longboat made his remarkable run is short is admitted. But the fact hardly detracts from the glory. Longboat beat Shrubb's time over the same track. Shrubb was in good condition when he made his run; it was practically his own distance, and he is—or was till the other night—the greatest man at that distance the records tell about. On the other hand, it is not Longboat's distance; he prefers a longer route. Neither was he in anything like first-class condition. Under these circumstances, the watches tell us he is away off the greatest distance runner the world ever saw, or is ever likely to see.—Telegram.

TOWN LEAGUE STANDING

Following is the standing of the Town League to date:

Little B.	1	1	4
Bankers	1	1	4
Y. M. C. A.	0	3	3

Games Thursday—Bankers vs. Little Britain; C.L.S. vs. Y.M.C.A.

BEWARE OF GUELPH

Referee "Pick" Lillie thinks Berlin and Toronto put up a poor brand of pro. hockey last Saturday night. He says they will have to do much better when they run up against Guelph. "That Royal City outfit is a clinker, and capable of giving any team a run for the money," he remarked. "Wiseman, their rover, is as good a man as I ever saw. He has all kinds of speed, and shoots hard. He hails from Sherbrooke, I believe."

PROTESTS DEALT WITH.

At a special meeting of the executive of the Town Hockey League, held last night to take into consideration the protests entered by the Bankers and Y.M.C.A. in their games with the C.L.S. and Little Britain last week, it was decided after all the arguments and grounds of protest were in, that the cases were not sustained.

A great deal of heated argument took place, and the Bankers particularly put up a good case through their captain, Mr. Conway, but the members present thought that the game must stand as played.

The next double-header will take place on Thursday evening, when the Bankers play Little Britain, and the Y.M.C.A. play the C.L.S. In future games a judge of play may be present, as well as a referee.

"ROUGH HOUSE" SURE

Duquesne Garden, Pittsburg, was the scene of serious rioting when the P. A. C. and Banker game was pulled off Saturday. Dey, of the Bankers, set the ball spinning when he swiped Simonds, the P. A. C. cover, over the check with his stick, without excuse. He went down like a log. A spectator, angered by the unfair act, seized a chair and threw it at Dey, but it struck another player, who jumped in the direction from which the chair came, leaped on to the railing and broke his stick upon the heads of innocent spectators. The man who caused the ruction was hurried away by the police.

FOUND IT DEAD EASY.

The Collingwood hockey team seem to be a nifty bunch. Monday night they visited Hamilton, and for the second time defeated the Tigers of that city in an O.H.A. intermediate game, thus cinching their right to go into the semi-finals. The Tigers had the upper hand in the first half, but the northerners had the staying power, and ran away with their striped antagonists in the final half.

Curling

PETERBORO-LINDSAY CUP.

It has been arranged that the first game for the Peterborough-Lindsay cup will be played here this evening, four rinks a side taking part. Play will commence at 7.30, the visitors arriving on the 6.10 express.

Yesterday the arrangement was that the Peterborough rinks would come up this morning and meet Orillia rinks here in the first game for the Shepherd-Neill Cup, and that in the afternoon the Lindsay rinks would take on Orillia in their second game for the Shepherd-Needler trophy, but this morning the Lake Couchiching men 'phoned news of their inability to carry out the plan.

THE CRACKS FALLING DOWN.

Telegram; This looks like a disastrous year for the crack rinks at the Winnipeg bonspiel. So far Flavelle has been trimmed no less than three times, while Braden considered by many the best curler west of the lakes, has also tasted defeat at the hands of a comparatively unknown quartette. The only Bob Dunbar, too, the man who would lie down on the ice to figure out the proper angle at which a stone must be hit, and then go and hit it—sometimes—got a tumble. However, he got his at the hands of the "Kid" rink and they're liable to beat anyone at any time. That thaw must have got to the dope sheet a bit.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

NEW SKI RECORD.

A despatch from Duluth says; John Evanson, of Duluth, broke the American ski jumping record at the national tournament here, covering 116 feet. Ole Mangseth, of Red Wing, Minn., was the previous record holder, his record being 114 feet. Carl Toleen, of Ishpeming, Mich., 11 years old, jumped 62 feet.

GREAT BUILDING FINISHED

London, Feb. 17.—The last girder for the steel structure of the great Stadium at Sheppard's Bush, London, in which the Olympic games will be contested this year, was placed in position this week, and some idea can now be obtained of the magnitude of the British Olympic Association's undertaking. This Stadium had been designed to accommodate 70,000 spectators, and besides will contain rooms for the competitors, officials and general public, and a lot of floor space for exhibits of sporting implements.

Another bicycle grind contest was initiated yesterday at Boston. Ten teams taking part. Joseph Halligan, of Montreal, is the only Canadian entered.

The Toronto Baseball Club will open the regular season on April 23rd at Jersey City. The team will report for practice at the University of Virginia campus at Charlotteville, Va., on March 22nd.

Mr. Louis Archambault, merchant tailor, of Toronto, an old Lindsay boy, is president of the Toronto Bowling Club. He accompanied the city bowlers on their recent visit to Cincinnati, and made the top score in his play there.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was interviewed yesterday with reference to a grant to assist the team of athletes to be sent to England to take part in the Olympic games. The estimated cost is $40,000, and the Premier was asked to support a grant of $15,000. The Premier declared that it was not necessary to urge on him the desirability of showing the world what Canada could do, as he was already a convert to that view.

VALENTIA.

(Special to The Post)

The Rev. W. A. Rodwell, a most successful evangelist of the Toronto Conference, will preach next Sunday afternoon, and commence evangelistic meetings, assisting the pastor, Rev. Mr. Moore.

The C. E. here will entertain the Janetville E. L. on Monday evening, 24th inst. The Endeavors will be entertained at Janetville next Friday evening, 21st inst.

PLEASANT POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

We are having a little colder weather now, after having a few days of soft weather.

Many people took advantage of the fine day last Tuesday and attended the sale of Mr. Thos. Hutton. The things went fairly well under the auctioneering of Mr. Jos. Meehan, of Lindsay. Mr. Hutton and family intend moving to town in the near future.

Misses F. and M. Anderson, of Cameron, visited friends in this vicinity lately.

The roads have been almost filled up, but this last thaw has taken a lot of the snow away and made it easier getting around.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hardy, of West Ops, paid friends a flying visit lately.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(Special to The Post)

There was a large market here on Friday last. Butter 24c., eggs 25c. Dressed fowl appeared to be scarce. The skating rink is a great attraction for the people.

The Methodist Sabbath School here is the largest in Mariposa.

Between thirty and forty new members have been received into the Methodist church by Rev. Mr. Moore and the Official Board.

The choir of the Methodist church gave to Mrs. H. C. Shaver, (nee Miss Lizzie Smith), on the occasion of her marriage last week, a beautiful and costly silver set.

Rev. W. A. Rodwell, of evangelistic fame, of the Toronto Conference, will preach the annual missionary sermon in the Methodist church next Sunday morning.

Next Friday evening there will be an open debate in the basement of the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Epworth League, "Resolved, that the foreign element is detrimental to Canada." On the affirmative, C. Thompson, Miss Mickee and Miss Lapp; on the negative side, F. H. Moore, Miss A. A. Metherill and Miss C. Dix.

ELECTRICIAN PRAISES ZAM-BUK

Captain Owen H. Boone, Engineer and Electrician, Blind River, Ont., writes: "I had a severe burn on my hand from a fuse burning out. I tried several remedies with no effect until I used Zam-Buk. I consider there is no remedy that can furnish such quick relief for Burns and Scratches from Copper Wires and would recommend it to Electricians and Engineers."

Zam-Buk should be used in every Workshop, Office and Home. Zam-Buk not only heals up the broken and bruised skin and soothes pain and inflammation, but arrests suppuration and resists all tendency to putrefaction. Work people of all classes are liable to accident and find this pure healer indispensable. On the Farm, in the Factory and at Home Zam-Buk will be found a useful "FIRST-AID".

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

NOT HAD FAIR TRIAL

Col. Hugh Clark Defends Three-fifths Clause in Legislature.

SILENT ON POWER POLICY

Minimum Salary of Teachers—Model Schools Will Likely Die a Natural Death—No Longer Needed—Tight Reins on Liquor Traffic — Mr. Lennox on the Government Lands and Forest Policy.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—In view of events of the last few days an attempt to obtain from the Government a statement as to their power policy was deliberately foiled by Premier Whitney in the Legislature yesterday. Col. Munro (North Oxford) drew attention to certain newspaper reports with reference to the Electrical Development Co. deal, but the Premier insisted that the member for North Oxford was out of order, and in this he was upheld by the Speaker. Mr. Thompson (North Wentworth), who was the only Opposition speaker in the debate during the afternoon, devoted most of his attention to the Minister of Agriculture and the conduct of that Department. Mr. Thompson scored effectively when he mentioned the inertia and lack of progressiveness of the present Government with respect to agriculture. Mr. Hugh Clark (Centre Bruce) at length defended the Government's educational policy, and also dealt with local option. Speaking particularly in regard to the three-fifths clause, he contended that the Government were acting wisely in not repealing it because it had not been sufficiently tested. Mr. T. H. Lennox (North York) denied that the Government had brought into existence the spoils system, and alluded to cases where members of the civil service had under the late Administration taken part in political campaigns. The Whitney Government would have been within their rights had they dismissed these men, he said, but had refrained from doing so. Before the House adjourned Mr. Whitney stated that there would only be a formal session to-day, as the majority of the members intended to visit the Ontario Agricultural College.

T. H. Lennox continued the debate with a spirited defence of the Government's lands and forest policy, and Sam Clarke (West Northumberland) moved the adjournment of the debate.

Becoming a Habit.

Col. Hugh Clark rose at 3.40 to remark that a good deal of water had run beneath the bridges since 1905. It had become almost a time-honored and venerated custom to congratulate the new leader of the Opposition at the opening of each session.

Of Mr. Smith (Sault Ste. Marie) he declared he was at least consistent, for he was not careful of what he said, either in the House or on the stump. The Soo loan had turned out well, but no amount of success would ever justify it. The precedent was exceedingly dangerous, and any other company in difficulties would have an equal right to demand assistance.

The Model Schools.

Speaking of the school system, he asserted that if the model schools were abolished it would not be the result of merger or anything, but that they were no longer needed, and had died a natural death. He defended the adoption of the new examination system. The leader of the Opposition, who went about the country talking about the Government, taking the school trustees by the throat, was the very man at whose request the clause he now objected to was inserted by the Minister of Education.

"Personally, I am in favor of pulling in the reins on the liquor traffic just as fast as the people will allow us to do it," Col. Clark remarked, in defending the three-fifths clause, which he considered had not yet had a fair trial. He believed, however, that the Roblin Government in Manitoba had a perfect right to repeal the three-fifths vote, which there required 60 per cent. of the total names on the voters' list. Under the Manitoba test local option would only have carried in two places in Ontario—Millbrook and the Township of Bruce. The new law in Manitoba required a majority of the names on the voters' list to establish local option. In only four places in Ontario would local option have carried under this rule.

The Government had carried out all its pre-election pledges in its first term of office. In doing so it had made many enemies, by its school legislation, by the three-fifths clause, and strong and influential enemies by demanding for the people a share of their heritage in the water powers of the country, and he was not aware how far these antagonisms would be exerted against the Government at the next election.

An Agricultural Criticism.

R. A. Thompson (North Wentworth) dwelt chiefly on agricultural matters, the vast investment in which of over $1,100,000,000 in Ontario, equal to $550 for every man, woman and child rendered it of the first importance. He criticized the Department of Agriculture for sundry neglects of the farming interest. What excuse, for example, could the Government give, for giving up without any special effort, the sole control of immigration into the province. They had abandoned the choosing and supervising of the help that our farmers were to receive, when the best of the farm hands would be attracted to the west, and Ontario farmers would suffer. An interest three times the value of the manufacturing interests deserved at least as much encouragement.

That Pulpwood Concession.

T. H. Lennox (North York) devoted a good deal of attention to the Montreal River pulp wood concession, and cleared up the obscure details of that transaction. In the Georgian Bay Lumber Co.'s transfer matters the present Government had forced an additional $60,000 from them, notwithstanding the fact that the company did not get one foot more than Hon. Mr. Davis' plan showed. In spite of this the Opposition charged that the Government had given away 27 miles of timber limit. Mr. Lennox was glad that the Opposition had drawn attention to a matter of which the Government had every right to be proud.

KING ALFONSO IS SAFE.

Rumored Assassination Untrue—Woman a Victim of Anarchists.

Madrid, Feb. 19.—There is no truth in the report current in Paris Monday night that King Alfonso had been assassinated. The rumor probably was an outgrowth of the bomb explosions at Barcelona Monday, which now appears to have been the work of anarchists. In addition to killing one woman and dangerously wounding another and a child, the explosions caused much damage to neighboring buildings.

The precise object of the outrage has not yet been made clear, but it is interesting to note that the factions of the Parliamentary opposition recently united in a request to the Government to restore the constitutional guarantees in Barcelona, declaring that normal conditions prevailed there.

King Alfonso is at present at Seville.

The Conservative newspapers are of the opinion that the throwing of the bombs at Barcelona will force the Government to adopt stricter measures for the maintenance of order. On the other hand the Republican press points out that the suspension of the constitutional guarantees at Barcelona has failed to put an end to the terrorist agitations there.

New Election For Chatham.

Chatham, Feb. 19.—On an agreement being filed by the parties concerned, Judge Bell yesterday made an order for a new election in Raleigh, the whole township council of that place resigning in a body. The date for the bye-election will be set by Sheriff Gemmill.

This order is the outcome of the action brought against Letson, Andrew Pardo and James Wellwood, recently elected councillors of Raleigh, by Jeremiah Shreve, a colored candidate, who was defeated in the recent elections. Shreve claimed that there were corrupt practices, irregularities, etc., and the only evidence taken at the trial was that of Clerk Robinson of the Township of Raleigh.

His disclosures showed that certificates were indiscriminately issued to agents of the several parties concerned, and that a number of parties voted who had no legal right to do so. Judge Bell ordered that the respondents should pay the full costs of the proceedings. O. L. Lewis, K.C., appeared for the relator, Jeremiah Shreve, and J. G. Kerr appeared for the respondents, Pardo and Wellwood.

Tack Through Child's Tongue.

Uhrichsville, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Humane Officer Jackson yesterday swore out a warrant in New Philadelphia for Miss Clara Stirling, 24 years old, a teacher at the County Children's Home. Jackson declares Miss Stirling confessed to him that she drove a tack through the tongue of 8-year-old Simpson Fowler, an inmate of the home.

The affair was made public by R. W. Chapman, the janitor, who declares he saw the occurrence. The humane officer investigated and says the child was punished with the tack for a trivial violation of the rules.

Explosion Kills Three.

Wharton, N.J., Feb. 19.—An explosion in the mining department of the General Explosive Co. in this village yesterday, killed three men, broke nearly every window in stores and residences in Wharton, and some windows in Dover, two miles distant.

Hanged Himself.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 19.—Winfield S. Riblet, one of the oldest business men of the city, hanged himself in a barn near his home yesterday.

ANOTHER BAD WRECK

Wheel Collapsed and Train Was Ditched Near Chapleau.

ONE DEAD, FIFTEEN INJURED

C.P.R. Express Thrown Off Rails—Colonist Car Turned Over—Woman Has Hand Severed—Several Victims Badly Cut—Others Receive Internal Injuries — Japanese Killed—There Was No Fire.

North Bay, Feb. 19.—One man was killed and fifteen persons injured in a wreck Monday night in a locality which has been marked during the last few months with disaster and death on the rail.

On the White River section of the Lake Superior division, C.P.R., No. 2 express from the west was speeding along on time at 9.33, and when near Pardee, 17 miles west of Chapleau, a wheel on the mail car collapsed and the train was ditched. Pardee is 267 miles west of North Bay.

To the usual terrifying accompaniment of smashing timbers and grinding staccato of splintering steel, the shrieks of injured and frightened passengers, the train went off.

When the train went off, the colonist car rolled over, followed by the tourist and first-class cars, and these all landed on their sides, piling the passengers in heaps among the debris of broken seats, grips, and articles of clothing. It is a miracle more passengers were not injured or killed. It was fortunate also that no fire followed the accident, for in the excitement it is probable that some of those pinned under the wreckage would have been left to be slowly cremated alive.

As soon as the crew and passengers recovered from the shock of the impact, the work of rescue began.

A Japanese porter, name unknown, was taken out of the wreckage dead.

Brakeman J. Morgan of White River was found with serious injuries, but the doctors have not pronounced on his chances for recovery as yet.

Elsie Hogg of Schreiber, Ont., received injuries of a very severe nature and her condition is precarious.

Mrs. A. C. Payne of Bristol, Eng., was badly hurt, her injuries including the loss of the left hand, which was completely severed. Her husband, A. C. Payne, escaped with slight injuries.

The complete list of injured is as follows: W. Sutherland, Port Arthur, slightly; H. C. Rudd, Toronto, not seriously; B. Morgan, Chapleau, badly injured; Wolf Noranki, Chelsea, Mass., nose broken.

Infant child of Mrs. Walter Syson, North Bay, slightly; Walter Hummell, Yorkshire, Eng., slightly; William Hunter, Gladstone, Man., slightly; J. D. Richardson, Markham, Ont., cut and bruised; E. C. Humphrey, Arnprior, Ont., slightly bruised; John Kayner, Finland, minor injuries, not serious; F. Orville, Rocanville Sask., not serious; Elsie Hogg, Schreiber, seriously injured; Mrs. A. C. Payne, Bristol, Eng., left hand amputated and other injuries; Margaret Campbell, Carleton Junction, bruises; A. C. Payne, Bristol, Eng., head cut.

COOK DRANK SEA WATER.

Survivors of the Emily Reed Suffer Terrible Hardships at Sea.

Seattle Wash., Feb. 19.—A despatch from Neah Bay says:

The crew of the little six-ton sloop Teckla, lying at anchor here, were startled Monday night by a feeble hail from a steel lifeboat drawing up slowly in the light breeze. In the boat were the forms of four men, three living and one dead, survivors of the Emily Reed, wrecked off the mouth of Nehalem River on the coast of Oregon, 200 miles from Neah Bay.

The dead man was the ship's cook. He had drunk sea water, became delirious and succumbed. The three living survivors were in frightful condition. Their tongues were swollen from thirst so that at first they could scarcely articulate. They had had no food since last Sunday night or any water since they left the wreck of the Reed Friday morning.

Big British Strike.

London, Feb. 19.—The shipbuilding strike along the Tyne, which already has lasted a month, is likely to be greatly extended, first by a lockout, which comes into effect at the end of the present week, and second, by a strike of the allied trade engineers, who have voted by an overwhelming majority against a reduction of wages.

Justice Burbidge Dead.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Hon. Geo. Wheelock Burbidge of the Exchequer Court died yesterday morning from cancer, at the age of 61. He had been hopelessly ill for a long time. His last judgments were delivered from his death-bed, some two or three weeks ago.

The late Justice Burbidge had been judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada since 1887, and was the third son of Arnold Shaw Burbidge, late of Cornwallis, King's County, N.S. He married, in 1873, Alice, daughter of Henry Maxwell, St. John, N.B., by whom he had four sons and three daughters. He was educated at Acadia Villa Seminary and at Mount Allison University and was called to the New Brunswick Bar in 1872, to Ontario in 1887. He was made Queen's Counsel in 1885. He was a member of a number of public bodies, including the Dominion and provincial boards of arbitration, and was deputy of the Minister of Justice and solicitor of Indian affairs from 1882 to 1887. He was the author of "A Digest of the Criminal Law of Canada."

Ambassador Got Lost.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Ambassador Bryce has a habit of losing himself. When in Toronto he had to be piloted out of the mazes of the Union Station. In Ottawa Monday the ambassador became hopelessly lost while looking for the Governor-General's office in the eastern building. He was recognized by a clerk. who piloted him to his destination. A soldier was standing at Earl Grey's door.

"This is Mr. Bryce," said the clerk. "He desires to see His Excellency."

"Who is Mr. Bryce?" asked the soldier.

"The British ambassador to the United States," said the clerk, and the soldier almost collapsed, but managed to rise to the attitude of respectful salute.

Arrest Insurance Broker.

Philadelphia, Feb. 19.—On a warrant charging him with the forgery of a $30,000 check on a Quaker Town National Bank, Lewis S. Cox, aged 63, an insurance broker, was arrested here yesterday after a struggle with two detectives.

According to the authorities it was not until the death of Byron Thomas, president of the Quaker Town National Bank, that the alleged forgery was discovered.

Other arrests are expected.

Tragic Death In the Woods.

Brockville, Feb. 19.—William Hartwig, a Wilberforce farmer, met a tragic death a few days ago. He was engaged sawing a tree in the woods on his farm, when the huge log suddenly swayed. He was unable to clear it and was felled to the ground. The log struck him on the side of the head, causing instantaneous death. Hartwig's young son was with him and was an eye-witness to his father's end.

All But One Saved.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 19.—All but one of the twenty-eight miners who were entombed in the Mid-Valley Colliery were rescued alive early yesterday morning. One had been killed.

River Choked With Ice.

Desmoines, Ia., Feb. 19.—On Raccoon River an ice gorge, six miles long, has formed just above the city. City officials are using dynamite to blow up the gorge, but with poor success. Yesterday a blizzard raged throughout this part of the state. Eight inches of snow has fallen.

$60,000 BLAZE AT PITTSBURG

Trunk and Bag Factory Gutted—Caused by Explosion of Turpentine—Many Narrow Escapes—Wireless Station Destroyed—Highest Fire on Record—Part of Minitonas Main Street Wiped Out.

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 19.—Mrs. Edward Lutzenburg was burned to death and her son Joseph probably fatally injured yesterday in a fire which for a time seriously threatened the town of Barnesboro, near here. The fire destroyed two stores, two dwelling houses and the Globe Hotel.

At York, Pa., Mrs. Isaac Harrington was suffocated while trying to save her grandchild from a burning house. The infant also died.

Pittsburg, Feb. 19.—An explosion of turpentine on the fourth floor of the Capital trunk and bag factory, 1,016-1,020 Vickory street, yesterday started a fire which caused a loss of $60,000.

The trunk factory was completely destroyed, and an adjoining residence tumbled into the flames, and five other residences and the factory of the Eagle Trunk Co., were damaged.

One employe was slightly burned and 40 others had narrow escapes from a second and more violent explosion.

Paris, Feb. 19.—The wireless telegraphy station which was erected recently along the Eiffel Tower, was burned yesterday. The tower itself was not damaged.

This station was built with the idea of long distance communication between Paris and other points, including New York.

Minitonas, Man., Feb. 19.—Yesterday morning a disastrous fire broke out in the pool room adjoining the hotel here, and before it could be got under control the following buildings were completely destroyed: E. D. Widmeyer, municipal office, loss $100, no insurance; Hotel De Minitonas, loss $900, insurance $7,000; J. H. Cameron, general store, $8,000, insurance $7,000; W. L. Coulthart, barber shop and pool room, $1,500, insurance $1,100; Weir & Swalwell hardware merchants, loss $3,000, insurance $2,000; W. H. Weir, implements, loss $1,500, insurance $1,000.

The west side of Main street was completely wiped out, and the windows on the opposite side of the street were broken, and the buildings badly scorched and damaged by water. The fire is supposed to have been caused by an overheated stove in the poolroom adjoining the hotel. Minitonas is a prosperous town on the C.N.R.

New York, Feb. 19.—Two firemen from truck No. 6, in Liberty street, had to deal with the highest fire that ever occurred in New York, when they were sent to put out a blaze on the fortieth floor of the Singer building.

The workmen there, who have been keeping themselves warm by fires in brick pots, went home, leaving their charcoal burning near an electric switchboard. The flames blazed up, and as darkness approached lighted up the windows.

The firemen, with extinguishers, took an express elevator to the thirty-fifth floor and a ladder the rest of the way.

The extinguishers made short work of the blaze.

Kurdish Hordes Advance.

Tiflis, Feb. 19.—Kurdish hordes commanded by Ali Khan have advanced to the village of Niandab, where Prince Firman Firma, the Persian Minister of Justice, recently appointed governor of the province of Azerbxjan, now has made his headquarters, and a clash with the Kurds, it is feared, will prove disastrous to the prince, as the Persian troops are deserting in large numbers.

Recent despatches from Tabriz indicated that the outlook was bad for Prince Firma, who is endeavoring to protect the Persian frontier against Turkish aggressions. His forces consist largely of undisciplined recruits, whose services were of little or no value.

Asks For Death Sentence.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—The trial of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel reached the last act yesterday, the prosecution waiving the privilege of putting in rebuttal to the defence. The last word was given to the accused general, who uttered only a few sentences in firm voice, and shouldered the entire responsibility for the surrender of Port Arthur.

"If the court decides that the surrender was a crime," he concluded, "I ask for the death sentence."

The court is expected to close the proceedings to-day with its decision.

Terrorists on the Run.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—The appointment of Gen. Von Boeckman to the governor of Finland has produced a great degree of excitement among the revolutionists and terrorists, who, in the past have found Finland a convenient base of operations. They are now fleeing abroad in great numbers, most of them going to Sweden. This exodus will greatly facilitate the work of the Russian police in guarding the lives of prominent personages in St. Petersburg.

Must Die.

Albany, Feb. 19.—The Court of Appeals decrees that Chester Gillette of Cortland must die in the electric chair for the murder of Grace Brown in July, 1906.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not disolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

AERIAL LOCOMOTION.

The Perfect Flying Machine Will Annihilate Frontiers.

Other dreams of the end of the eighteenth century are materializing, notably that of the suppression of frontiers, the last vestige of feudal servitude and of tiresome, exasperating and savage customs.

Aerial locomotion once established and become more or less general, it is difficult to see how custom house officers could continue to harass travelers with their ridiculous and annoying exactions. Mark the frontiers by a line of captive balloons? It's not to be thought of. Order the travelers to descend? Useless when escape is so easy. The difficulty of multiplying regulations for travelers would lead inevitably and rapidly to the suppression of custom house frontiers.

As to the frontiers themselves, how would you locate them? They are compatible with space of two dimensions, with surfaces measurable in square meters, but not with limitless space, so to speak, of three dimensions. One day when Godard and I were going in a balloon from Paris to Cologne two mounted police in Belgium called to us at the top of their lungs, "Gentlemen, your papers!" Our reply was to empty a sack of ballast on their heads and make a dash of 800 meters above the canton.

Mankind, an fond, an unreasoning animal, is always impressed by the argument of the stronger. Therefore the first minister of every government which makes itself respected is the minister of war. It is proper to fight from time to time to keep one's biceps and expedient no doubt to increase duties each year to maintain the armies; hence the first application of the dirigibles will be to the art of international slaughter. A credit of 5,000,000 has just been inscribed on the budget extraordinary of our minister of war for the construction of new dirigibles of the type of the Patrie destined for our eastern frontier, and our neighbors, the Germans, not to be behind us, have done as much for their western frontier; hence we may expect to see on all sides celestial ships reciprocally contributing to battle maneuvers, to surprise offensive preparations and to drop at the right moment on the heads of corps commanders a few kilograms of dynamite, melinite and other explosives carefully prepared for the annihilation of staff officers, charts and plans.—Camille Flammarion in Metropolitan Magazine.

A Modern Life Buoy.

One feature of the big Lusitania is the automatic life buoy, which is fastened between decks on a slanting frame in such a way that it can be released by pressure of a button on the bridge. On each end of the four arms of a large cross shaped framework is a copper ball. These balls are so weighted that when the buoy strikes the water it will float upright. To the crossarms are fastened long brass cylinders. These cylinders are calcium carbide lights, so arranged that they flare up by contact with the water. Should a cry of "man overboard" be raised at night the officer on the bridge presses the button, the buoy hits the water and the lights flare up. If the man overboard is a swimmer he can reach the buoy, to the arms of which loops are attached to aid him in keeping above water.—Washington Herald.

Bride Sold by Weight.

By the decision of the mayor brides may be bought by weight at Kolked, Hungary. The local custom is that a bridegroom must pay the bride's parents a certain sum for the privilege of marrying their daughter. Jan Koetvoes was engaged in a dispute with his fiancee's parents as to the amount he should pay them, and the mayor was called in to arbitrate. Being an expert in cattle, but not in women, the mayor decided the value of the girl should be estimated by weight and thought that 60 cents a pound would be a fair price. After the girl's weight had been ascertained—it was eighty-six pounds—Koetvoes handed over $51.60 and was soon married.—Montreal Standard.

It Costs to Live In England.

The cost of living in England is indicated by the following extract from a letter in the London Spectator: "I do not keep a carriage nor a motor car nor even a governess cart. My wife is not extravagant, but my three children cost in education and clothes about £450 a year. My rent is £120 a year, and repairs average £50. There are four maidservants and one gardener. I keep little company, yet to my disgust and despair I find I cannot make both ends meet on £2,000 a year. The worst of it is that any one item of expenditure taken by itself seems not only reasonable, but inevitable."

His Inference.

"Evidently a Turkish bath is a scheme to keep one perpetually dirty."

"I judge from what you say that you've never taken one."

"No, but I've seen a Turk."—Exchange.

A LEAP TO FAME.

The Story of a Stuffed Cat In the Smithsonian Institution.

In the Smithsonian institution at Washington is a case containing a stuffed cat. A card attached to the case, setting forth the reasons why this particular feline is known to fame, gives official sanction to a tale that is in every respect as remarkable as any emanating from the nature fakirs. The story of the cat is as follows:

Many years ago, while the Washington monument was still in an unfinished condition, an adventurous and patriotic cat ascended the interior of the shaft by means of the ropes and scaffolding. When the workmen arrived at the upper landing the next morning and began to prepare for the day's work the cat took fright and, springing to the outer edge, took the leap of over 500 feet to the hard earth below.

In the descent, which was watched closely by the workmen, the cat spread herself out like a flying squirrel, fell slowly and alighted, as cats always do, on all fours. After turning over on the soil a few times as if dazed she prepared to leave the grounds. She had proceeded almost beyond the shadow of the monument when a stray terrier pounced upon and killed her.

One of the workmen rescued the remains of the cat and turned them over to the Smithsonian institution, which caused the skin to be mounted and placed under the glass case.—Youth's Companion.

SOUND WAVES.

The Way They Are Deflected by Atmospheric Causes.

One of Uncle Sam's scientists at Washington gives an interesting explanation of the action of the wind in preventing the spread of sound toward the direction from which the wind comes.

It is, he claims, not the wind, as such, that prevents sound from traveling against it, but differences in the strength of the wind. If, for instance, the wind is stronger above than below or stronger at one side, its effect will be to tilt the sound waves in one direction or another.

Differences of temperature in the air also cause deflection of the waves of sound. Other atmospheric causes exist which deflect sound from a straight course and prevent it from going as far in certain directions as it may have been expected to go.

Some of the sirens in this country, says the scientist, produce sounds which ought theoretically to be audible at a distance of 1,500 miles, but, in fact, the authorities are satisfied if they are heard only two miles away. The reason for the discrepancy between calculation and experiment was probably atmospheric deflection of the sound.—Minneapolis Journal.

Coughs.

Every person who coughs should not alarm himself with the idea that he is in a bad way. Experience has convinced us of a fact that there are two distinct kinds of coughs—one proceeding from an affection of the lungs and air tubes, as in a cold, the other proceeding from effervescence in the stomach. The lungs cough is a symptom which all know to require attention, lest serious consequences ensue. The stomach cough is a much more simple matter and may easily be got quit of. It is caused by the food and drink which are put into the stomach effervescing and producing an irritation. A knowledge of this fact ought to lead persons so affected to ponder a little on the nature of their ailment and the tone of their digestive powers.

The Underdog.

Underdoggism does not arise wholly from condition (you find underdogs in the very seats of the mighty), but from a winsome quality of mind which is inherent. You may know the underdog by a certain negative attitude, an absence of assertion, a denial of superiority, a smiling air of seeing the humor of the situation, a droll hint of a wink at his own discomfiture. Some of them, it is true, do make the mistake of trying to be something else. They put on an imposing front and in a momentary flood of favor and fortune pose as dogs rampant. Yet even in that lofty attitude the tail may be observed between the legs.—Atlantic.

Expert Tattooers.

The inhabitants of the Marquesas islands are among the most expert tattooers on earth, and not even the crown of the head, the fingers and the toes are exempt from the needle. The hands are ornamented with utmost care, all the fingers having their own pattern, so the hand would look as though incased in a tight fitting glove were it not for the finger nails of enormous length which complete the hand adornment of the wealthier natives.

Wanted to Be Ready.

Servant—I've come to give notice, ma'am, as I am going to get married. Mistress—Indeed, Mary! How long have you been engaged? Servant—I ain't engaged at all, ma'am. Mistress—Well, who is the happy man? Servant—You know the big shop down the road. Well, the shopwalker looked at me the day before yesterday, and yesterday he smiled, and today he said, "Good morning," and I expect tomorrow he'll propose, and, you see, ma'am, I want to be ready.—London Answers.

MAKE BELIEVE GIFTS.

A Curious Custom at the Courts of East Indian Princes.

There is a curious custom at the courts of the Indian princes. When a British officer or a physician calls upon a rajah he is shown into the reception or throne room, where sits the rajah, surrounded by the great state officers. After the exchange of the usual salutations one of the officers brings in a tray on which are displayed jewels and golden ornaments studded with valuable stones, perhaps worth £50,000 or more. The trayful of valuables is supposed to be a present from the rajah to his visitor, and it is offered first to the gentleman, who, inclining his head, touches the edge of the tray with the tips of his fingers, and it is then passed over to the lady, who invariably accompanies the British officer, if he is married, on such occasions. She follows the example of her husband, and the tray and its contents are then returned to the jewel room. In lieu of the unaccepted jewels a long necklace of tinsel, of little value, is placed around the neck of each, where it remains during their stay within the palace. There is a very strict law against any British officer accepting a gift from a native prince. Even when a doctor may have performed some serious operation upon a rajah, who, being grateful, wishes to give—exclusive of a money fee, varying from £200 to £1,000, according to the operation performed—a present of a shawl, golden cup or some similar valuable, the doctor must obtain special permission from the viceroy before he dare accept the present. If any officer accepts a gift of any value without such permission he may have to resign. This rule was made because in the old days, when the East India company governed India, an officer's pickings and the presents often extorted from the rajahs were worth much more to him than his salary.—London Tit-Bits.

THE LAST MAN SHAVED.

An Explanation by the Barber That Did Not Quiet His Nerves.

There were five of us hunting and fishing in the Queensland bush when one rainy day a stranger appeared. He said he was a tramp barber, and as none of us had been shaved for a fortnight we gave him half a day's work.

About four hours after he had left us a band of six men rode up, and the leader inquired if we had seen a tall, roughly dressed man pass that way. We told him of the barber, and he looked from man to man and exclaimed:

"Good gracious, but you are all freshly shaved!"

"Yes, we gave the barber a job."

"And he shaved each one of you?"

"He did and did it well."

"Boys, do you hear that?" shouted the man as he turned to his companions.

"What of it?" asked one of our party.

"Why, he went insane yesterday and cut a man's throat in his barber's chair over at Uudilla, and we're after him to put him in an asylum."

They rode away at a gallop and next morning returned to our camp with the man, who had been captured after a hard fight and was tied on his horse. He seemed to remember us when he was given a drink of water, and as he handed the cup back he quietly observed:

"I say, gentlemen, please excuse me. I meant to finish off the last man who got shaved, but I got to thinking of something else, and it slipped my mind."—Cape Times.

Beacon Fires In China.

In China such beacon fires as spread the alarm of the Spanish armada through England used to be the call to war. Many years ago, the story goes, the emperor sat with a beautiful woman looking toward the beacon hills. She would like to see those waiting piles lighted, and upon her insistence the thing was done. The greatest excitement prevailed throughout the provinces, and troops came hurrying in from all sides. When the leaders learned that no danger menaced, that the fires were lighted to satisfy the whim of a woman, their wrath fed on their lost confidence, and with the actual call to arms the response was slow and unenthusiastic. It was a repetition of the old story in Webster's spelling book. "Wolf" had been cried too often.

Antiquity of the Mortgage.

The legal document known as a mortgage can be traced as far back as the dawn of authentic history. The mortgage comes directly down to us from the Romans, but its antiquity is much more remote than the Roman nation. The Greeks, Carthaginians, Persians, Egyptians, Babylonians, all knew of the mortgage and daily used it in their business transactions. It is safe to say that the custom of giving mortgages is practically as old as settled human society.—New York American.

The Missing Factors.

"Now, then, children," said the teacher, "what is it we want most in this world to make us perfectly happy?"

"De things we ain't got!" shouted the bright boy in the back seat.—Philadelphia Press.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Montreal Herald; All of us were glad when the big American factories began building branches in Canada. It doesn't look quite the same, though, now that American money difficulties have led to the closing down of some of these places. In Toronto one of them has laid off 500 hands out of 550.

A French sociologist declares that the American of Anglo-Saxon blood is fast vanishing from the face of the earth. He is being rapidly displaced by inferior hybrids from the continent of Europe. Were George Washington to rise from his grave he would find himself much more at home in London than in New York. As it is in the United States it may be in Canada.

During the last quarter of 1907 more than three thousand persons in New York State were put under judicial probation instead of being sent to jail or reformatory, and of those who had completed their probationary periods 81 per cent. of juveniles and 67 per cent. of adults had improved in conduct. It is figured out that if they had been put in confinement few would have improved, their jail associates pulling them down rather than helping them up. Some day, perhaps, we will pull down all our jails and penitentiaries.

Miss F. Wickett, Miss M. Wickett and Miss Lottie Wickett have recovered from their illness, and are again able to come to the village.

Mrs. J. Irwin has been visiting relatives in Oshawa the last week.

The late thaw, instead of doing harm to our rink, made an improvement. The surface water ran in and made it perfectly level.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, on Wednesday, Feb. 12th, when their eldest daughter, Mary Elizabeth, was united to Mr. Herbert Shaver, of Port Hoover. The bride was attired in a beautifully made dress of brown ladies' cloth, which also constituted her travelling dress. She was given away by her father, and was unattended. Miss Leah Robertson played the wedding march. After the ceremony about 120 guests sat down to a bounteous repast. The happy couple took their departure on the 6.30 train for Dundalk and other points. The groom's present to the bride was a Persian lamb set of furs. The choir, of which the bride had been a member a good many years, presented her with a silver tea service. The other presents were costly and numerous.

An excellent lecture was given in the Methodist church by the celebrated lecturer, John Clark. Although the crowd was not as large as it should have been, there was a fairly good attendance, and everyone was delighted with the subject, "To and Fro in London."

Presented With Gold Watch And Valuable Piece of Plate

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bryans Remembered by Friends on Eve of Departure to Establish New Home in the Far West.

A few evenings ago the residence of Mr. Robert Bryans was the scene of one of those pleasant gatherings that have as their object a manifestation of the strength of friendship of many years' standing.

The officers and directors of the South Victoria Agricultural Society have learned with deep regret of Mr. Bryans' decision to remove to the Edmonton district, where he has large property interests, and at their last meeting they adjourned to meet again at Mr. Bryans' home at the call of the President. Last Friday evening was the date selected, and there were few absentees, owing to the fact that all realized to some extent at least, the splendid and invaluable work performed by Mr. Bryans for the Society, during a period extending over a quarter of a century. For 23 years Mr. Bryans was a director of the Society, and one of the most aggressive forces in shaping its course for prosperity and usefulness. For seven years he filled the important position of President to the satisfaction of all interested in the Society's well-being and advancement.

Is it any wonder, then, that there was a spontaneous movement to express in some tangible manner the appreciation in which Mr. Bryans is held by his fellow-workers for the work done for agriculture and kindred branches in this country? Had an inkling of the affair leaked out through the press last week all thought of a house gathering would have had to be abandoned, as the town hall would be needed to accommodate the friends who would have flocked in from the country to take part in the affair.

Among those present were Johnston Ellis, Pres.; Wm. Channon, 1st Vice-Pres.; John B. Graham, 2nd Vice-Pres.; E. H. Hopkins, John Carew, John A. Williamson, and J. F. Brass, Directors; Jas. Keith, sec.-treas.; S. J. Fox, M. P. P., Mayor Begg, D. Ray, Ald. Wm. Jordan, Ed. Bryans, Wm. Golden, Isaac Dryell, and several others.

At the commencement of the proceedings the following letters of regret were read by the chairman:

LETTERS OF REGRET.

Legislative Reading Room, Toronto.
Feb. 10th, 1908.

James Keith, Esq.,

My Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your kind and welcome letter, re presentation to our good and true friend, Mr. Robert Bryans. I would rather twenty men like Mr. Bryans came to the town of Lindsay than one to leave, but we must comfort ourselves with the belief that what is Lindsay's loss is some other part of the Dominion's gain. He will still be a British subject, and I have every hope, no matter where he may cast his lot, that he will ever shed abroad that good moral influence that has ever characterized his good name in the County of Victoria. He has given his time and his talents for the upbuilding of the good old county of Victoria, and while I am afraid I cannot be present on Friday evening, I do hope to have the handshake with him and his partner and babes before their departure for their home in the west. I must congratulate the President, Directors, and all concerned, on their most thoughtful undertaking on behalf of such a worthy family. With best wishes, I am, dear friends,—Yours most truly,

Chas. Fairbairn.

Mr. James Keith;

Dear Sir,—I have received yours of Feb. 4th, asking for my presence at a meeting of the directors of South Victoria Agricultural Society for such a good purpose—to acknowledge the past service of a worthy man who has stood by the society for so many years, and given his services so faithfully and willingly, both in work and by his counsel. I may not be able to be there for we have our seed fair in Bobcaygeon, on the 15th, but if I am not with you I can heartily endorse all the kind words that will be said.

I know that a good man and a good citizen is leaving us, but our loss is the Northwest's gain.

I hope that his life will be spared for many years, and that his new home will be pleasant and profitable. —Respectfully yours, T. Robertson.

Dunsford, Feb. 12, 1908.

THE ADDRESS.

Secretary Keith was then called on and read the following address;

Mr. and Mrs. Bryans;

After long years of residence with us and the friendships we have formed, we find much difficulty in expressing our appreciation of your endeavors to ever assist in all the undertakings of a social character thrust upon you.

The officers of the South Victoria Agricultural Society are especially grateful to you, Mr. Bryans, for the valuable services you have rendered our society. Unselfishness and a marked desire to improve our Association seemed your ambition, and through your unceasing efforts, our Agricultural Society has steadily risen, until it now stands prominent throughout the Province of Ontario.

To Mrs. Bryans we owe a debt of gratitude for the zeal and kindness with which you have wonderfully helped to improve the ladies' section of our fair, until now it is the envy of our sister societies.

In your new home, "The Wheat Fields of the West", we hope your granary will ever be filled with 'Alberta Red', as our memories will be ever stored with kind remembrances of you and family.

Not for the intrinsic worth, but to make manifest our appreciation of you as citizens and friends, we ask you to accept this gold watch and piece of plate as mementos of the South Victoria Agricultural Society, Lindsay and the County of Victoria.

Signed on behalf of the South Victoria Agricultural Society.

Johnston Ellis, President,
James Keith, Secretary,
(Society Seal.)

Lindsay, February 14th, 1908.

THE PRESENTATION.

The President of the Society, Mr. Johnston Ellis, then presented Mr. Bryans with an elegant gold watch and Mrs. Bryans with a beautiful piece of silver plate suitably inscribed. The watch is a handsome timepiece full-jewelled, and with the best movement. Inside the case is engraved the inscription, "To Mr. R. Bryans from the South Victoria Agricultural Society Feb. 14th, 1908.

MR. BRYANS' REPLY.

Although much affected by the very strong evidences of deep friendship and esteem shown him, Mr. Bryans made a very suitable and appropriate reply. Among other things Mr. Bryans said;

Mr. President and gentlemen of the South Victoria Agricultural Society and Friends,—It is at such a time as this that words fail to express the feelings of the heart. I feel most grateful to you, gentlemen, for the kind words and manifestations of the good will shown to Mrs. Bryans and myself this evening, in presenting us with these beautiful and valuable gifts—the piece of silver to my wife, and this handsome gold watch to myself. We will prize these, not so much for their real value as for the good will expressed.

If I have accomplished anything towards furthering the interests of the society, I am very much pleased, as it has always been my ambition for the last 23 or 24 years to try and have our fair one of the best in the Province. It has always been a pleasure to me to work with my associates in this connection, as they practical business men and jolly good fellows, and when I have occasion to look at this watch, which I hope I may long be spared to, I will be reminded of my old and true friends. I trust that the Lindsay Central Fair may continue to grow and prosper as it has done in the past. I feel satisfied that it will under the present management.

I again heartily thank you and wish you all prosperity and happiness.

If any of you come West to Sunny Alberta and to Edmonton, the capital, we will be pleased to have your company, and will try to make it as pleasant for you as possible.

"AULD LANG SYNE."

A very pleasant evening was spent. Mrs. Bryans furnished dainty refreshments, after which "Auld Lang Syne" was sung, and good-byes said.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mr. Martin Kelly, a respected resident of Fenelon Falls, was found dead in bed yesterday by Mr. W. T. Junkin, who called to transact some business with him. Deceased was a bachelor, about 55 years of age, and for many years was caretaker of the library when conducted as a Mechanics' Institute. It is thought that death resulted from natural causes.

TWO SECTIONS INVOLVE AN OUTLAY OF MILLION AND HALF

Mr. R. B. Rogers Member of Firm Having Contract of Section.

The first two sections on the Trent Canal which have recently been let, involve an expenditure of a million and a half. These two sections belong to an important stretch of the canal. Section number one as mentioned recently has been let to Larkins and Sangster, of St. Catharines. It extends about 5 miles above Trenton and includes 3 locks and 3 dams and a swing bridge at Glenmiller. The first dam will also provide power for the municipality of Trenton and for the Gilmour factory. The contract price approximately is $850,000.

Section No. 2, also of the Ontario-Rice Lake division, has been let to Dennon, Waddell & Rogers, the latter being Mr. R. B. Rogers, of East City. The section extends about 5 miles farther north from the end of section number one, to a point a mile and a half above Frankford. It includes three locks and three dams as well as three stretches of canal totalling a mile in length.

A canal will be constructed through Frankford necessitating the removal of several houses and a cheese factory. It takes the land on the east side of the river, runs through the village and enters the river at the dam opposite the Frankford Paper Mills.

William Dennan, a member of the firm, was associated with the late Andrew Onderdonk when section No. 1 of the Simcoe-Balsam Lake division was being built. He has also undertaken large contracts in the United States, having built the famous Thebes bridge over the Mississippi. Mr. Weddell, another member of the firm, is head of the Weddell contracting firm in Trenton. The contract price is about $600,000.—Peterboro Examiner.

Peterboro-Lindsay Curling Contest

The First Game for the Trophy Played Last Evening.

According to announcement, four rinks of Peterborough curlers arrived last evening to play the opening game of the series enjoyed every season to decide the year's ownership of the Peterborough-Lindsay Cup. Three rinks made the Simpson house their stopping place, the other quartette registering at the Benson.

Play commenced at the rink at 7.45, quite a number of spectators being on hand for the opening. The ice was in superb condition, and some grand shots were made on both sides. In the early part of the contest the visitors looked like winners, but the Lindsay men, true to their reputation as grand finishers, pulled ahead gradually and finished 17 up, thanks to the clever work of Skips Cuthbert and W. McLennan, the former finishing 14 up, and the latter 8 up. Skip Cuthbert had the rare satisfaction of pulling out an 8 end as the finishing touch to a well played game, but received the congratulations showered upon him with the modesty becoming an old curler who realizes that the element of chance is of great aid to a skip—occasionally.

On Ice No. 5 Skips J. C. Harstone and C. Frost had a stiff battle for the big end of the score. Mr. Harstone was playing a pair of strange stones, and this constituted a serious drawback at times, while his opponent was in fine fettle. Mr. Frost finished 4 shots up.

The game between Skips D. Davidson and Dr. Walters on Ice No. 3 was a well fought struggle from start to finish. The visitors stormed the ice at every end, and in the early stages they ran up a good lead. To the reduction of this the Dr. and his men applied themselves with zeal. When the 20th and last end came to be played the Dr. was 4 shots down, and managed to pick up 3. Score 19-20.

The ice, he says, is nearly clear of snow on the lake and part of the river, but is far too rough for the use of skates.

Cambridge-st. Methodist Sunday School Scored a Success.

A very pleasing entertainment was held last night in the Cambridge-st. Methodist Sunday school, celebrating the sixty-eighth anniversary of the School. A fine program by local and foreign talent was given, commencing at about eight o'clock and lasting till a few minutes to ten.

Miss Smith, the elocutionist, pleased all with her selections from 'Jean Valjean', "The Prospector", and pieces by Drummond, Tennyson and Van Dyke, and held their rapt attention from the opening syllable till the climax of her numbers. Another feature of the evening was the music of the large and well-trained Sunday school orchestra. This orchestra consists of about a dozen pieces, and delighted the large audience with a number of choice selections.

Everyone was surprised and pleased with the red, white and blue flag drill by the boys of the infant class, but the prettiest drill was given by a class of girls, each young lady carrying a lighted torch in a pretty shade.

Miss Edith Flavelle gave one of her charming vocal solos, and was much applauded. Another very pleasing number was the clarionet solo by Mr. Timberlake, which was rendered in fine style and elicited much applause from the audience.

The evening was pronounced by all present the most successful of the many fine anniversaries this thriving Sunday School has held, and all look forward to the next one with feelings of pleasure.

AN ENORMOUS TRACT OF LAND RICH IN TIMBER AND MINERALS

FINE SAMPLE OF WHEAT

F. S. Lawrence showed the committee a sample of No. 1 hard wheat raised in the Peace River country in 1906. It was an average sample of the 22,000 bushels held, at the time he obtained it, in the Hudson's Bay company mill at Fort Vermilion. The grain raised there for some time past has been of the quality known as the Ledeges. This has changed so materially from the sample originally obtained from the Ottawa experimental farm that it now bears no resemblance, the original stock being a soft wheat, while the sample produced is as hard as Red Fife.

As to the soil, many suppose that the Peace river valley, as a valley, has a low lying section of land in the bottom of the River. It is spoken of as "The Valley" by many people, and they think that it extends from the mountains on to the Arctic ocean.

The river bottom proper only consists of points or flats in the bottom of the bed of the river, which "bottom" is practically about two miles in width, whereas the great Peace river valley proper, what is properly called the Peace river valley, is in reality a broad tract of country. When you come get on to the height of land, this so-called "valley" covers 300 miles in width, and it leads from the Rocky mountains on to Lake Athabasca, into which the Peace river drains. The banks are high, that is where the Peace river leaves the mountains—that is the banks of the river to get up on what is spoken of as the height of land. At Fort St. John the banks are about 1,200 feet in height, and it would be quite a problem for a farmer living up on the height of land to get water from the river. When you reach the Peace river crossing, which at present is the terminus of the road or trail from Edmonton, the most route to the north, the banks are 800 feet in height, and where the road winds down the banks to get into the valley or bottom of the Peace river, it is about one mile long, that length being necessary to get suitable grade to get down to the bottom of the river.

From the Peace river crossing, as the river swings to the north and east, the banks gradually become lower, and when Wolverine Point, about 200 miles to the northeast of the Peace river crossing, is reached, the banks are about 200 feet in height. From thence to Fort Vermilion the banks become lower, and at Fort Vermilion you find the banks from 100 to 150 feet in height.

RICH BLACK LOAM

You will find the same conditions in the upper part of the river as in the lower. It makes great bends and on alternate sides of the river you find wide flats, where there is probably the richest soil there is in that northern country, made up of alluvial deposits, all black soil. There are places on the lower parts of these points which get flooded, perhaps once in seven or eight years. Nearly all the points, however, are above the high water mark, and when these flats are cultivated, the soil yields the heaviest of crops. On these first cultivation of the soil was first undertaken in that part of the country, and it was supposed by many that they comprised the only part of the Peace river or northern country from Edmonton into the north that was suitable for cultivation. For many years experiments were carried on on the flats. People supposed that when they undertook the cultivation of grain on the height of land they would get into the muskeg and swamp the adjoining river in many places and grain could not be raised, but this has been proved to be a failure. The sample of grain wheat was produced, was largely taken from the height of land or table land near Fort Vermilion. The table land is sometimes called "bench land," and this bench land in some places is very wide. There are places in it, as at the south of Fort Vermilion, and to the north and west, where there is 100 miles of this land on each side of the river before you come to the mountains.

The land is not all suitable for cultivation. It has its swamps and its muskeg, and its low patches of land, but you will find in almost any country where you have a large growth of scrub timber, but the average of the land, in the district we had found by travelling over the country away from the river, is suitable for settlement.

GREAT YIELD OF WHEAT

Mr. Lawrence has farmed at Vermilion for over twenty years, and has never had a failure in wheat in that time. There is no rush. He has raised as high as 60 bushels of wheat to the acre. That was his biggest yield, and was accomplished without the aid of fertilizer.

All the witnesses are agreed as to the great quantity of timber to be found in the Peace River country and adjacent territory. The spruce is large and fit for saw logs, some being three feet across the stump. All the rivers have belts of timber on their banks except where the fires have destroyed it, and most of it is spruce and black poplar, the latter growing quite large, as much as three to four feet through the stump, at times.

SMALL FRUITS IN PROFUSION

The tomatoes were not fully formed and witness did not think they ripened. They grew much more quickly, the strawberries ripened at any time. In fact they had ripe strawberries before that, also raspberries, currants, gooseberries and saskatoons. The wheat that Mr. Stewart saw there was just in the milk. He thought when it was sown and was sold May 20, it seemed incredible until it was demonstrated to that there is scarcely any darkness during summer there. There was about 20 hours' sun each day, and the heat was greater for several days than anything Mr. Stewart has ever experienced in Ontario. Along the lower Athabasca and at Fort Chipewyan, Mr. Stewart and his travellers had it over 100 in the shade for several days. There was a thermometer on the steamer in the shade. It continued all night. That day it was something quite unexpected. The hot wave extended down to the Arctic sea that year. Mr. Stewart mentioned Fort Simpson, who had come from Rampart House, near the Alaskan boundary to meet the steamer the Wright.

Fort Good Hope, in latitude 66.16 is 970 miles farther north than Edmonton, yet Mr. Stewart saw cabbages, onions and other garden vegetables growing in the garden there, looked the like did not see any until he got to Fort Yukon, (What) We got beyond Fort Good Hope the frost is so near the surface of the ground that it is pretty hard to raise anything. At Fort Macpherson, and in that neighborhood where the portage of Arcesoj, you can go from said. The vegetables at Fort Good Hope looked as good as any others. The potatoes were very fertile. As far as Fort Good Hope on this side of that place and around Providence, the land is very rolling, ranks twenty-five and thirty feet high, level country like the Saskatchewan at Prince Albert. It is a wooded country.

In this portion of the country, bordering on the Arctic circle, it would be quite reasonable to suppose that crops would mature much later than farther south, but the contrary is the case, due to the greater length of the day. There is at least two hours' more sunshine day during the summer at Fort Simpson than at Edmonton and points further north have as high as nineteen and twenty hours per day of sunshine. As sunshine is the great factor in ripening crops, it is not surprising, therefore, that barley, wheat and oats are all ripe and ready to cut by the end of July at Providence, 550 miles north of Edmonton.

At Fort Simpson, 170 miles north, again from Providence, cauliflowers, cabbage and cucumbers are grown in precisely the same manner and with the same conditions as in Alberta.

One hundred and forty miles north of Fort Simpson is Fort Wrigley, where the Hudson's Bay company's people put in a vegetable garden every year.

A very valuable point established by the enquiry was with regard to muskeg lands. A very large proportion of the northern country is composed of muskegs. These muskegs are, properly speaking, timbered swamps, and in their present condition are useless for agriculture, being composed of moss sometimes three feet or more thick soaked with and lying in water.

HOW TO TREAT MUSKEG.

It was shown that where the timber is cut off, and the sun allowed to act upon the moss, it dries and the moisture which has been held and protected by the moss, disappears.

At Fort Chipewyan the Roman Catholic mission has a farm which was originally muskeg, right among the Laurentian rocks, which was treated in this way, and is first class soil. They grow wheat there which secured a medal at the Centennial exposition.

After returning from his first trip in 1905, Mr. Stewart wrote his original report to the department, and he read a few sentences therein written, as he had prepared his report when the matter was fresh in his memory.

"The principal tree between the Rock mountains and the plains is the spruce, mostly the white spruce, on from the position near the prairie there is no doubt that it will be more sought after to meet the increasing demands from that quarter."

"The country along the upper western north of the Saskatchewan and the Athabasca and Peace river is mostly prairie and pretty wooded. The varieties of timber are principally aspen and balsam poplar, the former predominating, and white spruce. The poplars are large and seem to increase in size and height, and as we approach Lesser Slave lake and northward this like and the country of the Peace river. Below the junction of the Smoky they grow very clean and straight trees, on over a foot in fourteen inches, but reaching a height of 17 or 18 feet, making excellent building timber, as well as forcing and fuel."

ALL KINDS OF TIMBER.

"I never saw as fine poplar as I saw there. A considerable number of poplars were over a foot, and I feel would see a fair average. I have been popular on all parts of the prairie country, and never saw any growing up straight.

Mr. Stewart explained that spruce for commercial purposes grows to the Arctic sea. He was astonished to find that the limit of tree growth extended so far north as it does. He thought it probably extended from Greyes further north in this district than in Labrador. The different kinds of trees that he saw on the Mackenzie basin include white spruce, black spruce, the larch or tamarack, black spruce, the larch or tamarack, which is found as far north as the spruce, the jack pine and the white poplar, balsam of Gilead and aspen are all found down as far as Fort Macpherson. The natives make their canoes out of birch bark at Fort Macpherson. The size of the timber becomes smaller as you get towards the north. There is timber growing near the junction of the Peace and Slave rivers, probably 14 inches in diameter. Below Fort Good Hope the timber is smaller. Some of it has been made into flooring, and lumber is made from the timber there. There is a large supply of spruce suitable for pulp.

NORTH OF SASKATCHEWAN.

Quite a considerable amount of attention in the report is devoted to the country north of the Saskatchewan watershed, and several witnesses gave important information regarding its possibilities. Yon Archibald McKay who probably knows the country better than any other white man, and who has his headquarters near Lac la Rouge, 150 miles north of Prince Albert, has grown wheat successfully for seven years at that point.

One hundred miles still farther north, at Fort Stanley, on the Churchill river, they are raising grain and vegetables. In the Board of Trade at Prince Albert there is a very fine sheaf of wheat which came from that point. As pointed out by F. H. Smith, mayor of Prince Albert, the secret lies in the gradual slope of the country, the lower altitude of the country farthernorth neutralizing the natural tendency towards severer climate in such a marked manner that there is little or no difference in climate between Stanley Mission, with its tributary country, and Prince Albert.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

RAILWAY BILL IN HOUSE.

Hon. G. P. Graham Promises Board Larger Powers.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—Nearly the whole of yesterday's session was taken up with the discussion of the "reciprocal demurrage" amendment of W. F. Maclean (South York). At 11 o'clock the debate was adjourned after the Minister of Railways and Canals (Mr. Graham) concurred in the opinion freely expressed that substantial grievances against the railways existed, though he inclined to the belief that the bill would not cure the evil.

Mr. Graham said he would in a few days bring down a bill to increase the number of the Railway Commission and to impose new duties on that body with regard to compelling the railways to discharge their obligations to the public.

Mr. Maclean, however, declared that the people did not look for a cure of the evils existing except through direct action of Parliament, but he was willing to wait for the promised Government legislation.

Mr. Maclean's proposal was ably supported by members on both sides of the House.

He said: "If these companies do not perform the duties to the public for which they were created, Parliament must interfere, someone must interfere, and compel them to render to the public the service for which they were franchised."

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, assured the House that in the bill which will shortly be brought down, provision is made for increasing the membership of the Commission, and new duties will be imposed, with a view to further protecting the interests of the public.

Mr. Hugh Guthrie declared that the present law contains all the legislation necessary to prevent discrimination in demurrage.

"The very statistics disprove Mr. Guthrie's contention. That there exists a great grievance, no one can deny," retorted Mr. E. D. Smith.

Why Anderson Suicided.

Detroit, Feb. 19.—A Grand Rapids despatch says:

"The mystery of the death of R. F. Anderson, the man who shot and killed himself in Cobalt, Ontario, Saturday afternoon, has been cleared up. Anderson was the township treasurer of a Missaukee County township, who absconded twenty months ago, $1,900 short in his accounts. He was also postmaster at Jennings at the time of his flight.

"My husband kissed me good-bye and said he was going to Cadillac to meet a traveling man," says the latter's wife, who lives in this city. "That was the last I heard of him till I got a telegram from Cobalt Saturday night that he was dead."

The widow has a babe born two months after Anderson disappeared. Anderson took with him, or had previously squandered, $900 of township money, and $1,000 he had in trust for a woman living in Jennings. All trace of him was lost after he left for Cadillac. His bondsmen made up the loss to the township.

Refused to Give Up Prisoner.

Peterboro, Feb. 19.—Because he had not completed his sentence, the governor of the local jail refused to hand over a prisoner named Turner to P. Devlin of Ottawa, immigration inspector and deporting officer of the Dominion Government.

Turner has been in the county for about a year and was arrested here on a charge of vagrancy. He was given a month in jail to await the arrival of the inspecting officer. The period of confinement does not expire until Feb. 23, and the local police magistrate and the governor of the jail refused to liberate the prisoner. Mr. Devlin had to go away without his man.

The Georgian Bay Canal.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—A bill extending the rights of the Montreal, Ottawa & Georgian Bay Canal Co. was passed in the railway committee of the House of Commons yesterday. The company's project is the building a canal from the mouth of the French River to Montreal.

The bill gives until 1916 to complete, and until 1910 to commence the construction work. An amendment to the bill gives the Government authority to expropriate the company's canal works on giving three weeks' notice.

Keir Hardie Hooted.

London, Feb. 19.—(C.A.P.)—Keir Hardie met with a hostile reception Monday at Johannesburg. He was howled down and pelted. A crowd assembled in front of the hotel and sang "We'll hang Keir Hardie on a sour apple tree."

Six hundred Salvation Army emigrants sailed to Canada yesterday.

The Financial Times, referring to the new Canadian loan, says the terms seem sufficiently attractive to ensure the success of the loan quoted at par to 1-2 premium.

Indian Is Not Liable.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—In the case of Amos Woodruff, an Indian on the Six Nations Reserve, near Brantford, against whom an order to pay 1$ a month towards the support of his wife was made by the local magistrate, the Divisional Court has given jurisdiction setting aside the order on the ground that an Indian is not amenable to the same law regarding non-support as the white man, being a ward of the nation.

Priests Killed by Car.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 19.—Rev. Father Andrew Salmon was instantly killed and Father Murphy fatally injured at South Bend, Ind., when their cutter was struck by an electric car. They were caught between a snow drift and a sand bank.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs 10c to 15c Higher at Buffalo.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, since last Friday, were 44 carloads, comprising 647 cattle, 287 hogs, 224 sheep, 48 calves and 27 horses.

Exporters.

None offered, and none apparently wanted; at least, that was the statement of two of the leading dealers. Space on the ocean boats seems to be very scarce at present, and likely to be for a week or ten days.

Butchers.

Instead of a meat famine, there is an over-supply at present, last week's heavy run of cattle being more than was needed at one time. If there should be another large supply come on the market, look out for another slump in prices. Prices were even lower to-day than at the Junction on Monday. A few very choice cattle, the pick of the best load of butchers, sold at $5 per cwt., while the balance sold for a little over $4 per cwt.

Choice picked lots of butchers were quoted at $4.75 to $5, but few got the latter price this week; loads of good, $4.40 to $4.65; medium, $4 to $4.30; common, $3.50 to $3.85; cows, $3 to $3.85; canners, $1 to $1.50 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

There were no feeders or stockers offered.

Milkers and Springers.

About 30 milkers and springers sold at $30 to $60 each.

Veal Calves.

About 50 veal calves sold at $4 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold at $4 to $4.50; lambs at $5.50 to $6.75 per cwt.; rams and cull sheep at $3.50 to $4.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris reports the hog market weak at unchanged quotations. Selects, fed and watered, $5.15; and $4.90 to drovers at country points, f.o.b. cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 18.—Cattle—Receipts, 600 head; fairly active and a shade lower; prime steers, $5.60 to $5.85.

Veals—Receipts, 250 head; active and steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 4300 head; active; pigs steady; others 10c to 15c higher; heavy and mixed, $4.80; yorkers, $4.70 to $4.80; a few, $4.85; roughs, $4 to $4.20; dairies, $4.60 to $4.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 6400 head; steady; sheep active; lambs slow, unchanged.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Beeves—Receipts, 1281; nothing doing in live cattle; feeling steady. Exports to-morrow, 840 cattle, 1040 sheep and 3500 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 283; market slow and barely steady; veals, $5 to $8; culls, $4; Indiana calves, $4; barnyard and western calves nominal.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 4235; sheep steady; lambs slow and weak; sheep, $3.50 to $5.50; lambs, $6.60 to $7.30; culls, $5.

Hogs—Receipts, 2617; none for sale; feeling firm; nominal quotations, $4.75 to $5.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Cattle — Receipts, 4000; market steady to strong; steers, $5.25 to $5.15; cows, $3 to $4.75; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.25 to $4.50; stockers and feeders, $2.70 to $4.75; calves, $2.75 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 21,000; market active to 5c higher; choice heavy shipping, $4.25 to $4.45; butchers', $4.30 to $4.45; light mixed, $4.25 to $4.30; choice light, $4.30 to $4.25; packing, $4 to $4.35; pigs, $3.50 to $4.25; bulk of sales, $4.30 to $4.40.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at about 12,000; market steady; sheep, $4.25 to $5.50; lambs, $6 to $6.90; yearlings, $5.60 to $6.40.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Twelve Men Caught In Tunnel, Result of Ice Jam.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 19.—An ice jam in the Lehigh River near Nesquehoning, almost resulted in the drowning of a dozen workmen who were driving a tunnel to drain the water from the mines of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co.

The jam formed near the mouth of the tunnel and the river overflowing, washed large pieces of ice into the tunnel and filled it to a depth of five feet before the workmen were aware of their danger. They were able to wade out with great difficulty and shortly after their escape the tunnel was completely filled.

MORE DOUBT THROWN ON LONGBOAT'S PERFORMANCE

Well Known Athletic Follower Writes Pertinent Letter on the Now Famous Boston Race---Says Time Was 2 1-2 Minutes Slower Than Given.

Tom Longboat's race at Boston last Thursday is still the "talk of the town" among the athletes, and several letters commenting on the performance have been received, of which the following is an example;

Sporting Editor The News; Why do Tom Eck, Flanagan & Co. try to fool the people into the belief that Longboat has broken Shrubb's ten-mile record? Shrubb ran at Boston, not to make a record but to beat four men in a race of about ten miles, which he succeeded in doing very easily. And at that, he even had time to change his shoes during the race; in fact, fooled around pretty much as he pleased, and won by a long margin, in 51.33 2-5, which is a long way from his world's record of 50.40, made on a surveyed and absolutely correct track, with no fake about it.

Now, Eck, Flanagan & Co. tell the public that Longobat ran over the self-same track, and that the track did not shrink or expand for the Indian. So far very true, but the same honest sportsmen neglect to mention that Shrubb ran twelve laps to the mile, while Longboat was content with eleven laps to make the distance. Of course, a trivial thing of ten laps is a difference not worth mentioning to the sporting public; what are they supposed to know about it.

Now, the Boston sporting authorities say Longboat only ran a few feet over 8 1-2 miles, and his mark was 50.52 -25 (according to the time given by this bunch of fake record-breakers), while other watches, held by spectators, who had no other object but to record what was actually performed, made it nearly 2 1-2 minutes slower, and some of these, to the writer's knowledge, were perfectly capable men, notwithstanding Tom Eck's remarks to the contrary.

Tom Eck's remarks about Longboat being able to run a mile in 4.20, half trained, is quite sufficient to shed a very brilliant ray of light on his knowledge of what he is talking about. The idea of the three men who were taken along to pace the Indian to break Shrubb's "record," is very amusing to those who follow track athletics as a pastime, and who know the capabilities of each. We would have to send our three best men in Canada, and everyone in the game knows that Seiler (as he used to be(is the only one worth considering, as there are easily a half dozen who could show the other two how to run 3 1-2 miles.

Again, why does Longboat & Co. go to Boston to break records, when he has consistantly fought shy of our city tracks, like the Varsity or Rosedale ovals, each of which is absolutely correct, and to run on these would not entail the expense of a trip to Boston for half a dozen or more. It looks as is gate receipts have something to do with it, or who is the wealthy man of the party, who spends his money for some one else's glory, etc?

Daily Fading Away

The Story of a Woman Made Well by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Bad blood means bad health. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills mean good health. They actually make new, rich blood which strengthens every nerve and every organ in the body. That is why people who use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills feel bright, active and strong. Mrs. Arthur Hannigan, Marshville, Ont., is a witness to the truth of these statements. Mrs. Hannigan says; "For nearly three years I suffered from anaemia (bloodlessness) and during that time consulted and took medicine from several doctors, without beneficial results. My complexion was of a waxy appearance, my lips and gums seemed bloodless. I suffered from headaches, dizziness and palpitation of the heart. My appetite was so poor that I did not care whether I ate or not, and I grew so weak, and was so much reduced in flesh, that my friends thought I was in consumption. As I have said I doctored without benefit, until the last doctor I consulted advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I followed his advice, and less than a dozen boxes have made me the well woman I am to-day. All the symptoms of my trouble have vanished and I enjoy the very best of health. I know there are hundreds of women who are drifting into the same condition I was, and to all such I woulld strongly urge the immediate use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act upon the bowels; they do not tinker with mere symptoms; they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why they cure common ailments like rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney trouble, headaches and backaches, St. Vitus dance, and the special ailments that afflict so many women and growing girls. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOWNEYVILLE.

(Special to The Post.)

On Saturday, the 15th inst., there was interred in the family plot here the remains of Mrs. W. A. Davis, Bobcaygeon. Mrs Davis, who was thirty-four years of age and the youngest daughter of Captain and Mrs. Lane, of Bobcaygeon, was well and favorably known. Owing to the storm that was raging, the remains did not reach Downeyville till 11.30. The Rev. Fr. McGuire sang the requiem high mass and pronounced the absolution, after which he spoke words of praise about the deceased. He had known her as a child, and knew her to the end as a faithful and devout member of the Catholic church. Words were inadequate to express all that Captain and Mrs. Lane have done for the priests and the Catholic church in the village of Bobcaygeon. Mrs. Davis was a favorite child, and will be very much missed by her parents. The Captain, who is well known and highly respected, has the sincere sympathy of his friends in Downeyville. Mrs. Davis leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband and one child, her parents and one sister, Mrs. Carroll, of Lindsay. May she rest in peace.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. LeHane, Lindsay, visited Downeyville last week. They received a warm welcome from their friends, who were delighted to see them looking as young and happy as ever.

John C. O'Leary, who is township auditor, paid two visits recently to Omemee in connection with his work.

Thomas Brady, Lindsay, was among those who accompanied the remains of Mrs. W. A. Davis to Downeyville on Saturday and helped materially in the choir.

Mrs. William Crowley, Ops, who was here for her cousin's funeral, spent a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scully.

Considering the severity of the weather and the condition of the roads, we were fortunate in getting our mail. There were only a couple of disappointments.

As for the mail at the Wharf, we are wondering if there is any, or if the postmaster himself is alive, as there has been no communication from that quarter for the past month.

The Government flags are arriving by mail, but we so much dislike to hoist them till the old school and the old pole get a fresh coat of paint.

Hockey.

TOWN HOCKEY LEAGUE

The games which would have, as per usual, been played this evening have been scheduled for to-morrow evening. This will give those interested in the league a chance to accompany the hockey boys on the special to Midland to-night.

The people of Lindsay take a great interest in the local games, as shown by the large attendance. And as the teams are now becoming more evenly matched, good hockey is anticipated to-morrow night and a still larger attendance.

THEY WERE WISE.

The Intermediates, with a number of staunch supporters, left this morning at nine o'clock for Midland. They did not wait for the special, as they wanted to get rested and be in good trim before the game.

CHAMPION BOWLER.

James Noonan, of Quebec, winner of the Canadian championship at the C. B. A. tournament last year gathered in greater laurels at Cincinnati, when he won the individual championship of the world at the tournament now in progress here. Noonan rolled against the winners of the American Bowling Congress, Western Bowling Congress and the National Bowling Association, and handily scored a total of 1,660. Nine games were rolled, and the winner, whose victory was a great surprise, averaged 185. He rolled consistently throughout, making many difficult spares.

NEEDN'T COME BACK

Wm. Scattergoof, of Oshawa, the man who attempted to smash Reynolds' record on the walk to Toronto and return, has gone to New Jersey, where he will go into the grocery business. He hopes to return and lower the record next summer. Wm. had better give all his time to his new business, for as a pedestrian he is a sad failure.—Port Hope Guide.

How Lindsay Helps A New Industry

Stump Pullers Built Here Bought by Turpentine Company.

Mr. Henry Rustad, president and manager of the Swenson Stump Pulling Machine Co., of town, returned last night from a business trip to Ottawa, where he has made arrangements to obtain all the castings his company may need in the future.

While there he also sold six of the large stump-pulling machines to the Canada Turpentine Co., one of the country's newest and most prominent industries. In the near future the company will, in all probability, use twice as many machines, as their business is rapidly growing.

The turpentine is obtained from the red pine stumps which are thick in every field in some parts of the country. The Stump Puller pulls up the stump, which is, then loaded on a barge and taken to the works, where, after certain processes, it yields up its supply of turpentine.

Leap Year Tea At Baptist Church

Most Enjoyable Time Spent---Proceeds Go to Buy a Piano.

A very successful Leap Year Tea took place last evening in the Baptist church, under the auspices of the Young People's Society. The object of the affair was to raise funds to pay for a piano.

Commencing at 6 o'clock, the tea lasted till 8, but the fun went on till nearly 9 o'clock. Dr. Norton, of Toronto, secretary of Baptist Home Missions, asked grace at the beginning of the tea. The attendance was large and the receipts amounted to a goodly sum.

King Winter's Charm.

Hurrah for the wind that is keen and chill,
As it skirts the meadows and sweeps the hill;
Hurrah for the pulses of swift delight,
That tingle and beat in the winter's night;
When over the crystal lake we glide,
Flying like birds o'er the frozen tide.

Hurrah for the lad with the sparkling eye,
For the joyous laugh and the courage high!
Hurrah for the health that is glad and strong,
So that life is gay as a merry song,
For the the motion fearless, smooth and fleet,
When skates are wings to the flying feet.

Picton Citizens Alert to Benefit

Asks That Agricultural Class be Taught In Collegiate There.

The following despatch in the Toronto press indicates that the people of Picton are fully alive to the benefits likely to be derived from the teaching of agriculture in the schools, and the fact should cause the citizens of Lindsay and Victoria County to congratulate themselves on being first in line to reap the advantages sure to follow, as a result of the good work of Mr. F. H. Reed, B. S. A., who has charge of the class instituted by the Government in Lindsay Collegiate. The despatch says:

A deputation from Picton waited on Hon. Dr. Pyne, the Minister of Education, yesterday to ask the Government to establish an agricultural class in connection with the Collegiate Institute in that town. Mr. John Dargavel, M. P. P. (Leeds), estimated that the class could be opened and maintained at a cost of from $2,500 to $3,000, of which Picton was willing to pay one-half.

The Minister said that the work which had been inaugurated at Lindsay, Galt and other places was of an experimental nature. If the classes continued to be a success they would be of value as feeders to the Ontario Agricultural College. He promised to consider the request.

Don't forget C. M. B. A. entertainment and social to-night in Parish Hall. Admission 25c.

C. O. O. F. Social Evening.

The Canadian Order of Oddfellows will have a social evening for themselves and their friends in the lodge rooms over Tangney's store on Thursday evening, 20th Feb. The Grand Master and Grand Treasurer are expected to be present and give addresses. A musical programme will be rendered, and refreshments will be served.—d2.

Wedded at Port Hope.

The marriage took place very quietly in St. John's Church, Port Hope, at one o'clock to-day, Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 19th, of Miss Alice Wallace, only daughter of the late Mr. Wm. Wallace, manager of the Traders' Bank, Port Hope, and granddaughter of the late Mr. F. H. Burton, M. P., to Mr. George Atkinson, only son of Mr. Robert Atkinson, Gillingham, Dorset, England, and grandson of the late Capt. Galloway, Coast Guards, Freshwater Bay, Isle of Wight.

The Shadow Of the Tomb

Lizzie Scully, Emily.

After a brief illness of four days, there passed away on Saturday, Feb. 1, at the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, Miss Lizzie Scully, youngest daughter of the late Denis Scully, Emily. Miss Scully, who had been visiting her sister in Toronto, not feeling well, made an effort to reach her home, but not being able to accomplish it, she fortunately got to Lindsay, where at the time of her death she was surrounded by all those who were near and dear to her, and where all that medical skill could do was done to save her life. But God willed that it should be otherwise.

The roads were then in an almost impassable condition, and required a great effort on behalf of the interested ones to get the remains home. This was accomplished on Sunday afternoon by her five brothers and many sincere friends of the family. From then until Tuesday morning hundreds visited the home to show respect for the dead and express their sympathy.

Considering the condition of the roads, the funeral to St. Luke's church was an enormous one, as everybody seemed to feel the death of the young lady, especially as it came as a surprise to all. The requiem high mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. P. J. McGuire, who, after reciting the prayers for the dead, spoke words of praise about the deceased, who, he declared, had been a model of perfection in the parish, and a most devout member of the congregation. The remains were interred in the new Roman Catholic cemetery.

This is the third death in the family within the short space of four years. Her mother, whose maiden name was Hutton, was buried four years ago, and her father, Denis Scully, on Sept. 10 last. Mr. Scully was one of the best known men in the County of Victoria, where he, with his four brothers, owned magnificent homes. They were among the early settlers, and got possession of some of the best land in the township of Emily, and by their industry and business ability became independent farmers. Having received more than an ordinary education, Denis Scully did not confine himself to the business of his own home, but proved a most useful public man. For thirty-five years he served in the township and county councils and for the same period was connected with the schools, being secretary-treasurer of No. 12 at the time of his death.

There are five sons, who have excellent homes, on and around the old homestead, and three daughters, Mrs. John Lucas and Mrs. Charlie Downey, of Downeyville, and Mrs. Tully, of Toronto. His brother, John, who is the oldest member of the family, and still hale and hearty, and a sister, Mrs. Crough, of Ennismore, also survive him. The family have the sincere sympathy of all in the loss of a beloved sister. May she rest in peace.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Traveller's credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

ASKS FOR JUSTICE

Alberta Cattle Stealing Case Before Parliament.

MOTION FOR THE PAPERS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Makes Explanation—Government Willing to Receive Overtures — Changes In Suburban Postal Service—Montreal Turnpike Trust—Increase In Bonus For Immigrants.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Most of the afternoon yesterday in the House of Commons was taken up with the resolution of F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier) suggesting entering into negotiations with the Province of Quebec for the abolition of toll roads on the Island of Montreal, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier skillfully amended it by declaring the duty lay in "receiving overtures," and the House divided on straight party lines. Nearly all the speakers addressed the House in French.

Mr. Ames was told that the Government, by order-in-council passed Jan. 6 last, had increased the bonus to continental booking agents of immigrants from Europe. The bonus is £1 per adult and 10s. per child. The rate has been 10s. per adult and 5s. per child.

Mr. Monk offered a resolution "that it is the duty of the Government to enter into negotiations with the Government of the Province of Quebec with a view to removing all obstacles to the abolition of tollgates on the roads of the Island of Montreal."

The discussion then went on in French, Messrs. Monk, Brodeur, Ethier, Boyer and Rivet taking up time till the division, which resulted in the adoption of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's amendment by 108 to 53.

Sir Wilfrid accepted the second resolution calling for an enquiry.

Col. H. A. Ward (Durham) moved for copies of papers in relation to the conviction of Frederick Blunden for cattle-stealing at Macleod, Alberta, in 1904. This, said Col. Ward, was a gross miscarriage of justice, evidence having come to the Northwest Mounted Police that Blunden was innocent. What was asked was not a pardon, but, in view of new evidence, a new trial, which the people of the district were confident would result in his acquittal.

Mr. Aylesworth said the case of Blunden was one of many in which interference with the action of the courts was asked. He reviewed the circumstances of the trial and renewed his objections to the proposal to bring down papers which ought to be held to be confidential. The Minister added that if the motion was so amended as not to include documents of the confidential character, he would have no objection to its adoption.

R. L. Borden asked if reports of judges were considered confidential to the extent that they couldn't be brought down to the House, because he recalled the case in which the judge's report was made public. The case was that of a boy in Colchester County, N. S., who shot a podlar, was given a fair trial and convicted. On an affidavit prepared for him by his counsel, setting forth that the shooting had been accidental, the lad was released without further enquiry.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier explained that in capital cases the judge was obliged by law to make a report, while in minor cases, such as that under discussion, the judge made his report by request. The Prime Minister pointed out that in the Shelburne case the utter absence of motive gave irresistible force to his affidavit.

Mr. Herron of Alberta put in a strong plea for a new trial, and the motion for the papers carried as amended.

Mr. Roche, on adjournment, gave notice that at the first opportunity in the House he will offer a resolution condemning the appointment of "Thin Red Line" Leach as distributor of seed grain.

In the House of Commons last evening Mr. F. D. Monk moved the following, supporting it with a speech dealing with suburban postal delivery about Montreal:

That in the case of cities where a free mail delivery is established, such free mail delivery should be extended to all contiguous districts, which though situate outside the municipal limits proper, are immediately adjacent thereto, so as to render such delivery easy of execution; and that it is particularly desirable to apply such a system in the vicinity of Montreal, where a dense population and large industrial interests, situate outside the municipal limits, but in reality forming part of the city for all practical purposes, are entitled to such free delivery.

Mr. W. F. Maclean (South York) hoped with the hon. member for Jacques Cartier (Mr. Monk) that the Postmaster-General would take up this matter of extending the rural mail delivery around the cities of Toronto and Montreal at least, and if there are any other cities similarly situated, that they will be treated in the same way, because municipal bounds do not necessarily limit the business that is concentrated at our cities. The city is always larger than its municipal bounds, especially now that factories requiring large areas for their works, and that large bodies of workingmen are gathered around these factories. These districts ought to be provided with the same postal facilities that are enjoyed by the people of the city proper.

Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier: Mr. Speaker, I have to express my regret that my hon. friend the Postmaster-General (Mr. Lemieux) is not in his seat to give my hon. friend (Mr. Monk) the answer to which he is entitled. I know that the question of improvements in the distribution of mail matter is in the hands of the Postmaster-General and that he has contemplated some changes in that direction. If he were here I do not know how far he would take exception to or agree with the resolution of my hon. friend, but I think that he would not be disposed to take any very serious objection to it because, I think, the resolution of my friend from Jacques Cartier expresses what is already the practice of the Postoffice Department. However, before the session is over, the Postmaster-General will, I think, submit a new policy to the attention of Parliament, and by means of which he intends to improve the postal facilities which now exist.

Motion agreed to and debate adjourned.

Seed Situation In the West.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—G. H. Clarke, Dominion seed commissioner, told the agricultural committee yesterday that the losses in the west through the bad season last year were practically confined to 12 per cent. of the farmers between Port Arthur and the Rocky Mountains. The majority of that per cent. had put all their eggs into one basket; in other words, had followed the idea of grain-raising, to the exclusion of everything else. There was enough seed wheat in the west to enable the purchasing there of all that was required for the sections in need of it. Seed oats would have to be imported in considerable quantities, and he mentioned Britain and Prince Edward Island as the places whence the most of it would come. He predicted that it would be found to be of excellent quality. Mr. Clarke, however, suggested the advisability of every farmer in the west testing barley and oat seed before planting.

An interesting result of the investigation into the needs of sections of the west respecting grain was an educative propaganda through the press and the Department, which had tried to reach every farmer in this way, and which could not fail to have a beneficial effect on future farming.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Short Session Yesterday — Petitions Against Three-Fifths Clause.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—Many of the members having gone to Guelph to visit the Ontario Agricultural College, only 22 were in their seats when the Legislature opened yesterday afternoon. All the Ministers were present, excepting Hon. Mr. Monteith and Hon. Dr. Reaume. The Opposition consisted of two, led for the time by Richard Harcourt.

Hon. Mr. Crawford opened the House in due form, but the business consisted of the reading of a half dozen petitions against the three-fifths clause in the local option law. Hon. Mr. Foy presented one such petition from the Metropolitan Methodist Church. Hon. Dr. Pyne presented two petitions, one from the Simpson avenue Methodist Church and the other from the Royal Templars of Temperance.

W. K. McNaught gave notice of a bill to amend the Assessment Act.

Elections In Newfoundland.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 20.—The final session of the Legislature came to an end yesterday, and it was announced that the general elections would be held next fall.

It has developed that the British Government paid the fines of the colonial fishermen who shipped on board the American schooner Ralph L. Hall, off Bay of Islands, in 1896, in defiance of the Newfoundland law. The prosecution of these fishermen was made a test case in the controversy between the Colonial Government and American fishing interests. The Supreme Court decided in favor of the Government, but subsequently an order-in-council adopted by the British Cabinet set aside the colonial regulations, an act which was condemned at the session of the Legislature which closed yesterday.

In Conference With Bryce.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Lord Grey, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Ambassador Bryce and C. C. Gibbons, chairman of the International Waterways Commission, had an interview yesterday at the Governor-General's office, when some of the important features of the commission were discussed.

The report of the Canadian section for the past year is ready for presentation to the Minister of Public Works.

MAN LAID ON TRACK

Let Train Run Over Him Rather Than Be Deported.

HAD BOTH LEGS CUT OFF

Died of His Injuries In Half an Hour—Irish Immigrant Wanted to Stay In Canada—Escaped From Train But Was Pursued—Tragic Occurrence on the Canadian Pacific at Sharbot Lake.

Smith's Falls, Feb. 20.—The body of a stranger, an Irish immigrant from Toronto, it is said, lies in the public ward of the hospital here as the result of a tragic occurrence on the C. P. R. at Sharbot Lake yesterday morning at 4 o'clock.

The man was one of a dozen immigrants being deported, and was in a tourist car along with the others in charge of a guard. It seems he was opposed to going back to the old land and had resisted deportation in every possible way. At Sharbot Lake station he walked out of the car and made an attempt to escape by walking up the track. Some of the men about the platform had noticed him going off, and when an enquiry was made for him, they made known the fact. Immediately the train was backed up the line in pursuit and soon came within sight of him. When he saw the train bearing down on him, he lay down on the rails evidently being more willing to die than to continue his journey back to the place from whence he had come. Before the train could be stopped the wheels of the last truck of the big Pullman car had passed over him completely severing both his legs close to the body.

The poor fellow was picked up and brought to the Smith's Falls hospital, but died in half an hour after reaching here. He regained consciousness for a few minutes just before he died, but refused to talk.

The man was about 38 or 40 years of age, and on some of his clothing there was the name McCartin.

Motorists In a Snow Storm.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—A despatch to The Tribune from Michigan City, Ind., says: Paul Picard, in the pilot car sent out by the Chicago Motor Club to meet the New York to Paris racers reached Michigan City Tuesday afternoon after two days and a night spent in fighting the terrible roadways of Northern Indiana. The last seven miles were made through drifts in the face of a blizzard which almost shut from view the trees and fences along the roadside. Mr. Picard returned to Chicago, convinced that further travel was impossible until the storm has passed.

John Banta, driving the Chicago Automobile Club pilot car is still fighting on. He is less than five miles from where he was Monday night.

Japan Is In Earnest.

Tokio, Feb. 20.—(C.A.P.)—All evidence goes to prove the Japanese Government has been unsparing in its efforts to avoid further complications on the emigration question, but has to face a powerful opposition from the emigration companies, who are now behind a proposal to move a resolution in the Diet censuring Hayashi's policy towards China, United States and Canada. Should the resolution be introduced it would probably be defeated by a narrow majority. Its passage would entail the resignation of the Cabinet.

Are You a Member of a Union?

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 20.—Liberals, Socialists and two Government supporters, one the Minister of Education, voted in favor of a bill to make it illegal for an employer to ask the question: "Are you a member of a union?" The bill was defeated by a majority of nine. It was aimed to prevent the introduction into the province of western American methods. The Government regarded it as unwise and ineffective.

Poisoned by Dirty Money.

New York, Feb. 20.—John McD. Hopkirk is dead as the result of handling poisoned money. He contracted malignant scarletina while cashier of a hotel in which cheap lodgings are given to the poor. In that capacity he handled hundreds of dirty germ-laden bills coming from the slums of the city.

Had Been In Many Prisons.

Jersey City, N.J., Feb. 20.—Archibald Simpson, an Englishman, who was caught passing counterfeit money, admits he has been in prison in England, Germany, France and Italy. He says he will not serve a term here.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" ALONE CURED HIM

Clarence J. Placey is a farmer of Ulverton, Que., known as a man of integrity and good judgment. He writes in no uncertain terms of the great benefit he derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives" for a long standing kidney trouble.

Ulverton, Que.

I suffered for many years with kidney trouble, with bad pain in the back and all symptoms of disease of the kidneys. I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill but nothing gave me relief and I was getting discouraged. I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so—and this medicine cured me when every other remedy failed. I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and from the outset they give me relief and I am now practically well again, no pain in the back, no distress, and all the symptoms of severe kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I suffered and to them I say "Try "Fruit-a-tives." 151

BIG THEFT OF DIAMONDS.

Daring Robbery From Jewelers' Store In Crowded Thoroughfare.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 20.—A $15,000 diamond robbery in broad daylight, in the heart of New Orleans, with hundreds of persons passing at the time, was perpetrated here yesterday afternoon at the jewelry establishment of M. Waldhorn & Co., Conti and Royal streets. Two men drove up in front of the store in a buggy. One of them alighted and smashed one of the large plate glass windows in the front of the store.

He quickly seized two trays filled with diamonds and, jumping back into the buggy, was driven off. A large crowd started in pursuit, but the men, buggy and horse were soon lost to sight in a cloud of dust in the old French quarter.

The proprietors of the jewelry store say the trays contained 112 diamond rings.

SALVATIONISTS ARRESTED.

Infant Found With Throat Cut—Mother's Curious Dream.

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 20.—Ensign and Mrs. Robert Booth, in charge of the Salvation Army post here, were held by the coroner yesterday, accused of murdering their 2-weeks-old son, who was found dead in their bedroom with a fearful gash in his neck.

Booth contends that the child was murdered by an unknown person, who left the door open and a bloody razor on a table. The wife tells of a dream during the night, that she was attacked by a snake, which she killed with a knife. The police have a theory that the woman killed the child in a fit of pueperal insanity. The mother is 18 years old.

ELEVEN MEN INJURED.

Explosion of Economizer Attached to Boiler In Power House.

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 20.—Eleven men were injured, one probably fatally, by the explosion of the economizer attached to one of the boilers in the new power house of the Hamilton corporation, a cotton manufacturing establishment in this city yesterday. Another man, Thomas Kenelly, a rag collector, was run over by a fire engine that was responding to the alarm, and was badly injured. The explosion caused an extensive property damage and throws out of employment more than 600 operatives.

Is British Fleet Coming?

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 20.—Halifax is much interested in a report current here that a large British fleet will spend some time in this station during the summer, and while the Marine and Fisheries Department here know nothing of the matter, the British Admiralty is steadily increasing its reserve supply of coal and coke at the dockyards.

There is now over 7,000 tons of Welsh coal and coke belonging to the Admiralty at the dockyards, and an Admiralty collier, the Camperdown, is due here next month with a large cargo of Welsh steam coal.

Anglo-American Treaty.

Washington, Feb. 20.—A treaty providing for a joint commission to adjudicate what are termed minor claims between the American and English Governments, as well as between citizens of each Government has been drafted, passed upon by the State Department, and delivered to Ambassador Bryce for the consideration of his Government. It was explained yesterday that it was the intention to provide for the disposal only of existing claims, and not such as may arise in the future.

Mistake Drives Mother Insane.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 20.—Because her 7-months-old baby was given by mistake a pill containing strychnine which had been prescribed for herself, Mrs. George E. Hay, aged 26, has become insane, and was Tuesday taken to the asylum.

Mrs. Hay's mother administered the medicine, and the baby became violently ill, though it will recover. The young mother has already buried two children.

MAY BUY OIL TRUST

Germany Anxious to Start Government Monopoly.

WOULD COST $18,000,000

But Profit Would Be Over $10,000,000 Annually — Imperial Treasury Department Is Considering Possibilities—May Take Over Standard Oil Co.'s Business—Monopoly In Alcohol to Be Included.

Berlin, Feb. 20.—The Imperial Treasury Department is considering the possibility of a Government petroleum monopoly. No decision has yet been reached, but experts continue to study plans for the taking over of the Standard Oil Co.'s business in Germany as well as that of its Russian and Roumanian competitors.

Baron Von Zedlitz, leader of the Free Conservatives in the Prussian Diet, who has made a special study of the subject, says the empire would have to make an initial outlay of $18,000,000 for oil plants, tanks, tank steamers and cars, but that yearly profits of from $10,000,000 to $12,500,000 could be expected. The baron is of the opinion that the Government could deal successfully with the probable refusal of the Standard Oil Co. to supply crude petroleum at a reasonable rate, and he thinks the requirements of the Government in American oil would be supplied by the Texas rivals of the Standard Co.

Experts have found that the oils of Roumania, Galicia and Russia cannot be used successfully with the burners generally employed in Germany without a considerable mixture of American petroleum; consequently the projected monopoly must include the buying of over 200,000 tons of American oil a year.

A state monopoly in alcohol is also under consideration.

Scalded to Death.

Soo, Ont., Feb. 20.—William Goddard, an employe of the Veneer Mill of the Lake Superior Corporation, was so severely scalded that he died from his injuries in the hospital.

Goddard worked at the mill but ten days, and, according to officials there, was running a machine within the mill. For some reason he went out into the yard where vats containing scalding steam and wood alcohol vapor heated to great intensity are located. In some manner unknown he slipped into the entrance to one of the vats, through a hole 24 by 36 inches. He was in the vat 30 seconds, his screams bringing assistance from the mill, and he was taken out at once. It was found that he had been fearfully scalded to the waist, and the seriousness of the accident was at once realized. He was removed to the hospital with all speed.

Deciding Stoessel's Fate.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 20.—The court which has been trying Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel for the surrender of Port Arthur to the Japanese, retired for deliberation at noon yesterday, ordering Gen. Stoessel and the defendants in the court-martial proceedings to appear Feb. 20 at 11 a. m., when sentence is expected to be pronounced.

Sentries have been stationed at the doors leading to the judges' room, which has been provided with beds, etc., indicating that the judges anticipate a considerable struggle in reaching a verdict.

Determined to Break Law.

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—A new phase has developed in connection with those charged with the breaking of the Lord's Day Act, which, it appears, may cause even greater trouble than before.

The declaration of the defendants is that every case convicted will be appealed to a higher court, and if nothing can be done there, the defendants will go on as before and satisfy themselves by paying a fine weekly.

Another Drowning Mystery.

Patchogue, L.I., Feb. 20.—A mystery which may never be solved was disclosed yesterday, when the body of a young woman was found floating on Long Island Sound at Mattituck. From the fact that the body was clad in garments of light texture, it is believed that it had been in the water for several months. It is believed that the woman committed suicide by jumping from the pier steamers which ply the sound.

Deakin on the Empire.

Melbourne, Feb. 20.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Deakin, presiding at the Imperial Federation League, said a closer yet freer relationship of the Empire was desired. It was necessary to be ready for any great emergency. An analysis of the respective tariffs showed the Australian preference to Britain equaled the Canadian. Moreover, other countries shared the advantages of Canadian intermediate tariff.

Postal Savings Banks.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Senator Knox introduced a bill in the Senate yesterday to establish a system of postal savings banks.

The bill embodies the plan outlined by the Postmaster-General in his annual report and authorizes the Postmaster-General to establish a system of postal savings banks composed of such money order offices as he may designate for that purpose.

No Divorce For Thaw.

Matteawan, N.Y., Feb. 20.—Harry K. Thaw yesterday denied absolutely the reports that he has begun or is about to begin proceedings to secure a divorce from his wife, Evelyn Thaw.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Selections

Frogs.

In the sixteenth century frogs were considered fish and allowed on fast days.

Arsenic.

Few mineral substances are so largely distributed throughout nature as arsenic, in spite of which fact arsenic mines worked with profit are relatively few.

Omnibuses.

It was on July 4, 1829, that omnibuses first ran in England. Two then began to run from the Bank of England to the Yorkshire Stingo Inn, on the New road. They carried twenty-two passengers inside, but none outside.

Baby's Eyelashes.

The baby's eyelashes may be clipped to induce the growth, but after earliest childhood that method is inadvisable, as the lashes may not grow a second time.

Postoffices.

Postoffices were first established in 1464.

The Dolphin.

The dolphin is a weatherwise fish. During a fierce gale or storm at sea the mariner knows that the end is near if he can see a dolphin sporting on the high waves.

Magic Ink.

One of the most remarkable inks known to the chemist is made of a preparation of prussian blue in combination with nitric and hydrochloric acid. The writing done with this ink has the singular property of fading when exposed to the light and recovering its color when taken into the shade or placed in perfect darkness.

Vitellius.

The greatest glutton of any day seems to have been Vitellius, the Roman emperor. He would fill himself to the bursting point, take a violent emetic and then repeat the gorging performance time after time.

Mineral Waters.

Mineral waters are found at the snow of the Himalayas, and they rise from the sea at Baiae and Ischia. They are to be found in all parts of the globe, but more particularly in volcanic regions. There are but few countries in which mineral waters are not to be found except in very flat ones and at the deltas of rivers.

Glass Varnish.

The Persians in 516 B. C. invented a transparent glass varnish, which they laid over sculptured rocks to prevent them from weathering. This coating has lasted to our day, while the rocks beneath are honeycombed.

Moscow Cathedral.

Moscow cathedral, next to St. Peter's at Rome, is the costliest cathedral in the world. On the exterior of the building alone 900 pounds of gold were used. Of its thirteen bells the largest weighs half as much again as "Great Paul" in London, and the doors of the cathedral, of which the largest weighs thirteen tons, cost $310,000.

Torrid Persia.

In certain parts of Persia the thermometer stays at 100 degrees night and day for the greater part of the summer, while so unbearable a temperature as 130 degrees is not unknown in that country.

Pillars of Sand.

The deserts of Arabia are among the most remarkable places of the world and are especially remarkable for their pillars of sand, which are raised by whirlwinds and have a very close resemblance in their appearance to waterspouts.

Bugle Calls.

All the calls in the regular army are sounded by bugle instead of by drum, the latter instrument being used only in concerted music. This is because a drum may easily have its head broken and is difficult to mend in the field, and it is useless when wet. A bugle gives a far clearer sound, and its calls can be heard at a longer distance.

Old Roman Cooks.

Seneca says that Romans had cooking schools and a teacher of mastication.

Sea Birds.

The cries of sea birds, especially sea gulls, are very valuable to sailors in misty weather. The birds cluster on the cliffs and coast, and their cries warn boatmen that they are near the land.

Just Out.

Elder Brother—Didn't you stop at the news agent's and get that magazine for me?

Jimmie—He didn't have none; jest sold out.

"Did he say so?"

"I didn't have to ask him. There he had it all printed on a big sign, '—Magazine Jest Out.'"—Chums.

BEAU FIELDING.

He Was the Enigma of English Social Life In His Day.

Beau Fielding was a young man of fashion in the reign of William III. His house was sumptuously furnished, his hunters, hacks and racers were of great value, and "he kept a table of princely hospitality." He had no ostensible source of income. All that was known of him was that he was the fifth son of Thomas Wilson, an impoverished gentleman of Leicestershire. Evelyn describes him as a very young man, "civil and good natured, but of no great force of character," and "very sober and of good fame." All attempts to discover his secret were vain. "In his most careless hours of amusement he kept a strict guard over his tongue and left scandal to conjecture what it pleased."

He redeemed his father's estate and portioned off his sisters and when remonstrated with on his extravagance replied that, however long his life should last, he would always have enough to live in the same way. Some said it was he who had robbed the Holland mail, for which another man had suffered; others that he depended upon the gambling table, though he never played for large sums. He was the enigma of social life till his career was cut short by a duel. His adversary was at that time a young man about town like himself, John Law, who afterward became the founder of the famous Mississippi scheme by which half of France was ruined. When the mysterious Beau died he left only a few pounds behind him and not a scrap of evidence to enlighten public curiosity.

Real American Aristocracy.

It was through the Declaration of Independence that we Americans acknowledge the eternal inequality of men, for by it we abolished a cut and dried aristocracy. We had seen little men artificially held up in high places and great men artificially held down in low places, and our own justice loving hearts abhorred this violence to human nature. "Let the best man win." That is America's word. That is true democracy. And true democracy and true aristocracy are one and the same thing. —Owen Wister in "The Virginian."

An Embarrassing Explanation.

"Why do you charge me 25 cents when your sign says, 'First class hair cut, 15 cents?'" demanded the indignant customer. The small French barber shrugged his shoulders and lifted his eyebrows.

"Pardon, monsieur," he returned softly, "but it is not all who come to me that have the first class hair."

Golden Sandals.

The highest priced sandals that have ever been made, it is believed, have just been completed by a Lynn shoe firm for the use of a Boston Masonic lodge in ritualistic work. The sandals are valued at $1,500 and are marvels in the art of shoemaking. In shape they are like the ordinary sandal, but they are made entirely of gold leaf, thousands of pieces of the leaf going in the making. Gold leaf was used to make them as pliable as possible. The buckles are of solid gold. The sandals weigh a little less than three ounces each.

Couldn't Hear It.

Olives of Valencia.

With regard to the age of olive orchards in Valencia there are many with authentic histories of 100 to 200 years and a few which were probably bearing fruit when Columbus discovered America.

Sculpture.

Sculpture in all probability began in Egypt. From Egypt the art passed on to Greece and Rome. There was a very early school of sculpture on the island of Crete. Pliny tells us that the Cretan sculptors were the first to carve and polish marble.

Violins.

Violins vary more with the weather than does any other instrument.

California.

The name of California, derived from the two Spanish words caliente fornalli—i. e., "hot furnace"—was given by Cortes in the year 1535 to the peninsula of which he was the discoverer on account of its hot climate.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Manitoba has abandoned the three-fifths vote in local option. Now see if Whitney will not soon back down and accept the Liberal demand that the majority should rule.

The Mail and Empire lauds Hon. Mr. Cochrane's bill to give to the settler the timber and minerals on his land, calling it "a boon for those who develop northern lands." Last session, when the Liberals urged that such a measure be passed, Hon. Mr. Whitney denounced it as "balderdash."

The January percentage paid by the Toronto Street Railway to the city was $27,177.29. This is a large revenue, and shows Toronto's bargain to be a paying one. No other city in Canada, the United States, or great Britain has such a revenue from its street railway, population considered.

Toronto Star: Prince Edward Island, we observe, is making its annual holler in Parliament about connection with the mainland. Some fine day, when the steamer Stanley has nothing else to do, it might tow the tight tight little island across Northumberland Strait, moor it fornitst the Isthmus of Chignecto, and silence these clamors.

RINGWORM

STUBBORN CASE HEALED BY ZAM-BUK

The most troublesome and obstinate of all scalp trouble is ringworm. Mrs. H. Girdlestone, of 106 Rawdon-st., Brantford, Ont., says: "My daughter had ringworm very bad, so bad that I was compelled to have her hair cut off. I obtained a preparation from the druggist to paint the sores, but instead of curing, the ringworm developed into nasty sores, mattering and smelling badly. I saw Zam-Buk advertised in the newspaper and immediately sent for a box After several applications I could see a great improvement, and as I kept up the Zam-Buk treatment daily the disease was soon checked. The nasty sores were thoroughly cleaned and healed and all trace of ringworm banished from the child's scalp in a few weeks after commencing with Zam-Buk. I cannot recommend Zam-Buk too highly."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, chapped hands, cold sores, itch, ulcers, eczema, running sores, catarrh, piles, bad legs, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, abscesses and all diseases of the skin. Of all druggists and stores, 50c., or post-paid upon receipt of price, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 6 boxes $2.50.

Race Prejudice.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

There is perhaps nothing more curious in modern civilization than the persistence of race prejudice. Science says that all mankind came originally from the same stock. Religion the Christian religion at least, says that all mankind are brothers, the children of a common Father. History tells us that race hatred is, by a slow and sometimes painful process, gradually becoming eliminated, that it is doomed to go with the black plague, the horrors of witchcraft, religious persecution and war itself. Yet, after two thousand years of the preaching and teaching of universal brotherhood, it is still one of the most important factors of civilized life.

World's Greatest Traffic Avenues

The Lake Traffic Passing Through Detroit and Soo Rivers.

Detroit, Feb. 18.—The Detroit River is the greatest water thoroughfare in the world. Statistics gathered by the government in 1907 show that during 1907 23,771 vessels passed through it, with a tonnage of 48,258,328, as compared with 24,077 vessels of 46,072,668 tons in 1906. The merchandise traffic of 1907 through the Detroit river amounted to 67,692,504 net tons, compared with 60,578,155 net tons for 1906.

The Sault Ste. Marie canal is the next greatest thoroughfare in the world. In 1881 the freight traffic through the Soo canal was 1,567,741 tons, and, in 1907, 58,217,214 net tons. The average tonnage has doubled since 1899. The maximum carrying capacity has increased from 7000 tons in 1900 to 13,000 in 1907.

The total lake commerce for the season of 1907 was 10 per cent. larger than in 1906, and 20 per cent. larger than in 1905, the total shipments reaching 83,387,919 tons.

Lured 32 Women To Hymen's Altar

Do Women Naturally Fall Easy Victims To Designing Men?

Was the man who married thirty-two women in a few years a wizard or are women more easily caught than mice? On the average, it only took him a month or two to find a moneyed victim, court, marry, plunder and desert her. There is no time left for failures. He seems to have succeeded every time. He managed it by moving on; but that made him a perfect stranger at the beginning of every adventure, and we are driven to the conclusion that in every place—Montreal seems to have been the first—a perfect stranger can, in less time than it would take most people to begin an acquaintance, pounce on some women, and get her love and her complete confidence. While scores of eligible men, whose standing is well known, stand at a distance through respect or lack of means, this bird of prey sweeps down like the 'greedy gled' in the Scotch song, snaps up the booty, and flies off to the next city.

It is certainly not true, what Bernard Shaw says, that every girl wants to get married, as every man wants to make a fortune. But it seems from this account to be true enough of most woman and most men. Under such conditions it should be unnecessary for a girl with money to have to pick up with an unknown adventurer, probably a scoundrel. But nature has for good purpose made love romantic. There is something humdrum about the respectable young man at home compared with the mysterious, pretentious foreigner. The numerous examples of matrimonial infelicity of which every girl knows will never daunt the average woman from venturing, nor will it, it seems, save some from venturing where every probability is against a happy future.—Montreal Witness.

Took a Tumble Missed the Train

Hard Luck of Lindsay Sport—Had to Spend Night in Midland.

A few of those who attended the hockey match last night were forced to stay over, whether or no. After the game nearly everyone went to Mr. S. J. Sheridan's curlier rink to have a short skate to the tune of the magnificent new organ. A few got so engrossed that they forgot how time flew and so were not on hand when the train pulled out.

"Bill" Cinnamon had perhaps the hardest luck of any. He saw that it was nearly train-time, and with a friend started to run for it. When just at the station, the train started to pull out. Bill led, and with an extra spurt took a short cut. Unluckily he tripped on a low wire fence, almost buried in snow, and fell headlong, almost at the tail end of the train. The friend saw the danger, and avoiding it, managed to get the last car, after a hard struggle. The last he saw of Bill was a leg or an arm as he floundered in the snowdrift into which he had fallen. He couldn't hear what Bill was saying, but he could make a pretty good guess for his thoughts.

Injured In Emily 40 Years Ago Repays the Money Then Donated Meritorious Action of Old-time Resident of This Vicinity, as Disclosed in Correspondence With Mr. J. R. McNeillie, Treas. of Victoria Co.

The following correspondence explains itself, and will no doubt be perused with some interest by our readers—more especially among the pioneer citizens of town and country:

New Albin, Jan. 27, '08.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Gentlemen,—Would you please put me in communication with those who have the care of the poor of Victoria County—especially of the townships of Ops and Emily—as there is a matter of business I wish to transact with them, and would like to get it done as soon as possible.—Yours,

THOMAS McNEARNEY,
R. R. 1, Iowa.

Lindsay, Feb. 4th, '08.

Thomas McNearney, esq., New Albin, R. R. 1, Iowa:

Dear Sir,—The proprietor of The Post, has handed me your letter of January 29th. You may address me relative to any matter in connection with the poor of the County of Victoria.—Yours truly,

J. R. McNEILLIE,
Clerk and Treasurer.

New Albin, Feb. 8th, '08.

J. R. McNeillie:

Dear Sir,—I got your letter yesterday. When I was living in Emily, forty years ago, a threshing machine accident caused the loss of my right hand. The mother of one of the men I was working for went around and collected $33 or $34 for me, and I want to pay it back now. It is impossible for me to return it to those who gave it, as I only remember a few of them, and they are dead. I have thought the proper thing to do was to send it for the benefit of the poor. Let me know that you will accept it for this purpose, and I will send it to you as soon as I can get to the office.

The money belongs in Ops and Emily, and my wish is that it will do some good among the people who were so kind as to give on my account,—Yours, etc.,

THOMAS McNEARNEY,
New Albin, R. R. 1, Iowa.

Lindsay, Feb. 12, 1908.

Thomas McNearney, esq., New Albin, R. R. 1, Iowa:

Dear Sir,—Your letter of the 8th inst. is to hand. What you have written is very interesting to me. The fact that the accident you refer to must have occurred in the township of Emily while I was a resident of the village of Omemee makes your statement doubly interesting.

There was established in the County of Victoria four years ago a House of Refuge for the free maintenance of all aged and poor persons who may be sent to it. The number of men and women cared for therein is now 57, and it will interest you to know that five of these are from the township of Emily. If you decide to send the money to me, the receipt of it will be duly acknowledged, and I would like to have your consent to state publicly the reason for the money being sent to me.—Yours,

J. R. McNEILLIE,
Clerk and Treasurer.

New Albin, Feb. 15, '08.

J. R. McNeillie:

Dear Sir,—I got your letter yesterday. Enclosed you will find an order for the money. Am happy in sending it to where it rightfully belongs. If you say anything publicly about it, please thank those who gave it 40 years ago, as the money belongs to them, and not to me. It was at Omemee we took the train, the 8th of November, 1869, and Postmaster Grandy was about the last man I remember seeing in dear old Emily.—Yours,

THOMAS McNEARNEY,
New Albin, R. R. 1, Iowa.

To-night's Great Curling Contest

Twelve Rinks of Presbyterian and English Church Curlers Will Clash.

We again call the attention of our citizens to the great game of curling appointed for this evening, when 24 ardent followers of John Knox will endeavor to convince the same number of believers in the Thirty-nine Articles and the Westminster Confession that what they know about the Scottish fame of curling is scarcely worth mentioning.

Since the publication of the ricks a few days ago some changes have been made, and as a result we give the reconstructed rinks as they will appear on the ice to-night. The draw for opponents and ice was made last evening.

The draw for ice was made this morning, with the following results:

The Winnipeg 'Spiel.

A telegram received this morning from Winnipeg stated that the Lindsay rink were still playing in the O'Grady Cup competition, the Dawson City rink being their mate. Yesterday they defeated Keston, Man., and Saskatoon, Sask., rinks. If Lindsay and Dawson City prove the winners, Mr. Flavelle will allow the Yukoners to take the Cup. Where is there a sport his equal?

Trains Once More Stalled in Drifts

I.B. & O. Junction Train Held Up at Cameron—Haliburton Cancelled.

The Klondike flyer, which leaves Lindsay every morning on the arrival of the train from Toronto, started out on her regular run yesterday at 11 a.m., and when within a short distance of Cameron, became stalled in the snow. In a short time the train was so surrounded with the beautiful as to become completely stalled. Word was sent to Lindsay, and a snow plow driven by two engines succeeded in reaching the stranded train about 9 o'clock last evening. The united efforts of the three engines were not sufficient to liberate the train until each was drawn out separately. The train was brought back to Lindsay, and the passengers were guests at town hotels until this morning, when the line was opened and service resumed as usual.

The passengers, while in the drifts at Cameron, were fed by a farmer residing in the neighborhood, who supplied sandwiches and tea to the famished passengers.

There was one unhappy couple residing at Minden, who will bless the G.T.R. for the detention of the minister whom they had engaged to perform the ceremony at Minden last evening.

Financial Stringency Affects the Business of a Well-known Lawyer.

Peterboro Review: Current and persistent rumors have rendered it unnecessary longer to maintain silence regarding the reported financial embarrassment of Mr. A. F. Dixon, of the legal firm of Messrs. Edmison & Dixon. Mr. Edmison, it is understood, is in no way mixed up with Mr. Dixon's misfortunes, which are due, as it is thought, unwise speculation in mining properties, etc.

Efforts made in Toronto to straighten out his difficulties were unsuccessful owing to the hard times, and he went to New York with the same object in view. He is expected home early in the week. It may be said that his relatives in the West are immensely wealthy and if so disposed could easily wipe out the small balance against him of $10,000.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

—The Y.M.C.A. hockey team will try out some new men in their game with the C.L.S. to-night. The new men will be W. Bowhey in goal and Bullick at point. Both will be given a chance to see what they can do. The rest of the team will be Williams, Preston, Yarnold, Menzies, forwards; defence, Wilkinson, Bullick, Bowhey. The regular practice will be from 7 to 8 as usual. The other players are requested to turn out to practice.

—The plunge bath is in good shape now. Come down and have a swim—the water is fine.

Don't Miss These Games.

To-night's Town League games promise to be very close and fast. All four teams have been trying since the last game to strike out their weak points, and a number of changes have also been made in some of the line-ups. The result of their efforts may materially change the standing of the League, and it only remains to be seen how far each team has succeeded in improving. The weather promises to be just cold enough for fast hockey and not too cold for comfort in watching a game.

Everyone who is at all interested in hockey, in any of the institutions represented by the teams, or in any of the players, should make it a point to be on hand to-night.

Was Named For Lieut.-Governor

Death of First White Child Born in Asphodel Township.

There passed away on the 13th inst., one of the oldest settlers of the township of Asphodel, in the person of Peregrine Maitland Cameron, at the ripe old age of eighty-six years and four months. The late Mr. Cameron was born on the eleventh of October, eighteen hundred and twenty-one, and had the distinction of being the first white male child born in the township. The shanty in which he was born was situated near the shore of Rice Lake, in almost the same spot where the fine brick residence of Captain Birdsall now stands. His father, the late John Cameron, first settled there, but afterwards moved to the place, since known as Cameron's Point. Later on they moved north about four miles, to where most of his descendants have since lived. The late Mr. Cameron had five brothers and four sisters, all but one sister having predeceased him. In politics he was a strong Liberal. He has witnessed many of the struggles and hardships of the early settlers, and could narrate many interesting events in connection with the early settlement of the township. He was named after the Lieutenant-Governor, Peregrine Maitland.

C.M.B.A. Social Last Evening

Another Delightful Assembly Under the Society's Auspices.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the Society's rooms in the Parish Hall last evening, being an entertainment given by the members of Branch 77 of the C.M.B.A., Despite the unfavorable weather the spacious rooms were taxed to accommodate the large crowd. The opening number—an instrumental, violin and piano—by the Misses Killen, was well received and was a brilliant and spirited effort. This was followed by a song by Mr. Jas. Gillogly, jr., "The King of the Main", which received well merited applause. A song by Mr. T. Fleury, jr., was one of the pleasing numbers on the program. Mr. Seldon Meehan, in his original selections, was rapturously encored. Instrumental duett by Misses McDonald and Shannon, was played with much taste, as was the duett by the Misses O'Boyle and Fleury. Miss Mary Hurley contributed a recitation, and was recalled. The accompanists were the Misses Fleury, McDonald, Shannon and Gillogly.

Light refreshments were served, and the balance of the evening was devoted to dancing.

The chair was occupied by Mr. W. E. Baker, president of the society.

"Oh, I see it's too late!" sighed the woman. "I called to ask if the missus wanted a washerwoman, but I see she's suited."

AN ENORMOUS TRACT OF LAND RICH IN TIMBER AND MINERALS

The country around Stanley Will be an excellent country for agriculture. Seventy-five per cent. of the soil is good, capable of being cleared up and subjected to farming operations; and the area is at least 250 miles square. All through this portion of the country there is timber, wherever it has not been destroyed by fires. In some places it has been killed by fires for the time, being particularly in the rocky country. The fires seem to be more destructive in that class of country than in the other part. Archdeacon McKay explained that he put up a sawmill at Lac la Rouge last year, and it is simply water power. The logs sawn there are the kind of timber found in that part of the country. The average is 17 logs to the thousand feet. They would be logs fourteen or fifteen feet long. The diameter would be about two feet average at the butt—good, large logs, clean timber. Very much the same timber as at Prince Albert. This good timber is scattered all over the country, sometimes for miles.

SNOWFALL IS MODERATE.

The snowfall there is not heavy, little more so than in the Prince Albert section. As a rule, frost comes in September, but wheat is generally sown on May 5, potatoes being planted from May 20 on. In summer the weather is quite as hot as Prince Albert, and the days are longer.

These are also statements on the mineral possibilities of the northern portion of these vast tracts by many witnesses. The evidence of A. Von Hammerstein as to the beds of jet sands which extend for many miles along the Athabasca river about 120 miles north of Edmonton, is particularly interesting. These sands are impregnated with oil rock, something the nature of tar. He considers there is in this locality evidence of enormous wealth in petroleum. He also refers to the extensive and valuable deposits of soft iron in the same locality, and he speaks of the wonderful natural gas well at Pelican Rapids, on the Athabasca. This well has been burning continuously, for 11 or 12 years, and is considered the largest gas well in the world. Almost anywhere in that district natural gas is found, says Mr. Von Hammerstein, and in his boring camps the natural flow of gas is used for lighting purposes.

An interesting field of speculation as to the possibilities of mineral exploration in Canada is opened up by considering a few facts, on some of the more recent mineral development which has taken place. The gold output of the Klondike may be placed at over $118,000,000 to date; the output in gold, silver and copper from the Le Roi and adjoining mines at Rossland camp, $37,000,000; the wonderful coal deposits at Fernie, estimated to last at the present rate of consumption, upwards of 6,000 years; and finally the Cobalt silver district, including the richest silver mines in the world; all these are discovered of the past twenty years.

UNPROSPECTED COUNTRY.

Now, a degree across the map of Northwest Canada, from the mouth of the Saskatchewan northwestwards to Athabasca river near Fort McMurray, and thence northwest again to the Yukon, divides the country into two portions, almost one-third lying south of the line. The two-thirds lying north are practically unprospected. In this vast country are immense mineral possibilities. Here and there a Government surveyor or explorer has found indications of wealth in gold, silver, copper, oil, sulphur and salt, and everywhere coal is found.

From Cumberland House northeastward towards the Nelson river, is a district called Pelican Lake Keewatin and Bluenose rocks. These are the same rocks which are now being found to be so rich in northern Ontario. There has been no exploration or prospecting of them, and their very existence is not hearly known. No one can say as to whether they are to be a barren portion of rocks found such in minerals everywhere else, or whether they will in future be the scene of perhaps even greater discoveries than have been made at Cobalt, Northeast again of this, and about 500 miles north of Prince Albert, there is an area of sandstone with large possibilities of coal, being the same formation which is found to be so rich in that mineral ground Lake Superior. At Dawson Lake sandbearing rocks are found, undoubtedly the same belt which extends across the Coppermine river, where the natives make implements from the copper found.

Everywhere on the rivers, and nearly always in close proximity to the mineral indications, waterpowers of all capacities are found, and these will doubtless become a strong factor in the development of the mining of the future in this country.

POSSIBILITIES OF FISHERIES.

Not alone in minerals and forestry were the industrial possibilities outlined, but the fisheries also formed an absorbing subject of interest. At a time when Lake Winnipeg and Lake Superior are practically fished out, and lakes Manitoba and Winnipegosis show signs of being depleted as fast as the government can supply spawn to replenish them, it will come as a surprise to most people to learn that the fish taken from these lakes is not a patent reproduction compared to the possibilities of exploitation contained in the vast network of lakes on the Mackenzie, Peshepichi, Peshepichi and trout, trout in all the lakes, and rivers, and in the Mackenzie and Slave rivers the incomes is abundant. In none of these waters has there been any commercial fishing, except in about lakes convenient to the Saskatchewan, and only two companies are operating there.

A report on the climate of these districts accompanies the other evidence and is compiled by R. F. Stupart, director of the Dominion meteorological service. He gives various very valuable temperature tables showing the average temperature at the various government stations throughout the northwest, by months and also the average precipitation of rain and snow.

In the summer months the temperature of the northern country is little below that of Manitoba or Saskatchewan. Any marked difference is at the more northerly points, where the sun shines one to three hours longer than farther south.

For the three summer months a great area, which includes western and central Alberta, northern Saskatchewan and the basin of the Mackenzie, almost to the Arctic circle, has temperatures above isothermal lines of 55 and 60 degrees. Throughout this whole region the percentage of the possible amount of sunshine ranges to approximate 55, and as the hours of possible sunshine at midsummer range from 17 hours in the latitude of Edmonton to 19 hours, 30 minutes at Fort Simpson, it may be surmised that growth of plants and cereals may be even more rapid in the northern than in the southern districts. The average daily mean highest temperature in July at Winnipeg is 77.8 degs. at Calgary 74.7 degs. At Hay River, on Great Slave lake, it is 70 degs., and at Fort Simpson 71.4 degs. Possibly the somewhat lower temperature in the north may be offset by a longer period of bright sunshine.

LATE SUMMER FROST.

From the very meagre observations in the Peace river district, it is not possible at present to report definitely on the liability to late summer frost. Fort Dunvegan, the only station at which a report has been kept for several years, is situated in the valley, and the temperature there registered may possibly differ somewhat from that on the higher plateau, although comparison with observations made in survey camps leads to the conclusion that the summer frosts which are in years recorded in the valley also occur on the higher lands.

While, as has been shown, the summers of the Mackenzie river basin differ greatly from the summers in Alberta and Saskatchewan, it should be borne in mind that as the latitude increases the more rapid is the downward trend of the temperature after about August 20. The mean for September near Lake Athabasca is fully 5 degs. lower than at Edmonton, and near Slave lake 6 or 8 degs. lower. The effect of high latitude is evident in September in the Peace river districts, as the temperature in this month no longer agrees closely with those of Edmonton and Calgary. In October, frosts are severe and are a most daily occurrence in northern Alberta and Saskatchewan, while north of Lake Athabasca winter is setting in rapidly.

One is impressed, at many points in perusing the evidence in this volume, with the necessity of steps being taken to gain a better knowledge by exploration and scientific observation of the country described by the different witnesses, but perhaps the most urgent need is the extension of the meteorological observation stations, from which much valuable data is calculated by Mr. Stupart. His evidence is interesting and worth careful study, and while his statements would naturally be conservative from the position he holds, there is much in his evidence to confirm the statements of other witnesses as to the agricultural possibilities of the north country.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Extend Local Option.

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—Further extension of local option and the abolition of the bar were the chief features of demands made upon the Government yesterday morning by a large deputation, comprising many representatives of churches and public bodies in Winnipeg and throughout the province.

When Premier Roblin forecasted vigorous measures to anticipate the sentiment of the province on bar regulations, he was cheered vociferously by those present. Crowded galleries and hundreds of citizens packed into them bore testimony to the deep interest with which the subject is regarded by the general public. The great majority, not only of the Government, but also of the Legislature, were present.

Government Will Give $300,000.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice that to-morrow he will move the following resolution:

"That it is expedient to provide that the sum of $300,000 be expended for the preservation, in a suitable manner, of the historic battlefields of Quebec, in connection with the tercentenary of the said City of Quebec."

This practically assures a contribution of $400,000 towards the scheme, as the Provincial Government has promised a grant of $100,000.

Won Race For Son's Life.

Charlottetown, Feb. 20.—Fraser Macdonald of Hampton was attending a temperance meeting on Monday night when he received word that his house was on fire. He ran a mile to the burning building, and entered just in time to save his adopted son, a nine-year-old boy, who was asleep alone in the house. He had just snatched him from the bed when it was buried under bricks from a falling chimney.

The dwelling was totally destroyed, with a loss of $1,500.

Verville Must Pay.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—Mr. Alphonse Verville, M.P., must pay Mr. Mederic Martin, M.P., $200 damages, besides costs of a suit in the Superior Court and court of King's Bench, according to a decision handed down by the latter court. The suit was entered by Ald. Martin shortly after his election to the House of Commons, in reply to remarks anent his candidacy by Mr. Verville, who was supporting the labor candidate.

Rescued by Firemen.

Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., Feb. 20.—The old colonial mansion in which the family of Admiral Farragut lived during the years of the civil war, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Of late the house has been occupied by Charles Gruen and family. Mrs. Gruen and her two children were rescued from an upper window by firemen after escape by the stairways had been cut off. The loss was about $10,000.

Will Disallow Natal Act.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The report of the Minister of Justice on the Natal Act has been submitted to the Cabinet. It is understood that the report recommends disallowance on the grounds of the act being ultra virus. The Cabinet did not meet yesterday so that the report will not be taken into consideration until to-day.

True Bill Against Burchall.

Glace Bay, N.S., Feb. 20.—Yesterday morning at the Supreme Court in Sydney, the grand jury found true bills on every count of the indictment in the case of the King v. N. M. Burchall, formerly mayor of Glace Bay, on a charge of theft from the Dominion Coal Co. Trial will probably begin to-day.

Death Before Divorce.

Seattle, Wn., Feb. 20.—Because his wife threatened to secure a divorce from him, L. Asbury, shot and killed her and himself Tuesday night.

Mayor Pays His Own Expenses.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 20.—By a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, Mayor MacIlreith will have to pay into the city treasury of Halifax the sum of $400, besides paying the costs of actions all the way from the common court to the Supreme Court.

The money was spent by the mayor when attending the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities at Winnipeg in 1905.

Fair Play For the Jap.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 20.—The Seattle Chamber of Commerce yesterday addressed a memorial to President and Secretary Root to the effect that its members believe that a majority of the people of the Pacific coast are not in favor of any immigration law that will treat differently the people of Japan from the way the inhabitants of any European country are treated.

May Import Weapons.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—A special from El Paso says: "The Mexican Government have raised the ban against the importation of rifles into that country, providing the importers can show good cause for taking them in.

Burglars at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Feb. 20.—Tuesday night burglars broke into the Grand Trunk Hotel here and stole $10 belonging to the proprietor, which had been put in a cupboard in the bar.

British Troops In Thibet.

Pekin, Feb. 20.—The final signing of the Anglo-Chinese treaty concerning Thibetan trade has been delayed by differences which had arisen over several minor points. The British Legation here, however, has informed China that the British troops who have been stationed in the Chumbi Valley, in Thibet, are being withdrawn, and this movement to evacuate Thibet before the signing of the treaty, is interpreted as an act of good-will, the purpose of which is to facilitate an agreement.

Missing Woman Found Hanged.

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 20.—Herbert Woodbury, a wealthy hotel and livery-stable keeper, whose wife disappeared Nov. 4 and whose body was found Tuesday night hanging in a room of Woodbury's hotel, was arrested yesterday. The most suspicious circumstance is the finding of the door of the room containing the body, locked on the outside, with the key in the lock.

Lindsay Intermediates Taste Defeat Lost To Midland Last Night, 7-2

AN EXCITING GAME WITNESSED BY OVER TWO THOUSAND SPECTATORS

Northerners Proved Unexpectedly Successful in Stopping Lindsay Rushes on Goal, and Their Forwards Were Hustlers.

What was perhaps the fastest game of hockey ever played in Midland rink, took place last night between the Lindsay Intermediates and the Midland team.

From start to finish the game was clean and exciting, and the players of both sides drew the highest admiration of everyone of the crowd of nearly two thousand people, who had come from all parts to see the game.

So highly interested were the people on the railway lines running to Midland that yesterday every evening train from all directions bore many sports to see the much talked of match. Although Midland supporters confidently expected their favorites to win, they mistrusted Lindsay's power so much from the record she has made in her games up to the present that very few of them looked forward to a lead of more than two or three goals on their own ice, and weren't any too confident as to the result on the round. Lindsay sports were in about the same box, and waited anxiously during the long ride down to see how the boys would make out.

Lindsay Supporters Detect a Slight "Frost" in Our Intermediates' Expectation re the Championship.

THE TRIP TO MIDLAND.

The special left town at about half-past four with two coaches, a baggage and two engines, fully prepared to buffet its way through the fast drifting snow to get its passengers in time for the game. Conductor Debois and his two efficient brakemen were in charge, and did everything in their power to keep order, and also further the comfort of the passengers. All agreed they were the men for the job. Lorneville had become blocked, and the train was forced to go all the way round by Blackwater. A short time after town was left in the rear, one of the engines broke a spring, and a wait of twenty-five minutes was necessary. After this things went smoothly for a time, but progress was slow owing to the snow, and several waits had to be made at different stations. However, shortly after 9 o'clock the train drew into Midland and the crowd immediately made a run for the rink.

Play had been on only a few minutes, as the management and referee had very kindly held the game till the special from Lindsay should arrive. The score then stood Midland 2, Lindsay 1, and as the class of hockey our boys were putting up was simply magnificent, things looked pretty bright. This, however, was not the most strenuous part of the game. After the first puck-off Midland looked to be able to simply run away with Lindsay, and scored two before Lindsay.

EVEN HAD A LOOK IN.

The first goal was scored in 7 1-2 minutes by Midland, followed 3 1-2 minutes later by another one for the same team; then Lindsay began to pick up, and after 2 1-2 minutes of highly exciting play, landed their first int he Midland nets. Midland was unable to retaliate until after 12 1-2 minutes of the hardest play. The visiting team was able to hold them well in hand, and managed, by well directed stick handling, to take puck from them in many a likely looking rush on Lindsay's goal. Only a few minutes of the first half remained to play, and the Midland team got an extra spurt on in an effort to bring the score more decidedly their way. Midland's fourth was scored about three minutes after the third, and the fifth followed a quarter of a minute later—almost from the puck-off. The play then continued the remaining few minutes without further scoring, but very fast.

Each team showed something of what they were made during the hard play; neither could say of the other that it was easy money.

A number of penalties were handed out to players on both teams, waying in length for the seriousness of the offence. Tripping was the most common, and both teams indulged in it off and on. A number of off-sides were called on both septetten, but none very serious. Referee Callwell was very strict on the points of the game and fair to both teams. He had his work cut out for him sometimes to skate fast enough to keep tab on some of the rushes.

Referee, leading Koyl, the husky cover-point, to the reformatory.

During the interval at half-time the intermediates had their usual rub-down, and when the game was called again, were fresh and ready to give the other team a run for their money.

THE SECOND HALF.

Play opened still faster than it had been in the first half, but again Midland got away two minutes after the referee came on the ice and landed their 6th in Lindsay's net. For seven minutes after this rush and counter rush were made. After a particularly exciting run up the ice McLennan, Midland's husky cover, complained of an injured shoulder and went off the ice. Lindsay, of course, had to put one man off also, and after a little debating among the team, it was decided that Taylor should play rail-bird during the rest of the game. Whether or not this was a mistake, is a matter of opinion—he certainly got in some good work while on the ice. The game then went on with six men aside.

Lindsay still put up a cracker-jack of a fight and held the Midlanders down from then till the end of the game, and in fact about five minutes before full time was called, were able to shove one in the Midland goal. The score at the end of the game thus stood, Midland 7, Lindsay 2.

The Lindsay team was treated well by all, and have nothing but praise for Referee Calwell, of Barrie. However, there was one man, the penalty, whom everybody was dissatisfied with. He was simply rotten, and showed himself utterly lacking in a spirit of fair play and sportsmanship. When a Lindsay man would get time in the box, he would keep him in just as long as he possibly could, while the Midland man's time would be cut in half. He isn't fit to officiate at a game of any kind.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The defence men—Koyl and Sullivan—were always in the way of the other team.

Bas Newton's goal minding was the envy of every Midland supporter in the rink.

"The Kid" Randall certainly deserves great praise for his work. He kept clear of the fence all evening, and also landed one of Lindsay's goals.

Stoddard played a whirlwind of a game nearly all night.

Cote was on the job, as also was Taylor.

If Lindsay boys could get up a little "com" and less individual work on the forward line, they would have stood a far better chance last night. Midland's "com" was superb.

Midland's men were all larger and heavier than Lindsay men.

There is a possibility of Switzer, the Midland centre, not being eligible on account of playing with the Victoria Harbor Intermediate team of three years ago, it being understood that all the men on that team were paid.

McDonald and Gould were two good men.

The hockey special to Midland did not reach town till 4.45 this morning. All enjoyed the trip greatly though.

There was too much "hogging" the puck, and individual play. What the Intermediates need is a good 'com', and to be able to be where each should be in a rush. Time and again last night the rubber was shot to a man who, instead of being in his place, was ten feet back. Notwithstanding this, the boys played a stellar game and hope to reverse the score Friday night, when they are going to overcome this difficulty.

The Field of Sport

Curling

THE WINNIPEG 'SPIEL.

The open events of the bonspiel are now rapidly narrowing down, and several rinks have fought their way into the eighths, or within measurable distance of the trophy. Flavelle, of Lindsay, was knocked out of the Dingwall by Lowe, of the Granites, by 12 to 3. He is now out of all open events. Dunbar, the St. Paul crack skip, is ahead for the Grand Aggregate so far; Smith of Kenora, was defeated by Eago, of Dauphin by 15 to 10 in the Tetley.

The rinks of Peterboro curlers who played Lindsay on Tuesday, and Bobcaygeon yesterday, passed through to Peterboro to-day. They were 4 shots up yesterday afternoon in Bobcaygeon, and 5 up on the evening's play.

Odds and Ends of Sport

Tommy Burns expects to bring home about $30,000 in English money.

More than 60 jockeys have been 'disciplined' for various offences at the winter tracks since last November. Some have been suspended for queer horsemanship, others for rough riding, while many have been fined for insubordination and general misconduct.

The proposition to give sparring exhibitions as an attraction during the approaching carnival, for which great preparations are being made, and for which the city council has appropriated $25,000, is condemned by the mayor of Havana, who denounces pugilism as more brutal than bull fights, that are a popular diversion to all pleasure-loving Cubans.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

(New York Globe.)

He was a dog
 But he stayed at home
  And he guarded the family night and day.
He was a dog
 That didn't roam,
  He lay on the porch and chased the stray—
  The tramp, the burglar, the hen away;
  For a dog's true heart for that household beat
  At morning and evening, in cold heat.
He was a dog.

He was a man
 And didn't stay
  To cherish his wife and children fair,
He was a man
 And every day
  His heart grew callous, its love beats rare,
  He thought of himself at the close of day
  And cigar in his fingers, hurried away
  To the club, the lodge, the store, the show,
  But he had a right to go, you know,
He was a man.

WANT CHEAP POWER

Sam Clarke Gives Hon. Adam Beck Gentle Reminder.

SCORES WHITNEY MINISTRY

Reaping Reward of Liberals' Good Work—Says Premier Deceived the People on Temperance Question—Three-Fifths Handicap — Allan Studholme Pleads Cause of the Wage-Earning Classes.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—Despite the efforts of the Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. Whitney, to make progress, the debate in the Legislature goes over into another week. Mr. Allan Studholme, "the Labor party," got the floor yesterday afternoon and continued his address to a late hour last night, when the Opposition leader moved the adjournment. On Tuesday Hon. Mr. Mackay will speak and the Prime Minister will wind up the debate.

Mr. Sam Clarke (Northumberland) resumed the debate. It had cost the province a good deal to get his honor's address and consequently it was fitting to give it full consideration. He reminded the Provincial Treasurer that he "didn't have to work" for that part of his surplus which was represented in the increased subsidy from the Dominion. He commended the idea of the experimental farming station in New Ontario to test the possibilities of the country, and he thought it would be fairer on the part of the Government to delay rushing settlers into the new country until its agricultural possibilities had been fully determined.

Passing on over the clauses in the speech from the throne, Mr. Clarke availed himself of the reference to the report of the committee that toured Europe looking into asylum conditions to pay tribute to Hon. Dr. Willoughby and express regret at his continued serious illness.

"I can't see what great things this Government have done," declared Mr. Clarke. "They have proved themselves good collecting agents, that's all. They have reaped in the rewards of the good work of those who went before them."

The interest which had developed in the progress of New Ontario, Mr. Clarke declared, was largely attributable to Mr. C. N. Smith, member for Sault Ste. Marie. So long as the Government followed his advice and "stole his clothes" they would not go far wrong.

Referring to the spoils system, Mr. Clarke said last time he had referred to it one of the hon. gentlemen opposite had reminded him that he had "a friend with a job." "So I've been very quiet ever since," added Mr. Clarke amid laughter.

Mr. Preston (Durham)—"And he's still got the job."

Mr. Clarke, amid laughter—"Yes, yes, that's it. He's still got the job."

Continuing the member for Northumberland read from The News of March, 1906, to show that the Government had dispensed with hundreds of justices of the peace, license commissioners and inspectors, fishery overseers, division court clerks and bailiffs, and issuers of marriage licenses.

"I see," he added, "that they have added over 800 issuers of marriage licenses. Well, I think that's wise, for this is leap year." (Laughter.)

Mr. Clarke wanted to know why all the plaudits from the private benches of the Conservatives were for the Minister of Mines and the Provincial Secretary. Of the others nothing was heard.

"What would become of this country if those two men died?" he asked. "If the good Lord took them, though I don't think He needs them." (Laughter.)

"I am sorry the Minister of Power is not here," he was proceeding when Hon. Adam Beck, who was conferring with the Premier at the side of the membership benches, spoke up "Here he is."

"I want to tell him," continued Mr. Clarke, "that the people of Toronto and Western Ontario are still looking for cheap power, and the waters of Niagara are flowing on uncaged. Three years of time has been taken up by the Government on the power policy, and nothing his been done yet."

Referring to the temperance question, Mr. Clarke declared that the license laws were no better enforced than under the old Government. Mr. Whitney, he said, had promised majority rule and a square deal, instead he gave them the three-fifths handicap. "I want to say," he announced, "that the Premier deceived the people on the temperance question."

Mr. Clarke undertook to tell a little inside history. "Hon. G. W. Ross," he said, "had pledged himself to Miss Temperance and he honestly intended marrying her. (Laughter.) But he got into difficulty. When he came to the caucus he had determined to stake all on the prohibition issue, to go in for it off his own bat. But he only had three of a majority and his associates were not willing to go with him. His difficulties prevented him from fulfilling his promise."

Mr. A. Ferguson (Cardwell) followed from the Government benches with his maiden address.

He expressed surprise and regret that the Opposition was aggrieved over the introduction of legislation giving the settlers timber and mineral rights. That view had been held by Mr. Ferguson and his constituents for years. The Minister of Agriculture was to be commended for his efforts to procure efficient farm laborers and to discourage the immigration of useless foreigners. The farmers were willing to pay good wages to those who did their work well.

As a new member Mr. Ferguson was surprised to hear that the only one thing the Opposition had brought against the Government was the purchase of a supposed blind mare. Mr. Ferguson declared that eight foals of this mare had sold for $25,000 in Scotland, the home of the Clydesdale. As a practical farmer he believed a splendid bargain had been made in purchasing the mare for $1,500.

"I have never been so proud of being a follower of Mr. Whitney as I am now," concluded Mr. Ferguson.

The very vigorous applause which greeted the rising of the "Labor Party," Mr. Allan Studholme (East Hamilton) led that gentleman to remark that he hoped the cheers would be as vociferous when he concluded.

"What Ontario wants," declared Mr. Studholme," is more patriotism and less partyism." Many things had been mentioned in the speech from the throne, but not a single word of benefit to the wage-earning classes.

"Labor, like Lazarus at the door of Dives, is being refused even the crumbs from the legislative table," was Mr. Studholme's simile. He spoke of the needs of the unemployed in Toronto and the suffering among the poor. The Legislature was partially responsible in bringing undesirable citizens from the old land. Mr. Studholme particularly criticized the grant to the Salvation Army and scored the immigration work of that organization.

OVER BILLION FOR NAVY.

Russia to Build New Fleet of Battleships For Her Navy.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 21.—Representatives of the Russian Admiralty submitted yesterday to the Commission of National Defence of the Douma the financial outline of the much-discussed naval program. The matter was discussed with open doors, instead of in private, as had been expected.

The program is to be completed in 1909, and it includes not only the construction of a fleet of battleships, but also hydrographic work at several of the ports of Russia. The expenditures involved amount to $1,078,000,000. One of the features of the program is a duplicate complement of guns for every ship to be constructed. Russian yards will be able to handle and complete the entire program, including the installation of turbine machinery.

An alternative minor program also was submitted. This provides for the construction of only four battleships and a fleet of smaller vessels. The estimated expenditure under this schedule is $225,000,000.

DEFENDS EMIGRATION WORK.

General Booth Addresses Eight Hundred Leaving For B.C.

London, Feb. 21.—(C.A.P.)—F. L. Goldsmid reported gratifying progress on the project to establish "Tunbridge Wells In Canada" at a meeting of supporters. Last year 169 persons emigrated. He urged that the Government should move in the matter of supplying the colonies with British emigrants.

Addressing a batch of emigrants, mainly agricultural laborers and female domestics, en route for British Columbia, General Booth defended the Salvation Army's emigration policy. He was satisfied the Army was on the right lines, and that it would go on progressing. It was being considered to place 3,000 to 5,000 men on railway construction work.

Five hundred of the 800 emigrants who sailed yesterday go to British Columbia under the terms of the Salvation Army's agreement with the British Columbia Government.

Tack Driver Dismissed.

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 20.—Trustees of Tuscarawas County Children's Home investigated the charges yesterday that Miss Clara Sterling, assistant matron of the home, drove a tack through 6-year-old Sampson Fowler's tongue, and ordered Miss Sterling dismissed from the institution.

Hartwick Howling Mad.

London, Feb. 21.—James Hartwick, the alleged murderer, took another turn for the worse Wednesday night in a mental way, and yesterday he was locked up in his narrow night cell with his hands secured with the "muffs."

CONDEMNED TO DIE

Final Scene in Court-Martial on General Stoessel.

COURT RECOMMENDS MERCY

Urges Commutation of Sentence—Suggests Confinement In Russian Fortress For Ten Years—Dismissal From Army — Widespread Plot Unearthed—Desperate Fight—Fifty Terrorists Arrested.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 21—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel was condemned to death last evening by a military court for the surrender of Port Arthur to the Japanese. Gen. Fock, who commanded the Fourth East Siberian division of Port Arthur, was ordered reprimanded for a disciplinary offence, which was not connected with the surrender, and Gen. Smirnoff, acting commandant of the fortress, and Major-Gen. Reiss, chief of staff to Gen. Stoessel, were acquitted on the charges against them for lack of proof. The court recommended that the death sentence of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel be commuted to ten years' imprisonment in a fortress and that he be excluded from the service.

Commutation of sentence was asked on the ground that "Port Arthur, beset by overwhelming forces, defended itself under Gen. Stoessel's leadership with unexampled stubbornness and filled the world with astonishment at the heroic courage of its garrison; that several assaults had been repulsed with tremendous losses on the part of the enemy; that Gen. Stoessel throughout the siege had maintained the heroic courage of the defenders and, finally, that he had taken energetic part in three campaigns."

Before the sentence was read measures were taken to prevent a demonstration in favor of Stoessel by a number of the younger officers and witnesses who were present. These later sent a despatch to the Empress saying that they would humbly bear testimony that Gen. Stoessel was the soul of the defence of Port Arthur, that he has always encouraged and put heart in the garrison to the best of his endeavor, and that in case of war they would wish to serve again under such a hero. They asked the Empress graciously to bespeak from the Emperor a full pardon.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 21.—Attempts that had been planned against the lives of exalted personages were frustrated by the police last night by a succession of arrests in various parts of the city, aggregating fifty men and women. This is the greatest number of terrorists ever taken by the police in the capital. The majority of them were heavily armed, some with bombs, and they made desperate resistance against the police. During the course of the arrests ten policemen were wounded and one was killed.

The operations centred around the palace of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, who, it is surmised, was the immediate object of the plot. Late yesterday several hundred gendarmes drew a cordon around an entire city block in the vicinity of the grand duke's palace, comprising 600 occupied apartments. Agents of the police searched these apartments from top to bottom and unearthed st[illegible] of explosives and firearms.

A fashionably dressed woman was arrested on the street. She carried a muff in which was concealed a quantity of dynamite and was escorted by a man who wore flat under his belt an infernal machine of a new type. Both opened fire when the police approached them, wounding three of them.

Another woman, who was arrested at the entrance of Ussupoff Park, killed a policeman during a struggle. Two men were arrested in the Grande Morskaia, one of whom is a notorious Italian anarchist.

Britain's Premier Ill.

London, Feb. 21.—The health of the Prime Minister, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, does not improve. Dr. Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to the King's household, has been summoned to confer with Sir Henry's own doctor.

The bulletins which are issued do not show anything alarming, but Sir Henry's friends are anxious and refer to his condition as serious.

THE FRENCH TREATY

Opposition Speakers Say It Will Hurt Grape Growers.

VALUE OF THE NEW MARKET

France Imports $300,000,000 Worth of Goods Which Canada Can Supply —Mr. Cockshutt Complains of Injustice—Hitting at Ontario—Agricultural Implement Industry Will Make Gains.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—The French treaty was under discussion in the House yesterday, and at midnight the bill embodying the convention was read a second time. Several Conservative members criticized features of the treaty without, however, offering any direct opposition to it. On the Liberal side able speeches in support of the convention were delivered by many, among others Mr. Paterson, Mr. Walsh, Mr. Logan and Dr. Beland. A point emphasized in the debate was the fact that under the treaty Canada was offered a market of $300,000,000 worth of goods, half of which was of products natural to or manufactured in the Dominion.

There was no division on the second reading, it being outside the power of the House to amend the treaty in the slightest particular.

Treaty Favors France.

Dr. Daniel commenced by saying that outside of the sentimental aspect of the question there was a business side. He thought the convention might well be called "a treaty to facilitate imports of French manufactures into Canada." In the French Chamber practically the only criticism offered was with regard to items of boots and shoes, and as to the value of Canadian manufactures imported into France was only $441 in a year, it could not be claimed that the treaty was much to the disadvantage of French manufactures. There was a great disparity between our exports to and imports from France, figures for nine months being $6,679,349 of French goods imported and $1,409,572 of Canadian goods exported to France.

Special treatment had been given to articles of exclusively French manufacture, while there was no provision for exportation to France of special products of Canadian soil.

Proprietory Medicines.

Regarding proprietary medicines, Dr. Daniel showed that while we import to the value of $40,000 yearly from France, we had not the power to export a single dollar's worth of these medicines to France. Absinthe, a particularly dangerous decoction of French manufacture, was given special treatment under the new tariff.

Dr. Daniel feared the reduction of the duty on light wines would have a serious effect on the Canadian grape-growing industry. More than one-third of the grapes grown in Canada were converted into wine. France, he declared, had got much the better of us. She had been given real advantages of trade, while we must look to the future for any advantages that may come to us. He, however, commended the direct shipment feature of the treaty.

Stable Tariff Needed.

Claude Macdonell asserted that the people of Canada desired a stable tariff. The various forms of tariff were creating an unrest and insecurity among the established industries of the country, which was bound to have a serious effect.

The new treaty did not extend advantages to products unloaded at the great lakes ports. He had seen direct vessels discharging cargoes at Toronto, while the treaty gives preference only to direct shipments to sea and river ports. This was not the time to enforce the port to port clause. The facilities were not adequate as there were only two boats in seven weeks.

There was an apparent intention of the framers of the treaty to benefit the port of Montreal without considering the interests of western importers.

Mr. Macdonell protested against the making of treaties or selection of channels of transportation by order in council. Toronto importers desired more freedom of choice of port of entry, and in the interests of these importers and those of other sections of the country, there ought to be a change in this respect. Unfortunately, we were so situated that during exceptional winters shipments by way of St. John were delayed, to the loss of business.

Grudge Against Ontario.

Mr. Cockshutt (Brantford) held that the advantages secured were "infinitesimal." The Finance Minister seemed to have a grudge against Ontario. A short time ago a cutlery industry at Brantford went down for want of a little encouragement; later he attacked binder twine industry and now was doing injury to the grape-growing industry. Where was the Minister of Customs when Ontario industries were being jeopardized?

"Hit Ontario was the policy of this Government," declared Mr. Cockshutt, while it had been admitted by Mr. Brodeur that plenipotentiaries had a principle in view, the advantage of Montreal. The least the Finance Minister could do to the wine industry was to admit free spirits for fortifying wines.

Mr. Cockshutt was losing faith in the Government as a treaty-making power. The worst day for Canada was when Parliament let the Japanese treaty go through without full discussion. The Ministers would yet see their mistake, as he believed the Japanese treaty would cause trouble for ten years to come. As for the French treaty, it would benefit France $5 for every $1 gained for Canada. In short, it looked to Mr. Cockshutt like a gold brick.

GUERILLA WAR IN MANCHURIA.

Native Chinese Are Fighting—Drove Japs From the Towns.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 21.—Advices have been received in Portland from Hong Kong and other Chinese cities that a species of guerilla warfare has broken out in Manchuria, between the Japanese soldiers who make up the army of occupation, and the native Chinese, who are bent on driving out of the country the representatives of the power whom they fear as an encroaching menace.

It is said in these advices that several conflicts have already occurred between the soldiers and the people, and that the Japanese have been driven entirely from the towns of Hop Gi Bin and En Tai Hop Gi.

The fact that trouble exists between their country and Japan is well known to well-informed Chinese of this city, and all look upon the situation as serious; some of them even say that a long and bitter struggle has begun.

Father Murdered Infant.

Woodstock, N.B., Feb. 21.—Deputy Sheriff Foster and his assistants yesterday found the remains of an infant alleged to have been slain by Richard Grey of this place, who is now under arrest. The mother of the child is Grey's daughter, while Grey himself was its father. The finding of the coroner's jury will be murder. Grey says he thought the child would be better out the way.

"Black Hand" Atrocity.

New York, Feb. 21.—The dismembered body of a man, believed to have been a victim of a mysterious Black Hand murder, was discovered in a dump in the "Flatbush" section of Brooklyn yesterday. The trunk of the body had been cut in two, and portions of the arms and legs were missing, while the face was so slashed as to make the features almost unrecognizable.

Home-Bound English Miners.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—A hundred miners from Lethbridge and the west are here to-day on their way home to Lancashire. They came here to the coal mines on the promise of steady work, but they say they have worked but six weeks, and are almost starving.

Farmer Got the Fox.

St. Catharines, Feb. 21.—Robert McQueen and George Hill have entered suit against John Bailey, a farmer, for $2.25, the estimated value of a fox skin. The plaintiffs were hunting and had chased the fox under the farmer's barn, when he came along, ordered them away and captured the pelt.

Sydow Assistant Minister.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—Herr Sydow, assistant Minister of Posts, has been selected by Chancellor Von Buelow, with the approval of Emperor William, to fill the position of Secretary of the Imperial Treasury, in succession to Herr Von Stengel, resigned.

Boys' Heroism Rewarded.

Ayr, Feb. 21.—The presentation of two handsome Royal Humane Society medals was the unique event here yesterday, the recipients being Irwin and Orville Ennis, sons of John Innis of this place.

On June 28 last these boys were instrumental in saving the life of a companion named Albert Walton.

Chopped Off Man's Head.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Feb. 21.—George Dixon, a carpenter on the American collier Aberenda, killed Walter Wierchi, chief officer of the collier, yesterday. He severed the head from the body in one blow from an axe.

Earthquake at Vienna.

Vienna, Feb. 21.—An earthquake shock lasting two seconds occurred here at 10.10 Wednesday night. No damage is reported.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper —no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend Crossing The Divide.

By AZILE AIDYL.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Jessie Morgan.

The stagecoach rattled out of the little town of Redding at 6 o'clock on a snappy December evening. The driver swung his six horses with great flourish and cracking of whip through the rough but level road of the main street and out at the north end of the town. A brilliant dash down the steep incline to the creek, and he brought the coach far up the road on the other side, where the mountains rose so suddenly from the plains. And so began the climb over the divide.

The three passengers inside the coach, a young girl and two men, apparently accustomed to this mode of traveling, did not brace themselves to resist the pitching and rolling of the ponderous vehicle, but allowed themselves to sway with its every motion.

The road was broken and rough from the heavy autumn rains. Once the coach struck a "chuck hole," which almost brought the inmates to their feet and caused a general friendly laugh.

Up to this time the girl had paid no attention to her fellow travelers. She had been absorbed with her own homesick thoughts. To start the drudgery of a governess' life, miles from nowhere, with no prospect of returning home for a year, was depressing. Oh, well, she must make the best of it. She tried to distinguish the men's faces, but it was too dark, and both were muffled in heavy overcoats. As they boarded the coach at Redding she had noticed one was an old man, the other gray as to hair, broad, strong and youthful as to shoulders.

The older man sat beside her on the back seat. The two men chatted about the rich "strike" in Deadwood, where fortunes were being made in a day. She gathered that the young-old man was mining an old hydraulic property just beyond Lewiston, and he was on his way there. Well, she was going "just beyond Lewiston" also, and she wondered if this huge person was to be a neighbor of hers.

Their desultory talk gradually died away, the old man fell asleep, and his head bobbed and swayed and ducked about until he seemed in danger of losing it, but he slept on oblivious of such alarming possibilities.

At 11 o'clock they reached the Halfway House, and while the driver changed horses the passengers stretched their cramped limbs, pacing the narrow porch of the inn. Later they went into the low, long dining room, where a cold lunch and hot coffee were served them on a table spread with a red and white cloth. The girl saw that the young-old giant could not be more than thirty-seven or thirty-eight years old, though his hair was silver. And such blue eyes! They seemed to belong to a child, so clear and unclouded were they.

He supplied her needs at the table without seeming to do so, and when the driver called "All aboard!" he helped her into the coach in the same unobtrusive manner.

The fresh horses, only four now, as the heavy climb was over, pulled the stage along at a livelier pace, and within a half hour they had reached the summit of the divide and commenced the descent.

The driver cracked his whip, and they whirled down the narrow mountain road, swinging the horses far out on the very edge of the embankment as they turned the outward curve of the mountain and then sweeping rapidly in at the bend—as only a stage driver can and keep his coach in the middle of the road.

It was a magnificent night, the moonlight making it clear as day. The girl from her window could see innumerable lofty peaks of the great coast range stretching in what seemed a level line.

The passengers were startled by a sudden jerking of the coach and a wild imprecation from the driver.

"Something's wrong," said the giant, and he opened the window on the right hand side and looked out. In a moment he drew back.

"The off lead has broken the inside trace and is frightened," he said as he divested himself of his overcoat. The driver must have some help. "Don't be nervous"—this to the young girl. "We'll fix it all right."

He opened the door and stood on the step a second. By this time the terror of the runaway was communicated to the other horses, and they were fast getting beyond control. The coach was rocking and pitching at a tremendous rate.

"Close the door after I get on top," he called to the old man, who was thoroughly awake by this time, and then, waiting until the coach swung around the inner curve, he put one foot halfway up the door on the open window ledge and, grasping the low railing above, pulled himself up on to the top of the coach.

The girl had closed the door and, leaning far out, watched him as the swinging coach permitted step to the seat of the driver and over the dashboard to the tongue. A terrible lurch and he had to pause and hold on for a moment.

"Pull hard on the wheelers," he said to the driver. "I'll look after the others."

Slowly he began moving along the tongue of the wagon, and the girl felt sure he was talking to and reassuring the horses, for his presence did not seem to further alarm the poor frightened brutes.

The girl's hands suddenly grasped the sides of the window as she saw him near the end of the narrowing tongue and realized what he purposed doing. For a moment he paused to pat the neck of the wheeler; then, standing with one foot on the swinging singletree, he gave a tremendous leap and sprang to the back of the maddened leader. He drew himself along over the foaming creature's shoulder and, reaching forward, succeeded in freeing the bit from its clinched teeth, then, talking softly and gently patting its neck, gradually quieted the poor animal, which now, responding to the sawing of the reins, came to a standstill halfway down the mountain side.

The man sprang to the ground, as did the driver, and together they mended the trace and looked over the entire harness. The horses, steaming and trembling, were now docile as lambs.

"You'll have no further trouble tonight," said the man to the driver. "These poor brutes are pretty thoroughly exhausted."

"Smoking Jehoshaphat, but that was a close shave!" said the driver. "We'd all been in kingdom come if it hadn't been for you."

"Oh, not as bad as that, I guess!" answered the man and, turning to the horse who had caused all the trouble, "You would have come to your senses in time, wouldn't you, old boy?" The horse answered by rubbing his head against the man's shoulder.

The giant walked back and climbed into the coach as though nothing unusual had occurred, but the driver as he mounted to his seat and gathered up the reins muttered: "That dodgasted horse never giv' in like that to anybody in his life before. That feller's a reg'lar charmer, like the one in the show at Frisco."

And as the stage rattled on he would say every few minutes, "A reg'lar charmer, that's wot he is."

They made fairly good time thereafter and just at dawn pulled up before the door of a small hotel in Lewiston. As the girl, very pale, stepped to the ground she held out her hand to the silver haired giant, saying:

"I want to thank you. I saw what you did, and it was that which frightened me most. You saved our lives. I shall never forget it. Goodby," and she disappeared into the hotel.

He saw her several times after that at the Peterson ranch just below his mine. He learned that she was the new governess for the Peterson children, but was always busy when he called at their ranch. And how often it seemed necessary to see Peterson lately, even though he never had more than a moment's talk with her.

One day a terrible storm came up, and it rained unceasingly, which kept the giant busy strengthening the reservoirs. The next morning he was awakened by the roar of rushing water. Dressing hurriedly and putting on his high rubber boots, he was soon down at the point of the hill where he could see that Peterson's ranch was entirely submerged, the house seeming to stand in the center of a lake, with the water gradually rising past the window sills. He hurried down the hill and waded through the three feet of water to the house. He climbed through a window, and there on the stairs sat the girl.

"Throw something warm over your head and shoulders and come down," he called.

The girl unhesitatingly complied. He opened the door with great difficulty; then mounting the stairs halfway he gathered her in his arms and without a "by your leave" strode out of the door through the water to the hills.

"The storm is abating, and the water will soon recede, but you could not remain there. My foreman's wife will make you comfortable."

How small and light she was! He could carry her so forever! And how disgustingly narrow the flooded valley seemed! Reluctantly he placed her on the rising ground.

"Where were the Petersons?" he asked.

"They went to visit relatives on the X-Bar ranch. Oh, they left the hired man with me! He had just gone, as you came, to see what he could get in the way of a boat or a balloon."

Then still in a laughing tone, though her eyes filled, she said, "It seems to be your business to come to my rescue."

"Won't you give me the job for life?" he asked eagerly. "I believe I could prevent disaster touching you, even a flood."

And, looking up into his strong, powerful face, she answered, "I believe you could," as she put both hands in his.

CHECKING A SCOURGE.

Statistics compiled by the Provincial Board of Health show tuberculosis to have been responsible for 11 per cent. of the deaths from all causes in Ontario for the past ten years, remarks an exchange. In the decade from 1897 to 1905 there were 30,4 709 deaths caused by the white plague. While in some localities there has been determined and praiseworthy effort made to check the ravages of the disease, the yearly death rate of the province shows such slight diminution that the provincial board has good cause for bringing the matter to the attention of the legislature in a series of recommendations. They include:

Compulsory notification of all cases.

Care, control and nursing of indigent patients.

Enforced disinfection of premises vacated by victims of the disease.

Supervision of home treatment by trained nurses under control of local boards of health.

Practical measures for preventive education for the people.

Such legislation as will encourage immediate action in the establishment and maintenance of district sanitaria.

With most if not all of these recommendations those who have given the white plague subject any serious consideration will heartily agree. Much concern is felt over outbreaks of smallpox, and rightly so. It is a loathsome disease and, if allowed to become epidemic, would prove a death agent on a wholesale scale. Tuberculosis is, to all intents, epidemic throughout the province. Its harvest of death is appalling; its train of suffering impossible to estimate in extent. The legislature could not engage in better business than that suggested in the recommendations of the provincial board of health.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

—Hamilton Times: The other night in Toronto, that delectable Tory statesman, Gamey, had his fling at the Englishmen, who came to live in Canada. Speaking to a club of kindred spirits, he declared that the Englishmen "weren't worth a tinker's damn." Perhaps the Englishmen fully reciprocate the Mephistic politician's sentiment. It's a mighty poor English immigrant who would not feel that he was insulted by being compared with R. R. Gamey.

Hamilton Times: Speaking at McMaster, the other night, Mr. Flavelle, of Toronto, expressed the hope that our Government would not borrow a dollar of the people's money in Canada for public works. He strongly argued that our local funds were all needed for the commercial purposes of the country. That is a view meriting consideration. It is probably true that Provincial and municipal borrowing of local currency has had not a little to do with contributing to produce or intensify the money tightness. We want outside capital, and to enable us to get it on reasonable terms, we must make investment secure, and keep good faith with those who conduct the enterprises of our country.

Strange.

"How does it seem to be divorced?" asked the curious young thing.

"Well," replied her wise friend, "it seemed a little strange at first. It was quite a while before I could get used to sitting down to supper, and not having anyone to kick about the food."

COMMUNICATIONS

TOWN DEBENTURES.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—I agree with most of the sentiments of "Ratepayer's" letter in your journal of the 18th. Many of us know that there is quite a large amount of money deposited in our local banks and post office, which yields the depositors three per cent. I do not know the rate of interest which our debentures bear, but presume it is five per cent.—at least they should never have been issued at a lower rate under present monetary conditions. The investor would thus realize two-thirds more on his investment than he is now doing, which should surely be sufficient inducement to make a change.

As possibly some of the advantages over mortgage investments may be unknown to some of our readers, I will, with your permission, give a few that occur to me. The security is unquestionable; there is no trouble hunting titles, looking after registration or insurance, etc.; the interest is payable on the due date — all you have to do is to detach the year's coupon and take it to the bank, and your money is paid. You don't have to notify the borrower, and have to wait a week or month or more for him to come and pay, and then give him a receipt and hunt up the mortgage and endorse it thereon. In case, at any time, you wish to realize on your debentures, you have an article that is as saleable under ordinary financial conditions as a horse. There is also quite a possibility that debentures purchased now to yield five per cent. will, in the course of a year or two, be worth considerably more than par. I feel quite sure that it is owing to the lack of knowledge of the value security and convenience of an investment like our debentures that will prevent our local investors from buying them. I passed over another feature—any person holding debentures can take them to their banker and he will at any time advance your money on them when he could not look at a mortgage without considerable expense.

Some of our farmers have, to my knowledge, taken up their local school debentures during the past year or two, which a few years ago would have been sent off to Toronto for sale. If it would not be impertinent I would suggest to the Council the advisability of inserting an advertisement in our local papers, offering the debentures in sums of $100 to $500 to suit the buyers, and setting forth briefly some of the advantages over allowing their money to lie in the banks or investing it in mortgages. If nothing came of it, the loss would be trifling. Only last week a large lot of debentures were offered by the city of New York, and the offers exceeded the supply six fold, and the city realized 104 for 4 1-2 per cent. debentures, and the security is no better than that offered by our debentures. There are other points I would like to refer to, but my letter is now too long.—Respectfully yours,

H. J. LYTLE.

About Cow Testing Interesting Figures

Some Comparisons of Value to all Progressive Farmers.

The records of the dairy and cold storage cow testing associations in the Province of Quebec are full of interest.

In one association the highest yield of any cow in a certain herd during six months, from June to November, was 132 lbs. fat. In a neighboring herd the best yield was 200 lbs. fat, or a difference of 68 lbs. fat. This is a difference in the earning power of those two cows of at least $17 in six months. This is not a contrast between a good and a poor cow, but between the best cows in each herd. In this case 20 cows of the one kind equal 44 of the other as regards value of product. Why should not the returns from scores, yes hundreds of our dairy cows be increased by $17? They could be very easily if farmers were fully alive to the possibilities of systematic improvement. We must aim higher.

In another association a more startling difference is discernible. In one herd the best cow yielded 450 lbs. fat during the full period of lactation, while the best cow in another herd gave only 141 lbs. With butter fat at 25 cents per lb. the one cow is credited with $112.70 and the other with only $35.32. This is a difference of $87.38 between these two cows. Assuming that the cost of feed is the same in both cases, and is $30, it is found that 12 cows in the one case would equal 188 of the other.

Entertained Her Friends.

A progressive euchre part was given by Mrs. Rhys Williams to her young friends on Friday evening, 14th. The gentleman's 1st prize was carried off by Mr. Herbert Williams, whilst Miss Ruby Wood won the lady's prize. Miss Motz, of Berlin, and Mr. Jack Fleury, of town, won the consolation prizes. After refreshments and music the young folks thanked their kind host and hostess, and went home in the wee sma' hours of the morning.

The hockey match to-night, Midland vs. Lindsay, will be the most exciting struggle ever witnessed on Lindsay ice. Don't miss it. Our boys need your money and encouraging support.

Big Doings Among Masons To-night.

About 75 members of Peterborough Lodge of A. F. and A. M., of Peterborough, will visit Lindsay to-night, and will be entertained by Faithful Brethren Lodge, at their handsome rooms in The Post building. The Peterborough brethren will be brought to town by a special train manned by a Masonic train crew, Mr. M. Sanderson pulling the throttle and G. L. Thompson acting as conductor. The visiting brethren will be entertained at a banquet at the Royal hotel.

Will be Remembered Here.

The Rev. A. J. Harvey Strike, Queen-st. Methodist church, former pastor, has received a unanimous invitation to become pastor of the Campbellford Methodist church, and has accepted the call. Mr. Strike's pastorate at Deseronto has been very successful. The missionary and connectional funds have been larger than any previous year, and the general work of the church has prospered. Mr. Strike's many friends will be interested in his success.

Defeated But Not Converted

Episcopalian Rinks Taken Into Camp By Presbyterians Last Night.

There was a gathering of clans at the Curling Rink last evening, and a slaughter of innocents, for which St. Andrew is to be held accountable. We refer, of course, to the challenge game of curling between six rinks of Presbyterians and the same number of members and adherents of the Church of England faith. The contest had aroused deep interest, and the attendance equalled that seen at a big bonspiel event.

The rinks were well balanced, and at the outset the Episcopalians had the followers of John Knox in a state of funk, being some half-dozen shots ahead at the sixth end. Unfortunately this bit of news, on being disseminated among St. George's men, induced a feeling of over-confidence, which was attended with dire results. Skip Fred Knowlson, one of the stars on the English side, permitted his men to play with their opponents too long, and when they realized their situation the case was irremediable — Skip Gage, for the Presbyters, had rolled up a score about a yard long. Still, the Church of England men put up a game fight, and the victory was anybody's until the last end.

The following are the players and scores:

Friends of President Johnston Ellis, who was likewise in attendance, may feel a little hurt by this apparent partiality, but possibly the explanation is that Johnston was the guest of the Lieut.-Governor or closeted with Premier Whitney when the artist called on the convention.

Tooke SHIRTS

The Colored Neglige Shirt is the popular shirt to-day.

A short time ago neglige shirts were worn only in summer.

Now the best dressed men wear them all the year round.

They find them much more comfortable for daily use, than a stiff-bosomed shirt.

Not only are they more comfortable, but they wear longer, because they make fewer trips to the laundry.

It is not the use of a shirt that wears it out it's the laundry that does it.

The name Tooke on a shirt means Fit, Wear and Comfort—look for the name.

Wit and Wisdom

To repeat an unkind remark is as bad as to invent a lie.

Repeated failures probably prove that the world is on to your curves.

Learn from your mistakes, but don't cry over them. We best redeem the past by forgetting it.

Young men often start in a business they want to go in, when they should go into a business they ought to go in.

A New York judge says that it is the bad cooking on the part of wives that drives men to drink. However, it is cheaper to hire a good cook than to indulge in the liquor habit.

Said an ambitious youth one day to a young lady—"Don't you think I'd better dye my moustache?" caressing the faintly visible progeny. "I think if you let it alone it will die itself," said the lady.

"No," he said as they congratulated him on his engagement, "I'm not so particularly charmed with the girl, but I expect to be happy. Her mother is about the best tempered woman I know of."

"When you feel that you will die if you don't marry her", says the Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Cleveland, "then you are in love and it is time to marry." But even if you don't take the good doctor's advice the chances are greatly in favor of your not dying."

C.O.O.F. Social Last Evening

The Program an Especially Pleasing One---Large Crowd Present.

The entertainment given in connection with the local lodge of the Canadian I.O.O.F. was held in their lodge rooms, Kent-st., last evening, which was crowded to the doors with members of the order and their friends. The chair was taken by Mr. W. W. McWatters, N.G., and on the platform were Revs. Wilson, of Dunsford, Rev. Phelps, Mr. C. Hughan D. D.N.G., and Mr. Lewis, of Bobcaygeon.

The programme was a good one. The Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Bobcaygeon, made an excellent speech of about forty minutes, which was most interesting. Dr. White also made a speech on the broader fraternal obligations of citizenship, which was well thought out and heard with attention. Rev. Mr. Phelps also gave a five minute speech, which was full of good suggestions. The chairman's address was short. The following ladies and gentlemen took part in the programme; Miss Lacey, instrumental; Mr. Robinson, song; Miss McGill, recitation; Messrs. Naylor Bros., Miss Mitchell, instrumental; Miss Morrison, song; Misses Mitchell, instrumental; Mr. Lake, song; Mr. and Mrs. Morton, instrumental; Miss Mark, whistling solo; Miss Stacey, instrumental; Miss Ethel Hughan, song; Misses Greenbury and Morrison, instrumental. Each item on the program is worthy of special mention.

Refreshments were served after the program, which brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Ex-Reeve Lowes of Emily Township

Badly Injured in Collision With Street Car---Sent to Hospital.

Peterboro Examiner; With an impact that could be heard for blocks, a north bound George-st. car No. 12, going at full speed, crashed into a sleigh laden with coal at the corner of Dublin and George-sts. last evening, throwing the owner of the outfit, Mr. Wm. Lowes, ex-reeve, a farmer residing in Emily, five feet away and painfully but not seriously injuring him. It was thought for a moment that the unfortunate man had been instantly killed, as he was hurled through the air and struck heavily on the side of the road.

The coal was scattered over the street for many yards, the sleigh overturning in the collision and spilling the contents.

Mr. Lowes was unconscious for several hours after reaching the hospital, but his injuries were not as serious as was thought at first. He was stunned by the shock and received a bad shaking up, but was not otherwise injured. No bones were broken, and it is not thought that he was injured internally. He so far recovered this morning that he was enabled to leave for his home.

Progress On Construction Of Grand Trunk Pacific

Officials Say Edmonton Will be Reached This Year---Four Miles Per Day.

(Winnipeg, Feb. 18. W) (Special)—It is stated that the contract for the construction of the first hundred miles of the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Prince Rupert east will be let by the officials of that company in Montreal this week. All tenders were opened on the 6th of the month and since that time the engineers have been constantly engaged in the examination and comparison of the figures submitted by the various contractors. Of these there were several from the east, and several others from the Canadian west and the Pacific coast in the United States. It is understood that the firm of Foley, Walsh and Stewart, to whom the contract for the construction of one hundred and twenty-six miles west from Edmonton was awarded, have tendered on the new contract east from the terminus on the Pacific.

The contract which is to be awarded at the present time is an interesting one to contractors, owing to the fact that the larger portion of it is along the shore of the ocean and the shore of the Skeena river. Sixty miles of the line is of this nature and vessels with supplies can reach the point of operation at any time. Much of the work done is heavy rock cutting along the shore of the north and the river, but it is expected that the work involved could be completed in a comparatively short time.

Of the the hundred and twenty-six miles included in the contract of Foley, Walsh & Stewart in the proximity of Edmonton, six miles is to the east of that city, extending to the big bridge of the company at Clover Bar, the balance being to the west of the city. Operations in connection with track-laying have now been suspended on the main line running west owing to the fact that the cuts had become filled with snow. The company considered the question of removing the snow and continuing operations, but the plan did not appear feasible. The work was therefore closed down, but it is the hope of the company that it will be possible to resume shortly after March 1. When this can be done, both track-laying machines will be used and operations will go on westward from the Touchwood Hills, and eastward from the present terminus, east of Saskatoon. The gap to be filled in with steel has been reduced to 65 miles, which could be readily covered in a fortnight with both machines working.

INTO EDMONTON THIS YEAR

Officials of the company state that there is no reason to doubt that the line will be completed into Edmonton during the current year. The great impediment in the way of its completion is the construction of the Battle river bridge. Where it not for this bridge, there could be no doubt regarding the construction of the completed line, since one hundred and fifty days will lay all the track. Work on the Battle river bridge cannot, however, be well begun until the line of rail has reached that point from Saskatoon, a distance of two hundred and four miles. Three to four months will be required to complete the permanent bridge over the river. Should it appear that in view of the length of time required for the construction of the bridge there is danger that the line will not be completed into Edmonton this year, the track laying machines will begin work from the Edmonton end and will push on the track laying from the Clover Bar bridge eastward.

RUSHING TRACK LAYING

In order that the track laying may be hastened this year, the G. T. P. have strengthened their track laying machine, so that instead of laying three miles per day, four or more miles may be laid. The difficulty with the machine in use last year was that the shafting was not of sufficient strength to work well on a train of more than for one-half a day's work. It is necessary to carry six cars of steel and an equal number of cars of ties. This is sufficient for one and one-half miles of track which the company expect to lay in the half day. When the attempt is made to lay more than one and one-half miles in the half day, it is found that the shafting is not of sufficient strength to work the rollers on the additional cars. This is the defect in the machinery, which has been remedied for the operations of this current year, the additional strength being given so that more cars can be operated on a single train of track laying equipment.

A WORLD'S RECORD

It is also proposed by the company to work three shifts during the long days of the coming summer instead of two. By this means it is expected that when the weather is at the best, four and one-half miles of track may be laid per day by one machine. During last season, it is stated that a world's record was made on the construction line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. For one month it was estimated that there had been constructed three miles of track on each working day. Work at this rate was actually done on each working day of the month. Nine sidings were, however, built as the line advanced, and a certain amount of time was lost in connection with the completion of these sidings. Making allowance for these sidings, a rate of three miles per day was made for this month, a record which it is said has never been equalled in the history of railway construction. This season the company expect to do still better.

WINNIPEG TO PORTAGE

The bridge over the Assiniboine at Portage will be completed about the middle of the month of March and the forty-five miles to Winnipeg will be put in operation in the summer. From six to eight steam shovels will be used throughout the season in connection with ballasting operations and large forces of men will be employed in this work. The ballasting of the entire line will be completed this year and the line operated. The bridge at Saskatoon will be completed about April 15.

Somebody Calls It Home.

(BY EDMUND VANCE COOK.)

Country 'round is rather dull; town's a sort of match;
Landscape needed mendin', but the town's a blame poor patch.
"Ugly" is an ugly word, so I sha'n't call it such,
But just a look'll show that the town ain't very much.
Streets are only wagon-ruts, and sidewalks bit or miss,
Up a step for that one and down two jumps for this;
Just a string of straggly stores and houses sprawled about;
First thing every drummer asks is, "When's the next train out?"
"Cannon-ball" goes through here with a shudder at the sight;
Drops a mail-bag, maybe, as if pityin' our plight.
Last place you might ever call a pictcher or a po'm,
And yet some of us like the place; some of us call it home.

I've seen some bigger places, maybe better, maybe worse;
Seen some whoppin' residences, kept as careful as a hearse,
Just jam full of doors and windows, with a tower, p'rhaps, to boot;
Sort of crossed between a hotel and some sort of institoot.
I suppose they had good fixin's on the inside, but I swear
I'd feel just as homey livin' in the Court House on the Square.
Not that I'm reflectin' any, for I ain't the kind that pokes
Ridicule at anybody. I believe that folks are folks.
And no doubt those big-house people are, as far as I can see,
Just as human in their feelin's and as good as you or me.
Why, there's human folks in Timbuctoo and human folks in Nome;
It mightin' suit me either place, but some one calls it home.

I suppose it's sort of foolish, but I bet I ain't alone
In the feelin' that I have for things that I can call my own.
Why, there's my place, it ain't so much to speak of, after all;
'Most any other house has got a window and a wall,
Some common things for comfort and some dearer things for looks.
A sprinklin' round of pictchers and a little row of books,
Some garden things a-growin', and a welcome home at night
From a little bunch of babies dancin' when you come in sight;
It's all so sort of common that I couldn't make you see
If you didn't have the feelin' that keeps bubblin' up in me,
For, I tell you, there ain't a place beneath the big, blue dome
That pulls me like it does, because— oh, well, I call it home.

FARM NOTES

A LITTLE SEED

Its only a tiny thing,
All dry and hard indeed,
But wonderful secrets hide away
In the heart of a little seed.

When we hold it to the ear,
We cannot hear a sound,
And yet within this crinkled shell
Are life and beauty found.

There are wee brown rootlets there,
And shining leaves of green,
And beautiful, slender, graceful stems,
And flowers to please a queen

Do you think it is not true?
Well: plant a seed and see.
Then day by day with wonder watch,
The lovely mystery.

TIPS FOR FARMERS

Reports from the southern states say that the green bug, which did so much harm among the oats of Ontario, last year, is appearing this year.

Farmers' Institute meetings are having strenuous times for existence in Ontario, at the present time, owing to the big snowstorms causing poor travelling accommodations.

Cattle feeders all over Ontario are looking for unusually profitable return in May exporters. In one respect at least the situation justifies the expectation. It is generally believed that there are not over half the stall-feeders in the province now that there were in the corresponding date last year. In the United States conditions are similar. Unless, therefore, general trade is very bad in spring, exporters in good finish at that time ought to bring satisfactory returns.

Many farmers, although keeping a number of horses, do not know the simplest remedies for the slightest ailments the horse is heir to. Flatulence or colic with swelling is quickly relieved by a drench of salt and water (which will only take in a certain amount of salt), followed by gentle exercise. This will force the gas out, and the patient will soon be relieved. A second dose in about twenty minutes is advisable if not sufficiently relieved.

Those who have no farms in Ontario do well often to go west, but we think any warning against the desertion is timely. There is land for all who work it, good land, and those who enter upon it now will ere long have reason to give sincere and hearty thanks. The open and free life of the great west, or the gay and frivolous life of the city, is not always the best. It does not always contribute to the health of the people, and it does not always add very rapidly, if at all, to their enrichment. — Bowmanville Statesman.

Don't keep the milk in the cow stable.

Don't keep the pet dog in the cow manger.

Don't oblige the cows to stay out of doors when they want to stay in the barn.

Don't expect the hog to lay on fat when he is fed corn, and then get ripping mad if the cow gets fat and goes dry when fed exclusively on the same diet.

Don't fail to provide the cows with an abundance of bedding, for the cow that must stand up to rest and be hitching back and forth from one foot to the other while ruminating, is not doing her best for her owner.

REMEMBER THIS

There is no land on the face of the earth so rich that it will bear constant cropping of any one or with any rotation of non-leguminous crops, such as maize, sorghum, wheat, barley, oats, or any other grasses outside of the legumes, for the simple reason that all these crops are dependent upon the soil for the nitrogen, and if these crops are removed from the land nitrogen exhaustion must sooner or later follow. Even if the manure from these crops was saved and returned to the land, with its strength all unimpaired, it would only put off the evil day; for at the very best, nothing more, with the exception of carbon, would be returned to the land than was taken out of it. Hence the exhaustion of lands without growing some kinds of leguminous crop is only a question of time.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

CONFLICT WITH UNEMPLOYED.

Police Fired on by Marchers Who Were Freely Clubbed.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—The marching of nearly 1,000 foreigners upon the City Hall, where they said they intended to make demands for work, precipitated a riot on Broad street, in the heart of the city, late yesterday, and 20 persons were injured before the police dispersed the marchers and arrested 11 of them.

The men marched from the foreign settlement, in the lower section of the city. The leaders and a score of others in the line carried red flags, having a black border. When they reached Broad street, a few blocks below the City Hall, several wagons attempted to pass through the line and three drivers were dragged from their seats by the marchers and badly beaten.

Policemen ran to the rescue of the drivers and a riot call was sent in. When soon a large body of police reached the scene a general riot ensued.

Some of the marchers drew revolvers and began firing at the police, and the mounted officers riding into the centre of the fight, used their batons right and left upon the heads of the offenders. In the melee three policemen were shot and slightly wounded and a bystander was struck in the leg by a stray bullet. Reserve Police Officers Byott and Smith were severely beaten and were removed to a hospital.

Harry Druding, one of the drivers in question, was beaten and nearly stripped of his clothing. Fourteen participants in the demonstration were severely clubbed by the police and were sent to an hospital.

These fourteen were either foremost in the ranks of the marchers or were flag carriers, who were singled out by the police and arrested, when it was ascertained that the men had secured no permit from the city officials to parade. The charge against the men arrested is inciting to riot.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER MILL.

Thirty-One Killed Near Berkeley, Cal. —Mostly Chinese Employes.

Berkeley, Calif., Feb. 21.—It is reported that between 25 and 31 Chinamen and four white men were killed and six white men seriously injured in an explosion yesterday.

Brockville Man Murdered.

Brockville, Feb. 21.—News has just been received here of the murder at a little place called Fance, 20 miles from Florence, Wis., on the 3rd inst., of Patrick Campbell, a former resident of this town, who went to Wisconsin 25 years ago.

Campbell, who was 52 years old, was unmarried and resided alone in his log cabin on a farm of 40 acres. On the evening of the 3rd a Pole called at the cabin and demanded a night's lodging. Campbell did not like the look of the stranger, and told him so, whereupon the latter departed. A few minutes later, on going out, Campbell received the charge of a shotgun just as he was leaving the door.

Twelve hours later he was found by a neighbor in his hut, still breathing and conscious, and from a description given of the stranger the authorities arrested Paul Kaan, who is now being held.

Billek Sentence Affirmed.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—The Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the decision in the Cook County Criminal Court, in the Billek murder case.

Herman Billek was convicted of the murder of one of the children of Mrs. Mary Vzral. He was a clairvoyant and fortune-teller, and acquired great influence over Mrs. Vzral, and it is claimed by the police that the couple, by means of arsenic, killed Martin Vzral, the husband of the woman, and four of the children, in order to obtain life insurance carried by the victims.

Mrs Vzral committed suicide when she heard she was about to be arrested.

Express President Suicides.

New York, Feb. 21.—Eugene W. Guindon, president of Fuller's Express Co., committed suicide at the company's offices yesterday in Chambers street by shooting himself in the head. Mr. Guindon lived at the Hotel Marie Antoinette. It is believed that ill-health caused Mr. Guindon to take his life. He was 67 years of age.

Factory Girls In Danger.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Several hundred girls employed in the large hosiery mill of Thomas Henry & Sons, Trenton avenue and Tioga street, in the northeastern section of the city, were driven from their work yesterday by a fire which destroyed the mill. About twenty of the girls were overcome by smoke, but they soon revived after reaching the street. The loss is placed at $150,000.

Roosevelt May Hunt In Ontario.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 21.—President Roosevelt is considering an invitation extended by W. F. Knox and George P. McCallum of the Michigan Soo, to take a hunting trip in the Canadian woods, north of here, after the expiration of his term.

He said he would endeavor to arrange for the trip, which will include a long tramp after moose and bear.

Bank Cashier Sentenced.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 21.—Alex. B. Butt, cashier of the wrecked People's Bank of Portsmouth, Va., yesterday pleaded guilty upon three of the twenty-two indictments against him, after making restitution to the depositors to the extent of $47,500 on the total shortage of $252,066. He was sentenced by Judge Bain to three years in the penitentiary, and to pay a fine of $7,184.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Cattle and Hogs Firmer at Chicago.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, for Wednesday and Thursday, were 64 carloads, composed of 900 cattle, 809 hogs, 559 sheep and lambs, with 99 calves.

Exporters.

There was nothing doing in the export class, excepting in bulls, of which there were quite a number, which sold at $3.75 to $4.40, with an odd one or two of prime quality reported at $4.50.

Butchers.

A very few prime picked lots sold at $4.75 to $5; loads of good at $4.25 to $4.60; medium, $3.85 to $4.25; common light cattle, $3.50 to $3.75; cows, $3 to $3.85; butcher bulls, $3 to $3.60 per cwt.; canners, $1.50 to $2 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

None of either feeders or stockers were reported on sale. Messrs. H. & W. Murby are open to buy stockers and feeders of any weights or numbers, having many orders to fill.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a strong market for good to choice milkers and forward springers, but these were far from being plentiful. Prices ranged from $35 to $65, but few reached the latter figure, not more than two or three during the week. The bulk of the best cows sold around $40 and $45 each.

Veal Calves.

The market is strong for the right kind of veal calves. Prices ranged from $4 to $6.75 per cwt., with new milk-fed calves worth $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts light. Prices firmer for sheep and lambs of good quality. Export ewes, $4.25 to $4.75; yearling ewes and wethers, for local butcher purposes, $5.50 to $5.75; rams and culls, $3.75 to $4.25 per cwt.; lambs, $5.75 to $6.75, with a few prime topnotcher ewes and wethers at $7 per cwt.

Hogs.

Receipts have been light during the week. Mr. Harris quoted the market unchanged at $5.15 for selects, fed and watered at the market, and $4.90 to drovers, f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 20.—Cattle —Receipts, 200 head; slow and barely steady; prime steers, $5.60 to $5.85.

Veals—Receipts, 150 head; active and steady; $5 to $8.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 4300 head; active and 5c higher; heavy, mixed and Yorkers, $4.90 to $5; pigs, $4 to $4.65; roughs, $4.15 to $4.35; stags, $3 to $3.60; dairies, $4.75 to $5.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 8900 head; active; sheep steady; lambs, 15c to 20c higher; lambs, $5 to $7.50; yearlings, $6.25 to $6.50; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $2 to $5.65.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Beeves — Receipts, 1002; no trading; feeling steady; exports to-day, 5450 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 44; market dull and unchanged; ordinary to good veals sold at $6.00 to $8.50 per 100 pounds; fed calves at $3.50.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 6783; sheep almost nominal and unchanged; choice lambs, firm, others steady; good sheep sold at $4.75 per 100 pounds; good to prime lambs at $7 to $7.35.

Hogs—Receipts, 1400; no sales; feeling firm.

Anglo-American Convention.

London, Feb. 21.—Fresh interest was aroused in Parliament yesterday in the American-British negotiations for an arbitration treaty, by the announcement that the United States Senate had ratified the American-French treaty of arbitration, it being felt that this practically assures the completion of a similar convention between this country and the United States. An attempt was made in the House of Commons to draw out Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, on the matter, but Sir Edward replied that it would be premature to make any statement beyond saying that the negotiations were proceeding.

Won't Resign.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—The British Columbia Liberals refuse to take seriously the request of the Asiatic Exclusion League that they resign.

THE SUFFRAGETTE AND THE MAGISTRATE.

(An Anecdote, with a Moral.)

Miss Hankywank, a Suffragette,
Whose heart on women's votes was set,
Declared that, till they'd won their cause,
She'd ne'er obey mere-man-made laws.

One day, in pugilistic fit,
Two constables she scratched and bit,
And for that playful little freak
Was haled before the local Beak.

He listened to the charge preferred,
From first to last, without a word,
Then in his dry, official way,
He asked her what she had to say.

"This, sir, alone," the damsel cried,
As haughtily that Beak she eyed;
"Till women gain their rights long owed,
I'll recognize no man-made code."

"Why not?" "Why not?" she cried, "because
I ought to help to make the laws;
And while that right to me's denied,
I hold myself the laws outside."

The Beak in silence sat awhile,
Then answered, with a genial smile,
"There's something, p'raps, in what you say.
For this occasion, go your way."

Astonished all the court appears,
As if they can't believe their ears,
While, e'en the scornful maiden's eyes
Betray an unconcealed surprise.

"What? Don't you fine me, then, old man?"
"I neither do, my dear, nor can,"
Said he, "Since I adopt your view
That man-made laws outside are you."

In smiles the damsel's face unbends,
As blithe she from the dock descends,
And pride her every look betrayed,
To think she'd such a convert made.

She didn't see his Worship sly
(Wink at a constable his eye,
As though (which was the fact, indeed)
On common action they'd agreed.

The constable, with grinning face,
Slipped out and gave the damsel chase;
Soon caught and seized her round the waist,
And tried, by force, her lips to taste.

With tooth and nail the outraged miss
Resisted his attempts to kiss,
The while for help so loud she cried
As brought two sergeants to her side.

They, promptly, at the fair's request,
The bold Lothario arrest,
Forthwith the neighboring court they seek;
And bring him up before the Beak.

Then hear the maid her grievance state,
The sergeants both corroborate,
As, silent, sat our Beak the while,
And listened with his genial smile.

"I sympathize with you, my dear,
But you've, alas, no status here;
Since by your showing own," he cried,
"You stand mere-man-made laws outside."

—Truth.

DOUBLE-HEADER HOCKEY GAME BANKERS AND C.L.S. THE VICTORS

Former Trimmed the Rural Aggregation From Little Britain; the Latter Put It Over Their Sister Seven, the "Y's," by a Good Score.

Town League hockey went on with a rush last night, when the Bankers played Little Britain and the Y.M. C.A. the C.L.S. Too much cannot be said of the improvement in the class of hockey put up by the competing teams since last match. Both games were fast from start to finish. The rushes by some of the men were fine and the class of combination put up was right up to the mark.

On the whole the games were clean and free from too much tripping, offsides and so forth, owing a great deal to the efficiency of Referee Koyl, of the Lindsay Intermediates.

THE OPENING TUSSLE.

The first game called was the Bankers vs. Little Britain, and started off with very fast play on teams. At first it looked as if Little Britain would take the lead, as even the first goal scored was in favor of that team. Play kept getting faster every minute, till finally the Bankers seemed to get into the idea of things; from then on they did not permit their opponents to land a single rubber in their nets.

The teams were so evenly matched then, that whatever scoring was done by the Bankers was made only with the greatest effort, and after a hard fight. Back and forth, up and down the ice the teams dashed trying to score, but the only ones landed were two good ones by the Bankers. At half-time the score stood, Bankers 2, Little Britain 1.

The second half also went with a snap, and although the scoring was all the Bankers' way, still Little Britain put up a whale of a game and made them work with every ounce that was in them to get the three goals they notched. Time and again Britain would break away on a rush for the other goal. Some banker or other was sure to be on the job, however, and managed to take away the puck, when a counter rush, generally ending the same the same way would take place.

The score at full time registered: Bankers 5, Little Britain 1. The penalties were; Haidley 2, Wetherup 2, Ryan 3 and Main 1. The line-ups were:

C.L.S. VS. Y.M.C.A.

The C. L. S. and Y. M. C. A. were the next teams called out to play, and certainly looked a likely bunch. Some of the men are going to make good juniors before long if they keep on showing improvement and playing as they did last night. As in the last game, Koyl was referee, and in a manner satisfactory to all.

The C. L. S. undoubtedly have a faster team than the Y. M. C. A., but the latter organization has a couple of A1 men, who were responsible for the play being as good as it was. The game was good and fast, but there was too much unnecessary heavy checking, tripping and slashing, but the offsides were far fewer in this game than in the last. Despite the score the Association team put up a good game and kept their opponents working.

At half time the C. L. S. had scored three while the Y.M.C.A. had been unable to gain even one. The second half was on a par with the first, everybody playing the game well and fast. The Y. M. C. A., however, were able to keep the C. L. S. men from scoring as much as they did in the first half and even went so far as earning a goal themselves. The C. L. S. got two in this part of the game, so that the score at the close read, C.L.S. 5, Y.M.C.A. 1.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Trotting

HIGH-PRICED HORSES.

In connection with the recent purchase for $125,000 of the English thoroughbred stallion Cyllene, it has been ascertained that the new owner of the horse is Mrs. Chevallier, who is the proprietress of the Ojo del Agua stud in the Argentine Republic. It was this woman who paid $80,000 for the stallion Pietermaritzburg, which died on Jan. 6, and Cyllene was bought by cable to replace him. Only four other stallions have sold for more money than Cyllene.

Hockey.

Bill Hancock will be referee at to-night's game, Midland vs. Lindsay. The choice is satisfactory to Lindsay supporters — he is rather strict, but impartial.

Curling

THE CAUSE LOCATED.

Telegram; Flavelle still has a chance for some Winnipeg glassware. Though out of all the open events, he is a starter in a special competition known as the O'Grady Cup — and his streak of bad luck may break. For sure he's got none of the best of the break. With the strongest rink he ever took west, he has made his worst showing, winning only four games and losing five. Of course, this is his thirteenth trip, and there may be something in that.

THE SLEEMON TROPHY.

At the Collingwood bonspiel competition for the Sleemon trophy has narrowed down to Vernon, of Collingwood, and Toogood, of Orillia, in the finals. Gibbons, of Meaford, and Hogg, of Barrie, are in the finals for the consolation. Booth, of the East Toronto Aberdeens, was put out of the Sleemon in the second round by Vernon, of Collingwood, score 17 to 14, but won his consolation game from McInnes, of Meaford, 13 to 7. Overod of the same club, was beaten by Don, of Gravenhurst 22 to 6 in the consolation.

NEAR FINALS AT WINNIPEG.

Star, The Winnipeg Bonspiel is drawing to a close and to-day saw a number of rinks reach the last stages in a number of competitions. Flavelle is out of all the open events. Joe Lemon, the crack Granite skip, who had reached the semi-finals in the Empire, was forced to withdraw from the competition to-day, through the serious illness of his father at Lemonville, Ont. He left last night for the east.

Sarnia won the Western Ontario Tankard, beating Paris in the final 50 to 27.

Odds and Ends of Sport

A GREAT JUMPER

H. F. Porter, ex-Cornell student, who is now a resident of Toronto, is champion Intercollegiate jumper of America. In the college meet at Madison Square Garden, New York, last Saturday, Porter created a new world's indoor record by jumping 6 ft. 5 1-2 in., the previous figure being 6 ft. 3 3-8 in., held by M. F. Sweeney. Porter jumped 6 ft. 2 in. without removing his sweater, but failed at 6 ft. 4 1-2 in. The new record may not be allowed, as it was not measured with a steel tape as required by the rules.

Porter will try for the American Olympic team, and will likely make it, as there is no high jumper in the United States in his class. He expects to jump 6 ft. 5 or 6 in. outdoors this summer.

The world's record is 6 ft. 5 3-8 in., held by Mr. F. Sweeney.

WHAT MAKES AN AMATEUR.

The C. A. A. U. amateur definition is: "An amateur is a person who has not competed in any competition for a staked bet, monies, private, public, or gate receipts, or competed with or against a professional for a prize, who has never taught or assisted in the pursuit of any athletic exercise or sport as a means of livelihood, who has never directly or indirectly received any bonus, or a payment in lieu of loss of time while playing as a member of any club or any money consideration whatever for any services with the exception of traveling and hotel expenses, or who has never entered any competition under a name other than his own, or who has never been guilty of selling or pledging his prizes."

The Japanese method of wrestling, jiu jitsu, is to be introduced into all the military and naval gymnasiums of Germany, at the express command of the emperor.

"Ty" Cobb, the wonder of the American League in 1907, has again notified the Detroit Club that it is $5,000 or nothing, so far as his future salary is concerned, and that he must have a three year contract or he will not engage himself to go to Detroit.

Frank Chance, the leader of the world's champions, says that there will be only three teams in the National League this year—Chicago, New York, and Pittsburg. He evidently is not impressed with the changes made by the Boston and Philadelphia Clubs.

Every umpire engaged to officiate in the Southern League comes from Rochester. The men who will hold the indicator down South are Bill Carpenter, Dan Fitzsimmons, Dan Thenninger, and J. J. O'Brien. There is no other city in the country which can show a record like that.

That the Toronto baseball team will play at the Island this summer is an assured fact. The News announced some time ago that a local firm of architects had been asked to draw up plans for a diamond, etc., at the island, and it was confidently felt that at Hanlan's Point would be the spot this season.

Arnaud Massey, the French golf champion, who also won the British championship last year, James Braid and Harry Vardon, former holders of the British title, and J. H. Kyler, who was runner-up with Massey, have declined the invitation to participate in the United States open gold championship.

Family Dazed By Escaping Coal Gas

Ops Residents Had Narrow Escape a Few Nights Ago.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walker, of School Section No. 6, Ops, and members of the household, narrowly escaped asphyxiation one night last week owing to an escape of gas from a coal stove.

That a fatality did not occur was probably owing to the fact that the family sat up later than usual chatting with Mr. Albert Duck, their guest for a few days. When about to retire the stove in the hall downstairs was shaken down and the drafts left supposedly secure, but at an early hour in the morning Mr. Walker awoke to find himself gasping for breath. Realizing instantly what was the trouble, he managed to reach the window, when the incoming oxygen quickly restored himself and wife. The other members of the household were then visited, several being found in a half-dazed condition from the effects of the gas. The unpleasant symptoms did not pass away for several days.

A Needle in His Foot.

Stanley, the oldest son of Mr. H. R. Rosevear, of the Collegiate staff, had the misfortune to step on a needle last evening, which partly penetrated his foot and broke off. The broken piece has not as yet been extracted.

Green's Moving Pictures.

Positively the largest and best collection of moving pictures in Canada is that owned by Prof. Green, which is booked to appear in the Academy of Music three nights, commencing Monday, February 24th. The collection embraces masterpieces from the European and American producers, and of a variety to suit all tastes, the young, the old, the gay and the serious are catered to. With the latest machine and up-to-date electrical attachments, the pictures are shown absolutely flickerless, clear and distinct. Each scene is lucidly explained by a competent lecturer, and enhanced by clever sound effects, it gives such a tone of realism that one feels himself an integral part of each picture. As a special feature, Berton V. Peters will render the latest song hits of the day, each beautifully illustrated by twenty-four art colored pictures. The regular house orchestra will be in attendance at each performance. This attraction comes highly recommended by press and public, and the management of the opera house does not hesitate in recommending it to its patrons. This being its initial visit in Lindsay, popular prices will prevail. Adults 15c., children 10c., any seat.—d1.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

ACCUSED OF ARSON

Shocking Disclosures at East Gwillimbury Fire Inquest.

TRACED TRACKS IN SNOW

Witnesses Declare Girl's Footprints Were Seen—Young Woman Under Arrest—Charged With Firing Farm Buildings—Live Stock Destroyed—Had Letters From Virtual Owner — Threats Alleged.

Mount Albert, Feb. 22.—Such disclosures of moral depravity as were made yesterday during the fire inquest in connection with the burning last Friday morning of Mrs. John Hopkins' farm buildings, on lot 16, in concession 6, of East Gwillimbury, have seldom if ever been equaled in the annals of York County. Whether the girl, Mabel Allen, who is now charged with being the incendiary, is guilty or not remains to be proven. She is in the custody of County Constable Cook, at his home, in Mount Albert, and will appear on a charge of arson before Magistrate Moore on Monday. The case will be tried in the Town Hall, Mount Albert.

Provincial Detective Rogers was the presiding coroner, while Crown Attorney H. L. Drayton, K.C., conducted the prosecution. The bulk of the crown evidence was secured by Provincial Detective Greer.

C. R. Fitch of Stouffville appeared on behalf of the girl.

The nature of the relations between Miss Allen and Hopkins were of such a private character that the presiding coroner cleared the court room of all spectators while the girl was on the witness-stand.

The evidence apart from its direct connection with the fire, pointed clearly to the indication that this dark-eyed girl of 18 summers has been cruelly wronged by the man who, as a result of last Thursday evening's occurrence, has been suddenly and maliciously robbed of the property and effects which would have been his on the death of his aged widow mother.

The first witness called was Jacob Hopkins, son of Mrs. John Hopkins who owned the burned property.

He admitted that he had some trouble with the girl because she wanted him to marry her, but stated that he found it impossible to do so, since he was unable to obtain a divorce from his wife. Questioned by Mr. Drayton, Hopkins said the girl knew he was a married man. The relations between the two had not been of a moral nature, in fact he admitted he had seduced the girl a few weeks after she had come to live at his mother's home.

Mrs. Hopkins also testified to the truth of her son's evidence, and added that the girl in moments of passion sometimes threw knives, forks, spoons, stove-lifters and frying pans at the boys in the house. On one occasion the girl threw a knife at her son Jacob, which missed him and struck in a board.

The Allen girl even threatened once to burn the buildings, the old lady stated, and on many occasions inferred that she would bring great losses to the family.

About 2 o'clock last Friday morning Jacob Hopkins awoke and, according to his own statement, "went to the bedroom window to see what the weather was like, as I saw that The Toronto World forecasted showers." On looking out he was horrified to find the whole farm buildings ablaze. Hastily donning some clothing he rushed out, to find that the fire had gained such headway as to dispel all hope of saving the live stock and farm produce that were in the buildings. The loss included 13 head of cattle, 3 horses, 2 pigs and 65 hens, besides 200 bushels of turnips, 200 bushels of oats, 100 bushels of barley, 75 bushels of wheat, 10 tons of hay and many valuable farm implements.

The loss on live stock and produce is estimated at $1,500, the entire loss, including buildings, $3,000. The total insurance is $850.

Six or seven young men who reside around the neighborhood hastened over to the scene of the conflagration and discovered footprints in the snow, leading up to within four feet of one of the buildings. They commenced a trail of the footprints and Norman Kay, one of their number, stated yesterday under oath that they followed the impressions in the snow right to the gate of the Allen home, near Brown Hill, a distance of five miles across the fields. These footprints constituted the main part of the incriminating evidence and the crown's purpose was to prove that they were those of Mabel Allen. The impressions of the rubbers were in the soft snow, and the witnesses stated that there were particular markings, that the prints were about 9 1-2 inches long by actual measurement and that they were evidently those of a young woman. Mr. Fitch, on the other hand, stated that the girl's rubbers measure ten inches and that the impressions noticed around and in front of the house might have been caused by some of the sisters, who were accustomed to go to the pump nearby for water. The rubbers were produced in court.

The girl positively denied being out of her own house during the night of the tragedy, and in this she was substantiated by the members of her family. She left the Hopkins' home in August of last year.

The town hall was crowded and the greatest interest taken in the case by the townspeople, who regard the occurrence as one that will live in the records of Mount Albert for many a day. The crowds, after being ejected from the court room, remained outside during the entire hour and a half the girl was on the stand, and when the doors were opened they rushed in again in stampede fashion.

PLOT ALMOST MATURED.

Suffering From Frightful Burns She Struggles Through the Woods.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—The frustration in this city Thursday of a terrorist plot and the arrest of fifty men and women for alleged complicity was followed yesterday by the capture in suburban towns of several other persons implicated in the abortive attempt at assassination. The police believe they have made the most important and telling move against the terrorists that has been engineered in several years.

The plot came very much nearer maturity than did the last unsuccessful conspiracy against the Emperor, the participants in which were tried and condemned last July. According to the police, the band had two victims in view. Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch and Judge Chtcheglovitoff, Minister of Justice. Both were to have been assassinated between their residences and the railroad station and Tsarskoe-Selo, where they were going to see the Emperor. Two distinct revolutionary organizations were concerned. The first had its headquarters in Finland, and the second was the so-called Northern Flying Column, recruited in the vicinity of Moscow.

Alarmed at the recent arrests of agitators at Viborg and Helsingfors, and the prospective closing of Finnish territory as a shelter from which to conduct their operations, the first organization decided to put its plans into immediate execution. The Moscow allies were notified and joined the group from Finland in St. Petersburg.

The police, however, had been informed of what was in the air, and as a result almost all the men and women implicated are now in prison. The entire force of the secret service was employed.

Most of the prisoners are young, between 17 and 21 years, well dressed and well supplied with money.

The Italian who was taken in on the Grande Morskaia is the accredited correspondent of two prominent radical Italian newspapers—one at Rome and the other at Milan. He was in receipt of the press privileges of the House of Parliament and the Council of the Empire. His friends, however, insist that he had no connection with the plot, and the Italian embassy is taking steps to have the matter of his arrest investigated promptly.

VOIDING NATAL ACT.

Senator Gives Reason Why Jap Cases Were Sent to Court.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—In the Senate Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked why the Department of Justice had instructed its British Columbia agents to appeal the case of the two Japanese arrested for violation of the Natal Act.

Sir Mackenzie said that it looked like an effort to escape the unpopularity which would attach to the disallowance of the act by leaving it to the courts to possibly decide that the legislation was ultra vires.

Hon. Mr. Scott replied that the Government had given the order for the defence of the prisoners, because it felt that it was the duty of Canada to protect Japanese when arrested in violation of treaty rights. That had been done in this case and that the act was ultra vires was indicated by the 95th section of the B.N.A. Act, which declared that a province could not pass immigration legislation in conflict with federal legislation.

"If the courts hold that the Natal Act is not ultra vires, will the federal Government then disallow it?" asked Senator Lougheed.

Hon. Mr. Scott said he could not advise in advance of the case arising what the action of the Government would be.

Shooting Was Accidental.

Dunnville, Ont., Feb. 22.—In the shooting of nine-year-old Richard McVay, the jury returned a verdict of accidental death, but censured the parents for leaving the three lads alone to look after the farm. The parents were residents of Buffalo.

30,000 Homeless In Gotham.

New York, Feb. 22.—It is the estimate of one of the managers of the association for improving the condition of the poor that there are approximately 30,000 homeless men in New York to-day. Of these probably 60 per cent. are non-residents.

TO RAISE AGE LIMIT

Twelve Years Minimum For Children in Factories.

REGULATION OF CHILD LABOR

Recommendations of Committee Are Followed—Hours of Work For Boys—Operation of Liquor License Act—Powers For Making Drainage Improvements — Proposal to Establish Boards of Health.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The determination of the Provincial Government, as a result of the investigations of last year, to put a legal stop to child labor in Ontario was evidenced in the Government measures introduced by Hon. Nelson Monteith at yesterday's session of the Legislature, placing a higher minimum age upon the employment of all children.

Hon. Nelson Monteith introduced three Government bills. His act to amend the Horticultural Society Act gives societies power to apportion one-half of their funds to any one of the objects for which they are organized, instead of only one-third as formerly. The other two measures are aimed directly at child labor, as a result of the investigations of the special legislative committee last year. The Act to amend the Shops Act raises the minimum age at which children can be employed in shops from 10 years to 12.

The act to amend the Factories Act provides that no child under 12 years of age can be employed in a canning factory.

Hon. Mr. Hanna presented the report on the operation of the Liquor License Acts for 1907, in which attention is called to the fact that the number of licenses have been reduced by 198 from the total of the previous year. In local option municipalities the law had been vigorously enforced and the fines collected amounted to $4,175. The provincial revenue from the license branch for the year was $587,126.60.

Mr. P. H. Bowyer (East Kent) introduced an important amendment to the Municipal Drainage Act, providing that engineers must consult with farm owners before proceeding with drainage works through their properties. The measure further provides for the amendment of section 72 of the present act by enlarging the powers of municipal councils in making drainage improvements.

Mr. Hislop (Huron) secured an order for a return showing a classified statement of all payments by the province to the Toronto University; while Mr. Munro (North Oxford) was granted an order for returns of amount of losses by fire throughout the province.

Mr. May (Ottawa) got orders for returns on the several commissions appointed by the present Government and for a list of Fair Associations to which the Agricultural Department sent judges.

A bill was introduced by Mr. J. P. Downey providing for the creation of County Boards of Health, with representatives from all municipalities, to have jurisdiction in tubercular troubles. The bill further provides for compulsory notification in cases of consumption. These county boards are designed to supply the machinery towards preventing a spread of the disease.

SIFTON DENIES STORY.

Has No Interest Whatever In Imperial Pulp Co.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Clifford Sifton does not do much talking these days. The only times he is heard are when the newspapers mix him up with some mysterious transactions. Mr. Sifton yesterday called attention to a despatch referring to the officers of the mysterious Imperial Pulp Co. and stating that the managing director is Hon. Clifford Sifton, and the secretary William Sifton.

Mr. Sifton desired to say that he was not now and never had been managing director or other director of the company. He was not now and never had been a shareholder or stockholder, and he had no interest either directly or indirectly in the company.

Catching Fishermen.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 22.—Fisheries Overseer T. A. Hand had several cases of importance to deal with during the past few days. Sunday afternoon Thomas O'Reilly was caught by Mr. Hand fishing for trout through the ice near the island, south of the ship canal. Hand hid in the bushes and waited long enough to convince himself O'Reilly was engaged in illegal fishing. After a chase of three-quarters of a mile O'Reilly was overhauled. He admitted the offence and was fined $30.

Mr. Hand visited Gros Cap and lifted some nets, which were supposed American in Canadian waters. After seizing the nets Mr. Hand observed a couple of men leave the American side in a rig. They proceeded to the Canadian side and Hand placed them under arrest. The men proved to be William Milligan and Andrew Neyland, Baymills. The outfit was confiscated. They had fish on board. The men appeared before Mr. Hand Wednesday. They requested the trial to be postponed one week, Milligan and Neyland putting up cash security of $150 to guarantee their appearance. Mr. Hand states that the nets seized were of American make.

Twenty-Eight Were Killed.

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 22.—With a force that shook the entire bay region like an earthquake, the packing-house of the Hercules Powder Works at Pinole, 14 miles north of here, blew up at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and in the explosion four white men and twenty-four Chinamen were killed. Ten tons of dynamite went up in the terrific blast, shattering the sheds to dust and splinters. A panic ensued, and many were cut by flying glass and crushed and trampled on.

Motor Car Plant Burned.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 22.—The plant of the Dayton Motor Car Co., with its contents, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is estimated at $300,000, covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have been due to spontaneous combustion. The flames made rapid progress and the entire local department battled for many hours before subduing them. Ten newly-finished automobiles valued at $3,000 each were consumed.

Mr. Emmerson Probable.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—It was stated on excellent authority last night that Hon. H. R. Emmerson, ex-Minister of Railways and Canals, will be appointed a member of the Railway Commission when the bill for the increase in the membership of the board is passed. Rumor gives to Mr. Emmerson the post of assistant chief commissioner, with a salary of $9,000 a year. There are two others to be appointed.

Dropped Dead After Hockey Match.

Canadian Hogs to Replace Horse Meat In France—Canning Trade Will Also Be Increased—Ambassador Bryce Listens to Debate In the House—French Treaty Cuts Down the British Preference.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The House went into committee yesterday afternoon on the French treaty. Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, occupied a seat on the floor of the House, and was an attentive listener to the discussion.

The debate at once turned on the effect of the treaty in cutting down the British preference. Mr. Fielding read an item which seemed to show there was no reduction, but being asked to read the next it showed a considerable cut.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Henderson, "that if the British ambassador, when he comes, hears this, he will think we are treating Great Britain rather meanly."

The British ambassador smiled.

"If the hon. gentleman's remarks ever reach the ears of the British ambassador," returned the Finance Minister, "he will not think we have done unwisely."

Mr. Foster regarded Mr. Fielding's statement that the effect on the British preference was not considered, as "an amazing confession." The Premier and his Cabinet, both in Great Britain and Canada, had plumed themselves on the preference given to Britain.

Was the Government prepared to abrogate the British preference by making treaties with other powers? asked R. L. Borden.

Mr. Fielding said when Parliament a year ago adopted the intermediate tariff it was well understood that we were opening the way for negotiations. Moreover, a great majority of the items set out in the French treaty were not produced in Britain.

David Henderson (Halton) complained that when a preference was given on French gloves a reduction was not made on fine leathers used in the manufacturing of gloves in Canada.

Colored French Peas.

Mr. Marshall (Elgin) commented on the unfairness of allowing French peas (highly colored) in under special terms, while Canadian canners were debarred from using coloring matter.

Mr. Brodeur said under the Adulteration Act a person offering for sale adulterated food is liable to a fine.

Mr. Smith said the act was a dead letter.

Horse Meat Possibilities.

During the discussion, Mr. Paterson, by way of impressing the committee with the benefit of the treaty concessions to Canadian farmers, quoted from an American weekly, The Breeders' Gazette, an article in which it was contended that under the treaty Canada might be able to supplant with wholesome beef and pork a portion at least of the demand now met by the slaughter of dogs and horses. In Paris alone, for example, the paper said there were consumed in 1906 the carcasses of 56,000 horses. An Opposition member asked if this meant that we were going to pay $40 to $60 per head duty on horses to have them killed for horse beef.

"No," replied the Minister of Customs, "it means all are to supplant this with our hog products."

Mr. Zimmerman of Hamilton, in a brief address, made an important statement as to the bearing of the treaty on a portion of Canadian trade. The International Harvester Co., which employed 1,800 men at its Hamilton works, he said, was so much impressed with the possibilities of the treaty that the heads of its export department had come from Illinois to investigate. As a result they had practically decided that the whole of their export trade with France, now amounting to over $2,000,000 annually, would be manufactured in the Canadian branch. This would probably result in doubling the capacity of the works and staff in Hamilton. He had also, he said, received assurances from a prominent pork-packer that the treaty would place Canada in a much more favorable position than the United States as regards the canned meat trade, and that it was quite possible the big trade in this line which Canada had some years ago would be regained and large advances made.

Keep Out of Politics.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Mr. Foster in the House yesterday renewed his enquiries regarding alleged participation of the two Leblancs, employes of the I.C.R., in the New Brunswick elections. The Minister of Railways had been making an investigation. He had wired the general manager and had been informed that one Leblanc had been in New Brunswick over Sunday and had returned to his duties in Quebec; the other had been absent from duty, and the general manager did not know where he was.

Mr. Graham had wired the general manager that while employes of the railway were at perfect liberty to use the franchise as they liked, the Department did not want them to interfere in election matters.

Roosevelt an Anarchist.

Hoboken, Feb. 22.—Breckman, who shot Millionaire Frick of Pittsburg, hails Roosevelt as an anarchist, though a selfish one.

He says Haywood would have been hung but for the anarchists.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

Eye Headache

I think my large business is a result of not merely trying to sell glasses. I advise many persons I examine not to wear them. Headaches, Nervousness, Eye Strain, Poor Vision, result from poor eyes. Our properly ground glasses relieve these troubles and that is why our patients always get good and satisfactory results.

Methodist Missions Will be Benefited

Meetings in Lindsay in Interest of the Forward Movement.

A very interesting series of services will be held in the Cambridge-st. Methodist church next week, when the Methodist people of the town assemble to consider the great Forward Movement for Missions, for the deepening of spiritual life. The Rev. T. E. Egerton Shore, B.D., assistant secretary of Foreign Missions, and Mr. C. B. Keenleyside, B.A., of London, a popular author of religious and missionary literature, and a gifted speaker, are to address meetings afternoons and evenings during the week.

A Laymen's Missionary Banquet is to be held on Tuesday evening, when the laymen of the Queen and Cambridge-st. churches meet together to consider the new movement for missions that has so stirred the laymen of the evangelical churches.

These meetings will afford opportunity for all our citizens to get information and inspiration on the great problem of giving the gospel to all mankind.

Cures Blindness in Infant Children

Indiana Doctor Says Silver Nitrate Should be Used After Birth.

Dr H. C. Parker, of the Indianna University School of Medicine, says that half the blindness might have been prevented if a few drops of a one per cent. solution of silver nitrate had been dropped into the eyes of those now suffering from it, soon after birth. He says that a large part of blindness is the result of the severe inflammatory condition seen in some infants' eyes a few days after birth. It does not become apparent in the child's eyes until after a lapse of from one to twelve days, and shows at first generally in one eye. Dr. Parker advocates the installation of a one per cent. solution of silver into the eyes of every infant at birth, regardless of social standing. He asserts that it could do no harm and it might do an infinite amount of good. The treatment should only be done by a skilled physician. The state of Massachusetts has given the suggestion a practical turn by enacting a law requiring physicians to use this method, and has appropriated $25,000 to the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston for experimental work. A Boston philanthropist has provided a ward in the hospital for the treatment of this specific form of disease.

WRITTEN BY CONVICT

Who Obtained Pardon as a Consequence

This poem got two convicted murderers their liberty:

I cannot fawningly implore,
As feeble false hearts can;
But in humility before
The power that bars my prison door
I plead as man to man.

Oft fully more than vice appears
In errors we have made,
The ideal that the man reveres
Is not the dream of early years—
Youth's brief delusions fade.

Though hearts embittered still retain
A grudge for old mistakes,
Excessive penalties are vain—
The long monotony of pain
No restitution makes.

The ancient eye for eye decree
God has Himself destroyed;
Still speaks that voice from Calvary,
Shall Sylocks with their ghoulish plea
Makes this commandment void?

Ay, blessed are the beautiful!
O, Christian heart, relent!
For sins of folly, faults of wit
A contrite penitent.

Long have I been with sorrow, Long
The agonizing years
Have had no freight of love and song
And laughter—only pain and wrong,
And penitence and tears.

The coarse Soul but lightly feels
The daily dole of ill;
But what distress each hour reveals
For him in his heart conceals
Some aspirations still!

For home and love, for liberty
To toil as free men can,
Oh, Hand of Fate that bars to me
The gates of Opportunity,
I plead as man to man.

Little Sermons By Big Men

Clear-cut Utterances Which Make Good Reading.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward: The acid of envy eats out all happiness from the heart.

Sir William McDonald: Without a good physical basis skill and will are no good.

Lord Strathcona: Nothing is so necessary to success as a knowledge of human nature.

Mark Twain: Lawyers never quarrel over the estate of a man who leaves nothing but a good name.

Agnes Deans Cameron: A home that has cost nothing in the way of sacrifice is usually only a mere stopping place.

John Kenrick Banks: I do not like a man who gives his hand in a half hearted way. I never know what to do with it.

Lord Grey: I think everything in this world would be better if the right sort of women had a share in its management.

Rev. Dr. Sparling, Winnipeg: Just because they cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear a lot of men never try to make anything.

Sir Conan Doyle: The lower the intellectual capacity, the higher the development of that lowest and strongest of human passion—gambling.

President Roosevelt: There is in most men that instinct which is one of the best heritages from boyhood—the instinct of fair play and for giving everybody "a chance."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier: The human mind is tenacious of its opinions, whether they are founded on fact or fiction. Indeed, it often clings most tenaciously to the least defensible.

Thompson Seton: I am going to write a scathing article about the outlandish shapes of women's hats just as soon as we learn why a man buys a high crowned soft hat and then punches it full of dints.

Dr. Osler: There is a great deal of ill-health which deserves not sympathy or pity, but criticism and condemnation, and a worship of good health, including works as well as faith, might with advantage be made a feature of the national religion.

Hell Fire is Real Says R.C. Priest

Accepts Words of Christ in Regard to Eternal Punishment.

Rev. Father Staley, of St. Basil's church, Toronto, (who preached at St. Mary's, Lindsay, three Sundays ago), made some interesting statements in a sermon on eternal punishment at high mass last Sunday morning. He said that the words of Jesus in reference to eternal punishment could not be taken in a figurative sense. "The very words which proved that the punishment of the wicked was everlasting were also used in reference to the eternal felicity of the saved.

"We sometimes hear those outside the church, and even Catholics, say that the fire referred to is the fire of remorse," said Father Staley. "According to a decree from Rome we cannot grant absolution to those who refuse to believe that this is a real fire."

An Old Decree.

A priest of the Roman Catholic church, in conversation with The Telegram, stated that the decree was issued by the Sacred Congregation in 1890. This was to the effect that anybody who did not believe that the fire referred to was something distinct from conscience, after being warned, should not be granted absolution. As to the nature of the fire itself the doctrine was not distinctly defined.

Esteemed Their Forelady.

Miss M. Welsh, who has had charge of the Tower Oiled Clothing Co. manufacturing business in Lindsay, for the past year, was presented by the firm's local staff of employees with a very handsome book of common prayer as a slight token of their appreciation and good feeling towards her. The gift was accompanied by a neatly worded address, signed by about twenty of the young ladies. The Company have enlarged their Toronto premises, and in future will do all their manufacturing in the city.

Board of Trade's Choice Fixtures

Prominent Men of the Province to Deliver Addresses Here.

Our local Board of Trade seems to be uniting with itself the functions of an ordinary Canadian Club, for, under its new officers, they are out after prominent speakers to visit our town. Next Friday night we are to have General Superintendent Osborne, of the C. P. R'y, on the great question of the day, "Transportation," and on the 20th of March we learn we are to have Deputy Minister Campbell, of "Good Roads" fame. After the session closes at Toronto, Mr. Beck has promised to come down and give us a talk on "Electric Power," so that our citizens can look forward to some good solid treats in the way of useful knowledge, as applied to the interests of everyday life.

"Ideal Lindsay" Title of Booklet

An Interesting and Thoughtful Paper on Town and Civic Affairs.

We have had on the way for some days a little pamphlet entitled, "Ideal Lindsay, or Salient Points of Then and Now", the author of which is "Nemo". The subject is non-political and non-denominational, and can be read and enjoyed by all classes and creeds. We can recommend it as being highly entertaining and interesting to the citizens of Lindsay in particular, and the public generally, and worth many times the amount asked for it. Every woman in the land should read it.

The regular price will be 10c. each, but as many people in town will no doubt be anxious to secure extra copies for friends in other places, the price to citizens will be 5c. each while they last. As the issue will be limited in number, not more than five copies will be sold to any one person. We expect to have the pamphlet ready in the course of a few days, but time of issue and places where copies can be secured, will be announced later on.

A Temperance Lecture.

Orange Sentinel: Sir. Thomas Shaughnessy alighted from his car at Moose Jaw recently, paced up and down the platform a moment or two, and noticed a bar in the hotel operated by the C. P. R. Co. there. "Close that place up," was the peremptory order of Sir Thomas. The door was locked and the men who attended the bar were paid off. The room is now devoted to other purposes.

Mr. Arthur Tennison, 88 London Street, Toronto, writes enthusiastically of the merits of Psychine for all stomach troubles.

"For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought. Eventually I used Psychine, and every dose brought permanent relief."

All throat, lung and stomach troubles quickly cured by Psychine. It is the prescription of a great specialist. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto.

Peterboro-Lindsay Masons Fraternize

Brethren United in Special Work and at a Banquet at the Close.

About fifty members of Peterborough Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Peterborough, arrived in town last evening shortly after 9 o'clock on a fraternal visit to Faithful Brethren Lodge. The special train that was bringing them to town was delayed a couple of miles this side of Omemee by one of the tenders of the engine breaking, when they were running along at a lively pace, making for Lindsay. Fortunately the train was brought to a standstill before any damage was done.

FROM PETERBOROUGH

The following gentlemen were among the visitors. Bro. Lord, W. M. Bros. T. J. Tilley, H. Long, A. Davidson, H. Rush, P. Alexander, T. M. McPhadden, R. Morrison, F. T. Sollitt, E. Hand, F. S. Deleper, F. H. Rosenburg, J. W. Jordan, A. P. McLean, E. A. Roe, S. Taylor, J. W. Mann, C. E. Anderson, W. Hill, W. T. Breeking, W. Miller, W. R. G. Higgin, Rowland Denne, W. J. Henry, C. M. Bennett, J. E. Pollard, A. A. Fowler, W. A. Brudrett, W. Hencliffe, Fred H. Dixon, B. Shortley, D. M. Carmichael, W. Stocker, R. Cottell, G. W. Green, R. T. Morrow, John Cranie, W. White, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, A. J. Throop, R. McIlmunie of Peterboro; H. W. Sullivan, Brantford; H. Brunk, Port Perry; A. McMurry, Motherwell, Scotland; A. M. Fulton, Chesterville; R. H. Sec'ester, Bowmanville; R. Aitken, Port Perry; J. Curzon, Guelph; A. T. Orl-ton, Hamilton, S. Johnston, Haliburton; D. C. Melvon, Montreal; John Allen, Ireland; R. Marfarquhar, Oben, Scotland, W. E. Pollard, Fort William; Ed. Hough, Montreal; H. B. Collier, Toronto; W. S. Dodd, Havelock; Neil Rutherfodr, Beaverton; E. L. Bowes, Merrickville; H. E. Corford, Brantford; Rt. W. Bro. Milne, Peterborough.

The visiting brethren put on some special work in connection with the session of the lodge, and so well was the work done as to draw forth much commendation from the local lodge.

THE BANQUET

After the session of the lodge, the visiting brethren were conducted to the Royal hotel, where an excellent oyster supper was served. The chair was taken by Bro. L. A. Campbell, W. M., who gave a short address of welcome and hearty good will to the Peterborough visitors, after he introduced a toast to the "King and Craft," which was drunk heartily.

Bro. McIlroy, of Peterboro, gave a song, "Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond," which was so well rendered as to receive an enchore.

To the toast, "Our Visiting Brethren," were coupled the names W. Bro. Lord and W. Bro. Rush, Mayor of Peterborough, who both made short and appropriate speeches, which conveyed a hearty invitation for Faithful Brethren lodge to visit Peterborough in the near future.

Bro. Bennett, of Peterborough, gave a song, which was well received.

Bro. Morton gave a piccolo solo, which was very pleasing.

"Faithful Brethren Lodge" was proposed by W. Bro. Craine, and replied to by W. Bro. L. A. Campbell in a neat speech. If the good will in which the Peterborough brethren burst forth in the song, "They are Jolly Good Fellows," was an indication of the feeling existing between the two lodges, it must be of the right sort.

Bro. Stalker's song, "War, War, War," was well given and well received.

"Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the Queen" brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

MERIT WILL SURELY WIN IN THE THEATRICAL LINE

Though the Achievements of Fame Sets Competitors' Wheels at Work.

In all the walks of life, as well as in the different business enterprises of this commercial world, competition is met with in its different stages. This competition is born of the success achieved by those who lead in their respective lines, and the smaller fry look upwards with envy at the top of the ladder, where their rival sits with no danger of falling down, as he is securely bound by the safety lines of careful management and true business tack.

Perhaps in no other line of business is competition so keen as in the theatrical world. The great circuses of the past decade have spent millions of dollars in their efforts to gain supremacy. This can also be said of the dramatic and vaudeville purveyors of amusement.

In the moving picture business the same competition has manifested itself, from the "five cent" theatorium to the regularly organized travelling production.

That there must be a ladder we must all acknowledge, and judging by the press notices furnished by Mr. Harry LaBelle, the press agent of Green's Moving Pictures, that attraction stands pre-eminently at the top of the ladder. The editor of the Kingston News has styled Prof Green the "Moving Picture King of Canada."

PRESS OPINIONS.

The following abbreviated extracts from lengthy press notices will convince lovers of moving pictures of the superiority of Prof. Green's entertainments;

"There was a magnificent production of scenes presented, the like of which has never been exhibited in this city."—Kingston Whig.

"Prof. Green is one of the pioneers of the moving picture business of Canada, and he has made his name a household property in many of the big cities of the Dominion."—Kingston News.

"The pictures were easily the best that have ever been shown in Peterborough, and were shown in a faultless manner."—Peterborough Examiner.

"An entertainment that can't be excelled. . . It is easy to understand why the audience was so enthusiastic."—Peterborough Review.

"Without exception, the best moving picture outfit that has ever been exhibited in Waterloo."—Daily Citizen.

"No better attraction of its kind travels in Canada. The assertion that you can see nothing better in Paris, London or New York, is not exaggerated in the least."—Berlin Daily News.

"Prof. Green has, without doubt, the best picture show on the road. Last night there was not one dissenting voice but all pronounced the pictures the best ever seen."—Fort William Daily Herald.

"Positively the finest and largest combination of animated pictures in Canada."—Preston Progress.

"Prof. Green is the Barnum of moving pictures in Canada."—Sarnia Observer.

"Hundreds were turned away. . . The magnificent pictures shown could not be surpassed, both from a viewpoint of excellence and variety." — Galt Reporter.

"In our opinion, the best pictures ever thrown on canvas. Too much cannot be said in their favor."—Galt Reformer.

"The paid admissions on Saturday afternoon and evening amounted to 2256, the largest attendance in the history of the house. Prof. Green left town with a smile that won't come off."—Galt Reporter.

"The headliner of the moving picture shows. The pictures were presented so real as to make one feel himself an integral part of each scene."—The Daily News, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

There are hundreds of other favorable press comments running in the same strain, and which attest to Green's superiority over all others.

WHY GREEN IS KING.

Because Green owns his films and procures only masterpieces direct from the leading French and English manufacturers.

Because the films are not rented from rental bureaus, and all new and never before seen in Lindsay.

Because it is not a "fight" picture, but one which can be attended by ladies and children.

Because Green's patrons are protected from fire by the use of the only machine pronounced absolutely fire proof by the Board of Fire Underwriters of New York and other cities.

Because Green gives two hours' entertainment at prices in keeping with the hard times.

Because Green has a professional singer of illustrated songs, not one who would not make a hit in a parlor entertainment, but one who has scored success in leading theatres.

Because Green has the most up-to-date outfit that money can buy and that brain and experience can put together.

Because Green does all he advertises.

Because Green is an operator who gives his patrons a clear, steady picture, distinct and flickerless.

Don't be misled by any opinions you may have formed after seeing a cheap show. See Green's and you will be convinced that it is the best form of entertainment you can attend.

On the initial visit, the prices are within the reach of all. Adults 15c. (any seat), children 10c., no higher.

Remember the dates, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 24, 25 and 26.—d1.

Queen-st. S. S. Annual Drive

Children Were Given a Good Outing Before Being Served With Tea.

The annual sleigh drive of the Queen-st. Sunday School was made more heartily enjoyed by the scholars and not a few of the older people. At three or a little after, yesterday afternoon, the front of the church was a mass of clamoring children, all eager to climb aboard the waiting sleighs and all endeavoring to secure places in the front ranks of the jostling youngsters. Here and there among the crowd an older person remonstrated and tried to distribute the merry-makers equally on board the overflowing sleighs. With banners flying and lusty voices splitting the air in loud, prolonged shouts, the procession of nine burden bearing conveyances, with the superintendent, Mr. McWatters and pastor, Rev. Mr. Phelps leading, started on its trip; one hour of solid fun.

With ruddy cheeks, and appetities keen as the bite of the frosty wind, the participants in the drive were all landed back again at the church shortly after four, where busy hands had made ready a wholesome repast wherewith to appease the most ravenous of appetites. Eatables were stowed away by eager hands faster that waiters could attend to the feasters' wants. Coffee was imbibed by big and little; all was a joyous festival.

After an hour and a half of feasting the children dispersed—satisfied, gay, happy, lost in the success of their long looked for drive, and tucked deep down in their store room for another in the future. D.S.P.

Toronto University Lecture Course

"St. Francis of Assisi" the Subject to be Dealt With by Two Teachers.

The last of the university Saturday lectures will be given to-day at 3 p. m. in the Chemical ampitheatre, by Mr. E. J. Kylie, lecturer on history. After graduating here in 1901 Mr. Kylie spent three years in Balliol College, Oxford, and graduated with first-class honors in history.

The subject of his lecture, St. Francis of Assisi, has been attracting much attention of late, owing to the charming work of Mons. Sabatier, and to the expulsion of the monks from France, which has driven many Franciscans to England and America. By a happy coincidence Professor J. H. Cameron of University College, who, like Mr. Kylie, has recently spent some time in Assisi, will also lecture on Assisi in the Biological building next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Kylie's lecture will be devoted to the historical importance of the great poet, preacher and missionary of the early thirteenth century, while Prof. Cameron will deal rather with the romantic seat of his labors, which will be illustrated by views taken on the spot. Thus the two lectures will not clash with, but rather mutually assist each other, and give Torontonians a rare opportunity of getting closer to one of the greatest characters in all history.—Globe.

It was in the hands of an Indian, who had poisoned the animal and then followed it for two days and a night, till he found the prize, dead, as a reward for his persistence.

—Never forget you are a part of the town, and that your own department helps to make up the stranger's estimate of the place. Sell all you can and buy all you can at home. Every dollar that is sent or carried away from home makes the town that much poorer. If you have the means invest in something that will give somebody employment. Do not kick at a proposed investment simply because it is not at your door.

—The Supreme Court of Canada has decided that the Mayor of Halifax will have to refund $400, the amount paid by the city for his travelling expenses in attending the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, held at Winnipeg in 1905. Suit was entered against him by a ratepayer on the ground that the payment of the money had not been endorsed by the people. This judgment should prove a needed lesson to corporations everywhere.

—The Salvation Army Canadian Territorial Staff Band arrived in town at 11 o'clock to-day, and played a few selections on Kent-st. at noon which attracted a large crowd. The band will remain over Sunday, giving a concert at the S. A. Barracks to-night, and will play at the Service in the Methodist church to-morrow morning, and the Opera House at 3 p. m. and at the Barracks at 9 a. m. and 8 p. m. The local corps hope to see large crowds at all their services.

As Others See It

If you judge a man by the Clothes he wears—as nine out of ten unconsciously do—what then about jewelry? Isn't a man who wears cheap jewelry as surely "labeled cheap" as if the word were written on his forehead?

The touch of refinement that is given by good jewelry—a Gold Watch, a Ring, a Pin or a Diamond, is unmistakeable; and it is the reason why good jewelry should be worn.

We keep only the good kind, and you will find our prices of a modest profit kind.

A Diamond Ring with a stone of fair size may be had from $18 up.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

Notes Bearing on Church Work, Clipped From Exchanges and Original.

THE PEACE OF GOD.

We ask for peace, O Lord!
Thy children ask for peace;
Not what the world calls rest,
That toil and care should cease,
That through bright, sunny hours
Calm life should fleet away,
And tranquil night should fade
In smiling day.
It is not for such a peace that we Would pray.

We ask for peace, O Lord!
Yet not to stand secure,
Girt round with iron pride,
Contented to endure;
Crushing the gentle strings,
That human hearts should know,
Untouched by others' joy or others
Woe;
Thou, O dear Lord, will never teach
Us so!

We ask for peace, O Lord!
Through storm and fear and strife,
To light and guide us on
Through a long struggling life.
While no success or gain
Shall cheer the desperate fight,
Or nerve, what the World calls,
Our wasted might;
Yet pressing through the darkness
To the Light.

It is thine own, O Lord!
Who toil while others sleep,
Who sow with loving care
What other hands shall reap.
They lean on Thee entranced
In calm and perfect rest,
Give us that peace, O Lord,
Divine and blest,
Thou keepest for those hearts who Love Thee best.

PRIZES FOR RELIGIOUS BOOKS

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—A new departure was announced yesterday by the American Sunday School Union when it offered $2,000 in prizes for religious literature.

One thousand dollars will be given to the author who presents the best original work on "Christian Principles in our rural districts; how to make them a controlling influence."

Six hundred dollars for the best original work, and $400 for the next best original work to be written on "The Bible, an attractive book."

Each writer is asked to give an appropriate original title to his or her work, and will be allowed freedom in the form and style of treatment of the topic.

The society desires books of a practical, instructive, popular, and evangelical character.

The Salvation Army will conduct the services in Cambridge-st. Methodist church to-morrow morning, and the Rev. Dr. Bishop will take the services in the evening.

St. John's Sun; The acousticon donated by E. E. Fraser in memory of his wife, was used in St. David's church for the first time Sunday. Connection has been made with four pews, and it is likely that others will soon be added to the circuit. The transmitter is in the pulpit and by this means persons afflicted with deafness can hear every word of the service distinctly. The instrument gave much satisfaction.

—Venezuela has thirteen railroads, the longest 111 miles, and no other as much as fifty. They are, for the most part, lines which climb the hills from the sea toward the interior and have steep gradients. On one line for two and a half miles there is a grade of 449 feet a mile, worked by a cogwheel system, and there are other grades of 213 feet, 185 feet and 158 feet. Few of the lines connect with others, and there are a number of different gauges.

Wonderful Bread Baked by Nature

The Veracious Narrative of its Mixing, Making and Sale.

"How did I happen to become a hotel clerk?" replied the man behind the desk. "Well, it was this way; I used to be a sailor. That was where I learned about whales. In fact, I was second mate of the first iron ship that ever rounded the Horn, bound from Boston to San Francisco, loaded with flour, yeast and salt to furnish grub to the California miners soon after the civil war,

"We got around the Horn all right when we ran into about the worst bit of weather ever brewed on the Pacific. Iron ships were an experiment then, and we soon found ourselves in trouble. The fresh water tanks sprang a leak, and the water ran down over the cargo. To make matters worse, the flour barrels and boxes of yeast broke loose, and with the rolling of the ship we soon had all mixed up together. In other words, the whole ship below decks was full of dough that the rolling of the ship kneaded just as a regular breadmaking machine does out in the kitchen above. And it began to rise.

"We fastened down the hatches at first, but soon had to take them off on the lower decks or the expanding dough would burst the ship. And we put on all steam for San Francisco. We crossed the equator like a race horse, and there we made our second great mistake. The strain on the engines caused them to break down, so we had to go at half speed, and we were at a standstill for two whole days right there under the burning sun. The storm we had run out of, and the weather was clear and hot. Whew!

"Then we got under full steam again and plowed north to the Golden Gate with a deck hand sitting on the safety valve. But we were too late. The tropic sun had baked that shipload of dough into one huge loaf of bread. How to get it out of the ship was a question.

"The owners, who were the captain and one of our passengers, sold the ship just as she arrived for only half what they had paid for her new in Boston. But the new owner was a genius. He put the hungry miners to work with picks and shovels cutting out the bread, and sold it at the rate of $1 a shovelful. It was the finest bread you or any one else ever ate.

"I was out of a job as second mate, and when I saw what a profit there was in that bread I just naturally went into the feeding business myself and that's how I became associated with the hotel business. Front! Show this gentleman to the cafe."

Interesting Recollections of Early Days in These Parts

Cobourg Seventy Years Ago—Lands 20 Shillings Per Acre, Flour 20 Shillings Per Barrel and Wheat 3 Shillings Per Bushel.

Archivist Fraser, or Miss Carnochan, of Niagara, would like to become possessed of a copy of the Cobourg Star of Feb. 18th, 1835 belonging to Mr. W. J. Wilson, foreman of the Toronto News composing room, and formerly proprietor of The Star. The paper, in spite of over seventy years of handling, is still in a good state of preservation. The notices and advertisements give some very interesting information. Mr Geo. S. Boulton, whose solicitor's card appeared, was a brother of Mr. D'Arcy Boulton. Mrs. Burnham, whose death is recorded, was the mother of Hon. A. A. Burnham, and ancestress of a large and talented family in Central Ontario. The proprietor of a newly erected distillery was Mr. Jas. Calcutt, whose sons and grandsons were, until recently, the owners of the steamers running from Rice Lake to Peterborough. Hon. Ebenezer Perry was also an advertiser in that issue. The freight rates of the day are indicated in an advertisement which bids for freight at one shilling and ninepence per hundredweight from Cobourg to Peterborough. Lands apparently unimproved, are offered for sale at 20 shillings per acre. The price of the paper is fifteen shillings per year in advance, or one pound at the end of the year. Flour is quoted at 20 shillings a barrel, wheat at 3 shillings per bushel, potatoes at one shilling and six pence, beef at four pence, butter at nine pence, pork 20 shillings per hundred, wood 7 shillings per cord, hay 35 shillings a ton, and Canada whiskey from two shillings and ten pence to three shillings per gallon. Though this was Feb. 18th, 1835, the report of the proceedings of the Provincial Parliament in Toronto was only brought down to Jan. 30th, but in the selection, editing and printing of the news, local and foreign, this old four-page paper puts to shame many a modern journal. Altogether it is a most interesting relic of pre-rebellion days in Ontario.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

William Jennings Bryan on "The Prince of Peace."

"I am not a theologian."

"Government is part of life; religion is all."

"How do you explain the Son of Man in history?"

"I am as sure man lives again as I am sure he lives to-day."

"The peace of the human heart depends on a conscience void of offence."

"Tolstoi was right. Religion is not a superstition, and does not rest on fear."

The greatest platform was the platform of peace; 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

"I don't care how long drawn out is the process of evolution, so long as God is back of it."

"In the years to come I believe He will be described more and more as the Prince of Peace."

"How often it is that duty calls us to do what is profitable rather than to make sacrifices."

"Until you can explain the mystery of the watermelon don't be too sure what God can do, or how."

"I want to reach the young men and shame them out of the conceit that it's smart to be skeptical."

"It's easier to believe Christ divine than to explain in any other way what he said and did and was."

"I utterly reject the materialistic theory that you can build a code of morals on enlightened selfishness."

"This splendid civilization is the work of men and women who don't know the mystery of their own lives."

"I will not reject the blessings of religion because there are some things in the Bible I cannot understand."

"My father was a Baptist, my mother a Methodist, and when I was fourteen I joined the Presbyterian church."

"The white man has a physical courage that he shares with the brute, but he has a moral courage he shares with God."

"I think I can grasp the fundamental truths that underlie religion and the difference between churches doesn't bother me."

"Another mystery is the change in the human heart, when a man begins to hate the things he loved, and love the things he hated."

"The nations that have made the greatest progress are the nations that have submitted the law of love for the law of hatred."

"A great orator once said; 'How prudently most men sink into nameless graves, while a few forget themselves into immortality.'

"The man who never does good until he figures out how much will come back, spends time in figuring that should be spent in acting."

"The most dangerous period in a young man's life is when he is at college—the time he thinks he knows more than he ever does know."

"If my puny arm, in holding up this glass of water, is strong enough to suspend the law of gravitation, I won't set limits to the power of God."

"Humility is a very difficult virtue to cultivate. Someone has said that if one really becomes humble he is soon proud of his own humility."

"If you can chase the germ of life off this planet and get it out into space, you can guess the rest of the way, and no one can contradict."

"All through history men have been willing to die that blessings denied them might be enjoyed by their children."

"If the law of hatred is the law of man's development, how dare we substitute the law of love? If hatred has made us what we are, won't love drive us back?"

"There have been quarrels because we have been trying to see what we could get out of the world. There will be peace when we try to see what we can put in."

"Man is a religious being, whether he is getting satisfaction by dipping in the waters of the Ganges, worshipping with his face to the sun, or lifting his heart to God."

"You have known me as a politician. I am still interested in the science of government, but I am more interested in religion than I am in the science of government."

"One of the chief characteristics of Christianity is that it spends millions every year to make life more pleasant for those who can't possibly repay."

"If a man is trying to be good because people are watching him, he is sure to find a time when he thinks they are not looking, and then he takes a vacation."

"If a man refuses to eat anything unless he understands the mystery of growth, he will die of starvation. But mystery does not bother us in the dining room; only in the church."

"If I have faith—and I have faith if I have optimism—and I am optimistic—it rests on the philosophy of the Prince of Peace applied more and more to the problems of every day."

"Confucius, when asked what word covered all the relationships of man, said 'reciprocity.' Christ asks us to measure our work for others, not by what they do for us, but by the need."

"Man has some of the physical characteristics of the beast, but he has mind and soul as well as body; and I object to his origin being traced on one-third, and that the lowest third."

"If any man can find pleasure or pride in tracing his ancestors back to the monkey, I wouldn't rob him of the satisfaction, but he will not connect me with his family tree without protest."

"I enjoy making political speeches and I sometimes indulge in that pastime; but I commenced speaking in a church six years befoer I went on the stump, and I will be in the church after I am out of politics."

"If you ask me if I understand everything in the Bible, I tell you 'no.' If we live up to the things we do understand, we will be kept so busy we won't have time to worry about the things we don't understand."

The Cost Of Good Health

Will be Lessened by the Timely Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

How much money is wasted on useless medicines? How much time is lost, how much pain endured, simply because you do not find the right medicine to start with. Take the earnest advice of thousands who speak from experience in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will save time, money, and above all, will find perfect health. Proof of this is found in the statement of Mr. J. A. Roberge, a well known resident of Lachine, Que., who says; "I am a boatman, and consequently exposed to all conditions of weather. This exposure began to tell on my health. The cold led to weakness, loss of appetite, pains in the limbs and side. I tried several medicines but they did not help me. My condition was growing worse, and a general breakdown threatened. I slept poorly at night and lost much in weight, and began to fear that I was drifting itno chronic invalidism. One day while reading a newspaper I was attracted by the statement of a fellow sufferer who had been cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had spent much money without getting relief, and I hated to spend more, but the cure was so convincing that I decided to give these pills a trial. I am now more than thankful that I did so. After the first couple of weeks they began to help me, and in seven weeks after I began the pills I was as well as ever I had been. I am now convinced that had I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the outset I would not only have been spared much suffering, but would have saved money as well."

Rich, red blood is the cure for most of the ailments that afflict mankind; Dr. Williams Pink Pills actually make new rich blood. That is why they cure such common ailments as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, heart palpitation, erysipelas, skin troubles, and the headaches, backaches, sideaches and other ills of girlhood and womanhood. The pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $1.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The easiest way to physic a horse when alone or otherwise, is to put on bridle with rein on upper side of bit rings, passed through over a pole in the stable roof. Draw head up high and pour into corner of mouth slowly; if he refuses to swallow, confine the nostrils for a moment with hand, and the medicine will go down.

Salvation Army Praise

"I feel it my duty to testify to the benefit I have received from the use of Psychine. While travelling in New Ontario conducting special meetings I contracted a very bad cold, which gradually developed into Bronchitis of the worst form. I was advised to try Psychine, which I did, and after using but a few bottles I was completely restored to health. I recommend this wonderful remedy to sufferers from Bronchitis and other troubles."

Later: "I wish to add that my voice, since using Psychine, is stronger and has much more carrying power than it had before I had bronchitis, and the vocal chords do not tire with speaking."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST
Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

ALONE WITH DEAD MAN.

Lighthouse Man's Terrible Ordeal—Kept Prisoner For Seven Days.

Toledo, O., Feb. 22.—Fleeing in terror over long stretches of treacherous ice from the Toledo harbor lighthouse, where for seven days he had been imprisoned, with the dead body of Capt. Delos Hayden, Joe Berner reached the city yesterday afternoon. He brought the news of the death to friends and relatives, telling of the nerve-racking vigil beside the dying man in the lonely lighthouse and his still more terrifying experience while watching over the dead body, waiting for a turn in the weather which would permit his escape.

Hayden was conscious to the last and left a message for each of his relatives and friends. He died in his faithful companion's arms. Berner placed the body in one of the lower rooms of the lighthouse and began his wait for an opportunity to reach shore.

Around the lighthouse the ice was firm under the snow, and when Berner started out at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon he had strong hopes of reaching the shore in safety. Yet the trial was extremely perilous. He was not even equipped with a pike pole with which to sound the ice, and he fell many times into airholes. He also found much open water and frequently by the merest chance escaped death.

Berner cannot explain how he happened to reach Cedar Point Thursday. He had no idea as to the direction in which he was walking, and had he gone 200 feet either east or west of the course he happened to take he would have missed land altogether. He took a few hours' rest at Cedar Point, and then proceeded to the city.

GIRL'S FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Walked Mile and a Half With Clothing Burned Off.

Emo, Ont., Feb. 22.—Miss Edith Knopke, who lived on a homestead claim across the boundary in Minnesota, was almost burned to death in her solitary cabin, and had one of the most trying experiences which ever fell to the lot of one of her sex. She was cooking meat when her clothing caught fire, and the wall paper also ignited. She was too dazed by the sudden conflagration to take any effective measures, and when she got out of the cabin her clothes were literally burned from her body, and she was suffering terribly. Her home in ruins and she in a naked condition and alone in the wintry woods at night, she made a plucky attempt and succeeded in walking a mile and a half and reached the home of a neighbor, John Reid, who, with the help of other neighbors, did what he could for the unfortunate woman.

Medical aid was summoned, and telegrams were sent to relatives in the east. The badly burned young lady was fixed up as comfortably as possible and taken by train from Fort Frances to Minneapolis. Hopes are entertained for her ultimate recovery. She is twenty-seven years of age, and expected to prove her claim to her homestead in about four months.

PRESS CHAMPIONS STOESSEL.

Papers Say Real Responsibility Has Not Yet Been Fixed.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—The passing of the death sentence by a court-martial upon Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, who was tried on charges of cowardice and treason in surrendering Port Arthur to the Japanese, is received with little satisfaction in the Russian capital, where it is felt that the trial of Gens. Stoessel, Fock, Reiss and Smirnoff has done practically nothing towards establishing the real responsibility for the fall of the fortress.

The newspapers express sympathy with Gen. Stoessel and declare that the death sentence undoubtedly will be commuted. They demand also that Gen. Kuropatkin, Viceroy Alexieff and other officers still more intimately responsible for the loss of the war, be placed on trial.

Australia's Invitation.

Washington, Feb. 22.—An exceedingly cordial invitation to have the American battleship fleet visit Australia has been extended by Hon. Alfred Deakin, Prime Minister of Australia. Secretary of State Root in acknowledging the invitation remarked:

"The eventual movements of our fleet has not yet been determined. While it is probable that the vessels will return by way of Suez, I would be glad if some of them could be sent by the Australian route, but it would be premature to promise this."

Rumors In Portugal.

Lisbon, Feb. 22.—The air is full of rumors of plots and counter plots. Some speak of increased revolutionary agitation among the Republicans. Others of the revival of "Francoism"; yet others of a palace and barrack plot to establish a military dictatorship.

Oporto newspapers state positively that the Government has discovered a Francoist plot at the palace, and is prosecuting Counts Arnoso and Tarouca, and Major Jose Lobo, who are alleged to be the leaders.

Society Woman Asphyxiated.

New York, Feb. 22—Mrs. William P. Burden, formerly Miss Natica Rives, was found dead in her room in Fifth avenue yesterday afternoon from illuminating gas poisoning. Mrs. Burden was prominent in New York society and was 22 years old.

ORANGE JUICE AND HEALTH
For Stomach and Skin.

Few of us realize what an important part the skin plays in keeping us well or making us ill.

The millions of tiny glands, or pores, are intended to rid the system of waste matter, which the blood brings to the skin. It is a well-known medical fact that the healthy skin carries off more Urea or waste matter than the kidneys. Just think how much poison remains in the system when there is any skin trouble.

The skin and stomach are intimately associated. Find a person with a dry, harsh skin and you will find one who suffers with indigestion or constipation, and both, usually.

Both may be relieved by a judicious use of orange juice. Both can be cured by taking the juice of an orange every morning before breakfast, and taking "Fruit-a-tives" at night. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. The fresh juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are separated from the pulp, and then combined in such a way that the medicinal action is intensified.

Orange juice alone will not cure Skin, Stomach or Bowel troubles. But when taken in connection with "Fruit-a-tives," a positive cure results. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers or will be sent on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa.

Lindsay Intermediates Down and Out Visitors Resorted to Trickery to Win

LIGHTNING HOCKEY IN FIRST HALF SCORE: LINDSAY 4, MIDLAND 0

Great Crowd Witnessed the Match—In Second Half Lindsay Played an Uphill Game—Soon After the Start They Had to Drop a Man and Later on Were Three Men Short—Final Score 6-6.

Before one of the largest crowds ever packed into Lindsay skating rink, despite an admission fee of half a dollar, Lindsay Intermediates lost the record to Midland last night—mainly owing to miserable trickery which Referee Hancock found himself helpless to prevent owing to the weakness of the O.H.A. rules.

Midland came here with a special train carrying about 250 rooters, most of whom, while claiming to be confident of victory, manifested a disturbing fear at the result of the match by refusing to put up their money unless they were offered a deal sure thing with odds 50 standing for accumulation. They soon realize that the first game in the round only fell to them through Lindsay being compelled to play a man short, and they did not seem to be at all confident that they would be able to pull off the same trick here. As events disclosed, their success in introducing tricky methods was quite in keeping with their fears.

It would be rank injustice to imply that Midland are not a first-class team — they are clever hockey players, every man fast of foot and what would have been a fair struggle between evenly matched teams was nullified by an unsportsmanlike and successful attempt on their part to compel a victory after it had been made plain that Lindsay could outplay them.

THE GAME.

The first half was lightning hockey, of a brand that fairly made the crowd gasp. Play commenced soon after 8.30, Lindsay getting the puck and carrying it well down on the Midland goal, where Switzer captured it and attempted a rush. He was checked and the puck returned to Midland vicinity, when Cotey notched No. 1 for Lindsay three minutes after the puck-off. Stoddard added another one minute later, and the rafters fairly shook with the cheers of Lindsay's enthusiastic supporters.

During the next rush Sullivan was sent to the fence twice, and Stoddard scored. The latter, as soon as he returned to the ice, got control of the puck and made a clean swift shot from the point for Lindsay No. 3 for Lindsay. Pandemonium broke loose, the crowd stamping and cheering for a full minute. Soon after the next puck-off Switzer and Roberts, of Midland, followed each others to the penalty box for tripping, and Randall scored No. 4 for Lindsay after a clever bit of manoeuvring. Taylor and Stoddard were the men of Lindsay's two goal scorers, and while they were off Midland made a desperate attempt to score, but every rush of their forwards was checked in brilliant style by the Lindsay men, who put up superb hockey. When the bell rang the two teams were bunched around Midland goal, the latter team being purely on the defensive. Score—Lindsay 4, Midland 0.

THE SECOND HALF.

When the teams reappeared on the ice the spectators were keyed up to a high pitch of excitement. Immediately after the face-off Switzer, Midland's centre, tripped Koyl, and was sent to the boards. Lindsay scored a minute later after a wholesale mix-up in front of the Midland goal, Stoddard doing the trick.

It was shortly after the next puck-off that Lindsay's trouble began. Cotey was sent to the fence for hitting, and Randall followed a few second later. Then Roberts, cover-point for Midland, fell on the ice affecting little tussle on the left wing, insisting in plaintive tones that his ankle was smashed. He was carried to the waiting room, where he was examined by Drs. Brown and White. They could find no mark or indication of injury, and therefore pronounced him fit to go on the ice. But Manager Gould refused to permit him, saying,

The Referee Thought it Necessary to Caution the boys to play Careful.

"He says he's hurt, and there's nothing under heaven or in the rules to compel him to play if he says he isn't fit." Accordingly, the Lindsay men turned away, and Sullivan, their cover-point was retired, the game continuing six men aside.

The Roberts affair, and its effect, became manifest a minute later, when Midland scored their first goal. Lindsay again protested to the referee against Roberts being allowed to persist in his scheme, but Mr. Hancock avowed his helplessness under the rules. "I'm no mind-reader, gentlemen," he remarked, to Messrs. L. B. Knight and Artie Purkis at the penalty box; "if he says he's hurt, and can't play, I must accept his statement, but I don't mind admitting that to my mind the fellow is shamming."

When the game was resumed after a long delay with a sorely vexed crowd, or soon after the puck-off, and a couple of minutes later Taylor added another for Lindsay.

After this misfortunes multiplied for the locals. Midland rushed in a goal in quick order, and after some strenuous play which resulted in Taylor being penalized, they scored another. Midland then sustained a painful injury, the point of a skate being driven partly through the palm of the hand of Hastings, incapacitated, he had to retire, Hastings being dropped by Midland to even up. The teams then comprised five men a side. A few minutes later Switzer, of Midland, met with a severe injury in a fierce rush to the side after the puck — just how no one seems to be certain; some think he got a shattering blow from Randall's stick, while others say that he has drawn against the fence his own stick inflicted the wound. At any rate he had to be carried off the ice and attended by a doctor, who later had his patient removed to his hotel. Then the game went on with four men a side, Randall being put off to balance Switzer, and when within a few minutes of full time Midland scored their sixth goal, losing Lindsay, the Midland rooters made the welkin ring with the cheers evoked by their pleasant but undeserved hopeful victory.

The Midland line-ups was: Goal McDonald; point, Hanlay; c. p., Roberts; rover, E. Gould; right, Beasty; left, Hastings; centre, Switzer.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

From Lindsay's standpoint, the game was a plain steal. There is little doubt that Roberts was not hurt bad enough to necessitate his retirement, and there is absolutely no doubt about how the game would go with seven man a side. Their forwards were checked so close that Lindsay's defence got them every time. Their cover and point men could not stop the Lindsay rushes. They were five goals to the good, with 25 minutes still to go. (Truly, something had to be done, and they did it). Some Lindsay people remember another team that did it, too: Belleville got sick there after a time. Potentions used to be a man with a broken skate start the game and then have to quit. They could never find another skate for him, and the game would always go on 6 a side.

There's something radically wrong with an association whose rules allow a player to go to the referee and say, "I'm hurt—I can't play, any more," and then make a force out of what should be a game of hockey (seven men a side). No one can compell him to come on, and the assurance of a chosen doctor would not be a lot of good. He says he is unable to play, and that's the end of him, and also one of the other team.

You've either got to be a great deal better or a great deal "crookeder" than the other team to win. You've got to have 7 better men, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2 or 1 better man, just as the other team fancies. If they can't beat you with 7 men, they will compel you to try what 6 can do. In short, if your goaltender is a good spitter you can win games — if your sense of honor is small enough.

We are not hard losers by a long shot, and have always given the kind hand to teams like Stratford and Bracebridge when beaten on our merits, but there's a burning that bodes ill for Midland over last night's little steal.

Odds and Ends of Sport

I.C.A.C. LOSES HEAD.

News of the surprise of the season in athletic circles was broken last night, when Mr. Tom C. Flanagan, of the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club, announced his retirement from the position of manager and director of the now famous organization. The announcement came as a big surprise to even the most intimate friends of the popular Tom, who had not mentioned his intention to anyone. Mr. Flanagan's reasons for retiring from office are entirely personal, and are most cold in his own words.

It is understood that Mr. Flanagan's successor has practically been selected, and the meeting of Tuesday evening will only have to ratify the selection. It appears that new financial interests have been introduced into the club and that a general shake-up will take place.

The many athletes of the city and vicinity will be sorry to hear of Tom's decision, as he has in his year's work among the boys become one of the most popular officials that ever mixed in track circles.

Dan Gallagher, one of the best known pitchers in the Southwest, was sold and killed recently at Fort Worth.

In the matched skating races at Peterborough last Tuesday night the winners were: Half-mile—1, Robson; 2, Heffernan. Time, 1.36. One mile—1, Heffernan; 2, Robson. Time, 3.22 1-2. Two mile—1, Robson; 2, Heffernan. Time, 7.11. One mile, over under 18—1, Charles Kingan; 2, S. Holland. One mile men's race—1, B. Heffernan; 2, C. Coe. The two-mile race between Robson and Heffernan was almost a dead heat, Robson winning by inches.

COLLINGWOOD'S TROUBLE

News, Collingwood, was given no other chance by the sub-committee of the O. H. A. this morning. The protest of Hamilton was allowed, and from Collins was suspended. The teams will play off in Toronto on Monday night, at the Maitland rink. Affidavits from Clifford Hudson and Fred Taylor, of Ottawa to the effect that Collins had played with Portage in Prairie, were submitted. Collins, who has been with the Collingwood Club for eleven years, admitted the corn, but said that he had not received any money for his services. He told a straight story.

BENETANG WON.

Everything good seems to be holding north these days. At Markham hockey tournament Thursday night Benetang defeated Toronto Deseilis in the finals by 9 to 5, and walked away with seven gold watches. The tourney was a great success, all 17 games being played by 13 teams in attendance.

Running

In answer to the letter which appeared recently in the Toronto Press criticising Longboat's performance in Boston, the following was published Wednesday evening:

Sporting Editor The News: I notice in your sporting columns a letter, evidently written by an Englishman, as the result of Tom Longboat's recent performance in Boston. He mentions how easily Mr. Shrubb defeated the men who ran against him in the relay race, when he made the time Longboat succeeded in lowering.

Nobody ever said that Shrubb ran to make a record, nor did the Indian try to do any more than lower the time made by the Englishman. He asks why the race was not held in Toronto, instead of in Boston. A very unfair thing to ask. Did he expect Longboat to run against the Varsity track in the same time it took Shrubb to run a little over nine miles?

The "fake record-makers," to use his own phrase, were appointed as official timers, and it was their record by them should be accepted. The holders of the other watches, that credited him with a much slower performance, were men who have been fair in signing up our Canadian runners and the Indian man is considered a marvel by all who have seen or heard of his wonderful performances.

Hoping you will find room for this in your columns.

DUNBAR THE CHAMPION.

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—R. H. Dunbar's phenomenal curling has again been one of the features of the bonspiel. He left for home yesterday after losing out in his last competition—the Empire—to the McAskill rink, of Gladstone. Even though he lost, Dunbar captured the grand aggregate with McConachy, Lowe, McFarlane and McAskill, all closely bunched for second honors.

Before leaving, Dunbar tried his hand in the points competition, and made the high score of 47. A number of curlers went through the competition, and while the scores on the whole were good, the winning approach to Dunbar's was 43, made by R. W. Boettner, of the Granites.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

TRAGEDY IN CHURCH

Priest Shot at the Altar While Celebrating Mass.

CONGREGATION IN A PANIC

Assassin an Anarchist Who Says He Has Grudge Against Clergy — The Victim Had Just Administered Sacrament When Deed Was Done—Scene In Sacred Building—Shot Through Heart.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 24.—Father Leo Heinrichs was shot and killed yesterday by Alio Guizeppe, an avowed anarchist and priest hater, while the priest was administering the sacrament at the early mass in St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic Church.

Kneeling at the altar rail, between two women, Guizeppe pressed the muzzle of a revolver against the body of the priest, after receiving from him the consecrated water, and shot the priest through the heart.

Exclaiming, "My God, my God," Father Leo fell prone in front of the altar and died.

With an inarticulate scream, the assassin sprang into the aisle and waving the smoking pistol about his head dashed to the church door. For a moment the hundred or more persons in the church were dazzled. Then a woman shrieked and the congregation became panic-stricken. Several women fainted and many others became hysterical. Several men, including Patrolman Daniel Cronin, started in pursuit of the murderer, Policeman Cronin overtook the fleeing Italian on the church steps.

Guizeppe attempted to shoot the policeman, but was foiled and overpowered after a desperate struggle, in which several men assisted the officer.

The murderer was hurriedly removed to the city jail. As threats of summary vengeance by men who collected in front of the church, Chief of Police Michael Delaney called out the reserve force of patrolmen, who were kept on guard all day and last night.

Before the commotion caused by the tragedy subsided, the Franciscan brothers connected with the St. Elizabeth's Church silently brought candles for the dead and placed them besides the body of their superior, where he lay. By direction of Bishop Matz the church was closed for the day.

A single bullet hole in the white communion robes of the priest showed that the lead had gone straight to the heart. The bullets remaining in Guizeppe's revolver had sharpened points.

Guizeppe was placed in solitary confinement. He admitted to the policeman that the priest whom he had killed was a stranger to him, and in explanation of his crime, said:

"I just went over there because I have a grudge against all priests in general. They are all against the workingman. I went to the communion rail because I could get a better shot. I did not give a blank whether he was a German priest or any other kind of a priest. They are all in the same class.

"I left Italy three months ago, and went first to Central America and then came to Denver. I am an anarchist and I am proud of it. I shot him, and my only regret is that I could not shoot the whole bunch of priests in the church. I am a shoemaker, but have not worked since coming to Denver."

Predicts Money Glut.

London, Feb. 24.—"Money will in six months be in an excessive quantity on the American market, and the same conditions will prevail in Canada," was a statement made on Saturday by a prominent local broker recently returned from New York.

"I met one of the leading bankers of New York City," said the London man, "and his firm belief was that deposits were being poured into the banks in such quantities that spring would possibly ensure a money glut.

"That is just what a lot of London firms and individuals are waiting for. Many big legitimate enterprises are hanging fire for the lack of money, and once it becomes easier you'll see this city will be added to by several more large industries."

Engine Throws Car on Platform.

Wingham, Feb. 24.—A railway accident occurred at the C.P.R. station Saturday afternoon, in which the passenger engine of the 1.15 p.m. train was wrecked.

As the train was approaching the station a freight train was pulling off the main line on to a siding. The last car of the freight did not get far enough past the switch, and the passenger engine caught the car, throwing it completely off the tracks on to the platform.

Had the accident happened a few feet nearer the station, the telegraph office would have been wrecked.

Australia Buys Paper.

London, Feb. 24.—(C.A.P.)—Australian advices to The Financial News state that Canadian paper manufacturers are making strong inroads in all centres of the Commonwealth. If the standard and quality of the paper is maintained, there will be a strong preference in favor of the Dominion's product against United States. Wallpaper manufacturers are also finding a good market.

WITNESS CONFESSES PERJURY.

Says Testimony on Which Man Was Condemned Was False.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Eighteen-year-old Jerry M. Vzral, whose testimony more than any other person's served to convict the Bohemian fortune-teller, Herman Billik, of the murder of six members of the Vzral family, has, it is announced, recanted and in an affidavit declares that the testimony was simply perjury.

Billik is under sentence to be hanged March 20. The Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment, destroying the man's last chance, unless Governor Deneen shall issue a pardon.

Not only does the Vzral boy impughn his own evidence, but he declares that two of his relatives also lied.

In the affidavit the boy states that all the vital part of his testimony was perjury, taught him by a high police official and an assistant state's attorney. He specifically names the men whom he accuses.

In the affidavit Vzral, who is now a student in Valparaiso, Ind., asserts that he told the story because a police official threatened him with the murder unless he did as the officer wished.

The credit for polishing off the fictitious narrative he gives to an assistant state's attorney, with whom, he says, he was closeted 40 times, the conferences being from one to four hours in duration.

He further asserts that the inspector of police summoned him at least 50 times, and that these conferences usually lasted two hours.

The confession was obtained by the instrumentality of Rev. P. J. O'Callaghan, head of the Paulist Fathers in this city and pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, who has been working in Billik's behalf for several months. Father O'Callaghan says he was interested in the case through Sister Rose, a nun at the Columbus Hospital, who firmly believed in Billik's innocence. It was Sister Rose who converted the carbarn bandit, Gustav Marx, who was executed with Niedermeyer and Vandine, the only one of the trio that died a Christian.

FEARS WAR MAY RESULT.

American Speaker Disapproves of Sending Fleet to Pacific.

London, Feb. 24.—Washington's birthday was celebrated Saturday night by the London section of the American Navy League by a dinner at Hyde Park Hotel.

The speakers included are Newton Crane, who has represented the United States Government on several important occasions. He spoke at length on "The Yellow Peril," which he characterized as the bogey of labor union demagogues. He also expressed strong disapproval of the voyage of the American fleet to the Pacific, and said he feared when it reached San Francisco it would excite passion which might result in war.

A large proportion of those present expressed disapproval of Mr. Crane's sentiments by a noticeable silence at the conclusion of his speech.

Apologized and Paid Costs.

London, Feb. 24.—In the motion brought by Lawson & Jones against Lind, Kerrigan & Co., in the weekly high court, before Mr. Justice Clute, yesterday morning, a decision was given in favor of the former firm.

The motion was brought to commit the defendant, Mr. Kerrigan, to jail for a breach of an injunction issued by the court, the breach being a failure to deliver light, heat and power.

For the defendant it was contended that no breach was intended, or, in fact, made.

The court ordered that upon the defendant filing an affidavit that no breach was intended, and apologizing for the breach, paying the costs and that no further proceedings be taken under the motion, without prejudice to the claim for damages which the plaintiff may have.

The firm of Lawson & Jones has also issued a writ against Lind, Kerrigan & Co. for damages for failing to deliver light, heat and power, as it was agreed, according to the claim filed by the plaintiffs. Other firms are interested in the outcome of this suit.

Brute Is Bigamist, Too.

Kingston, Feb. 24.—Mrs. Lizzie Baker of Yarker found herself wife No. 2 of Alex. S. Babcock of Murvale, when the husband was tried for inhuman cruelty to a child, breaking its arm, while in a temper. He was constantly threatening to kill the four-months-old infant. He was sent up for trial. It was disclosed in the evidence that Babcock was a bigamist. He admitted it. His first wife was Edith Ella Matice of Plum Hollow, who left him. He married Miss Baker in 1906. He was also sent for trial on this charge.

EIGHT MEN DROWNED

Violent Hurricane Visits England and Ireland.

TRAIN BLOWN FROM TRACK

Tornado Leaves Death and Destruction In Its Wake—Shipping Suffers Severely — Grand Stands Blown Down — Spectators Injured—Schools and Churches Unroofed and Buildings Collapse.

London, Feb. 24.—The northwest of England and the north of Ireland were in the grasp of a hurricane on Saturday which left death and destruction in its wake.

In the Mersey River a schooner was capsized and eight men drowned. Several small steamers are reported in distress off Holyhead, while a number of small craft have been driven ashore.

No less than one dozen grandstands at several provincial points, were blown down, and many of the occupants, who had gathered to witness local football matches, injured.

A train running between Burtonport and Donegal was blown off the rails by the wind while crossing a viaduct, and nearly crashed into a bog beneath. The passengers were rescued unhurt.

The launching at Belfast of the new 25,000-ton steamer Rotterdam for the New York service of the Holland-American line, had to be postponed on account of the gale.

Blinding hailstorms added discomfort to the day.

The tornado was of short duration, but most violent, unroofing schools and churches and uprooting trees. Fatalities are reported through the collapse of buildings in Manchester, Sheerness, Wisbech and Leeds. The tramway services in Liverpool and Manchester were partially suspended because of trees that had fallen over the tracks. The lightship at Grimsby was sunk, but the crew was rescued by a trawler. A schooner foundered off Sheerness, and the skipper was drowned. Many were injured at Birmingham.

HUSBAND'S AWFUL CRIME.

In Fit of Rage Shoots Wife and Then Suicides.

Hotchkiss, Col., Feb. 24.—Insane with rage, because his wife objected to his scolding one of their children, I. D. Stoneburner, aged 41, a prominent and wealthy farmer, living near this city, shot and fatally wounded the woman and then placed the smoking revolver against his own heart and committed suicide before his six little children, seated around the supper table.

Stole Whisky From Car.

London, Feb. 24.—After hearing the evidence of a score of witnesses, Police Magistrate Love Saturday morning registered a conviction against Perry Sinclair for stealing five cases of whisky from a bonded Grand Trunk car, and against Joseph Lenahan on a charge of receiving a quantity of the liquor. Sinclair was remanded for sentence and Lenahan will appear in a week.

Through evidence secured by Grand Trunk Detective Day, the car was traced from Glencoe to this city, and it was shown that Sinclair and a man named Cotter had been seen after the car had been broken into burning a box and a number of straw bottle casings. Richard Blackwell swore to this.

Lenahan, it was shown by the evidence, had attempted to dispose of the whisky to hotelmen in the city, and this was the strongest point against him. It was not proven that Lenahan had known that the whisky was stolen.

William Mahon, propertor of the Grand Central Hotel, was fined $10 for conducting a poker game on his premises.

Another Murder.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Just one more Italian murder here and still no arrests.

One Silvio was shot dead Saturday evening, and his compatriots say the murderer's name is Carmirro.

The latter disappeared soon after the crime.

Attack on Alderman's Seat.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Municipal circles were considerably stirred by the news of proceedings to unseat Ald. W. E. Brown of Victoria Ward. The papers have been filed and the allegation is that bribery and corruption were practiced.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves — re-establish them as needed, with

COMMENCE BUSY SEASON.

British House Gets Down to Work—Prime Minister to Retire.

London, Feb. 24.—The session of Parliament, up to the present apparently uneventful, will begin to-day a busy and important week, with the introduction of a new education bill and the publication of the naval estimates, over which there is said to have been much divergence of opinion in the Cabinet. On Tuesday the Government will make a statement on the Macedonia situation and the Congo debate will occupy Wednesday. The licensing bill, one of the Government's principal measures, will be taken up on Thursday, and on Friday the woman's suffrage bill.

The health of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Prime Minister, is improving, but very slowly. There is not the slightest hope that he will be able to resume active leadership before Easter, even if then, and the party is beginning to take for granted the advent of Herbert H. Asquith as Premier, which would be an important development in many ways, as Mr. Asquith is the leader of the imperial section of the Cabinet, while Sir Henry leads the Radical section, which is committed to home rule and other advanced measures.

As Mr. Asquith holds the influential position of Chancellor of the Exchequer, his appointment as Premier would give his party enormous strength, which might result in some modification of the policy of the Cabinet as a whole. Rumors that the Premier has already offered to resign, however, are unfounded.

It is understood that the naval estimates will show an increase of about $5,000,000 over last year, the shipbuilding program being a modest one.

TRIED TO WRECK EXPRESS.

Freight Train Was Ditched and Robbers Were Disappointed.

Sedalia, Mo., Feb. 24.—An attempt to derail an eastbound fast passenger train on the Missouri Pacific, evidently for the purpose of robbery, was made at Otterville, 20 miles east of here, at midnight on Saturday, a rail having been removed.

The bad place in the track was struck by an extra freight train from St. Louis.

The freight was wrecked, the engineer, fireman and brakeman being seriously injured.

The train that the wreckers evidently sought to catch left Kansas City at 9.10 for St. Louis. It was supposed to carry considerable money.

The wreckers had removed a rail a mile and a half east of Otterville, and built a fire between the tracks to bring the passenger train to a stop. The freight crew did not notice the fire until too late to stop, and the engine and several cars were derailed and badly damaged.

The injured men were brought to a hospital at Sedalia. There is no clue to the would-be robbers.

Fatal Elevator Accident.

London, Feb. 24.—As a result of injuries received in an accident at Reid Bros.' blank book and paper box factory Friday afternoon, Wilber Read, the 15-year-old son of Mr. Samuel Read, of the Asylum road, Pottersburg, died at Victoria Hospital on Saturday.

The accident happened shortly after 5 o'clock, the elevator falling from the fourth storey to the ground floor, carrying the young man with it, inflicting such injuries that he never regained consciousness.

How the accident occurred cannot be accurately ascertained. Young Read, who works in the box department, had, along with Foremen Fred James, taken a number of boxes to the fourth floor. Mr. James had just stepped off the lift, when in some way the elevator started to drop. Whether the cable broke or not cannot be learned. The guards provided for such emergencies failed to act, and the elevator and the boy fell to the ground floor.

Society Shuns Castle.

Dublin, Ireland, Feb. 24.—Many English fashionables, both in the nobility and out of it, come here each year to enjoy the gayeties of the Castle season which begins this week and will last until St. Patrick's Day. But this year the court of the viceroy, the Earl of Aberdeen, is rigorously boycotted, not only by the English, but by the Irish aristocracy, and the season threatens to be a flat failure. There is only one reason for this, of course—the scandal surrounding the theft of the crown jewels from Dublin Castle.

Wants Yankee Fleet.

Melbourne, Feb. 24.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Deakin has issued a statement respecting the invitation of the United States fleet to visit Australian ports, wherein he referred to its importance upon the future development by the appearance of such a great body of warships on the Pacific. He says: "Receptions of the fleet in South American ports would be eclipsed in Australia and the visit of the fleet would mark a new era in the history of this part of the world."

River "Flows With Blood."

Fez, Feb. 24.—A letter has reached here from Mulai Hafig, the Sultan of the South, announcing a "massacre of the infidels." Its reading was saluted with the firing of 200 guns. Mulai Hafig says, among other things, that the stream where his men are encamped is "overflowing with the blood of the French."

KILLED AT CROSSING

Express Dashes Into Wagon With Frightful Results.

SIX DEAD, THREE INJURED

Party of Young People Going to a Basketball Game — Tried to Cross In Front of a Train — Vehicle Dashed to Pieces—Victims Were Dreadfully Mangled — Team Plunged Through the Gate.

Spring Valley, N.Y., Feb. 24.—A foam-flecked pair of horses that tore through the streets early yesterday, dragging between them a splintered wagon pole, brought to the village the first news of a grade crossing accident, in which nine members of its most prominent families were either killed outright or frightfully injured.

The runaways brought up at the livery stables of George Young, from whom they had been hired the night before to take a party of men and girls to a basketball game at Nyack. Returning in the early hours of the day the wagon load of merrymakers was run down at a West Nyack crossing by an Ontario & Western passenger express train. Four of the party were instantly killed, two died while being removed to the Hudson County Hospital at Hoboken, N.J., and the other three lie in a serious condition at that institution.

At the hospital last night it was stated that the outcome of the injured could not be predicted for several hours. Of the three the condition of Miss Bird was said to be the most desperate.

The Spring Valley basketball team and eleven supporters drove to Nyack, occupying two carriages. The party of sixteen included six young ladies. The teams started for home a half hour apart. As the first wagon load approached the crossing at West Nyack the southbound mountain express running over the West Shore road came in sight.

It was behind time, and being pushed, it is stated. The gateman says he lowered the gates and at the same time waved a warning to the merrymakers, whose shouts of laughter could be heard as their horses came galloping along. He believes that young May thought he could beat the train. At any rate the gateman says that the team plunged through the gate and the next moment the wagon was poised on the cowcatcher of the locomotive. As the vehicle fell to pieces the occupants tumbled some to one side, the others directly under the engine's wheels. The train run a considerable distance before it could be stopped. Then it was backed up and the injured placed upon it.

The bodies of the dead were literally crushed to pieces and scarcely recognizable. In the dim light it was impossible to complete the work of recovery, which was renewed yesterday.

Gouged Wife's Eye Out.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—The police of No. 5 station were aroused on Saturday by a woman, whose name is not known, who rushed into the captain's office, screaming that a murder was being committed at 31 St. Urbain street. She was in a great state of excitement, and before any details could be gathered she had disappeared.

Lieut. Gorman and three constables on reserve at the station immediately hurried over to the address given. The house was all lit up and there was a great racket going on inside. Gorman knocked and demanded admittance, but no one came to the door, and the shrieking and screaming continued. The four officers then put their shoulders to the lock and, with their combined weight and strength, crashed in the panel.

Inside, in one of the bedrooms, the lieutenant found a man, who later gave his name as Fred Rodgers, fighting desperately with a woman. Her face was covered with blood, one of her eyes was hanging from its socket, and the furniture, bedding and pictures in the room were turned topsy-turvey. After the police had separated the two and investigated the matter, Rodgers was arrested, charged with assault. The woman is said to be his wife.

Sues Goderich Star.

London, Feb. 24.—James Dwyer of Richmond street on Saturday instructed his solicitor, W. R. Meredith, to institute proceedings against The Goderich Star because of a statement published in their issue of last week. He mentions $5,000 as the amount.

Mr. Dwyer states that he holds an option of a patent of John P. Conway's, who resides in Goderich. He has the patent papers in his possession, and he claims that the newspaper stated that he was wrongfully holding them.

Bishop Satterlee Dead.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—Bishop Satterlee died Saturday after a few days' illness. The Episcopal cathedral in course of construction in the outskirts of this city will be a monument to his energy.

It was he who twelve years ago served as the bearer of a non-political petition to Emperor Nicholas II., entreating him to use his influence in connection with other powers to put an end to the Armenian massacres.

Uruguay Lines Tied Up.

Montevideo, Feb. 24.—The employes on all the railways in Uruguay have gone on strike. There are about 1,200 miles of railway in Uruguay, which are controlled by British capitalists.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, ofttimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

All's Fair In Love.

By Constance D'Arcy Mackay.

Copyrighted, 1908, by P. C. Eastment.

On the veranda of a trim cottage facing the sea Robert Aldrich, tall, fair haired and athletic, sat and glowered at Miss Hildegarde Farney, while the latter put up a small sunbrowned hand to hide a yawn.

The night before she had driven ten miles across country to the little town of Brantly, where she had witnessed a performance of strolling players as spiritedly as poor scenery and costumes would allow, and she had been idly dilating to Aldrich on the actors of the piece, the too bombastic tragedian, the amusingly ingenuous comedian and the little soubrette who looked like a piece of Dresden china. Aldrich listened with a frown.

"I don't care if your aunt did chaperon you," he burst out. "What I object to is the fact that you went with Percy Graham at all. Every one knows he's a cad."

"Bobby!"

"What right has he to come down here and butt in like this? It just shows what an infernal bounder he is!"

"He's only been here three days," murmured Miss Farney.

"Yet he's managed to monopolize most of them. See here, Hildegarde, do you think you're playing the game square?"

"Square?"

"Before he came you'd almost promised to marry me."

"Almost, but not quite."

"Oh, Hildegarde," Aldrich groaned. "We've had such jolly times together all summer, and now"— He ground his heel against the porch rail. "Hang me if I can see his attractions! He's as stupid as an owl and as insignificant as"—

"Robert!"

When Hildegrade Farney spoke in that tone it was time to stop. But the thought that was uppermost in both their minds, though unexpressed, was the fact that Percy Graham was the owner of three millions. In these days of large fortunes it was not an astounding sum, yet to Aldrich it loomed large as a mountain. He knew that Hildegarde was what he phrased "straight stuff" and that this latest caprice of hers might not last the week out.

Still, as even the faintest possibility of losing her gave his heart a terrific wrench, and since Hildegarde's aunt, Miss Norris, looked on Percy Graham with an eye of worldly wisdom as well as critical appraisement, it behooved young Aldrich to see to his laurels, and he knew it.

Percy Graham had money and an abnormal supply of cheek. Aldrich had brains and pluck and an income from his growing law practice of such proportions that he did not hesitate to ask Miss Farney to share it with him.

That Hildegarde should really care for Percy Graham was an idea too preposterous to be countenanced. But alas! There was no sure way of following the labyrinths of the feminine mind. Aldrich straightened suddenly and looked at Hildegarde.

"I was a beast just now," he said quickly. "What I said of Graham is true, but it's not my business to run him down. If you want a good time, go ahead. Only—just remember once in awhile what chums we've been, won't you?" And Aldrich swung himself over the porch rail and smiled back at her as he took his way to the hotel farther down the beach where he was spending his vacation.

As he walked he caught sight of Percy Graham's automobile racing over the smooth sand at the edge of the surf line. As he had turned back to look at Hildegarde, so now he glanced over his shoulder at the speeding car, only in this case his lips opened, not to smile, but to give vent to a volcanic word of one syllable.

Two afternoons later as he went briskly up the nasturtium bordered path that led to Hildegarde cottage she hailed him from the porch where she and Percy Graham were sitting.

"Why, Bobby," she cried, "where have you been hermiting this perfect age?"

"I've just been asking Miss Farney about you," drawled Percy Graham.

Aldrich glared at him cheerfully.

"Thanks. Always glad to have my friends inquire. Ah, good afternoon, Miss Norris," as Hildegarde's aunt appeared in the doorway, while behind her appeared the face of a pretty Irish servant. Miss Norris looked unusually perturbed. "That red haired boy from the village grocery store has been frightening Mary Ellen with absurd tales of a band of gypsies."

"Gypsies! Where?" Hildegarde's face was alight with interest.

"At the back of the pine woods," faltered Mary Ellen. "'Tis kidnapers they are, and 'tis at night they prowl, Thomas says."

"When did they come?" demanded Hildegarde.

"'Twas this morning the terrible creatures pitched their tents. Thomas saw them."

"Trust Thomas for seeing anything in a radius of twenty miles," sighed Miss Norris. "Oh, Hildegarde, you're not going"—

"we're all going, aunty," cried Hildegarde, "in Mr. Graham's car!"

"'Tis flying in the face of evil fortune they are," wailed Mary Ellen, "and 'tis myself that will lock up all the doors and sit close by Julia, the cook, till they come back again."

The road through the gypsy camp lay through an undulating bit of country. Pines grew on either hand, casting a twilight gloom, deep, cool, impenetrable. Hidden brooks tinkled over moss and pebbles. Bird songs sounded through the stillness as clearly sweet as silver flutes.

Suddenly a turn of the road brought the gypsy camp into view, some three or four tents pitched in a meadow against a background of birch and fir. In the foreground by a huge black caldron sat a weather beaten hag, her black mantle falling about her in witchlike folds, her piercing eyes gazing out from under a shag of grizzly locks.

Other picturesque figures appeared at the tent doors—a dark, somber looking man smoking a long pipe and two comely Romany girls tinkling with metal chains and earrings.

"Fascinating!" whispered Miss Farney.

The weather beaten crone left her seat by the fire and hobbled forward. Simultaneously Graham and Aldrich tossed her a coin with which to cross Miss Farney's hand. She picked up the money, looked at the givers narrowly and then bent to her task.

"What a Romany reads had best be read alone," she muttered, with a twist of her thin lips.

Aldrich laughed.

"I guess we can take a hint, eh, Graham?" he cried, and the two men strolled toward the tents and waited. It was as much as five minutes before Hildegarde and her aunt joined them, Hildegarde quite pale and Miss Norris with a furrow between her brows. "I have always said there was something weird about gypsies," said Miss Norris, "and that old woman's knowledge is actually uncanny."

As to what the fortune teller had read, Hildegarde would say nothing, and on the way home she was strangely silent. It was sunset when the motor reached her door. The sea was tinted with rosy light, and gulls were hovering inland. As Percy Graham helped her aunt up the steps with ostentatious care Hildegarde turned to Aldrich.

"Bobby," she breathed, "forgive me! There never was and never will be any one but you."

Aldrich's hand closed over hers hard.

"Shall I bring round the car at 8?" said Percy Graham.

"Thanks, no. I have another engagement," said Hildegarde sweetly.

And the self satisfied owner of three millions would have been amazed at the glance that flashed between Hildegarde and Robert Aldrich if he had seen it. He would have been even more amazed had he watched young Aldrich next morning riding off toward the gypsy camp at sunrise.

When he reached it, the old hag of the day before was the first to catch sight of him. She was busily stuffing a grizzled wig and a long black cloak into a bulging suit case, but she left off packing and went to meet him, smoothing the folds of her blue serge suit.

"Well," she questioned, "how did it come off?"

"The best ever," beamed Aldrich. "I rode over to thank you and bid you goodby."

The old character actress laughed.

"I thought my palm reading would do the work. Finest part I ever played. Meg Merrilies herself couldn't have surpassed the dark hints I gave about your rival."

"Sir," cried the tragedian, pausing in his work of taking down the tents, "sir, your munificence will always be remembered by a band of strolling—I may even say of stranded—players who, save for it, would be walking the ties from Brantly."

And he lightly tapped his pocket, wherein reposed a goodly number of Aldrich's crisp greenbacks.

As the latter bowed and smiled and rode away the little Dresden china soubrette snapped the last of her gypsy bangles into her trunk and closed the lid.

"All's fair in love and war," she commented tritely. "Originality beats money every time."

Touching.

"Not a cent," replied the rich man coldly. "Money is not good for the poor."

"Well," responded the applicant, "just pretend that you have a grudge against me."

More Than Luck.

"Do you believe in special providence?"

"Sure! When I was a boy the school I attended was struck by lightning one night and burned."

"Nothing special about that."

"Oh, but it was just the night before the circus came to town!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Filial Obedience.

"Harold," she murmured in his ear, "mamma says I mustn't encourage you to come here so often, and I have to do as she tells me, of course, but you don't need any encouragement—do you, dear?"

How poor are they that have no patience.—Shakespeare.

A BOWL OF BITTER TEA.

Himalayan Hospitality In a Snow Enveloped Hovel.

In spite of a poverty which limits their good intentions the inhabitants of central and south central Asia display a charming hospitality. Such, at least, is the impression gained from Mr. Ellsworth Huntington's book, "The Pulse of Asia."

At Matayan, a village in the province of Ladakh, the habitable portion of the upper Indus valley, a friendly villager invited Mr. Huntington to dive down from the crust which covered eight or ten feet of snow into a one story house. This was at an elevation of 10,500 feet.

Although it was April 11, the snow, even on a level, was higher than the tops of the houses. Where it had been shoveled off the flat roofs it formed high banks, protecting them from the wind and making them the favorite sitting room at that season and even in winter, for the sunshine is always warm in that dry, cloudless climate.

When the little black cows had been driven and pulled out of the way Mr. Huntington descended to an almost closed shed used for the two or three hardy sheep and goats and was ushered, stooping, into a dark stable containing a little pony, shaggy, like all the animals. Bending low once more, he climbed over a high sill and was in the warm, close family living room.

Light and air came in through a hole in the roof a foot square surmounted by a chimney pot a foot high made of three stones set up to keep out the snow. A few bits of ragged cloth on the mud floor for sleeping purposes, a half dozen metal utensils and an iron pot full of Himalayan tea, kept warm over some embers, comprised all the visible equipment for housekeeping.

After the host had persuaded Mr. Huntington to take a seat on the floor a half palsied old woman insisted upon ladling out for him a bowl of tea. It was surprisingly good in view of the fact that a poor grade of tea leaves had been steeped half an hour or more with milk, butter, salt and soda. In richer houses Mr. Huntington was often served with tea which had been improved by being churned violently in a slender, greasy black churn, twenty inches long by four in diameter, in order to mix the rancid butter well into the compound before it was turned into the drinking bowls.

DANTE'S HUMOR.

It Is of the Wholly Unconscious Kind and Woefully Grim.

The humorous side of Dante is analyzed in the Westminster Review by George Trobridge, who is a great admirer of the famous poet and who has in previous writings expressed his appreciation of Dante as a nature poet and as a novelist.

Although Dante's great poem is a "comedy," in the sense of being a drama working to a happy ending, we do not look for ridiculous situations in it, such as we usually associate with the idea of comedy. Ridiculous situations occur nevertheless, and there is no lack of humor even in the poet's description of the sufferings of the lost. Dante's humor, however, is of the unconscious kind, arising from a total lack of perception of the ludicrous. It is said that he was never seen to smile, and we can quite believe it, since he never forsakes sober seriousness in his writings, and it is his deadly earnestness that betrays him into occasional comicality.

The sinners in hell, the poet tells us, are relegated to their proper quarters on the judgment of Minos, who indicates the particular circle to which the culprit is consigned by wrapping his tail so many times around his bestial body. Fancy the trembling sinner waiting to count the coils that he may know his fate!

It is a horrible punishment which is assigned to those guilty of simony, to be buried head downward in a circular pit, with only the legs and feet protruding, while flickering flames glide over the soles of the latter, inflicting exquisite torture, yet our sense of humor is provoked by the description of Dante standing over one of these holes and holding a conversation with its occupant, "reversed, and as a stake driven in the soil," while numberless legs wriggle in continual motion around him.

When Temperance Was a Crime.

"Temperance in India at the beginning of the English occupation was a crime," said a clergyman. "Medical men believed in those days that a white man could not live in India without drinking. They thought he needed a half pint of whisky or its equivalent every day, and they insisted on his taking it. Temperance societies, total abstinence and the signing of the pledge were things forbidden in India. Such things were thought injurious to the white man's health out there; hence to go in for them was to be arrested, fined, imprisoned, banished. But today in India total abstinence is encouraged, for it has been found that the abstainer stands the heat far better than does the man who drinks."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

WHERE WHITNEY "WOBBLED."

We republish the following excerpt, taken from The Toronto News, without comment other than to remind our readers of the great things promised by Mr. Whitney and his lieutenants in the way of electrical development and cheapening of power rates;

Mr William Mackenzie will take over $3,000,000 of the common stock of the Electrical Development Company The other three millions of this stock will be converted into preference shares bearing a non-cumulative dividend at the rate of five per cent per annum. These shares will carry no voting power, and therefore Mr. Mackenzie through his possession of $3,000,000 of common stock, will control the enterprise.

The Radial Railway Company, through which Mr. Mackenzie will operate, will issue bonds for $2,000,000 in order to meet the loans on the Development Company's bonds of $1,850,000. This will relieve the Development Company of all its outstanding obligations, and enable it to prosecute its business without embarrassment. No actual cash will be invested. By a simple financial operation the whole result will be accomplished.

What Mr. Mackenzie has done was open to the Government to achieve. Probably by the Government a still better transaction could have been effected. There is reason to think that the holders of the company's five per cent. bonds would have exchanged these very readily for Government four per cent. bonds, and thus the annual interest charge of $500,000 would have been reduced to $400,000.

The Government, however, which, through its power policy, had impaired the credit of the company, would not purchase its generating plant and transmission line even on these advantageous terms, and in order to save the enterprise from liquidation, and to protect Canadian credit on the British money market, Mr. Mackenzie and his associates, with the resource for which they are distinguished, devised the plan by which the Electrical Development Company will be relieved of its pressing obligations, and will be maintained as an active, going concern.

It was not necessary for the Government even to resort to expropriation. The company was ready to make terms with the Government as advantageous as Mr. Mackenzie has secured. Thus by a simple financial operation it could have secured a practical monopoly of the distribution of Niagara energy throughout the Province. The system could easily have been made self-supporting and even revenue-producing, and thus a fine asset would have been secured for the Province.

Very similar is the position of the Toronto Electrical Company. Here again it was not necessary even to resort to expropriation. The company offered to submit to public regulation or to purchase on fair terms, and thus was opened to the city an opportunity to secure a monopoly of light and power for the municipality. But the public authorities which had injured the credit and menaced the future of the private company peremptorily rejected its several offers, and rushed into a screaming campaign for competition, regardless of the effect upon private investments and the ultimate results of their policy It is apparent already that the position of The News will be amply justified, and its course entirely vindicated. Neither the Government nor the city is to be congratulated upon the wisdom of the proceedings nor upon the spirit in which the Beck campaign in its later stages has been conducted.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stratford Beacon; The Opposition is awfully shocked at the Government selling a part of a park for the proposed new Grand Trunk Pacific hotel. In the "good old days" of Tory rule such sites were given away—vide the site of the C. P. R. hotel on Dufferin Terrace, Quebec.

Bob. Independent; Dr. Nasmith, public analyst of Ontario, in a recent trial, testified that a bottle of Peruna submitted to him for analysis contained 39.3 p.c. of proof spirits, or 22 p.c. of pure alcohol. When a total abstainer shows symptoms of a jag, it may be only a patent medicine that is giving him the joyful razzle.

Stratford Beacon; Gamey, it is reported, has organized a cave of Conservative members to boycott Government House on account of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor having withheld dinner invitations to the "Man from Manitoulin." His Honor will, doubtless, survive the intended affront. Having some old fashioned ideas regarding personal honor, he naturally objects to having the proved despoiler of bank deposit slips and sundry other things, sit down at table with him, and he can well afford also to spare the company of men who choose to sympathize with the hero of such transactions.

Women and Girls Gush Over Bowen

Slayer of Mrs. Welch Hero of the Hour At the County Jail.

Detroit, Feb. 22.—Percy Bowin, the Canadian boy from Woodville, Ont., who will go to trial during the first week of March on the charge of slaying Mrs. Cornelia Welch, is the hero of the hour at the county gaol—insofar as a large number of women and girls are concerned.

His boyish face, round and ruddy, has gained for him no little sympathy from the fair sex. The ladies stand near the bars and talk words of encouragement, telling Bowin that they believe in his statement that he did not mean to kill the old woman.

Some of the women have gone so far as to bring dainties to the prisoner. One woman gave him a nice bottle of costly perfume. The perfume giver, having literary ambitions, assured Bowins that she intended to write a "romantic story" around his life.

Many girls, fearing the notoriety they might get, have resorted to long-distance tactics. They call up Edward H. Kennedy, attorney for Bowin. This morning one of them 'phoned Mr. Kennedy to say;

"A boy with such a sweet face as Percy would never deliberately kill a person. I do hope that you will win the case and get Percy out of this trouble."

In the mail to-day came a pathetic letter from the mother of Bowin. It was written for her by the pastor of the church. The father, it seems, fears that he will soon lose his job on the railroad, and, even now, they are hard pressed for money.

"But I must find some way to go to my boy when he is placed on trial or before, if possible," comes the message from the mother. "Even if all the world turns against my boy I will believe in him to the end."

(From Our Own Correspondent)

We have quite a number on the sick list this week. Mrs. Charlotte Short is, at the ime of writing, very ill. Dr. Hall, of Little Britain, was called in consultation with Dr. Vaie this week. We hope for her recovery. Mrs. John Raymer has been ill this week with quinsey. Miss Stella Philp is also ill with the same disease. Little Ira Wilson is still very ill with pneumonia. Mr. David King is also very poorly.

Mrs. Sanguines, we are glad to learn, has recovered from her recent illness, and is again able to take her position at Mr. Hill's. Mrs. Hall still continues quite poorly.

Mr. and Miss Pogue spent Sunday last at Mr. W. Workman's.

Mr. H. J. Lytle, of Lindsay, visited his son, Mr. E. G. Lytle, on Thursday last.

Miss Pearl Prouse spent the week end with her sister, Miss Ethel Prouse, in Lindsay.

Mr. Herbert Thorndyke, of Toronto, spent a few days with friends here recently.

Mrs. Gus Prouse and daughter Zella, of Woodville, spent Friday and Saturday in our village.

Mr. Fred P. Coad attended the Harness-makers' Convention, held in Toronto last week.

COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY

This is the famous story of Red Saunders, big Red, tough Red of the plains and mines. We shall follow this expansive man through his days of toughness and sinfulness up to the great day of his life, the day that shall bring the metamorphosis of Red. This trumpeter will not give the story away, by indicating how this transformation shall come about—whether through the remorse or repentance of Red, his conviction of sin, his fear of the damnation of the wicked, his yearnings for the peace that passeth understanding, or whether it shall be the love of woman that shall bring this giant to his knees and make him as a little child. The trumpeter will only promise that this conversion of Red shall be one of the most interesting and delicious episodes in all fiction, which the reader will enjoy and doubtless remember through all the years of his life.

Rousing Salvation Army Services Presence of Staff Band Welcomed

Concert at the Barracks on Saturday Evening Drew Large Crowd---Splendid Meetings Yesterday, Opening at Cambridge-st. Methodist Church.

The Salvation Army people had yesterday one of the brightest and best day's since their location in Lindsay. The Staff Band, from Toronto headquarters, is one of the best bands that has visited Lindsay for some time, and their playing on the streets attracted large crowds.

The concert on Saturday evening at the Barracks was largely attended, and the programme was first-class and brought forth much applause. Dr. White occupied the chair in a very creditable manner, and seemed quite at home with the Army folk who surrounded him on the platform.

The meeting on the Sabbath opened with a consecration service, which was well attended. The service in Cambridge-st. church was crowded to its doors. The Band occupied the choir loft and furnished the music for all the hymns. When the band, large organ, and the voices of the large audience broke forth in praise to God, the effect was most inspiring. The singing of the band, with their well-trained voices, was most pleasing, and a quartette of young men gave a selection which was most enjoyable. Lieut.-Col. Howell, took charge of the service and preached from the 3rd verse, 17th chap. of St. John.

The meetings in the Opera House in the afternoon and evening were crowded to the doors, every inch of space being taken and several hundreds being turned away, unable to gain admittance. Those going early enjoyed an excellent musical service. Col. Sam Hughes occupied the chair in the afternoon.

The half-hour song service in the evening at the Opera House was most enjoyable.

The Army report three souls converted on Sunday, which amply repay them for their special effort. In addition the visit of the Staff Band and officers has inspired the local contingent to put fresh zeal into their work.

No New Men Need Apply

Mr. Sam Fox Hangs on to the Representation of West Victoria.

The conservative convention for the west riding of Victoria was held in the Academy of Music on Saturday afternoon. The attendance was very good, and we understand the convention was considered fairly harmonious, although there were a number about the hotels after the convention who expressed themselves as not being altogether satisfied, as they thought Mr. Sam Fox should have been content to retire and allow one of several hard workers for the party in many campaigns to take his place. Mr. Fox could not, however, be accused of packing the convention, as did Sam Hughes, and we have yet to learn of any free railway tickets or dinners.

Mr. Fox made a short speech, giving an account of what he had done for the riding during his term of office. The task did not take him long.

Col Sam Hughes cut himself loose for a few minutes, but failed to mention what he had done for McKenzie & Mann, or how those grateful philanthropists had expressed their gratitude.

Hon. Mr. Hanna made an hour's speech, in which he endeavored to show that his government had kept its pledges to the people. He specially referred to the three-fifths Local Option law, which he maintained was all that could be desired, and did not hold out any hope that there will be a change in the law. As to enforcing the present law, he expressed a determination to make the license holders keep hotel.

Mr. Fox's nomination was made unanimous.

Farming in Britain.

In Britain last year the crops generally were unusually good, and that makes it the more to be regretted that, in Scotland especially, such very unfavorable weather set in just as they were about to be ingathered. The loss thereby to many Scottish farmers was something enormous, and would have been quite ruinous to some but for the practical sympathy of their landlords, in giving large abatements from the stipulated rents.

It would seem, however, that the British farmer is making the most of his comparative little garden that it is capable of—unless he takes to cultivating cabbages and fruits, as the late Mr. Gladstone advised him to do. A recent return states the total cultivated land in Great Britain at 32,244,000 acres. Of that 14,965,000 acres is arable land, and 17,278,000 acres is permanent pastures. Of the former about 7,000,000 acres is in "corn," 3,491,000 acres in green crops, and 4,491,000 acres is under clover and rotation grasses. But farmers everywhere are surprised at what the British farmers manage to get out of this. The farmer, of Ontario, Canada, is considered one of the foremost and most successful on this continent; so we will compare his yield per acre with that of the British farmer;

	Britain	Ontario
Wheat, bushels	33.97	23.0
Barley, bushels	35.26	28.3
Oats, bushels	43.04	28.5
Beans, bushels	84.40	16.6
Peas, bushels	29.44	21.6

The results are thus greatly in favour of the British farmer. In addition it must be borne in mind that his land has been under cultivation for many centuries, while much of that in Ontario only came under the plough within the memory of men still living. The greater results can only be due to better farming.—Scottish American.

It is computed that the English language is spoken by 050,000,000.

Bacon for the British Market

Subject of Booklet Published by Live Stock Branch at Ottawa.

While the swine industry has been in some quarters resting on its oars and in others showing positive retrogression, the Live Stock branch at Ottawa has been getting out a revision of Bulletin No. 10. "The Production of Bacon for the British Market." This booklet in its first edition received such a call that a very large edition became exhausted before the demand was satisfied. The call for copies during the late summer and autumn months fell away to some extent, but the renewal of interest and hope in the bacon industry is showing itself very strongly in a request from many quarters of the Dominion for more information upon the question of swine-raising. Fortunately the new edition is off the press and ready for distribution.

The bulletin in its revised form will scarcely be recognized. In addition to an almost complete new set of illustrations, which are much better arranged than in the former issue, much new matter has been added. Careful treatment has been given the vital question of housing, and in this connection a number of plans of modern, approved piggeries are illustrated and described. The economical utilization of dairy by-products—that margin upon which profit in the industry so much depends — is treated as new matter. The very strong revival of the swine-raising industry which must of necessity follow the sacrifice of breeding stock that took place during the past autumn has already commenced to show itself. It is safe to predict that with the return of spring with its pasturage and renewal of supply of dairy by-products, together with the shortage of market stock, a demand for swine, greater than has been for many years, will be experienced. To furnish information that will be desired at such a time, Bulletin No. 10, revised edition, has been prepared. Copies may be secured free by making application to the Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa.

LOCHLIN—HALIBURTON CO.

(Special to The Post.)

The community was greatly surprised to hear of the death of Nelson Clark, which occurred yesterday, the 14th, suddenly.

He was taken sick on Thursday morning at breakfast time, and was only confined to his bed for twenty-four hours when he passed away.

Nelson Clark was one of the oldest inhabitants of this place, having come here from Prince Edward Island, where he was born, on June 17th, 1837. Mr. Clark survived his wife just 2 years, 11 months and 11 days. He leaves to mourn his loss four daughters and one son, as follows: Mrs. Geza, Gelert, Ont.; Mrs. G. T. Austin, Lochlin, Ont.; Mrs. C. Minaker, Lochlin, Ont.; Mrs. A. Burk, Lochlin, Ont., and John Clark, Lochlin, Ont. He was buried at Ingoldsby cemetery on Sunday, the 16th, 1908. There are two brothers of Mr. Clark still living, one at Picton, P. E. I. and one in the west.

Life at Otter Tail In B.C. Mountains

The Present the Mildest Weather in Years---The Post Appreciated.

Mr. W. Haygarth, of Otter Tail, B. C., in enclosing his subscription for The Post, says he is an old Victoria county boy, and although 28 years away he has not lost interest in his old home.

He has been living in the mountains for 14 years, and says he would not leave there now. In reference to the weather, Mr. Haygarth says that they did not have zero weather until the last day of January, when it was 15 below zero, the coldest they have had yet had this winter, and it has only been once down to zero this month. They have 22 inches of snow on the level, and a total fall of 36 inches. At this date last winter they had 38 inches of snow, on the level, and the total snowfall was 10 feet. Last winter was the coldest and roughest in years, and the present the mildest.

"Modernism" in Catholic Church

Might Poison the Very Springs of the Spiritual Life.

(The Catholic Record.)

Father Bernard Vaughan, the famous and eloquent London Jesuit preacher, has enlightened an inquiring medical student by the following appropriate communication;

Dear Friend,—You ask me what is 'Modernism' and what I think of it. I will answer your question in the Socratic method, by asking you another. What is appendicitis and what do you think of it? You will tell me that appendicitis is a disease in the human body of a rudimentary organ which seems to serve no purpose, but that of finding work for the surgeon's knife; and you will add that appendicitis is no new disorder, but only a new name for an old one—for typhlitis, perityphlitis, etc. Now, I will answer your question. "Modernism" is a disease in the christian organism of members whose only excuse for being in the body is that they must be expelled from it; and let me add, "Modernism" is not a new malady, but only a new name for scepticism, naturalism, rationalism, etc. As appendicitis, unless got rid of by manual operation, would not unfrequently prove fatal to human life, so, too, "Modernism" unless treated surgically, might very easily poison the very springs of spiritual life. Be sure of this, that the "Modernism" condemned by Pius X in his Encyclical is a far worse evil than appendicitis. It is a canker, which, unless speedily got rid of, would eat into the life itself of christianity.—Yours truly in Christ, BERNARD VAUGHAN.

The Value of the Small "Ad" Compared With Page Splurges

Sensible Conclusions Likely to Appeal to the Good Judgment of Business Men Generally---Advertising the Great Force of the Age.

In these days of department stores and "Limiteds" and full-page ads., the smaller dealer is apt to feel a good deal smaller than he is. The impressiveness of the big black headlines overpowers him. He gazes at the sweeps and dashes of the big ad-artist with bulging eyes. "Just see me!" cries the big fellow, "how I bestride the commercial world like a colossi-cetopus! The Terror of the Twentieth Century! I am IT."

The little fellow stares in blank astonishment. He is only a drop in the bucket. What's the good of HIS little ad.—His little inch-and-a-half? Why, 'twould never be seen! Throwing his money away! Putting in wee ads in short pants for the Big Fellow to mock at!

Are you, Mr. Merchant, one of those little fellows? Do you ever find yourself thinking in little circles like that? Do you allow yourself to be overwhelmed by mere size?—big type?—by Sweeping Assertions and Broad Claims? If you do you are making a mistake. You are allowing yourself to be deceived.

You are thinking in the wrong channel that narrows as you go along. If you are one of those unhappy "always scared to death" men when you look at the handiwork of the Big advertiser, don't think of the Big man at all. We know he is Big. We know he is successful and "does things." We know he is a power to reckon with. But we needn't let him worry us. Let us think a bit of some of the Little men we know of. Don't some of the men 'do things,' too?

The question before us is the power of the small business with the small ad. What can advertising do for the small man who has much bigger houses to compete with? How is he to advertise effectively in a small way? These are questions not easy to answer, but in these days of almost universal advertising, it's up to every man to answer them in the the best way possible, and act up to the answer, for

ADVERTISE WE MUST.

In advertising there can be no set rule—except Persistency, with a 'big P. General advice and general plans are very nearly useless. First of all we must realize that we have to fight a hard fight on a business battle field, where the contestants give no quarter. The idea is for everybody to take all the quarters he can get, by hook or crook; the lines on which the smaller advertiser can successfully fight the battle with more formidable rivals must vary according to the field of conflict and the conditions under which the strife is waged.

The Big advertiser is very much of a Reality. To the small man who is easily discouraged his armour doubtless looks like a wall of adamant. But the small man has no need to be discouraged. To paraphrase an old legend and to bring it up to date, the faint heart "don't get there." As I said before, the small man is apt to feel smaller than he really is. And he's apt to think the Big man is bigger and more impregnable than HE is. "Tell me what you think and I will tell you how big you are"—whether you feel able to hold your own against all odds, or like two cents in the Bank of Montreal.

We are all to quite a large extent very much creatures of our own thoughts. Those words will stand careful thinking about. If you "think" in small circles, you'll "act" in small circles, and there's not much chance of your working in bigger ones.

If you want to fight with the Big advertiser for your share of trade, look for the weak spots in the Big fellow's armour. Then keep jabbing there.

Maybe the Big advertiser in your line of business lives and thrives on a bargain-giving basis—he generally does. His flood of 'bargains' never seems to cease. Each day brings its list of attractions, counted on to draw people in and lead them to buy other things in regular lines which shows a large per cent of profit. His bargains are his bait; they are his most powerful way of advertising. Take that power from him and he'd be as helpless as a great big whale floating about out of the water. He'd be out of it for certain. His full page ads would be like soup with the salt left out. His two-inch black type would "tell of" a great deal, but they wouldn't "tell for" much. His one-hundred-dozen lots would lie upon his hands. He'd be IT no longer.

The small man cannot hope to meet on his own ground the advertiser who thrives on bargains and cut prices. The Big fellow can outdo him in bigness and splurge and space. To attempt to copy these tactics is small space would be out of the question.

TALK QUALITY AND MERIT.

How then, can the small ad. be made to shine? It can't be done by talking price. It can't be done by talking quantity. But it can be done by talking Quality. It can be done by talking satisfaction. It can be done by talking good service. It can be done by talking Excellence of Merchandise — up-to-dateness of Style. The Big fellow preaches Price and Quantity. He can be checkmated by preaching Quality and Merit, and by everlastingly hammering at it in strong clear notes. When the small advertiser has a point to make let him make it with no uncertain distinctness. Let him leave no room for doubt in the mind of the prospective purchaser.

Here is where the small advertiser can make his small ad. shine and scintillate and twinkle. He can give his little ad. a lustre that would turn the Big ad. green with envy. His little ad. can be set up in a neat, clean-cut, distinct style, with his firm-name plain and bold, and it can be kept always in the same garb. The reader will recognize it at a glance. He will know that Jones' ad. always has something fresh and interesting and pointed to say, and he'll read it as sure as a gun.

The Big ad. must divide its fire. It has forty songs to sing at each appearance — all different.

Now the small ad. can focus its fire on just a few vital points, and keep pounding. It can sing at each appearance, just one single song, and if it's sung well it will "stick." Eternal harping on one or two strings may not be picturesque to the harpist, but where it is done with skill and power, with repetition of subject but with change of word and form, it will in time make an indelible impression on the public mind.

BARGAINS GAIN CREDENCE.

The advertiser who harps on Quality and Merit and Exclusiveness, if he happens to have an occasional bargain to offer will tell it to wide open ears. The public will flock to his store, because they know that they'll surely GET a bargain. They know that Jones is celebrated above all things for Quality and Reliability. The advertiser, therefore, who builds his business on the solid rock of Dependability and Trustworthiness builds better than he knows, and it will pay him a thousand fold to Advertise. In proportion to the Big full page advertiser he will cast no mean shadow — a shadow that won't "grow less" as it grows older.

The small man's business has its own Points of Excellence in which it need play second fiddle to nobody, not even the Biggest houses. If it hasn't its a pretty washy affair. These Points of Excellence should be taken up one by one and laid before the reader. They might be worked into the small advertising space under the general heading, "Jones' Points of Excellence." In each change of copy one point only should be dealt with, and the most should be made of it. Careful thought will be called for in framing each ad. Even a trained hand can't do a small ad. of this sort justice by "dashing it off in a minute." It is harder to say a whole lot in a few words and make a clear impression on the reader's mind than it is to say it in unlimited space. But once a point is made and made clearly in a few expressive words it will "stick" in the reader's mind far better than a long winded argument.

Whatever you have to say, don't say it in an apologetic, half-hearted way. Say it earnestly, simply and plainly. It will sink into the reader's mind and carry with it conviction. If your little ad. has in it the proper brand of yeast it will eventually raise the reader's curiosity, and presently he'll be irresistibly tempted to give you a trial.

Once you have him hooked it's up to you to land him. And once you have him landed—well, that's a story of so many aspects that we'll have to deal with it later on.—From the Bookseller and Stationer, February, 1906.

CATARACT VILLAGE HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST TO POST READERS

St. James' Literary Society Held Successful Canadian Evening---Sudden Death of Well-known Resident---Many Visitors Coming and Going.

The Canadian Evening, held under the auspices of the St. James Literary Society on Monday evening, was the most successful one of these pleasing events which has taken place this winter. The Kawartha house was thrown open for the occasion, and the genial host and charming hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Priestland, spared no efforts on behalf of the Society to make the affair the success which it was. The reception room, dining room and hall were beautifully decorated with bunting, Union Jacks and maple leaves. The programme, which was admirably carried out, was of course distinctively Canadian. The several numbers were excellently rendered and thoroughly enjoyed by the large number present. The Rev. W. H. A. French occupied the chair. The instrumental trios by Mr. Harry Littleton and Messrs. E. and W. Chambers, accompanied by Miss Nora Wilson on the piano, were a decidedly pleasing feature, and contributed variety to the fine programme, which was as follows; Chairman's address, Rev. W. H. A. French; instrumental trio, Messrs. Chambers and H. Littleton, accompanied by Miss Nora Wilson on the piano; solo, Miss Alice Hand, Canadian National Anthem; solo, Mr. Priestland; reading, Mrs. Dr. Gould; instrumental solo, Miss Flossie Graham; solo, Miss Ruby Austin, reading, Miss Emily Hand; solo, Rev. W. H. A. French; solo, Mr. Max Loser; instrumental solo, Mr. J. Twomey, jr; solo, Mr. John Shane; song and chorus by the company, "The Maple Leaf Forever"; instrumental trio, Messrs. Chambers and Littleton. Mr. French, on behalf of the society, tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Priestland, after which refreshments were served.

The members of the Presbyterian choir were entertained very pleasantly on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. John Lee, about four miles out of the village.

An entertainment will be given in Dickson's hall on Wednesday, evening, Feb. 26th, under the auspices of the Presbyterian S. S. A fine programme is being prepared, and as the entertainments under these auspices are famed for their excellence, a treat is no doubt in store for those who attend.

On Saturday night, at the skating rink, the fuse burned out, resulting in almost total darkness for a few minutes. But the skaters kept on skating, with the result that Mr. Harry McCollum, colliding with another skater, had the misfortune to have two front teeth knocked out.

And now one member of the camera club is laying for (excuse the slang) your correspondent with a club, one of the common, or garden variety. But cheer up; it might be worse; better a club than a camera any day.

A number of our citizens have responded to the call for help of those working for the relief of the residents of Shacktown, the district outlying the city limits of Toronto. A quantity of new clothing has been contributed by some of our local merchants and others.

Mr. Martin Kelly, an old and well known resident of Fenelon Falls, was found dead at his home on Tuesday. He must have died very suddenly, as although he had complained of not feeling well lately, he was visited by a friend on Monday, who left him sitting up, apparently in his usual health. Heart disease was supposed to be the cause of death. Deceased was 62 years of age and unmarried.

The funeral of Matilda Jane, eldest daughter of the late Robt. McFarland, took place on Saturday. The remains arrived from Toronto, where death occurred, on the noon train.

Mr. W. T. Junkin, Grand Master C. O. O. F., and Mr. A. W. Fountain N. G., of the Fenelon Falls lodge, visited the Bobcaygeon lodge of that order last Wednesday evening.

Dr. D. Gould made a business trip to Toronto on Tuesday of last week, returning on Thursday. While there he attended the Mendelssohn choir concert.

Rev. W. H. A. French attended the Anglican Synod meeting in Toronto last week.

Miss Nellie Duggan, of Lindsay, is on a visit to her aunt, Mrs. M. A. Varcoe, of town.

Mrs. John Austin spent a few days visiting friends in Kinmount last week.

Mr. R. J. Cook went to Coboconk on Thursday of last week to spend a few days.

Mr. Bert Robson, of Lindsay, spent a few days in town lately visiting friends.

Mr. Grattan Graham, of Lindsay, Collegiate Institute, spent from Friday to Monday at his home here.

Mr. Wm. Swanton, of Longford Mills, was in town over Sunday with relatives and friends.

Miss Helen Henderson, of Lindsay, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Alvin Gould.

Miss Dorothy French, of Lindsay, spent Sunday with her parents here.

Miss Helen McDougall, of Lindsay, came home on Saturday. She returned to Lindsay on Tuesday.

Miss Gertrude McCall is visiting friends in Omemee.

Mrs. Wilson, of Cannington, is on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Clark.

Miss M. Arkwright and Mr. Goodman, of Rosedale, drove in on Monday night to attend the Canadian Evening at the Kawartha house.

—I wish that I might talk with all the sick ones about the actual cause of stomach, heart and kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak stomach nerves leads to stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak hearts or weak kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the stomach, heart and kidneys. It is wrong to drug the stomach or stimulate the heart or kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made expressly for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. For sale by all dealers.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter-section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered by himself, or upon land owned solely for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) To earn "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, regardless of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above will live upon the parents or so farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Fire at Hastings.

Hastings, Feb. 24.—Fire broke out about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a frame building occupied by a tailor, a confectionery and a Chinese laundry, and for a time threatened the destruction of the business of John Tracey.

The fire brigade, however, managed to confine the flames to the building in which they broke out, and, although it was soon a mass of ruins, little damage was done to any of the surrounding buildings, the exact loss and insurance are not known.

Steamer Beta Wrecked.

Turk's Island, Feb 24.—The British steamer Beta, Capt. Eyre, from Halifax, Feb. 14, for Bermuda, Turk's Island and Kingston, was totally wrecked on the reef off here. The crew and passengers were rescued, and part of the cargo probably will be saved. The steamer was of 1077 tons.

ELIMINATE ROUGH WORK.

The Ottawa Journal sees the faults of rough hockey in its true light and the sentiments in the following paragraph will be re-echoed by every true follower of the game; "Half the dirty work in hockey to-day is due to individuals, who urge their own team on by such gentle remarks as "Chop his head off," "Cut him down," "Get after him," and numerous others not fit to print. These alleged sports should be muzzled, and made behave themselves at games, or else made an example of. They annoy all decent people at the match with their loud bellowing, and if they acted in the same manner on the streets would be taken to the lockup for creating a disturbance. Why shouldn't the same law by enforced at hockey games.

Tom Longboat has resumed his daily runs from his cigar store to the Ocean house and return, seven miles. He is doing the distance around 36 minutes.

CLOSE OF THE BIG 'SPIEL.

Winnipeg, Feb. 22.—As far as the cream of the trophy list is concerned the bonspiel of 1908 is over, and the said cream has been skimmed by the Winnipeg Granites. In the Grand Aggregate, also, though R. H. Dunbar won twelve games in the open events, and took first prize, Dan Lowe, of the Granites, takes second, adding still more glory to that club.

In every sense of the word this twentieth annual bonspiel of the Manitoba branch has been a success. Today the clearing up of all the remaining series and the finish of the points takes place.

The Empire goes to Gladstone, the Tuckett, Tetley Tea, Dingwall, and Blue Ribbon, the Whyte and McMillan stay in Winnipeg. The International went to St. Paul, and the Dolge Special Competition to Napinka.

The Caledonian final will be played to-night between Carson of the Thistle and Matheson of Russell.

HARTLEY AT KANSAS CITY

Peterborough's champion walker writes to the Peterborough Examiner as follows from his quarters in Kansas City;

"I am here and well. I have secured board at a good private house, half a block from Convention hall, and I have a room and bath to myself There are two Canadians staying here, and I have secured a good straight fellow to look after me, and I find Manager Scoville a fine fellow. This is going to be a great race, as they are arriving from all over. I am the only one who has shown up from Canada. Scoville says nothing would please him better than to see me land on top. He says I ought to take a good place. I wish I had a month here before the race. I am picking up wonderfully and the climate agrees with me greatly. I am beginning to feel like a new man and am having lots of good food. I am hungry all the time, and do 15 or 20 miles in the hall every morning There will be thousands of dollars bet here on the result. The hall coversa square, and they keep eight men steady looking after it and keeping it clean.

TRACK ATHLETICS.

Toronto Telegram; Tom Flanagan, manager and proprietor of the Irish Canadian Athletic Club, has announced that he and athletics have parted company for good. Tom likes the sport, and doesn't mind the cash it costs, but he has at length sadly realized that he can't spare the time. And, when all is said and done, track athletics will miss Tom Flanagan fully as much as he will miss them. It may be Tom Longboat that is responsible for the present boom in this line of sport, but genial Tom Flanagan is largely responsible for the present standing of the great Indian. Without Tom's tact and smooth Irish tongue it is hard to tell where the Indian would have landed before this time. Certain it is he would not have been where he is to-day.

WILL WRESTLE AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Chicago has been selected as the battle ground for the Gotch-Hackenschmidt wrestling bout for the championship of the world, and the big tussle will be staged here on the night of April 3. W. W. Wittig, of Milwaukee, who has been engineering the match, wired from Boston last night saying that he had secured the signature of Gotch to articles of agreement. "Hack," who had previously affixed his name to the document, expects to sail for New York on March 2.

The match will be for a purse of $10,000, 60 per cent. to the winner and 40 per cent. to the loser. The wrestling will be of the catch-as-catch-can style, best two out of three falls.

The first detachment of New York Giants, made up of youngsters, is scheduled to leave New York to-day for the training quarters at Marlis Springs, Texas.

One Winter on the Mississauga Surveyor's Experience in the Wilds

Administration of Timber Lands of Province Prior to Confederation---A Perilous Voyage to the Starting Point---Camping in the Snow.

(By James Dickson, O.L.S., in Rod and Gun for February)

Until a comparatively recent period the pine timber of Ontario was not looked upon as an asset of any great value, or as a source from which any considerable revenue was ever likely to be derived. The quantity was considered practically inexhaustible, and nothing whatever was done to either regulate the cutting or preserve it from destruction by fire.

All a man who desired a right to take the timber on a certain block of land had to do, was to notify the Department of Crown Lands that he wished to acquire a limit fronting on a certain lake or stream bounded in a manner best suited to his own interests, and in the event of there being no rival claimants the request was granted. A surveyor, also named by him, was given instructions to lay the berth out in the field and report the same, together with the plan and field notes to the Department. Generally speaking, the cost of the survey was about all it cost the lumberman, a rental of three dollars per square mile per annum to be paid by the first of April was exacted, and dues amounting to one-half penny per cubic foot on the manufactured article and on sawn lumber in a like proportion was all the revenue that the government derived from the vast forests. No inspectors were sent into the woods in winter in those days to see that all the cut was accounted for the prevention of fires, millions of feet were annually destroyed from that source alone.

When, however, Confederation became an accomplished fact and Miss Ontario launched out into housekeeping for herself, a new sun began to shoot its rays above the economic horizon, and it began to dawn upon our rulers that in our pine timber alone Ontario possesses a

RICH INHERITANCE.

They also awoke to the plain fact that at the rate at which it was being made away with by the axe and fire, if drastic measures were not very soon adopted, the forests, vast as they were, would soon become exhausted, and the provincial secretary be none the richer. It was therefore determined to abandon the old system of disposing of the right to cut the timber, call so many lots and concessions of the surveyed townships in the Huron and Ottawa Territory a timber berth, and divide the country lying north of the Mattawa and French Rivers, also north of Lake Huron, and extending some forty miles north, into berths each six miles square and numbered consecutively; also whenever it was deemed best in the interests of the province, to offer some of them for sale by auction, to be knocked down to the highest bidder for cash. The payment of such bonus together with a ground rent of five dollars per square mile per annum only gave the purchaser the right to cut the timber and before he could dispose of it he had to pay a further sum of so much per thousand feet according to the measurement of sworn Government cullers, licensed experts who had undergone a rigid examination. Those sales were extensively advertised and the Government sent out trustworthy and to ascertain the quantity and also the quality of the timber to be offered, also its convenience to flotable streams streams or other means of transport. By adopting this means, authorities were enabled to fix a reserve bid and lumbermen had ample opportunity to also have out their experts to give them confidential reports. By adopting this method, in many instances, more money has been gathered into the provincial treasury from timber standing in the woods than was realized altogether for the manufactured article only a few decades ago. Many millions of dollars have, as a matter of fact, been gathered in from this source, and to the people of Ontario through channels so obvious that it is not necessary to mention them.

The first of those sales were held in the autumn of 1872 and the writer was engaged by a firm of lumbermen to proceed to the north shore of Lake Huron to outline and estimate the quantity of timber on a number of berths which they had purchased without having sent a man in to ascertain their worth.

I left home on the eleventh of November of that year. The party consisted of two timber estimators, two chainmen, four axemen, and a cook, ten, all told, and with the exception of the cook, who joined at Little Current, the expedition was MADE UP AT COLLINGWOOD.

My supplies were procured at Toronto, and we took passage on the steamer "Waubuno", which a few years afterward went down with all on board. She was commanded by Captain Campbell, then a weather tanned veteran, and who I believe is still buffeting the storms. The vessel got under way very late in the afternoon of the fourteenth and made Owen Sound after a rough passage, at 10.30 the same evening.

This being intended as the last trip of the season the vessel was literally packed with goods and passengers. Owing to stress of weather the captain did not venture out until one p.m. on Saturday the 16th. We steamed eight miles to Presquisle, where the storm, having again come down, we lay until 7.20, when a fresh start was made. As the gale, accompanied by a blinding snow storm, again increased, the vessel was run in behind Cape Croker and a line passed to an American schooner riding out the gale an anchor. Here we lay until daylight, when we once more put out. After battling with the elements for half the day the attempt to cross the bay was abandoned and a course laid for "Tobermory Harbor", which point we thankfully steamed into at sundown.

The gale continued with unbated fury till noon of the 19th, when it finally settled down and the engine was once more set agoing at 12.30 p. m. At 8 p.m. we steamed into the dock at Killarney, and the middle of the next afternoon arrived at Algoma Mills, where both men and supplies were landed.

As my work lay along a parallel of latitude run by the late P. L. S. Salter and which line was the south boundary of timber berths, numbers 188, and 194, (194 is now the township of Otter) two of the berths I had to outline, and as my plans showed the Salter line crossing the only a few chains away from the south-east corner of 194, that is where I intended to begin work. I had housed to purchase canoes at the Mills and ascend the stream to that point. I found it already partly frozen over. So this route had to be abandoned and I had to make my way to the Thessalon River and pack from thence to the field of my operations. Fortunately, there chanced to be a man there with a large open batteau, which would hold the whole party and supplies, and I engaged him to take me to the Thessalon. As he had some other work on hand before he could start with me, it was not until noon on the twenty-fourth that we started out.

The batteau was an open boat with only a few feet at the stern, which was dignified by the name of cabin, decked over. Here the owner had a barrel of tangle leg and a quantity of musty pork stowed away, and was trading with the Indians, exchanging the pork at twenty cents per pound for white fish for five cents apiece, and the whiskey at a still greater profit.

When we had all on board, the craft was filled up to the gunwale. We started with a clear sky and fair wind and hoped to reach our goal before night. At three p.m. another snow storm set in, though the wind continued fair, and even after dark the shore was distinctly visible. But the captain, without any apparent reason took in sail, and cast anchor at 5.30, although we could have made our destination

IN ANOTHER HOUR.

At 3 a.m., after a brief calm, another storm burst upon us from the west, and we lay tossing in the gale until daylight. The night became intensely dark. Shortly after the gale sprung up, an exclamation from one of the men caused all eyes to look up, when a yellow light of nigh a foot in diameter was seen enveloping the block at the mast head. This aroused the superstitious fears of the men, and the certainty of an impending catasthrope was freely indulged in. As I could attribute the phenomenon to natural causes, I succeeded in allaying their fears somewhat. When day began to break the light gradually faded away.

THE FARMERS' BANK OF CANADA.

A change was made on the Board of the Farmers' Bank at the first annual meeting of the shareholders of that institution to-day. Dr. W. Beattie Nesbitt retired as President, and was succeeded by Mr. James Munro, member of the Legislature for North Oxford. Mr. John Gilchrist was elected First Vice-President and Mr. W. R. Travers, Second Vice-President and General Manager. In his address to the shareholders Mr. Travers referred to the success the new bank had met with, and to the satisfactory prospects for future business. The deposits of the bank at the present time total $647 596.88.—The Globe, Feb. 19.

POETS' CORNER

AULD LANG SYNE.

It singest low in every heart,
We hear it each and all—
A song of those who answer not,
However we may call,
They throng the silence of the breast;
We see them as of yore—
The kind, the true, the brave, the sweet,
Who walk with us no more.

'Tis hard to take the burden up,
When these have laid it down;
They brightened all the joy of life,
They softened every frown,
But, oh, 'tis good to think of them
When we are troubled sore;
Thanks be to God that such have been
Although they are no more.

More homelike seems the vast unknown,
Since they have entered there;
To follow them were not so hard,
Wherever they may fare,
They can not be where God is not,
On any sea or shore;
What'er betides, Thy love abides,
Our God forevermore.

—John White Chadwick.

THE JOYS OF WINTER.

The north wind stirs the sluggard and calls him forth to strive
Among the strong and eager who keep our hopes alive;
Down through the wooded valleys the restless blizzards tear,
Arousing from their slumbers the sprouts and kernels there,
Faith gleams on every hillside and promise lights the skies,
But somewhere in the attic the useless hammock lies.

The maiden's cheeks are glowing, the old man's nose is red,
The gladdened boy is coasting upon his painted sled;
The thoughtful rooster, having sought shelter from the storm,
Has one foot in his feathers, perhaps to keep it warm;
The strong man bravely faces whatever winds blow;
Down in the gloomy cellar the nose is lying, though.

Away with those poor weaklings who sit around and sigh
Because the storm king bellows as he is rushing by;
The snow is on the hilltops, the streams are bridged with ice,
And splendid furs bring comfort to those who have the price;
The strong are up and doing, the weak alone complain,
But, oh, I wish the blossoms were blooming down the lane!

Salvation Army Immigration.

Staff-Capt. J. M. McGillivray, of Ottawa, who has charge of the Army immigration work from Toronto to Montreal, visited Lindsay on Saturday, Feb. 22nd, and remained over Sunday. The Staff-Capt. reports that applications for farm help are coming in from all sections of the country, and he wants to urge farmers and others needing men for the coming season to apply at once. The first chartered ship under the Army auspices sailed from Liverpool on the 20th inst., and most of the party will go direct to B. C. Then every two weeks there will be other chartered ships sailing, up to May 1st, for distribution in the provinces. Any farmers wanting application forms can secure them at this office, or at the Army quarters on Peel-st.

Star; Ottawa man sent in application for 75,200 acres of coal lands. He shows the right spirit for a coal baron, anyway.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

DISCUSS RADIAL BILL

Contentious Sections Not Taken Up In House Last Night.

EMPLOYES IN POLITICS

Hon. Mr. Pugsley Challenges the Opposition—Mr. Foster Moves the Adjournment — Makes Sharp Attack on Minister—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Pours Oil on Troubled Waters—Bills Introduced.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—Though a few clauses of the Hamilton Radial Railway bill had been passed when the House adjourned at midnight, the contentious sections, on which the Railway Committee spent nine sessions, were held over, and are likely to lead to a prolonged discussion. The rest of yesterday's sessions were practically devoted to points raised by the Opposition as to the alleged interference by Government employes in the New Brunswick provincial elections. The discussion wandered over lots of ground, the outstanding features being effective replies to Opposition criticisms by Messrs. Pugsley, Graham and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Regulating Booming.

In the House yesterday Mr. Pugsley introduced a bill to regulate the placing and maintaining of booms in international streams. The Minister explained that the bill provides that no boom or sheer boom shall be attached to the Canadian shore of any international stream, or placed in the bed of such stream on the Canadian side without a license from the Minister of Public Works, the penalty being a fine of $100 to $1,000. The necessity for the proposed measure was the action of an American company on the St. John River in so booming the stream as to divert all logs into their own booms. The bill was read a first time.

During the discussion of the alleged activity of employes of the Intercolonial Railway in New Brunswick elections, Mr. Foster made a sharp attack on Hon. William Pugsley for waiting to substantiate in the House charges made against the leader of the Opposition in connection with the raising of a huge campaign fund in the last general election.

He drew from Mr. Pugsley a challenge to Mr. Borden to move for a committee of enquiry.

"In which case," said Mr. Pugsley, "I am prepared to substantiate everything I have said in any place."

Said Mr. Foster: "He picks a quarrel with the hon. member from York (Mr. Crockett), the hon. member for St. John (Mr. Daniel), and the hon. member for Queen's and Albert (Mr. Fowler) because, forsooth, these cowardly M.P.'s attacked him in his absence, when of all men I should think my hon. friend (Mr. Pugsley) would not vaunt himself as so terrible that any man on this side would fear to criticize him in his presence. For he, himself, did not show that mettle of knightly courage and great daring when he was called to account again and again by hon. member for East Toronto for the brave sayings he had uttered on the platforms 800 miles away from the opponent whom he attacked.

Leblancs Energetic Politicians.

Mr. Foster had moved adjournment of the House to discuss the question of interference of Intercolonial officials in local elections in New Brunswick. Mr. Foster had two affidavits, setting forth that the two Leblancs, who were charged with this offence in the House about the 13th inst., continued to take part in meetings, praising the Liberal candidates without let or hindrance by the Railway Department. The excuse that H. Leblanc was on leave of absence was no excuse at all.

Was the Government simply "jollying" the country in permitting these practices while flying the flag of a non-partisan Government service for religious and independent newspapers to take notice of? What shall we say of the higher officials? asked Mr. Foster, referring to the visit of Hon. Mr. Pugsley to New Brunswick with bribes to the electors. Going back to 1904, the present Minister of Justice (Mr. Aylesworth) went through the County of Durham with a town clerk on one shoulder and one of the mouths of the Trent Canal on the other.

Mr. Graham said it showed the state of public opinion that a suspicion about a couple of minor officials on the Intercolonial Railway had got so much notice. One of the complaints of employes of the I.C.R. was that they were not allowed so much latitude in political affairs as in the old day. Regarding the Leblancs, he had done as much as he was called upon to do, having wired the manager of the road that employes must not take part in political campaigns.

Held Out No Promise.

Mr. Pugsley followed. He could well understand why friends of the Government should be disposed to have a part in election when they saw so many Conservative Government employes so active. For his part Mr. Pugsley had held out no promise to the people of New Brunswick. It was not necessary for him to do it. It was enough to point to the record of the Government. Surely there was nothing wrong in pointing out to the people of St. John that the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific would mean the requirement of an outfit for a great deal of traffic by way of St. John.

R. L. Borden feared that Mr. Graham hardly realized the importance of the question. His answers were indirect, and he spoke even with a tone of flippancy, while his manner showed the spirit of levity, with which he regarded the occasion, indicating that he was not aware that the House had passed a resolution prohibiting participation of employes of the Government in election matters. Mr. Graham should have been prepared to say whether or not these men had been doing election work. Although apprised that these men had been taking part in the election, apparently no action had been taken. Did he propose to continue to treat the matter with contempt?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he proposed the meet the question squarely. It was not a new question. Whenever there had been an election, whether under this Government or the old, he had always heard that the Government allowed its employes to take part, and the House ought to discuss the matter without throwing mud. He agreed with Mr. Foster that the Government employes ought not to be allowed to take part in elections. But in this case Mr. Graham had given strict prohibitory orders. So far the position was well defined, and if employes took part in elections they did so at their own risk. If Senator Gilmour had been the author of certain bad actions, Sir Wilfrid did not propose to take the blame for them.

Mr. Foster concluded with a challenge to Sir Wilfrid Laurier to have an investigation into the conduct of his partisan officials in Manitoba and the west, as well as in New Brunswick, who were taking an open and offensive part in local politics.

Mr. Levesque introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act by providing that railway companies shall run on schedule time or forfeit $5 per minute for every minute's delay, unless from unavoidable cause. Another clause in Mr. Levesque's bill seeks to compel subsidized steamships plying on inland waters to carry members of Parliament free, the same as the railways. The bill was read a first time.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Brief Sessions Chiefly Occupied In Receiving Petitions.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—A brief session of the Legislature yesterday enabled Mr. Duff to move the first reading of a bill to amend the Municipal Act. Mr. Smith (Soo) obtained order for returns, the details of which have been already published, relating to the clearing of the right of way of the T. & N. O. Railway, and with regard to contracts held by McRae, McNeil and Chandler.

Dr. Preston (Lanard) obtained an order for a return of the several commissions issued during the years 1902, 1903 and 1904, with their cost to the province. This will offset the return asked for by Mr. May relating to the commissions issued by the present Government.

Mr. Lennox will introduce a bill to amend the Ontario Architects' Act.

East Toronto is seeking power to hold its municipal elections on New Year's Day. Also to reserve a residential area select from laundries, factories and other commercial drawbacks.

Ottawa wants to take over the remaining toll roads and to spend $115,000 on city improvements, without the formality of a bylaw.

One hundred and eight petitions asking for the repeal of the three-fifths clause in the local option law were laid on the table.

It is expected that the debate on the address from the throne will be concluded this afternoon, when the leader of the Opposition, Hon. A. G. MacKay, and Premier Whitney, will speak.

BOMB-THROWER PURSUES HIM.

Black Hand Wrecks Italian's Store For Third Time.

New York, Feb. 25.—An Italian bomb explosion similar in character to many which have taken place in this city within a year occurred in Brooklyn yesterday, when Peter Locato's music store, Morgan avenue, was wrecked.

Locato had received many so-called "Black Hand" letters, but, having refused to pay for immunity, his store was first blown up last spring. In December last another bomb was left on the stoop, and the doors and windows were demolished. Since then he has received letters demanding money, but has ignored them, and a third mysterious attack has now followed.

The lives of Locato, his wife and his three children, who occupied rooms in the rear of the store, were endangered by the last explosion, but they escaped with slight injuries.

FOR ARMY AND NAVY

Estimates Call For Total of $315,792,620 During Year.

DECREASE IN ACTIVE FORCES

New Naval Base In Scotland—Military Garrisons Abroad to be Reduced—Standard of the Navy to be Maintained — No Possibility of Further Curtailments In the Army—New Ships Proposed.

London, Feb. 25.—The British navy estimates for 1908-09 were issued last evening. They amount to $161,597,500, as against $157,087,500 for 1907-08.

The agitation for economy has had some effect on the shipbuilding program, which contemplates only one improved warship of the Dreadnought type, instead of the three expected. The Government proposes to build one large armored cruiser, six fast protected cruisers, 16 torpedo boat destroyers and some submarines. The number of the last mentioned vessels is not given, but they are estimated to cost $2,500,000.

In an explanatory statement Lord Tweedmouth, the first Lord of the Admiralty, points out that an increase in expenditure is inevitable, but by the strictest economy he was able to confine it to $4,500,000.

In April next the British navy will have under construction seven battleships, four armored cruisers, one unarmored cruiser, ten torpedo boat destroyers, 20 torpedo boats and eight submarines.

Lord Tweedmouth shows how a gradual and continuous diminution in the amount required for new construction, which was initiated in 1895, when it reached the maximum of $57,500,000, was still possible, the amount being $37,725,000, as compared with $40,500,000 last year. He announces the definite intention to proceed with the construction of a naval base at Rosyth, Scotland, which, in addition to having a basin capable of accommodating 22 warships, will include a depot for submarines and destroyers. The whole work, it is estimated, will occupy a decade in building and cost $16,250,000.

Among the inevitable increases in expenditure, such as the increased cost of coal and provisions and the higher pay of the men, he mentioned the Cunard subsidy, for the Lusitania and Mauretania, which now stands at the full amount of $750,000.

The naval estimates provide for exactly the same number of officers and men as last year.

Army Expenditure.

The War Secretary, Mr. Haldane, in a statement regarding the army, says: "Looking to the future, I am convinced that it is impossible to make further diminutions in the army expenditure on a considerable scale, unless we first of all reduce the number of troops serving abroad.

"Garrisons abroad," he adds, "will be reduced whenever that can be safely done, but if reductions in the regular army are carried too far demand will ultimatey have to be made on the citizen force, such as hitherto has never been contemplated."

The army estimates for 1908-09 total $154,185,120, and the War Secretary estimates for a total 185,000 men in the home and colonial establishments, irrespective of India, a decrease of 5,000 men from last year.

Boy Burglars In Cells.

New York, Feb. 24.—James Larkin, a youth of 21, was arrested yesterday on the request of the Boston police, who said he is wanted in that city to answer a charge of burglary. He is said to have confessed to two sensational burglaries in this city as well. William Schwartz, aged 22, whose arrest also was requested by the Boston police, was found with Larkin and was taken into custody.

The officers say that when they found the two men in a lodging house in East 100th street, Schwartz refused to say anything about himself. Larkin, however, was ready to talk, they say, and told in detail of robberies in the Hotel Endicott and the Hargrave Hotel in this city last November, which netted the burglars $5,000 and $3,000, respectively.

Two Italians Arrested.

Montreal, Feb. 25.—Calderone Carmano, an Italian, sought since Saturday on the charge of killing a compatriot, surrendered yesterday afternoon. He pleads self-defence.

Michael Tortoro, an Italian living at 511 St. Timothee street, was placed under arrest on a charge of killing his wife. He claims the shooting was accidental.

NEW BRITISH BILL

Mr. McKenna's Education Measure Before British House.

BALFOUR'S BITTER ATTACK

Churchmen Are Rigorously Opposed to It — Complete Public Control of Elementary Schools—Two Classes Will Receive State Aid—Question of Religious Instruction —May Lead to Abolition.

London, Feb. 25.—The new educational bill was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Reginald McKenna, president of the Board of Education. The bill regulates the conditions under which public money may be applied in aid of elementary education in England and Wales. The House of Commons was crowded for the occasion.

The new measure is not as contentious as the Birrell educational bill of 1906, which the House of Lords threw into the waste-paper basket without ceremony. The two main principles embodied in the new bill, are that there shall be complete public control of the elementary schools by locally elected bodies, and that there shall be no denominational tests in the appointment of teachers.

In speaking of the bill, Mr. McKenna said that failure to pass the Ministerial proposal would give a most powerful impetus to the movements to secure the total abolition of religious instruction in the schools.

Mr. McKenna explained that under this bill there would be two kinds of schools receiving state assistance. The first and predominant would be the public elementary school, provided for by the public, controlled by the public, and managed by the public, while the second and exceptional type would be the voluntary schools which are supported by the various denominations. The latter, if not carried on for profit, would be given exchequer grants in aid, but they would receive no support from the rates. The local authorities have to provide simple Bible instruction in all the elementary schools, but the school buildings would be available after school hours for denominational instruction by volunteer teachers, the pupil voluntarily staying over for such teachings.

A. J. Balfour attacked the bill bitterly, and in spite of the modifications introduced by Mr. McKenna, it is apparent that the Conservatives and the churchmen intend to wage as uncompromising a war upon the present measure as they did upon the Birrell bill of 1906.

Bannerman Still Leads.

London, Feb. 25.—There is no truth in the report that Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has offered to resign.

The situation remains as previously stated in these despatches. Should the health of the Premier not improve sufficiently within a certain period he will vacate his post, and Henry Asquith is assured practically the unanimous support of the Cabinet as his successor.

There is little doubt in political circles that this will be the ultimate outcome, but in the meantime both the Cabinet and the party rank and file are anxious that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman retain the leadership so long as there is the slightest possibility of his being able to resume active work.

HAD WAD OF BILLS.

Man In a Soup Kitchen Was Ready With Change.

St. Catharines, Feb. 25.—Some of the humors of the poor relief work here are coming to the surface. A well-known local gentleman of means is maintaining a free soup kitchen at his own expense. Feeling that some of the men who were taking advantage of the free meals were not really in need, the gentleman went to the "kitchen" at meal time recently and in a voice loud enough for everybody to hear asked if anyone could change a $10 bill. Immediately a brawny Armenian seated at table called up "I can," and he pulled out a roll of bills as big as his arm and solemnly counted out the change.

Each Set Herself Afire.

Allentown, Pa., Feb. 25.—Choosing fire as the medium of death, Miss Emma Fink of Slatington committed suicide in a tragic manner.

Standing where she could see the ruins of her old home, which was destroyed by fire about a year ago, she poured coal oil over her clothing and then set fire to her skirts. The girl had been in ill-health.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Augusta Strey, 73 years of age, considered herself a burden upon her grandson, with whom she was living, and who had lost his position. She arose early, and, going noiselessly to the street, poured kerosene upon her clothing and applied a match. She died.

Buy Dirigible Balloon.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Thomas S. Baldwin of New York City has been awarded the contract by the signal office for furnishing the army with a dirigible balloon at the price named by him, $6,750. It is to be delivered in fifteen days. The trial flight will be held at Fort Myer, Va.

Hartwick Goes For Trial.

London, Feb. 25.—James Hartwick was yesterday afternoon committed for trial on the charge of murdering his wife. His trial will take place in March.

WOULD BURN HIS BARNS.

Child Says This Threat Was Made by Mabel Allen.

Mount Albert, Feb. 25.—The crown's evidence in the preliminary arson trial here yesterday was noticeably weak at times, and entirely circumstantial, as is always the case in charges of this nature. Assistant Crown Attorney Monahan nevertheless handled the material at his command so well that the presiding magistrates in simple justice could not dismiss the case against Mabel Allen, the girl who is accused of firing the farm buildings of Mrs. John Hopkins, in East Gwillimbury, during the early morning hours of Friday, Feb. 14. She was accordingly committed for trial before Judge Winchester at the next Court of General Sessions in Toronto. The $1,000 bail fixed for her release was promptly furnished by County Constable Cook.

New evidence was produced in the form of a letter from Thomas Allen, the girl's father, to Mrs. Hopkins, threatening the latter with court proceedings if she dd not pay Mabel wages due her while she was in the Hopkins' home in the capacity of domestic.

An interesting part of the crown evidence was given by Minnie, the little 10-year-old daughter of Thomas Moore, the previous witness. The child, though she knew what it was to tell the truth, did not know the nature of an oath and blurted out crying. The curtain in front of the platform was lowered to shut off the view of the spectators and after being consoled by her father she told her story.

"I was in the parlor with Mabel Allen on Sunday afternoon," said Minnie, "and she told me she was going home and that she was going to kill somebody or burn his barn."

"Did you ask her whom she referred to?" said Mr. Monahan.

"Yes, but she said she would not tell his name, but his hair was turning gray."

HAD A MINT IN JAIL.

German Prisoner Made Bogus Coins In His Cell.

Rendsburg, Prussia, Feb. 25.—For some time past counterfeit five-mark pieces have been circulating in Northern Prussia. The authorities started to investigate, with the result that in a number of instances the false money was traced to this town, and it was finally learned by the police that they were being paid out by persons connected with the prison here. To clear up the mystery Detective Inspector Scheder had himself committed as a convict and was shut up in a cell in the jail.

After a day or two of observation he located a sound of faint hammering in a detached cell, where a counterfeiter was serving a long term of imprisonment. With this evidence Scheder called in some of his colleagues, and Sunday night they raided the cell of the midnight workers. They found it to be a veritable counterfeiter's workshop, in which the convict minted five mark pieces.

It appears that the convict, after being brought to jail, told the prison inspector where his coining apparatus was hidden. The inspector found the dies and brought them to prison, and arranged that the convict could work at night to make the coins, the inspector and his family putting them into circulation.

The inspector, his wife and his mother-in-law have been taken into custody.

Brings Back Murderer.

New York, Feb. 25.—After a chase of over 10,000 miles, lasting nearly a year, Detective Baldwin of Roanoke, Va., has brought back from the Argentine Republic by way of England, Moses Faris, a young Syrian, wanted in Virginia for the killing of a countryman, Frank Ashaid, last March.

Faris asserts that he killed Ashaid, who was a merchant in Roanoke, in self-defence after the man had attacked him with a knife. He fled to Canada, with $600 in his pockets, returned to New York and sailed for Buenos Ayres.

Warnock Post Mortem.

Brockville, Feb. 25.—The post-mortem over the body of the late J. G. Warnock was conducted yesterday afternoon at the request of the Attorney-General's Department by Drs. Horton and Harding. On behalf of interested parties, two doctors each were present for Mrs. Agnes Warnock and Mrs. Eva Warnock, the conflicting widows.

The body was completely thawed out, and the result of the finding will not be made known until the adjourned inquest on Thursday night.

Deporting One Jap.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 25.—The two Japanese released under the decision of Chief Justice Hunter, that the Natal Act, in view of the Japanese treaty, does not apply to Japanese, are still held under the Dominion immigration. One will be deported for failing to show a passport direct. The other will be given the opportunity to prove his claim of former residence which would entitle him to remain.

St. Catharines' Postal Delivery.

St. Catharines, Feb. 25.—For some months past the city has been persistently applying to Ottawa for inauguration of the free postal delivery and yesterday the good news arrived that the Postmaster-General had acceded to the request and had given instructions to have the delivery put in operation.

Shot Chief of Police.

Fayetteville, N.C., Feb. 25.—Chief of Police Benton was shot dead in front of his home by a negro, Sam Murchison, crazed with drink. This man also shot two negroes a few minutes before he shot the chief.

The Farmer's Wife

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the month and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

The Stone Fireplace.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Homer Sprague.

As far as the eye could see stretched the limitless expanse of snow. Miss Frazier, pacing from window to window of her little cottage, felt imprisoned.

"Oh, pussy cat, pussy cat," she said to the cat curled up on the window seat, "I shall die of loneliness."

The cat gave sleepy attention, and Miss Frazier shook her gently. "Of course you don't care," she said, "but who could have believed that snow and cold weather would have come so early! And all the other cottagers have gone back to town. But I can't. My rent is paid for six months, and I can't afford to lose it."

Once more she began her excited walk across the floor, while the cat went to sleep, and deadly quiet reigned. At last Miss Frazier could stand it no longer. She put on her hat and coat and a pair of rubbers. Pausing on the threshold as she went out, she addressed the cat theatrically.

"Sleep on," she said. "I go to seek my fortune." And she floundered through the snow to the gate.

The road, deep with drifts, offered new discouragements. Miss Frazier's long skirts dragged and grew heavy, and at last she stopped and sobbed aloud, "I can't go on!"

Help came in the person of a little man in high boots, who appeared from the other side of the drift.

"Got stuck, did ye?" he asked cheerfily. "Well, you ought ter stayed at home. 'Tain't weather fer wimmin to be out."

Miss Frazier looked at him haughtily. In her code there was no place for bad grammar, and besides, as a spinster of spirit, his reproof grated on her.

"Women can't stay in and die of loneliness," she told him stiffly.

The little man looked at her with sympathetic gray eyes. "Lonesome, was ye?" he said. "Well, now, that's too bad."

His sympathy warmed the cockles of Miss Frazier's heart. It was so long since any one had cared. The last of her family, she had taught school in a big city until ill health had forced her to resign. Then she had rented the little cottage at the unfashionable resort and had prepared to live there for six months, hoping for the benefits of fresh air and a free life. There had been other cottagers near, but they had their own interests, so that even in the warmer months Miss Frazier had been lonely, and now that snow had come her situation seemed unbearable.

There were tears in her eyes as she stood there, forlorn and cold in the drift, and the little man said again: "Well, now, that's too bad. You'd better git into the house. You'll ketch cold."

"I hate the house," said Miss Frazier fiercely. "There isn't a soul there but the pussy cat."

"I live up at the farm," he informed her. "I'm the new manager, and there ain't nobody there but a lot of men and a colored woman to cook for us. There's a good deal of work, you know."

Miss Frazier didn't know, but she found herself listening eagerly to his talk of Guernsey cattle and of blue ribbon horses, with all the rest of the homely farm details.

The little man helped her up the path and landed her on her own doorstep safely. In spite of the biting air he jerked his cap off as he bade her goodby.

"Come in," she urged. "Oh, please come in. I don't think I can stand it to face the pussy cat all alone."

His kindly blue eyes smiled at her. "I'd like to come," he said. "'Tain't very sociable up at the farm."

The little room was cheerless enough.

Miss Frazier's ginger jars and Mexican hats had been artistic summer accessories, but in the gray light of the snowy day they merely served to emphasize the bleakness. In the stone fireplace was a bunch of goldenrod gone to seed. The only warmth came feebly from a rickety stove in the summer kitchen.

"Why ain't you got a fire in the fireplace?" the little man demanded as he surveyed the cavernous structure.

"I haven't any wood," shivered Miss Frazier. "I—I couldn't get any."

Perhaps he read in her hesitation a confession of poverty, but he did not ask any more questions.

"I'll be back in a minute," he said presently and went out, and when he returned he was bending Atlas-like under the weight of a great log that had lain for days by the roadside.

"There," he said as he deposited it in the fireplace, "if you will take out them wild flowers we'll have a fire."

Miss Frazier obeyed meekly.

"How strong you are," she breathed.

"Oh, law, yes," said the little man; "I kin lift most anything."

He made several trips after that, finding enough dry wood in the shed to start the fire, and soon it was roaring gloriously.

The black cat came and curled up on the hearth, looking at the flames with fathomless eyes.

"Oh, it's lovely, lovely!" said Miss Frazier. "It is like something alive."

"I allus did like a fire," said the little man. "I came from down south, and we don't think much of stoves there. Not fer bein' sociable. You've got to see the flames to be real friendly."

"I am going to make you a cup of tea," Miss Frazier said flutteringly, and when it was ready she brought it in on a dainty tray, flanked by half a dozen stale crackers. "I wish I had something nicer to offer," she said, "but it is so hard to get things."

The little man smiled, and as he took in the details of the poor room some knowledge of her plight seemed to come to him, and he found a way to help her.

"I bet you don't know what good things you kin cook over a fireplace," he said eagerly.

"I never heard of such a thing," she said. "What could I cook?"

"Well, Brunswick stew is fine. It's got squirrels and corn and onions and tomatoes. You jus' let me show you"—

"But I can't get those things"— Her face flamed.

"Of course you can't. 'Tain't to be expected that a woman kin kill a squirrel. But I'm goin' huntin' tomorrow, and I'll bring the things"—

He left her later, and when he had gone Miss Frazier stood for a long time looking into the glowing coals. "Oh, pussy cat, pussy cat," she said when at last the two of them were curled up for the night, "he uses dreadful grammar, but he is the kindest man I have ever known."

The little man came the next day and made the stew, and all that afternoon the savory food simmered and bubbled, and the black cat watched it with eager eyes. Miss Frazier in her best blue gown set the table for two, flitting from one room to the other with all the gayety of a young girl.

The little man's table manners proved to be much better than his grammar, and it was at the end of the feast that he told Miss Frazier the story of his life, and as he talked his hostess weighed his dignity, his manliness, against his defects and found grammar losing its relative importance.

He came often after that, and the black cat learned to know his footstep and to meet him at the door and to curl up on his knee as he sat in front of the fireplace while the two good friends basked and chatted in the golden glow.

And then came the beginning of the new quarter and with it Miss Frazier's remittance.

"And next week I must go," she told the little man when he came that evening.

He looked at her calmly.

"You ain't goin'," he said.

Miss Frazier, thrilling at his masterfulness, asked faintly, "Why not?"

"Because I can't git along without you," said he. "I can't, Annabel."

"How did you know my first name?" Miss Frazier demanded.

"I seen it in one of your books," he said, "and it's a mighty pretty name."

Then he reached out and took her hands in his. "You're such a lonely little thing," he said, "and I jes' can't live without you. I think it's settin' around this hearthstone that gave me the feelin' that I wanted to marry you. And you'll never want for nothin', honey, not so long as I kin give it."

With a little impulsive movement, she slipped on her knees beside his chair and hid her face against the roughness of his coat. "I've been so lonely all my life," she sobbed.

"There, there, honey," he whispered, with his kindly hand against her cheek. "You ain't goin' to be lonesome any more." And with that vista of rest and peace and happiness poor, tired Miss Frazier was content.

"Fond"—Its Two Meanings.

The older meaning of this word was, as is well known, equivalent to foolish. Now it has the meaning of affectionate. The following instance of the use of the word in both senses on the same page of the same work marks the period of transition, when the old sense still lingered while the new sense was coming into use. In Dr. Watts on "The Improvement of the Mind," first edition, 1751, in chapter 15, section 5, on page 119, I find:

"Some are so fond to know a great deal at once and love to talk of things with freedom and boldness before they truly understand them that they scarcely ever allow themselves attention enough to search the matter through and through."

And lower down on the page, in section 7, is:

"A soul inspired with the fondest love of truth and the warmest aspirations after sincere felicity and celestial beatitude will keep all its powers attentive to the incessant pursuit of them."

Also in Coles' English-Latin Dictionary, fifteenth edition, 1749, both meanings are given as follows: "Fond, indulgens," and lower down, "Fond (foolish), stultus."—London Notes and Queries.

Fish Spearing by Firelight.

In the sunny south in the blue waters of the Mediterranean one may frequently behold the strange sight of fishermen reaping a rich harvest with the aid of a long forklike instrument, which is used in place of a net. There the ancient "peche aux flambeaux," a singular custom of fishing at night by the light of a blazing fire, still exists, enabling hundreds of hardy toilers of the deep to gain a livelihood.—Wide World Magazine.

DESIRE OF DISTINCTION.

Quaint Illustration of a Peculiar Phase of Human Nature.

In "Doc Gordon," by Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman, is a quaint illustration of a peculiar phase of human nature. It develops with the visits of the two doctors to their poorer patients:

James drove all the morning with Dr. Gordon about the New Jersey country. The country people were either saturnine with an odd shyness, which had something almost hostile in it, or they were effusively hospitable, forcing apple jack upon the two doctors. James was much struck by the curious unconcern shown by the relatives of the patients and even by the patients themselves. In only one case, that of a child suffering from a bad case of measles, was much interest evinced. The majority of the patients were the very old and middle aged, and they discussed and heard discussed their symptoms with much the same attitude as they might have discussed the mechanism of a wooden doll. If any emotion was shown, it was that of a singular inverted pride. "I had a terrible night, doctor," said one old woman, and a smirk of self conceit was over her ancient face. "Yes, mother did have an awful night," said her married daughter, with a triumphant expression. Even the children clustering about the doctor looked unconsciously proud because their old grandmother had had an awful night. The call of the two doctors at the house was positively hilarious. Quantities of old apple jack were forced upon them. The old woman in the adjoining bedroom, although she was evidently suffering, kept calling out a feeble joke in her cackling old voice.

"Those people seem positively elated because that old soul is sick," said James when he and the doctor were again in the buggy.

"They are," said Dr. Gordon; "even the old woman herself, who knows well enough that she has not long to live. Did you ever think that the desire of distinction was one of the most, perhaps the most, intense purely spiritual emotion of the human soul? Look at the way these people live here, grubbing away at the soil like ants. The most of them have in their lives just three ways of attracting notice, the momentary consideration of their kind—birth, marriage, sickness and death. With the first they are hardly actively concerned; even with the second many have nothing to do. There are more women than men, as usual, and, although the women want to marry, all the men do not. There remains only sickness and death for a standby, so to speak. If one of them is really sick and dies, the people are aroused to take notice. The sick person and the corpse have a certain state and dignity which they have never attained before. Why, bless you, man, I have one patient, a middle aged woman, who has been laid up for years with rheumatism, and she is fairly vainglorious, and so is her mother. She brags of her invalid daughter. If she had been merely an old maid on her hands, she would have been ashamed of her, and the woman herself would have been sour and discontented. But she has fairly married rheumatism. It has been to her as a husband and children. I tell you, young man, one has to have his little footstool of elevation among his fellows, even if it is a mighty queer one, or he loses his self respect, and self respect is the best jewel we have."

Much Wanted.

The following advertisement, quoted from a Boston paper of a date early in the nineteenth century by Mr. Janson in "The Stranger In America," shows that the domestic problem is not one of modern manufacture. But what mistress of today would dare to impose such conditions on the hindrance in the kitchen?

Much Wanted: A neat, well behaved female to do kitchen work in a small family in Charlestown, near Boston. She may pray and sing hymns, but not over the dishkettle. She may go to meeting, but not belong to the congregation of midnight worshipers.

Inquire at Repertory office, near Boston.

Frank Inconsistency.

John Hunter, one of the pioneers in the practice of medicine over a century ago, was absolutely blind to any theory unsupported by facts. While many men were guessing out things he was seeking to prove them.

"I love to think," he said to one of his colleagues, though he afterward qualified the statement by an almost contradictory one:

"But why think? Why not make the experiment?"

Like other men of real genius, he was not afraid of seeming inconsistent. Sir Astley Cooper once asked him, with some surprise, if he had not once stated an opinion directly at variance with one he had just put forth, and he replied:

"Very likely. I hope I grow wiser every year."

Again a pupil inquired if he had not written to a certain effect.

"Never ask me what I have said," he returned, "or what I have written. But if you ask me what my present opinions are I will tell you."

Sometimes, too, he would say to pupils who were taking down notes: "You had better not write down that observation. Very likely I shall think differently next year."

CANADA'S CALL TO HER OWN.

The old saying that "a prophet hath no honor in his own country" is well matched by a truth equal novel, which may be expressed thus; "A great country is less appreciated by its native sons than by strangers from afar." We are reminded of this fact not infrequently, remarks the Canadian American of Chicago, when we receive inquiries from Canadians who are anxious to know what their prospects of success are in the United States. They are generally young men who have begun to think that their talents and energies are being wasted in the land of their birth, and that fortune, or, at least, prosperity, awaits them in this great Republic. They have heard of the rapid rise to position and affluence of other Canadians, whose ambition and enthusiasm found their proper vent as soon as they crossed the boundary line. The fascinations of new territory, new conditions and new associates are strong upon them, and, as they think of the chances to be had for the taking in "the States"—"distance lends enchantment to the view." The little town in Ontario looks very tame compared to the metropolis of Illinois.

The Canadian settler coming here finds all the avenues of trade pretty well congested; competition so fierce that mere bread-winning is often a struggle for existence, and everything—except the Golden Rule—overstocked and overdone. In time, if he is quick to adapt himself to a break-neck speed of living, he may make enough to pay big taxes on a house and lot he can call his own, but, long before then, he will have dismissed his old dreams of getting rich, and be satisfied if he is enabled to keep out of debt.

This wanderlust, likewise, seizes upon the man born under the Stars and Stripes, and he, too, goes to seek his fortune across the border. But what a different country he finds there from the land he has left! If his mind runs to farming, he is not forced to become a tenant and pay an exorbitant rent for the privilege of cultivating the soil. A homestead awaits him almost for the asking. If he has a genius for mining he is in the midst of a territory whose wealth is just beginning to be roughly estimated, because half of it is unexplored and undiscovered. If he be a mechanic there are endless openings in manufacturing centers that are rich in natural resources, but in sore need of skilled workmen. In short, everything that insures success seems ready to his hand, and if he fails it will be because he is either mentally or physically, a cripple.

Ontario—now called the "Garden of Canada"—was a wilderness when Illinois was in her prime. The other day students from the Ontario Agricultural College, captured the gold medals for efficiency at a Chicago exhibition. Every week prospectors are digging up fresh evidences of untold wealth in her mineral districts. The prairies of Manitoba yield crops that stagger statisticains, and she is still only making a beginning. And then there is what is called "the last West"—vast territories of pregnant soil that will some day enrich millions and fill to overflowing the granaries of the world.

What of the hundreds of thousands of our citizens from the British Isles who have never seen Canada and who have but vague notions of her stupendous advantages? Many of these, who crossed the ocean to better themselves, found conditions in the United States no more to their liking than those in the old land. Life to them is still a drudgery without much of a future in sight. Canada offers to-day more than awaited the new comer in Illinois thirty years ago. She offers to the masses what only a few can secure in these congested states—homes of their own, healthy surroundings in which to raise their families and the prospect of a comfortable old age.

To return to the Canadian emigrant who turns his back on his native Eldorado; Is he any more foolish than the Canadian investor who passes by the same opportunities and puts his cash into American securities? The latter has been much in evidence during the recent panic. He comes to the front, especially when receiverships are appointed, and his wail is heard over the rottenness of Uncle Sam's business methods. Meanwhile shrewd Americans have control of some of the biggest profit-bearing enterprises in the Dominion. They were the pioneers who foresaw Canada's magnificent future when her own people were ignorant or indifferent about her wonderful resources. They were starting power plants, stamping-mills, foundries and street railways while the natives were "waiting for something to turn up."

Nothing seems more strange to-day to the man who has made careful survey of the western world than this; that Canadian energy should waste itself in a land already overdone in every kind of human endeavor; and that Canadian capital should seek investment in the United States when its opportunities to be quadrupled are so much greater right at home.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Montreal Herald; The treating system is one of the most deplorable in its effects of any of the social customs in vogue on this continent; But the proposition to abolish it by law is not any the easier of accomplishment on account of that fact. The essential point of the "treat" is a financial relation between two or more drinkers, with which the dispenser of drinks has no direct connection. The relation is not in itself a criminal one, and there is no objection to it save the consequences of its undue employment, which is unfortunately very common in Canada. No one objects to one man providing another with an alcoholic drink in his own house or at his own table. There is a plausible theory that much of the abuse of the treating habit arises from the custom of drinking at a stand-up bar, and that by the abolition of the bar a tremendous improvement would be effected. There seems to be every probability of the experiment being tried in some Canadian provinces in the near future, and it deserves to be watched with the keenest interest. It is easy enough to abolish anything so plain and tangible as a method of supplying drinks, which requires extensive special appliances, where it is hard to abolish a more moral relation.

Memorial Rally In Y. M. C. A. Parlor

Members of W.C.T.U. Held Meeting in Memory of Their Departed Founder.

A "Frances E. Willard Memorial meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlor yesterday, 17th Feb., and was well attended, the laides of the Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary remaining after their meeting. The programme was very bright and instructive. After opening with the favorite hymn of Frances Willard, "All hail the power of Jesus' name," Mrs. Geo. McCullough gave a beautiful bible reading, taken from the Book of Ruth, and address on the life of Frances Willard, which was enjoyed by all. Miss Rider's "Band of Hope," little girls sang a chorus, entitled, a "Brave Little Band." Miss Elsie Rider favored the meeting with a solo entitled "Satisfied," Mrs. Weldon gave an excellent talk on "Why we keep Frances Willard Memorial Day," followed by a solo, "Just for to-day," by Mrs. W. J. McLennan. A collection was taken up in aid of missionary work, and all joined in singing "Some Glad Day," after which a social half-hour was spent and refreshments served. We trust many new friends were added to the cause of temperance.

Worn the Sword For Forty Years

Col. Sylvester, of the 45th, Thinks of An Old-time Gift.

In the Bowmanville Statesman, under the heading, "Bowmanville 40 years ago," is the following paragraph; "Mr. Robert H. Sylvester, son of Henry Sylvester, esq., Enniskillen, was presented with a handsome sword as a mark of appreciation of his services as drill instructor to Cartwright Volunteers Infantry Co."

Robert H. Sylvester is now the honored colonel of the 45th Battalion, every inch a soldier, who shows his training of forty years ago. Colonel Sylvester still wears with pride the sword then given him, and his friends of those early days would be proud of the soldierly figure presented by their comrade of 40 years ago when he marches at the head of his crack regiment.

Methodist Laymen Now in Conference

Study of Great Missionary Problem and Deepening of Spiritual Life.

With a preparatory prayer meeting, which was well attended, the congregation of Cambridge-st. Methodist church last evening initiated a week of spiritual study and missionary discussion that is likely to prove most beneficial. The course of meetings will close March 1st. Following is the program for this evening and tomorrow;

TUESDAY 25th—Laymen's Missionary Banquet; chairman, Mr. J. D. Flavelle. Address, "The Laymen's Movement and our place in it," Mr. C. B. Keenleyside, B.D. Solo, Mr. H. Brimmell. Address, "The Inspiration of Missions," Rev. T. E. Egerton, B.D.

WEDNESDAY, 26th, 3 p.m.—Bible Study, Rev. Geo. J. Bishop, D.D. Address, "Not I but Christ," Mr. C. B. Keenleyside, B.D. 8 p.m. Chairman, Mr. H. J. Lytle. Address, "The Challenge of China," Rev. T. E. Egerton Shore, B.D. Solo, Miss Edith Flavelle. Address, "The Gold of the Land is Good," Mr. C. B. Keenleyside, B.D.

Say Hotel Men Failed in Duty

Police Court Case in Which Travellers Will Take Deep Interest.

Yesterday County Police Magistrate Moore held court at Fenelon Falls, where two of the local hotelmen were confronted with rather peculiar charges. It appears that a couple of weeks ago the Coboconk hockey team journeyed to Fenelon to play a game of hockey with the team of that village. The boys from Coboconk arrived in the Cataract village, so they swore, at about 7.15, having been delayed in driving over on account of the extreme heavy roads. Immediately upon their arrival they repaired to the Twomey house, where they swore they saw Mr. Twomey and asked for supper, which Mr. Twomey was either unable or unwilling to supply, the evidence of the boys and the proprietor of the Twomey house being conflicting upon this point. From Mr. Twomey's place the Coboconk boys went to the hotel of John Aldous, who at first promised to get them something to eat, but when he found that their horses were at the Twomey house, refused point blank to either give them meals or a room.

The charge against these hotel men is for not providing accommodation for the travelling public, contrary to a section of the Liquor License Act. Judgment was reserved to allow Mr. Weldon, who appeared for the License Inspector, and Mr. McLaughlin, K. C., who appeared for the defendants, to argue the matter before the Magistrate.

Red Saunders

...By...

HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY

This is the famous story of Red Saunders, big Red, tough Red of the plains and mines. We shall follow this expansive man through his days of toughness and sinfulness up to the great day of his life, the day that shall bring the metamorphosis of Red. This trumpeter will not give the story away by indicating how this transformation shall come about—whether through the remorse or repentance of Red, his conviction of sin, his fear of the damnation of the wicked, his yearnings for the peace that passeth understanding, or whether it shall be the love of woman that shall bring this giant to his knees and make him as a little child. The trumpeter will only promise that this conversion of Red shall be one of the most interesting and delicious episodes in all fiction, which the reader will enjoy and doubtless remember through all the years of his life.

Will Commence on Wednesday

Big Crowd Saw Superb Pictures

Best Entertainment of the Kind Ever Put on in Lindsay.

Seldom indeed does an entertainment measure up to the advance notices, but for once, at any rate the rule has been broken. The great crowd of spectators present at the Academy last evening were witnesses to the fact, and will all testify in enthusiastic terms that they saw what was by long odds the best picture show every brought into Lindsay.

Mr. John C. Greene, the proprietor, is a specialist in his line of business, and this fact the press of the province corroborates. As Mr. Green set forth in his opening address, he has been playing all the leading theatres in Canada for six, eight and ten night stands, and flattering notices have followed him from each town or city where he appeared.

Mr. Green carried a large variety of films, some of which are imported from England and the continent. As a result the subjects are beyond the reach of the majority of travelling companies, who have to content themselves with the cheap films rented from the American Biograph Co. Other advantages enjoyed by Mr. Green are that he has one of the best light machines procurable, no flickering being perceptible, and also because he introduces sound accessories which add the finishing touches in the way of realism.

Last night, in a performance of over two hours, Mr. Green ran through his machine nearly 7,000 feet of film, the titles being; 'Baby's Peril," Stormy winds do blow, (humorous), "Bostock's English Menagerie," "The Lost Umbrella," (humorous), "The Orphan Boy," "Burning of Warsaw by Nihilists," "Fishing in Norway," "On Board a British Training Ship," "Daniel Boone" (historical.) Applause was frequent the particular favorites being "The Orphan Boy", "Burning of Warsaw", "British Training Ship," and "Daniel Boone."

Special mention must be made of the new illustrated songs. The words were rendered by Mr. Berton V. Peters in fine voice, while the accompanying pictures were charming indeed. The titles were, "Tieing the leaves so they won't come down," "Two Blue Eyes," and "Mary Dear."

For to-night and to-morrow night Mr. Green promises an entire change of views and songs.

He's a Wonder.

Pittsburg Leader; Edmund Lamy, the 19-year-old wonder of the skating world, who has met and defeated the pick of the amateur skaters of the United States and Canada, is certainly the real goods when it comes to skating. In none of the races that he has participated in has he been forced to exert himself, so what he is capable of doing on skates cannot be judged until he meets an opponent that forces him to his utmost speed. At the present time Lamy seems to be in a class by himself, so easily does he capture the events with his long and graceful stride.

WEDDING BELLS

Dowson---McTaggart.

A very pleasant event took place at the residence of Mr. William McTaggart, Sonya, on Wednesday, the 19th February, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when his only daughter, Margaret, became the bride of Mr. John A. Dowson of Belleville, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. D. Leitch, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Sonya, in the presence of a few friends. Mr. Alfred Dowson, of Fingerboard, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and Miss Margaret McKinlay, of Toronto, performed the duties of bridesmaid. The bride looked charming in a beautiful dress of silk colienne, and her going away suit was a rich navy blue with hat to match.

After the marriage the friends sat down to a very dainty wedding supper. The tables were prettily decorated and looked very beautiful. The groom, who is with the Sloan Co., wholesale grocers, is one of the many young men from Sonya who have been successful in life, and the bride is one of the most popular young ladies in the community. We wish them all happiness in their wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Dowson will reside in Belleville.

Month Will End Strong

Hicks Predictions for Latter Part of February are Unfavorable.

A regular storm period is central on the 23rd, prevailing from the 21st to the 26th. The storms of this period will culminate in central to eastern sections from Sunday the 23rd, to Tuesday, the 25th. The barometer will fall in western extremes by the 21st, followed by cloudiness and rain in those sections by the 22nd, but these conditions will widen and intensify as they pass eastwardly across the country during the 23rd to 26th. The vernal equinox will add force to the storms, especially in the southern parts of the country, through all the last half of February and severe to dangerous equatorial storms will be quiet possible, beginning about the 17th toward the West Indies and working up to our South Atlantic and gulf coast regions about the 22nd to 25th. In the event of such storms in the south we must confidently count on rough storms and cold, disagreeable weather over most part of the interior. A reactionary storm period will be in progress from February into March, the culminating stages of which will fall on March the 1st and 2nd.

Speaking English in Japan.

"The way the English language is spoken in Japan is simply wonderful," says Hon R. Lemieux. "I can truly say that I never felt inconvenienced by inability to speak the Japanese language while in Japan. In the hotels one might have expected that English would be spoken, but I found that it was spoken by clerks in the stores and in many other places where it would not be expected. It is said that now one cannot go to any part of Japan without finding someone able to speak English. It is eagerly learned from the missionaries and from all possible sources. A good many of the Japanese are educated in the English and United States universities. In the Japanese high schools and the universities the study of English is compulsory, while German, French, and other foreign languages are optional."

Pity and Pepper Made Them Weep

Agony of "A Fatal Mistake" Reinforced by Bad Boys in Opera House.

Port Jervis, N. Y., February 22—Armed with blow pipes and red pepper, boys at various parts of the hall of the opera house broke up for a time a performance of "A Fatal Mistake." The house was packed with an audience which had come to see if the play was as good as the attractive posters which had adorned the fences and store windows for the past two weeks.

As the hero was telling the pained heroine how easy it would be for them to live on bread and water if she could get the bread, and the women in the audience were trying to stifle their sobs, the space was suddenly filled above. When the pepper began to circulate there wasn't a dry eye or nose in the house. The actors in the touching scene tried to end this as a tribute to their art.

Then a man in one of the orchestra seats opened up the saxophone with a knockout that tore his collar from its fastenings. Everybody had been trying to hold back, and it only took one to start it. In about seven seconds the whole lower floor was imbibing in all kinds of usual music.

A dozen women lost the run out of their hair in the contest, and one stout lady danced a wheze which sent the buttons off the back of her waist rolling around the floor.

"Go on, Bill, you know how it makes me strangely," shouted the hero, trying to save the scene. He got no further, for he passed out the heroine some footlights. The heroine gave him a receipt for it, and the other members of the company joined the grand chorus.

Manager Kadel stepped before the curtain to denounce the miscreants responsible for the disaster, and succeed so hard he blew his derby off. Several scenes he begged the orchestra to play an overture, but the musicians were too busy blowing their own horns. Then he called the police to investigate, and the coppers arrived in time to show that they were not immune from the effects of red pepper.

It was half an hour before the actors were allowed to proceed, and every now and then the smoking would break out afresh in a different part of the house.

Manager Kadel says if it takes his whole season's profits he'll find out who did the trick. He is inclined to think that the laundry trust was back of it.

One Winter on the Mississauga

Surveyor's Experience in the Wilds

As soon as it became clear enough to see, we found that we were down in the trough, even the tops of the tall pines which lined the shore were not visible, and I was astonished that our little vessel did not swamp. Everything was coated with ice.

The anchor was got up and the jibs hoisted, and the vessel headed before the wind. In less than two minutes the sail was torn from the bolt ropes. The captain managed to get a little of the main sail set, and, in a couple of ice, and hoisted, and we ran down before the wind ten miles to a small sheltered cove, and I arose from my seat for the first time in twenty-three hours here. There and here we remained until the following day. Next morning, as the gale was blowing itself out, and a light wind had sprung up from the east, we got under way once more at nine o'clock. There had been a hard frost during the night little coverings rested with me, although with me I had to break our way. We rounded Tessalon Point at sundown just in time to avoid another gale from the west, and passed the night in the house of a French fisherman, who with a couple of Scotch families, a few miles up the river, were the only white settlers between Byng and Bruce Mines.

THE TENT WAS PITCHED

The problem now to be solved was to find the nearest route to Perth 194. I knew there was a shorter line which started from Sault Ste. Marie and ran 194 and ran due south fourteen miles to Waquekoing Lake, eight miles from Lake Huron, which, that line struck that lake near its west end. Striking off to the green woods north of the lake, with the assistance of an Indian whom I met, I soon found the line and brushed a trail through the burned woods to the lake also on to the end of the road. I was now confronted with another difficulty. The snow of which there had been more than twenty, every day, had now become so deep that snowshoes for the whole party was a sudden necessity. It has been said that a bushman is never at a loss for a rope so long as his coat lined, and I succeeded in bring twisted into a rope. I had observed that one of the settlers had which I purchased, and getting the Indian and his family at work snowshoe making. I soon had my whole party shod for the winter. By this time I got all my supplies up to the end of the trail, and a portion of it down the lake.

This was before the long clear hard on ice. All the pork was in barrels, and in the cabins, and covered with bring, so it was an absolute impossibility to transport it in that state. The men therefore, erected a sealfold, the barrels were emptied and the meat stacked on it in layers. The barrels were used as rels and had to be transferred into sacks.

I divided the distance we had to carry into three stages of six miles each. The men going north went six miles with a pack and returned empty. This constituted a day's work. It took the party until the afternoon of January the 21st to get everything up to the end of the road.

That night I observed Polaris and next day we began our work by running the line from the most southerly of No. 194 and I want that estimates out; one on each side, instructing them to run three miles and return back to my line, then two miles north parallel to it, then to it, and report at the end of the week, time of they had seen. From this until the 11th of January I walked to the west along the Salter line, when, having completed the work in that direction I turned to the starting point. The evening of Wednesday the 19th, the men came in and took all the rest with the fresh supplies, and next day

BEGAN MOVIN GEAST.

The snow now became so deep that the blaze on the trees were only at long intervals seen above it, and one men was to go to bend; consequently the line had to be carried out and chained in order to find the corners of the berths. It, therefore, took two men to put six miles to the next line. From this date until the 21st of March I was running the east and west outlines of the several berths, and having an estimate made of the timber on each. Then having completed the work outlined in my instructions I started all the party to pack out and strapping one blanket and the light rubber sheet on my shoulders, an axe in my hand and a revolver at my belt, I struck off alone on a southeast course to find out what pine was on that east, and yet unexplored north by the side of which I was then camped.

The day was dark and a soft snow falling. The country was mountainous, alternating with small, thick swamp, a dense undergrowth prevailed from which soft snow over all, so that the travelling was very fatiguing and the progress slow.

Towards evening the weather cleared, and the usual hard frost set in. I selected a camp for the night where a good supply of dry wood was available, built a fire on top of the snow and spread down a quantity of balsam boughs for a bed. I had shot a partridge for supper, then after an evening pipe, replenished the fire, spread down and rolling myself in the blanket, lay down for the night. The night turned out clear and calm, but immensely cold.

The thermometer must have registered away down in the forties, so that my sleep was by no means an ideal one. The fire had to be frequently replenished, and as the snow melted underneath, the fire gradually sank, until when I awoke at daylight, I found myself lying by the side of a pot fully four feet deep with a small smouldering fire at the bottom.

Breakfasting a few mouthfuls of frozen bread and donning my snow shoes I was under way on the rising sun and began to grind the tops of the tallest pines. The intense frost of the night had hardened the snow and made the travelling all that could be wished. My course was now southwest, and I crossed the Mississauga at a rapid pace, where the brewsa no more than side at an early hour, made Waquekoing Lake, striking it some three miles east of the old trail. I arrived at the lumber camp between in the evening. To say I was not tired would be flibbing. However, after a good wash and a hearty meal, prepared in his best style by a first-class cook, I felt equal to donning the snow shoes again, although my limbs did ache somewhat from "Amal de Raquets."

On the 27th, all hands arrived at Trans Bruce, bright and bed to remain until navigation opened.

SOUTH VERULAM.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Everything is very quiet in this locality, and has been for the past two weeks owing to the stormy condition of the weather and the badly drifted roads.

Mr. W. S. Hunter has rented his farm, and is going to the West with his family in a few weeks.

Sickness and colds are in almost every house; in some cases whole families are laid up.

Some people go out to the woods, on sometimes happen on racoons in their corn, but W. J. Kilbury, of South Verulam, has got them in his bag. The other day, when he went out to do his chores, there were two climbing up the posts of his barn. He, needless to say, he soon made them stop their gawking.

The Burial of The Living Risk

Medical Experts Give Some Startling Testimony About It.

A Boston, Mass., despatch says: Horror of premature burial has become so impressive to two justices of the Supreme Court of the United States that they have engaged Dr. John Dixwell, of Harvard University, to guarantee that they shall not be buried alive. Dr. Dixwell also told the legislative committee on Legal Affairs to-day that many years ago he was himself pronounced dead by distinguished physicians, and narrowly escaped a horrible fate.

Witnesses told the committee that by estimate two people out of every one thousand are buried alive. Numerous terrifying instances were cited in an effort to have the committee report a bill making proof of death compulsory. There is no such law in Massachusetts now.

The bill provides that the local board of health shall be notified within six hours of the death of any person, and that as soon as possible thereafter shall issue an examination made of the reported deceased; that certification of death shall only be issued after ten tests have been made, for heart action, respiration, muscles and use of subcutaneous injection of ammonia to ascertain dissolution, the purpose being to prevent burial alive. There shall be suitable rooms set apart for these tests, it not made in the dwelling for three, and not less than two physicians.

The bill provides a penalty of $10 $100 fine or a year's imprisonment for violation of the act. Dr. Dixwell urged that the State should enactment to relieve the deadly and widespread worry caused by fear of premature burial.

A notable case, showing the difficulty of knowing whether a person is really dead, was told of a Natick man who was laid out for two days, presumably dead, but who was entirely conscious and afterwards complained of an undertaker who litigated by rats.

Frederick W. Bridges, member of the State Emmalming Board, opposed the bill, and resented aspersions upon doctors and undertakers.

Judge Lloyd E. Chamberlain, of Brocton, made a forceful argument for the bill.

"If there is a single case where a person has been declared dead and buried alive, and buried before the life left his body," he said with earnestness "that ought to be enough for the passage of proper legislation. And we have none on the statute to-day. The physician, too, frequently takes the word of friends or of the undertaker."

Judge Chamberlain contended that the State, in the exercise of its parental duty, should take up this matter. "The only way to do it in the light of science is to provide that there shall be positive proofs from positive tests."

Undertakers will tell you that they embalm, he continued. "Yes they do embalm; but if they do the embalming that will kill, if life is there, is in any more than murder." The judge said that his mother had had a bitter experience in her youth, and it followed her throughout life.

"I am very near being buried alive myself in the early '70s," said Dr. Dixwell. "Very eminent physicians determined that I was dead and gave me up, but after an hour or so I brought I wouldn't die and so I am alive to-day, while they are all dead. Dr. Henry I. Bowditch was the chief in consultation at my bedside, and I will never forget how surprised he was to find me alive next morning. The horror exists as a fact and is not disputed." Two of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States whom I promised I would see that they should not be buried alive, I recall a case of the General Hospital of a woman sent there with cancer. After a time it was decided she was dead, and she was sent to the morgue. There she suddenly woke up and is alive to-day.

"Worry kills," said the doctor, "as well as disease. It becomes a recurrent monomania with some women, and they go wild over the fear of being buried alive. If the State should stop that I believe it would be a fine thing to do."

Mr. Ralph Knott, of Chelsea, young and unknown architect, has suddenly had himself made famous by the selection of his plans for the new London County Council offices. The total cost of the building will be $850,000, and the architect will receive $34,000 remuneration.

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION.
SECTION No. 3.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the Undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 10 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterboro, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule pre. ared to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering decline entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the tender submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. R. JONES,
Secretary.

PILES

8 Years Torture Ended by Zam-Buk

Mr. George Lee, 35 Steiner St., Toronto, says: "For 8 years I suffered torture from blind, itching piles. During that time I believe almost everything in the line of ointments and salves was used, but in vain. The very first application of Zam-Buk gave me relief from that terrible itching, and a little perseverance with the balm brought about a complete cure. I have not been troubled again and it is now over six months since Zam-Buk was used. If this statement can be used for the benefit of other sufferers from this trouble, you are at liberty to publish it."

Zam-Buk

Is especially recommended for all kinds of skin diseases, eczema, bad legs, piles, ulcers, boils, chapped hands, barbers' rash, festering sores, poisoned wounds, cuts, bruises, burns, sprains etc. Of all druggists and stores, 50c. box or from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, postpaid. 3 boxes $1.25.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Cattle 10c Up, Hogs 5c Lower at Buffalo.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 12½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Feb. 24.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 65 carloads, composed of 1027 cattle, 223 hogs, 247 sheep, 33 calves and 73 horses.

Exporters.

Prices ranged from $4.85 to $5.15, with one prime load at $5.35. Export bulls sold at $3.75 to $4.40 per cwt.

Butchers.

There was a fairly good trade for best butchers' cattle at about the same quotations as given last Thursday. Prime picked lots $4.85 to $5; loads of good, $4.65 to $4.80; medium, $4.40 to $4.60; common, $4 to $4.25; cows, $3.25 to $4 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

About 20 milkers and springers were on sale. There was a strong market on account of two Montreal dealers being on hand to get supplies. Prices ranged from $38 to $60 each.

Veal Calves.

The limited supply of veal calves met an extra good market, with prices ranging from $4 to $7.50 per cwt., and an extra quality of new milk fed veal calves would bring $8 per cwt.; in fact one dealer reported paying that price to-day.

Sheep and Lambs.

Deliveries of sheep and lambs were 247 in number, for which there was a brisk market at higher quotations. Export ewes sold from $4.50 to $5 per cwt.; lambs, $6 to $7 per cwt.

Hogs.

The dealers in hogs seem to be all of one mind as regards the price of hogs. Gunn's, Limited, and H. P. Kennedy's agent, Mr. Taylor, both reported selects fed and watered, at $5.15, and $4.90, f.o.b., cars, at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 22 were 2438 cattle, 388 sheep and lambs, 2841 hogs and 251 calves, while the supply for local consumption this morning consisted of 1150 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 1700 hogs and 100 calves. There were no new developments in the local cattle situation, except that the undertone to the market was firmer on account of the fact that supplies were fully 600 head smaller than a week ago, but prices show no actual change. The quality of the stock coming forward is much better than it has been of late, but really choice beeves are somewhat scarce yet. There was a large gathering of buyers, and, as they all wanted some beef, the demand was good and a fairly active trade was done. Choice stock sold at 5¼c to 5½c; good at 4½c to 5c; fair at 3¾c to 4¼c; common at 3¼c to 3½c, and inferior at 2½c to 3c per lb. Cable advices from Liverpool on Saturday stated that trade in cattle was brisk, and that the market was strong, with American steers ¼c per lb. higher than a week ago, at 12c to 12½c, and Canadian steers ½c up, at 11¾c to 12¼c, with bulls selling at 10½c per lb.

Owing to the continued small supplies of sheep and lambs coming forward, the tone of the market is strong, and prices have advanced fully ¼c per lb. The demand from local buyers is good, and sales of mixed lots of sheep and lambs were made at 6¼c per lb., but straight lots of choice lambs would bring 6½c to 6¾c; good, 6c to 6¼c, and common, 5½c to 5¾c, while choice sheep were quoted at 4¼c to 4½c; good at 3¾c to 4c, and culls at 3¼c to 3½c per lb.

In spite of the weak cable advices from all the leading markets on Canadian bacon last week, which noted a decline in prices of from 1s to 5s per cwt., as compared with values quoted the previous week, a stronger feeling developed in the local hog situation this morning, and prices advanced 15c to 25c per 100 lbs., which was due to the smaller run and the good demand for the same from packers and dealers, as they were somewhat short of supplies. An active trade was done, and sales of selected lots were made at $5.75 to $5.90 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 3000 head; fairly active; strong to 10c higher; prime steers, $5.60 to $5.85; shipping, $5 to $5.50; butchers, $4.60 to $5.35; heifers, $3.50 to $5.25; cows, $3 to $4.75; bulls, $3.25 to $4.75; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.60 to $3.

Hogs—Receipts, 20,400 head; fairly active; heavy, 5c lower; others 20c, to 25c lower; heavy, $4.50 to $4.55; mixed, $4.55 to $4.60; yorkers, $4.60 to $4.65; pigs, $4.60; roughs, $3.75 to $4; stags, $3 to $3.25; dairies, $4.50 to $4.60.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 14,000 head; active; sheep, steady; lambs, 10c lower; lambs, $5 to $7.40; yearlings, $6.25 to $6.60; wethers, $5.50 to $5.85; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $2 to $5.65.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Beeves, $3.25 to $4.47; steers, steady to a shade higher; bulls, light; thin cows, 40c higher; others firm. Steers, $5 to $5.90; oxen and stags, $4.60 to $4.80; bulls, $3.60 to $4.20; cows, $3 to $4; tops, $4.16. Exports to-morrow, 600 cattle.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,203. Sheep, $3.50 to $5; few choice wethers, $6; culls, $2.50; lambs, $6.50 to $7.00; one car, $7.70; culls, $5 to $5.50; yearlings, $6 to $6.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 23,000; market weak at $4.75 to $5.

Year For Bigamy.

Kingston, Feb. 25.—Alexander S. Babcock was sentenced to the Central Prison for one year for bigamy and suspended sentence on a charge of cruelty in breaking the arm of a four-months-old infant. Babcock is weak-minded. The first woman he married when 15 years old. They parted and at 19 he married a second time.

Hand Shattered by Shot.

The Immigrant Van Guard.

Montreal, Feb. 25.—The annual rush of immigrants from the old country is starting, and the first signs came yesterday when a message was received from Liverpool by the C.P.R. stating that the Empress of Ireland had sailed from that port with a passenger list numbering over twelve hundred.

Saw Abandoned Schooner.

New York, Feb. 25.—The American schooner William H. Skinner was sighted, waterlogged and abandoned, 200 miles northeast of Cape Hatteras, on Saturday by the steamer Byron, which arrived yesterday from Rio Janeiro. Except for her foremast, the schooner had been dismasted and a white flag was flying at the foremast head.

There was nothing to indicate the fate of her crew.

Dry Wave In Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Feb. 25.—Hotelmen admit that prohibition in Winnipeg is very certain, since the new law permits women to vote.

The worst feature of the law, they claim, however, is that clause which permits submission of local option each year, rendering permanent investments out of the question in hotels.

Former Minister Sentenced.

Rome, Feb. 25.—Nunzio Nasi, who was at one time Minister of Public Instruction, was yesterday sentenced to eleven months and twenty days in prison for continued speculation from the state treasury. This sentence was handed down by the Senate, sitting as a high court after ten hours deliberation. Furthermore, Nasi is interdicted from holding public office for four years and two months.

His secretary, Signor Lombardo, was acquitted for lack of evidence.

License Worth $50,000.

London, Feb. 25.—An interesting incident connected with Earl Grey is related here, apropos of the new licensing bill. The Northumberland magistrates granted a new public house license which Earl Grey found increased the value of the place £10,000. This is described as the commencement of his attention to the question of disinterested management of public houses.

Young Englishman's Plight.

Hamilton, Feb. 25.—While out taking snapshots of the ice banks at the beach on Sunday, John Feast discovered a young man in the lake up to his waist in water. Feast got help and bravely went out and rescued the man, Walter Brent, a farm hand, who came out from England last summer. He was almost dead.

Hill's Engineers Out.

Medicine Hat, Feb. 25.—Engineers of the Hill system are again active through this section, and it is apparent that the C.P.R. line will be paralleled from a point near Brandon, due west to the mountains. This line will pass half way between the border and the C.P.R., opening a virgin agricultural country.

Not Gaining Any.

Long division, a writer in the New York Sun declares, is the Waterloo of most of the middle aged women who apply for city positions. One woman took some time off from work to learn how to do long division. The teacher told her a million times, more or less, that when the divisor would not go into the dividend she must put a cipher in the answer.

One day the teacher came along and looked over her shoulder and saw fourteen or fifteen ciphers in the result, while the correct answer could not have more than three figures in it. The teacher was patient with her and asked her where she got all those ciphers.

"Why," she said, looking slightly worried, "you told me that when the divisor wouldn't go to put down a cipher, and it wouldn't go all these times, and I haven't got to the end yet and don't see as I'm gaining on it a bit."

A Natural Fortress.

In the northern part of Madagascar is the most remarkable natural fortress in the world. It is occupied by a wild tribe [illegible] call themselves the People of the Ro[illegible]s. The fortress is a lofty and precipitous rock of enormous size, 1,000 feet high and eight square miles in area. Its sides are so steep that it cannot be climbed without artificial means. Within it is hollow, and the only entrance is by a subterranean passage.—St. James' Gazette.

Suffered 20 Years

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured in 2 Months

St. Raphaels, Ont.

For over twenty years I suffered from Chronic Constipation of the bowels, and I could get no medicine to cure me. I tried doctors and every known purgative, or laxative, medicine known but I was no better. Sometimes, if I did not take medicine, I would go four or five days, without any action of the bowels. During all this time I was weak and suffered from Indigestion constantly.

About a year ago a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives" as they had helped her. I began taking "Fruit-a-tives" and from the outset I began to feel better, and inside of a month the pains were almost gone and the Constipation relieved. In two months I was perfectly well again, no pains, no constipation, and my complexion had lost all that sallow appearance.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Hockey

INFORMATION WANTED.

Earl in the season Joseph McConnell made it known that he had a hockey team. For some time now the "Togo's" hockey seven have patiently awaited a challenge from his "fearless outfit", and unless they hear from Joe pretty soon they will be forced to accept the challenges of some of the other fast ones who are looking for the scalps of the green and white Togos. Speak up, Joe, or the Typos will be first.

The Typos hereby challenge the winners of this game to mortal combat, and declare themselves the equal of any team ever seen on Lindsay ice—not even excepting Midland.

STRATFORD WON OUT.

Last night the Stratford Midgets ran away from the Midland juniors, winning the game and round in the O.H.A. semi-finals by a score of 10-4. For 50 minutes Midland did not score at all, but managed to get in four in the ten remaining minutes to play. The Stratfordites completely outclassed their visitors, who's only man who starred was Chase. A number of Lindsay sports, who were deeply interested in the result, put up quite a sum of money at long odds on the game and made a big haul on the score.

TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE

In a Trent Valley League hockey match at Hastings on Saturday night, between Hastings and Norwood, Norwood was the victor by a score of 5 to 2. The game was close and exciting and there was very little roughness. Pearce, of Norwood, gave everybody satisfaction as referee.

ROCHESTER CHAMPIONS

Rochester defeated Niagara yesterday by the score of 5 to 0, thus winning the hockey championship of Western New York State. Buck, formerly of Lindsay, was the star of the Rochester team. He gave one of the best exhibitions in goal-tending seen here in years.

The Town League teams are again scheduled to play to-morrow night. This time the C. L. S. meett Little Britain and the Y. M. C. A. plays the Bankers. A good match will result, and will be well worth seeing.

A hockey match Saturday between the Knockers, of Peterboro, and the home team, resulted 6 to 4 in favor of Omemee. Gordon, one of the Peterboro men, had his shoulder fractured.

Running

LONGBOAT VS. DEERFOOT.

Toronto World: Athletic Indians have a prominent place in Canadian field and other sports from Deerfoot down to Tom Longboat. The present contemporary aborigine is probably the most prominent of them all, if he is to be judged by the interest taken in him by the newspapers. Good judges say Longboat is as speedy as the Indian of a generation ago, though with the absence of accurate timing in those days, that is mostly a matter of conjecture. W. J. Moyes, always a follower of games, is one who watched them both on the track. It was in his boyhood days that Deerfoot was giving exhibitions in the old country. He appeared on the track at Glasgow and was a sight for the gods. The wonderful runner was clothed in the garb of the original North American, a genuine cloak of deerskins and head dress of feathers, which he doffed for the race. Thus he gave his exhibition, his bronzed skin, trunks of chamois and beaded moccasins being his running costume.

Odds and Ends of Sport

WILL MAKE LONG JOURNEY

A Toronto runner named Murphy says that he will try the Hamilton-Toronto run on Feb. 29. Claude Pearce will tackle it again just as soon as the roads get good.

C.A.A.U. RULINGS.

The Board of Governors of the Canada Amateur Athletic Union Saturday withdrew the "union" cards from Fred J. Robson, Con D. Heffernan, O. M. Bush and Lot Roe, who competed in unsanctioned meets at Montreal, and from Charley Christie and Henry "Scotty" McEwen, the 125 and 115-pound boxing champions, who refused to compete as drawn in the C.A.A.U. boxing championships last week. The reinstatements of Gordon Southam, of Hamilton, who played in the Inter-Provincial Football League, and Arthur Bentley, of Cobourg, who had played baseball in questionable company, was confirmed. M. A. Beale, who some years ago competed in unsanctioned track meets in British Columbia, was reinstated.

TAIT'S GREAT TWO-MILE TRIAL

Jack Tait, the West End Y. M. C. A. boy, who runs Fred Bellairs, the New York crack, three miles at the Buffalo Armories Saturday night, ran two miles on the Varsity indoor track, 22 laps to the mile, in 9.56 3-5.

Correspondents' Breezy Letters

CAMBRAY

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A meeting of the Woman's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. W. G. Webster on March 4th, at 2 p. m. Discussion, Gardening flowers, Mrs. P. J. Wilkinson; spring sewing, interchange of patterns, Mrs Frank Webster, paper, "What dishes to prepare when appetites require coaxing," Mrs. S. James, Mrs. Wm Sinclair, Mrs. J. Cowieson. All are welcome to attend these meetings.

BURY'S GREEN

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We are glad to see the roads passable once more, so that church service can be regularly attended

Mr. John Southam spent Sunday under the parental roof.

Mrs. John Skuce is slowly recovering from a severe cold.

Mr. John Skuce has sold his pigs. They will be much missed.

Mr. Wilbert Taylor occupied the pulpit of Eden church on Sunday last in the absence of the pastor.

Our League intend visiting the Bobcaygeon League Monday evening. A good program is being prepared. A couple of sleighloads will be taken, so come along. The more the merrier.

GLENARM

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Sunny days and good roads have reappeared, and farmers are doing their spring teaming.

Mr. D. P. Mackenzie and sister visited in Kirkfield recently.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Wood spent the week end in Cannington.

Mr. Thomas Ferguson is assisting M. Wood, blacksmith.

Miss M Brown has returned from an extended visit with her sister.

Miss Minnie Cameron, from Toronto, is visiting her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McFadyen, of Saskatoon, are visiting their many relatives and friends.

A student from Knox College, Toronto, will fill the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, Sunday, Feb. 29.

ISLAY

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Owing to the past two weeks of continuous storms, times have been rather quiet in our village. The week before last our mail carrier, Mr. Lawson, from Woodville, was unable to come except on a couple of days. But the roads are opened up again, and there is a lot of teaming among the farmers.

Many changes are taking place in this neighborhood. Some of our neighbors are leaving our vicinity, and others are changing around.

Mr. H. C. Hamill and family, who have been residents of this place for about eight years, have moved to Markham. They will be reatly missed, not only as neighbors, but also in Glenarm Presbyterian church, where Mr. Hamill was an acting worker. Their many friends at Islay wish them success in their new home.

Mr. Dan Spence is moving onto the place vacated by Mr. Hamill, while Mr. Thomas Graham is going on Mr. Spence's old place and Mr. Sam Coop of Camoray, intends moving on the Graham farm.

Lagrippe is going the rounds in our neighborhood.

Mr. Walter Douglas, of Argyle, paid a flying visit to friends here this week.

Miss McArthur, of Lorneville, visited at the home of Mr. Hamill last week.

BOBCAYGEON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Curling has been the order of the day here for the past month. Many exciting games have been played among the different rinks here, but when four rinks arrived here from Peterboro last Wednesday, curling seemed to have come to a climax. They played our local rinks during the afternoon and evening, and defeated our men by nine shots on the eight games. A most pleasant afternoon and evening was spent among these jolly good fellows.

John R. Clarke, who lectured here in the Methodist church on the subject, "To and fro in London", last week, had good audiences, which he held by his amusing way of giving his lecture.

Mr. Wm. Lewis, of the Scotch Line, South Verulam, shipped a consignment of seed oats to the Aberdeen Agricultural College, Scotland, last Friday. He received $2.50 per bushel for them, and this is no doubt will pay Mr. Lewis for his extra trouble, and encourage him and others in the district to pay more attention to producing good, clean, seed grain.

Mr. Wm. J. Robinson, who has spent the fall and winter culling for the Cavendish Lumber Co., arrived home on the 20th inst. He reports the snow very deep, which has caused much trouble and expense to the lumbering firms.

As the expert judge who was to judge the grain at our Seed Fair on Saturday, the 15th inst., missed the train at Lindsay, and did not get here at all, the seed fair has been postponed till Saturday, the 29th inst. A large number of fine samples were entered on the 15th, and the entries have left open till 10 a. m. on the 29th. Full arrangements have been made, so that there will be no mistake or disappointment in the case of the expert judge on Saturday, the 29th.

Messrs. W. Hickson and Wm. Lewis arrived home last Friday from the Ontario Fairs Association, which they attended at the City Hall, Toronto, on the 19th and 20th inst.

PUSEY—WILBERFORCE STATION.

(Special to The Post.)

Our citizens are looking forward to a treat, when Mr. James Shea, keeper of Travellers' Home, delivers his new lecture, made up of three clauses, "The Graft Evil in the Political and Commercial Life of Canada," "The Liquor Evil," and "The Evil of Corrupt Literature."

We are waiting patiently for a thaw, as the snow in this section is a great depth and roads are bad.

The miners are boarding at the Temperance hotel. Everything is first-class, but very dry, not even a drink of Mayor Begg's soda water being obtainable.

The next social evening extended to the R. T. of T. will be held at the home of Mr. Alex. Riley, general merchant, South Wilberforce. The old and young people, even to the professors and senators of the village expect a good time. They are gay old boys.

Great progress has been made in opening up the Dew Drop mica mine, and the output for the present week has been large. The mica is found in the Laurentian formation, and the gangue consist of phosphate and spur. There is every evidence that the vein is persistent in strike and depth.

DOWNEYVILLE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Her many friends here and also in Lindsay, will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Michael Hickey, who has had a severe attack of la grippe, is now well enough to be around again.

John Callaghan, who has been ailing for some months, is now very low.

After an illness of about four months there died at the family residence here on Sunday morning last Carroll Joseph Donahue. The funeral which took place on Tuesday morning, was largely attended. The young man was very unassuming, pious and well-liked. The requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father McGuire, and the remains were placed by his mother's side in the new cemetery. Mr. Donohoe and family have the sympathy of all, especially as this is the second death in the family in a little more than two years, Mrs. Donohoe having died December 5, 1905.

The severity of the winter does not prevent an increase in the population in the Township of Emily. On the thirteenth of January there was born to Mr. and Mrs. Morgan O'Neill a baby girl; and it has just been announced that a young lady has arrived at the home of W. B. Crough, esq., merchant, of this village.

Mrs. Gilfiece, Toronto, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edward Houlihan

Next Wednesday will be Ash Wednesday, and though leap year there hasn't been a marriage yet. It's not the girls' fault, as they have tried to be as interesting as possible. We wonder if it is the same everywhere else, or if Lindsay has fared any better.

Mr. James C. O'Leary, King's Wharf, reports an experience which he has had, and which he is not likely to forget in a hurry. Like the thoughtful man he is, he was bringing a bag of oats to the priest when attacked in one of the swamps by wolves or wild cats, he does not know which. In the scrimmage which followed the oats were lost, but all are grateful that James C. escaped with his life. He says that it is owing to the deep snow in the bush that the wild animals are now so numerous in the clearings.

Now that the roads are a little better, the farmers are busy drawing their grain and other produce to Lindsay. They report good prices and great demand, and cannot understand how it is that banks are failing or there is scarcity of money elsewhere.

Commander Peary will lecture this week on the dangers of Arctic exploration. To encounter ice, by the way, the gallant navigator need go no farther north than North Toronto, where George E. Foster is the sitting member.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

HINTS AT PENSIONS

Land Grants to Volunteers Discussed in Parliament.

WHAT SIR WILFRID SAYS

Veterans and Nurses May Share In the Distribution —House Passes Resolution — Premier Twits Col. Hughes — Latter Threatens a Hornet's Nest If Justice Is Not Done—Sir F. Borden Replies.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—It is not often that the Opposition in the Commons has to find fault with the Government on the score of parsimony, but that was the ground of complaint yesterday.

The resolution granting 320 acres of land to every volunteer from Manitoba and the Northwest who served in South Africa was taken up early in the afternoon and debated until late at night. The Opposition took the stand that the grant should be made general to South African volunteers from all parts of Canada. They pointed out that the limitation proposed in the resolution would create an invidious discrimination against volunteers from other parts of the country, but as the rules forbid an amendment the protest had to be confined to criticism and reproof. In the course of the debate the Prime Minister used words capable of the construction that a pension for South African volunteers was within the possibilities.

Veteran Land Grants.

The House took up consideration of the resolution awarding the land grants of 320 acres each to volunteers of Manitoba and the Territories who served in the South African war.

Mr. Bergeron made a stout plea to have the grant made to volunteers from all provinces.

Mr. Oliver said the resolution was founded upon a motion by Col. Hughes which the House passed last session.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier agreed with Mr. Bergeron that there should be no discrimination. But inasmuch as the provinces of British Columbia and Ontario had already granted land to veterans resident in those provinces, it would be making a double grant in some cases.

Col. Sam Hughes pointed out that when he first introduced his resolution the Prime Minister declared the grant could not be made as it had not then been decided whether the lands in the Northwest could be given to the new provinces or retained by the Dominion. Finally it was decided that the Dominion should retain control. Then, however, the Prime Minister raised the objection to a general grant that two of the provinces had already provided their volunteers with land, and it was to meet this objection that he introduced his resolution of last year, confining the grant of Dominion lands to South African volunteers from Manitoba and the old territories.

"That resolution carried," said Col. Hughes, "but I knew then that the Prime Minister's sense of justice would correct that discrimination and lead to the grant being made general. Indeed, I can assure him that he'll have a veritable hornet's nest about his ears unless he does justice in this matter."

R. L. Borden pointed out that it was not at all incumbent upon the Government to regard itself bound by the resolution of last session in the matter of limiting the grant to volunteers from Manitoba and the new provinces. Three or four years ago, he pointed out, the House unanimously passed a resolution declaring that the manufacture and sale of cigarettes should be prohibited.

"Not unanimously," Sir Wilfrid corrected.

"Well, not exactly unanimous," replied Mr. Borden, "but the minority was very small, and the right hon. gentleman knows minorities have no rights in this House." (Laughter.)

However, the resolution passed and yet no bill had been introduced, said Mr. Borden, adding that a resolution had been passed unanimously declaring that only goods entering by Canadian ports should be entitled to the British preference, yet the Government announced that there would be no legislation on those lines for years to come. The proper course for the Government to pursue was to treat all men alike. The resolution before the House could not be amended by a private member, but certainly in its present form it was unjust and inequitable. Had the grant been made immediately after the war, as it should have been, there would have been no excuse to-day of provincial grants.

Sir Frederick Borden said that this was a question of rewarding men for their services. These lands were in the west and the Government was bound to recognize the opinions of the western Governments. The Ministers and Assemblies of the western provinces had asked that rewards of western lands be given to the western men. That was the mandate on which the Government had acted.

"Does the Minister of Militia not think that when the Government is rewarding South African volunteers it should reward all alike," asked Dr. Sproule.

"Yes, when, as far as possible," Sir Frederick replied. He went on to say that other provinces might follow the example of Ontario. Quebec and New Brunswick had plenty of land and could provide any reward they chose. It is a matter of fact that the volunteers had been well treated by Canada.

Invidious Discrimination.

R. L. Borden pointed out that the western lands were as much in the control of the Dominion as any dollar in the treasury. "When the new provinces were being formed I protested against it," said Mr. Borden, "but I protested in vain." But even the argument that the Government could not alienate those lands was no excuse for discrimination in this case. "The Government had other ways of compensating the veterans from other provinces, and so avoid this invidious discrimination."

Sir Wilfrid said he had thought Col. Hughes' resolution of last session was worded as it was meant, but that hon. member, it now appeared, had something in the back of his head at the time that he intended to bring out later. Mr. Lefurgey interrupted to observe that he himself had last session asked that the land grant be extended to veterans all over the Dominion.

"And couldn't persuade one member on his own side to join him," replied the Prime Minister. "He was like the last rose of summer, left blooming alone."

The Government, he went on to say, had acted on the recommendation of Col. Hughes, but no sooner had they done so than he wanted the whole Dominion included. The Government had accepted Col. Hughes' resolution because there was some sense in it, the principle of it being that the volunteers of the west were entitled to land grants, but the western provinces had no lands to give.

In the case of a pension, it might be given to all the South African veterans in the Dominion. "If we are to give a monetary compensation," said Sir Wilfrid, "that must be debated on its merits, but as to land grants, they must come from the provinces.

In the course of the further discussion, Mr. Monk suggested that the Fenian Raid veterans should be given land grants, and Mr. Galliher proposed similar recognition for the Nile voyageurs with whom, by the way, he himself served in Egypt and Soudan.

Mr. Herron of Alberta urged that the grant to volunteers in the Northwest be given to the heirs of volunteers who had lost their lives in South Africa, or had died since their return. The resolution was finally reported, the bill founded upon it, and read a first time.

Attacked Public Ownership.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—In the Senate yesterday Hon. James McMullen moved a resolution declaring that public ownership would not be in the interest of the Dominion.

Senator Cloran opposed the resolution, pointing out that private ownership of public utilities resulted in monopoly and exorbitant charges. Senator Cloran predicted a popular rising against improperly accrued wealth in the United States, and asked that care be taken not to reproduce a similar condition in Canada.

Senator Cloran has given notice of a resolution deploring the recent increase of murderous crime in Montreal and other parts of Canada, caused by an undesirable foreign element.

Critical Stage In Entente.

London, Feb. 26.—Lord Fitzmaurice, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, was asked in the House of Lords yesterday for information regarding the Macedonian reforms and the effect of the Austrian project for the construction of a branch railroad line through Turkish territory, to connect Vienna with Saloniki.

In reply, Lord Fitzmaurice said he regretted that he had no cheerful news to impart.

A very critical stage had been reached, he said, in both the local affairs of Macedonia and in the diplomatic entente known as the concert of Europe.

Italian Crime In Montreal.

Montreal, Feb. 26.—Antonio Ardasco, banker and employer of labor, who was once actually crowned king of the Italians in Montreal, and who has himself been twice stabbed almost to death, advises the lash and imprisonment for carrying weapons, three months' imprisonment for the first offence and increasing it up to five years.

The Italian consul-general suggests the employment of Italian detectives to cope with the lawlessness among that class here.

Touchard Goes to Russia.

Paris, Feb. 26.—Vice-Admiral Touchard has been officially appointed French ambassador to Russia in succession to M. Bompard, retired. M. Bompard has been made a grand officer of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his services in Russia.

Pets As Disease Carriers.

Attention is called by Dr. William B. Meany, of New York, in The Medical Record (New York, January 18) to the fact that domestic pets, especially cats and dogs, may become active carriers of infection. Dr. Meany was prompted to write this article by the reports of investigators showing that the plague on the Pacific Coast was spread by rats and other rodents.

The Laziest One.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)

One of the contractors in Panama was very much annoyed by the exceeding laziness of the native workmen under him. He resolved to make them ashamed of their indolence, so one day when they were all lined up he said: "I've got a nice, easy job for the laziest man in the company. Will the laziest man please step forward?"

Fifty-nine of them stepped forward, but one remained behind.

"Why didn't you come forward with the others?" he asked.

"Because I'm too lazy," was the reply.

MONARCHY IN PERIL

Violent Political Struggle Predicted in Near Future For Portugal.

LEADERS ARE DISCREDITED

King Is Being Led by His Late Father's Enemies—Republic May Be Set Up—Present Tranquility Prelude to Troublous Times — Series of Popular Uprisings Expected—Dictatorship Sponged Out.

Lisbon, Feb. 26.—Whether or not a republic is soon to supplant the monarchy in Portugal, it is practically the unanimous opinion here that the near future will witness a violent political struggle, in which the life of the monarchy may be at stake. The comparative tranquility since the assassination is simply a breathing spell. The masses of the people in the country are ignorant and have hitherto been entirely indifferent to the political battles which have convulsed the capital. Lisbon, for political purposes, is Portugal, and the Republicans are confident that the influence of the capital, which they assert is most unanimously Republican, will sound the knell of the monarchy.

Disinterested opinion, however, does not consider Portugal ripe for a republic. It believes, in fact, that the country under a popular regime in the present backward state of the masses would become a prey to the ambitions of politicians, and, like the Central American republics, would be without stability, and probably witness a series of popular uprisings and dictatorships. Nevertheless the fear exists in these quarters that the monarchy is doomed.

The young King, Manuel, has yielded to the enemies of his father and Franco. They have persuaded him to sponge out the dictatorship and to begin as a strictly legislative sovereign, but above all to place himself in their hands. Under the present circumstances the course of the King is most dangerous, as he had turned the throne over to the leaders of the two discredited old parties — men whose past prevents them from meeting their adversaries in the open field of political discussion, and who the people will insist must be disciplined.

JUDGE MULCTED JURY.

They Tossed Coin In Order to Arrive at Verdict.

New York, Feb. 26.—Justice Guy in the New York Supreme Court set aside the verdict of a jury yesterday and fined twelve jurymen $50 each for deciding the verdict by the flip of a coin. The case was a suit brought against the New York City Railway Co. for damages in causing the death of a child.

The jury brought in a verdict in favor of the railway company. The evidence in the case seemed to Justice Guy to be so much apart from the verdict that he asked the foreman of the jury how such a verdict had been arrived at. The foreman told the justice that they had agreed on their finding by the toss of a coin. The justice then said to the jurors that they had violated their oaths and committed contempt of court. He imposed the fine and ordered their names stricken from the jury list.

One of the jurymen, explaining the verdict, said that the jury was hopelessly divided, and that one of its members had $6,000 in his pocket to close a business deal and was anxious to attend to his business.

A News Agent's Protest.

London, Feb. 26.—The Times, replying to the editor of The Canadian Bookseller, who commented on a letter from a news agent, who complained because British publishers send their publications to Canadian subscribers direct, says that every measure for cheapening production and delivery must create hardship for some one, and that the news agent's argument is akin to that of operators who protested against the introduction of machinery.

Thirty Hurt In Wreck.

Laredo, Texas, Feb. 26.—Thirty persons are reported to have been injured in the derailment of an excursion train carrying a number of nothern tourists at Orville, twelve miles north of Laredo. Several cars were thrown from the track and piled up in a ditch.

Fatal Explosion.

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 26.—Several persons are reported dead as a result of an explosion in the Cambria steel plant last night.

LET MAJORITY RULE

Attitude of Opposition Defined by Liberal Leader.

BETTER HELP THAN CRITICIZE

Mr. MacKay Makes Brilliant Speech In the Legislature—Would Repeal Three-Fifth's Clause — Is Backed by United Party—No Measure of Law Reform This Session," Says Premier Whitney.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—In the closing sentence of his speech in the Legislature yesterday Hon. A. G. MacKay defined what he considered to be the duties of a public man. Particularly he addressed himself to the position which he and his colleagues in Opposition occupied. The accusation had been made by supporters of the Government that Opposition speakers had failed to find anything to criticize in the administration of the Whitney regime. Mr. MacKay pointed out that the making of suggestions, the following of which led to the conferring of benefit upon the community, was of far greater importance than mere criticism of accomplished acts. Throughout his address the same high level was maintained by the leader of the Liberal party, who was making his first speech in the House in that capacity.

MacKay Was Subdued.

Hon. A. G. MacKay closed the debate for the Opposition in a very able speech, subdued in tone and almost diffident in manner, becoming to his position in the first official effort as leader of his party. Those who had not heard him previously might have left disappointed, but his followers took courage behind the quiet confidence and masterly grasp that Mr. MacKay exhibited in handling a situation which by common consent is one of the most difficult a public man was ever called upon to assume.

He noted the desire of the Opposition not to make political speeches, but, as Mr. Harcourt had done, suggestive speeches, taking up important topics like that of technical education. The speeches of the Government members had been on a pretty high level, but he resented the suggestion that he had not a united party behind him. That statement was not in accordance with the facts.

Holding His Own.

In reply to the taunt that his party was leaving him, Mr. MacKay first pointed out that the retiring members in West Kent, East Huron and South Brant had announced their intention before he was selected as leader, and not one was leaving on account of the present leadership. (Opposition applause.) In contrast to the narrow spirit of such a view, he owed it to the press of the province to say that they had treated him fairly and decently and handsomely as any public man could expect.

With respect to the expected surplus of $500,000, announced by Mr. Donovan, he pointed out that the estimated excess of receipts in last year's budget was $1,023,156. Moreover, when the historic channels were considered, through which the revenue flowed, and the debates remembered in which those channels were dug, the Liberal party might congratulate themselves upon any surplus that might accrue.

In the three acts passed by the Liberal party, the Succession Duties Act, the Supplemental Revenue Act and the Brewers' and Distillers' Act, they had the origin of $9,000,000 of revenue, and if scarcely a matter of congratulation from the party standpoint, the province would appreciate the fact that during the year $675,000 flowed in revenue as a result of the Liberal policy.

Mr. MacKay expressed regret that a comprehensive scheme of law reform would not be brough down this session, but Premier Whitney objected to the inference he drew from the clause in the Government resolutions respecting communications to be had with the Imperial and Dominion Governments.

For Model Schools.

Mr. MacKay attacked the policy of abolishing the model schools. Those pupils who went there first were better fit for attendance at the normal schools afterwards. He was in the judgment of the best professional opinion in saying that as good teachers would not be produced as under the old system. They did not want more subjects taught in the schools, but more accuracy, more thoroughness, and completeness of knowledge in those elementary subjects which were taught as far as the average child goes at school.

He knew that double time was given to algebra, geometry, chemistry, physics, because the certificate of the master was not accepted in these subjects as it was in the others. He pleaded for the incoming generation, and 90 per cent. of the pupils of the province, who would have more moral stamina and backbone with stricter training. The farmers' sons and daughters were not getting as full an education in their opinion as if they came and lived in town.

Against Three-Fifths Clause.

With regard to the three-fifths clause, the divisions in the House and the record of the yeas and nays would show where the parties stood. With the Liberals majority rule was a principle. It was absurd to say that on one day up to 5 o'clock 60 per cent. was necessary to carry a bylaw, and that next day 41 per cent. could sustain it.

With regard to the electric power policy, he observed that not a single municipality had completed the contract which had been voted for last January. This raised the question as to whether the bylaw would again have to be referred to the people with a new schedule of prices. He wondered where the hydro-electric commission was at with regard to carrying out the bylaws.

Premier In Reply.

Premier Whitney began by characterizing the debate as the most peculiar of all he had heard in the House. He devoted six minutes to the graceful amenities usual to such an occasion. He joined with cordial appreciation of the performances of hon. gentlemen opposite, and others in their references to those who had gone from among them and whose faces they would see no more.

The hon. member for Monck (Mr. Harcourt) who was the father of the House, with Hon. Dr. Willoughby and himself, were the only three members now left who had sat in the House when he first entered it. He was not finding fault with the Opposition, but in twenty years' experience he had never known such procedure in a debate. Hon. gentlemen opposite had dealt with a number of subjects after the manner of a public debate. But the only attitude of an Opposition should be one of criticism. It was very creditable to the Government, of course, but attacks were to be made on the Government.

Premier Whitney showed that the big gun resolution of the Liberal convention of 1904 spoke only of timber limits north of the height of land. When they had gone up near James Bay and found themselves up to the neck in water the old Government were willing to throw these limits open to competition. It was only a sub-target convention after all. The argument that a mill at Ottawa was less beneficial to the immigrants of Northern Ontario than one at Pembroke, in the County of Renfrew, was hardly worthy of Mr. MacKay's acuteness.

Premier Whitney quoted The Globe May 2, 1906, to show that on the minimum salary question for rural teachers the Opposition desired plain figures, and he confuted Mr. MacKay's argument as to the effect of high school certificates by reading the resolution of the Dominion Educational Association last July, approving the admission of students by certificate. If there was any one thing that should be stamped out without delay or mercy it was the system of examination after examination which had done an infinity of harm to scholars.

Not Closing the Schools.

No distinct charge had been made by Mr. MacKay regarding model schools. He said it was all wrong to close them.

"Well, we are not going to do it, and the hon. gentleman is merely beating the air," said the Premier. They had erected four new Normal schools and no objection had been made. The students were able there to obtain a permanent certificate lasting for life and without fee. They forgot the appropriation to be made for urban schools, which would bring the expenditure on education close to $2,000,000 They had not stolen any limits to do this. It was all done out of honest revenue, and there was more left than they needed.

The increased grants for agricultural purposes were the subject of Mr. Whitney's sole comment on this head. The expenditure had risen from $415,000 in 1904 to $589,000 in 1907.

"What have we done?" enquired Mr. Whitney, in closing the debate in the Legislature yesterday with the air of a man reading with an answer.

When he had occupied the office of Attorney-General for the first four months of the present Parliament he had acted as a policeman and closed the pool rooms. That was a milestone.

The Government had cut off from the statute book the act which authorized it and there would be no numbered ballot in future.

They had appropriated large sums and reorganized the university.

They had dealt with the public schools and the County Councils Act.

They had showed that the license law could be enforced, and what was of more importance, that it would be enforced as long as the Government was in office.

They had almost completed the T. & N. O. Railway.

They had, through the Provincial Treasurer, managed to sell $3,000,000 of railway bonds to the people of the province, bankers, farmers and business men, at par, without a dollar of expenditure, except $2,000 for advertising, and, if the hon. members would not take it amiss, without any $25,000 commission.

Law reform was the only question left which the Opposition to the late Government had indicated they wanted to legislate upon. Every other question had been disposed of. There would be no law reform bill this session, however, as it was not desirable to hurry in such a matter, and the resolutions would have to be thoroughly discussed.

Priest Was a "Marked Man."

Denver, Col., Feb. 26.—Most of the priests believe that Father Leo Heinrichs, who was murdered by an Italian anarchist while giving communion in St. Elizabeth's Church here, on Sunday last, was a marked man from the time he arrived in town last August, or even before. The dead priest was stabbed previously in Paterson, N.J., and it is believed that he may have incurred the enmity of the anarchists there.

Seeding In Alberta.

MacLeod, Alta., Feb. 26.—Several farmers have been discing for several days and have a portion of their land ready for the seed.

J. K. Lee, residing four miles south of the town, has seeded about 20 acres with wheat. Should the present weather continue there will be a lot of seed in the ground by March 1.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Red Saunders

. . . By . . .

HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY

This is the famous story of Red Saunders, big Red, tough Red of the plains and mines. We shall follow this expansive man through his days of toughness and sinfulness up to the great day of his life, the day that shall bring the metamorphosis of Red. This trumpeter will not give the story away by indicating how this transformation shall come about—whether through the remorse or repentance of Red, his conviction of sin, his fear of the damnation of the wicked, his yearnings for the peace that passeth understanding, or whether it shall be the love of woman that shall bring this giant to his knees and make him as a little child. The trumpeter will only promise that this conversion of Red shall be one of the most interesting and delicious episodes in all fiction, which the reader will enjoy and doubtless remember through all the years of his life.

CHAPTER I.

REDDY and I were alone at the lake beds. He sat outside the cabin braiding a leather hatband—eight strands and the repeat figure—an art that I never could master.

I sat inside with a one-pound package of smoking tobacco beside me and newspapers within reach, rolling the day's supply of cigarettes.

Reddy stopped his story long enough to say, "Don't use the 'Princess' Slipper,' Kid—that paper burns my tongue—take the 'Granger'; there's plenty of it."

Well, as I was saying, I'd met a lot of the boys up in town this day and they threw as many as two drinks into me; I know that for certain, because when we took the parting dose I had a glass of whisky in both my right hands and had just twice as many friends as when I started.

When I pulled out for home I felt mighty good for myself—not exactly looking for trouble, but not a-going to dodge it any, either. I was warbling "Idaho" for all I was worth—you know how pretty I can sing? Cockeyed Peterson used to say it made him forget all his troubles. "Because," says he, "you don't notice trifles when a man bats you over the head with a two by four."

Well, I was enjoying everything in sight, even a little drizzle of rain that was driving by in rags of wetness when a flatfaced swatty at Fort Johnson halted me.

Now, it's a dreadful thing to be butted to death by a nanny goat, but for a full sized cowpuncher to be held up by a soldier is worse yet.

To say that I was hot under the collar don't give you the right idea of the way I felt.

"Why, you cross between the last rose of summer and a bobtailed flush!" says I, "what d'yer mean? What's got into you? Get out of my daylight, you dog robber, or I'll walk the little horse round your neck like a three ringed circus. Come, pull your freight!"

It seems that this swatty had been chucked out of the third story of Frenchy's dance emporium by Bronc Thompson, which threw a great respect for our profesh into him. Consequently he wasn't fresh, like most soldiers, but answers me as polite as a tin horn gambler on pay day.

Says he: "I just wanted to tell you that old Frosthead and forty braves are some'ers between here and your outfit, with their war paint on and blood in their eyes, cayoodling and whoopin' fit to beat hell with the blower on, and if you get tangled up with them I reckon they'll give you a hair cut and shampoo, to say nothing of other trimmings. They say they're after the Crows, but it's a ten dollar bill against a last year's bird's nest that they'll take on any kind of trouble that comes along. Their hearts is mighty bad, they state, and when an Injun's heart gets spoiled the disease is d——d catching. You'd better stop awhile."

"Now, cuss old Frosthead and you, too!" says I. "If he comes crow hopping on my reservation I'll kick his pantalets on top of his scalp lock."

"All right, pardner," says he. "It's your own funeral. My orders was to halt every one going through. But I ain't a whole company, so you can have it your own way. Only if your friends have to take you home in a coal scuttle, don't blame me. Pass, friend!"

So I went through the officers' quarters forty miles an hour, letting out a string of yells you might have heard to the coast, just to show my respect for the United States army.

Now this has always been my luck: Whenever I made a band wagon play somebody's sure to strike me for my license, or else the team goes into the ditch a mile farther on, and I come out about as happy as a small yaller dog at a bobcat's caucus.

Some fellers can run in a rhinecaboo that 'd make the hair stand up on a buffeler robe and get away with it just like a mice, but that ain't me. If I sing a little mite too high in the cellar, down comes the roof a-top of me. So it was this day. Old Johnny Hardluck socked it to me, same as usual.

Gosh a'mighty! The liquor died in me after awhile, and I went sound asleep in the saddle and woke up with a jar to find myself right in the middle of old Frosthead's gang, the drums "boom blipping" and those forty odd red tigers "hyah-hyahing" in a style that made my skin get up and walk all over me with cold feet.

How in blazes I'd managed to slip through those Injuns I don't know. 'Twould have been a wonderful piece of scouting if I'd meant it. You can most always do any darn thing you don't want to do. Well, there I was, and, oh, doctor, but wasn't I in a lovely mess! That war song put a crimp into me that Jack Frost himself couldn't take out.

It was as dark as dark by this time. The moon just stuck one eye over the edge of the prairie, and the rest of the sky was covered with cloud. A little light came from the Injuns' campfire, but not enough to ride by, and, besides, I didn't know which way I ought to go.

Says I to myself, "Billy Saunders, you are the champion all around, old fashioned fool of the district. You are a jackass from the country where cars less'n three foot long are curiosities. You sassed that poor swatty that wanted to keep you out of this, tooting your bazoo like a man peddling soap, but now it's up to you. What are you going to do about it?" and I didn't get any answer neither.

Well, it was no use asking myself conundrums out there in the dark when time was so scarce. So I wraps my bankercher around Laddy's nose to keep him from talking horse to the Injun ponies and prepared to sneak to where I'd rather be.

Laddy was the quickest thing on legs in that part of the country—out of a mighty spry little Pinto mare by our thoroughbred Kentucky horse—and I knew if I could get to the open them Injuns wouldn't have much of a chance to take out my stopper and examine my works—not much. A half mile start, and I could show the whole Sioux nation how I wore my hair.

I cut for the place where the Injuns seemed thinnest, lifting myself up till I didn't weigh fifteen pound and breathing only when necessary. We got along first rate until we reached the edge of 'em, and then Laddy had to stick his foot in a gopher hole and walloped around there like a whale trying to climb a tree.

Some darn cuss of an Injun threw a handful of hay on the fire, and as it blazed up the whole gang spotted me.

I unlimbered my gun, sent the irons into Laddy, and we began to walk.

I didn't like to make for the ranch, as I knew the boys were short handed, so I pointed north, praying to the good Lord that I'd hit some kind of settlement before I struck the north pole.

Well, we left those Injuns so far behind that there wasn't any fun in it. I slacked up, patting myself on the back, and as the trouble seemed all over I was just about to turn for the ranch when I heard horses galloping, and as the moon came out a little I saw a whole raft of redskins a-boiling up a draw not half a mile away. That knocked me slabsided. It looked like I got the wrong ticket every time the wheel turned.

I whooped it up again, swearing I wouldn't stop this deal short of a dead sure thing. We flew through space, Laddy pushing a hole in the air like a scared coyote making for home and mother.

A-ways down the valley I spotted a little shack sitting all alone by itself out in the moonlight. I headed for it, hollering murder.

A man came to the door in his underrigging.

"Hi, there! What's eating you?" he yells.

"Injuns coming, pardner! The country's just oozing Injuns! Better get a wiggle on you!"

"All right—slide along. I'll ketch up to you," says he.

I looked back and saw him bustling out with his saddle on his arm. "He's a particular kind of cuss," I thought. "Bareback would suit most people."

Taking it a little easier for the next couple of miles, I gave him a chance to pull up.

We pounded along without saying anything for a spell, when I happened to notice that his teeth were chattering.

"Keep your nerve up, pardner!" says I. "Don't you get scared—we've got a good start on 'em."

He looked at me kind of reproachful.

"Scared be derned!" says he. "I reckon if you was riding around this nice cool night in your drawers, your teeth 'ud rattle some too."

I took a look at him and saw, sure enough, while he had hat, coat and boots on, the pants was missing. Well, if it had been the last act, I'd have had to laugh.

"Couldn't find 'em nohow," says he. "Hunted high and low, jick, Jack and the game—just comes to my mind now that I had 'em rolled up and was sleeping on 'em. I don't like to go around this way—I feel as if I was two men and one of 'em hardly respectable."

"Did you bring a gun with you?"

He gave me another stare. "Why, pardner, you must think I have got a light and frivolous disposition," says he, and with that he heaves up the great granduncle of all the six shooters I ever did see. It made my forty-five long look like something for a kid to cut its teeth on. "That's the best gun in this country," he went on.

"Looks as if it might be," says I. "Has the foundry that cast it gone out of business? I'd like to have one like it, if it's as dangerous as it looks."

"When I have any trouble with a man," says he, "I don't want to go pecking at him with a putty blower, just irritating him and giving him a little skin complaint here and there. I want something that'll touch his conscience."

He had it, for a broadside from that battery would scatter an elephant over a township.

We loped along quiet and easy until sun up. The Grindstone Buttes lay about a mile ahead of us. Looking back, we saw the Injuns coming over a rise of ground 'way in the distance.

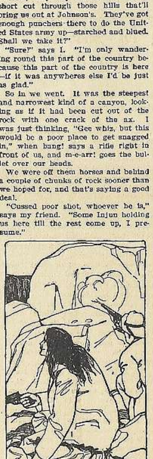
"Now," says my friend, "I know a short cut through those hills that'll bring us out at Johnson's. They've got enough punchers there to do the United States army up—starched and blued. Shall we take it?"

"Sure!" says I. "I'm only wandering round this part of the country because this part of the country is here—if it was anywhere else I'd be just as glad."

So in we went. It was the steepest and narrowest kind of a canyon, looking as if it had been cut out of the rock with one crack of the ax. I was just thinking, "Gee whiz, but this would be a poor place to get snagged in," when bang! says a rifle right in front of us, and m-e-arr! goes the bullet over our heads.

We were off them horses and behind a couple of chunks of rock sooner than we hoped for, and that's saying a good deal.

"Cussed poor shot, whoever he is," says my friend. "Some Injun holding us here till the rest come up, I presume."



"Well, watch," says he.

"That's about the size of it—and I'd like to make you a bet that he does it, too, if I thought I'd have a chance to collect."

"Oh, you can't always tell—you might lose your money," says he, kind of thoughtful.

"I wouldn't mind that half as much as winning," says I. "But, on the square, do you think we can get out? I'll jump him with you if you say so, although I ain't got what you might call a passion for suicide."

"Now you hold on a bit," says he. "I don't know but what we'd have done better to stick to the horses and run for it, but it's too late to think of that. Jumping him is all foolishness; he'd sit behind his little rock and pump lead into us till we wouldn't float in brine—and we can't back out now."

He talked so calm he made me kind of mad. "Well," says I, "in that case let's play 'Simon says thumbs up' till the rest of the crowd comes."

"There you go!" says he. "Just like all young fellers—gettin' hosstyle right away if you don't fall in with their plans. Now, sonny, you keep your temper and watch me play cushion carroms with our friend there."

"Meaning how?"

"You see that block of stone just this side of him with the square face toward us? Well, he's only covered in front, and I'm a-going to shoot against that face and ketch him on the glance."

"Great if you could work it!" says I. "But Lord!"

"Well, watch," says he. Then he squinched down behind his cover, so as not to give the Injun an opening, trained his cannon and pulled the trigger. The old gun opened her mouth and roared like an earthquake, but I didn't see any dead Injun. Then twice more she spit fire, and still there weren't any desirable corpses to be had.

"Say, pardner," says I, "you wouldn't make many cigars at this game."

"Now, don't you get oneasy," says he. "Just watch."

"Biff!" says the old gun, and this time, sure enough, the Injun was knocked clear of the rock. I felt all along that he wouldn't be much of a comfort to his friends afterward if that gun did land on him.

Still, he wasn't so awful dead, for as we jumped for the horses he kind of hitched himself to the rock, and, laying the rifle across it and working the lever with his left hand, he sent a hole plumb through my hat.

"Bully boy!" says I. I snapped at him and smashed the lock of his rifle to flinders. Then of course he was our meat.

As we rode up to him my pard held dead on him. The Injun stood up straight and tall and looked us square in the eye. Say, he was a man, I tell you, redskin or no redskin! The courage just stuck out on him as he stood there waiting to pass in his checks.

My pardner threw the muzzle of his gun up. "D—n it!" says he. "I can't do it. He's game from the heart out. But the Lord have mercy on his sinful soul if he and I run foul of each other on the prairie again!"

Then we shacked along down to Johnson's and had breakfast.

"What became of Frosthead and his gang?" Oh, they sent out a regiment or two and gathered him in—'bout twenty-five soldiers to an Injun. No, no harm was done. Me and my pard were the only ones that bucked up against them. Chuck out a cigarette, Kid; my lungs ache for want of a smoke.

CHAPTER II.

"HOW did I come to get myself disliked down at the Chanta Seechee? Well, I'll tell you," said Reddy, the cow puncher. "The play came up like this. First they made the Chanta Seechee into a stock company; then the stock company put all their brains in one think, and says they, 'We'll make this man Jones superintendent, and the ranch is all right at once.' So out comes Jones from Boston, Mass., and what he didn't know about running a ranch was common talk in the country, but what he knew about running a ranch was too much for one man to carry around. He wasn't a bad hearted feller in some ways, yet on the whole he felt it was an honor to a looking glass to have the pleasure of reflecting him. Looking glass? I should say he had! And a bureau and a bootblacking jigger and a feather bed and curtains and truck in his room. Strange fellers used to open their eyes when they saw that room. 'Hello-o-o!' they'd say. 'Whose little birdie have we here?' And other remarks that hurt our feelings considerable. Jonesy, he said the fellers were a rank lot of barbarians. He said it to old Neighbor Case's face, and he and the old man came together like a pair of hens, for Jonesy had sand in spite of his faults. That was a fight worth traveling to see. They covered at least an acre of ground; they tore the air with upper swats and cross swipes; they hollered, they jumped and they pitched, and when the difficulty was adjusted we found that Jonesy's coat was painfully ripped up the back and Neighbor Case had lost his false teeth. One crowd of fellers patted Jones on the back and said, 'Never mind your coat, old horse; you've licked a man twice your age,' and the other comforted Neighbor, saying, 'Never mind, Case, you can ease your mind by thinking how you headed up that rooster and he fifty pounds lighter than you.'

"Jonesy put on airs after that. He felt he was a hard citizen. And then he had the misfortune to speak harshly to Arizona Jenkins when Old Dry Belt was in liquor. Then he got roped and dragged through the slough. He cried like a baby while I helped him scrape the mud off, but not because he was scared! No, sir! That little runt was full of blood and murder.

"'You mark me now, Red,' says he, the tears making bad land water courses through the mud on his cheeks. 'I shall fire upon that man the first time I see him. Will you lend me your revolver?'

"'Lord, Jones, see here,' says I. 'Don't you go making any such billygoat play as that. Keep his wages until he apologizes. Put something harmful in his grub; but, as you have respect for the Almighty's handiwork as represented by your person, don't pull a gun on Arizona Jenkins. That's the one thing he won't take from nobody.'

"'D-d-darn him!' snivels Jonesy. 'I ain't afraid o-o-of him.' and the strange fact is that he wasn't. Well, I saw he was in such a taking that he might do something foolish and get hurt, so I goes to Arizona, and says I, 'You ought to apologize to Jones.'

What Zony replied ain't worth repeating. 'And you along with him,' he winds up.

"'Now, ain't that childish?' I says. 'A six footer like you that can shoot straight with either hand and yet ain't got generosity enough to ease the feelings of a poor little devil that's fair busting with shame?'

"'Well, what did he want to tell me to shut up my mouth for?' cried Old Dry Belt. 'Men have died of less than that.'

"'Aw, shucks, Zony,' I says. 'A great, big man like you oughtn't to come down on a little cuss who's all thumb hand side and left feet.'

"'That be blowed,' says he, only he says it different. 'I'd like to know what business such a sawed off has to come and tell a full grown man like me to shut up his mouth. He'd ought to stay in a little man's place and talk sassy to people his own size. When he comes shooting off his bazoo to a man that could swaller him whole without loosening his collar it's impidence; that's what it is.'

"'Well, as a favor to me?' I says.

"'Well, if you put it in that way—I don't want to be small about it.'

"So Arizona goes up to Jones and sticks out his hand. 'There's my hand, Jones,' he says. 'I'm mighty sorry you told me to shut up my mouth,' says he.

"'So am I,' says Jones heartily, not taking in the sense of the words, but feeling that it was all in good intention. So that was all right, and I stood in with the management in great shape for fixing up the fuss so pleasant. But it didn't last. They say nothing lasts in this world. There's some pretty solid rocks in the Coeur d'Alene, however, and I should like to wait around and see if they don't hold out, but I'll never make it. I've been in too much excitement.

"Well, the next thing after Jonesy got established was that his niece must come out during vacation and pay him a visit. 'Jeerusalem!' thinks I, 'Jonesy's niece!' I had visions of a thin, yaller, sour little piece, with mouse colored hair plastered down on her head and an unkind word for everybody. Jonesy told me about her being in college, and then I stuck a pair of them nose grabber specks on the picture. I can stand most any kind of a man, but if there's anything that makes the tears come to my eyes it's a botch of a woman. I know they may have good qualities and all that, but I don't like 'em, and that's the whole of it. We gave three loud groans when we got the news in the bull pen. And I cussed for ten minutes straight, without repeating myself once, when it so fell out that the members of the board rolled out our way the day the girl had to be sent for, and Jonesy couldn't break loose, and your uncle was elected to take the buckboard and drive twenty miles to the railroad. I didn't mind the going out, but that twenty miles back with Jonesy's niece! Say, I foamed like a soda water bottle when I got into the bull pen and told the boys my luck.

"'Well,' says Kyle Lambert, 'that's what you might expect; your sins have found you out.'

"'No, they ain't; they've caught me at home as usual,' says I. 'Well, I'll give that eastern blossom an idea of the quality of this country, anyhow.' So I togs myself up in the awfullest rig I could find; strapped two ca'tridge belts to me, every hole filled, and a gun in every holster; put candle grease on my mustache and twisted the ends up to my eye winkers; stuck a knife in my hatband and another in my boot; threw a shotgun and a rifle in the buckboard and pulled out quick through the colt pens before Jonesy could get his peeps on to me.

"Well, sir, I was jarred witless when I laid my eyes on that young woman. I'd had my mind made up so thorough as to what she must be that the facts knocked me cold. She was the sweetest, handsomest, healthiest female I ever see. It would make you believe in fairy stories again just to look at her. She was all the things a man ever wanted in this world rolled up in a prize package. Tall, round and soople, limber and springy in her action as a thoroughbred and with something modest yet kind of daring in her face that would remind you of a good, honest boy. Red, white and black were the colors she flew. Hair and eyes black, cheeks and lips red, and the rest of her white. Now, there's a pile of difference in them colors; when you say 'red,' for instance, you ain't cleaned up the subject by a sight. My top knot's red, but that wasn't the color of her cheeks. No; that was a color I never saw before nor since. A rose would look like a tomater alongside of 'em. Then, too, I've seen black eyes so hard and shiny you could cut glass with 'em. And again that wasn't her style. The only way you could get a notion of what them eyes were like would be to look at 'em; you'd remember 'em all right if you did. Seems like the good Lord was kind of careless when he built Jonesy, but when he turned that girl out he played square with the fambly.

"I ain't what you might call a man that's easily disturbed in his mind, but I know I says to myself that first day, 'If I was ten year younger, young lady, they'd never lug you back east again.' Gee, man! There was a time when I'd have pulled the country up by the roots but I'd have had that girl! I notice I don't fall in love so violent as the years roll on. I can squint my eye over the cards now and say, 'Yes, that's a beautiful hand, but I reckon

Oakwood, the Hub of Mariposa Demise of a Venerable Citizen

Mr. David King Passed Away Sunday, Aged 91 Years---Censure for the Hockey Boys, Who Were Too Noisy---Many Visitors Coming and Going.

The death of our oldest, and one of our most respected citizens took place on Sunday morning last, when Mr. David King passed away at the advanced age of 91 years and 5 months. Mr. King had lived here for over seventy years, and was one of the earliest settlers. His wife predeceased him a few years ago. He leaves six children to mourn his loss, his daughters being Mrs. Woodward, of Cannington, Mrs. Murphy, of Peterboro, and Miss Teuta, who resided at home; his sons are Mr. D. W. King, Mr. W. P. King and Mr. Edward King, all of Oakwood. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. T. Brown, assisted by Elder Hainer, Christian minister, of Little Britain. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Hooper, Robert Dobson, George Lane, Philip S. Mark, William Webster and John Dobson. The funeral was one of the largest in our neighborhood for years.

Miss Mabel Prouse has left our village for Toronto, where she has secured a good position with J. Catto & Son. We are sorry to lose our young ladies.

Miss Nell Brown has resumed her studies at Toronto College of Music.

Mr. James Coad, of Toronto, and Mr. T. Coad, of Lindsay, visited their sister, Mrs. N. Hill, on Saturday last.

Miss Bertha Farley, of Markham, called on friends here recently.

Mr. Thomas James, of Cannington, spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. Geo. Hicks.

Mr. W. Watson, of Stanley Barracks, Toronto, called on friends here last Sunday.

Mr. Ewart Weldon spent Sunday last at his home here.

Mr. Reginald Rennie spent Sunday last at Mr. G. B. Rennie's.

Miss Maude Prouse has gone to Woodville to visit her brother, Mr. J. W. Prouse.

Messrs. S. Washington, A. O. Hogg and Geo. Lane were appointed as delegates to attend the Temperance Convention held in Toronto this week.

Mr. John Emmerson, of Nestleton, spent Sunday last at Mr. S. Washington's.

Mr. Oscar Wakely is spending a few days at his home here.

Miss Ethel Prouse, of the Federal Business College, is at her home ill this week.

Mrs. C. Short and Mrs. N. Hill are still very ill. We wish them all a speedy recovery.

We are glad to see Miss Stella Philp out again after her recent illness, also that Iva Wilson is now improving.

We regret to learn that Mrs. L. Patterson is quite ill with pneumonia.

Quite a number of our young men attended the hockey match in Lindsay on Friday night. We were sorry to learn that some of them came home rather noisy. Boys, do better next time.

Laymen's Movement for Missions Conference Now Being Held Here

Sessions in Cambridge-st. Methodist Church---Inspiring Addresses Delivered Last Evening---Other Meetings and Subjects.

The Layman's banquet, held in the Cambridge-st. Methodist church last evening, was a splendid success, there being about 100 laymen present. The large schoolroom was well filled with attractively laid tables decorated with flowers and silver. The refreshments were served by the ladies of the church, and were most appetizing.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle took the chair and introduced the speakers.

A PROFITABLE ADDRESS.

Mr. C. Keenleyside, B.D., of London, was the first speaker and gave an account of the "Laymen's Movement for Missions." He said at the Student Volunteer Convention in Nashville, Tenn., March, 1906, there were present from three to five thousand young men and women from the Colleges in America. They were nearly all volunteers for service in foreign lands, having consecrated their talents and their lives to further the one supreme object of the Christian church, namely, the making of Christ known throughout the world.

There was also present a prosperous business man of New York, who became intensely interested in the doings of the Convention. As he looked out upon the multitude of earnest, educated men and women, he had a misssion of a like consecration of time and talents on the part of the business men of America for the one object of spreading the good tidings. He was so impressed with the vision of an army of young men and women going down to the firing line, maintained by men at home who would give their time and business talents to the same purpose, that he called a meeting of business men in Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York. They spent the day in prayer and discussion of the problem and came to the deliberate conclusion that new plans must be laid and a new level of missionary offerings reached, if ever the world was to be saved. The outcome was the formation of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, with Prof. J. Campbell as secretary. In one year the movement spread through the States, into parts of Canada, and over into Great Britain.

It is not a new missionary society, to send out missionaries, neither does it raise missionary money. Its aim is to so inspire the business men of christendom, with a view of God's plan for the world, with the needs of the non-christian world, and with a true sense of the slumbering ability of the church, that enough money will be placed at the disposal of the existing church boards that they will be able to send out enough men to make the gospel known to every man, woman and child in this generation. To do this at least $80,000,000 a year must be raised by the Protestant churches, in place of the $20,000,000 now being raised. But inasmuch as there are from thirty to forty millions of Protestant christians, this would not mean over 50c. to 70c. per head per number (per year. This is well within the scope of practical politics.

In Canada the movement has spread with wonderful rapidity. In Toronto the Protestant churches last year raised $140,000 and this year have undertaken to raise $500,000. Hamilton is aiming at $50,000 and London the same, while Brantford is raising $20,000. In each case the amount is over double that of last year. The result in individual churches is even more striking. One church in Toronto has gone up from $200 to $2,000, another from $4,500 to $12,000; one in Hamilton from $90 four years ago to $1,000 this year. Individual church members are being touched in a wonderful way. One man has increased from $1,000 per year to $7,000, and another from $1,000 to $3,000, and multitudes have doubled and trebled their givings.

"INSPIRATION."

Rev. T. E. Egerton Shore, the Assistant Secretary of Foreign Missions, who has had charge of the missionary campaigns in the Methodist church and is active in promoting the Laymen's Movement, spoke on "The Inspiration of Missions". He said that they had not come to Lindsay to coerce the people into support of the missionary enterprise. While missions were under the command of Christ, there was another aspect. Confucius said, "Arbitrary orders are opposed to good government." Mr. Shore contrasted the Russian soldiers going to battle under the necessity of autocratic command, yet lacking patriotism and enthusiasm, with the Japanese, whose marching orders were transferred into letters of blood and fire, and who gave their lives gladly for the love they bore to the cause they represented.

The words of Christ, upon which missions are based, are the great permission, rather than the great commission.

The speaker urged the inspiration of missions from the standpoint of opportunity, ability and example. He said that never was the christian church confronted with such an opportunity as she has to-day in our land and in the heathen world. The doors are open and the nations are inviting the gospel. The christian church is well able to meet all the demands. The present givings are small, yet they have accomplished a vast work. If christians would give as they ought, and as they can, the world might be evangelized in this generation. The speaker told of examples of churches that have this year doubled and trebled their missionary support of previous years.

Mr. Chapman, of London, also made a short speech, showing the manner the movement was progressing in this city. Rev. Mr. Phelps and Mr. Staples also made short speeches.

TO-MORROW'S SUBJECTS.

3 p.m.—Women's Missionary Society; Miss N. M. Miller will preside. Solo, Mrs. Widdess, Address, Mrs. J. B. Willmott, Toronto.

8 p.m.—Chairman, Mr. Wm. Flavelle. Address, "What Women Owe to Christ", Rev. T. E. Egerton Shore, B.D. Solo, Mrs. Blackwell. Address, "Prayer and Missions," Mr. C. B. Keenleyside, B.D.

Narrowly Escaped Another Blockade

Last Night's Snowfall Delayed Toronto and Tied up North Lines.

Again, last night we suffered from another heavy snow storm, six or eight inches of heavy, wet snow falling around town. In some sections of the country — for instance, at Burketon—the fall was as high as fourteen inches. The trains consequently were all late this morning.

The C.P.R. morning flyer for Toronto labored all morning in a snow bank the other side of Dunsford, but reached here at about noon. No further attempt was made, but the plow coming up from Burketon was expected every minute all day.

On the G.T.R. all the northern trains were cancelled, and Mr. Herb. Workman took the mail to the Falls with his fine team of horses early in the afternoon. The other trains were all more or less late, and the mails were not distributed till nearly one o'clock.

The probabilities say colder, with snow flurries.

COMMUNICATIONS

RE LOCAL IMPROVEMENT DEBENTURES.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—At the last meeting of the Town Council Alderman William Jordan asked a very pertinent question —one which brings the methods of financing the affairs of the town into the limelight, and in our judgment a question which not only affects the town as a corporation, but the individual citizen who has a few hundred dollars, for which he is getting the paltry interest of three per cent. from the savings banks. Our Local Improvement debentures are a security of unquestionable merit, and should be offered to our own people, not privately, as stated by the Town Clerk (Mr. Knowlson), but advertised in our local papers in sums of, say, one hundred dollars and upwards, bearing four and a half or five per cent. interest, payable half-yearly. This would give our own people a security at least as good as any bank, and fifty per cent. more interest than the banks pay, also a security that should be convertible into cash at any time.

Such securities are usually sold in large blocks to Toronto brokers, who sell them out again at a good profit. We say, offer these to our own people, giving them a chance to invest their small savings in an absolutely good security, where their interest will come in twice a year, thereby helping them to pay the taxes that the mismanagement of our affairs is making so burdensome.

The Ontario government, in withdrawing the securities of the province from the English market, and offering them to the people of Canada, who took them at once, ought to be good enough precedent for the aldermen of Lindsay to follow. We invite discussion of the above by our financial magnates.—Yours, etc.,

INVESTOR.

MUSIC & DRAMA

"A DOLL'S HOUSE."

The world has come to a clearer understanding of the great Norse dramatist, Dr. Henri Isben, who wrote "A Doll's House", in which Miss Jane Corcoran, under the direction of Arthur C. Aiston, will appear at the Academy of Music, Lindsay, on Monday evening, March 16th.

Twenty years ago Isben's name was unknown in America, and for a number of years after his first play was produced in this country his work was mocked and scorned. Yet at his death a few months ago, in his 79th year, the dramatic critics of the world united in saying that no one since Shakespeare's time had made so strong an impression and left so deep a mark on the stage and its patrons.

"To-day in America, Isben is recognized in his true light", writes Sherman Danby. "It would seem as if the theatre-goer in America has a keener perception, and the ability to discover the true greatness of the man and his works than the people of any other clime." Isben's "A Doll's House", speaks for itself, the characters are so finely drawn and their emotions are so real that everyone acknowledged the technique and remarkable analytical powers of the author.

As Others See It

If you judge a man by the Clothes he wears—as nine out of ten unconsciously do—what then about jewelry? Isn't a man who wears cheap jewelry as surely "labeled cheap" as if the word were written on his forehead?

The touch of refinement that is given by good jewelry—a Gold Watch, a Ring, a Pin or a Diamond, is unmistakeable; and it is the reason why good jewelry should be worn.

We keep only the good kind, and you will find our prices of a modest profit kind.

A Diamond Ring with a stone of fair size may be had from $18 up.

The Shadow Of the Tomb

Mrs. A. B. Musselman.

Seldom has death visited a home under circumstances more sad than those connected with the demise of the beloved wife of Mr. A. B. Musselman, office manager for the Sylvester M'fg Co., town, at the early age of 28 years.

The deceased lady had been ill for a little over a week, and on Wednesday last was believed to be beyond danger, but a sudden reverse occurred which could not be warded off by the physicians in charge. She passed away this morning, surrounded by her sorrowing husband, family and friends.

Mrs. Musselman, whose maiden name was Mabel Alfaretta Kaercher, became the happy bride of Mr. Musselman only a few years ago at New Hamburg, Ont., where her parents reside. She was one of the most popular young ladies of the town, and although only a short time in Lindsay, the qualities which had endeared her to friends elsewhere had already won for her the love and esteem of all who had had the pleasure of forming her acquaintance.

The death of this young mother and the bereavement of the husband and young family of three children, (including an infant girl a week or ten days old) merits, and will call forth the tenderest sympathies of our citizens.

Don't miss the opening of our new story "Red Saunders," in this issue. Read it every night---it will please you and the entire family.

Cause for Alarm.

A young man in Lebanon had been courting a girl for nine years. "Jennie," he said, one evening, "I read the other day that in 50,000 years Niagara Falls would dry up."

Jennie clutched his arm excitedly.

"Why, what's the matter?" he asked.

"Why, you promised to take me there on our bridal trip. Don't you think you had better be a little careful that it does not dry up before we get there?"

The Wrong One.

(Judge.)

Mr. Gunson took two cigars from his pocket, carefully selected one and handed the other to his guest.

"Fine cigars," he remarked, striking a match. "Two for a quarter."

The guest puffed a light into his cigar and blew a cloud of smoke into the air.

"Two for a quarter?" he asked.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gunson proudly.

"Sorry I didn't get the twenty cent one," remarked the guest sadly.

Red Saunders

I'd better stay out,' and lay 'em down without a sigh, whereas when I was a young feller if I had three aces in sight I'd raise the rest of the gathering right out of their foot leather—or get caught at it. Usually I got caught at it, for a man couldn't run the mint long with the kind of luck I have.

"Well, I was plumb disgusted with the fool way I'd rigged myself up, but, fortunately for me, Darragh, the station man, came out with the girl. 'There's Reddy, from your ranch, now, ma'am,' says he, and when he caught sight of me: 'What's the matter, Red? Are the Injuns up?'

"Darragh was a serious Irishman, and that's the mournfulest thing on top of the globe, and, besides, he believed anything you'd tell him. There ain't any George Washington strain in my stock, so I proceeded to get out of trouble.

"'They ain't up exactly,' says I, 'but it looked as if they were a beetle on the rise, and, being as I had a lady to look out for, I thought I'd play safe.'

"The color kind of went out of the girl's cheeks. Eastern folks are scandalous afraid of Injuns.

"'Perhaps I'd better not start?' says she.

"'Don't you be scart, miss,' says Darragh. 'You're all right as long as you're with Red—he's the toughest proposition we've got in this part of the country.'

"'I'm obliged to you, Darragh,' says I. He meant well, but hell's full of them people. I'd have given a month's wages for one lick at him.

"I stepped up to her, with my hat in my hand. 'Miss Andree,' says I (she was Jonesy's sister's child). 'If you come along with me I'll guarantee you a safe journey. If any harm reaches you it will be after one of the liveliest times in the history of the territory.'

"At this she laughed. 'Very well,' says she, 'I'll chance it, Mr. Red.'

"'His name ain't Red,' puts in Darragh, solemn. 'His name's Saunders. We call him Red because of his hair.'

"'I'm sure I beg your pardon,' says Miss Loys, all of a fluster.

"'That's all right, ma'am. No damage done at all,' says I. 'It's useless for me to try to conceal the fact that my hair is a little on the auburn. You mustn't mind what Darragh says. We've had a good deal of hot weather lately and his brains have gone wrong. Now hop in and we'll touch the breeze.' So I piled her trunk in, and away we flew.

"Bud and Dandy were a corking little team. They'd run the whole distance from the railway to the ranch if you'd let 'em—and I never interfered. A straight line and the keen jump hits me all right when I'm going some place, although I can loaf with the next man on occasion. So we missed most of the gulleys.

"I stepped up to her, with my hat in my hand."

"The ponies were snorting and pulling grass, the buckboard bouncing behind 'em like a rubber ball, and we were crowding into the teeth of the northwest wind, which made it seem as if we were traveling 100 per cent better than a Dutch clock would show.

"'Goodness gracious,' says the girl, 'do you always go like this in this country? And aren't there any roads?'

"'Why, no,' says I. 'Hike!' and I snapped the blacksnake over the ponies' ears, and they strung themselves out like a brace of coyotes, nearly pulling the buckboard out from under us. 'Sometimes we travel like this,' I says. 'And as for roads, I despise 'em. You're not afraid, are you?'

"'Indeed I'm not. I think it's glorious. Might I drive?'

"'If I can smoke,' says I, 'then you can drive.' I'd heard about young women who'd been brought up so tender that tobacker smoke would ruin their morals or something, and I kind of wondered if she was that sort.

"'That's a bargain,' says she prompt. 'But how you're going to light a cigar in this wind I don't see.'

Engagement Must Be Certified To by Priest or Two Laymen

Important Announcement Read at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday---An Ordinance That is Causing Much Discussion.

Peterborough Review, Monday: At the masses of St. Peter's cathedral Sunday Rev. Father McColl read a papal decree that has caused considerable talk in the city, especially among those of the Catholic faith. It was to the effect than an engagement to be recognized by the Catholic church as canonical must be certified by the parties thereto signing in the presence of the Bishop or a priest or in the presence of two laymen, to that effect. Otherwise, the church will not recognize the engagement as such.

This ordinance is for the purpose of preventing the numerous and embarrassing misunderstandings which have arisen regarding so-called engagements where the church has been asked to interfere.

To obviate this the above precaution has been ordained.

The announcement is being widely discussed to-day, but of course it is impossible to state how many persons will be affected.

FARM NOTES

CANADIAN APPLES IN ENGLAND.

"Market Conditions in Great Britain," was the subject of an address by Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, Ottawa, before the last convention of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association. He spoke in part as follows:

Great Britain will take all the first class fruit that Canada has to offer. There is no need to look for other markets. They can handle all of the apples that we can produce. The larger the quantity, the more notice is taken of it. While all dealers in Great Britain are willing to admit that Canadian apples are best, they do not not always give as much for them as for apples from other countries. Canadians are likely to meet new competition. Large quantities of Tasmanian apples are being put on the English markets, and are meeting with favor from dealers and consumers.

"British dealers say that Canadian apples have improved in quality and grade during the past few years. Purchasers have greater confidence in Canadian apples than in American. Our growers should be particular not to misrepresent contents of packages. Apples seldom are sold according to marks on barrels. Merit alone counts. It is a mistake to send packages wrongly marked.

"In respect to selling apples by the auction system, would say that, personally, I would prefer to sell f.o.b. to consigning, although good sales often are made on consignment. It is better to consign to the large centres rather than to inland points, as there is greater competition."

Pears and tomatoes can also be shipped successfully to Great Britain although the latter is rather difficult to transport in cold storage.

Mr. Ruddick referred also to the canned fruit trade, and mentioned its possibilities. There is a good market for canned apples, but only one variety should be placed in a can. The demand for raspberry pulp is large. England will take large quantities of cider. The average price is 17 cents a gallon, and the freight four cents. Growers can determine for themselves whether or not the industry would be profitable.

TO DIAGNOSE ANTHRAX.

A suspected case of anthrax (charbon) the diagnosis can be positively confirmed by microscopic examination. A few drops of blood, placed on a clean piece of notepaper, if allowed to thoroughly dry in the air before folding, will furnish sufficient material for diagnostic purposes.

In suspected cases of black-leg, (charbon symptomatique), the bloody serum from an affected portion of the animal, prepared in the manner above indicated for anthrax, will furnish material for positive diagnosis.

Where it is impossible to exclude either of the diseases above mentioned, and it is probable that death is due to one or the other, the placing of a small amount of blood in an equal amount of pure glycerine will enable a positive laboratory diagnosis. A drachm of this blood-glycerine preparation is all that is required.

Anthrax bacilli are always abundant in the blood of animals dying from the disease. The bacilli of the black-leg are found in small numbers only, but are sufficiently numerous to infect experimental animals.

Glycerine prevents growth of putrefactive bacteria, but does not effect the spores of either anthrax or black-leg. Full information concerning history, clinical symptoms, etc., should be given.

All specimens should be addressed to the Biological Laboratory at Ottawa, Ont.

RABIES.

An animal suspected of being affected with rabies (hydrophobia) should, if possible, be captured alive, placed in a cage where it can do no harm and watched. If affected with rabies, symptoms will appear within forty eight hours, and death will occur within a few days. No affected animal recovers.

That other causes of death may be excluded, material should be forwarded to the laboratory for a confirmatory diagnosis. If the time necessary for transmission to the laboratory does not exceed twenty-four hours, a portion of the nervous system (brain or spinal cord), the medulla or base of the brain is preferred, may be placed in pure glycerine and forwarded by mail. There should be an excess of glycerine over the bulk of material forwarded.

Full information concerning history, clinical symptoms, etc., should be given, and specimens should be addressed as above.

Specimens not exceeding five pounds in weight, after being securely packed to prevent breakage of the containers or leakage (see Sec. 106 and Sec. 107, page xx, Canada Postal Guide), should be sent by mail. Over five pounds weight should be sent by express.

To Get Best Men For Councillors

Mr. Duff, M.P.P., Has a Bill Which was Defeated When in Opposition.

To secure the best men in the townships of Ontario to serve in the Councils of their respective municipalities, is the worthy aim of Mr. J. S. Duff, M.P.P. for West Simcoe, in a bill which he will introduce in the Legislature as an amendment to the Municipal Act.

"My plan is to have the councillors elected individually," he said this morning. "At the present time the reeve and deputy reeve, if there is one, are elected individually, but the councillors are elected together, those at the head of the polls being the men to take office. Now, I have had a long experience of the working of this system in the township of Essa, where I was on the Council for some fourteen years, and I know that there is altogether too much of the clique voting and 'plumping'. The result is that it is often difficult for even a good man to be elected, and if he is elected, there is always an uncertainty about his remaining long in the Council, for the people in one corner of the township may 'plump' for a certain candidate and run him in.

"If, however, the councillors are elected individually, that is, each candidate run for a definite seat on the Council, as first, second or third councillor, then there can be no plumping, and each candidate will have to stand on his own merits, as he should in this country.

"I feel confident that this system would bring a better class of men into the township Councils, and that would be a very good thing, of course. When the deputation from the Ontario Municipal Association was at the Parliament Buildings last week to lay their demand before the Government, several of them strongly approved of the system of advocating."

Mr. Duff stated that he had introduced the same bill in 1901, and it passed the Municipal committee of the House, but was resurrected by the chairman, Hon. E. J. Davis, and afterwards killed.

"What was the objection to the bill?" Mr. Duff was asked.

"Oh, I guess they didn't want me to get the credit of it. I was in Opposition then, of course."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

JUSTICE CLEMENT IS SEVERE.

Takes British Columbia Sharply to Task About Natal Act.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 26.—Something of a sensation was occasioned yesterday by the outspoken manner in which Justice Clement arraigned the Provincial Government for disloyalty, treason and unCanadianism in connection with the recently enacted Natal Act, directed at the exclusion of Japanese.

The unusual comment was embodied in his lordship's judgment in the full court, dismissing an appeal from the chief justice's decision that the act is ultra vires of the Legislature. Justices Irving and Morrison concurring with Justice Clement. After sketching the relative jurisdictions of Dominion and province, Justice Clement said:

"No doubt honest differences may exist as to where the line is drawn by the B.N.A. Act, or as to which side of the line a particular matter may fall upon, but to suggest doubt where no real doubt exists, and particularly as to matters apt to inflame, is not to be commended. Such a matter we have here. This matter of Japanese immigration has been dealt with properly, that is to say, constitutionally, by the Parliament of Canada, and I must say it smacks strongly of disloyalty to our settled form of Government, when the authorities of one province undertake to override and render abortive the will of the people of Canada."

Is 105 Years Old.

Quebec, Feb. 26.—One hundred and five years old and still enjoying good health, Mme. Emilie Voinine, widow of the late Antoine Tremblay, one of the pioneers of the parish of Hebertville, Lake St. John district, may with all likelihood lay claim to being the oldest woman in the Province of Quebec. She was born at St. Denis, County of Kamouraska, in June, 1803.

Three Perished In Flames.

Brainard, Minn., Feb. 26.—Despatches to the Minneapolis and International Railroad offices bring news that three persons, a servant girl, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Owens, and a brother of Mrs. Owens, perished Monday night in a fire in a store building at Briers, a town near here. Mr. and Mrs. Owens were badly burned.

Marconi Hopeful.

London, Feb. 26.—Signor Marconi, in the course of a lengthy address to the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce on "Telegraphy Through Space and Some of Its Commercial Applications," said in about four months, when the latest apparatus was installed, they would be able to deal with at least 20,000 words a day.

Boy Played With Dynamite.

Madoc, Feb. 26.—The six-year-old son of William Tennison of Madoc Township had some dynamite caps in his coat pocket, and one of them exploded, injuring the thumb and fourth finger of one of his hands so badly that amputation was necessary.

Arbitrate Wage Dispute.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The Southern Railway Co. having failed in its efforts to reach an agreement with its employes in the matter of a reduction in their wages, has called upon the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Bureau of Labor to mediate under the Erdman Act.

Kicked by a Horse; Killed.

Brockville, Feb. 26.—While leading a spirited colt to water, Master Willie Hunt, a lad of 10 years, living near Huntly, received a kick in the abdomen, receiving injuries from the effects of which he died.

Smallpox Scare.

Kingston, Feb. 26.—There is alarm in Sydenham over smallpox, which has broken out in eight houses. The places are quarantined and hundreds are being vaccinated.

Saw Bull Fight.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 26.—Ten thousand spectators, more than half of whom were officers and men of the American fleet, witnessed a thrilling fight here yesterday afternoon.

A Little Ball.

Cassidy—Ah, well, no wan kin prevint w'at's past an' gone. Casey—Ye could if ye only acted quick enough. Cassidy—Go 'long, man! How could yer? Casey—Stop it before it happens.

Singular Coincidence.

In 1884, just after Commodore Schley returned from rescuing the survivors of the Greely arctic expedition, the Massachusetts Humane society presented him with a handsome medal for his achievement, and Benjamin W. Crowninfield, one of the Bay State's great orators, was sent to Washington to make the presentation speech. On the way to the capital Mr. Crowninfield fell in with an old and prominent resident of Boston, who took the privilege of asking the orator what his mission in Washington was. In reply the old gentleman was shown the medal and told what was to be done with it.

"Strange coincidence," mused the venerable gentleman from the Hub. "Forty-four years ago, in 1840, I rode over this same line and met General Winfield Scott. I was as inquisitive then as now and asked him where he was going. He said that a son of his friend, Mr. Schley, had been named for him and that he was going to Maryland to see the baby. Nearly half a century is past, and now I find you going to Washington to carry a medal to the man that General Scott visited when the man was an infant."

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—Receipts of live stock up to 2 p.m. on Tuesday, as reported by the railways, were 77 carloads, composed of 1318 cattle, 828 hogs, 524 sheep and lambs, and 75 calves.

Exporters.

There was nothing doing in the export line, excepting a few bulls, which sold at lower quotations, from $3.50 to $4.25 per cwt.

Butchers.

Out of 1318 cattle on sale there were only 16 that were reported as selling at $5 or over; loads of good, $4.65 to $4.85, and there were few of this class; medium, $4.25 to $4.50; common, $3.75 to $4; good cows, $3.50 to $4; medium cows, $3 to $3.50; common cows, $2.50 to $3.

Milkers and Springers.

Altho there was a large number of milkers and springers on sale, the bulk of them were of common to medium quality, and these sold at lower quotations. There was a good demand for good quality cows. The best four cows on the market sold at $50 each, and 38 others were quoted at $40 to $50 each. This goes to show that the best sold at fair prices. Common to medium cows sold all the way from $30 to $40 each, and inferior at $25 to $30 each.

Veal Calves.

The good prices paid last week had the effect of fetching in a lot of trashy, inferior calves that sold at lower prices, but good quality calves were in excellent demand. Inferior to common sold at $3 to $4.50 per cwt.; good at $5.50 to $6.50, and prime new milk-fed calves at $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes, $4 to $4.75 per cwt.; yearling ewes and wethers sold at $5 to $5.25 per cwt.; rams, $3.60 to $4; lambs at $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.; picked ewe and wether lambs at $7 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted the market easy at $5.15 for selects, fed and watered, and $4.90 at country points, f.o.b. cars, as the ruling prices.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 25.—Cattle — Receipts, 150 head; steady; steers, $5.60 to $5.85.

Veals—Receipts, 100 head; active and 25c lower; $5 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 7700 head; active and 5c to 10c higher; heavy and mixed, $4.70 to $5.76; Yorkers, $4.65 to $4.75; pigs, $4 to $4.60; roughs, $3.90 to $4.10; dairies, $4.55 to $4.70.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 3400 head; sheep, active and steady; lambs slow and 20c higher; lambs, $5 to $7.50.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Beeves — Receipts, 1600; feeling steady; exports to-day, 600 cattle and 20 sheep; to-morrow, 873 cattle, 1016 sheep and 7200 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 160; steady; veals, $5 to $9; culls, $4.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 5196; sheep, steady; lambs, quiet and unchanged; sheep, $4 to $5; culls, $2.50; lambs, $7.25 to $7.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 5722; steady for hogs; easier for pigs; quotation, $4.75 to $4.90.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Cattle — Receipts, estimated at about 4000; market quiet; steers, $4.25 to $6.25; cows, $3 to $4.75; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.25 to $4.50; calves, $2.75 to $7; stockers and feeders, $2.75 to $4.90.

TO-NIGHT'S LEAGUE GAMES

To-night's Town League games promise to be of the usual exciting and fast variety. The C. L. S. are billed to play Little Britain, and immediately afterwards the Y. M. C. A. takes the ice against the Bankers. The teams surprised one another, and even the many spectators, last week, and maybe this week will show up still better. The temperature is not too low for one to be comfortable while watching the game, and the excitement at every game so far has been intense.

THE HOBO LEAGUE.

The first game in the "Hobo League" was played last night between "Hi Henri" Meehan's "Sugar Shakers" and "Hank" Mallon's "River Hogs", resulting in a win for the Hogs by a score of 3-1. The game, which was played between seven and eight, was in reality the event of the season opening, as it does, that hair-raising and side-splitting series of games known as the "Hobo League", in which, as in love and war, all is fair.

A number of players of the league have taken up that golden rule motto, "Do unto others as you suspect they would do unto you, and do it first". The play resulting from the free use of this motto, has always, as it did last night, proven highly interesting and exceedingly exciting. The reason the game was played last night between seven and eight, was that the contestants feared that if played in public, and at a more convenient hour, the town sports, their friends and their enemies might so invade the rink that the players would not have enough room on the ice and oxygen in the air to play their usual star game. It was also feared that the Intermediates might be on hand and steal some of the league's latest and most difficult specular stratagems.

The players are on the verge compelling the O.H.A. to bring its rules more up-to-date so as to include the new brand of hockey, combining all the best and most spectacular and dangerous points in the old-time shiney and the hockey of the present day. Last night's game was certainly A1 in this respect.

The Sugar Shakers have downed their opponents for the last couple of years and feel confident, that with their old team back in place, they can put the hook on the "Hogs."

The line-up was;

Odds and Ends of Sport

CANADA TO THE FORE.

Cleveland Leader; "When a Cleveland crowd saw crack skaters from New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo and other American cities beaten in every race last Saturday by a Toronto lad, while another Canadian from the same place was the winner's swiftest rival, the result seemed largely a matter of climate. There is more ice in Canada than there is in the United States. The point is that the Canadians do what might be expected of them in winter sports — and a little more. Then, to prove that it is not all a question of climate, they go out in the summer and made a splendid showing in rowing and yachting, golf and lacrosse. They are not bad at baseball. They have won more honors in recent years years than this country, where they are fifteen times as many people to pick athletes from, in long distance running. Clearly, it can't be all climate"

DAVID HARTLEY WALKING

Hoagland, Auburn, N. Y.; Tom Slater, Syracuse, N. Y.; David Hartley, Peterboro, Ont.; Lightfoot West, an Indian, Oklahoma; H. Norton, Newcastle, England; and J. E. Blake, Columbus, Ohio.

In Stratford they grow hockey players as in no other place in the world. They again have teams in the O. H. A. finals, senior and junior.

Six trainmen have been dismissed for swearing. It is understood they were merely trying to melt the snowdrifts with a little warm language.

The American Olympic team will number 78 in all Manager Halpin and his bunch will sail June 27th on the S. S. Philadelphia. The Stadium events will open on July 13th.

Talk about your frenzied finance, but this proposition has them all beaten; "Does a score of 2 to 0 win a wager for a man who has bet his team would double the score?" Kindly send in your answers, written on one side of the paper only.

Eddie Durnan, of Toronto, has called the following defi, to William Webb, of Australia; "Will row you for world's championship and $1,500 side bet in New Zealand, November, or Toronto, September. Give or take £150 expenses, or on Thames, each man pay own expenses.

MORE WIRE FENCES NEEDED

Mr. James Farrelly, owner of E. qr. 20, con. 8, addressed the Council, and said that for several years past he had been taking down his fence to prevent drifting on the road, and did not ask or receive anything for his work removing and rebuilding the fence. He therefore felt that he was entitled to a fence bonus, and if he received it would build 120 rods of wire fence next summer.

Mr. Wilson, commissioner, read a list of persons who had applied to him for fence bonuses to the amount of $160, and as the usual appropriation for wire fences to each commissioner is only $100, he could not promise a bonus to all seeking it. He knew that Mr. Farrelly's road needed a wire fence, but it was impossible for him to pay the required bonus for it, and others asked for, unless the Council increased the appropriation. He desires to treat everyone alike and to bonus fences where most needed, as far as his money would permit.

The Reeve said the more wire fence, the less snow-shovelling, and the more statute labor saved for the roads. He thought it might be best to increase the grant for fence bonus and lessen the road grants, while the Council as a whole desired to bonus wire fencing as much as possible. Every member was of opinion that the road appropriations could not be lessened much, as past experience had proved that the demand for road repairing exceeded the appropriations made. The matter of increasing the wire fence appropriation was therefore left over for further consideration.

SUNDRY MATTERS

The auditors' report was next submitted, and on motion of Messrs. Coulter and O'Loughlin, it was received and fyled, and orders issued for payment of the auditors $7 each.

Moved by Mr. Coulter, seconded by Mr Wilson, that the clerk forward to Geo. Smith, esq., township engineer, a copy of the petition of John A. Bell and others, praying that a drain or ditch be constructed in South Ops, and to request that the engineer report thereon, as required by the Drainage Act.—Carried.

In committee of the whole, the Council examined and passed the following accounts, and orders were issued in payment of the same on motion of Messrs. Wilson and Hawkins;

One-third of cost of swing bridge ...	$1083.03
Stewart & O'Connor, legal services in county valuation ...	100.00
Stewart & O'Connor, services S. bridge ...	69.00
Stewart & O'Connor, general account ...	11.00
McLennan & Co., for road scraper ...	7.50
Geo. Griffin, balance on gravel ...	3.50
Wm Smith, wood for Osborne family ...	6.00
Jos. Brown, provisions for Osborne family ...	3.14
Melville Dunlop, qr. beef for Osborne family ...	5.00

On motion of Messrs. Hawkins and O'Loughlin the Council adjourned till Monday, March 23rd next, when pathmasters, fenceviewers and poundkeepers will be appointed.

W. F. O'BOYLE, Clerk.

Broke His Knee Cap.

Last Sunday evening, as the congregation was dispersing after the service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Mr. Andrew Lumsden had the misfortune to slip and fall on the steps leading from the door of the church, and broke his knee cap. Kind friends gathered round, and he was conveyed later to the Ross Memorial Hospital, where he is now under skillful treatment.

There is a great deal of sickness in this locality at present. The principal disease is the whooping cough.

ZION.

(Special to The Post.)

A fine Sunday was greatly appreciated by the people owing to the bad roads recently.

Great excitement was caused throughout the neighborhood Tuesday night, when Mr. Luke Smith's barn was burnt.

The Ladies' Aid was held on the 20th, at the home of Mrs. James, with a large attendance in spite of the bad roads. A number of new members were added to the list. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. S. Broad's, and all ladies are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. John Varcoe has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Hall.

Mr. Charles Broad, of Saintfield, spent Sunday at home.

Overflow Attendance at Academy of Music Last Evening.

Chairs had to be placed in the aisles last night to accommodate late arrivals at the Academy. The building was crowded to the doors, it being estimated that 1100 persons paid admission. The attraction, of course, was John C. Green's great picture entertainment, which had delighted a large audience the evening previous.

As stated in these columns yesterday, Mr. Green conducts what undoubtedly is the greatest moving picture show on the road, and if his booking schedule permitted, could fill the house to its capacity night after night for a week or more. The machine is steady, the views novel and interesting, the descriptive matter well enunciated, and the program pleasantly varied, humor, tragedy and pathos being intermingled.

The pictures shown last night were "The Female Spy" (sensational); "The Miner's Daughter" (dramatic); "Lady's Revenge", (dramatic); "Electric Belt", (comedy); "Simpkins' Saturday Off," (comic); "Sea by Moonlight," (scenic); "Terrible Ted", (comedy); Longboat Race at Montreal; "the Hero," (fire scene;) "What the Milkman Saw" (comic) and several others equally good.

The illustrated songs again gave great satisfaction. They were; "Where the Blue Bells Grow," "Any room in heaven for a little girl like me," "Good bye, Annie Laurie."

To-night will be Mr. Green's last appearance under his present engagement, and as the program will be entirely changed, there will surely be another large audience present.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

RAILWAY TAXATION

Mr. Bowyer Wishes to See Higher Tax Imposed.

HON. MR. MATHESON REPLIES

Discussion on Bill to Supplement Crown Revenues — Ontario Should Follow Example of the United States — Railways Treated Too Lightly Here, Says Bowyer—Several Bills Advanced.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The ready response of Hon. A. J. Matheson to an urgent appeal to consider the question of railway taxation demonstrated in the Legislature yesterday the willingness of the Provincial Government to examine both sides of every question. While the Minister held to his view that it would be unwise to take any radical step suddenly at the present time he invited Mr. P. H. Bowyer (East Kent), who brought forward the question in a vigorous address, to confer with him and gave assurance of the fullest Government consideration.

In these days of subservient partyism in public life a member who has the stamina to differ frankly and openly with his leaders always creates a stir. Consequently the House, which had been more or less sleepily plodding through the order paper, suddenly sat up and began to take notice when Mr. Bowyer unexpectedly proceeded to stir the Government up on the question. The member for East Kent holds advanced views upon this, as upon other questions and he told his leaders he expected from them an increasing of the municipal tax from railways. Mr. Bowyer's remarks were punctuated by repeated applause, and the Provincial Treasurer congratulated him at the close.

It was during the discussion on the Government measure to amend the Supplementary Revenues Act that Mr. Bowyer created his mild sensation.

"I would like to learn," said he, "the Government's intentions on the question of railway taxation, and to urge upon it the advisability of increasing it to a sum more adequate and commensurate with the assessment of the farmers. I am ready," he continued, "to give the Government every credit for what it has done. It was a material advance in the right direction. But last year I was given reason to hope that it would go further. Is this hope to be realized?

"The Dominion Government has already paid to the railways in subsidies something like $181,000,000, besides some 40,000,000 acres of the public domain. Of this sum Ontario's share will reach $14,000,000. This province has done much for the railways. What has it secured in return?

"The present Provincial Government has done something—something material—and I give them credit therefor. But I was given to understand that what had been done was not a finality and I hope for additional good works. (Applause.)

"In Ontario to-day the railways do not pay their just share of taxation. I know they claim that this is a hard year, but the farmers had a hard summer, yet they do not escape their just share of taxation on that account.

"Throughout this province the railways only pay, in both municipal and provincial taxes, $100 per mile. In Michigan they pay $400; in Ohio, $478; in New Jersey, $1,000 and in Massachusetts, $1,500. What is the return? In Ontario we pay a three-cent passenger rate; in the States they only pay two. Besides the railways give the farmers a better freight rate on the other side than they do here.

"Let us take action," concluded Mr. Bowyer warmly, "and I urge the Government to demand and see to it that the railways pay their fair share of the taxes of this province." (Applause.)

Hon. Col. Matheson expressed his appreciation of the earnestness and conciseness with which Mr. Bowyer had made his appeal. It would bear fruit in time. The Government would give the fullest consideration to all he had so ably urged. At the present time, however, and with conditions as they were, coupled with the desire to secure additional railways, he did not think it would be wise to take further action. He commended Mr. Bowyer for the progressive and forceful attitude he had taken on the question, and said the Government would consult with him further.

Mr. Preston (Brant) complimented Mr. Bowyer on holding his party to its pledges. He recalled the enthusiasm of the present Government for the Pettypiece bill, and the manner in which they had instanced the Michigan system in the bye-gone days. In view of it all when they attained power big things were expected, but they had merely doubled the railway taxation.

Mr. Preston said he had no fault to find with what the Government had done, but that instead of carrying out all they had promised, they had all only gone a portion of the way. They, too, now regarded the Michigan system as a species of robbery.

Mr. A. B. McCoig (West Kent) introduced a bill to amend the Municipal Act under which clerks of municipalities are authorized to place the names of non-resident municipal voters on the lists at the polling place nearest where they reside. The bill is designed to avoid the necessity for the issue of an illegal number of certificates, an action which caused the recent annulment of the Raleigh Township elections. The bill was read a first time.

Mr. R. H. McElroy (Carleton) secured the first reading of a bill to incorporate the Ottawa Hunt Club.

In response to a question from Mr. C. N. Smith (Sault Ste. Marie), Hon. Dr. Reaume stated that ten fishing licenses were granted on Lake Nipissing during 1907. They were granted to J. J. Martin, E. J. Weese, Mulligan and Terrance, D. Lang & Son, A. L. Hatch, W. A. Cockburn, John Sullivan, J. R. O'Neil and J. J. Sullivan. Two nets were granted for each license. One licensee had two licenses and the others one and $300 was paid for each license.

Hon. Richard Harcourt desired to know what was the average salary paid to rural teachers in the past three years. The Minister of Education said he would supply the information, adding thereto the average salary in the three years previous.

Mr. P. H. Bowyer (East Kent) moved the second reading of his bill, asked for by the Kent County Council extending the powers of municipal councils in drainage matters, and providing that farmers and land owners must be consulted by engineers who are building drains through their property. Mr. Bowyer warmly championed the matter.

Mr. McDougal (Ottawa) took exception to the bill. It would make drainage work more long-drawn-out and expensive. "If the engineer has to stop and consult with every farmer through whose property the drain runs and listen to complaints," Mr. McDougal said, "he will never get through. I don't see the necessity of it. The engineer is best able to judge."

"Clause two should carry if nothing else," observed Hon. Mr. Hanna, and the bill was passed.

Mr. McMillan (Glengarry) wanted to know how many cases had been tried by Drainage Referee Henderson and what expense had been incurred over and above his salary.

Hon. Mr. Foy said there were two drainage referees, the senior being Col. J. B. Rankin, K.C., of Chatham. He would make the returns for both.

The presentation of bills to amend the Assessment Act by Messrs. Mahaffy (Muskoka) and Ferguson (Grenville) for second readings, prompted a statement from the Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. Whitney, that it was not desired, unless found absolutely necessary, to tamper with the Assessment Act at the present session.

Mr. Hoyle's bill to amend the Landlord and Tenant Act went to the legal committee, Mr. Auld's bill to amend the Drainage Act to the municipal committee, and Mr. Hoyle's bill to amend the Line Fences' Act to the agricultural committee.

One Government bill was introduced by Hon. Dr. Reaume to amend the Game and Fisheries Act. The amendment permits the keeping of game, under ordinary conditions, for fifteen days after the close of the open season, and makes the keeping of game in cold storage for an indefinite period, legal.

A Metaphor With a History.

To "know a hawk from a hernshaw" is a metaphor with a curious history. It is a comparison drawn from falconry. "Hernshaw" is a corruption of "heronshaw," or young heron, a bird which was a common prey of the falcons. To know a hawk from a hernshaw is therefore to be able to distinguish the falcon from its prey. A further colloquial corruption crept into the phrase, "to know a hawk from a handsaw," a form used by Hamlet in one place. Possibly the distinction between a hawk and a hernshaw was found not to be strong enough for the purposes of the proverb.—Manchester Guardian.

An Inconsiderate System.

"Why don't we take an express train?" asked the sweet young thing of her escort at a subway station.

"This isn't an express station," explained her escort kindly.

"How tiresome!" exclaimed the s. y. t. "They ought to have express trains at every station!"

HOW WOMEN SLAVE

Hardships of Seamstresses in London Sweat Shops.

GET STARVATION WAGES

Pawn Material Given Them For Shirt-making In Order to Get Food—Live Principally on Weak Tea—Work Night and Day For Mere Pittance—Another Tom Hood Wanted in the Metropolis.

New York, Feb. 27—The Herald has received the following cable despatch from London: In an interview yesterday Mr. J. J. Mallon, secretery of the National Anti-Sweating League, cited a number of instances of sweating which had recently come to his notice. Appalling cases, he says, are continually occurring in factories and in homes, particularly in the cheap tailoring trade.

A terrible story has just been told to a coroner in the East End. A trousers finisher created a sensation in court by saying that she got two pence a pair. She had often worked until 4 o'clock in the morning to get a crust of bread. She had to fetch her work and take it back again.

An officer of the Anti-sweating League had found that a trouser worker labored very often from daybreak until she no longer was able to see the garment upon which she was engaged and she earned five shillings a week. When food was lacking she sustained herself entirely upon weak tea, which she sometimes drank to the extent of fourteen cups a day. At night her covering was the trousers which were being finished. With much plying of the needle the worker's hands had become misshapen.

Shirt-making is equally as bad in some of its branches, and in Woolwich cheap shirts are made for as little as sixpence a dozen. Again and again one hears of poor seamstresses who have pawned the material given them for shirt-making to get food.

"In homes in East London there are a number of comparatively small trades in respect to which there is much sweating. The brushworker for filling a thousand holes with bristles, which she has first to pack into appropriate bundles and then secure with wire, gets sixpence halfpenny.

The bill against sweating which the league has been promoting has passed its second reading in the Commons and will probably become law this year.

WAS REPUBLICAN PLOT.

Intended to Seize Government After Murder of King Carlos.

Lisbon, Feb. 27.—The mystery behind the murder of King Carlos and Prince Luiz is not likely ever to be completely lifted. The new Portuguese Government prefers that the crime should be regarded both at home and abroad as the deed of individuals carried away by the political passions of the moment.

The connection between the Republicans and the regicides is difficult to establish. The disclaimers of leaders like Bernardino Machado must be accepted so far as the "peaceful wing" is concerned, but this cannot be said of the advanced or Radical wing, as there is plenty of evidence that they had planned a rising on the night of the crime.

Signals to the ships in the harbor and the barracks on the slope of St. George's Hill were shown toward midnight from the roof of the national library, and bands of men went to the barracks of an artillery and infantry regiment, which were to join in the proclamation of a republic. The signals brought no responses, and the doors of the barracks were found locked.

The entire conspiracy fell through, it is related, because of the treason of a young lieutenant, who, after the assassination of the King, confessed to his father, an officer, the role he was to play. The young man claimed that he had been deceived, as he did not know regicide was contemplated, having been led to suppose that only the life of the dictator was to be taken.

ALCOHOL FOR DRUGS

Should Be Cheaper to Ensure Purity in Manufacture.

RESOLUTION IN THE HOUSE

Minister of Revenue Says Farmers Must Grow More Potatoes — Immigration Figures—Hon. Mr. Lemieux Explains the New Postal Arrangements—Keep Out Undesirable U.S. Newspapers.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—The order paper was cleared of several pages of questions at yesterday's sitting of the Commons, most of them relating to land transactions in the west and contracts in the east.

There was also a talk on alcohol precipitated by Mr. Bole of Winnipeg, president of the drug trust, who moved for a commission to look into the question of cheapening alcohol for the manufacture of drugs. Incidentally, the subject of pure alcohol for industrial purposes was introduced into the debate, and the Minister of Inland Revenue made the statement that until Canadian farmers can produce potatoes for eight to ten cents a bushel, they cannot expect to get pure alcohol for 20 cents a gallon.

Mr. Miller of South Grey renewed his plea of last session in favor of the cheapening of denatured alcohol, and advocated the establishment of a denaturing plant in Toronto.

Mr. Robitaille contended that the present protection on alcohol amounted to about 10 per cent. Owing to the high price of grain alcohol, methylated spirits was being used, unfortunately, in the preparation of drugs and essences.

The Minister of Inland Revenue said the motion called for practically alcohol for pharmaceutical and medicinal purposes. This was an entirely distinct proposition from that of denatured alcohol. The real difficulty in regard to the former was that after the medicinal preparations were put up from alcohol, they went out into general use beyond the jurisdiction of the department. The use of duty free alcohol was not permitted in England, Germany or in the United States. It was impossible to permit the several thousand druggists in Canada to use alcohol free in the preparation of their productions.

Certainly, Mr. Templeman declared, the Government could not consent to the appointment of a commission.

Mr. Perley congratulated the Minister upon resisting the demand of his followers, from Winnipeg, for pure alcohol for patent medicine purposes. Some of these men, so strong on alcohol that they were used by some people in lieu of spirits, for drinking. The question of denatured alcohol for industrial and other uses, was so important, he regretted it had been mixed up with the subject of the resolution. It was important that the farmers of the country should get cheap alcohol for machine fuel.

Mr. Templeman feared that it would be long before alcohol could be produced in Canada cheaply enough to compete with petroleum. In Germany there was a duty on petroleum and potatoes for distillation were produced for eight to ten cents per bushel. Until Canadian farmers could raise potatoes at that price, we could not expect to get alcohol for 20 cents a gallon.

The resolution was passed as amended by the Minister, an investigation to be made by the Department.

Mr. Monk was informed that during the period ended June 30, 1907, there entered Canada 105,512 immigrants via ocean ports, and 211,850 from the United States. Of the former 211 were refused admission and 126 deported. Of those from the United States three were refused admission and one deported.

Sir Frederick Borden replied that no Ross rifles had been reported unfit or unserviceable except in the case of accident, which was the result of its being tampered with. Last year the rifle had been suspended by the Northwest Mounted Police, so the police could be armed with the improved pattern. At present the force was armed with 804 Winchester carbines, 20 Lee-Enfields and 204 Lee-Metfords. The force would yet be armed with the Ross rifle.

Mr. Armstrong of Lambton, on a motion for correspondence respecting the recent changes in newspaper postage, censured the Postmaster-General for having maintained the high postal rates on weekly papers while arranging to have dailies carried to addresses in the United States at the former low rate of postage. He argued that no better immigration literature could be sent into the United States than the Canadian weekly papers.

Mr. Lemieux explained at length the present arrangement, declaring that unless Canada would consent to allow into the country a class of publications that was undesirable it would be impossible to give for Canadian weeklies going into the United States the benefits of the old rates of low postage.

Mr. Lefurgey and Mr. Martin (Prince Edward Island) criticized the arrangement as unreasonable, and a reflection upon the business methods of the Department. Finally the motion for the correspondence was adopted.

A Surplus at Belleville.

Belleville, Feb. 27.—The waterworks system of this city, which is a municipal utility, has just been shown by the auditor's report, now in press, to have made a net profit of $2,874.41 in 1907, after paying running expenses and providing for interest and sinking fund.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

Redistribution of Seats Will Be Made in Near Future.

Montreal, Feb. 27.—It is understood that the session which opens in Quebec on Tuesday next, will be of considerable importance. It is said that a redistribution bill will be introduced, by which the number of members will be increased.

At Confederation the number of members was placed at 65, and this was increased by Premier Mercer's redistribution measure to 73. It is believed that the County of Hochelaga, which has a population of 50,000 and one member, will be given three representatives by the coming bill, and that the County of Pontiac will also be given two members, as that constituency is like a great province by itself.

It is thought, however, that La Prairie and Napierville will be joined together as they are for federal representation, and there is also a report to the effect that the Magdalene Islands, with only 500 voters, will be again tacked on to the County of Gaspe, as was the case before the last gerrymander.

Several private bills will also be introduced, amongst others one by Mr. Langlois, M.P.P. for St. Louis, who wants the people to elect their school commissioners here in Montreal, as they do in Toronto and other cities. This measure, however, may be fought by both the Catholic and Protestant clergy and will, perhaps, be thrown out. The statement is also made that the close of the coming season will be followed by the dissolution of the Legislature.

CONTROL OF THE CONGO.

British Parliament Wants to Have It Transferred—Powers May Act.

London, Feb. 27.—The House of Commons, after a short debate, adopted a resolution asking the Government to "do all in its power to secure the transfer of the control of the Congo Independent State, and failing such transfer within reasonable time, assuring the Government of Parliament's hearty support of any measures that it might be necessary for the British Government to take, either alone, or in conjunction with the powers that signed the Berlin Act, to ensure the effective carrying out of its provisions."

Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in a speech sympathizing with the terms of the resolution, repudiated, on behalf of the Government, to establish political or territorial terms, or doing anything directed against the Belgian people. No transfer, he said, would be satisfactory unless it gave the Belgian Parliament a free hand and full control.

It would be impossible for Great Britain to take the initiative, while the discussion on the Congo question was pending between King Leopold and his people, "but," he added, "this Government will always welcome the co-operation of the other powers and if, at the close of the Belgian Parliamentary session, we have to deal with the existing Government of the Congo unchanged, we must be free to deal with the questions arising out of our own treaty rights in our own way."

Earl Percy, on behalf of the Opposition, expressed approval.

MUST HAVE CERTIFICATES.

Steps Taken to Check Undesirable Emigration to Canade.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—The Minister of the Interior, after consultation with the officials of the immigration branch, both in this country and in London, have taken steps which will, it is believed, result in preventing the influx from the British Isles during the present year of any immigrants other than those of a desirable class.

Investigation has shown that the least desirable class of immigration which we are now receiving from the United Kingdom is that which results from the efforts of the benevolent and charitable societies, and of those who are out of employment in Toronto and other Canadian centres a very large proportion is found to belong to this class.

Under these circumstances the Minister of the Interior has thought it best to order that, after April 15, any person who comes to Canada on assisted passage, through charitable or public funds, will be subject to exclusion from this country, unless he has a certificate from the Canadian immigration authorities in London that he is a suitable settler.

The number sent out by charitable and benevolent societies last year totalled 13,000.

Queen's Narrow Escape.

The Hague, Feb. 27.—Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Henry, her husband, had a miraculous escape from serious injury in a carriage accident near the palace yesterday. The prince was driving the carriage in which Her Majesty was also seated. In a narrow part of the road an electric street car, coming at full speed, suddenly collided with the vehicle before the prince could turn out. The carriage was badly wrecked, three wheels being torn off, but neither the Queen nor the prince was hurt.

Trial of Terrorists.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—Ten of the terrorists who participated in the unsuccessful attempt made in this city last week to kill Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaivitch and M. Chthcheglovitoff, the Minister of Justice, are to be placed on trial to-day before a military court in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. The alleged offence is punishable with death.

Should Copy Canada.

London, Feb. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster has urged the Government to adopt the Canadian method as a solution of the education controversy.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

. . . By . . .

HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY

"'Cigarette,' says I. 'And if you would kindly hold my hat until I get one rolled I'll take it kind of you.'

"'But what about the horses?' says she.

"'Put your foot on the lines and they'll make. That's the main and only art of driving on the prairie—not to let the lines get under the horses' feet. All the rest is just sit still and look at the scenery.'

"She held my hat for a windbreak, and I got my paper pipe together. And then—not a match! I searched every pocket. Not a lucifer. That is more of what I got for being funny and changing my clothes. And then she happened to think of a box she had for traveling and fished it out of her grip.

"'Young lady,' I says, 'until it comes to be your bad luck—which I hope won't ever happen—to be very much in love with a man who won't play back you'll never properly know the pangs of a man that's got all the materials to smoke with except the fire. Now, if I have a chance to do as much for you some time I'm there.'

"She laughed and crinkled up her eyes at me. 'All right, Mr. Saunders. When that obdurate man disdains me I'll call for your help.'

"'The place for the man that would disdain you is an asylum,' says I. 'And the only help I'd give you would be to put him there.' She blushed real nice. I like to see a woman blush. It's a trick they can't learn.

"But I see she was put out by my easy talk, so I gave her a pat on the back and says: 'Don't mind me, little girl. We fellers see an eighteen carat woman so seldom that it goes to our heads. There wasn't no offense meant, and you'll be foolish if you put it there. Let's shake hands.'

"So she laughed again and shook. I mean shook. It wasn't like handing you so much cold fish, the way some women shake hands. And Loys and me, we were full pards from date.

"I made one more bad break on the home trip.

"'Jonesy will be powerful glad to see you,' says I.

"'Jonesy?' says she, surprised. 'Jonesy? Oh, is that what you call Uncle Albert?'

"'Well, it does sometimes happen that way,' says I, and then my anti George Washington blood rose again. 'You see, he was kind of lonesome out there at first, and we took to calling him Jonesy to cheer him up and make him feel at home,' I says.

"'Oh,' says she. And I reckon she didn't feel so horribly awful about it, for after looking straight toward the gulf of Mexico for a minute suddenly she bust right out and hollered. It seems that Jones cut a great deal of grass to a swipe when he was back home in his own street. It's astonishing how little of a man it takes to do that in the east. We had an argument once on the subject. 'It's intellect does it,' says Silver Tompkins. 'Oh, that's it, eh?' says Wind River Smith. 'Well, I'm glad I'm not troubled that way. I'd rather have a forty-four chest than a No. 8 head any day you can find in the almanac.' And I'm with Smithy. This knowing so much it makes you sick ain't any better than being so healthy you don't know nothing, besides being square miles less fun. Another thing about the eastern folks is they're so sot in their views, and it don't matter to them whether the facts bear out their ideas or not.

"'Here, take a cigar,' says one of the board of directors to me—a little fat old man, who had to draw in his breath before he could cross his legs—'them cigarettes 'll ruin your health,' says he. Mind you, he was always kicking and roaring about his liver or stummick or some of his works. I'm a little over six foot three in my boots when I stand up straight, and I stood up straight as the Lord would let me and gazed down at that little man. 'Pardner,' says I, 'I was raised on cigarettes. When I was two years old I used to have a pull at the bottle and then my cigarette to aid digestion. It may be conceit on my part,' I says, 'but I'd rather be a wreck like me than a prize fighter like you.' They're queer. You'd think that that little fat man would have noticed the difference without my pointing it out to him.

"Well, I don't have to mention that Loys stirred things up considerable around the Chanta Seechee and vicinity. Gee! What a diving into wannegans and a fetching out of good clothes there was! And trading of useful coats and things for useless but decorating silk handkerchers and things! And what a hair cutting and whisker trimming!

"But Kyle was the man from the go in. And it was right it should be so. If ever two young people were born to make trouble for each other it was Kyle and Loys.

"A nice, decent fellow was Kyle. Nothing remarkable, you could say, and that was one of his best points. Howsomever, he had a head that could do plain thinking, a pair of shoulders that discouraged friveling, and he was as square a piece of furniture as ever came out of a factory. More'n that, he had quite a little education, saved his money, never got more than good natured loaded, and he could ride anything that had four legs, from a sawhorse to old tiger Buck, who would kick your both feet out of the sturrups and reach around and bite you in the small of the back so quick that the boys would be pulling his front hoofs out of your frame before you'd realize that the canter had begun. Nice horse, Buck. He like to eat Jonesy up one morning before Silver and me could get to the corral. Lord, the sounds made my blood run cold! Old Buck squealing like a boar pig in a wolf trap, and Jonesy yelling, 'Help! Murder! Police!' Even that did not cure Jones from sticking his nose where it wasn't wanted. Why, once— But, thunder, it would take me a long while to tell you all that happened to Jones.

"One thing that didn't hurt Kyle any in the campaign was that he was most as good looking for a man as she was for a woman. They made a pair to draw to, I tell you, loping over the prairie full of health and youngness! You wouldn't want to see a prettier sight than they made, and you could see it at any time, for they were together whenever it was possible. Loys was so happy it made you feel like a boy again to see her. She told me in private that it was wonderful how the air out here agreed with her, and I said it was considered mighty bracing and never let on that they proclaimed their state of mind every time they looked at each other. I reckon old Smart Aleck Jonesy was the only party in the township who didn't understand. Kyle used to put vinegar in his coffee and things like that, and if you'd ask him, 'What's that fellow's name that runs the clothing store in town?' he'd come out of his trance and say 'Yes' and smile very amiable to show that he thoroughly admitted you were right.

"Well, things went as smooth and easy as bobsledding until it came time for Loys to be moseying back to college again.

"Then Kyle took me into his confidence. I never was less astonished in my whole life, and I didn't tell him so. 'Well, what are you going to do about it?' says I.

"He kind of groaned and shook his head. 'I dunno,' says he. 'Do you think she likes me, Red?' I felt like saying, 'Well, if you ain't got all the traits but the long ears I miss my guess,' but I made allowances, and says I: 'Well, about that I don't think I ought to say anything. Still, if I had only one eye left I could see plain that her education's finished. She don't want any more college, that girl don't.'

"'Think not?' says he, bracing up. And then by and by they went out to ride, for Jonesy was good to the girl. I'll say that for him. He was willing to do anything for her in reason, according to his views. But Kyle wasn't in them views; he was out of the picture as far as husbands went.

"They came back at sunset, when the whole world was glowing red the same as they were. I reached for the field glasses and took a squint at them. There was no harm in that, for they were well behaved young folks. One look at their faces was enough. There were three of us in the bull pen—Bob and Wind River Smith and myself. We'd brought up a herd of calves from Nanley's ranch, and we were taking it easy. 'Boys,' says I under my breath, 'they've made the riffle.'

"'No,' says they, and then everybody had to take a pull at the glasses.

"'Well, I'm glad,' says Smithy, and darn my buttons if that old hardshell's voice didn't shake. 'They're two of as nice kids as you'd find in many a weary day,' says he. 'And I wish 'em all the luck in the world.'

"'So do I,' says I, 'and I really think the best we could do for 'em would be to shoot Jones.'

"'Man! Won't he sizz?' says Bob. And you can't blame us old codgers if we had a laugh at that, although it was such a powerful serious matter to the youngsters.

"'Let's go out and meet 'em,' says I. And away we went. They weren't a particle surprised. I suppose they thought the whole universe had stopped to look on. We pump handled away and laughed, and Loys she laughed kind of teary, and Kyle he looked red in the face and proud and happy and ashamed of himself, and we all felt loosened up considerable, but I told him on the quiet, 'Take that fool grin off your face unless you want Uncle Jones to drop the moment he sees you.'

"Now, they only had three days left to get an action on them, as that was the time set for Loys to go back to college.

"Next day they held a council behind the big barn, and they called in Uncle Red—otherwise known as Big Red Saunders or Chanta Seechee Red, which means 'Bad Heart Red' in Sioux language and doesn't explain me by a durn sight—to get the benefit of his valuable advice.

"'Skip,' says I. 'Fly for town and get married and come back and tell Jonesy about it. It's a pesky sight stronger argument to tell him what you have done than what you're going to do.'

"They couldn't quite agree with that. They thought it was sneaky.

"'So it is,' says I. 'The first art of war is understanding how to make a grand sneak. If you don't want to take my advice you can wait.' That didn't hit 'em just right either.

"'What will we wait for?' says Kyle.

"'Exercise—and the kind you won't take when you get as old and as sensible as me. You're taking long chances, both of you; but it's just like playing cards, you might as well put all your money on the first turn, win or lose, as to try and play system. Systems don't work in faro nor love affairs nor any other game of chance. Be gone. Put your marker on the grand raffle. In other words, take the first horse to town and get married. Ten chances to one Jonesy will have the laugh on you before the year is out.'

"'I don't think you are a bit nice today, Red,' says Loys.

"'He's jealous,' says Kyle.

"'That's what I am, young man,' says I. 'If I had ten years off my shoulders and a little of the glow off my hair I'd give you a run for your alley that would leave you breathless at the wind up.'

"'I think your hair is a beautiful color, Red,' says Loys. 'Many a woman would like to have it.'

"'Of course they would,' I answered. 'But they don't get it. I'm foxy, I am.' Still, I was touched in a tender spot. That young woman knew just the right thing to say, by nature. 'Well, what are you young folks going to do?' I asked them.

"They decided that they'd think it over until next day, but that turned out to be too late, for what must Kyle do but get chucked from his horse and have his leg broke near the hip. You don't want to take any love affairs on to the back of a bad horse, now you mark me! There was no such thing as downing that boy when he was in his right mind.

"Red, you're a brick. You're the best fellow alive," says Kyle.

"Now, here was a hurrah! Loys, she dasn't cry, for fear of uncle, and Kyle, he used the sinfulest language known to the tongue of man. 'Twas the first time I'd ever heard him say anything much, but he made it clear that it wasn't because he couldn't.

"'What will we do, Red? What will we do?' says he.

"'Now,' says I, 'don't bile over like that, because it's bad for your leg.'

"He cussed the leg.

"'Go on and tell me what we can do,' says he.

"'When you ask me that, you've pulled the right bell,' says I. 'I'll tell you exactly what we'll do. I go for the doctor. Savvy? Well, I bring back the minister at the same time. Angevine, he loses the Jersey cow over in the canebreak, and uncle and Angevine go hunting her, for not even Loys is ace high in uncle's mind alongside that cow. The rest is easy.'

"'Red, you're a brick. You're the best fellow alive,' says Kyle, nearly squeezing the hand off me.

"'I've tried to conceal it all my life, but I knew it would be discovered some day,' says I. 'Well, I suppose I'd better break the news to Loys. 'Twouldn't be any more than polite.'

"'Oh, Lord! I wonder if she'll be willing?' says he.

"'No reason I shouldn't turn an honest dollar on the transaction. I'll bet you a month's wages she is,' says I. He wanted to do it, thinking I was in earnest, but I laughed at him.

"She was willing all right—even anxious. There's some women, and men, too, for that matter, who go through life like a cat through a back alley, not caring a cuss for either end or the middle. They would have been content to wait. Not so Loys. She wanted her Kyle, her poor Kyle, and she wanted him quick. That's the kind of people for me! Your cautious folk are all the time falling down wells because their eyes are up in the air, keeping tabs so that they can dodge shooting stars.

"Now, I had a minister friend up in town, Father Slade by name. No, he was not a Catholic, I think. They called him 'father' because it fitted him. His church had a steeple on it, anyhow, so it was no maverick. Just what particular kind of religion the old man had I don't know, but I should say he was a homeopath on a guess. He looked it. 'Twas a comfort to see him coming down the street, his old face shining in his white hair like a shriveled pink apple in a snowdrift, God blessing everything in sight—good, bad or indifferent. He had something pleasant to say to all. We was quite friends, and every once in awhile we'd have a chin about things.

"'Are you keeping straight, Red?' he'd ask when we parted.

"'Um,' I'd say, 'I'm afraid you'd notice a bend here and there if you slid your eyes along the edge.'

"'Well, keep as straight as you can; don't give up trying, my boy,' he'd tell me, mighty earnest, and I'd feel ashamed of myself clear around the corner.

"I knew the old man would do me a favor if it could be done, so I pulled out easy in my mind.

"First place, I stopped at the doctor's, because I felt they might fix up the marrying business some other time, but if a leg that's broke in the upper joint ain't set right you can see a large dark complected hunk of trouble over the party's left shoulder for the rest of his days. The doctor was out, so I left word for him what was wanted and to be ready when I got back and pulled for Father Slade's. The old gentleman had the rheumatism, and he groaned when I come in. Rheumatism's no disease for people who can't swear.

"'How are you, my boy?' says he. 'I'm glad to see you. Here am I, an old man, nipped by the leg and much wanting to talk to somebody.'

"I passed the time of day to him, but felt kind of blue. This didn't look like keeping my word with the kids. I really hated to say anything to the old man, knowing his disposition; still, I felt I had to, and I out with my story.

"'Dear, dear!' says he. 'The hurry and skurry of young folks! How idle it seems when you get fifty years away from it and see how little anything counts! For all that, I thank God,' says he, 'that there's a little red left in my blood yet, which makes me sympathize with them. But the girl's people object, you say?'

"I made that all clear to him. 'The girl's always all right, father,' says I, 'and as for the man in this case, my word for him.'

"Now, it ain't just the right thing for me to say; but, seeing as I've never had anything in particular to be modest about, and I'm proud of what the old gentleman told me, I'm going to repeat it.

"'Your word is good for me, Red,' says he. 'You're a mischievous boy at times, but your heart and your head are both reliable. Give me your arm to the wagon.'

"Then I felt mighty sorry to think of lugging that poor old man all that ways.

"'Here,' says I. 'Now you sit down again. Don't you do anything of the sort. You ain't fit.'

"He put his hand on my shoulder and hobbled his weight off the game leg.

"'Reddy, I was sitting there thinking when you came in—thinking of how comfortable it was to be in an easy chair with my foot on a stool, and then I thought, "If the Lord should send me some work to do, would I be willing?" Now, thanks be to him, I am willing and glad to find myself so, and I do not believe there's any work more acceptable to him than the union of young folk who love each other. Ouch!' says he as that foot touched the ground. 'Perhaps you'd better pick me up and carry me bodily.'

"So I did it, the old housekeeper following us with an armful of things and jawing the both of us, him for a fool and me for a villain. She was a strong minded old lady, and I wish I could remember some of her talk. It was great.

"We went around and got the doctor.

"'Hoo!' says he. 'Is it as bad as that?' I winked at Father Slade.

"'It's a-plenty worse than that,' says I. 'You won't know the half of it till you get down there.'

"But of course we had to tell him, and he was tickled. Funny what an interest everybody takes in these happenings. He wanted all the details.

"'By Jove,' says he, 'the man whose feelings ain't the least dimmed by a broken leg—horse rolled on him, you said; splintered it, probably—that man is one of the right sort. He'll do to tie to.'

"When we reached the ranch the boys were lined up to meet us. 'Hurry along!' they called. 'Angey can't keep uncle amused all day!'

"So we hustled. Kyle was for being married first and then having his leg set, but I put my foot down flat. It had gone long enough now, and I wasn't going to have him cripping it all his life. But the doctor worked like a man who gets paid by the piece, and in less than no time we were able to call Loys in.

"Wind River Smith spoke to get to [illegible] the bride away, and we let him

There is very little sickness in the village at present, excepting Dr. Cornwall and Mrs. Stephenson, whose conditions are unchanged.

George Williamson's boy had his tonsils successfully operated on by Dr. Sutton, assisted by Dr. Snellgrove.

Large shipments of high class horses, purchased by Williamson & Dancy, went to Toronto on Saturday last. Good prices were paid, from $100 to $200. They are intended for Cobalt mines.

Division court sittings are announced for Tuesday, 10th March. It will be three months before next sitting.

Our new reeve, Griffin, and new councillor, Graham, together with the old councillors, Carey and Rogers, all attended the banquet held Friday evening in Reeve Griffin's new shop. It was largely attended by clergymen and ratepayers, being the first local option banquet. Oranges, apples, cigars, etc., took the place of the oh be joyful. Speeches and music were the order of the evening, and a good time was spent.

Mrs. (Dr.) Rogers, Mrs. Wyle, Miss Clarke and Major Evans visited Toronto last week.

TEMPERANCE VOTE SHACKLED.

The speech of the Hon. A. G. MacKay, Liberal leader in the Legislature, delivered in the house on Monday last, was worthy of a leader of the great Liberal party in this province. His grasp of all public questions, likely to come before the House in its present session, and the views expressed, are those of a true statesman, considering the demands of the banner province of our great Dominion. He does not hedge, but comes our fair and aboveboard in what he considers the wish of the majority of the electorate.

On the three-fifths clause Mr. MacKay said;

"There is another point on which I desire to say a few words, and that is with regard to the three-fifths clause. We, on this side of the House two years ago and last year divided the House on this question. The 'yeas' and 'nays' were taken, and I should have that reasonable indication as to where we were on this question. We hold the view that the majority, and not the minority, should rule. (Cheers). I am not going to trouble the House with more than a passing reference to the argument that this law is such a peculiar one that it needs a strong public sentiment, sixty per cent., behind it. Well, if after the carrying of the act, an effort was made to repeal it 59 per cent. of the vote might be in favor of repeal and 41 per cent. against it, and yet the law, with public sentiment strongly against it, would still be in force. This showed the fallacy of attempting to enforce such a law on any other principle than that of the majority."

Mr. Mackay added; "Public opinion will settle down one way or the other. It will decide whether the law has worked well or not. I say that the question is one which can be fairly decided by the majority of the people."

Government's Reply Was Unfavorable To Strong Temperance Delegation

THREE-FIFTHS CLAUSE WILL STAND IT IS FAIR, SAYS PREMIER WHITNEY

Premier Admitted the Government Felt Timid About Saying Anything Definite, and in Next Breath Said They Were Ready to Throw Down the Guage of Battle and Go Before the People.

(Toronto Star, Wednesday.)

It was not a mere deputation of temperance people which waited on the Ontario Government to-day, but a whole regiment. In numbers the crowd was estimated at from eight hundred to a thousand strong. The majority of them gathered at the Bond-st. Congregational church, and were trolleyed to the scene of action in eight big double-trucked street cars. At the Parliament Buildings this contingent was joined by several hundred others who had gone there independent of the main body.

No room in Ontario's great Hall of Law-making could accommodate the great throng. Old-timers say it was one of the largest that ever darkened the big front doors. They couldn't get any further than the main staircase, and there the Prime Minister and his colleagues came out to meet them. The wide staircase and the main corridor towards the door, the galleries of the first and second floors of the building, and the side stairs were all crowded with the men and women white ribboners. The ridors were blockaded and the business in the rest of the building was practically impossible.

PRESIDENT GBSION SPEAKS.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, president, opened fire for the delegation. He traced the history of the local option improvement, read the assurances of members of the Government last year, told of the victories gained in local option fights, and made his arguments for the repeal of the three-fifths clause at once. He restated many things which were told the Government last year by a similar delegation, and pointed out the application to the present conditions.

"Not only have we reached the standard set by Mr. Hanna," said Mr. Gibson. "But we have done thirty per cent. better than that."

A voice; "And Mr. Hanna should take it up now by repealing the law."

The Provincial Secretary smiled a broad smile.

Mr. Gibson spoke of the repeal of the three fifths clause in Manitoba.

"We have been advised that it is simply a majority vote that carries local option there now—nothing more is needed."

Hon. Mr. Whitney; "There's no doubt about that."

"Then Ontario, which is a much older Province, should have the same chance to get rid of the bar as Manitoba," replied Mr. Gibson.

WANT NO HANDICAP.

Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, chairman of the Reform committee of the Presbyterian church, was the next speaker. He said he represented the united views of the synods of Toronto and Kingston and the Presbytery of Toronto in asking for the repeal of the three-fifths clause and the abolition of the bar.

"And we want no handicap in our campaigns," said Dr. Pidgeon. "No matter what the other side may want, we do not think it is fair and square."

"It's a matter of moral convictions," said Rev. Dr. Carman, General Superintendent of the Methodist church. It is also a matter of tradition, and a matter of patriotism.

"This movement has been strong enough to declare itself in former great political contests. We hope it will not be considered necessary to have it declare itself — perhaps unfavorably — in another political contest.

"We are in politics," continued the venerable superintendent. "We are in politics to stay — in politics as Canadians before God and the people on these great moral issues. We are in the hands of the Government, and the Government is in the hands of the people."

Rev. Dr. Sowerby, representing the Baptist church, said the Dominion Alliance was not prepared to stop at any half-way house in the matter of temperance.

"As a democracy we stand for prohibition ultimately, and nothing less. But I abominate to think that in the opinion of our Provincial Government there is a demand for sixty of our men to equal forty of the other side." (Applause.)

MR. WHITNEY'S REPLY

The Prime Minister was given a generous round of applause when he stepped forward to reply.

"There are two or three reasons why this matter cannot be discussed at great length," said he. "One reason is that this Government cannot do anything for you in the way of total prohibition.

"We then, as a Government, need not talk about prohibition. Put that on one side; it only obscures the situation. There is no use beating our heads against a stone wall, for it will stay there and we will retire.

"I have been somewhat disappointed," said the Prime Minister, "to hear Mr. Gibson so freely quote incidents from the work of saloon abolition in the United States, and so little from that of Great Britain. I am proud to say that I have entire sympathy with the acts of Great Britain in regard to the temperance movement in preference to that of the United States."

"If we are to take some things which have been said as a declaration to make this question a party question, I would be unwise to say anything. I will, however, say two things.

"First, in the church courts, in many cases, a simple majority does not govern. While the three-fifths clause may still be wrong, it is not an unfair thing, nor an unusual thing, or an un-British thing. It is the rule and law wherever local option is in force in all Great Britain."

ALREADY CONSIDERED

The other reason for indefinite sattement, said Mr. Whitney, was the fact that the Government had already carefully considered and given out one statement of policy. The Government was but mortal. It was the duty of the Government to stand by a decision, and not be removed from that position by threats or cajolement.

"As long as this Government or the members of this Government have breath, whether in power or out of power, we are prepared to act in the best interests of the cause of temperance reform.

"Our sympathies parallel, and with every heart beat of yours on this great question, there is a heart beat on the part of this Government. I hope the time will come when everybody with this cause at heart will be working together without scrutinizing each other's viewpoint with a magnifying glass."

"Well, I guess we cannot expect anything from this Government," said one of the delegation.

Mr. Ben. Spence, the secretary, declined to say anything for publication at the present time. It was plainly evident that the leaders felt disappointment.

CHALLENGE OF THE ALLIANCE.

"Resolved, that the delegates to this convention use the franchise for the repeal of the three-fifths clause in reference to Local Option contests."—Adopted by the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance to-day.

REPLY OF HON. MR. WHITNEY.

"We are a little chary about saying anything very definite about this to-day. But I can say that we, too, are in politics. There we will be found too, when the time comes. We are ready to throw down the gage and go before the people to do battle.

"It is altogether possible that we may fail in many respects because we are mortal, but it is our duty to carefully consider a public matter. But, when we have considered it, is it not our duty to stand by it? Is it our duty to be moved by threats? Is it our duty to be moved by cajolement? Whatever else we may be, let me tell you this: As long as this present Government exists, as long as it has the breath of life in it, it will not upon its honest convictions; and we are prepared to take the consequences which our fellow citizens may visit upon us.

"We will take into our consideration everything that has been said bearing on this three-fifths clause."

A promoter is at work on a third company, and he proposes a capitalization of $300,000. All plans call for artificial ice.

Doings at Ottawa Sam's Quick Turn

First Supported a Certain Line of Action, Then Opposed It.

(Globe of Wednesday.)

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The Parliamentary farce which is being played out under the patronage of his Majesty's loyal Opposition developed another phase this afternoon, one that was even more grotesque than any that preceded it. Political obstruction and the abuse of the privileges which attach to the minority could surely be carried no farther than it was today by Mr. Borden and his following when they spent the whole of the afternoon sitting and part of the evening in attacking with concentrated energy and an appearance of virtuous indignation a resolution that was actually introduced a little more than a year ago by one of themselves and unanimously approved by the very men who attempted to shelve it to-day. Colonel Sam Hughes has performed many curious somersaults in the course of his Parliamentary career, but in opposing a resolution which he himself introduced fifteen months ago, he achieved a feat in political ring craft which has few parallels.

In the early days of the last session, on December 10, 1906, to be exact, the valiant member for Victoria and Haliburton moved the following resolution; "That in the opinion of this House grants of Dominion lands should be set apart for those who took part in the South African war of 1899-1902; residing in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta."

In speaking to that resolution, Col. Hughes said; "I do not think the Government have now any valid excuse for not making these grants to the men who served in South Africa. I do not know that I would be justified in asking scrip for the men from Ontario and the other Provinces which gave them land from their own territory, but I certainly think that the soldiers from the Provinces which have no land to grant, such as Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, are entitled to the consideration of the Government.

The resolution was supported by Messrs Lake and Herron, as well as others of the Opposition, and finally approved without dissent. It is true that Mr. Lefurgey raised a feeble plea on behalf of the volunteers belonging to other Provinces, but his was a voice crying in the wilderness, or, as Sir. Wilfrid expressed it today, like the last rose of summer, he was left blooming alone. It was indicated at that time by Sir Frederick Borden that the Government were prepared to accept the resolution amended so as to make the last part read "residing at the time of enlistment in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta," and Col. Hughes and Mr. Borden and all the rest of the Opposition were satisfied. The Government did accept the resolution, and to-day, with a few conditions attached, it was moved by Mr. Oliver, but a change had come over the spirit of the Opposition's dream, in the interval, and among the first to attack it was Col. Sam Hughes. Little wonder that the Liberals rubbed their eyes in amazement and wondered whether they were hearing rightly.

What had brought about this amazing volte face? Was it that effect which John Bright had in mind when he dubbed the Tories the stupid party, or was it something less pardonable? Sir Wilfrid pointed a moral and adorned the tale when he recalled the advice he got in his early Parliamentary days never to trust a Tory. Whatever the cause, the Opposition certainly gave an exhibition to-day which should furnish an excellent object lesson to the country of what passes for Conservative politics in these days.

The sitting, lamentably wasteful though it was, was not without one redeeming feature, however, in that it revealed a glimmer of an awakening conscience among the rump who sit on the left of the speaker. Hon. John Haggart's castigation of his colleagues who were opposing the Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal was a refreshing interlude in the orgie of obstruction which was hugely enjoyed by the Liberal members. This cry for more information, declared the veteran ex-Minister of Railways, is getting a bit monotonous. The Government benchers cheered loudly. He might have added that the whole policy of obstruction has become monotonous, and not only monotonous but foolish.

Goalkeeper Maine Painfully Injured

Just before the first game, last night, as the Bankers were getting in a little practice to get in shape, one of the players felt so strenuous, or maybe thought his young lady was among the spectators, that he tried to do fancy stunts, and shot the puck from close range at Maine, the Bankers' goalkeper. The disc rose, and since Maine couldn't see for the lights, it struck him below the eye, partly on the cheek-bone, making a great cut requiring some five stitches to close.

The Y. M. C. A. allowed their opponents to use the Little Britain goalkeeper during the first half. Maine came on again in the second.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

—The contests in to-night's 'open night" to the men on Kent-st., judging from the interest shown, will be lively and exciting. Wickett—Nugent.

A quiet, but very pretty event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Dr. Bishop of Cambridge-st. Methodist church at half past three in the afternoon on Tuesday, the 25th. Only the immediate relatives and friends were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickett took the evening train for Grand Rapids and other points in Michigan, and on their return will take up residence in Lindsay.

It is computed that the English language is spoken by 350,000,000.

Board of Trade Meeting To-morrow Night Will be Interesting.

We trust that our readers are bearing in mind the address to be given to-morrow evening, in the Council chamber, by Mr. Oborne, General Superintendent of the C. P. R'y, on the question that is puzzling most of the statesmen of this continent—"Transportation."

The Board of Trade are responsible for Mr. Oborne's presence with us, but they hope that every citizen, whether a member of the Board or not, will take advantage of the opportunity of hearing him, not only for the good they will receive, but as a matter of courtesy to Mr. Oborne, who is a very busy man and comes to speak to us at no little inconvenience to himself.

We hope to see the Council chamber full, and we feel satisfied that no one who comes, but will think all the more of our country, its resources and possibilities, after hearing Mr. Oborne.

The Panama Canal.

The total length of the Panama canal, on which work is being prosecuted by the United States government will be about forty-six miles. The depth will vary from thirty to forty-five feet. The surface width will be from 200 feet in Culebra cut to 1,000 feet from the Gatun locks to San Pablo, a distance of fifteen miles and a half. The summit level will be about eighty-five feet above the level of the sea and will be reached by a flight of locks at Gatun, on the Atlantic side, one lock at Pedro Miguel and two at La Boca, on the Pacific slope.

Mr. Marconi predicts that in four months more his Atlantic wireless stations will be able to send twenty thousand words a day.

MUSIC & DRAMA

AN IRISH PLAY

A Romance in Ireland is the title of the new and successful comedy-drama in which our favorite young singing comedian, Allen Doone, will appear at the Academy of Music on Thursday, March 5 next. As in the past two seasons, Mr. Doone will be under the direction of Mr. Geo. W. Kenney, who promises the best all around company, as well as the most complete scenic production ever seen in an Irish play. As swaggering, devil-may-care "Larry O'Daly," the young star is said to be a delight. He "borrows" the old squire's pet hunting mare to follow the hounds, and makes love to his daughter, Nora, with equal assurance; and is just as ready to warble a sentimental ditty as he is to deliver a knock-down blow to an enemy. A Romance in Ireland is an elaborate scenic production in four acts and eight stage-settings, whose characters are garbed in the picturesque costumes of the seventeenth century, and whose plot is remarkable for its originality and freedom from the hackneyed ideas of the conventional Irish play. A pleasing feature will be the introduction of the old-time songs and dances of the period, with appropriate musical accompaniment upon the "pipes." Mr. Doone has some pretty new songs, of his own composition.

Rev. E. Roberts Called by Maker

Prominent Methodist Divine Passes Away at Cobourg.

A despatch from Cobourg says: Rev. Edward Roberts, a prominent minister of the Bay of Quinte Conference, died suddenly at his home yesterday from paralysis. He had been in failing health for some months. Mr. Roberts was president of the Bay of Quinte Conference in 1892, and was several times elected delegate to the General Conference. He had been stationed at Peterboro, Belleville, Cobourg and other places, his last charge being Omemee. He entered the ministry in 1858 and entered upon a superannuated relation in 1900, but afterwards, for two or three years, performed much active services.

The above announcement of the death of a former much loved pastor of Lindsay, will be read with deep sorrow. The deceased, who removed from Lindsay about two years ago, had at times occupied most of the important positions in the gift of his church, and was one of the grand old guards who passed through the trials, privation and hardships incidents to the early settlement of Canada, and to whose earnest work we owe so much.

He is survived by his widow and two sons — one in Toronto, and Thomas, of Welcome. The funeral will take place on Friday at Cobourg.

CHARMS FOR LUCK.

The Sort of Superstitions Some Wall Street Men Harbor.

Let all the dear readers, feminine gender, take cognizance of what follows, for surely the fairer sex is, after all, the stronger sex. Women know no such abject obedience to superstitious fears and signs as do the men. With a view to eliciting something of interest, the writer had a chance to put a certain question to a captain of industry. "Tut, tut," he replied suspiciously, "you'd be getting me into trouble, would you?" With a promise that no names would be mentioned, he finally agreed to tell a thing or two.

The question was, "Aren't men in Wall street carrying all sorts of queer things to try to change their luck?" In answer to this the writer heard some curious stories. One man of worldwide fame, for example, carries a cane in the center of which there is a slender steel rod. Circling the rod there are rings made of leather and of hard rubber, like the washers that plumbers use. Each seventh ring is made of leather from the soles of the shoes worn by the billionaire during what he considered his luckiest year. Elephants and pigs as lucky charms there are of course in plenty, but the proper caper is to wear the animal pinned inside on the watch fob pocket. Then there is another great financier who carries with him a gold ink well and would never sign a document with fluid from another receptacle. Once upon a time, when he had, say, only a picayune million or two, he signed a paper in a deal that doubled, then trebled, his wealth. The ink used that day was emptied into a long gold tube or well that he now carries. The ink was used up, but to the well, so he thinks, the good luck power has been translated. Lucky coins pass from father to son in several of the multimillionaire families, and the man who inherits them would never be without them. We have few secret drawers in desks or doors in houses, as they had in olden times, but there are many secret pockets in the suits made by smart tailors.

No Death Penalty.

European countries which inflict no death penalty, however brutal or premeditated the crime, are Italy, Holland, Norway, Switzerland, Portugal and Russia, save where the lives of the emperor, the empress or the heir to the throne are concerned. The canton of Zug, in Switzerland, imposes the lowest minimum penalty in the world—three years' imprisonment for willful homicide, the maximum punishment being imprisonment for life.—London Chronicle.

Fat Defeating Extraordinary

MARGARET KNOLLY.

Slender Margaret Knolly now, if you please. The fascinating leading lady of the Bijou, now more fascinating than ever, astonished all her friends on Broadway the other day by presenting to their admiring gaze a svelt and willowy form in place of the plump, not to say fat, outlines with which she gayly sailed away to new triumphs and foreign shores last January. After a good deal of diplomatic cross-examination from interested fat acquaintances the secret was cautiously whispered to a few dear friends, with the result that everybody knows it now. It was not exercise, nor fasting, nor sea air, nor worry about her new venture had brought about this wonderful willowy change in the charming Margaret; no, none of these; nothing but a simple mixture which all druggists are familiar with and can supply at small cost, to wit: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces of Syrup Simplex. "Grown folks need a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime," explained the now slender Margaret. It is simply wonderful. It takes off the fat quickly, as much as a pound a day, and keeps it off. You can eat what you like, too. In that respect it is unlike anything of the kind I ever heard of, and besides, it has another splendid feature — it is entirely harmless and will not cause wrinkles. I think it is about as essential a toilet article for the woman who is fat and wants to get thinner, as face powder. In order to get the best results, however, you should buy the Marmola in the original package and mix it with the other two ingredients after you get home.

Tuberculosis Conference

To be Held in Toronto in Alexandra Theatre on March 4th.

The programme for the conference of Municipal Representatives called to meet at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, on March 4th, by the National Sanitarium Association, to discuss how more effective provision can be made for the relief of those who are suffering from, and for the prevention of the spread of Tuberculosis, is one that will likely attract a large number of delegates from all parts of the province. Mayor Begg will represent the Council of Lindsay.

His Excellency, Earl Grey, will preside, and address the conference. Addresses will also be delivered by His Honor Sir Mortimer Clark, a number of leading medical men, mayors, wardens, and others.

The Mayor and Council of the city of Toronto propose to entertain the municipal delegates at 12.30 noon, and his honor the Lieut.-Governor, will give a reception in the evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. The conference will be opened at 2 p. m.

There has been a remarkable awakening during the past year regarding the tuberculosis problem. There is little doubt that the outcome of the conference on March 4th will have an important bearing on legislation that is expected from the Local Legislature during the present session.

There is not a municipality in the Province that is not interested in the great problem.

Municipal officers, medical men, clergymen, and everyone, in fact, interested in the study of this question will be made welcome by the National Sanitarium Association. Arrangements have been made for special railway fare, full particulars of which can be obtained by writing Mr. J. S. Robertson, secretary-treasurer, National Sanitarium Association, 347 King-st. west, Toronto.

One way of telling old furniture is by the worm holes. This test does not apply to old families, which may be traced by a delicate combination of odors—sweet lavender and moth balls.

POETS' CORNER

THE MELTIN' O' THE SNOW.

"'Tis coid th' day," said John McCann,
Upon the road to mass,
The sorra word said Mary Ann,
But stopped to let him pass,
Fur, shuer, he was the bould young man
An' she the modest lass.

'Twas not himself that would be balked
So aisily an' so
He timed his steps wid hers an' walked
Beside her, through the snow,
But O! she passed upon her way,
So modest an' so prim,
'Twas little he could think to say,
An' less she said to him.
But this he said when they were nigh
The little chapel door;
"A colder land a cooler sky,
I have never seen before,
Than this, for all its store of gold,
For all it is so grand,
I never knew the feel o' cold
At home in Ireland;
But here, in these forsaken parts,
The snows, the bitter storm,
Creep even into Irish hearts
That should be kind and warm,
O! kind the maidens, Mary Ann,
Who tread the Irish grass,
This blessed day!" said John McCann,
Upon the road to mass.

Small heed is where the heart is not,
An' shure, 'tis safe to say,
'Twas little that the pastor got
From Mary Ann that day;
No ears had she fur anny word
But jist that bold young man's.
An', faix, the only thing she heard
Was when he read the banns
For two true hearts that soon would be
In happy wedlock one,
Then out she passed, an' home went she
Beneath the winter sun,
An' knew before she turned her head
Who was it walked beside,
"Ye heard the banns? Al! well," he said.
"There's one has found a bride,
Thank God! one Irish heart is sweet,
Though all the one: I know
That makes my own lone heart to beat
Is cold an' hard as snow."
"But now 'tis softer, John McCann"—
Ochone! the modest lass!—
"The snow, I mean," blushed Mary Ann,
Upon the road to mass.

O! bells were on the breeze that ran
Along the buddin' grass,
An' spring, on tip toe, waved her han'
Th' day to see them pass,
When John and Mary Ann McCann
Came down the road from mass.

Father's Eczema Afflicted Children.

Mr. Chas. Noble, of 375 Colonial Avenue, Montreal, the assistant chief operator of the G.N.W. Telegraph Co., and several of his family have been cured of eczema by Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm. He states the facts as follows: "The disease started in the back of my hands in the form of small sores and eruptions. These were very irritating, and when rubbed and scratched turned into very painful sores. I tried waters, lotions and salves, but the disease continued to spread, and so I consulted a doctor. He treated me for a time, but still the disease spread, and I got no relief. Then to my alarm, the eczema spread to several of the children. The pain and irritation in all cases was very great, and we were very much disheartened as all we tried proved unavailing. Zam-Buk was recommended, and I obtained a supply. I tried it first on a small patch of the eczema, and this showed so much improvement that I was convinced Zam-Buk would do good if persevered with, and therefore obtained a supply. Each application greatly relived the itching, pain and soreness, and it was not long before the eruptions and sores dried up and disappeared. In a few weeks, from commencing with Zam-Buk every spot was removed."

"The children who had also taken this disease, were treated in the same way, and have each been cured. Unlike all other preparations used, Zam-Buk seemed to search to the roots of the evil, and it was really surprising how quickly the sores were healed. In my case, and that of my children, the cure was most effectual and permanent, as it is now some months since we were cured, and there has been no sign of any eruptions or sores returning."

Of all druggists and stores, 50c. box or postpaid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. No home should be without Zam-Buk.

Don't Take Milk at Night!

Milk in any form taken at night is apt to cause digestive disturbance. Your night's rest is not refreshing. To appease hunger, or merely for company's sake, "BOVRIL," in the form of a bouillon, or sandwiched between thin bread and butter, is excellent.

After this light supper you will sleep well and awake refreshed. 19

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

AN ADVT. IN THE POST PAYS

APPEAL TO THE CZAR.

Emperor Nicholas Trusts to Loyalty of Peasant Masses.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—Emperor Nicholas received at Tsarkoe-Selo yesterday a deputation from the Douma, numbering 320, and representing all parties excepting the Constitutional-Democrats, the Radicals and the Poles. His Majesty made an address, in which he said that the adoption of the agrarian problem, on the basis of observance of the rights of private property was the most important question before the Parliament. In making this recommendation the Emperor appeals again to the loyalty of the peasant masses of the empire.

In conclusion, His Majesty expressed his wishes for the happiness and prosperity of Russia, and then made a sweeping bow to the Douma delegates. Then, with the crown prince between the Emperor and the Empress, moved through the assembled ranks of deputies, stopping to greet each delegate and recalling to many of the members present that they had met before. The little crown prince was in high spirits and he pranced along between his parents. The presence of this little boy of four years was an enlivening feature of the reception.

Upon completing the circle the imperial pair withdrew. As soon as the Emperor left he was cheered time and again by his visitors.

POLICE SEIZE WEAPONS.

Italians Are Being Taken In Hand at Montreal.

Montreal, Feb. 27.—The latest news concerning the recent Italian tragedies is as follows: Vitto Miccoli, the alleged murderer of Antonio Di Luca, has not yet been arrested, and detectives are searching for him in the United States. Pasquale Pelegrine admits that he gave Miccoli $5 to enable him to leave town, and Chief Carpenter yesterday took out a warrent against him for assisting the escape.

Michael Totoro, who shot his wife, has been liberated on personal bail of $2,000, and two bonds of $1,000 each. He attended his wife's funeral.

Chief Carpenter and Chief McCaskill have approached the judges with a view to obtaining power to search on the street any Italian suspected of having weapons, and the matter is to be brought under the notice of the Government. Pending the Government's decision, Chief McCaskill searched a number of Italians and got revolvers, stilettos, razors and dirks.

Who Is Baby John?

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 27.—"Baby John" Martin, whose confession has implicated his mother, Mrs. Isabella Martin, in the alleged dynamiting of the home of Judge Ogden, in Oakland, and arson in Weaversville, where she is confined to jail, was brought to Oakland yesterday and placed in charge of the matron at the city prison. The police hope to prove that "Baby John" is not a son of either Mrs. Martin or of the Princess de Chimay, (formerly Clara Ward, of Detroit), and they will try to discover the true parentage of the child.

Manitoba Legislature Prorogued.

Winnipeg, Feb. 27.—The twelfth Legislature prorogued yesterday afternoon, after the most sensational session in the history of the province. The chief measures adopted relate to the purchase of the Bell Telephone system, amending the grain exchange charter, Employes' Compensation Act and the local option law.

Ex-Mayor Not Guilty.

Sydney, Feb. 27.—D. M. Burchell, ex-mayor of the town of Glace Bay, and for some years superintendent of stores of the Dominion Coal Co., was yesterday declared not guilty of the charge of theft of $389.75, preferred by J. K. L. Ross at the instance of the coal company.

This is the second of eighteen counts on which Burchell was indicted by the grand jury.

The remaining sixteen counts will hardly be tried, inasmuch as the evidence is practically the same in the remaining charges.

Meantime Burchell was allowed to go on his own recognizance in the sum of $5,000.

The Missing Window Pane.

"Every kitchen has a window with one pane out in the Brazilian town of Rio Grande do Sul," said a cook. "That town is a servants' paradise. Servants live in their own homes there, as they should everywhere. They come to work at 7 in the morning, and they quit at 7 at night—a twelve hour day. Quite long enough. The paneless window is for the milkman, the baker, the butcher, so that these traders can leave their supplies—they usually come early—in a safe place. The Rio Grande servant is, of course, not there to receive them. She is in bed at her own home."

Monism.

Monism is the doctrine of the oneness of mind and matter, God and the universe. It ignores all that is supernatural. Monism teaches that "all are but parts of one stupendous whole, whose body nature is and God the soul;" hence whatever is only conforms to the cosmic laws of the universal all. Mind can never exist without matter, nor matter without mind. They are but the two sides of the same thing.

The Bloodstained Equator.

Human life, I have reason to know, is held cheap at Equatorville, and the place is stained with many crimes. In fact, the whole equator is throughout its 25,000 miles a line of ignorance, savagery and blood. It is a black line which civilization ought to paint white.

Charged With Swindling Mother.

Hamilton, Feb. 27.—Joseph Scanlon, whose home is near Guelph, was summoned to the Police Court yesterday as a witness in an assault case, and was placed under arrest in court by High Constable Merewether on the charge of obtaining $500 from his mother, who is 91 years of age, by false pretences. It is alleged that he brought his mother to Hamilton and induced her to sign a check for $500 in his favor by telling her that she had diphtheria and could not get home unless she signed a document, which afterwards turned out to be a check. The prisoner claims that his mother knew what she was signing, and that she was perfectly willing to give him the money.

Country's Greatest Need.

Washington, Feb. 27.—President Roosevelt transmitted to Congress yesterday a preliminary report of the Inland Waterways Commission. Accompanying the report was a message from the President, which said:

"The development of our waterways and the conservation of our forests are the two most pressing physical needs of the country."

Dentist's Suicide.

Auburn, N.Y., Feb. 27.—Dr. G. B. Wright, Jr., committed suicide in his dental office yesterday afternoon. One end of a tube was held in his mouth by Dr. Wright, while he turned on the illuminating gas.

"O! MY POOR HEAD"

Stop Those Headaches.

Headache and neuralgia are pronounced signs of blood poisoning. This poisoning of the blood comes from the waste matter of the body being left in the system, instead of being regularly carried off by the bowels, kidneys and skin.

When the bowels do not move regularly, the refuse is absorbed by the blood. Thus, the blood is loaded with foul poisons which irritate the nerves.

Poor skin action also causes headache and neuralgia. Impurities cannot escape through the skin, so the blood must take them up and deposit them on the nerves.

If the bowels and skin are not ridding the system of waste, the kidneys try to do so and are overworked.

There is just one way to cure headaches and neuralgia—to regulate bowels, kidneys and skin so that all the poisons of the body will be properly carried off.

"Fruit-a-tives" keep blood pure and rich—relieve the stomach and kidneys—regulate the bowels; and invigorate the skin to healthy action. "Fruit-a-tives" are a wonderful discovery, being a combination of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box—six for $2.50. At all dealers, or from "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa.

Hockey

A PAPER LEAGUE.

Peterboro Review; It is learned that a newspaper hockey league is likely to be formed in this district, the competent teams to be the Examiner, Millbrook Reporter, Lakefield News, Bobcaygeon Independent and Norwood Register. Josiah Craig's outfit would have little chance in such company, but they are to be commended for the fine spirit of sportsmanship shown.

The promoters of the newspaper league show a nice discrimination in passing by Lindsay to pick a team of easy marks in Bobcaygeon. The fame of The Post's Typos has gone abroad, and opponents everywhere avoid them with fear and trembling.

IN MEMORIAM

The other day one of the Lindsay Intermediate players received a black bordered envelope from one of his lady friends in Port Perry. On opening it he found a neat sheet of note paper on which was written a memorial notice of the death of the Lindsay Intermediates at Midland, and it also stated that interment would take place in the Lindsay-st. rink on Feb. 21, when the return game would be played. A short wreath of flowers was drawn at the bottom of the note, and underneath a few more taunts were written. He is figuring out some way to get even.

DONATED CUP

Mr. R. M. Hamilton, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Fenelon Falls, has, like most Fenelon Falls people, become thoroughly interested in all good sport, and particularly in hockey. To furnish some excitement along these lines he has very kindly donated a handsome cup, to be played for by home and home games between Lindsay and Fenelon Falls. The rivalry between the teams of these two places has always been fierce, and supporters on both sides are looking forward to some good, fast hockey before the season closes.

WORK FOR THE TOGOS

Joe McConnell says he is willing and anxious to accept the Togos' challenge, which appeared in these columns a day or two ago. He will play them any night they propose, the sooner the better.

Now, Togos, take him on the jump and see how you stand. The ice won't last a great while longer.

OFF TO CANNINGTON

The Intermediates, minus a couple of players, are going to Cannington to-night to see what they can do with a picked team of that village. They expect to have a good time.

The Grand Trunk Hockey Team hereby challenge the celebrated Togos to play a game of hockey any night next week for an oyster supper. Communicate with W. Bouck, manager.

Peterborough Review; A short time ago in these columns it was predicted that Midland would defeat Lindsay, and by so doing arouse the ire of the great advocate of Scugog sport—The Lindsay Post. However, the prediction came out all right, although the Review claims no medal for making the right guess.

A WONDERFUL HORSE

The death of Persimmon, King Edward's first Derby winner, was caused after suffering nearly two months from a broken hip bone. No horse that ever raced in England was ever more popular than Persimmon. No horse ever received the ovation he did when he won the blue ribbon event of Epsom, in the spring of 1896.

In his seven years on the turf, Persimmon won 146 races, worth in the aggregate $624,070. King Edward would not part with him for any sum. Horsemen said Persimmon would fetch $200,000 if put up at auction. He was a great sire during his few years in the stud, his progeny winning over $600,000. His daughter, Sceptre, was probably the best filly that ever raced in England. He is well represented in this year's Derby with Perrier, Mountain Apple, Royal Realm, Rushcutter, Sea King, Your Majesty, Spassky, Putchamin and an unnamed colt out of Sandflake.

Baiting the Bakers Unfair Treatment

The Case Fully Set Forth—Bakers are Not Dishonest.

It seems ever be have been as popular a pastime to bait the baker as the Jew, and down through the ages has been handed a suspicion or antagonism with regard to him that is difficult to understand. Certain it is that no tradesman in the community is so persistently harassed in the pursuit of his calling as the "man of dough," and even to-day, when the business has taken its place with the leading industries, the bread manufacturer is subjected to a systematic persecution that is most unjust.

In the dark ages, when government undertook to say how long the points of a man's shoes should be, how he should cut his hair or wear his beard, it was left to the authorities to fix the size, shape and price of the loaf of bread. In this connection the baker might occasionally be seen in earlier days doing penance at the pillory, in the stocks or at the treadmill. The idea has lingered on and to-day municipal officers, when they run short of employment or the police court funds run low, resort to a raid on the bakers, with the result that in Toronto the amount raised by fines levied on short weight convictions recently must have realized some hundreds of dollars.

The old law which practically remains on the statute books of every English-speaking country, gives the municipality the right to fix the weight of the standard loaf. If the bread after being baked does not realize the full weight fixed by the by-law it may be confiscated and the baker fined. The latter allows from four to five ounces over in the dough to allow for evaporation, and any housewife knows that this evaporation may vary with the quality of the flour, the kind of dough that is made—slack or stiff—and the length of time the bread is left in the oven. Even after the bread is taken out of the oven and put on the counter it loses weight. If it is an ounce light from any cause the baker is liable to a fine of asmuch as twenty-five dollars or imprisonment, and he is advertised in the papers as a cheat and a rogue. A careless employee, or one who wishes to wreak spite upon his employer may also put him easily in the position of being brought into court. The injustice of the thing is made apparent almost every week. Why should the baker any more than the butcher be subjected to this harassing legislation? Does the inspector make the rounds of the stores weighing the meat, the packages of sugar or even the flour that is put up ready for sale in paper bags? It is all because the practice was in vogue with respect to the bakers a few centuries ago when the latter was even less respected than the tailor in the community. The people would look after their own interests if left to themselves and not coddled with this kind of legislation.

The Medical Health Officer of Toronto, Dr. Sheard, into whose department this matter has recently been transferred, is giving in the recent prosecutions—or rather persecutions—a further evidence of the extent to which he can be extreme in the discharge of what he considers his duties. It looks like a well-arranged campaign to damage the standing of the bakers in the community with a view to an attack later upon the present provincial enactment which allows the baker to make loaves of other weights than those fixed by the municipality, provided he attaches stamps bearing the weight.

In Montreal the bread agitation has also been revived and a new by-law is being introduced that not only fixes the weight, but practically the quality of the bread.

These cities have problems unsolved that are much more worthy of their thought than this pettifogging bread legislation. The records of both show a most alarming condition of infant mortality, due largely, it is stated, to the unclean milk supply. In both cities hundreds die annually from typhoid through impure water and bad drainage. This chasing up bread carts is a poor substitute for reform along these lines.—The Home Journal, Toronto.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

CANADA AND EMPIRE

Resentful View of British Diplomacy in House of Commons.

DOMINION MUST HAVE NAVY

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Says We Have No Grievance — Dr. Thompson Complains That Canada Is Sacrificed to the United State's Interests —Question of Protection of Seals—New Railway Board.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Enlargement of the powers of the board of railway commissioners to enable it to deal with pressing problems of public interest was urged upon the Minister of Railways in the Commons yesterday and with evident success. Mr. Graham, to his credit be it said, evinced a readiness to profit by the suggestions which were given him by members of the Opposition.

The discussion arose in committee on the resolution increasing the membership of the commission, Mr. Graham explaining that it was proposed to add three members to the board, one, he said, is to be assistant chief commissioner whose qualifications must be that of a superior court judge or barrister of ten years' standing, his salary to be $9,000 a year. The salaries of the other two will be $8,000 a year. It is proposed that the board shall have power to hold more than one sitting at the same time, but each section to sit as a whole board. The bill also requires that each railway company shall have a representative at Ottawa upon whom notice may be served when required.

W. F. Maclean observed that not only was the Minister increasing the membership of the board, but he was probably also going to increase its powers. The Government ought to take the House into its confidence and say what these enhanced powers are to be. Everybody in the country favored enlarging the scope of the commission. It was said the Government proposed to place under the jurisdiction of the board telephone and telegraphs, as well as sleeping car service. Should not the commission also have control of the rates charged by cartage companies which form in many instances a large proportion of railway freight charges? Mr. Maclean suggested further that news companies as well as express companies should also be brought under jurisdiction of the board. The question of demurrage might be included, too.

The Minister of Railways replied that he had hoped to introduce the two bills concurrently, but had been disappointed. However, the bill widening the jurisdiction of the board would be introduced before the present bill had proceeded much further.

Mr. Lennox suggested that the board should be given power to decide in the matter of connections between Dominion and provincially chartered railways.

George Taylor trusted that the board would be empowered to compel railways to deliver freight at the rate agreed upon with the railway which first handled it. He gave concrete instances of injustices done in this matter.

Mr. Kemp asked what were to be the qualifications of the other two commissioners.

Mr. Graham trusted they would be such as would appeal to all classes. Manufacturers, commercial travelers, farmers and other classes were claiming for the appointment of a special representative, but the Government would appoint good all-round men.

Claude Macdonnell advocated the appointment of a commissioner in sympathy with employes, and Mr. Owen (E. Northumberland) expressed preference for a man of business and one having the interests of the farmer at heart.

Mr. Clement (Kent), impressed upon the Government the necessity of making provision of giving fair play to farmers and shippers generally.

Mr. Graham said in answer to Mr. Christie that Dr. Mills was appointed on the Railway Commission at the request of many farmers in the country.

Mr. Henderson remarked that he did not think Dr. Mills, a professor in a college, was the man to fill the bill. Of course, it was said, too, that Dr. Bernier was a farmer, but he supposed he was like the Minister of Agriculture—a theoretical farmer.

The resolution was reported and the bill introduced and read a third time.

Mr. Sloan (Comox-Atlin) brought up the matter of the seizure of the Canadian schooner Charlotte G. Cox by a United States revenue cutter on May 29, 1907, and other matters concerning the Canadian pelagic sealing operations in the North Pacific Ocean. When the seizure was made no less than five Japanese schooners were plying their trade unmolested, he said. He thought The Hague tribunal should interfere.

Dr. Thompson followed with an attack upon British diplomacy in the matter of sacrificing Canada's interests for the sake of securing the friendship of the United States. Canada should have a navy, which in time would be large enough to protect her own interests. We should have an arrangement by which Canadians would get rid of the name "colonials" and be received in London as the equals of Americans.

The treaty-making power, said Sir Wilfrid in reply, must remain with the British crown; Canada was not a sovereign power.

He commended that portion of Dr. Thompson's speech which dealt with the new condition of things which had arisen on the Pacific Ocean. The complications which existed then could not escape the notice of any serious or patriotic man. But it should be remembered in this connection that the policy of Great Britain is far-seeing, and we might depend upon it for a solution.

It had been suggested that Canada should approach the United States with a propositon to restrict the killing of seals on land. That, however, was a subject for negotiation.

Mr Monk said no matter how much one might be attached to the Empire, the unsatisfactory treatment of questions arising between Canada and the United States must be apparent to every observer of the political events of the past few years.

Mr. Fielding rather regretted the tone of Dr. Thompson's speech, fearing lest it might be interpreted abroad to mean that there was a section in Canada favorable to a change in our constitutional status as a member of the British Empire.

In this view Dr. Sproule quite concurred.

Ross Rifle "Secret."

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Replying to a question by Col. Worthington in the House yesterday, Sir Frederick Borden said that there was in the Department of Militia a "secret" communication from the War Office, sent through the Colonial Office, in May, 1902, in regard to the interchangeable nature of the different parts of the Ross rifle with those of the Lee-Enfield rifle.

No one ever pretended that there could be an exchange of parts of rifles built on different patterns. The Minister of Militia was aware that there was "an alleged" trial at Blythe, England, between what was stated to be a Ross rifle and the Lee-Enfield, but subsequent investigations proved that the Ross rifle was used either with the knowledge of or by the authority of Sir Charles Ross.

MANY TRIBESMEN KILLED.

British Troops In India Are Fighting on Jap Plan.

London, Feb. 28.—Lord Kitchener's little frontier war in the Bazar Valley against the Zakkakhels tribesmen is making rapid and successful progress.

The purpose of the expedition is to punish the tribesmen for numerous raids into Indian territory, and in a remarkably short campaign they have been scattered and broken, their forts have been destroyed and many of them have been killed.

The expedition is thought here to reflect credit upon the reorganization of the Indian army as carried out by Lord Kitchener. Tommy Atkins is profiting by the lessons learned from the Russo-Japanese war and he is being taught to follow the tactics used by the American army in its Indian campaigns and in fighting in the Philippines.

The British troops advanced on the enemy in open order, with wide intervals between them. The men took advantage of all available cover.

This method of procedure surprised and disheartened the natives, who were accustomed for their sniping tactics to the targets made by the more or less compact column formation employed by previous expeditions.

CRIME IN MONTREAL.

Senators Discuss Frequency of the Italian Outbreaks.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—At the evening sitting of the Senate, Senator Cloran called attention to the deplorable condition of things which attained in Montreal and other cities owing to the lawlessness of undesirable immigrants, and quoted from Montreal papers in condemnation of the recent murderous crimes of Italians there.

Hon. R. W. Scott said the trouble was that Montreal abounded in drinking places to such an extent that the police made no attempt to suppress this illegal traffic. Fifty hotelkeepers were recently hauled up for illegal liquor selling, but was dismissed on payment of $5 each. If the Montreal police had arrested Italians at the outset for carrying dangerous weapons, crime would not have been so conspicuous.

THREATENS TO KILL JUDGE.

Italian Heard to Promise Vengeance For Recorder Weir's Sentence.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—Eight Italians arrested Wednesday for carrying weapons came up yesterday before Recorder Weir. Six were fined $60 and one month in jail and to find two sureties of $250 each for good behavior for one year, or stay in jail an additional three months.

Four men met afterwards in a hotel near the court and one Italian with a stiletto in his hand was heard to declare he would kill Recorder Weir. Chiefs Carpenter and McCaskill were notified, but by the time they arrived on the scene the man had disappeared.

Cotton Workers May Strike.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—A strike of 1,200 cotton operatives at Hochelaga mill of the Dominion Textile Co. is threatened Saturday on account of objectionable rules governing work.

WIPE OUT SALOONS

British License Bill Proposes Wholesale Reduction.

30,000 WILL BE CLOSED

Gradual Elimination During Period of Twenty Years—Majority of Electors to Carry Prohibition—Sunday Hours Curtailed—Place License System Under the Unfettered Control of the State.

London, Feb. 28.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith introduced the Licensing Bill in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. This is the principal Government measure for the present session of Parliament. The capital invested in licensed property in this country is about $1,200,000,000, while over 2,000,000 people are employed in the traffic.

Briefly the bill provides for the compulsory reduction within a specified period and on a uniform scale of the number of saloons licensed throughout the country. In cities it is proposed to allow one saloon for every 750 persons and in the country districts one saloon for every 400 people. This regulation, it is estimated, will wipe out in the neighborhood of 30,000 licenses, about one-third of the present total.

The bill proposes that this reduction be effected within 20 years. Local option is to govern the issuance of new licenses and a majority of the parochial electors is sufficient to prohibit the granting of a license.

Chancellor of Exchequer Asquith expressed the opinion that England was not yet ripe for compulsory Sunday closing, but he said that outside the metropolis no saloon would be allowed to keep open on Sunday for more than one hour at midday or more than two hours in the evening. In conclusion the Chancellor declared that if this bill was adopted the state in 20 years would obtain unfettered control of the license system.

The system of compensating those entirely deprived of their licenses is to lapse after a period of 14 years from the commencement of the act, and an end thus will be put to the vested interests in all licenses.

BRITISH OFFICER STONED.

Naval Commander Struck While Driving at Port au Prince.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Feb. 28.—The British Minister to Hayti has presented to President Nord Alexis a statement from the commander of the British cruiser Indefatigable, now in these waters, setting forth that on returning from the palace on Wednesday a large stone was thrown at his carriage while passing the Rue Bonne, hitting the captain's aide on the leg. For this insult to His British Majesty the commander of the warship demanded an immediate apology.

The chief of police declared that two men were fighting in the street when the captain's carriage was passing, and a stone may have been thrown. The affair, the official added, should properly be referred to the correctional court.

President Alexis, however, sent two officers of his staff to the Indefatigable with instructions to express to her commander his regret at what happened, especially as the incident occurred just after the British commander had left the palace, after paying the President a cordial visit.

The apology of the President was coldly received by the warship's commander, but the Haytian Government regards the incident as being closed.

Scandal In Russian League.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28.—Dissensions, which have existed in the League of Russian People for some time past, have broken out in the last day or two into an open scandal. The league is a reactionary organization, and a most bitter foe to the Parliamentary system. It is accused of responsibility for the anti-semitic outrages at Odessa and elsewhere. The league is now holding a congress in this city.

Financial irregularities were intimated, and an investigation of the large stipends drawn by the leaders was demanded. This was followed by a stormy session, at the end of which Dr. Dubrovin and several other leaders were expelled.

Injured at Whitby.

Whitby, Feb. 28.—In an unsuccessful attempt to stop a horse and cutter from Brook's Livery, Oshawa, running away past the 34th Regiment Armory, Wm. G. Watson had his thigh-bone broken and suffered internal injuries.

SHOT BURGLAR DOWN.

Man Hunt Near Granby — Young Farmer Killed Tramp.

Granby, Que., Feb. 28—An unknown tramp, in appearance much like an Italian, and with a thick, black, bushy bear, is lying dead here as the result of a shot through the heart by a prominent resident of this town.

William Jenkinson, a Granby resident, went west a while ago and closed his house, handing a key to a neighbor, Thomas Robinson.

Yesterday morning Mr. Robinson's mother had occasion to visit the house, and was amazed to find fresh footprints at the rear of the building, and her astonishment was increased when on looking through the kitchen window she saw a man of the tramp class investigating the contents of the larder.

She did not disturb the man, but went back to her home and told her son that a guest was at Jenkinson's house, making himself at home. Mr. Robinson summoned his father and acquainted half a dozen neighbors of the possession of Mr. Jenkinson's habitation.

The little army proceeded to the house and surprised the tramp. When the intruder saw that his presence to the neighborhood was known he fled with only one boot on, the half dozen or so neighbors following in hot pursuit.

The tramp gave them a good chase and managed to reach a wood some two miles from the town before he was overtaken. Finding it was hopeless to escape he suddenly turned and showed fight. He produced a revolver and turned it on Mr. Robinson, who, however, was a little too quick for him, for Mr. Robinson was himself armed and got the first shot home, which went right through the fugitive's heart. The clothing of the dead man was searched, but nothing was found upon him that would lead to his identity. He was absolutely penniless. Whilst the pursuit was going on some of the neighbors examined Mr. Jenkinson's house and found that that very morning the man was about to consume the last contents of the larder.

Mr. Robinson returned to Granby and reported the affair to Judge Savage, who, after hearing the facts of the case, allowed him out on his own bail.

Dr. Balliancourt of Waterloo opened an inquest last night, but adjourned it until to-day.

SEVEN WERE CONDEMNED.

Death Sentence on Terrorists Speedily Follow Their Arrest.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28.—A military court, sitting in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, under the presidency of Gen. Mikiforoff, yesterday condemned to death seven of the terrorists charged with complicity in the attempt last week in this city upon the lives of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, a second cousin of the Emperor, and M. Chtcheglovitoff, the Minister of Justice, and sentenced three others to 15 years' imprisonment at hard labor.

Among those upon whom the death sentence was passed is a supposed Italian journalist, Gavino, who has represented in St. Petersburg La Vita of Rome and Il Tempo of Milan. A special attorney was secured by the Italian embassy, but Cavino spurned the assistance of the embassy, saying he wished to share the fate of his comrades. Addressing the court in broken Russian, he made the sensational declaration that the passport that bore his name was not really his and that he therefore desired to be tried as a Russian subject. All efforts on the part of the court to induce him to disclose his real name and status proved unavailing.

Two women were also sentenced to death and one to imprisonment. The accused all refused counsel, but were represented by four civilian lawyers appointed by the court, which also delegated two military advocates for the defence.

Exclusion League's Hot Time.

Vancouver, Feb. 28.—The Asiatic Exclusion League of Vancouver talked for three hours last night on the advisability of holding another parade. Then the meeting broke up in a small riot. The lie was passed so frequently that the word lost its significance. The lights were finally turned out to avoid prolonging the agony.

Vice-President Gordon Grant charged that a plot had been hatched to pull off riots in all cities on the coast. Sam. Gothard declared that the man who furnished this information was a liar. Then a resolution was introduced to dissolve affiliation with the North American League, recently formed in Seattle, and the lights were turned out.

Gothard was the Vancouver delegate to the recent Seattle convention.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane auxiliary remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a tonic, blood and nerve food. The Restorative builds up strength, gives a better, healthier feeling, and blood albumen.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes, heals and strengthens and somewhat contracts inflammation and discharges, while the Restorative, causes nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing almost renewed strength, vigor and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the entire system. For pamphlet, address Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, Racine, Wis.

SOME IMPOSSIBLE PROBLEMS

The Effort to Cultivate a Blue Rose, the Search For Absolute Zero, the Perpetual Motion Phantom and the Squaring of the Circle.

There died in the year 1902 in St. Felix, a small village in the department of Haute Garonne, in France, a wealthy octogenarian horticulturist, who spent the last forty-five years of his life and a very considerable fortune, all from £12,000 to £15,000 a year, trying to produce by artificial cultivation a blue rose.

He failed, and for the best of reasons —the task is one impossible of accomplishment. As De Candolle, a great authority on the subject, has pointed out, yellow and blue are the fundamental types of color in flowers, and these colors are not antagonistic, mutually excluding each other. Yellow by culture may be changed into red or white, but never into blue. The red may become blue, blue will pass into red, but never into yellow. We have a yellow rose; hence there is no blue.

The pursuit of the absolute zero point, is to chemists what the discovery of the north pole is to geographers. Lord Kelvin proved that if it could be reached the problem scientists innumerable have striven to reach, the goal is vain, although each, in turn, has succeeded in outdistancing the other.

Thus Fahrenheit demonstrated that no one could ever attain artificially to a greater degree of cold than that produced with salt and ice—seven degrees below zero—although, of course, he did not suppose that such could ever be, even within a few years of his death, over 100 degrees below had been obtained, and Professor James Dewar, whose researches in the field of low temperatures have brought out so many new and startling facts, succeeded by cooling down the rare gas helium by the aid of liquefied hydrogen in registering the almost inconceivable temperature of 522 degrees below zero F. But this is not absolute zero, and the problem remains unsolved.

Here and there, in old corners of the earth, gray, bent men still pore over crucibles seeking the philosopher's stone—that mysterious and wonderful substance which will, they believe, when found change the baser metals into gold. It never will be found, of course, for such a substance, in the nature of things, can have no concrete existence. Everlasting for the answer of years the best brains and keenest intellects in Christendom sought it early and late.

Nor were their labors wholly wasted. If, as was intended, searching for this mythical treasure that Bottcher stumbled on the secret of the manufacture of porcelain; Roger Bacon on that of the composition of gunpowder; Geber on the properties of acids; Van Helmont on the nature of gas, and Dr. Glauber on the "salts" which bear his name. After a similar fashion, too, the three century long hunt for the elixir of life represented to us a whole host of valuable medicinal remedies and was the means indirectly of saving or, at all events, prolonging literally millions of lives.

So also, as the result of the vain search after perpetual motion, there was evolved the greatest of all the practitioners of modern physical science, the principle of the conservation of energy, and even now more or less ingenious contrivances are being constantly stumbled on by seekers after the same perennial will-o'-the-wisp, which, if it be by no means impossible that the perpetual motion cranks are all dead and gone. On the contrary, they are probably fully as numerous and as sanguine today as they were in the time of Leibnitz or Newton.

Of course the thing is impossible and has been proved so over and over again, but that does not deter them. Only the other day a man turned up at the office of a well known patent agent with a model of a perpetual motion machine which depended for its proper working upon the interception of gravitational attraction.

The principle of the invention, the inventor was good enough to explain, was simplicity itself. The only thing that remained to be done, he ingenuously remarked, was to find the proper material for an interceptor. Is it possible to conceive of human folly going further than this?

Among mathematicians the two most famous unsolvable problems are the trisection of the angle and the duplication of the cube. Men have toiled at one or the other, sometimes at both, of these for fifteen, twenty, thirty years, only to retire in sullen mood and beaten. Their calculations and methods of work have in many instances been published to the world, but the subject is too abstruse to attempt to do more than merely touch upon it in a popular article of this kind.

It is somewhat startling, however, to find that even figures, just plain, ordinary arithmetical figures such as are easily understandable by any modern school boy, have given rise to problems quite as incapable of solution as any of those springing out of the higher mathematics.

No one, for instance, has yet succeeded in extracting the square root of 2, although Dr. W. H. Colvill, a civil surgeon of Bagdad, succeeded in working it out to no fewer than 110 places of decimals, and, moreover, his thinking sum has been proved to be absolutely correct, so far as it goes. Here is the result, in case some reader should be seized with an irresistible desire to carry it a stage or two further:

"We'd just got settled to business when in comes Angevine, puffing like a buffalo. 'For heaven's sakes, ain't you finished yet?' says he. 'Well, you want to be at it, for the old man ain't over two minutes behind me, coming fast. I took the distance in ten foot steps. Just my luck! Foot slipped when I was talking to him, and I dropped a remark that made him suspicious—I wouldn't have done it for a ton of money—but it's too late now. I'll down him and hold him out there if you say so.'

"Well, sir, at this old Father Slade stood right up, forgetting that foot entirely.

"'Children, be ready,' says he, and he went over the line for a record.

"'Hurry there!' hollers old Bob from the outside, where he was on watch. 'Here comes uncle up the long coulee!'

"'What are your names?' says Father Slade. They told him, both red'ning.

"'Do you, Kyle, take this woman, Loys, to have and keep track of, come hell or high water, her heirs and assigns for ever?'—or such a matter—says he, all in one breath. They both said they did.

"Things flew till we came to the ring. There was a hitch. We had plumb forgotten that important article. For a minute I felt stingy. Then I cussed myself for a mean old long horn and dived into my box.

"'Here, take this!' I says. 'It was my mother's!'

"'Oh, Red, you mustn't part with that!' cried Loys, her eyes filling up.

"'Don't waste time talking. I put through what I tackle. Hurry, please, father.'

"'Has anybody any objections to these proceedings?' says he.

"'I have,' says I, 'but I won't mention 'em. Give them the verdict.'

"'I pronounce you man and wife. Let us pray,' says he.

"'What's that?' screeches Uncle Jonesy from the doorway. And then he gave us the queerest prayer you ever heard in your life. He stood on one toe and clawed chunks out of the air while he delivered it.

"He seemed to have it in for me in particular. 'You villain! You rascal! You redheaded rascal! You did this! I know you did!'

"'Oh, uncle,' says I, 'forgive me!' With that I hugged him right up to me, and he filled my bosom full of smothered language.

"'Cheese it, you little cuss,' I whispered in his ear, 'or I'll break every rib in your poor old chest!' I came in on him a trifle, just to show him what I could do if I tried.

"''Nuff!' he wheezes. 'Quit! 'Nuff!'

"'Go up and congratulate 'em,' I whispered again.

"'I won't,' says he. 'Ouch! Yes, I will! I will!' So up he goes, grinding his teeth.

"'I wish you every happiness,' he grunts.

"'Won't you forgive me, uncle?' begs Loys.

"'Some other time; some other time!' he hollers, and he pranced out of the house like a hosstyle spider, the maddest little man in the territory.

"Loys had a hard time of it until Kyle got so he could travel, and they went up to the Yellowstone with a team for a wedding trip.

"The rest of Loys' folks was in an unpleasant frame of mind too. They sent out her brother, and while I'd have took most anything from Loys' brother, there comes a place where human nature is human nature, and the upshot of it was I planked that young man gently but firmly across my knees. Suffering Ike, but he was one sassy young man! Howsomever, the whole outfit came round in time—all except uncle and me. He used to grit his teeth together till the sparks flew when he saw me. I was afraid he'd bust a blood vessel in one of them fits, so I quit. I hated to let go of the old ranch, but I'm pretty well fixed—I'm superintendent here. It's Kyle's ranch, you know. That's his brand—the queer looking thing on the left hip of that critter, over the vented hash knife. Loys' invention, that is. She says it's a cherubim, but we call it the 'flying flapjack.' There's a right smart lot of beef critters toting that signal round this part of the country. Kyle's one of the fellers that rises like a setting of bread—quiet and gentle, but steady and sure. He's going to the state legislature next year. 'Twon't do no harm to have one honest man in the outfit.

"Now, perhaps if I'd married some nice woman I might have had 1,000 steers of my own and a chance to make rules and regulations for my feller citizens—and then again I might have took to gambling and drinking and raising blazes and broke my poor wife's broom handle with my hard head. So I reckon we'll let it slide as it is. Now, you straddle that cayuse of yours and come along with me, and I'll show you some rattling colts."

CHAPTER III.

REDDY was on the station platform, walking up and down, looking about him anxiously. We caught sight of each other at the same time.

"Hi, there!" said he and jumped for me. "Gad-dog your little hide!" he cried as he put my right hand in line for a pension. "I thought I was booked to go without saying goodby to you. You got the note I pinned on your shack?"

"Sure."

"Well, there's time for a chin before the choo-choo starts. Thought I'd be early, not savvying this kind of traveling a great deal. Darned if you ain't growed since I saw you! Getting fat too! Well, how's everything? I didn't say nothing to the other boys about pulling my freight, as I wanted to go sober for once. You explain to 'em that old Red's head ain't swelled, will you? Seems kind of dirty to go off that way, but I'm bound for God's country and the old time folks, and somehow I feel that I must cut the budge out of it. 'Nother thing is I'm superstitious, as you may or may not have noticed, and I believe if you try the same game twicet you'll get just as different results as can be the second time. You heard how I hit it in the mines, didn't you? No? Well, that's so. You ain't seen many people out on the flat, have you? Hum! I don't know principally where to begin. You remember Wind River Smith's pardner that the boys called Shadder, because he was so thin? Nice feller, always willing to do you a favor or say something comical when you least expected it. Had kind of a style with him too. Yes, sir, that's the man. Well, him and me was out in the Bend one day, holding a mess of Oregon half breeds that was to be shipped by train shortly, when old Smithy comes with the mail. 'Letter for you, Shadder,' says Smith and passes over a big envelope with wads of sealing wax all over it. Shadder reads his letter and folds it up. Then he takes a look over the country—the kind of a look a man gives when he's thinking hard. Then says he, 'Red, take off your hat.' I done it. 'Smithy, take off your hat.' 'All right,' says Smith, 'but you tell me why or I'll snake the shirt off you to square things.'

"'Boys,' says Shadder, 'I'm Lord Walford.'

"'Lord Hellford!' hollers Smithy. 'You'd better call somebody in to look at your plumbing. What you been drinkin', Shadder?'

"'Read for yourself,' says Shadder, and he handed him the letter.

"Wish't you could have seen old Smithy's face as he read it. He thought his pardner had been cut out of his herd forever.

"'It's the God's truth, Red,' says he slowly, and he had a sideways smile on his face as he turned to Shadder. 'Well, sir,' says he, 'I suppose congratulations are in order?'

"Shadder's hand stopped short on its way to the cigarette, and he looked at Smithy as if he couldn't believe what he saw.

"'To hell with 'em!' says he as savage as a wildcat, and he jabbed the irons in and whirled his cayuse about on one toe, heading for the ranch.

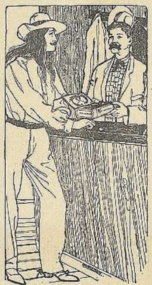
"'Now you go after him, you jealous old sorehead,' says I. 'Go on,' I says as he started to argue the point, 'or I'll spread your nose all the way down your spinal column!' The only time to say 'No' to me is when I'm not meaning what I say, so away goes Wind River, and they made it up all right in no time. Well, Shadder had to pull for England to take a squint at the ancestral estates, and all of us was right here at this station to see him off. Lord, it seems as if that happened last world! Well, it took a little bit the edge off any and all drunks a ranch as an institution had ever seen before. There was old Smithy crying around, wiping his eyes on his sleeve and explaining to a lot of eastern folks that it wasn't Shadder's fault—gad hook it all! He was the best, hootin', tootin' son-of-a-sea-cook that ever hit a prairie breeze in spite of this dum foolishness.

"'They can't make no "lord" of Shadder!' hollers Smithy. 'That is, not for long. He's a man, Shadder is—ain't cher, yer d——d old gangle legged hide rack?'

"And Shadder never lost his patience at all, though it must have been kind of trying to be made into such a holy show before the kind of people he used to be used to. All he'd say was, 'Bet your life, old boy!' Well, it was right enough, too, as Smithy had nursed him through smallpox one winter up in the Shoshonee country and mighty near starved himself to death feeding Shadder out of the slim grub stock when the boy was on the mend. Still, some people would have forgot that.

"But did your uncle Red get under the influence of strong drink? Did he? Oh, my! Oh, my! I wish I could make it clear to you. The vigilantes put after a horse thief once in Montana, and they landed on him in a butt end canyon, and there was all the stock with the brands on 'em as big as a patent medicine sign, as the lad hadn't had time to stop for alterations.

"'Well,' says they, 'what have you got to say for yourself?' He looked at them brands staring him in the face, and he bit off a small hunk of chewing 'Pit-chay!' Says he, 'Gentlemen, I'm at a loss for words!' And they let him go, as a good joke is worth its price in any man's country. I'm in that lad's fix. I ain't got the words to tell you how seriously drunk I was on that occasion. I remember putting for what I thought was the hotel and settling down, thinking there must be a lulu of a scrap in the bar room from the noise. Then somebody gave me a punch in the ribs and says, 'Where's your ticket?' and I don't know what I said nor what he said after that, but it must have been all right. Then it got light, and I met a lot of good friends I never saw before nor since. Then more noise and trouble, and at last I woke up—in a hotel bedroom, all right, but not the one I was used to. I went to the window, heaved her open and looked out. It was a bully morning, and I felt A1. There was a nice range of mountains out in front of me that must have come up during the night. 'I'd like to know where I am,' I thinks. 'But somebody will tell me before long, so there is no use worrying about that—the main point is, have I been touched?' I dug down into my jeans, and there wasn't a thing of any kind to remember me by. 'No,' I says to myself, 'I ain't been touched—I've been grabbed—they might have left me the price of a breakfast! Well, it's a nice looking country, anyhow!' So down I walks to the office. A cheerful seeming, plump kind of a man was sitting behind the desk. 'Hello!' says he, glancing up and smiling as I came in. 'How do you open up this morning?'



"Here's your watch and the rest of your valuables."

"'Somebody saved me the trouble,' says I. 'I'm afraid I'll have to give you the strong arm for breakfast.'

"He grinned wide. 'Oh, it ain't as bad as that, I hardly reckon,' says he. He dove into a safe and brought out a cigar box.

"'When a gentleman's in the condition you was in last night,' he says, 'I always make it a point to go through his clothes and take out anything a stranger might find useful, trusting that there won't be no offense the next morning. Here's your watch and the rest of your valuables, including the cash. Count your money and see if it's right.'

"Well, sir! I was one happy man, and I thanked that feller as I thumbed over the bills, but when I got up to a hundred and seventy I begun to feel queer. Looked like I'd made good money on the trip.

"'What's the matter?' says he, seeing my face. 'Nothing wrong, I hope?'

"'Why, the watch and the gun and the other things is all right,' says I, 'but I'm now $50 to the good, even figuring that I didn't spend a cent, which ain't in the least likely, and here's ten dollar bills enough to make a bedspread left over.'

"'Pshaw!' says he. 'Blame it! I've mixed your plunder up with the mining gentleman that came in at the same time. You and him was bound to fight at first, and then you both turned to to lick me, and what with keeping you apart and holding you off and taking your valuables away from you all at the same time, and me all alone here, as it was the night man's day off, I've made a blunder of it. Just take your change out of the wad and call for a drink on me when you feel like it, will you?'

"I said I would do that, and, moreover, that he was an officer and a gentleman and that I'd stay at his hotel two weeks at least to show my appreciation, no matter where it was, but to satisfy a natural curiosity, I'd like to know what part of the country I was at present inhabiting.

"'You're at Boise, Ida.,' says he; 'one of the best little towns in the best little territory in the United States of America, including Alaska.'

"'Well'— says I. 'Well'— for again I was at a loss for words. I had no idea I'd gone so far from home. 'I believe what you say,' says I. 'What do you do round these parts?'

"'Mining,' says he. 'You're just in time—big strike in the Bob Cat district. Poor man's mining. Placer, and durned good placer, right on the top of the ground. The mining gentleman I spoke about is having his breakfast now. Suppose you go in and have a talk with him? Nice man, drunk or sober, although excitable when he's had a little too much or not quite enough. He might put you on to a good thing. I'm not a mining person myself.'

"'Thanks,' says I and in I went to the dining room.

"There was a great, big, fine looking man eating his ham and eggs the way I like to see a man eat the next morning. He had a black beard that was so strong it fairly jumped out from his face.

"'Mornin',' says I.

"'Good morning, sir!' says he. 'A day of commingled lucent clarity and vernal softness, ain't it?'

"'Well, I wouldn't care to bet on that without going a little deeper into the subject,' says I; 'but it smells good at least—so does that ham and eggs. Mary, I'll take the same, with coffee extra strong.'

"'You have doubtless been attracted to our small but growing city from the reports—which are happily true—of the inexhaustible mineral wealth of the surrounding region,' says he.

"'No-o—not exactly,' says I; 'but I do want to hear something about mines. Mr. Hotelman out there (who's a gentleman of the old school if ever there lived one) told me that you might put me on to a good thing.'

"'Precisely,' says he. 'Now, sir, my name is Jones—Agamemnon G. Jones—and my pardner, Mr. H. Smith, is on a business trip, selling shares of our mine, which we have called "The Treasury" from reasons which we can make obvious to any investor. The shares, Mr.'—

"'Saunders—Red Saunders—Chanta Seechee Red.'

"'Mr. Saunders, are 50 cents apiece, which price is really only put upon them to avoid the offensive attitude of dealing them out as charity. As a matter of fact, this mine of ours contains a store of gold which would upset the commercial world were the bare facts of its extent known. There is neither sense nor amusement in confining such enormous treasure in the hands of two people. Consequently my pardner and I are presenting an interest to the public, putting the nominal figure of 50 cents a share upon it, to save the feelings of our beneficiaries.'

"'What the devil do I care?' says I. 'I'm looking for a chance to dig. Could you tell a man where to go?'

"'Oh,' says he, 'when you come to that, that's different. Strictly speaking, my pardner Hy hasn't gone off on a business trip. As a matter of fact, he left town night before last with two-thirds of the money we'd pulled out of a pocket up on Silver creek in the company of two half breed Injuns, a Chinaman and four more sons of guns not classified, all in such a state of beastly intoxication that their purpose, route and destination are matters of the wildest conjecture. I've been laying around town here hating myself to death, thinking perhaps I could sell some shares in a mine that we'll find yet, if we have good luck. If you want to go wild catting over the hills and far away, I'm your huckleberry.'

"'That hits me all right,' says I. 'For what I don't know about mining nobody don't know. When do we start?'

"'This or any other minute,' says he, getting up from the table.

"'Wait till I finish up these eggs,' says I. 'And there's a matter of one drink coming to me outside. I may as well put that where it won't harm any one else before we start.'

"'All right,' says he, waving his hand. 'You'll find me outside, at your pleasure, sir.'

"I swallered the rest of my breakfast whole and hustled out to the bar, where my friend and the hotel man was waiting. 'Now I'll take that drink that's coming, and rather than be small about it I'll buy one for you, too, and then we're off,' says I.

"'You won't do no such thing,' says the hotel man. 'It's a horse on me, and I'll supply the liquor. Mr. Jones is in the play as much as anybody.'

"So the hotel man set 'em up, and that made one drink. Then Jones said he'd never let a drink suffer from lonesomeness yet when he had the price, and that made two drinks. I had to uphold the honor of the ranch, and that made three drinks. Hotel man said it was up sticks now, and he meant to pay his just debts like an honest man, and that made four drinks. Then Jones said—well, by this time I see I needn't have hurried breakfast so much. More people came in. I woke up the next morning in the same old bedroom. Every breakfast Aggy and me got ready to pull for the mines, and every morning I woke up in the bedroom. I should like to draw a veil over the next two weeks, but it would have to be a pretty strong veil to hold it. I tried to keep level with Aggy, but he'd spend three dollars to my one, and the consequence of that was that we went broke within fifteen minutes of each other.

Mr. Robt. Bryans Was Banquetted Last Evening By His Many Friends

HANDED ADDRESSES AND GIFT BY CITIZENS AND CO. COUNCILLORS

The Benson House the Scene of a Pleasant Gathering Last Evening---Mr. S. J. Fox, M.P.P., Dr. Jessup, M.P.P., and Leading Citizens in Attendance---The Toast List and Speeches.

The banquet at the Benson house last night, given by the citizens of Lindsay in honor of Mr. Robert Bryans, who is about to leave for "Sunny Alberta," was a successful and well conducted affair. About 60 were present—a most gratifying attendance in view of several other events falling on the same evening. Among those present were Mr. S. J. Fox, M. P. P., Dr. Jessup, M. P. P., Lincoln, Judge Harding, Mayor Begg Dr. Wood, Dr. Vrooman, Col. Robt Sylvester, Mr. J. R. McNeillie, County Clerk and Treasurer, Mr. H. B. Black, manager Bank of Montreal, Rev. C. H. March, Mr. Thos. Stewart, Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Messrs. J. H. Sootheran, I. E. Weldon, W. B. Sparling, J. W. Wakely, M. O'Halloran, James Boxall, F. D. Moore, G. H. Hopkins, C. D Barr, Wm. Flavelle, Johnson Ellis Wm. Pym, I. Deyell, Reeve Geo Jordan, Dep.-reeve Eyres, Ald. Geo. Rea, John O'Rielly, D. Cinnamon, Jos. Brown, J. A. Williamson, A. Robertson, L. A. Murphy, R. Kylie, Wm. Flavelle.

THE BILL-OF-FARE

The banquet itself may be classed as another gastronomical triumph for the Benson house. The capable chef delights in exhibiting the full resources of his art on such occasions, and the service was in keeping with the cuisine — in fact everything was perfect, the guests lingered long over the dainties set before them in succession. Meanwhile the Lindsay orchestra discoursed even sweeter strains than usual, everyone was in good humor, and men and things seemed to be working together in great harmony with the object of making the occasion a memorable one.

THE SPEECHES

Mr. S. J. Fox presided as chairman, having at his right hand the guest of the evening, Mr. Bryans, and Rev. Marsh, and at his left His Honor Judge Harding and Dr. Jessup, of Lincoln. The vice-chairs were occupied by Mayor Jas. Begg and President Johnson Ellis, of the South Victoria Agricultural Society.

The first toast, "The King," having been suitably honored, the chairman proposed "Our Guest," taking advantage of the opportunity to make a brief allusion to Mr. Bryans' coming departure. If he were young in years it would be different, but when the person leaving us is one of ripe experience, and one who has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the town and county, the loss is serious indeed and deeply to be regretted by all. (Applause).

Mr. J. H. Sootheran announced that letters expressing regret at inability to be present had been received from Col. Sam Hughes Mr. Parr of Cartwright, Dr. Mason

CITIZENS' TESTIMONIAL

The following address was read by Rev. C. H. Marsh on behalf of the Citizens' committee, the presentation of the gift—a beautiful gold-headed cane—being made by Mr. S. J. Fox. M. P. P.

To Robert Bryans, esq., Lindsay, Ont.;

Your numerous friends have heard with much regret of your contemplated early removal from Lindsay, and take this opportunity of giving some slight expression of their regard for you as friend and neighbor and fellow-citizen.

During a residence in this town and neighborhood of over thirty years you have by your many sterling qualities, your public spirit and business enterprise, won and held a high place in the estimation of your fellow-citizens, and you have been called upon to fill many positions of public trust and confidence, the duties of which you have discharged with commendable zeal and fidelity.

As County Councillor for several years, as Warden of the County of Victoria, as member of the Board of Directors and as President of the South Victoria Agricultural Society, as member of the Board of Governors of the Ross Memorial Hospital, and as Church Warden for many years of St. Paul's church, you have been called upon to discharge many important and responsible public duties, and in all these varied activities you have by your quiet energy and unfailing courtesy accomplished gratifying results, and have always enjoyed the full confidence and esteem of your fellow-citizens.

While we greatly regret your departure, we cannot avoid commending the enterprise that leads you to join the great army that is so rapidly settling and developing our splendid Western Provinces, and we confidently anticipate that in your new home you will be called upon to take a large share in the discharge of those duties that generally fall to the lot of a public-spirited citizen.

In wishing you and Mrs. Bryans and your interesting family all happiness and prosperity in your new Western home, permit us to offer you this small memento of our friendship with the hope that you may not for many years feel disposed to rely upon it in your daily walk.

Signed on behalf of the citizens of Lindsay, this 27th day of February, A. D. 1908.

S. J. FOX, M. P. P., Chairman
J. H. SOOTHERAN, Sec.

Rev. Mr. Marsh, when handing over the address, gave expression to his pronounced feeling of regret at Mr. Bryans' pending departure. Personally he felt he was about to lose a very dear friend; a quarter of a century ago he (Mr. Marsh) first broke bread at the hospitable board of Mr. Bryans, and from that day to this, he had found that gentleman a tower of strength in church work and in the upholding of all good measures. His word was his bond always. The Northwest stood in need of men of his sterling integrity, push and enterprise, men who may make mistakes occasionally, but who realize their immortality and who will, as far as possible, be guided by and live up to the precepts of the Golden Rule. Mr. Bryans was a zealous christian gentleman, and his earnest wish and prayer was that he, with Mrs. Bryans and family, might be greatly blessed and very happy in their new home in the West. (Applause).

COUNTY COUNCIL ADDRESS.

Reeve Jordan read the following address from the County Council, at the same time adding a few suitable comments relative to the loss to be suffered by the community

Robert Bryans, esq., Lindsay;

Dear Sir and Friend, — We the members of the County Council of the County of Victoria, feel that, at this the last session of Council, previous to your departure for the West, it becomes our duty, as it is our privilege, to place on record an expression of our sincere regret at your departure from our midst.

As County Councillor, as in various other public positions, you have become widely known and highly respected, and we take pleasure in testifying to the benefits our county and district have derived from your intelligence, diligence and public spirit.

While we therefore regret our own loss, we cannot but feel deep satisfaction that our great and growing West is to receive that which we lose, for we are assured that the activity you have displayed in all public matters here will not cease, but will have even wider scope and will receive, perhaps, even more general appreciation in the new province to which you are going.

We therefore congratulate our sister province, Alberta, on a splendid accession to her citizenship, and express the wish that your removal may conduce to the best welfare of yourself and family. (Signed on behalf of the Council.)

J. R. McNEILLIE, Clerk,
R. M. MASON, Warden.
Lindsay, Feb. 1st, 1908.

REPLY TO ADDRESSES.

Mr. Bryans, in his reply, said he felt deeply grateful because of the kind references in the first address to himself, wife and family — he knew they proceeded from the hearts of faithful friends. He appreciated also the address from his former colleagues in the County Council; he had had the honor of being connected for over twenty years with the body, of which Mr. J. R. McNeillie was the guide and confidential adviser. He (Mr. Bryans) had filled a number of positions, and had taken pleasure in serving the community, in which he lived in every way. He had made up his mind last year to remove to "Sunny Alberta"—in the near future the great West land would sway Canada. At the outset he would take up residence on his farm, but eventually would move into Edmonton. He would leave Lindsay with keen regret, and hoped to be able to return occasionally at least.

Vice-Chairman Ellis, in proposing the toast, "Our Agricultural Interests," referred to Mr. Bryans' unselfish work for the upbuilding of South Victoria Agricultural Society, with which he had been connected for over 20 years. He had never taken one cent for his work, and had the satisfaction of knowing that to-day the Lindsay Central is among the best County Fairs in Canada. (Applause)

The names of Mr. Wm. Channon, of Oakwood, Vice-President of South Victoria Agricultural Society, and of Mr. F. H. Reed, B.S.A., teacher of agriculture in Lindsay Collegiate Institute, were coupled with the toast, and both made interesting addresses.

"Our Learned Professions" brought responses from His Honor Judge Harding, Dr. Jessup, M.P.P., Mr. F. D. Moore, Mr. G. H. Hopkins and Mr. Thos. Stewart. The spech by Dr. Jessup was particularly bright and interesting.

"Our Business Enterprises," elicited replies from Messrs. J. D. Flavelle and Mr. Jas. Boxall. Both gentlemen referread in earnest terms to the loss the town and county was about to sustain by the removal of Mr. Bryans to the West, and both in turn voiced the hope that in the course of a few years he would have made his "pile" and return to Lindsay to end his days.

Mayor Begg proposed the toast, "Our Municipal Institutions," prefacing it with a few happy remarks appropriate to the occasion. Coupled with the toast were the names of Dr. Wood and Dr. Vrooman, whose remarks were listened to with pleasure by all.

"Our Town and County," received full justice at the hands of Mr. J. R. McNeillie, County Treasurer, who said in the course of his speech, that he well remembered when the vote was taken that led to the separation of Victoria from Peterborough County. That separation had been vastly beneficial to Lindsay as well as the County — from that day they had grown and prospered together.

The toast of "The Ladies" brought that virile and versatile champion of feminine charms, fancies or rights—Mr. Ernie Weldon—to his feet. He was in fine trim, and his eloquence on his chosen subject entitles him to a niche in the memory of the ladies of Lindsay all right.

"Auld Lang Syne" brought the proceedings to a close at about 1 o'clock a.m.

Board of Trade To-night.

The Board of Trade will welcome all citizens to their meeting to-night, which is to be addressed by Mr. Oborne, General Superintendent of the C. P. R., who will give a talk on "Transportation," probably one of the most vital points which can effect our town's prosperity. Mr. Oborne is a very busy man, and it is rather a compliment to our town that he consented to address our Board of Trade, so it is hoped that our citizens will be present in good numbers to hear him to-night in the Council chamber.

Cross Canines Causing Trouble

Delivery Men, Newspaper Carriers and Others Have Constant Tussles.

The dog nuisance is again coming to the fore. Reports of a couple of vicious and nasty brutes jumping at horses' heads and frightening pedestrians in the east ward are talked of by persons who have business in that part of the ward frequented by these beasts.

Again, in another part of the town, a little boy was attacked and worried, though not seriously, by four great, strong dogs. A man passing, saw the disturbance, and running to the lad's assistance, beat the brutes off. Such beasts as these should be exterminated immediately by their owners.

Owners should also go to the trouble of finding out what is really the nature of their pets when their eyes are off them. Too many persons think they have nice, harmless animals, when in reality their pets are acting more like wolves toward other people.

Convent Pupils' Charming Concert

Sisters of St. Joseph Scored Pronounced Success Last Evening.

The entertainment given by the pupils of St. Joseph's Academy last night in the Academy of Music turned out one of the biggest successes of anything that has been held there for some time. The rise of the curtain found a full house to greet the efforts of the Sisters in getting up such an enjoyable affair. Indeed, chairs and benches had to be procured to seat a large number of the audience who had not procured their tickets before the reserved seats were all sold. All classes and denominations were present, as the people of Lindsay have, year after year, come to recognize the excellence of any program of which the Sisters of St. Joseph have charge. Their patient training and work was evident in every number, and more particularly in the several pretty drills, in which even little tots took part to perfection. Not a hitch occurred throughout the entire evening. Owing to the evident determination of the performers not to accede to encores, the applause was not as insistent as it usually is, but nevertheless showed the admiration of the audience.

The first number, an instrument overture, "Poet and Peasant," was played while the curtain was still down, and showed great musical feeling and ability on the part of the unseen performers. The second number, "Grandfather's Birthday," was a pretty operetta by a number of the younger children. The many beautiful baskets of flowers added the finishing touch to a charming scene, and the cute actions of the little ones drew every heart. Chopin's Polonaise in A, rendered by a number of the pupils of the Academy in piano violin and cello, proved very pretty. The next number, entitled the "Roseaud Revel," was very pretty indeed, a large number of different poses and arrangements being made. This was followed by a pretty vocal number by Misses Granger, Smith, O'Boyle, Guinea and Flurey. The first part of the program was then closed by a well executed pantomine entitled "The Holy City."

The program's second part opened with a little play called "Lightheart's Pilgrimage." Those who took part deserve great praise for their acting. The pretty, fantastic drill which followed again showed the patient efforts of the Sisters. Number three, an instrumental by the Convent orchestra and Misses Fluery and Meehan, was a well executed selection. The most laughable piece of the program was immediately following, and could only be seen to be appreciated. It was the "Little Woman's Drill." A vocal number, "Gaily We're Tripping," by Misses Granger, Smith, O'Boyle and Fluery, was much appreciated.

The Convent orchestra, accompanied on the piano by Misses Byrne and Lonergan, was excellent in a March Militaire, and the evening was brought to a very pleasant close by all the pupils marching on the stage, where they filled the whole space so closely that it was impossible to count them. For a closing number all sang sweetly a chorus entitled, "Life's Journey."

Owing to the great success of the entertainment and the number who were not able to obtain admission, the Sisters have kindly decided to repeat the performance this evening.

As Others See It

If you judge a man by the Clothes he wears—as nine out of ten unconsciously do—what then about jewelry? Isn't a man who wears cheap jewelry as surely "labeled cheap" as if the word were written on his forehead?

The touch of refinement that is given by good jewelry—a Gold Watch, a Ring, a Pin or a Diamond, is unmistakeable; and it is the reason why good jewelry should be worn

We keep only the good kind, and you will find our prices of a modest profit kind.

A Diamond Ring with a stone of fair size may be had from $18 up.

Citizens' Night At Y. M. C. A.

Kent-st. Men Enjoyed Free Use of the Building Last Evening.

Kent-st. residents had the time of their life last night at the Y. M. C. A., not dispersing till after 10.30 p. m. The feature of the evening was the bowling match between the Benedicts and the Bachelors. Bill Ferguson was sponsor for the married men, and Herb Hepburn took a fatherly interest in the single men. The single men lost, but excuse themselves because two doctors were on the Benedicts' line-up. The game was a close one, and no one knew who was the winner till the very last. When Stan. Coombs, who had joined the matrimonial ranks for the evening, rolled the last ball everybody's heart was in their mouth, and when Harry Reed, who was scoring, had completed his little addition act, the Benedicts had won the game by 5 points. The line-up:

Benedicts	Bachelors
Wm. Ferguson,	Herb. Hepburn,
Dr. Irvine	Rod Porter,
W. Webster,	W. Langdon,
Dr. Pogue,	Herb. Williams,
S. Coombs, 829	P. Kennedy, 824

—The plunge bath had its crowd all evening, and everybody noted it a dardy.

In the gym. the much-touted Intermediate basketball team got a terrible scare at the hands of "Chuck" Crozier's Ramblers. The Intermediates started in to make it a runaway game, but the Ramblers came back quickly and when final time was called they were only 1 point behind. Score, Intermediates 11, Ramblers 10.

Popular Banker Leaving Town

Receiving Teller in Bank of Montreal Transferred to Toronto.

Some few days ago Mr. Gladstone L. Main, of the Bank of Montreal, here, received notice of his removal to the bank's head branch in Toronto. He will take up his work there in a few days, after he has completed a few short visits he wishes to make before he goes to that city.

Mr. Main's removal is much regretted by his many friends. He was well known about town, as this is his second stay here; in fact, this was one of the first branches he entered when he joined the bank. He was also situated for a number of years at Fenelon Falls, where he was a general favorite. There is no doubt of Mr. Main's success in the main office work.

THE SPLIT-LOG DRAG USED ON EARTH ROADS

Methods of Construction and Use Fully Set Forth by Mr. A. W. Campbell, Provincial Commissioner of Public Works.

The split-log drag, as an implement for the repair and maintenance of earth roads is exceedingly valuable. For earth roads, it is a necessary supplement of the grading machine.

What is the split-log drag? To make one is almost more simple than to describe it, for the implement is simplicity itself. A log from five to eight feet long is split in half. The halves are placed parallel to one another, the edges down and flat face to the front. They are firmly braced together in this position with three cross-bars wedged into holes bored through the log. A chain-hitch is attached in such a manner as to incline the drag at outer edge of the road, and the rear corner at the centre. By dragging this implement up one side of the road and down the other, making a number of circuits, using two or three horses, the edges of the log plane off the tops of ridges and rough places, drawing the material sideways and forward to fill hollows and ruts, crowning it at the centre of the road. This drag, used eight or ten times during the year on an earth road, while the earth is in moist condition after a rain, will keep an earth road, in the best condition that an earth road can be made to reach.

The split-log drag by no means does away with the grading machine. On the contrary it, if anything, makes the grading machine more valuable. The work of the grading machine is to construct, but the sphere of the split-log drag is to repair and maintain. Counties where earth roads prevail, have commonly used the grading machine on the main roads year after year to keep them in repair. As a result, the side lines and little travelled roads have been neglected, and have not been improved as they should be by using the grading machine. By establishing a proper scheme in any "earth road" township for the use of split-log drags, these can be made to take the place of the grading machine for repair, while the grading machine can be sent on its proper mission of construction, to outlying roads which have heretofore been neglected, and upon which it is so much needed.

As previously pointed out, the split-log drag is not an implement of construction. That a road can be graded from a flat and rough condition to a shapely and well-formed road, is no doubt the case, but this as a rule can be done only by the expenditure of an excessive amount of energy. The grading machine is the implement which can be most economically used to perform the first earth work in crowning, grading and to some extent draining the roads. The split-log drag will then find its place in keeping this road in the best possible condition. That is, it will smooth out the surface of the road early in the spring, and assist in drying the road some days earlier than would otherwise be the case. The road when dry will be smoother and more agreeable for travel. The road will be less dusty throughout the summer, from the fact that the ridges and ruts do not have to be pulverized under traffic before they are smoothed out. The continued use of the drag will keep the road free from ruts; will maintain the road in the shape in which it was placed by the grading machine; will assist surface drainage, and make a firmer and less readily cut surface. It will keep an earth road at its best.

Stone and Gravel Roads Needed.

An earth road, whether dragged or not, when it becomes wet, is a mud road, although less muddy if it is dragged. In praising the split-log drag, it must not be supposed that the writer is advocating the earth road. Earth roads and mud roads are not good enough for the Ontario farmer. As a rule, earth road townships are among the most fertile and wealthy of the Province, and there is no good reason why the citizens of these townships and counties should remain content with earth roads. It is not to be argued that all of these roads should at once be gravelled or macadamized, but a commencement should be made on the leading roads, or such roads as would become leading roads if they were so constructed as to attract travel. What is meant by this will be understood by the majority of those in the competition during the past summer, for the great rule was that the roads kept in repair by the split-log drag, were much more heavily travelled than they had ever been before, attracting travel which formerly followed parallel roads.

Systematize Use of Drag.

The split-log drag can be made to achieve its greatest usefulness only where a thorough system is established for dragging the earth roads of a township. While these implements are so cheaply made and so easily operated, it will not do to expect that all farmers will, of their own good-will, at once go out on the roads and keep them in repair, Township Councils will have to take the matter up. If their use is still left to ordinary statute labor methods, permitting a farmer here and there, who desires it, to work out his statute labor by this means, the result will be inferior. A business-like system must be introduced. One to be recommended is:

1st. That township Councils take tenders and let the job of dragging and keeping in good condition, sections of earth road throughout the township; these sections not to exceed four miles in length, being preferably two miles in length and not less than one mile.

2nd. That each person taking a contract be paid in cash the sum of his tender, which will be a small amount. In discussing this with those who have used the drag throughout the past year, it is found that an average of five dollars per mile would be an inducement to take the work, in consideration more especially of the benefit of the roads. This should pay for dragging the roads eight or ten times during the year, or as often as required.)

3rd. The work of those using the split-log drag should be inspected from time to time by the township road commissioner. When any person operating the drag is found to do inferior work or to neglect the roads, the work can be taken from him for the ensuing year.

How to Operate the Drag.

In the practical use of the drag, a multitude of points were brought out by the competition. To discuss all is unnecessary. Leaving something to be learned by practical experience, a brief summary of the more important is as follows:

Use a light drag — preferably of cedar, pine or basswood, such as can be readily managed by one team of horses, and use it often. Fasten strips of steel along the lower face edges of the drag. A straightened wagon wheel, or sleigh runner is ordinarily used.

Use the drag as early in the spring as possible, and as frequently thereafter as is needed to keep the road smooth and free from wheel tracks.

Use the drag when the road is very wet and slushy, either when raining or immediately after; or use the drag when the road has become somewhat dry, and the soil loose and friable. There is an intermediate stage in which the earth is sticky and rolls up in lumps, instead of spreading out smoothly.

If a clay road is dragged in the wet stage, a tough, rubber-like surface is produced; but the road is very apt to be cut up by traffic before it becomes dry.

Use the drag so frequently that the road is never out of repair, and draw only a little earth to the centre at each operation. If the road is dragged only when very rough and flat, so that a great ridge of earth is piled at the centre, the best results are not reached.

Give the road a round contour — not two flat planes meeting at a sharp angle in the centre of the road. In doing this a short, light drag is most serviceable.

Attach the end of the chain at the outer side of the drag to the cross-bar; and the end at the centre, to a ring in front, or pass through a hole in the front of the drag. If both ends of the chain are fastened to the cross-bars, there is a downward bearing on the front of the drag liable to upset it in a manner dangerous to the operator.

The cross-bars should be nearer the top than the bottom, to allow the earth to pass underneath them.

In certain sticky conditions of the road the drag can be reversed, drawing the round face forward.

Place a couple of planks over the cross-bars for the operator to stand on. The operator can then regulate the work of the drag by moving from one end to the other.

The operator should have a shovel with him to trim the drains and edges of the road; or a crow-bar to pry out bowlders, logs and stones. He can use them when the horses are resting.

By means of the drag, together with the plow and harrow, much can be done to grade a new road, particularly if the land is moderately level and the soil not a heavy clay. But this work is apt to be extravagant of labor, and should be done with a grading machine.

The nature of the soil, varying from a stiff clay to a light sand, influences the use of the drag. Study the results produced by the drag under all conditions of soil, season and material.

Skill born of careful observation and practice is needed. Do not expect the best results at first.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Caricaturing The Irish Race

Strongly Condemned by the Irishmen of Kingston---Time for Action.

Kingston News; At a recent meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of this city, a resolution was adopted condemning in the strongest terms the slanderous caricatures which are usually flaunted before the public, on or about St. Patrick's Day. Below is given the resolution which expresses in very vigorous language the indignation the Irish people feel to be thus chosen out from among the other nationalities for the purpose of public derision;

"Whereas, it causes us the keenest regret and resentment to see, each year, our ancient and honored race misrepresented and slandered before the public by abominable caricatures, which are exhibited in comic journals, cheap magazines and post cards, usually on or about the feast of our national apostle.

"Resolved, that, we who have undertaken to uphold the dignity and honor of our race, protest in the strongest possible manner against such a gross insult; that we no longer submit to be presented in the eyes of the world as the personification of all that is vile and vulgar, and further that we call upon our Irishmen of all classes and creeds to taboo such loathsome prints which are the productions of artists who are as ignorant of Irish manners and customs as they are of common sense and decency."

The farmers are making such good money that there is scarcely a demand they can't meet, and our bank deposits are far beyond expectations.

The public are well pleased to let the governments at Ottawa and Toronto go on performing their good work.

The Ontario government at Toronto has been the means of almost a prohibition village here. Let Peterboro and Lindsay, the two county towns, follow our good example, and there will be no outside ones to replenish the thirsty ones.

There has been favorable word received here from friends of Dr. J. P. Keith, now of Sault Ste Marie. Dr. and Mrs. Hall were in Toronto on Tuesday.

The debate, "Resolved, that the foreign element is detrimental to Canada," held in the basement of the Methodist church last Friday evening, proved to be very interesting. The affirmative were all looked upon as winners and felt very confident about the result. However, through the indefatigable work of F. H. Moore, supported by Miss A. Methcrall and Miss C. Dix, the negative were proclaimed winners. The winners are to be congratulated on their work, as it was the hardest side of the question to fight for. The affirmative were Mr. Thompson, Miss Lapp and Miss McKee. The judges were A. Stacey, G. Mark and C. Netherton.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—American Markets Are Little Changed.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—London cables are steady at 10½c to 13c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, were 69 carloads, composed of 996 cattle, 908 hogs, 459 sheep and 140 calves, since Tuesday.

Exporters.

There were no export steers bought for shipping purposes, at least, none were reported. A fair supply of export bulls were sold at $3.75 to $4.25 for the bulk, with a few choice at a little more money.

Butchers.

Owing to light supply and several outside buyers, there was a little sharper trade, but there was no difference in price, at least the leading dealers so reported. A few, not more than 20, prime picked cattle sold at $4.80 to $5 per cwt.; loads of the best sold at $4.40 to $4.60; medium, $4.25 to $4.40; common, $3.75 to $4.10; cows, $2.50 to $4 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

None were offered or sold as such, but there were many light cattle on the market, that other years would not have been taken for any other purpose than for feeding, and fully half the cattle offered and sold to kill this winter were nothing more or less than feeders. Harry Murby has orders on hand, but cannot get either feeders or stockers, to fill them. Mr. Murby bought 100 cattle, 850 to 1100 lbs., at $3.60 to $4.40 per cwt., amongst which were cattle that ought to have gone to the stable.

Milkers and Springers.

Many milkers and springers have been brought on the market this week. A large number of them were of poor quality, which at the latter end of the week were hard to dispose of. Good to choice milkers and forward springers sold fairly well at $40 to $55, and a very few of extra quality sold well up to $60 each; light lean common springers and milkers sold from $18 up to $25; medium cows, about $35 each.

Veal Calves.

The bulk of calves offered were of poor quality. Prices ranged from $3 to $6 per cwt. Prime quality calves are worth more money.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes, $4.25 to $4.75 per cwt.; rams, $3 to $4; lambs of good quality sold at $6.50 to $7 per cwt.; common lambs, $5 to $6 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted prices lower at $5 for selects, fed and watered, and lights at $4.75 per cwt., which is a decline of 15 cents per cwt.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Feb. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; firm; prime steers, $5.60 to $5.85.

Veals—Receipts, 150 head; active and steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 4300 head; fairly active and 10c to 15c lower; heavy and mixed, $4.65 to $4.70; yorkers, $4.60 to $4.70; pigs, $4 to $4.50; roughs, $3.90 to $4.10; dairies, $4.50 to $4.65.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; active; lambs, 10c; wethers, 15c higher; lambs, $5 to $7.60; yearlings, $6.25 to $6.50; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $2 to $5.65.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated about 7000; market steady; steers, $4.25 to $6.15; cows, $3.25 to $5; heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.40 to $4.50; calves, $5.75 to $7.25; stockers and feeders, $2.75 to $4.90.

Hogs—Receipts estimated at about 36,000; market steady and firm; choice heavy shipping, $4.35 to $4.40; butchers', $4.35 to $4.40; light mixed, $4.25 to $4.35; choice light, $4.30 to $4.35; packing, $4 to $4.35; pigs, $3.60 to $4.30; bulk of sales, $4.30 to $4.35.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at about 12,000; market lambs, weak; sheep, steady; sheep, $4.25 to $5.65; lambs, $6 to $6.85; yearlings, $5.75 to $6.20.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in Local and Sporting Circles Generally.

Hockey.

Wednesday night's Town League double-header games between the Bankerss and Y.M.C.A. and C. L. S. and Little Britain were fairly well attended, and the interest displayed was intense throughout.. Owing to the soft weather the ice was rather heavy and consequently none of the teams was able to put forth the usual fast hockey all the time.

The first game, refereed by Koyl, the famous point of the Intermediates, seemed slow indeed after the fast games that have usually been played this winter before Lindsay sports. The only reason, probably, was the soft ice and warmer weather. Koyl held both teams well in hand and permitted as little dirty work as possible during the game. Both teams were highly satisfied with him as referee. The score when the time-keepers came on the ice was 4-3 for the Bankers. The Y.M.C.A. have shown themselves to be sports and game losers throughout the season.

The second game, C.L.S. vs. Little Britain, proved a good deal more interesting, and the players seemed to be able to get about the ice a good deal faster despite the temperature. This time Stoddard, the Intermediates crack captain, refereed the game, and like Koyl, knew the points pretty well, although he allowed a show of rough-house. Slashing, tripping and so forth were prevalent throughout, but the game was far more exciting and faster than the first. The score was, C.L.S. 7, Little Britain 2.

SIDELIGHTS.

Pat. White says that he objects, and the public strenuously objects, to the way certain rooters signify their pleasure and excitement at the Town League games. For instance, he says it is the wish of all that Mr. Jas. Graham would kindly refrain from pounding on the boards with the large stick of hardwood he carries. The rink is not a boiler shop.

Mr. Graham, on being interviewed, said in defence that he applauded in that manner only when the Bankers scored a goal, which, he says, was mighty seldom. His pounding, he says, is preferable to Mr. White's Irish war-whoop anyway.

"TOGOS" VS. "LAURA MAC'S."

On Wednesday night, there being only one Town League game, a match has been arranged between the famous "Togos" and the "Laura Macs". Friends and acquaintances please accetp this invitation. No flowers. Following is the line-up of the teams;

"TYPOS" IN THE FIRING LINE.

Following is the line-up of the "Typos", who will meet the winners of the "Togo . 'Laura Mac" game:
Goal—"Busty" Connell.
[illegible] Johnson.
Centre—"Chappy" Chapman.
Right Wing—"Brushy" Henley.
Rover "[illegible]" Barry.

CANNINGTON HOSPITALITY.

Last night about ten Lindsaites journeyed by train to Cannington to try conclusions with the Cannington Intermediates. Owing to the bad condition of the road, it was 9 o'clock before they reached the village, and about 9.30 before play commenced. However, there was a good crowd to witness the game, and the Cannington septette were pronounced good sports through and through. The Lindsay line-up was; Goal, McGrath; point, Koyl; cover, Sullivan; rover, Killen; centre, Lane; left, Cain; right, Reilly.

During the first half it looked decidedly like a win for Cannington, the half-time score being 4-2 in their favor. However, during the second half our boys spruced up a bit and simply played them off their feet, finishing with a score of 7-5 in favor of Lindsay.

The game was fast, but clean and friendly throughout. After the game the Cannington boys very kindly took the Lindsayites over to an oyster supper, where they were royally entertained for a time. All who went have nothing but praise for the treatment they received while in the little burg.

A game of hockey is proposed in the near future between Dundas & Flaveiles store and Flavele's mill.

The Peterboro Ladies hockey team has sent up word that it would like to arrange for a game with the Lindsay ladies next Tuesday.

Hockey at the Collegiate is in full swing Last night 3A beat the Commercial 6-0. 3B and the second form play between four and six this afternoon.

Curling

Four rinks of Lindsay curlers took the train for Orillia this morning.

Running

THEY ARE BITTER RIVALS

There is a chance of a three-mile race between Tom Longboat and Percy Sellen. Although they are both club-mates in the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club, intense rivalry exists between the pair ever since the Indian came within a second of beating the Englishman's five mile Canadian record of 26.25, made at the Island oval. At Boston in the relay Sellen took the first three miles. He set a hot clip, and in a desperate finish beat Tom in by five yards. Sellen felt exhausted, while the Onondaga was so angry over the trimming that he wanted to hold a war dance on his prostrate form. He demanded a chance to get at Sellen and has been sore ever since over it. To-day when he was told that he could name his distance to meet Sellen he simply said, "Three miles."

Sellen said three miles suited him, and they will be put together shortly. The chances are that the race will be pulled off indoors at an I. C. A. C. Club affair. There will be blood on the moon when they get away from the mark.

After Sellen and the Indian get through Tom Coley and Jack Tait can have a whirl at him if they are as anxious as their friends would have the public believe.

Odds and Ends of Sport.

The Irish-Canadian Amateur A. C. seems to be having a pretty hard time these days. Tom Flanagan has resigned from the managership, which virtually means that the Irish-Canadians have lost president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and all the officials which go to make up a club's executive.—Montreal Herald.

The defeat of the Oxford Canadians by the Prince's Club team at hockey recently in London is attributed to the fact that the Canadian players weer unacquainted with the peculiarities of the forward passing game. The forward pass rule is based on the rule in vogue in Association football and in ground hockey. It permits the passing forward of the ball or puck to a player provided that when the puck was last played there were two of the opposing side between him and the goal. Offside loafing is thus ineffectual.

New Trotting Marks.

During the Plattsburg, N. Y., Driving Club's races two new world's records were established for a half-mile track over ice. In a named race Anita, owned by Frank Matty, of Syracuse, N. Y., paced the first mile in 2.15 flat; first half in 1.06 1-2. Davey K. held the world's record of 2.16, made at Delorimier Park this month. In the second heat Johnny K., owned by Ald. Sam McBride, of Toronto, Canada, stepped the first half in 1.07, and was just nosed out at the wire in 2.16 1-2 by Anita.

The second world's ice record over a half-mile ice track for trotting geldings was broken by Ald. McBride, of Toronto, when his trotter, King Bryson, stepped the second mile of the 2.18 class in 2.19 1-2; first half in 1.08 1-2. The trotter, Johnny, owned by Coulter and Hunt, of Brantford, Ont., held the ice record for trotting geldings of 2.21 1-2, at Ottawa ice meeting in 1907, which held good until this new mark.

COMMUNICATIONS

WHERE THE MONEY WENT.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—It will perhaps be remembered that only a few weeks ago I wrote a few lines re the Board of Health. I endeavored to make it plain that if the cases isolated in the smallpox houses were not chickenpox, pure and simple, there was serious doubt indeed of their being the more serious disease, and in this I am borne out by the statement of Dr. White, the family physician to Dr. Herriman and myself, and by the admission in my hearing of Dr. Jeffers, who attended the cases in quarantine, that at least some of them were doubtful, and the worst cases not well developed. Anyone conversant with smallpox knows only too well its repulsive and very contagious nature. I, at that time of writing, gave such reasons as satisfied me that these cases, one and all, were of the same nature were indeed chickenpox and chickenpox only, and although I have had opportunities of more full enquiry, I am the more satisfied that I was and am right in this, my contention. Any thinking person will agree with me that it's queer indeed if those qaurantined had smallpox, and those whom they were with, and who took the disease to them and from them, had chickenpox only, although every chance was given both before and after to convey the disease. The history of the Marshall family will exemplify this—they were Leywood's neighbors, the children played with Leywood's children. A few days after the Leywood family were taken to the isolation house, the Marshall children—five of them—had the disease, some had been waccinated, some had not. Dr. White gave Marshall medicine and said they had chickenpox, and that his own children had had it, too, there was no question of isolating this family, and Walker, who occupied half of Leywood's house, took his effects away without let or hindrance. Leywood was given a green ointment, which he rubbed on his head—did its effect similate smallpox and deceive the M.H.O.?

Again, take the fact that smallpox is the most surely communicable of all infectious diseases; then imagine a doctor entering the infected premises, protected solely by an India rubber overcoat, then going freely amongst the pople and to his home and not carrying the disease! Why, the idea is simply absurd. It will be remembered the high and mighty stand taken by the chairman of the Board of Health in reply to my statement that the whole business connected with this "scare" was "a burlesque and a fraud," that the gentleman assured us that every economy would be practiced. Well, I know that gentleman, the Board of Revision of '98 or '99 gives us an example of this strict economy in that year; the remuneration of those councillors on the Court of Revisino was increased from $2 to $3. Of course, the oftener the Board met the more these gentlemen, who voted the municipal money to themselves, received—in '98 $300 for 20 meetings. This is the way it was worked then and since, I take from official record; "Moved by Mr. Southeran, seconded by Mr. Horn, that the Court adjourn until Tuesday, the 25th inst., at 2 o'clock. Court adjourned. Adjourned meeting Tuesday, Sept. 25. On motion the Court confirmed assessment of G. S. Patrick and A. B. Terry. The Court adjourned." No comment is necessary.

Now, sir, we will see how far this strict economy was observed in these cases which, in the aggregate, have cost the town over $900, taking into the calculation the proportion of salary of the M.H.O. and sanitary inspector received for that time.. In the first place the sanitary inspector—not a very hard worked official, not certainly very competent, and who receives, I think, $300 salary, slips in an account for "looking after Mr. Leywood while in quarantine," $7; George Foster draws $84, and George Spenceley, as nurse, $54, John Carow, for a building $114.43; another building from R. Kennedy cost $87.00; Miss Tompkins, for professional nursing, $3 a day, $108.00, and carriage from the country twice, $3.70, a total of $111.70. A. Higinbotham, drug bill, $40.65; to make sure this is perfectly straight, it is trebly certified by W. C. Jeffers, R. A. Douglas and J. McAlpine. Then there is Dr. Jeffers' bill, $133.50. I stated his remuneration at $5 a visit, which I then thought extravagant, but I find that $7 and sometimes $9 was charged, as visits were made at same time to tent and house adjoining; then there was vaccinating—he got paid for it, with vaccine given free—boy was being made while the sun shone. The grocers' and butchers' bills run up to $39.80 and milk $6.74, which in itself gives food for thought, as outside the doctors and druggists' bills the food is good, solid, substantial bologna sausage, pork, beef, chicken, etc., nothing to show that the sickness was at any time very serious, necessitating a special diet, 20 or 30 visits from the doctor, attendance daily, or any need of professional nursing.

Now, Mr. Editor, I do not write from pique, but I am a ratepayer and necessarily subscribe my quota, and having been in the Council, I know only too well the difficulty of making ends meet for municipal needs. I therefore enter a strong personal protest against such extravagant and senseless waste. There was not any need to purchase these buildings at a cost of $200; they will be torn down and lost, as others before them. There was no need of a professional nurse, with carriage to the country and back. No need of a large doctor and drug bills, as the cases were not severe, and were not at any time smallpox. The Leywood house should, if thought necessary, have been properly placarded and inmates isolated and an old lady nurse employed. I place the matter before the electorate. What will be the verdict? I do not think they will stand this kind of bulldozing, and will not allow it to be repeated. The Board of Health and its officers are their appointees, will they not see that a change is made? Only think—nearly $1,000 wasted on a bogus scare. There is not a single individual conversant with the facts, but are perfectly convinced that when Walker, Elsen and Leywood were removed to the isolation tents, they had any other disease than chickenpox. I have examined Lewood since he came out, and I defy any professional man to say that the markings were those of smallpox, and I write as before that there was a mistake in diagnosis, accidental, premeditated, or through ignorance in any case, not excusable, and which has cost this town over $900. This sum would go a long way in improving our streets, and would give deserving men honest work, had ordinary common sense been used. The cost should not have been more than $200, even had the cases been smallpox, which they were not. I heard something of "friendship and graft", and I think I see evidences of it in these bills.—Yours truly,

P. PALMER BURROWS.

The Laymen's Mission Talks

Great Interest Taken in the Conferences Being Held in Town This Week.

The interest in the Fordward Missionary Movement Conferences, which are being held in the Cambridge-st. church, goes on without abatement, and each meeting is attended with numbers from the different churches, and the result no doubt will be larger giving and more interest in missions by the members of every church in town.

Thursday afternoon an address was given to the ladies by Mrs. J. B. Wilmott, of Toronto. Mrs. Willmott gave a most appealing talk on the subjects of "Missions." The lecture room of the church was filled with a much interested audience of ladies.

The evening service was presided over by Mr. W. Flavelle, and was largely attended. Mrs. Geo. Blackwell sang a most pleasing solo, and Rev. Mr. Shore gave an address on "What Women Owe to Christ," in which he pictured the life and condition of the women of heathen countries as compared with those of christian countries. He was followed by Mr. Keenleyside, who spoke on "Prayer and Missions." Both addresses were full of interesting and convincing matter, and were heard by a large audience.

To-night's meeting will be presided over by R. J. McLaughlin, esq., K. C. and Rev. Mr. Shore will speak on "Our Missionary Objective" and Mr. Keenleyside from "The Holy Spirit and Missions," and Mrs. Dr. Irvine will give a solo. This will conclude the week-day meetings.

The Bank of Montreal has been identified with the progress of Canada for nearly a century, and with the business interests of Lindsay for over half a century. It has kept pace with the progress of the century and to-day stands among the great and strong Banks of the world, with substantial capital and reserves and large assets.

It is equipped to undertake every kind and description of Banking business, both domestic and foreign, to furnish Travellers credits, and drafts negotiable in any part of the world where Banks exist, to accept for collection items on any point, and to conduct, in fact, any transaction coming within the sphere of Banking.

Referring to the Savings Department, accounts may be opened with the deposit of one dollar. It is remarkable how savings accumulate, and no better advice can be offered to those, who are able to lay aside a little from time to time, than start a Savings Bank account. In due course it places the possessor in the comfortable position of being at least comparatively independent, and free from the necessity of asking favors of anyone. It is always a good thing to have something laid by for the rainy day, that may come at any time without warning, so I would suggest to those who can, the wisdom of commencing at once, to plant the seed from which may be harvested later on the goodly fruit of financial independence.

BATTLE WAGES HOT

Government's Response to the Tactics of Obstruction.

MEMBERS SLEEP IN HOUSE

Foster's Scandalous Attack on Mr. Brodeur—Opposition Refuse to Pass Marine Estimates — Minister Accused of Keeping Public Money Till Compelled to Refund—House Still Working Away.

Ottawa, Feb. 29.—The sternest Parliamentary battle since 1896 is still proceeding. Bent upon pursuing a policy which has already cost the country half a million dollars in respect of time wasted, the Opposition were suddenly confronted on Thursday night with a Government as determined to carry on the business of the country as the Conservatives were to obstruct it. The result was that the session, which began at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, is at midnight still in progress, with every prospect of it lasting until to-night, unless the members of the Opposition who have shown themselves to be opposed to the tactics of obstruction succeed in persuading their friends to quit. The issue is not, as Mr. Foster would have the people believe, whether the Minister of Marine and Fisheries should produce certain returns which have been asked for in relation to some of the estimates for his Department, but whether the minority shall prevail and hold up public business for no other purpose than that of ventilating petty party grievances, which, magnified by the microscopic process now so familiar a part of the Conservative equipment, will yield, the Opposition vainly hope, political capital in the constituencies. It is, in short, a fight for construction as against obstruction.

At 1 o'clock this morning the House was in session, and will so continue all day.

The Marine estimates were taken up at midnight on Thursday, when Mr. Foster pitched into Mr. Brodeur for having taken $2,000 from the vote for ice-breakers to pay his expenses at the Imperial Conference. This, he said, was in conformity with the Minister's custom of asking for more money than he wanted for marine services, carrying it about for a long time and then making a refund of the excess.

Mr. Brodeur angrily retorted that this was tantamount to a charge of dishonesty.

Not one cent would the Opposition vote for the Marine Department. Hon. George E. Foster went to bed at 4 a.m. and Mr. Taylor assumed the leadership, R. L. Borden being in Montreal.

The Minister of Marine and Minister of Finance remained all night in their seats and a quorum was maintained. Sir Wilfrid was in his seat yesterday morning until 2.30.

On the subject of returns, Hon. Mr. Brodeur asserted that he had brought down this session more returns than any other Minister of the Crown had ever been called upon to produce since Confederation. Returns had already been made to the House in regard to his Departmental audit and in regard also to the expenditures of his mission to London and Paris.

If there were any missing letters in these returns they would be procured at once.

But still the Opposition would not budge. "We say," said Dr. Sproule, "that there are no non-contentious items in the estimates for this Department."

During the night Mr. Boyce (Algoma) read at great length from the report of the committee of last session as to the cruise of the Government steamer Arctic to Hudson Bay. When he got through Mr. Leonard (Laval) read the same evidence over in French.

F. D. Monk, too, engaged the attention of the House at great length in both languages. Dr. Sproule and George Taylor (Conservative whip) complained that Hon. Mr. Brodeur's record was one of extravagance as an administrator.

The occasion recalls the record made by the opponents of the Franchise Act in 1885, when the House was in session from Thursday afternoon till Saturday midnight. This occasion was made famous by the speech of Edward Blake, who kept one eye on the clock the last ten minutes before midnight, while the Liberal members and crowded galleries kept up a sustained applause.

The First Breathing Spell.

Along about noon Mr. Bennett of Simcoe had the floor and devoted himself to eliciting information from Mr. Brodeur as to an item of $4,000 for the board of the expert accountants brought to Ottawa from New York to change the system of bookkeeping in the Marine Department. The accountants charged $3, $4 and $5 a day for board. But it so happened that Wm. L. Jackson of Elgin stayed at the same boarding-house with two of them and the rate there was not over $1 a day. Moreover, Mr. Brodeur said the vouchers were to be produced. There were no vouchers produced.

Dr. Barr declared that Ministers "suffering from swelled head or something were responsible for this situation." Of all Departments he said the marine was the most suspicious, and all session there had been rumors of its being "rotten to the core." He kept up the talking till the Speaker left the chair for the 6 o'clock recess.

This was the first break since 6 o'clock Thursday night. It is automatic, and gives both sides a breathing spell.

Members Sang "O Canada."

The departure of the Speaker was marked by the singing of "O Canada" by Dr. Beland of Beauce and the French-Canadian contingent.

On resuming Mr. Blain (Peel) asked the Minister to state the address of the firm of accountants employed by the Government to change the system of bookkeeping in the Marine Department. The Minister of Marine had misled the House when he said the firm was located in Montreal, as the accounts showed traveling expenses to and from New York paid by the Government.

Mr. Brodeur, however, was silent, except that he backed up Duncan Ross of Yale-Cariboo in demanding that the Peel man stick closely to the item before the committee. Later on he said he refused to answer questions not pertinent to the item. But Mr. Blain went on and there was an uproar, several members attempting to speak to the point of order and both sides getting so far away from it that the Deputy Speaker did not make a ruling.

Finally, Mr. Foster discoursed on the wisdom of invoking the strict rules while in committee of supply.

After ten last night Mr. Foster noted the absence of the Minister. In the afternoon Mr. Brodeur had complained that he (Foster) had made a "vicious attack" upon him. Now Mr. Foster proposed to give the proof of the statement he made, but the Minister was not in his seat.

Mr. Fisher, who was leading the House, sent the chief whip for Mr. Brodeur, who came in amid Liberal applause.

Mr. Foster detailed the Falconer transaction and his comment upon the looseness of Mr. Brodeur in making a verbal contract involving a large amount was severe.

VIRTUES OF MONTREAL.

Senators Resent Attacks on Eastern City—Senate Adjourns.

Ottawa, Feb. 29.—Senator R. W. Scott's statement, that crime was rampant in Montreal, brought on a spirited discussion in the Upper Chamber yesterday, Senator Cloran declaring that the law was enforced in the Canadian metropolis just as much as in Ottawa. He demanded that the Government take further measures to prevent the criminal class coming to Canada.

Senator David said the Secretary of State had the right to defend the Government and show that they are not responsible for everything that happens in Canada, but it was not necessary for him to attack Montreal. Senator David said he was obliged to criticize the statement attributed to the Secretary, that Montread had a body of police who committed crime for $5, and that fact was an inducement to commit crime.

Hon. Mr. Scott said he had not intended to convey this.

The Senate adjourned until March 10.

SIX BABES AT A BIRTH.

Two Pair of Triplets Born to Couple In Ohio.

Steubenville, Ohio, Feb. 29—Six perfectly formed children were born here yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell. Three of the infants died within an hour after birth. One boy and girl will live, it is said. Three were boys. Mrs. Campbell weighs less than a hundred pounds. The combined weight of the infants was 23 pounds. Physicians declare the case to be one of the most remarkable known. Campbell is a millworker and has four brothers. To the family of two of these, twins have been born, and each of the other brothers is father of triplets.

Campbell's first wife died after becoming the mother of triplets.

Campbell was for twelve years in the U. S. navy and fought under Schley off Santiago.

Riot at Fredericton.

Fredericton, N.B., Feb. 29.—A wild riot took place at the rink here on Thursday night, caused by the arrest of one of the Moncton hockey team players on account of his actions in a previous game. The result was that the game was not played at all, the referee deciding in favor of the Fredericton team. The people became greatly excited and demanded their money back, breaking windows and destroying other property. Amateur hockey received its deathblow. There has always been great bitterness between the two teams, and the climax came last night.

BUDGET NEXT WEEK

Estimates May Be Brought Down on Thursday.

CHILD LABOR DISCUSSED

Bill to Amend Shops and Factories Acts Before the House—Mr. Preston Criticizes Government Measures—Minimum Age Raised to Twelve Years — After Sweatshops—Careful Legislation Needed.

Toronto, Feb. 29.—Hon. A. J. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, will lay the public accounts before the Legislature on Monday. He made this announcement at yesterday's sitting.

"From the reports of the staff, who are now busily engaged upon them," the Minister continued, "I do not expect to be able to bring down the estimates before Thursday at the earliest. I propose to follow the Dominion House precedent in not delivering the budget speech now, but going on with supply. This gives more time to members on both sides of the House to look into the accounts and estimates for themselves."

Hon. Mr. MacKay, the Liberal leader, acquiesced.

In response to a question from Mr. Smith (Peel) Hon. Mr. Hanna stated that 214 justices of the peace had been appointed in Peel County since the present Government attained power, 161 of whom had qualified. In the town of Brampton 41 had been appointed and 33 had qualified.

On the second reading of Hon. Nelson Monteith's bill to amend the Shops' Act by raising the minimum age at which children could be employed from 10 years to 12, Mr. T. H. Preston (Brant) urged that the age be determined at 14. He reviewed the work of the special committee on child labor during last session, and complimented the work of the Minister of Agriculture thereon. It had been shown that child labor to a serious extent existed in the province, and the foreign population which was pouring in necessitated the most careful legislation. The fact had been shown that the public school attendance in the province was only 52 per cent. of the enrollment. Mr. Preston expressed the hope that, at the present session, the Minister of Education would bring down some important amendments to the Truancy Act. They were needed. He further urged enactments prohibiting the employment of young boys in the hotels.

Hon. Mr. Whitney—"If we should banish the bar there would perhaps be no need for that enactment."

Mr. Preston—Well, it would be a short cut. For myself, I think every boy ought to be called upon to attend school until he is 14."

Mr Preston urged that an educational qualification be required and that dangerous and immoral places, sweat shops and street sales be dealt with.

"This bill is not even a crumb to the labor interests," began Mr. Allan Studholme. "You might as well throw it in the waste paper basket for all the good it will do."

Hon. Mr. Monteith did not regard the age named as a finality. It was a start and the desire was not to make it too radical to obtain enforcement. He told Mr. Studholme he was considering the changing of the 11 o'clock at night hour to 10.

Hon. Mr. Whitney said that while he was prepared to go as far as anyone in preventing the dangers of child labor, he thought to obtain an effectual enforcement of the law it was best to make haste slowly. "As to the newsboys," added the Premier with a smile. "I fancy those I have come in contact with can be let alone. They will make their way in the world."

The bill was given its second reading.

May Give Up Congo State.

Brussels, Feb. 29.—The recent debate in the British House of Commons and the speech of Sir Edward Grey relative to the Congo situation has caused a deep impression in political circles.

It is reported that King Leopold now demands a civil list of $660,000 from the Congo and the various parties are showing signs of impatience.

It is even considered probable that the Belgian Parliament will abandon the Congo Free State altogether unless a prompt decision is reached.

Locomotive Ran Away.

Brockwayville, Pa., Feb. 29.—A locomotive running wild through the Erie Railroad yards here crashed into the rear of a freight train, killing two men.

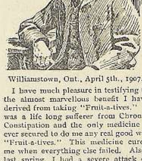
ALMOST GIVEN UP

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HIS LIFE

Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of St. Andrews Sunday School in Williamstown for nine years and License Commissioner for Glengarry — and Tax Collector for Charlottenburg—for fourteen years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-a-tives."



Williamstown, Ont., April 5th., 1907.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a life long sufferer from Chronic Constipation and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring, I had a severe attack of bladder trouble with kidney trouble, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for Chronic Constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action. 147

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box —6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

TRIED TO KILL SHAH

Bombs Shatter His Majesty's Auto Sent Ahead as Decoy.

THREE OUTRIDERS KILLED

Deadly Missiles Were Thrown From Roof of a House—Covered Car Completely Wrecked—Shah Was Riding In Another Carriage In the Cortege—Scores of Bystanders Wounded by the Explosion.

Teheran, Persia, Feb. 29.—An attempt was made in this city yesterday afternoon to assassinate the Shah of Persia by a bomb. His Majesty was not hurt. Three of the outriders who were accompanying him at the time were killed.

The Shah owes his escape to the precautions taken to protect him from just such an attempt as was made. He was on his way to a nearby town, where he intended to pass a few days. The procession had left the palace and was traversing a narrow street, when two bombs were hurled at it from the roof of a house. One exploded in the air, but the other struck the ground near the Shah's automobile. This missile killed the three outriders, wounding the chauffeur and a score of bystanders and shattered the vehicle.

The Shah, however, was not in his automobile, having taken the precaution to send the motor car on ahead and ride himself in a carriage further in the rear of the procession. The motor car was a closed one, and it was thought that the sovereign was inside.

As soon as the Shah heard the explosions he alighted hurriedly from his carriage and entered a neighboring house. Here he remained quietly while his attendants sent word for a detachment of troops. The soldiers were hurried to the scene and formed in front of the house where the Shah was. He then came out, and, surrounded by a bodyguard, returned to the palace.

The house from which the bombs were thrown and the buildings nearby were searched by the police, but no arrests were made.

ATTEMPT PRESIDENT'S LIFE.

Dynamite Bomb Thrown at Carriage But Failed to Explode.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 29.—A dynamite bomb was thrown against a carriage in which President Alcorta was driving, but failed to explode.

Four persons were arrested charged with complicity in the plot.

Recently there has been political unrest in Argentina owing to the issuance, Jan. 26, of an executive decree closing the extraordinary sessions of congress, and putting into effect for the current financial year the budget of 1907. This extreme measure was made necessary by the obstructive tactics of a majority in the Senate which made impossible the passage of the budget or other legislation, leaving the Government powerless to meet ordinary expenses. President Alcorta announced at the time that the Government was prepared promptly to suppress any subversive or violent movement on the part of the Opposition, and on Jan. 27 large forces of police prevented the Senators and Deputies from attempting to take possession of the Parliamentary halls. It was stated at the time that the decree of President Alcorta was approved by a majority of the people.

Boy Murderer Is Penitent.

Detroit, Feb. 29.—"Mother, just wait until I get paroled, then I'm going to be God's own child and devote myself to saving lost souls."

This passage was contained in a letter that Percy Bowin, the self-confessed slayer of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, wrote to his mother in Woodstock, Ont., Thursday.

Apparently Bowin has little hope of acquittal of the charge of murder for which he is to be tried soon, as in the letter he made no reference to the approaching trial except to express the hope that she would be there. The whole letter was filled with expressions of penitence and determination to lead an exemplary life when he regains his freedom.

The letter was the result of several days of hard labor on the part of Bowin, who is anything but a scholar. The missive was scrawled, blotted and misspelled, but he finally finished it, and it was forwarded to the brokenhearted mother in Woodstock yesterday morning.

Saloon Keeper Shot Thief.

New York, Feb. 29.—In a desperate battle with four men who attempted to rob him as he was about to close his saloon in East 24th street early yesterday, Thomas Craven shot one of the robbers dead. Then fearing the killing might mean a long term of imprisonment he concealed the body in a hallway outside the saloon and hurried to his home.

Armstrong Law Amended.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 29.—Governor Hughes yesterday signed the bill of Assemblyman Hamn amending the so-called Armstrong insurance laws, so as to permit insurance companies holding bonds on which there has been a default in interest to enter reorganization committee, for the purpose of protecting their securities.

Will Still Teach.

Rome, Feb. 29.—The Cabinet was victorious in its opposition to the abolition of religious teachings in the schools. The motion brought in the Chamber of Deputies by the Socialist party was defeated by 333 to 106.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE PLEASED.

British House Passes First Reading of Women's Franchise Bill.

London, Feb. 29.—The Women's Enfranchisement Bill passed its first reading in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by a vote of 271 to 92, and as soon as the news reached Westminster Palace the waiting crowds of women suffragists who had assembled there broke out in round after round of cheers.

The measure is identical with the bill defeated March, 1907. Herbert Gladstone, the Home Secretary, declared that personally he favored the principles of the bill, but he thought that public opinion would have to be moved before any effort could be given to it.

The opponents to the bill made no objection to the vote of the House being taken, and as its promoters consented to its reference to a committee of the whole House, the bill is effectually shelved for the present session.

Great crowds of women awaited the result near the House of Commons and strong detachments of police had been brought up to guard against possible disturbance, but beyond cheering there was little demonstration.

CALLS THE BILL ROBBERY.

Great Brewery Interests Will Fight British License Measure.

London, Feb. 29.—Chancellor Asquith's bold and drastic licensing bill, which was introduced in the House of Commons Thursday is raising a storm of denunciation in the Opposition press.

Mr. Balfour gave his party a lead in a brief speech stigmatizing the measure as "robbery."

The tremendous strength of the brewing interests throughout the country will be brought to bear in an endeavor to prevent the passage of the bill or to obtain an extensive amendment, especially as in the direction of securing a longer time limit than fourteen years, which is regarded as likely to inflict serious injury to the interests of the shareholders of brewing companies representing a capital of $1,200,000,000.

Some of the Unionists regard the bill as another move in the campaign against the House of Lords.

The best opinion in the lobby, however, favored the view that Mr. Asquith is asking much more than he hopes to obtain, and that the bill would pass in greatly amended form.

Monk a Murderer.

Verkhoturye, Perm, Russia, Feb. 29.—The Circuit Court of this town yesterday meted out partial justice to a monk of the Greek Church named Feodotoff, whose criminal and iniquitous life was revealed last fall, by sentencing him to penal servitude for 15 years.

Feodotoff came to Verkhoturye from another province about two years ago, and set up a shrine in a neighboring forest, where he lived as a hermit. He soon attained a great reputation for marvellous cures, and his little chapel in the solitude of the woods became the objective for pilgrimages from all parts of the province of Perm. The monk enjoyed a great reputation for sanctity but when the revelations came it was learned that his holy ways and words were nothing but a cloak for robbery, murder and debauchery of every kind. The repeated disappearance of female pilgrims who visited the monk's chapel finally attracted the attention of the authorities, and resulted in a careful investigation. This disclosed the bodies of no less than 20 victims whom Feodotoff had murdered and then buried in the cellar of his house.

Effort to Save Terrorists.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—That the sentence of death imposed Thursday against Calvino, the Italian newspaper correspondent, and six other terrorists who were convicted of complicity in the recent plot upon the lives of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaivitch and Chtcheglovitoff, the Minister of Justice, will not be carried into effect without an effort being made to save them was made manifest yesterday, when an appeal based on constitutional grounds and involving the competency of the Douma was lodged with Gen. Hazenkampf, chief of the general staff.

Run Over by a Train.

Woodstock, Feb. 29—Leonard Coutts of London, an engineer on the G.T.R., was killed some time Thursday night on the G.T.R., just west of the station. His body was torn and mangled into a thousand pieces, and conditions looked as though it had been run over by a dozen trains. The head was left intact, and by this he was identified. Sectionmen going to work yesterday morning discovered the gruesome spectacle, and with their shovels they loaded the parts of the body in a wheelbarrow and had it sent up town.

After King Alfonso.

Paris, Feb. 29.—A special despatch to The Matin from Madrid says there is much uneasiness at what appears to be a renewal of Anarchistic activity. On several occasions recently, the despatch says, suspicious persons have been arrested while trying to approach King Alfonso. The authorities, however, maintain strict secrecy about these arrests. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to safeguard the King.

British Flag Good Enough.

Montreal, Feb. 29.—"The British flag is good enough for us," constitutes the head lines of a very outspoken article in last evening's La Patrie referring to Dr. Thompson's independence speech in the House of Commons.

"We are aware," says La Patrie, "that a few people in Canada have had dreams of independence, but no one ever thinks of the thing to-day."

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes, and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY

"Well, sir, we were a mournful pair to draw to that day. We sat there and cussed and said, 'Now, why didn't we do this, that and t'other thing instead of blowing our hard earned dough?' till bimeby we just dripped melancholy, you might say. Howsomever, we weren't booked for a dull time just yet. That afternoon there was a great popping of whips like an Injun skirmish and into town comes a bull train half a mile long. Twelve yoke of bulls to the team; lead, swing and trail wagons for each, as big as houses on wheels. You don't see the like of that in this country. Down the street they come, the dust flying, whips cracking and the lads hollering: 'Whoa haw, Mary—up there! Wherp! Whoa haw!'

"And those fellers had picked up dry throats walking in the dust; also they had a month's wages aching in their pockets. We hadn't much more'n got the thump of their arrival out of our ears when who comes roaring into town but the Bengal Tiger gang, and they had four months' wages. The owner of the mine got on a bender and paid everybody off by mistake. You can hardly imagine how this livened up things. There ain't nobody less likely to play lame duck than me, but there was no dodging the hospitality. The only idea prevailing was to be rid of the money as soon as possible. The effects showed right off. You could hear one man telling the folks for their own good that he was the Old Missouri River, and when he felt like swelling his banks it was time for parties who couldn't swim to hunt the high ground, while the gentleman on the next corner let us know that he was a locomotive carrying 300 pounds of steam with the gauge still climbing and the blower on. When he whistled three times, he said, any intelligent man would know that there was danger around.

"Well, sir, I put the Old Missouri River to bed that night, and he'd flattened out to a very small streamlet indeed, while the locomotive went lame before supper and had to be put in the roundhouse by a couple of pushers. That's the way with fine ideas. Cold facts comes and puts a crimp in them. Once I knew a small feller I could have stuck in my pocket and forgot about, but when we went out and took several presciptions together on a day he spoke to me like this. 'Red,' says he, 'put your little hand in mine, and we'll go and take a birdseye view of the universe.' Astonishin' idea, wasn't it? And him not weighing over a hundred pound. Howsomever, he didn't take any birdseye view of the universe. He only become strikingly indisposed.

"Well, to get back to Boise, you never in all your life saw so many men and brothers as was gathered there that day, and old Aggy, he was one of the centers of attraction. That big voice and black beard was always where the crowd was thickest and the wet goods flowing the freest. 'Gentlemen,' says he, 'let's lift up our voices in melody!' That was one of Ag's delusions—he thought he could sing. So four of 'em got on top of a billiard table and presented 'Rocked In the Cradle of the Deep' to the company, which made me feel glad that I hadn't been brought up that way. After Ag had hip locked the last low note another song bird volunteered.

"This was a little fat Dutchman, with pale blue eyes and a mustache like two streaks of darning cotton. He had come to town to sell a pair of beef steers, but got drawn into the general hilarity, and now he didn't care a cuss whether he, she or it ever sold another steer. He got himself on end and sung 'Leeb Fadderlont moxtrue eckstein' in a style that made you wonder that the human nose could stand the strain.

"'Aw, cheese that!' says a feller near the door. 'Come, get your steers; one of 'em's just chased the barber up a telegraph pole!'

"So then we all piled out into the street to see the steers. Sure enough, there was the barber sitting on the crosspiece and the steer pawing dirt underneath.

"'He done made me come a fast heat from de cobner,' says the barber. 'I kep' hollerin' "Next!" but he ain't pay no 'tention—he make it "next" fur me, shuah! Yah, yah, yah! You gents orter seen me start at de bottom an' slide all de way up dis yer telegraft pole!'

"One of the bull whackers went out to rope the steers, and Ag gave directions from the sidewalk. He wasn't very handy with a riata, and that's a fact, but the way Ag lit into him was scandalous. When he'd missed about six casts of his rope, Ag opened up on him:

"'Put a stamp on it and send it to him by mail,' said Aggy in his sourcastic way. 'Address it, "Bay Steer, middle of Main street, Boise, Ida. If not delivered within ten days, return to owner, who can use it to hang himself." Blast my hide if I couldn't stand here and throw a box car nearer to the critter! Well, well, well! How many left hands have you got, anyhow? Do it up in a wad and heave it at him for general results. He might get tangled in it.'

"It rattled the bull whacker, having so much attention drawn to him, and he stepped on the rope and twisted himself up in it and was flying light generally.

"'Say,' says Ag, appealing to the crowd, 'won't some kind friend who's fond of puzzles go down and help that gentleman do himself?'

"That made the whacker mad. He was as red in the face as a lobster.

"'You come down and show what you can do,' says he. 'You've got gas enough for a balloon ascension, but that may be all there is to you.'

"'Oh, I ain't so much,' says Aggy, 'although I'm as good a man today as ever I was in my life, but I have a little friend here who can rope, down and ride that critter from here to the brick front in five minutes by the watch, and if you've got a twenty-five dollar bill in your pocket or its equivalent in dust you can observe the experiment.'

"'I'll go you, by gosh!' says the bull whacker, slapping his hat on the ground and digging for his pile.

"'Say, if you're referring to me, Ag,' I says, 'it's kind of a sudden spring. I ain't what you might call in training, and that steer is full of triple extract of giant powder.'

"'G'wan!' says Ag. 'You can do it—and then we're twenty-five ahead.'

"'But suppose we lose?'

"'Well— It won't be such an awful loss.'

"'Now, you look here, Agamemnon G. Jones,' says I, 'I ain't going to stand for putting up a summer breeze agin that feller's good dough. That's a skin game, to speak it pleasantly.'

"Then Aggy argues the case with me, and when Aggy started to argue you might just as well 'moo' and chase yourself into the corral, because he'd get you sure. Why, that man could sit in the cabin and make roses bloom right in the middle of the floor. While he was singing his little song you could see 'em and smell 'em. He could talk a snowbank off a high divide in the middle of February. Never see anybody with such a medicine tongue, and in a big man it was all the stranger. 'Now,' he winds up, 'as for cheating that feller, you ought to know me better, Red. Why, I'll give him my note.'

"So, anyhow, I done it. Up the street we went, steer bawling and buck jumping, my hair a-flying and me as busy as the little bee you read about keeping that steer underneath me 'stead of on top of me, where he'd ruther be, and after us the whole town, whoopin', yellin', crackin' off six shooters and carryin' on wild.

"Then we had $25 and was as good as anybody. But it didn't last long. The tin horns come out after pay day like hoptoads after a rain. 'Twould puzzle the government at Washington to know where they hang out in the meantime. There was one lad had a face on him with about as much expression as a hotel punkin pie. He run an arrow game, and he talked right straight along in a voice that had no more bends in it than a billiard cue.

"'Here's where you get your three for one any child may do it no chance to lose make your bets while the arrow of fortune swings all gents accommodated in amounts from two bits to double eagles and bets paid on the nail,' says he.

"'Red,' says Aggy, 'I can double our pile right here. Let me have the money. I know this game.' You'd hardly believe it, but I dug up. 'Double or quits?' says he to the dealer.

"'Let her go,' says the dealer. The arrow swung around. 'Quits,' says the dealer and raked in my dough. It was all over in one second.

"I grabbed Aggy by the shoulder and took him in the corner for a private talk. 'I thought you knew this game?' says I.

"'I do,' says he. 'That's the way it always happens.' And once more in my life I experienced the peculiar feeling of being altogether at a loss for words.

"'Aggy,' says I at last, 'I've got a good notion to lay two violent hands on you and wind you up like an eight day clock, but rather than make hard feelings between friends I'll refrain. Besides, you are a funny cuss, that's sure. One thing, boy, you can mark down. We leave here tomorrow morning.'

"'All right,' says Ag. 'This sporting life is the very devil. I like outdoors as well as the next man, when I get there.'

"So the morrow morning away we went. All we had for kit was the picks, shovels and pans. The rest of our belongings was staying with the hotel man until we made a rise.

"Ag said he'd be cussed if he'd walk. A hundred and fifty miles of stroll was too many.

"'But we ain't got a cent to pay the stage fare,' says I.

"'Borrow it of Uncle Hotel-keep,' says he.

"'Not by a town site,' says I. 'We owe him all we're going to at this very minute. You'll have to hoof it, that's all.'

"'I tell you I won't. I don't like to have anybody walk on my feet, not even myself. I can stand off that stage driver so easy that you'll wonder I don't take it up as a profession. Now, don't raise any more objections—please don't,' says he. 'I can't tell you how nervous you make me, always finding some fault with everything I try to do. That's no way for a hired man to act, let alone a pardner.'

"So of course he got the best of me, as usual, and we climbed into the stage when she come along. Now, our bad luck seemed to hold, because you wouldn't find many men in that country who wouldn't stake two fellers to a wagon ride wherever they wanted to go and be pleasant about it. I'd have sure seen that the man got paid, even if Aggy forgot it, but the man that drove us was the surliest brute that ever growled. When you'd speak to him he'd say, 'Unh'—a style of thing that didn't go well in that part of the country. I kept my mouth shut, as knowing that I didn't have the come-up-with weighed on my spirits, but Aggy gave him the jolly. He only meant it in fun, and there was plenty of reason for it, too, for you never seen such a game of driving as that feller put up in all your life. The Lord save us! He cut around one corner of a mountain so that for the longest second I've lived through my left foot hung over about a thousand feet of fresh air. I'd have had time to write my will before I touched bottom if we'd gone over. I don't know as I turned pale, but my hair ain't been of the same rosy complexion since.

"I tell you I won't. I don't like to have anybody walk on my feet."

"'Well!' says Aggy in a surprised tone of voice when we got all four wheels on the ground again. 'Here we are!' says he. 'Who'd have suspected it? I thought he was going to take the short cut down to the creek.'

"The driver turned round with one corner of his lip h'isted—a dead ringer of a mean man. Says he to Aggy, 'Yer a funny bloke, ain't yer?'

"'Why,' says Ag, 'that's for you to say—wouldn't look well coming from me—but if you press me I'll admit I give birth to a little gem now and then.'

"Our bold buck puts on a great swagger. 'Well, yer needn't be funny in this wagon,' says he. 'The pair of yer spongin' a ride! Yer needn't be gay. Yer hear me, don't cher?'

"'Why, I hear you as plain as though you set right next me,' says Ag. 'Now, you listen and see if I'm audible at the same range. You're a blasted chump!' he roars in a tone of voice that would have carried forty mile. 'Did you hear that, Red?' he asks very innocent. I was so hot at the driver's sass—the cussed low downness of doing a feller a favor and then heaving it at him—that you could have lit a match on me anywheres, but to save me I couldn't help laughing—Ag had the comicalest way!

"At that the driver begins to larrup the horses. I ain't the kind to feel faint when a cayuse gets what's coming to him for raising the devil, but to see that lad whale his team because there wasn't nothing else he dared hit got me on my hind legs. I nestled one hand in his hair and twisted his ugly mug back.

"'Quit that!' says I.

"'You let me be—I ain't hurting you,' he hollers.

"'That ain't to say I won't be hurting you soon,' says I. 'You put the bud on them horses again, and I'll boot the spine of your back up through the top of your head till it stands out like a flagstaff. Just one more touch and you get it!' says I.

"He didn't open his mouth again till

THE OUTLOOK.

A Canadian financial journal has been giving publicity to the views of representative commercial and manufacturing men anent the industrial outlook for the Dominion during 1908. On the whole, the note of optimism is quite clear if one may judge from a recent article;

"Different courses", it says, "have contributed to the existing depressions in Canada. Thus we have been conducting business generally under boom conditions they can be little doubt; still there does not appear to be much evidence available to show that many business men anticipated the same. On the whole, it will not mean unusual evil if we are prepared to take its lessons to heart. It looks just back to original principles, as understated by the dollar, and only lend money to those with legitimate undertakings, and if business men will be satisfied with moderate expansion and carry moderate stocks, we will have learned something that will assist us in the future in meeting depressed conditions when they occur.

"The interesting point is as to the duration of the depression. This depends upon several "ifs". My own view is that it will not be short. A good deal depends upon conditions in the northwest, as well as the ability of our productive enterprises to keep their hands employed. Ours is a "good times tariff." If it proves to be one low in most good times conditions from outside, there will be trouble here. I "take it that immigration will continue to flow into this country. If immigrants continue to seek homes upon the unoccupied lands, coming in large numbers, as they have in the past, this in itself will assist in forcing about better business conditions. The season and winter in the Northwest have been favorable for carrying on farming operations. It is said that more land has been turned over this fall and upon to within a very recent date than in any previous year, owing to the mildness of the weather. If we are blessed with a favorable season for planting the crops in this, in itself will restore confidence to a great degree. On the whole, while I do not think the year 1908 will be as good a year for business as the one just passed, still I look for a considerable improvement over previous conditions."

The advisability of immigration is good as far as it goes, but unrestricted immigration — the admission of anybody and everybody — is not in the best interests of the country. We want population, but not at the expense of mingling with, degrading people in large percentage of the undesirable.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The three-fifths vote may yet be Whitney's undoing.

The University of Toronto enjoys a pretty penny, and is a great factor of the city. Its revenue for the year was $425,598, of which only $187,511 came from students' fees. Its expense was $111,096 more than for the preceding year, and it is rising steadily. During the year 3,038 students took courses.

DEATHS.

MACAULEY.—In Spokane, Feb. 15th, of Thomas D. Macauley, second son of the late Alexander Macauley, of this county.

Supt. Oborne, of the C.P.R. Addresses Lindsay Citizens

"Transportation" His Theme—Thinks the Town's Position on the C.P.R. New Short Grain Line Between the Great Lakes and Side Water Justifies an Ambitious Industrial Campaign.

About 100 of our citizens turned out last night in response to the call of President W. B. Sparling, of the Board of Trade, to hear Mr. Jameson Oborne, General Superintendent of the C.P.R. lines in Ontario, give a talk on "Transportation."

It was about 8.30 when Mr. Oborne arrived, his train having been delayed. After being introduced by the President, he at once commenced his address. He said:

One could not help being struck by the suggestion that Mr. Lindsay citizens showed a desire to make use of their advantages — at least that was the impression left with him after perusing the facts set out on the Board of Trade letter paper. Lindsay is peculiarly well situated with relation to the C.P.R. On a new short grain line from the Great Lakes to side water, when the line was completed, it was found to be in the near future, Lindsay will practically be on the main line to the seaside. This being a certainty, he (Mr. Oborne) thought the town should prepare for the industrial future of the town on a large scale. In his opinion about 1,000 acres should be set aside by the corporation for industrial developments, and it should be laid out in manufacturing sites about 200 by two to thirty acres, and provided with sidings, railway tracks, gas, electricity, etc. The town be then called on these sites should be fixed for a term of 25 years. Without quibble with there hands by a business firm requesting a site the town would be in a position to supply all information required at a moment's notice. As an example of the good results from such a plan, he would point to the City of Hamilton, which had developed in population in the last five years. The C. P. R. will always be ready to serve as an active partner in the town's growth and development, so cannot expect the Co. to show you any favor over another town or city, but if you do, as they do in negotiating an industry here, we stand ready to help all we can. (Applause.) "Let me tell you," said Mr. Oborne in earnest tones, "the wisdom of adopting a grand plan from the outset, and in this also we stand ready to co-operate with you."

A DEEP PROBLEM.

Railway men, like mindsgaers, are moved from place to place, and in that way acquire a great experience. For instance, he (Mr. Oborne) had had charge of every division of the C.P.R. with the sole exception of the one north of Lake Superior. Notwithstanding the knowledge of general conditions thus gathered, the question of transportation had in a way proofled the best minds in the country, although statistics placed Canada a little in advance of our sister neighbor to the south. Although it is only 60 or 70 years since railways were first built, there are now 23,000 miles of running track (or 27,000 including sidings) in Canada. This means one mile for every 320 people as compared with a mile for every 400 people in U. S. and a mile for every 1856 people in the United Kingdom. Other words Canada had prepared the way for the industrial expansion which he had advised the citizens of Lindsay to provide for.

In the U. S. "Traffic Clubs" had been formed in many towns and cities to discuss the question of transportation. The railway man working hour he was awake, and could scarcely give the subject the time it demanded; probably the difficulties would eventually be solved by retail railway men sitting in conjunction with Boards of Trades or the Railway Commission.

The extraordinary development that had taken place in the past ten years had resulted in some cases (particularly on the other side of the line) being in hostile legislation. At the present time 380,000 freight cars, worth over $300 each, were plying idle on American roads, and he (Mr. Oborne) supposed there would be 100,000 or 120,000 in Canada alone. This huge amount of idle capital of course failed to yield dividends. A railway man at the present day must be able to handle his employes so as to retain their confidence, and likewise win the confidence of patrons. Several things necessitated the problem to be solved — wages had increased, while the rates for the carriage of freight had decreased. In the end, he said, there is increased capital on which to earn dividends.

The Laymen's Mission Talks

Great Interest Taken in the Conferences Being Held in Town This Week.

The Sunday school hall of the Cambridge-st. Methodist church was filled again last night by an appreciative audience. Mr. Keenleyside followed up the subject of the night before, namely, "The Holy Spirit and Missions." Rev. T. E. Ellis followed with an address on "Our Missionary Opportunity", and Mrs. Irving concluded the session with a solo. The interest in the meeting has deepened as the week has progressed, and in many respects last evening's meeting was the best of the series.

The closing meetings of the campaign take place to-morrow. In the morning Mr. Keenleyside will speak on the subject, "Although He was rich, He became poor, that you through His poverty might become rich," and Rev. Mr. Shore will speak in the evening on the subject "Wilfer."

It is confidently expected that Cambridge-st. church will to-morrow be found to be the only church in Canada in which the laymen's campaign has been introduced. Elsewhere large increases have taken place, in some cases as much as one thousand per cent.

Although the committee has not sold a definite amount to be aimed at it is beyond question that there will be a handsome response to the appeal being made, that the Lord's Men of Protestant christendom furnish funds enough to send the gospel to every creature in our generation.

QUEER TEACHING.

A Glimpse of the One Time Methods in Scotch Schools.

To the work of supervisor of schools in Scotland Mr. John Kerr devoted a number of years. In his book, "Other Memories, Old and New," he has set down some amusing illustrations of the unintelligent way in which the school work was sometimes conducted.

The revised code of education which was introduced in 1862 made provision for nothing but reading, writing and arithmetic in their barest forms. There was no suggestion about grammar, geography, history or intelligence in any study. Explanation of the reading lesson was not demanded, and therefore it was neglected in some of the schools. The following is an example:

The lesson was one giving an account of a clever dog which had rescued a child from drowning. It was said that the dog was caressed by the parents of the child. I asked what was the meaning of the word "caressed," and the answer came at once, "Made o' fond lod."

On referring to the list of words at the top of the page I found the explanation given was, "made fond, fondled."

Wishing to find out if any child in the class had got a glimmering of the meaning, I went from top to bottom and got from every child nothing but "made of fond lod," pronounced as four syllables, to which they attached no meaning whatever.

The teacher was surprised that I was not satisfied with the intelligence of the teaching.

A Tenor's Rebuke.

Roger, the great French tenor, a sensitive soul, was prone to take offense at any slight, whether intentional or not. On one occasion he was engaged to sing Faure to stay at the house of a wealthy financier. Roger sang his first song magnificently, but no one gave him the slightest attention, and the guests continued to talk their loudest. Presently the host thought the time was come for another song and sent for Roger. He could not be found and that evening was seen no more. Next day there came a note from him, accompanied by 1,500 francs. The note was scrawling like this:

"I have the honor to return the 1,200 francs which I received for singing at your function, and I beg you to add 300 francs thereto for having so greatly disturbed the conversation of your guests."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Beecher's Wedding Fees.

When Collin P. Huntington was married for the second time Henry Ward Beecher performed the marriage ceremony. Huntington's first wife had been dead less than a year, and he desired the second marriage kept secret until his return from Europe. He gave Mr. Beecher a marriage fee of $1,200. When Huntington returned some months later he went through a public ceremony, and Beecher again officiated. He gave Beecher another fee of $1,500. The great preacher had his humor aroused by his second fee. Talking to Huntington, he said, "Collin, do wish you were a Mormon."—Lyceumite and Talent.

INDIA'S WHITE ANTS.

Only One Kind of Wood, Sandal, Can Withstand Their Attacks.

Insects of various kinds are a perennial plague to Indian dwellers, tea growers and others.

The tea bushes in the Assam gardens have no less than four destructive enemies, from which no means of escape has yet been devised by man. These are the bark eating borer, the sandwich caterpillar, the mosquito and the white ant, all of which attack the bush and do immense damage.

By far the worst of these plagues is the white ant, the mosquito merely attacking the leaves and causing a blight. The ants, however, begin at the roots and eat upward, reducing the wood to powder and leaving only the bark to support the top, which soon topples over for want of an over weight.

There is no Indian wood which would resist the ants' insidious attack except sandal. It delights in reducing pine and white wood to a powder. It cannot work its way in the light, but must get at the wood from the dark recesses and work within a shell.

It is some mysterious way the white ant gets indoors and has a particular penchant for penetrating into a veneered or lacquered picture frame, and in a short time nothing will remain but the frame or lacquer, nothing also being left but a small pile of dust in the border, the rest being consumed or removed.

The natural order of attack is by emitting a kind of acid, which destroys the wood. And this ant has been known to bore holes through the solid iron bottoms of trunks. Several long, supposed to be fabled in a consular building in Calcutta, were eaten away completely that they had to be replaced with steel ones.

While these destructive white ants do not seem to possess much literary taste, they sometimes attack books and destroy them by boring holes through leaves and cover from side to side.

An English resident in an Indian city had a fine set of upholstered furniture, which he protected at some expense as well as he could before leaving his home for an absence of some months on business, and when he returned he sat down in a chair, which collapsed under him like a framework of cardboard.

National School of Telegraphy.

There is good pay and lots of demand for lady telegraph operators in commercial service. Thousands of young men up in railway telegraphy and freight, and passenger work, will be wanted this summer by the various Canadian roads now under construction. This week three new pupils entered the National School of Telegraphy here—on lady and two young men. Mr. Paton informs us he can accommodate fifty more, teach them the business thoroughly, and place them well when through. Six months' time should suffice.—dwl.

Changes in Factory Act.

The new shops act introduced into the Legislature recently by Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, will cause much additional work for the nine provincial factory inspectors. The act provides that no children under 12 years of age may be employed in shops, and consequently these inspectors are now working under a new system. The entire Province is now divided into districts, and each man is assigned to a district. In this connection it is understood the Government is considering the advisability of another amendment to the shops act, making it unlawful for boys under 16 years of age to be employed in delivering goods with vehicles.

"Across the Continent."

Lindsay citizens will next week enjoy the pleasure of hearing an illustrated lecture on the above subject by Controller Dr. Harrison, of Toronto, Head Physician of the Woodmen of the World, who will visit the local Camp on Friday evening for that purpose. The lecture will be delivered in the Woodmen Hall, over Britton Bros. store. A short musical program will be rendered before and after the address. Controller Harrison, who is now putting in his third term in Council and his second as Controller, is one of the strong men of that body, and this year was appointed vice-chairman, to preside in the absence of the Mayor. It will be remembered that Controller Harrison's name was frequently mentioned as a possible opponent of Hon. Geo. E. Foster in North Toronto at the last federal election.

Peculiar People.

Christians are the Lord's peculiar people, but they are not to be just peculiar people. The whole of being religious is not to be merely odd. Believers are to live apart from the world, but yet in the world, and they will not serve God any the better for cultivating or cherishing unpleasant manners or queer conceits.

A Correction.

In the police court this morning the case of assault, Blair vs. McFadden, in which Mrs. Milton Blair charged Mrs. Jas. McFadden with assault, and Mrs. McFadden entered a similar counter charge against Mrs. Blair. Police Magistrate Jackson found in favor of Mrs. McFadden, fining Mrs. Blair $5 and costs. Mrs. Blair also had to pay the costs in the case she entered against Mrs. McFadden, which was dismissed. The evidence, etc., occupied the whole morning.

License Reduction.

The Ottawa Citizen opposes compensation for extinguished liquor licenses. It puts its case in this way. The liquor license is granted only for a year. It is renewable every twelve months, but the license has no more right to the renewal than has a public service corporation whose franchise expires at the end of a term of years. The extension of each franchise is problematical. The fact that it terminates on a fixed date constitutes a sufficient intimation that on that day it reverts to the grantor, who then has the arbitrary power of renewal or other disposal. No compensation can be expected for a license or a franchise which, the possessor is always aware, terminates on a specified day, and of the renewal of which he has no assurance. The Citizen further opposes compensation to owners of saloon buildings for the money spent in bringing them up to the requirements of the Government's edict that they "should keep hotel." The Citizen's argument is that if the hotel is needed by the community, there will be money in providing meals and lodgings for the guests who patronize it. If not, it is merely a saloon, depending on its bar for nearly all its revenue, and keeping up the appearance of a hotel in order that it may continue to do a saloon business. The contention is that the public is not obliged to recompense anyone who owns a saloon disguised as a hotel.

Agriculture in England.

(London Advertiser.)

The problem of keeping the rural population of England on the soil is a perplexing one to statesmen. The tendency to drift from the country to the cities and towns is such that in 1906 the percentage of England's population occupied in strictly rural pursuits was only 18, as against 53 at the beginning of the last century. It is estimated that not more than 5,000,000 acres have been urbanized or suburbanized during the century, while fully 32,000,000 acres lie untilled from want of laborers.

Licking Liquor Act.

According to a story from Gowrie, Iowa, Mrs. Ivan Oldgrey declared she has the gold cure for drunkards beaten, and points to her husband. Exasperated over his incessant drinking, Mrs. Oldgrey sewed him between the folds of two bed blankets while he was sleeping, and then with a horsewhip belabored his helpless form until he begged for mercy, and promised to sign a pledge as soon as released. Mrs. Oldgrey expresses faith that Ivan will keep his word.

Baby's Own Tablets Save a Little Life.

Mrs. T. Osborn, Norton Mills, Vt., writes: "I do not think enough can be said in praise of Baby's Own Tablets. I am satisfied that our baby would not have been alive today if it had not been for the Tablets, as he was so weak and sickly that he took no notice of anything. In this condition I gave him the Tablets and they have made him a bright-eyed, laughing baby, the pride of our home. He is one year old, has nine teeth, and is now as well as any baby can be. He sits and plays nearly all the time and lets me do my work without worry. I would say to all mothers who have sick babies, give them Baby's Own Tablets as I did mine, and you will have healthy, happy babies." The Tablets will cure all the minor ailments of little ones and are absolutely safe. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Canadian Forestry Ass'n

A Convention to be Held in a Couple of Weeks.

Canada's forest wealth and its preservation and the perpetuation of the forests are subjects now occupying a large share of the public attention. Not a little of the attention now given to these topics is to be ascribed to the efforts of the Canadian Forestry Association.

The Association is a national body, now numbering some 1200 members, and having on its roll representatives of every province and district of Canada, not to speak of Newfoundland, the United States, Great Britain and several European countries.

The annual meetings are held in March of each year. The next annual meeting will be held in Montreal, on March 12th and 13th, 1908. Previous annual meetings have been held in Ottawa, Toronto and Quebec.

The Canadian Forestry Convention, held at Ottawa, in January, 1906 has been the most ambitious effort of the Association, and through it the general interest in forestry in Canada was undoubtedly given an immense stimulus.

Provincial forestry conventions have also been held, within the past couple of years, at Vancouver, B. C. Fredericton, N. B., and Yarmouth, N. S.; all of these have owed much to the example and encouragement of the parent association.

Prominent lumbermen and manufacturers of lumber, paper and pulp, have from the first taken an active part in the work of the Association, in addition to teachers of forestry, scientists, government officials and others interested in one or other of the many aspects of forestry.

Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere, late Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, was the first president of the association, and among his successors have been well-known lumbermen, such as Messrs. Wm. Little, of Westmount, P. Q., Hiram Robinson, of Ottawa, and E. G. Joly de Lotbiniere, of Quebec, and officials connected with the administration of public forests, such as Mr. Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, and Mr. E. Stewart, late Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion.

The president for 1907-1908 is Mr. F. M. Price, of Quebec, prominent in the ranks of pulpwood men, while Mr. R. H. Campbell, of Ottawa, Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion, is the secretary.

The Association is still young, having been organized only in 1901, Mr. E. Stewart, then Superintendent of Forestry, being its founder. Its objects, as set forth in its constitution, comprise the advocating of judicious methods of dealing with Canada's forests and woodlands, the awakening of public interest in the consequences of reckless deforestation, the exploration of the public domain and its diversion into agricultural and non-agricultural land, with a view of having the latter set aside for permanent forest reserves, the encouragement of tree-planting and the spreading of information in regard to forests and forestry.

To aid in the last-mentioned object the Association has established the Canadian Forestry Journal, which is sent to each member of the Association.

Newspapers and Magazines.

The March issue of the Busy Man's Magazine will be found unusually instructive and interesting, particularly to those who can devote only a short time each day to reading. The articles are timely and profitable, while some of the best short stories of the month will be found within its pages. The illustrations are good, and brighten up the number wonderfully. The story of the Progress of a Canadian from Cadet to Rear-Admiral in His Majesty's navy is told in an attractive way. A clever sketch of "Tobogganing in Canada" will appeal to all lovers of the great winter pastime. Other acceptable contributions from leading writers are; "How Business Men Can Maintain Prosperity," "$25,000 Jobs that go Begging," "The Science of Selling Goods," "Titled Women Who Are in Business," "Industrial Canada as England Sees It," "What Germany Can Teach Us," "The Life Story of a Buffalo," "How Money Carries Poison," "The Circulation of British Journals," "Cutting Down Electric Light Bills," etc. There are many other features, bright and impressive, which will please "busy men." The March number of the Busy Man's Magazine is certainly well worth perusing.

Weak, Pale and Worn Out Women

Women are called the "weaker sex," and yet nature calls upon them to bear far more pain than men. With too many women it is one long martyrdom from the time they are budding into womanhood, until age begins to set its mark upon them. They are no sooner over one period of pain and distress than another looms only a few days ahead of them. No wonder so many women become worn out and old before their time.

In these times of trial Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold to women. They actually make new, rich blood, and on the richness and regularity of the blood the health of every girl and every woman depends.

Mrs. Urbane C. Webber, Welland, Ont., is one of the many women who owe present health and strength to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Webber says; "About three years ago, while living in Hamilton, my health began to decline. The first symptoms were headaches and general weakness. After a time the trouble increased so rapidly that I was unable to attend to my household duties. I lost flesh, looked bloodless and had frequent fainting fits. I was constantly doctoring, but without any benefit, and I began to feel that my condition was hopeless. One day a friend asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and mentioned several cases in which she knew of the great benefit that had followed their use. After some urging I decided to try the pills, and had only used them a few weeks when I began to feel benefitted, and from that time on the improvement was steady, and by the time I had used about a dozen boxes of the pills I was again enjoying the blessing of good health. I cannot too strongly urge other discouraged sufferers to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure all troubles due to poor, watery blood, such as anaemia, general weakness, indigestion, neuralgia, skin troubles, rheumatism, the after effects of la grippe, and such nervous troubles as St. Vitus' dance and partial paralysis. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Boston Man Gets A Dowered Bride

Andrew Carnegie Branching Out in a New Line of Philanthrophy.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 23. — Miss Annie Wallace, of Atlanta, who was married to Marx Franklin Howland, of Boston, received $100,000 from Andrew Carnegie as a wedding present. Miss Wallace has been in charge of the Carnegie Library ever since it has been established here, and in this position she has frequently been brought in contact with Mr. Carnegie, who became fond of the young woman.

When Miss Wallace announced her engagement she received a congratulatory letter from Carnegie, which closed with the statement that he would send her a "little remembrance on her wedding day. The remembrance takes the form of $100,000 of Steel Trust bonds, bearing 6 per cent. interest. These bonds have been deposited with the Home Trust Company, of Hoboken, with instructions that the income of $6,000 is to be paid to the Atlanta girl.

Warning to Councils.

Peterboro Review; The recent accident to Mr. Alex. Kennedy, which turns out to be more serious than at first supposed, emphasizes the need for watchfulness on the part of those entrusted with the care of icy streets. It is always, of course, easy enough to talk, but it is true all the same that a man going about constantly with fine sand, putting it here and there where it would do most good, would be a positive boon to the whole population of the city. Spasmodic sanding is just so much better than nothing. Constant attention is what is needed.

C.O.F. "At Home" A Grand Success

Large Attendance Last Evening and a Delightful Program.

One of the most successful "At Home" of the season was held Thursday evening by the officers of Court Lindsay, C.O.F., when they entertained the members and their lady friends to the number of 200 in their spacious and well furnished lodge rooms, which were profusely and tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Dr. White, Court physician, in his own genial and inimitable manner, discharged the duties of chairman, and made a strong plea on behalf of ladies to be permitted to share in the membership and benefits of the order. Every member of the excellent program was splendidly rendered and highly pleased the audience. Perhaps the most enthusiastic reception was given to the singing by Mr. F. C. Ryan and to the sweet-voiced little juvenile singer, Anna Morrison, who captured the hearts of all. The program included instrumentals by Miss Matthie, Miss Roenigk, Messrs. Naylor Bros., Misses Preston and Miss Pattison; recitations, Mrs. E. Edwards and Miss Hazel Mills; song by Miss Marjorie Perrin, and a Scotch selection by Mr. Greive.

The fraternal societies were represented by addresses from Bro. Copeland, in behalf of W. O. W., and by Mr. Greive, for the Sons of Scotland. Bro. Bain, organizer of C.O.F., responded as a representative of the High Court, and in a few terse sentences pointed out the salient features of the order.

Ample and liberal refreshments were then served, after which the members and friends indulged in games for an hour, thus bringing to a happy close the second successful "At Home" of the local Court.

Manitoba's Three-Fifths

It is Abolished, but the Half Means of All the Voters on Roll.

In the Ontario legislature a rather interesting point was brought out, observes the Ottawa Journal. Manitoba has just repealed a so-called three-fifths caluse, a fact which seemed to suggest that Ontario might well do likewise. It turns out that what Manitoba had was an act requiring three-fifths of the electors on the poll — to carry local option — a really unfair demand—and that what Manitoba has substituted is that local option shall carry upon a vote of a simple majority of electors on the roll. But even this improvement leaves the temperance clause worse off in Manitoba than it is under the three-fifths of the electors who vote A majority of electors on the roll is usually a bigger proportion than three-fifths of the electors who vote.

To illustrate: In the last election in Ottawa—or no, not in the last election, for that was not hotly contested; let us substitute the preceding one, the provincial general election in 1905, when both political parties strained every nerve to get out the biggest possible vote—in the election, then, of Jan. 25, 1905, the total vote polled in Ottawa, was 11,726. The number of names on the roll was 15,844. Apply these figures to the local option case. To carry the act in Ottawa under the present Ontario three-fifths clause, supposing that 11,726 voters could be got to the polls, would require 7,035 votes in favor. But to carry the act in Ottawa under the new Manitoba regulation of a simple majority of the electors on the roll would need half of the total 15,844 names on the Ottawa roll, or an affirmative vote of 7,772. The temperance cause would thus, under Manitoba's alleged improvement, need over 700 more votes to win in Ottawa than it needs now under the Ontario three-fifths clause. If Premier Whitney were to suggest adopting the Manitoba "improvement," temperance advocates would need to fight the idea tooth and nail.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother)

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

AN ADVT. IN THE POST PAYS

Prisoner Asks For Death.

New York, Feb. 29.—Giovanni Pisano pleaded with Justice Dowling in the Court of General Sessions yesterday to send him to death in the electric chair. A plea of guilty to murder in the second degree had been offered by Pisano's counsel, and sentence would have been not less than 20 years was about to be pronounced when the prisoner remonstrated.

"I don't want to go to prison for the rest of my life," he said through an interpreter. "I would rather die. I want to go to the electric chair. Tell the judge I have been abandoned by all my family. Tell him I am all alone, and that I want him to sentence me to die."

The prisoner was sent back to the Tombs to await sentence. Pisano shot and killed Luigi Mapolitano at Hester and Mulberry streets last October when Mapolitano was getting the better of Pisano's brother in a street fight.

Broken Rail Ditches Train.

Ottawa, Feb. 29.—A broken rail at Eganville Junction caused a wreck to the overland express, No. 96, on the C.P.R. yesterday morning at 6.58. The engine and one car got over the break, but the others went off the track. The sleeper, dining-car and express car went down the embankment, while the mail car was placed crosswise on the track. The other cars were derailed, but did not go over.

It was marvelous that no one was seriously injured. The rolling stock was much damaged.

Policeman Saves His Life.

New York, Feb. 29.—Seized by a policeman just as he was about to jump into the East River from a down-town pier late Thursday night, Charles B. Robertson of Montreal, 23 years old, is held for examination. He declares he has no home and is out of work.

Plot to Murder Priest.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The murder of the priest in Denver was similar in every respect to the one planned several months ago in which the Rev. Father Pasquale Renzullo, pastor of St. Roch's Church at Chicago Heights, was to be the victim.

The name of the man is held a secret by Father Dunne, who claims that should their informant be known he would be found dead with a dozen knives in him before 24 hours was passed.

From Office to Prison.

Buffalo, Feb. 28.—Former County Auditor John W. Neff and former Supervisors Byron D. Gibson and William B. Jackson of Erie County, were taken to Auburn yesterday, convicted on indictments in connection with the so-called graveyard scandal. Neff will serve seven years, and the other two five years each.

A Vagrant Who Vanished.

Woodstock, Feb. 28.—John Henry Marshall Thomas, a man of questionable intelligence, who has been a prisoner at the jail for nearly six months, on the charge of vagrancy, is missing. Thomas was sentenced from Ingersoll, and was a "trusty" about the jail buildings. He was helping William Toull, janitor of the courthouse, together with a fellow prisoner. His comrade teased him and told him that he would be sent to the asylum.

Wednesday evening Thomas was gone. He left his jail garb, and is at present probably wandering about the country in his overalls.

British Schooner Wrecked.

Turk's Island, N.S., Feb. 28.—The British schooner Marjorie J. Sumner, from Weymouth, N.S., Jan. 30 for Sagua, Cuba, was wrecked and became a total loss on North Caicos Island four days ago. She was laden with lumber and her cargo probably will be saved.

Walked Off With Cash Box.

Bridgeburg, Ont., Feb. 29.—A nervy robbery was perpetrated here Thursday night, when a stranger entered one of the leading stores about 7 o'clock in the evening and walked off with a cash box containing $200.

He got the proprietor, Reeve Vahey, to go to the rear of the store to telephone and then robbed the till.

Eleven Hurt In Collision.

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 29.—Eleven persons were injured in a collision between a Southern Railroad freight engine and an electric train on the Washington, Alexandria & Mount Vernon Railway.

Thaw Annulment Proceeds.

New York, Feb. 29.—The first step in the attempt to have the marriage of Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw annulled was taken yesterday afternoon at a conference held in the Waldorf-Astoria.

Removing Immoral Judge.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 29.—The legislative committee investigating the case of Judge J. W. G. Blackstone of the 11th circuit court reported yesterday, recommending that the General Assembly take steps for his removal from the bench on account of gross immorality.

Toronto Nurse In Runaway.

Markdale, Feb. 29.—Miss Johnston, a professional nurse from Toronto, in attendance upon Mrs. W. R. Hanley injured in the Carleton wreck, was painfully injured in a runaway here. She was pitched out, her arm broken and injured in other ways.

Victim Was Ex-Convict.

Granby, Que., Feb. 29.—The burglar who was shot at Granby Hill on the 26th by Thomas Robinson proves to be Philip Tettrault, lately out of the penitentiary, after serving a four-year sentence for housebreaking and robbery.

NEARLY CAUSED LYNCHING.

Italian Attempts to Kill Girl Who Had Rejected Him.

Montreal, Feb. 29.—Following the carnival of Italian crime in this city, word has been received of an outbreak at Bate du Fevre, which nearly resulted in a lynching, as it was three French-Canadians were injured and the people of the neighborhood were greatly excited.

An Italian foreman on some construction work going on at that place not far from Sorel wanted to marry a girl named Lemire, but was rejected. In the course of his argument he shot at the girl three times, fracturing her arm, with one shot, also shot her father who rushed to the rescue, and wounded the girl's brother with a stilletto. He was finally disarmed and taken to jail at Sorel.

British Distrust of Japan.

Shanghai, Feb. 29.—There is a growing distrust in British commercial circles on the Chinese coast of the entire policy of the Japanese Government in the Far East and of recent months there has been a succession of complaints regarding the obstruction of foreign trade in Manchuria. This particularly affects the British steamship companies and officers of these lines say that obstacles are placed in the way of their steamers going to Port Dalny.

Russian Naval Setback.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—The project for the rebuilding of the Russian fleet has received a setback as a result of the attitude taken by the Ministry of Finance which sees no possibility, under the present circumstances, of the country raising the funds needed for the construction of a great and powerful navy. The naval estimates submitted amounted to $1,000,000,000 for ten years' construction.

Not a Miracle But Medical Science

Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited,
Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen:—

"Some time ago I began to lose flesh and failed every day until I had to quit work. My physicians and all my friends said I had contracted consumption. I failed from 165 pounds down to 119. I was advised to go to the Rockies or to the coast. I went to both places under heavy expense. I continued to fail, and was advised by the doctors to come home as nothing more could be done for me. Hope seemed to have left me.

"I tried Psychine and since starting its use I have gained from 119 to 141 pounds. I have used $10.00 worth of the medicine. I am a well man and I cannot say too much in praise of Psychine. The strongest recommendation would be weak in view of the fact that I believe it has saved my life. It is without doubt the best remedy for run-down conditions and weak lungs.

"I sincerely hope and trust that you will continue your good work of saving run down people and consumptive from the grave. Wishing you and Psychine continued success, I remain, one of Psychine's best friends."

TOWN HOCKEY LEAGUE.

The final games in the Town League will be played on Wednesday next and will be—Y.M.C.A. vs. Little Britain, C.L.S. vs. Bankers.

The president of the league sometime ago promised to supply the oysters for the Y.M.C.A. team if they won a game this season, and as this is the last chance for the bivalves, there will likely be something doing.

The second game will naturally be the centre of attraction, as this one will really place the cup for the season. If the C. L. S. win, they will be the champions, whereas if the Bankers win, both teams will have the same number of games to their credit, and a sudden death game will be necessary to decide the league.

It has been customary to change a little more for the final game, in order to reinforce the finances. The admission for next week's game will be ten cents for both ladies and gentlemen.

The G. T. R. office staff hockey team want to play the Typos, or almost anyone who will play them.

There will not, as stated in last night's Post, be only one game in the Town League next Wednesday. The double-headers will be as usual on the bills, and so the "Togos" and "Laura Maes" will have to choose another time.

The Fenelon Falls Hockey Club hereby challenge the Lindsay Hockey Club to a series of four games (majority of goals to count), two games to be played on Fenelon ice, and two games on Lindsay ice, for a cup valued at $25. The cup will be known as the Fenelon Falls Cup. An outside official will be appointed to referee all the games."

ORILLIA HOLDS THE CUP.

Play yesterday between Orillia and Lindsay for possession of Shepherd-Needler Cup, resulted disastrously for Lindsay, our rinks being buried under an avalanche of shots. This was due to the very poor work of the rinks playing in Orilia, who finished 28 down; the home rinks were six up As Lindsay only won out in the first by 7 shots, Orillia takes the Cup with a lead of 15 shots. Odds and Ends of Sport.

FLANAGAN WILL STAY

The Irish-Canadian Athletic Club is once again a happy and united family. All difficulties have been cleared away, and, best of all, Mr. Tom. C. Flanagan has reconsidered his decision to retire and will stick to his guns as manager of the club, which means that the Irish-Canadian A. C., which for the past year has been a very prominent and influential body in the athletic world, will still continue to wield that influence.

OVER 300 MEMBERS PRESENT

The annual meeting of the club was held Wednesday, and the united pressure of the three hundred odd members who filled the Grand Central hotel was too much for the genial Tom, who was gently forced to reconsider his decision.

TEN PINS RECORD

All American Bowling Congress and Canadian Bowlers Association records have been broken at the big meet at Cincinnati. Archie Wengler, of Chicago, broke the world's record, bowling 699 points in his singles. The Losettis, of Chicago, who made 2,886 points, broke all five men team records. Chalmers and Kiene, of Chicago, who bowled 1,252, also broke all records in the five shifts of two men events.

It appears that the vice-president of the Montreal ball team is a detective. They had to adopt some such desperate expedient to prevent the Toronto players from going down there occasionally and stealing a few bases.

It is very probable that the Peterboro Quakers' football team will travel to the coast in April to play for the People's Shield. The matter is being dealt with now and secretary B. T. Huston is making arrangements to play the different teams on the way to Vancouver.—Review.

The Perfect Immigrant.

The rhymster of the London Evening News is moved to sarcasm by the continuous rise in Canada's expectations in the way of emigrants. He declares that the descriptions of the kind of man wanted to emigrate to Canada just now suggest the Admirable Crichton, who would make his way in any community, and he proceeds in this fashion;

The perfect emigrant should be
A stalwart chap of six foot three,
Filled with determination grim,
And wholly sound in wind and limb.
He should not ever be afraid
To turn his hand to any trade.
And he should further own a skill
In each commensurate with his will.

Moreover, he should simply learn,
Not to instruct, but just to learn,
He should not put on British airs
Or "side" about his home affairs.
He should be confident, and yet
As modest as the violet.
Given these traits, he, more or less,
May hope to meet with some success.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST

BY THEIR DEEDS

A tattered beggar in the street
Sang always some old crooning hymn,
And held to those whom he might meet
His hat, with ragged, greasy brim.
Two men—two mighty men, — came by—
Two honored leaders of the town;
Came, too, a dame, of repute high—
Each passed the beggar with a frown.

But still the beggar sang away,
With awkward music in each word;
And through the balance of that day
The three that chanting echo heard
They heard, and held the fading strains,
As memories of things that bless,
And added to their other gains
The golden one of kindliness.

Now, by some careless prank of fate,
These four met on the Way to Death,
And journeyed to the Joyous Gate
Where but the perfect entereth.
The warder halted them, and told
How all who entered must be known
By goodly deeds—by deeds of gold—
By helpful actions all their own.

The honored men explained that they
Had given of their earthly wealth
To help their fellows on the way
To knowledge, peacefulness and health,
The woman told of visits made.
The suffering and poor to greet—
All three told how the world had laid
Its laureled tributes at their feet.

"You may go in," the warder smiled.
"Although your fame we did not know,
A cup of water to a child
In more than all the passing show."
The beggar turned to take his way
With humbled mien, and drooping head.
The warder called to him to stay,
"Come in! We've heard you sing!"
he said.

MINISTER' SALARIES

Toronto News: The Bishop of Niagara has again raised the question of clergymen's stipends, a subject which has long vexed various branches of the church. There is real virtue in preaching for a small salary to people who cannot afford a better one, but no virtue at all in "preaching cheap" to a prosperous congregation. The view put forward by the Chicago Interior is that, while it is sometimes the minister's duty to be self-sacrificing, it is not the layman's duty to furnish him with the occasion of grace. The business of the laymen is "to pay up and trust the Lord" to find some other way of developing the virtue of altruism in the preacher. The beauties of sacrifice appear to best advantage when equally shared by clergy and laymen. The minister should be well enough paid to live on a scale of comfort comparable with that of his average parishioner. Elders, trustees and churchwardens need more curiosity as to how their preachers get along.

A SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

One of the secrets of happiness is found in the habitual emphasis of pleasant things, and the persistent casting aside of all malign elements. Men make their own world. We have read of a horticulturist who could not walk through a flower garden, and see a rosebush covered with blossoms, without searching until he found at least one blighted leaf. There are men who cannot look upon a great picture without scrutinizing every inch of the canvas for some light or shade to criticize, and afterward they recall only the blemish. Yet there never was a tree so beautiful that it did not have one broken bough. There never was a book so wise but that it had one untruth or overstatement. Even Helen's brow held one little blemish. Scientists tell us there are spots on the sun.—Newell Dwight Hills.

RUMSELLERS WHISTLE HYMNS

Dr. E. H. Pence, of the Fort-st. Presbyterian church, Buffalo, spoke to an audience of specially invited saloonkeepers at the Y. M. C. A. the other night. The meeting was arranged by Wellington M. Logan, the religious secretary. The audience was attentive and occasionally manifested its approval of the speaker. When it came to the singing, however, they were a little off, not knowing the words, and the leader suggested that they whistle the hymns. They did and Dr. Pence joined them.

THE JOY OF LIFE.

The man whose heart is filled with kind thoughts for others, and whose life deeds reveal that inner fountain of sweetness, must be happy, for, after all, it is only selfishness in some form or other than can kill the joy that every man was meant to know. If you will live earnestly wishing, not in any narrow or trivial sense, the happiness of others, and will let no day pass without some deed, however small, that seeks to fill out that wish, measuring up to the opportunity of helpfulness as it comes, then, by that great divinely-ordained sequence that never fails, you will drink the cup of human happiness held in the land of God himself.

Oh! but you say, sorrow must come to every heart and every home. Yes, indeed it must; it is the sunshine and then the shadow; and sometimes that shadow deepens away into the blackness of the night. But the strangest pardox of all life is, that joy and sorrow may find room in the one heart, the one an abiding and the other but a passing guest. If, when sorrows come we turn our backs upon the blessings, and in so doing magnify our troubles and our fears. we will succeed in making ourselves genuinely miserable; but if, on the other hand, we have the shadows behind us and look into the sunshine, we will find how good and cheering and helpful it is. The darkest shadows in most lives are those that each man casts by standing in his own light. And every true philosopher of life ultimately makes the discovery that it is the good things of life that are the most real, while what seems to be evils are, in the long last, but blessings in disguise. —Christian Guardian.

ENGLISH MEASURES.

The following is taken from a recent London, England., despatch:

If a bill which passed its first reading in the house of commons this afternoon becomes a law, juvenile lovers of the cigaret will have a hard time indulging their appetite. The act is a government measure, which amends the existing laws for the protection of children. It prohibits smoking under the age of 16 provides penalties for anyone less than 16 years old caught smoking in the streets or other public places, and makes the sale of cigarettes to any person under the age of 16 a punishable offence.

Among other interesting features, the bill establishes juvenile courts throughout the country and calls for special places of detention for children, instead of sending them to the ordinary prisons. It proposes furthermore that the imprisonment of children be entirely abolished.

An effort is to be made to end the terrible waste of infant life; through drunken parents rolling on their children in bed. The returns show that 1,600 infants perish annually from this cause, and in the future parents will be punished for such deaths. Burnings are responsible for an almost equal number of infant deaths, and penalties are provided for parents who leave children alone in rooms with unguarded fires.

OPEN CHURCHES FOR THE POOR

Boston, Feb. 26.—Next will see eight of the fashionable churches of Boston turned into lodging houses for the poor. They will be kept open night and day, they will be warmed and lighted, and the comfortable pews will be turned into cots and beds for the members of the unemployed. That was the agreement of the pastors to-day, and unless the trustees make it impossible the churches will be thrown open next week. The action comes as a result of the visit of Morrison I. Swift and the army of unemployed and a committee of twenty-five men, who marched on the churches during the morning services.

JEWS ADOPTING SUNDAY

Rabbi Fleischer, of Boston, who has charge of one of the largest synagogues there, has recently taken a strong position in liberal sentiment, urging his congregation, and the Jews in general, to make Sunday the day of their religious services instead of Saturday. He claims that many considerations, among which business interests have a large place, demand this concession to modern conditions, if the young Hebrew people are to be retained within the historic fold of Judaism. The Sunday has been observed for years by Rabbi Hirsch, Chicago's most eminent Hebrew, in the most prominent synagogue in that city.

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Busy dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1093 patients admitted. Of these 378 came from 254 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47½ days stay.

MASSAGE

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 79 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 79, about 50 were from the country.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

EYE CASES.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to extract the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death.
